BUSINESS MEN'S STRONG PROTEST AGAINST IRON ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL

Three Hundred From Duluth and Iron Ranges at Capitol.

Chester A. Congdon Delivers Chief Address in Opposition to Bill.

His Telling Points Are Loudly Applauded by Those Present.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three hundred strong and full of determination to do all in their power to avert from Northeastern Minnesota the deadly blow which the tonnage tax bill threatens, the representatives of public sentiment in the iron country arrived in St. Paul last night, marched to the state capitol, two abreast, filled the senate chamber to suffocation, crowded the galleries, and made the hall ring with applause when telling points against the tonnage tax bill were brought out.

Most of them came on a special train, there being too many to be accommodated on the regular trains, while a few came earlier in the day or on the regular evening trains.

There were nearly 200 from Duluth alone, including all classes and all

Twenty-Five Poker Players See Their Jackpots Stolen.

Ogden, Utah, April 8.—At midnight five robbers walked into the White Elephant gambling house, held up the place and escaped.

Four had guns on the dealers and twenty-five players sat helpless while the fifth robber robbed them of between $1,000 and $2,000.

Judge Neville was elected to the supreme court in 1896 and three years later was sent to congress as a Populist. He served two terms. He removed to Douglas, Wyo., six years ago, where he died.

JUDGES ASK MR. MILBURN

Interrupt Standard Oil Lawyer When Meaning Is Obscured.

Counsel Continues Argument Against Dissolution of the Trust.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—Attorney Milburn, head of the array of lawyers of the Standard Oil company, this morning resumed his argument, commenced Tuesday in the government's suit to dissolve the trust. The four judges of the United States circuit court, sitting en banc, are following the noted lawyer's address with marked attention and propound many questions to him, when his meaning is not clear to them.

"Miss Ida Tarbell is entitled to a patent on the alleged Standard Oil conspiracy of 1870," declared Milburn yesterday, "and," turning to Prose-

SENATE ORDERS TONNAGE BILL TO BE REPORTED BY COMMITTEE ON MONDAY

PAUL J. ARNDT,

Denies Chance to the Cuyuna Range People to be Heard.

House Kills Bill For a New System of Mining Leases.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 34 to 25 the senate this morning adopted the resolution by Senator Sageng, introduced yesterday, directing the committee on taxes to report the tonnage tax bill back Monday. This is in spite of the fact that the committee has not yet had a chance to hear the case of the Cuyuna range, and in spite of the fact that it had fixed next Tuesday evening for a hearing for the people of Crow Wing, Morrison, Aitkin and other counties on the Cuyuna.

Senator Sageng, in urging the adoption of his resolution, said he was not saying that the bill should be passed, but that if it was not reported in until after Tuesday, it would be a physical impossibility for the senate to act on it before adjournment.

Senator Alderman said that if Mr. Sageng wished the bill treated fairly it should let it take its course in the committee. Last night the committee

EXAMINER OF BANKS

New State Department of Banking Created by Legislature.

Will Have Charge of Liquidation of Banks That Fail.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house yesterday afternoon passed several exceedingly important banking laws, including one creating a new state department of banking, and another putting insolvent state banks under the state bank examiner for liquidation.

The former bill is by Senator Thorpe, and as it has passed both houses, it will go to the governor for his signature after the senate has concurred in slight amendments put into it by the house yesterday afternoon. The bill separates the function of bank regulation from the public examiner's department entirely. It provides for a state superintendent of banking, at $5,000 a year, to be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate and to give a bond of $50,000. There is a deputy superintendent at $2,500 a year and eight examiners at

SEVEN MEN WIN RACE FOR LIFE

Their Tug Reaches the Shore, Fighting Wind and Water.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 8.—The tug George Flood, with seven men aboard, reported missing, has arrived safely at Fairport harbor, thirty miles east of here, after a hard struggle with wind and water.

While the storm on Lake Erie was one of the most severe in years, little actual damage was reported. Only a few boats ventured out and they soon put back. Reports today indicate considerable damage was done on land throughout this section of Ohio.

BOY COUGHS UP A CARPET TACK.

Chardon, Ohio., April 8.—Elton Parker, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Parker, has coughed up a carpet tack that had laid imbedded near his lung for three years. That the sharp tack in its downward course had not torn the delicate lining, caused inflammation and ended the boy's life is a source of wonderment. He seems none the worse for his experience.

WOMAN DIES FROM AN OPERATION PERFORMED TO REMOVE A SCAR

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the death of Mrs. A. J. Kaufman in Minneapolis Tuesday night was the result of an operation performed to remove a scar from her forehead, is the substance of the coroner's verdict after an autopsy held over the body yesterday afternoon, in which it was found that the whole body was permeated with disease germs resulting from the wound on the forehead.

Mrs. Kaufman came to Minneapolis from Streeter, N. D., and went to a dermatological institute on Sixth street south, where the operation was performed by Dr. M. E. Coger of the institute. Mrs. Kaufman apparently recovered from the operation and went to her boarding place at 21 Ninth street to rest before returning to her home. The wound began to trouble her, however, and Dr. C. B. Wright was called and ordered her sent to Asbury hospital. Mrs. Kaufman was found to be suffering from acute septic peritonitis, a form of blood poisoning, and she died soon after reaching the hospital.

After Dr. Coger had performed the operation on the woman's forehead he turned her over to Dr. Louis Schneider of another institute, for treatment for knee trouble. Dr. Schneider says he told Dr. Coger that the wound on the head looked dangerous and should be treated immediately.

The case may be turned over the grand jury, and an investigation by the state board of examiners demanded if an inquest is not held.

DEATH OF MODJESKA

Famous Polish Actress Passes Away in Bay City, Cal.

End Comes After Long Struggle to Regain Health.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—Mme. Helena Modjeska, the famous Polish tragedienne and one of the most noted actresses of the American stage, died at 10 o'clock today, at her island home at Bay City, Orange county, at the age of 65, after an illness of about two months.

For several days she had been unconscious and her death was almost hourly expected. Bright's disease, complicated with heart trouble, was the immediate cause of her death.

A Mountaineer's Daughter.

Madame Modjeska was one of the few English-speaking actresses who have been scarcely less prominent in light comedy than in tragedy. She was born the daughter of an humble Polish mountaineer, Michael Opido. Her birthplace, however, chanced to be the city of Cracow, where she first saw the light Oct. 12, 1844.

She contrived her professional name from that of her first husband, one Modrzejewski, originally her guardian, whom she married when she was 17. Two of her brothers had already become actors. She sought a stage career, and her husband encouraged her by organizing a small company that included him and his wife, three of her brothers her sister and her sister's husband. When the wife was still in her seventeenth year she had made her first footlight appearance at Bochnia, Poland, in Oct. 1861, but it was not until the following year that she led her own company in a tour of the smaller Polish towns.

Managed Polish Theater.

Very soon she undertook the management of the Czerlnowa theater at Buckinowina, Poland, where she played leading roles until 1865, when she returned to Cracow and gained imme-

FRANCE DECIDES TO OUST CASTRO FROM MARTINIQUE; MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Republic Acts on Hearing of Conference With Knox.

His Presence Likely to Foment Venezuelan Revolution.

Fort de France People Sympathize With Former President.

Paris, April 8.—The French government decided today to expel Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, from the French island of Martinique, on the ground that his presence there is likely to foment a revolution in Venezuela.

This decision followed consideration of a cablegram from M. Jusserand, the French ambassador in Washington, giving an account of a conference he has had with Secretary of State Knox.

The decree of expulsion will be communicated to Castro immediately through the prefect of Fort de France, where Castro now is.

It is presumed here that the government, which initiated the exchanges with foreign governments to Castro from establishing headquarters close to the Venezuelan coast, will prevent him making his way to the mainland on a sailing vessel. This course will leave Castro the alternative of taking refuge on one of the Danish West India islands or returning to Europe. The French line steamer Versailles touched at Fort de France April 10, on her way back to Europe.

Castro Non-Committal.

Fort de France, April 8.—Cipriano Castro drove through Fort de France this morning to see the town. The attitude of the people toward him is one of sympathy.

Castro maintains absolute silence with regard to his intentions. He is waiting the arrival of the mail steamers from Venezuela and Port of Spain.

He is still indignant at the course of the powers in forcing him to land here, and preventing him from going to Trinidad and he characterizes this step as a violation of his personal liberty.

SENATE TO PUT DUTY OF TWENTY CENTS A TON ON IRON ORE AS COMPROMISE

Deal Is Made to Hasten Passage of Tariff Bill.

Upper House Finance Committee Comes to a Decision.

Burrows and Smith of Michigan Are in Favor.

Washington, April 8.—The present intention of the senate committee on finance is to place a duty of twenty cents per ton on iron ore. Under the Dingley law iron ore is dutiable at forty cents per ton, while the Payne bill puts it on the free list. The decision of the senate committee is in the nature of a compromise and was brought about by the insistence of Senator Burrows and his colleague, William Alden Smith.

Iron ore is one of the products which has given the house and senate committees a great deal of trouble. While some of the ore producers admitted frankly to the house committee that they could stand their share of reduction if there was to be a general revision of the tariff downward, few of them were willing to admit that

CHAMPION BUTTER COW IS NO MORE.

Columbia, Mo., April 8.—Pedro S. Estella, the champion butter Jersey cow of the world, is dead at the Missouri agricultural college farm.

In twelve months she produced 712 pounds of butter, fully 100 pounds more than her nearest competitor. Estella was in good health, but stumbled into a ditch and was unable to get out. When aid reached her she was too far gone to recover.

It was figured that the income from Estella for one year would have kept an average student in the University of Missouri for a like term.

STRIKE IS NOT LIKELY

Anthracite Miners Will Probably Stay in the Collieries.

The Recognition of Their Union Is Now the Single Issue.

Philadelphia, April 8.—Recognition of the union is the single issue that stands in the way of the anthracite miners accepting the offer made by the operators to renew, for the next three years, the recently expired wage agreement.

The proposition to renew the agreement was made at a conference held yesterday between representatives of the operators and miners, and another meeting will be held this afternoon, when the answer of the miners will be given. Whether the miners will waive recognition is being thrashed out at a meeting of the executive boards of the three anthracite districts, in session this morning at a local labor headquarters.

It was noticeable at yesterday's conference that the best of feeling prevailed on both sides, and there is a strong belief that an amiable agreement will be reached, if not this afternoon, then at another conference. In any event a strike, it is said, will not be declared by the miners.

BANK GUARANTY BILL IS PASSED

Goes Through Texas Lower House by Big Majority.

Austin, Tex., April 8.—The lower house of the legislature today passed the bank deposit guaranty bill by a vote of 80 to 13.

Governor Campbell announces he will call a second special session in order to obtain action on the administration measures which the legislature opposes.

TO PROTECT ROOSEVELT

British Government Acts in View of Native Uprising.

Mullahs Are Massing and Give Signs of Trouble.

Mombasa, British East Africa, April 8.—According to native reports received here the Mullahs of the Somalis, inhabiting the desert country north of the protectorate, are showing further signs of unrest and are massing on the northern boundary of Kenya province. This restlessness first became evident some six months ago and there has been apprehension of trouble in the dry season when travel over the trails is easier.

This northern district has always been a territory to watch closely. When the natives do go out for trouble they generally bear to the westward, in the direction of the settled districts and the good hunting grounds. There is today some local anxiety, particularly as a majority of the protectorate groups are at Berbera, in British Somaliland. The colonial office in London has issued instructions to the governor of the protectorate to surround Mr. Roosevelt on his hunting trips with every possible precaution for his safety.

Sir H. Hesketh-Bell, governor and commander-in-chief of Uganda, will leave Uganda April 28 for England. Roosevelt and his party will be re-

TWO HARD WORKED LEGISLATURES AT IT UNTIL WEE SMA' HOURS

Albany, N. Y., April 8.—Governor Hughes' plan of direct nominations embodied in the Hinman-Green bill was repudiated by the assembly judiciary committee after a stormy session last night, which lasted well into the morning hours, and the committee today reported the bill adversely to the assembly, where its defeat is confidently predicted by those who throughout the session have been fighting for the retention of the convention system of nominations.

Instead, the Republican organization proposes to support the primary bill of Assemblyman J. S. Phillips, chairman of the judiciary committee, which was reported favorably by the judiciary committee today, along with the adverse report on the Green bill. The Phillips bill amends the general election law, relative to the conduct of primaries, by requiring primaries in those rural localities where no official primaries are now held.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 8.—After one of the most extraordinary sessions ever held by the Pennsylvania house of representatives, a session that lasted until sunrise this morning, the fate of the bill which undertakes to codify and revise all the school laws of the state still hangs in the balance, with good chances of going down to defeat unless some method shall be found to harmonize the opposing factions.

It was a turbulent, uproarious session, during which the chair was compelled several times to invoke the authority of the sergeant-at-arms to bring about some semblance of order. The bill contains 266 pages and more than 80,000 words. Only forty-six pages had been disposed of when consideration was interrupted by a motion to adjourn. The slow progress made was due to a filibuster inaugurated last night by opponents of the bill.

As the first forty-six pages of the bill stand, the authors of the code would hardly recognize them. The bill as far as considered is a patchwork of amendments, nearly every section having been altered.

Some Side Lights on the Persian Rug Business.

Shahen Avedisian, who is suing Alli Farris for $133.65, said to be due him for services rendered, threw some side lights on the Persian rug business while on the witness stand this morning. All the testimony was not in when it came time for the noon recess.

Shahen said there was more profit in selling Oriental rugs now than there was a few years ago. Then the rugs were made by hand, at great labor and expense. Now, he said, practically all of them were turned out by machinery, and 100 or more are made where one was made before. This naturally reduced the wholesale price, but the retail price in most cases has not been reduced in proportion. Shahen said rich Americans often paid much too high a price for machine-made rugs, thinking they were hand made.

SICK MEN

ARE CROWDING THE OFFICES OF THE SPECIALISTS

CHANGE OF TEMPERATURE AND CLOSED WINDOWS CAUSE MANY DISEASES.

Yesterday was one of the most busy days for the Expert Doctors, for their offices were crowded from 7 in the morning to 9 in the evening, and if you wanted an interview with one of the Specialists you had to wait a long while, as the number of those who were seeking the Doctors' consultations and cures were many.

CAUSES OF LUNG TROUBLES AND CATARRH.

Living in over-heated rooms by closed windows, the blood vessels become relaxed and dilated. If you keep your windows closed over night while you ought to breathe God's fresh air, and inhale the same poisonous air you have exhaled, you prepare your system to be the victim of poisonous germs. These germs attack the weakest points of your body. Having dilated your blood vessels of your Throat, Lungs and other parts of your body, they will suddenly contract if they come in contact with the cold air; the blood flees from these exposed and chilled parts and disease germs rush in and you are a victim of them.

If you have any cold and are coughing. If you feel warm in the evening and exhausted and you are easily getting out of breath, you have contracted Consumption. If you wait a few months longer the disease has progressed and there is just one place in town where you can be cured, and that is by the Specialists. They will also cure you of Blood Poison, Diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Kidney, Heart, Paralysis, Weakness, Indigestion, Nervousness and all chronic diseases of men. Men, if you are sick and cannot find any help anywhere else, do not give up hope. Go and see the Specialists of the Progressive Medical Association; they will cure you and you will not be charged for consulting them.. You can see them from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. in their offices, No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth.

RAILROAD NEWS

MAY BEGIN WORK SOON

Visit of Canadian Northern Officials Thought to be Significant.

Master Mechanic and Store Keeper Were in the Party.

It now appears that there was more to the trip to Duluth of the officials of the Canadian Northern railroad than appeared upon the surface.

Today it was learned that Alexander Shields, master mechanic of the railroad; J. P. Driscoll, superintendent of car service, and E. Langham, in charge of the purchasing department of the Canadian Northern and general storekeeper for the road, were in Virginia yesterday, while the officials of the operating and traffic departments were in this city.

The presence in Duluth and Virginia of the head of practically every department of the Canadian Northern, would lead to the belief that the extension of the Duluth-Virginia is soon due to begin.

Especially does this conclusion seem reasonable when it is known that the master mechanic and the general storekeeper were among the heads of departments, who came down from Winnipeg to look the conditions over.

It is believed in railway circles that actual construction work on the extension will begin in the very near future.

It has been announced that the work on the line from Virginia to Duluth would begin some time this summer, and the visit here may mean the immediate beginning of the work.

DAILY TRAIN TO BORDER

Freight Service of Rainy Lake Road Is Increased.

Growing Traffic to Canada Makes Change Necessary.

Daily freight service upon the Duluth & Rainy Lake railroad, between Virginia and Fort Frances, will be inaugurated today.

In connection with the visit here yesterday of the traffic officials of the Canadian Northern railroad, arrangements were completed for the placing in effect today of the increased freight service between Virginia and the Canadian border.

The reason for the changing from a tri-weekly freight service to a daily one is, that the increasing amount of freight being routed over the Duluth Rainy Lake railroad calls for better facilities. The increase in the freight service of the road is simply an indication of the amount of freight that will, in a few yeays, be carried between Winipeg and Duluth.

Since the opening of the Duluth road from Virginia to Fort Frances, there has been a steady increase in the freight movement. In the early days of its operations the road had the appearance of a mere logging road, penetrating a country but slightly inhabited. Now it is a through line, connecting two great traffic centers, Duluth and Winnipeg, operating a daily through passenger train, and now a daily freight service.

McGonagle Returns.

W. A. McGonagle, president and general manager of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, returned today from a short Eastern trip.

STRIKE ON THE LAKES

Engineers Say Boats Will Not Move This Spring.

Local Men Looking for Work in Other Lines.

> "There will be a strike upon the Great Lakes this season. The strike is practically on at the present time. Some of the engineers here are looking for work in other lines."

The above is the statement given out at the local office of the marine engineers. There is no doubt but that there will be a strike, in the minds of the local marine engineers. They say that the strike has already begun. The members of the local marine engineers' union say there is no chance of the engineers returning to work while the obnoxious clause pertaining to non-union labor remains in their contracts.

It was stated this morning that many of the Duluth marine engineers had abandoned the idea of going on their boats for some time, at least, and were looking for work of some other character. One engineer stated that he was looking for work on the street. In fact, he stated that he would accept any kind of work that was honest.

The members of the Duluth union, according to their own statement, have no doubt but that there will be a strike, not only of the marine engineers, but also of the affiliated lake unions, the members of which will strike out of sympathy with the engineers. They believe that eventually the vessel owners will be compelled to accede to their demands, as thy say it will be impossible for the vessel owners to move vessels out of the docks with the number of engineers who up to this time have returned their contracts unsigned.

It was stated at the local union headquarters this morning, by one of the officials of the union, that forty-eight unsigned contracts were returned yesterday by members of the Marine Engineers' unions. Officials of the Duluth unior bear out the Chicago story, that there are at the present time but thirty-five engineers signed with the vesselmen.

They say the engineers won't recede from the stand they have taken, upon the non-union labor clause in their contracts, and until some concession is granted by the vessel owners, there will be no movement of vessels upon the Great Lakes.

PASTOR IN MOCK MARRIAGE?

Crippled Society Leader Declares She Was Tricked by Minister.

Washington, Ind., April 8.—Miss Bunn Clark, daughter of Former Mayor Hale Clark, and one of the society leaders of this city, charged, through friends yesterday, that she had been made the victim of a fake marriage by Rev. E. E. Davidson, pastor of the First Christian church of this city. Numerous conferences between mutual friends and the minister have been held in a vain effort to have the marriage ratified publicly, but without avail, the minister saying he did not marry her, and will not.

Miss Clark is about 30 years old. She has been a cripple nearly all her life, having to resort to the use of crutches.

The story, as told by friends of the Clark family, is to the effect that last December Rev. Mr. Davidson was in St. Louis on a visit. Miss Clark told her parents that she was going to Vincennes for a short visit, but instead of going to that place she went to St. Louis, where she met the minister. She says he at once proposed a marriage contract, telling her, so she asserts, that as he was a minister of the gospel, no other minister was needed.

RETAIL CLERKS TO GIVE BANQUET

Members of Flourishing Union Will Entertain Their Friends.

The Retail Clerks of Duluth, Local No. 3, will hold their first annual banquest at Kalamazoo hall, Monday evening, April 12.

This will be the first big affair at which the members of the local have been hosts since they organized, fourteen years ago. Besides the members of the local and their friends, a number of the leading wholesale men and retail men of the city, will be present. The banquet will be served at 8 o'clock. Following the banquet a class of eight candidates will be initiated into the union, and ride the goat for the amusement of the guests.

The Retail Clerk's union of this city has had a most successful career in every way since it was organized. Its members are taken from the clothing and shoe clerks of the city. The local now has ninety-two members in good standing, and during the fourteen years of its existence has only lost one member through death. In time of illness, a member receives $10 a week sick benefit, and in case of death, the local contributes $200 towards funeral expenses.

The present officers of the local are: President, A. Saours; vice president, Fred Brooks; secretary, Russell Anderson; treasurer, Charles Stevens, and financial secretary, C. H. Dippe.

PE-RU-NA USED FOR KIDNEY CATARRH.

Gen. A. F. Hawley, of Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal troubles."

Kidney Trouble for Nearly Thirty Years.

William Bailey, Past Col. Enc. No. 69, Union Veteran Legion, and prominently identified with many of the great labor protective associations in Chicago and New York, and secretary of one of the largest associations in the former city, had for nearly thirty years been afflicted with kidney troubles.

Within a short period he has been persuaded to try Peruna, and his present healthy condition is attributed to his judicious use of that great remedy. Washington climate is notoriously bad for kidneys and liver troubles, yet by a judicious use of the remedy he is now quite cured and in excellent physical condition.

This brief statement of facts, without exaggeration or hyperbole, appears to tell the whole story, which Peruna Company is authorized to use, if it so chooses, believing, as I do, that by so doing it will be for the general good. William Bailey, 58 I St., N. E., Washington, D. C.

Kidneys Affected—Back Weak.

Mr. M. Broderick, Secretary and Treasurer Local Union No. 406, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, writes from 435 E. 46th St., Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"I have been suffering from a weak back and kidney trouble for some time, and have been able to find relief only through the use of Peruna.

"During the winter season I usually keep a bottle of your medicine in the house, and by taking a dose at night I am feeling fine the next morning.

"Some of my friends assure me that Peruna is equally as good for their various ailments as it is for my complaint, but I do know for kidney trouble and suffering from a weak back it has no equal."

Cold Settled in Kidneys.

Mr. Joseph Klee, 215 East 4th St., Topeka, Kas., writes:

"My wife took Peruna for liver trouble and a run-down condition incident to the same. A few bottles built up her health and strength.

"I took Peruna for a cold which settled in my kidneys, giving me much pain. In two weeks I was much better, and in a few months I was well."

For Liver and Kidneys.

Mr. W. H. Armistead, Cumberland, C. H., Va., writes:

"Your Peruna has cured me of chronic catarrh of long standing. I thank you so much for your advice. I think it is a great medicine. It will do all that you recommend it to do. Besides, I can recommend it to cure all liver and kidney troubles."

Chronic Kidney Trouble.

Judge C. J. Park, R. F. D. 1, Buckhead, Ga., writes:

"For a long time I was troubled with catarrh of the kidneys, and after taking Peruna I feel like a new man. I think it the greatest catarrh medicine of the age, and believe it will cure any case of catarrh on record."

BARS JEWS FROM HEALTH RESORTS

Russian Governor Also Acts Against Jewish Musicians.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—A dispatch from Pyatigorsk, a town and watering place in Ciscaucasia, says that the governor of the province has issued orders that Jews be denied admission to the health resorts in the Caucasus during the coming season.

Jewish musicians also are barred from playing in government orchestras.

KEPT EYES OPEN 25 YEARS.

Miner's Affliction Resulted From Dust in Lime Quarry.

St. Louis, April 8.—After keeping his eyes open for more than twenty-five years, John Anderson died Tuesday from tuberculosis, his eyes remaining open even after death. This strange affliction of the eyelids was contracted while he was working in a limestone quarry. The dust so irritated his eyelids that they became raw and grew to the eyeballs. When he desired to sleep it was his custom to place his hands over his eyes to exclude the light. After he dropped off into unconsciousness the strongest light had no effect on him, and he slept undisturbed.

FOREIGN MINISTER OF RUSSIA WILL RETIRE.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—The retirement of Foreign Minister Iswolsky as a result of the defeat to Russian diplomacy in the settlement of the difficulty between Austria-Hungary and Servia is regarded here as a certainty. It probably will be postponed until summer, when M. Iswolsky's connection with the Balkan incidents will be less conspicuous than it was a fortnight ago. The foreign minister's resignation is in the hands of Emperor Nicholas.

TAKES NEW POSITION

After sixteen years' successful service as advertising manager for John J. Moe & Sons, in the West end department store, Alfred O. Anderson took up this week similar duties with R. R. Forward & Co. Mr. Anderson has practically grown up with the business of Moe & Sons, and he has a wide circle of friends both in business and in social circles. His ability along advertising lines is well known, needing no further proof than the splendid growth of business of the department store with which he has been connected so many years.

THE "TONNAGE TAX SPECIAL" BELIEVED TO HAVE HAD GOOD EFFECT ON SENATE

The "Tonnage Tax Special" and the Regular Northern Pacific Train, Waiting to Pull Out Yesterday Afternoon. Both Were Filled With Northern Minnesota Business Men Protesting Against the Tonnage Tax.

The 300 business and professional men from Duluth and the range towns, who left Duluth on a special train, yesterday afternoon for the state capitol, returning to the Head of the Lakes this morning, demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of the Twin Cities, the state senators, and the state representatives from all parts of Minnesota, that the general public in this part of the commonwealth will be hit instead of the mining interests by the proposed tonnage tax on iron ore, and the size of the delegation, together with the earnestness and sincerity of its members, and the fact that the Steel corporation had nothing whatever to do with its attending the hearing before the senate committee, showed beyond all possible doubt that the people of Northeastern Minnesota feel deeply in this matter, and that they believe a measure of the kind proposed would deal a death blow to all classes of business interests in the northeastern part of the state.

Every member of the delegation believed in all sincerity that the tonnage tax would be a blow to him personally, as well as to his home town, and the entire northeastern section of the state. Thus believing, every man was loaded with facts and figures, showing the unjustness of the proposed measure, and the effect it would have, and these facts and figures were unloaded before the state senators at every opportunity, both before and after the meeting. These plain business talks by business men, in nowise connected with the Steel corporation, or with other mining interests, did more, it is believed, to stir up sentiment against the tonnage tax than anything else that has been done. The heart of each individual was in his words, and all members of the delegation talked so earnestly, and so convincingly, that their efforts could not but result in beneficial effects.

March to Capitol.

The march of the delegation from the Hotel Ryan to the state capitol building created quite a sensation, and people who witnessed it naturally concluded that where the general public displayed so strong an interest in defeating the bill, there must most certainly be something wrong about it, something which would mean harm to every citizen in the district affected. All this, it is expected, will help to swing public sentiment in the state at large, more in favor of Northeastern Minnesota, and cause Minnesotans generally to stop and think, and perhaps investigate, before expressing an opinion upon something which they before knew little or nothing about.

"The state senators manifested an active interest in what we had to say, both in the meeting and out of it," said Mayor R. D. Haven this morning. "It was surprising to find how many of them were not posted upon the iron mining industry, and upon facts pertaining to the proposed tax. We found several who thought they knew something about the subject, but when they began to try to convince us that we didn't know what we were talking about, it was very much as if a stone mason tried to tell a professional expert cook that he didn't know how to make bread. We drove them into a corner so quick with our irrefutable arguments that it fairly made their heads swim, and when we left them there was a vague, dazed look in their eyes that was pathetic. They couldn't stand before our arguments for a minute. They found they did not know what they were talking about, and very quickly were willing to confess it.

"It is this very fact of their knowing so pitifully little about the true facts in the case, that leaves a chance of the tonnage tax bill going through the senate. As I have said before, if they could be really convinced that the people at large in this section of the state would be injured as much as the mining interests, if not more, by the bill, the battle would be half won. The visit of our delegation to St. Paul yesterday should have done much in the way of convincing them along the right lines. I talked with three or four of the senators from Southern Minnesota, and was surprised to find how little they knew about the subject in hand. Depend upon it, I did what I could to enlighten them, and the same may be said of other members of the delegation."

F. B. Myers of Biwabik stated that Mr. Congdon made a very strong impression upon the members of the senate committee by his recital of facts. Mr. Congdon, he says, stated nothing but facts, and he had an array of facts that could not be answered.

"There is little argument to answer Mr. Congdon," said Mr. Myers. "I was talking with a senator from the southern part of the state. He believed he had some argument in favor of the passage of the tonnage tax. When you sifted the thing down to a logical basis, the fellow had nothing that he could bring to support the tonnage tax.

"Andrew Nelson of this city made a most favorable impression upon the members of the committee. Mr. Nelson selected some of the numerous mottoes upon the walls, those urging justice, etc., and turned them into an argument against the passage of the tonnage tax."

N. B. Shank of Biwabik and J. H. Carlson of Hibbing, two other delegates who returned this morning, were of the same opinion as Mr. Myers. They believed that a profound impression had been made upon the members of the senate committee.

It was the idea of the members of the delegation to have different members speak for a minute. It was so late, however, when Mr. Congdon and some of the other members finished their speeches, that this plan was abandoned. The hearing has been postponed until Tuesday, when some of the members of the Itasca delegation will be heard further upon the subject of the tonnage tax.

Duluth Players Sign Up With Eastern City Ball Teams.

It looks now as though Duluth has lost three of her best ball players. "Coddy" Winters, "Al" Cummings and George McLaughlin, the three Duluth boys who have been playing hockey in Cleveland, have, according to letters received in the city from them, determined to remain in the Eastern city for the baseball season.

All three of the boys have secured good positions which they dislike to give up, and as they have a chance to play ball with some of the fastest of the Cleveland nines, they have all but determined to stay.

Winters was one of the Fitwell stars of last year and he will be missed when that team lines up for its first game of the season. Al Cummings was slated for a position with the Duluth team, and as he is a very effective man at almost any position on the team he will also be missed. McLaughlin is also a good player, but he has been in the habit of playing more or less with outside teams.

Gunther, the Australian Kangaroo, who has been after a match for the past two months, will be accommodated one week later.

Whitehead has just returned from Bemidji, where he accompanied a minstrel troupe last week. Owing to the lid being on the fight game in this part of the country, he has not enjoyed a mix in a good while, and he says he is anxious to get into the ring again.

He leaves the first of the week for the scene of his battle with Schreck and will not return to the Head of the Lakes until after his meeting with Gunther, which will also take place in Michigan.

they could stand free ore. Some of the principal iron ore ranges of the United States are located in Michigan and Minnesota, particularly the Mesaba range, and the industry is one of supreme importance to the state.

Until yesterday it was practically conceded that the senate committee would agree to free ore. It is asserted that a majority of the members of the committee believe that the industry would not suffer materially if the duty were taken off iron ore entirely. It is recognized, however, that in order to get a tariff bill through congress, trades of various kinds must be made and this was one of many.

NEW TOWER SUPERINTENDENT

W. H. Cartwright of Soudan Succeeds E. A. Mooney.

Tower, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. A. Mooney, superintendent of the local schools, has resigned, and will be succeeded by W. H. Cartwright, superintendent of the Soudan schools, the change taking effect at the end of the present school year.

It is expected that pupils from Soudan will be transported to the Tower school, increasing the attendance of the Tower high school, and enabling it to become a state high school, which will result in a larger appropriation by the state, and permit of improving the efficiency of the institution.

The position of supervisor of music and drawing will be abolished. There are now twenty-two teachers in the district.

BUSY AT THE LA RUE.

Butler Bros. Begin Stripping at the New Approach.

The new approach will be used in hauling ore this season and it is expected that soon work on the stripping proper will begin.

The engineering offices of the La Rue have been moved here from Hibbing, and everything points to a busy season for the property.

EVELETH COUNCIL TO ENFORCE CLEANLINESS.

Eveleth, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the council will see that the alleys are kept clean this summer is evidenced by a circular it has distributed, setting forth Ordinance 49, which relates to the removal of garbage.

Last year the city paid for the cleaning up of the alleys, but this year the council has decided that each property owner will have to pay for the cleanup in his alley, or he will be arrested and the city will do the work and charge it up to the property.

ceived in Uganda by S. C. Tompkins, one of the provincial commissioners.

The plans for the hunting trips of the Roosevelt party are reaching completion. It has been decided that Kermit Roosevelt is to take a number of short separate hunting trips with a Portuguese Indian guide named Silva, who is famous as an elephant hunter. For the first fortnight of their stay the Roosevelt party will be the guests at Athi river of Sir Alfred Pease, a well-known hunter, who has a large estate at Kilima Thekl. The second fortnight the party will be guests of George McMillan at Ju Ja ranch.

F. J. Jackson, lieutenant governor of the protectorate, is in Mombasa arranging the details of the reception to the Roosevelt party.

A local hunter has secured an elephant in the cannibal country, whose tusks weighed 290 pounds.

cutor Kellogg, "the government here is trying to deprive her of it."

The attorney pointed out that the fundamental fallacy in the government's position was that it failed in any way to recognize the enormous cumulative effect of compound interest.

Taking as a basic proposition, that the properties of the Standard in 1882 were worth $70,000,000 as testified to by Mr. Archbold, the attorney quoted from a table to show that compounded at 7 per cent from 1882 to 1906, the original $70,000,000 would reach the very comfortable amount of $255,065,686.74. Assuming that this 7 per cent had been added to the capital, irrespective of dividends, Mr. Milburn suggested it might, in a way, explain the rapid and apparently phenomenal growth of the Standard's assets.

"It's but a matter of a pencil, a bit of paper and a school boy to figure it out—no lawyer is required," added Mr. Milburn.

MODJESKA IS DEAD

diate favor. Until that time she had been known mainly as a light comedienne and vocalist. Her first husband being dead, she married, in 1868, Charles Chlapowski, Count Bozenta, who took her to Warsaw. There she began at the Imperial theater, as Adrienne Lecouvreur, a long engagement, that brought her metropolitan fame. She became no less popular as a social leader. She also developed strong political views, which resulted in her practical expulsion from the country.

Learned English Rapidly.

Having decided to begin her professional career anew in America, she gained, after nine months' study, sufficient knowledge of English to justify her offering "Adrienne" upon the San Francisco stage Aug. 6, 1877. She won instant approval at this first American appearance, and soon demonstrated her artistic resources through portrayals of the heroine in "Mary Stuart," "The Old Love and the New," and "Heartsease" (a version of "Camille.")

December 22 of the same year Madame Modjeska, once more as Adrienne, was introduced successfully to New York at the Fifth Avenue theater. A few weeks later she changed her role to Juliet, and then to Camile. The engagement was followed by the first of several prosperous tours throughout this country. On her return to New York in the autumn, she augmented her repertoire with the part of Gilberte in "Frou-Frou."

Great Success Abroad.

After a second tour she sailed in October, 1879, for Europe; and from October, 1879, until February, 1880, she played in her native land with great success. A few months later she undertook, under Wilson Barrett's management, appearing as Constance in "Heartsease." She continued to act in London and the provinces until the fall of 1882, her plays including "Adrienne," "Frou-Frou," "Juana," "Odette," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Camille."

It was after her return to New York in December, 1882, that she first interpreted Rosalind. She played Viola for the first time the same month. In April, 1883, she was seen as Juliet to the Romeo of Edwin Booth. In 1884 she was first seen as Nadjesda in Barrymore's play of that name.

The following year she was once more welcomed by London. Her plays here, after she had come back in 1886, comprised "Mary Stuart," "Donna Diana," "Les Chouans" and "Daniela." May 21, 1888, she enacted Ophelia at the famous benefit for Lester Wallack, when Edwin Booth was the Hamlet, and the two grave diggers were Joseph Jefferson and William Florence.

Played With Booth.

Late in 1889 she was again applauded with Booth as Beatrice, Portia, Ophelia and Lady Macbeth. Subsequently in New York she portrayed Katherine, Imogen, Isabella (in "Measure for Measure") and Magda. In 1895 she flattered Clyde Fitch by assuming the name-part in his "Mistress Betty." Early in the same year a sudden illness threatened to remove her from the stage. She retired to her fine ranch in California, where she passed several years. Although she entered again upon her professional duties in 1898, she has never recovered her health sufficiently to avoid occasional retirements from the theater. Four years ago her condition seemed to justify the splendid benefit performance given in New York by way of testimony to her personal popularity and artistic eminence. But she began another tour in the autumn of the same year. During most of the last three seasons, however, she has remained upon her ranch, "Arden," in Orange county, Cal.

Was Cultured Woman.

A cultured woman of exceptional social attractions, Madame Modjeska, both as a woman and an actress, has adorned her profession. Upon the stage she was distinguished for her versatility, her simplicity, her accurate, delicate and subtle technique, her grace, her rich temperament, and her pervasive intelligence. Her faulty pronunciation of English detracted from her art as displayed in this country, for although, like many another foreigner, she was said to have "mastered" the language, she fell far short of that achievement even after thirty years' practice.

had a hearing lasting only four hours but only the St. Louis county end of it was heard. The people from the Cuyuna range wish to be heard and nobody has spoke for them yet. The measure has a direct bearing on the development of that range, which is in the exploration period and at a critical stage when the tonnage tax would be disastrous. It is unfair to withdraw the bill before the committee has a chance to consider it.

Senator Schaller of the committee said the only way to find out about this bill is to have people that know about it address the committee, as the speeches on the floor will be mere rehash. The problem cannot be settled off-hand. The tax commission was divided on it after long study, and the house took two months to consider the bill. It is unfair to ask the senate to rush it this way.

Senator Seward made an excited speech for the resolution, saying that it would kill the bill if it failed to pass, and Senators Putnam and Moonan also advocated the resolution.

Senator Laybourn said that all the counties interested ask is fair play and a square deal, and this resolution does not give it. The committee should not be compelled to rush out so important a bill without proper consideration. It has not been done on any other bill, and it should not be done on this bill.

Senator Witherstine said the committee's action seemed fair to him and he thought it should have a chance to consider the bill.

Senator Schaller said this is an unusual proceeding. The committee has its final hearing Tuesday and it is asked to report Monday.

Senator Seward said the committee could still have its hearing Tuesday, though he admitted that it was unusual for a committee to have hearings after acting on a bill.

Senator Peterson said the committee is acting faithfully, but unfortunately the bill came in from the house late, and it should be acted upon.

Senator Clague asked if it would require a two-thirds vote to make the bill a special order after it came out, and Lieutenant Governor Eberhart said there was no question that it would.

Senator Robinson said Senator Sageng wants this body to sit as a jury without hearing the evidence, and that it was the most illogical thing he ever heard of.

Senator Hackney of St. Paul moved as a substitute that the bill be made a special order for a week from Friday, but it was held, that such a motion could not be substituted, as the bill was not before the senate till it comes back from the committee.

The vote was as follows:

Nays—Ahmann, Alderman, Calhoun, Campbell, Coller, Cooke, Dunn, Durment, Elwell, Farrington, French, Gunn, Hall, Hardly, Hinton, C. A. Johnson, Johnston, Laybourn, Pugh, Robinson, Schaller, Smith, Stephens, Sullivan, Wilson—25.

Absent—Carpenter, Donaldson, McGowan, Vail.

The house killed the Bendixen bill providing for a new system of mining leases of state minerals, 28 for and 50 against.

Representative Congdon of Duluth pointed out that the bill allows the state to increase the royalties every five years, and said nobody would take so one-sided a lease, except on a mine that could be exhausted in five years. Evidently, he said, the man that drew the bill knew nothing about mining or any other business.

The house also killed the Gates bill regulating the sale of patent medicines.

The house voted down a motion by Chairman Haugland of the railroad committee to recall from the senate the Bicknell bill requiring railroads to pay the difference when they lost out in the courts after fighting railroad rate orders issued by the railroad commission. The vote was 17 to 77.

ICE RAPIDLY HONEYCOMBING

Western End of Lake Superior Now Almost Clear.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau indicate that the ice has decreased and become honeycombed in all the lakes.

In Lake Superior but a small amount of ice remains over the extreme western end; practically none over the central portions, except off Marquette, where the field extends beyond vision; the change has been slight over the eastern portions. A large field of ice with but little open water visible extends beyond vision off Whitefish point; the ice in Whitefish bay remains intact, though materially softening.

In St. Mary's river considerable open water is reported in the channels where the current is swift; Hay and Mud lakes are still solid, but the ice is softening rapidly.

The ice in Green bay remains solid, but is honeycombing and large areas of open water are reported over the extreme north and northeast portions.

The ice at the straits has decreased in thickness and strong winds would break it up; the steamer Algomah reached the dock at Mackinaw Island from St. Ignace on April 2.

In Lake Huron the only ice fields reported are a few off Middle island; there is some ice along shore at Presque Isle; none visible in Saginaw bay.

In Lake Erie the ice is confined to the extreme eastern end and that is reported softening materially.

In Ontario some little ice remains along the east shore and at the foot of the lake.

In comparison with the same period last year there is less ice in all lakes except over the extreme eastern portions of Lakes Superior and Ontario. In Superior last year there was no ice of any consequence from Grand Marais to Whitefish point, where this year large fields are reported. The ice in St. Mary's river is slightly heavier this year. Some open water is reported in Green bay, where last year the ice was solid.

CHINA PROTESTS AGAINST ARREST

Pittsburg Police Insists That Their Action Was Justified.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 8.—Mayor Magee has received from Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania, the papers in connection with the protest of the Chinese government against the recent arrest in this city of Yip Yen and Low Sz Ki, wealthy Chinamen, who were charged with violating a state law in selling bonds of a foreign corporation within the boundaries of the state without registration.

The matter was taken up by the Chinese minister and the state department in Washington and reported to Governor Stuart. The police reiterate that the arrests were justified and a report to this effect will be returned with the papers to Governor Stuart.

FISH CAUGHT IN A POCKET.

Thirty Thousand Pounds Taken in a Single Haul Near McGregor.

McGregor, Iowa, April 8.—The largest single haul of marketable fish ever made in this part of the Mississippi was brought to shore today on one of the islands opposite McGregor. Three Bohemian fishermen at Prairie du Chien discovered the school in the head end of a slough, where it had evidently been driven by the rapid rising of the river, and after two days and nights of almost incessant labor in the icy water, they and their crew succeeded in drawing them upon land.

The fish were all good-sized buffaloes and weighed 30,000 pounds. They filled the large barge in which they were towed to McGregor to a depth of three feet. They will be shipped direct to New York city, where in the lenten season buffalo fish have been quoted higher than black bass.

NINE WOLVES ARE KILLED

George Lee and Charles Hicks Wipe Out Whole Pack.

Mother and Eight Cubs Are Tracked in the Snow.

The mother and eight cubs of a wolf family were destroyed by George Lee and Charles Hicks yesterday, on the Wisconsin side of the St. Louis river, about opposite New Duluth.

Mr. Lee and Mr. Hicks are old time trappers, who have been following the animals of the forest in the vicinity of St. Croix Falls for some years. Recently, with wolf as their quarry, they have been operating on the Wisconsin side of the St. Louis river, with good results.

Yesterday they saw the tracks of the wolf family in the snow and followed them, coming upon the pack of nine. The had little trouble dispatching the cubs after the she-wolf had been disposed of.

The one day's work will net them quite a tidy amount. The bounty on the mother is $20, and that on the eight cubs will net them considerably more than that amount, so that without figuring the hides, they will collect a good day's pay.

It is said that wolves are quite plentiful along the St. Louis, and a number of hunters and trappers are making good money running them down. In St. Louis county the applications continue to come in on an average of one a day, and bounty will be paid this year on more wolves than ever in the history of the county.

CHANNEL IS OPEN.

Motor Boats May Run to Boat Club Branch at Spirit Lake.

The channel of the St. Louis river is reported to be free of ice from the canal to the dock of the branch boat club at Spirit Lake.

People living at New Duluth state that there is clear water from the club to the bay, and from the Incline road from West Duluth to Proctor a wide strip of water can be seen winding in and out through the ice, which still stretches out from the shores of the river.

Now is the time for the more daring launch and motor boat enthusiasts to get their boats into the water and experience the excitement of running the gauntlet of floating ice. With a little imagination a fine little game of Arctic exploring with the branch boat club as a substitute for the North pole, may be played right near home on the St. Louis river. The narrow passage between ice fields would make a good setting for the game.

A number of enthusiasts are hastening to get their boats into commission so as to make the run up the river and thus gain the distinction of being the first of the season.

SLAG FOR PAVEMENT.

Alderman Foubister Would Improve Raleigh Street at Small Cost.

It is the opinion of Alderman James Foubister that slag from the Zenith Furnace company's waste pile, would make a practical and cheap material with which to pave Raleigh street.

The slag can be had for almost nothing, and the haul to Raleigh street is a short one. There is enough lime in the furnace waste to make it stick together and make a firm hard pavement when well rolled by a street roller. Mr. Foubister believes that slag would make as good a paving material as macadam.

Raleigh street has long been in very bad shape, and during wet weather almost impossible to drive over. Mr. Foubister says that Raleigh street can never be kept sanitary until it is drained and the best way to drain it is to put in a good pavement. A petition asking that Raleigh street be paved with slag will soon be put into circulation, and it is claimed that there will be no trouble in getting enough names to carry it through.

SHE DIVORCES MINISTER.

Former Episcopal Rector of Chicago Charged With Cruelty.

Chicago, April 8.—Mrs. Anna May Brown, 5830 Washington boulevard, has been granted a divorce and custody of three sons against Rev. Marcus J. Brown, who, until recently was rector of St. Alban's Episcopal church in the fashionable Norwood Park district.

Judge Mack entered the decree. Mrs. Brown and her eldest son, Prescott, 15 years old, were witnesses. They alleged repeated acts of cruelty.

Differences between Mr. Brown and his wife led to his transfer last November by Bishop Anderson to the Nebraska diocese, where Mr. Brown, who was highly regarded here and recognized as one of the most brilliant of the high church ministers in Chicago, is now conducting a mission in the little city of Creighton. Bishop Anderson consented to the transfer after he heard from Mrs. Brown stories of domestic incompatibilities.

BOY STRUCK BY ENGINE

Both Legs Are Amputated Below the Knees.

Stepped Back From One Train in Front of Another.

While attempting to cross the Northern Pacific tracks at Forty-second avenue west, yesterday afternoon, at about 4 o'clock, Charles Ryan, the 17-year-old son of James Ryan, of 4104 West Third street, was run over by a switch engine, which crushed both his legs a few inches below the knees, making it necessary to amputate them later at St. Mary's hospital.

The boy, from a pile of ties beside the tracks, had been watching a switch crew at work. Leaving his seat on the tie pile, he started to cross the tracks to go home. While on the tracks he noticed a train coming, and stepped by to let it pass, and was struck by the switch engine running on the track behind him. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the hospital.

He was conscious until placed on the operating table, and talked to those with him while being driven to the hospital. At first he protested against going to the hospital, insisting on being taken home, but finally consented.

Owing to young Ryan's strong constitution, it is believed that he will recover.

Object to Strong Medicines.

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prescribed by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism, and more than one out of every ten cases of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. For sale by all druggists.

MANIAC MURDERS

Plumber Terrorizes Town With Gun, Pistols and Bombs.

Kills Woman, Wounds Another and Then Commits Suicide.

Aurora, Ill., April 8.—John Anderson, a plumber, whose mind had been affected, became suddenly violent today and armed himself with two pistols, a shotgun and three bombs, which he fastened to his person by means of a harness, started out to kill the inhabitants of a block in which he said malicious gossip concerning himself had been circulated. He killed one woman, narrowly missed slaying her husband, wounded another woman, and then committed suicide.

The dead women, Mrs. John McVicker, was shot through the heart as she ran toward the room where her children were playing. Anderson committed suicide by blowing off his head with the shotgun. The injured:

Mrs. John Belford, flesh wound and broken arm from pistol bullets.

John McVicker, scalp grazed by bullet.

Flee to Cellars.

Anderson's actions and his armament of bombs and revolvers terrorized residents of the entire square which he had announced his intention of laying waste. Doors were locked and barred and women and children fled to cellars and attics when they saw the maniac walking along the street, scrutinizing the different houses as if undecided where to begin.

The district which he terrorized is bounded by the railroad and the river and First and Second streets. His first stop was at the home of Mrs. John McVicker, his oldest and best friend. Mrs. McVicker and her husband had repeatedly befriended Anderson, who was a widower. They had received him in their home and nursed him when he was ill.

With a pistol in each hand, Anderson began firing. The first bullet grazed Mr. McVicker's scalp. Mrs. McVickers ran toward the kitchen, where her four children were playing to protect them. She fell dead across the threshold with a bullet through her heart.

Anderson then left the place and proceeded to the home of John Belford, a few doors away. His resentment was against Belford, whom he had accused of circulating slanderous stories about him. Mrs. Belford and her mother, Mrs. Amanda Minton, 80 years old and blind, were alone in the house. Anderson opened fire with his pistol on Mrs. Belford. One bullet inflicted a flesh wound and another shattered her arm and she fell to the floor. Mrs. Minton, hearing, but not seeing, rose from the couch on which she had been resting and began groping her way across the room.

The maniac, however, paid no attention to her.

By this time the neighborhood had been alarmed and men were gathering in the street outside. Anderson walked to the window and peered out. When he returned to the center of the room he picked up his shotgun from the table on which he had placed it and blew off his own head.

Bombs Were Home-Made.

Mrs. Minton, moving blindly about, returned to the couch just as Anderson's body fell across it. To the fact that he fell on this yielding surface is due to the failure of the bombs strapped to his person to explode. They were home-made and it is believed were carried by Anderson in order to make sure of his own death in case of accident to his other weapons.

LAKE CARRIERS WILL STAND PAT

President Livingstone Declares Insistence for the Open Shop.

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—"We stand pat for the open shop and the principles involved therein, and in any action taken by the different organizations of labor on the lakes will make no difference to our position," declared President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association when asked today for a statement on the strike ordered last night of the lake engineers, firemen, oilers, water tenders and deck hands. Livingston continued:

"All the knowledge I have regarding a strike being ordered is what I have read in the papers. While differences between employers and employed are always to be regretted, when we declared for the open shop we did so carefully, advisedly, believing our position to be right. There is no middle ground; we stand pat for the open shop and the principles involved therein.

"Our association has always dealt, or tried at least, to deal in the utmost fairness with our men. As a matter of fact the wages we pay for labor on the lakes are the highest paid for the same grade of labor in the world."

AUTO, HURRYING FOR AID, KILLS

Boy's Life Crushed Out as Physican Is Sought.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stepping in front of the automobile which was hurrying to get a physician for a sick child, Walter Davis, 9-year-old son of E. M. Davis was instantly killed. The automobile was driven by Harry Green, an employe of a livery firm, and with him were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. White of North Dakota. The little sick child of Mr. and Mrs. White was ill, and the party was going to the office of Dr. Kistler when the accident occurred.

The Davis boy was standing on the curb and stepped into the street in front of the machine, which, according to bystanders, was not going at a fast rate.

CANNON CROWD BEATEN; INSURGENTS-DEMOCRATS AGAINST STANDARD OIL

Advocates of Free Crude Oil Bowl Over the House Ways and Means Committee—Fervid Appeal by Speaker Is of No Avail.

> Washington, April 8.—The committee amendments to the Payne tariff bill, providing for free tea and removing the countervailing duty on coffee, have been adopted by the house.

Washington, April 8.—It was a bad day for the Republican organization of the house. By a coalition between some Republican insurgents and the Democrats, the ways and means committee was bowled over to the advocates of free crude oil and its products won a signal victory when an amendment by Mr. Norris of Nebraska, placing the insignificant duty of 1 percentum ad valorem on these articles was adopted by a substantial majority.

A decision of the chairman that amendments could not be offered to the oil schedule other than the one covered by the special rule of Monday and which provided for the removal of the countervailing duty on crude petroleum and applying an ad valorem duty of 25 per cent was overruled, and not even a fervent appeal by the speaker in an endeavor to rally the Republican forces was sufficient to stem the tide avowedly against the Standard Oil company. By a practically unanimous vote the countervailing duty went out, as the committee had recommended.

Of all other propositions, the committee was sustained. The barley schedule ran the gauntlet without change. Tea and coffee were placed on the free list, and the duty on barytes increased from 75 cents a ton to $1.50 a ton.

A colloquy at first humorous, but later developing into personalities, developed between Mr. Stanley of Kentucky, and Mr. Clark of Florida, and was terminated only upon an objection by Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana, that it was against the dignity of the house.

Opposition Is General.

Opposition to the provisions of the Payne tariff bill amending the act to provide revenues for the Philippine Islands has become general on the part of the Democratic senators, and amendments are anticipated by the senate committee on finance. On that account this section has been laid away to be considered by the full committee.

Senator Stone of Missouri intends to move to strike out of the Payne bill section five providing for free trade with the Philippine Islands, with certain limitations upon the amount of sugar and tobacco that may be imported in any one year. The Stone amendment will provide that the United States must define its policies with reference to the Philippines and fix a limitation not more than fifteen years hence upon the control of the islands. It provides that the United States shall withdraw and deliver over the reins of government to the Filipinos. Under the amendment, this government will be required to make treaties to secure the independence and neutralization of the islands.

A further provision is made that all products grown in the Philippines shall be entitled to free entry, and in return all agricultural machinery and implements, cotton and manufactures thereof, books and publications, machinery of all kinds needed in the manufacture of Philippine goods, and other articles which are wholly the product of the United States, shall be entitled to free entry to the Philippines.

Attacks the Standard.

A vigorous appeal was made by Mr. Campbell of Kansas for protection for independent oil producers, who he said needed protection while the Standard company did not.

A bitter attack against the Standard was made by Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin in favoring the Norris amendment. Seeing the wave of sentiment in favor of the amendment, Speaker Cannon took the floor and warned the members of the dangers ahead. He made a plea for the American producer of oil. The amendment, he declared, was designed to punish the wicked Standard Oil company. "Gentlemen," he said, "is it not well to see when you seek to punish somebody that you claim is bad, that you do not, like Sampson, pull down the pillars and have the temple fall upon you."

The adoption of the Norris amendment, he said, would let in practically free refined oil from Mexico "and still the gentleman from Wisconsin and others flap their wings and crow and crucify the people while their demagogue is denouncing the wicked Standard Oil."

Onslaughts upon the senate committee on finance by prominent members of congress have become so vigorous since it became known that the work of inserting rates in the bill soon to be reported has actually begun, that there is danger of revision of an upward trend it is said, unless deaf ears are turned to importunate interests.

The only persons now seen by the committee are senators and delegations introduced by senators in the forenoon. Many other delegations wait about the corridors all day seeking the ears of individual committeemen during the recesses.

May Get Bill Saturday.

In spite of these conditions good progress is being made and Senator Aldrich, the chairman said yesterday that he could predict that when the bill is reported it will be seen that revision has been downward, especially upon the necessaries of life.

It is probable that the senate will be in session on Saturday in order to receive the Payne bill from the house.

MARTIN LAVELL MAKES DENIAL

Reply to Helstrom's Petition to Divide Town of Lavell.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of Tuesday you publish me as an alleged despot in the town of Lavell, in this county. The complaint filed with the county board, for a division of the town, is signed and sworn to by one Jacob Helstrom. There is no truth in any of the charges made by this man.

The statement that any of the town officers reside outside of the town, is false, as is also the statement that illegal votes have been cast to the knowledge of town officers at any election.

The statement that any one dominates the board, is untrue. The town board consists of five members, and each is an independent and responsible citizen, who does his own thinking.

The statement that contracts have been let by the board, or any of them, to higher bidders, and that lower bids have been rejected, is entirely false and malicious, as any one can learn by taking the trouble to inquire. The fact is that no bids on contracts have ever been received by, or offered to, the board.

If this man Helstrom or any of his gang knew of any illegal vote which was registered, why was not such vote challenged when offered, or why was not complaint made to some member of the board before election? The registration lists are always posted, as required by law.

As to any votes having been rejected without cause, the statement of Helstrom willfully misrepresents the facts. The only votes ever rejected were so rejected simply because the men offering them refused to make any answer to the questions put to them as to their right to vote. In such cases there was nothing else to be done than to refuse their votes.

The truth is that Helstrom wants to get into office. As he can't get elected in the town of Lavell, where he is so well known he wants the county board to carve out a new town for his own private use and benefit, where he can work his game without anyone to interfere. He has resided in Lavell town now about four or five years, and has never cast but one vote.

So far as I am personally concerned, the statements of this man can do me no harm. I have lived in St. Louis county twenty-three years and am well known to all the leading business men of Duluth, and on the range; but in justice to all the members of our town board, I respectfully request you to give this statement a place in your columns, as the statements of Helstrom have been given considerable prominence in your article, to which this answer is made. Respectfully,

MARTIN M. LAVELL.

ARGUE MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Tampering With Witnesses Given as Reason for a Rehearing.

The sensational charges in the personal injury case of Anna Rober against the Oliver Iron Mining company, in which Attorney Victor Power of Hibbing is attempting to secure a new trial for his client, came out again in district court last evening when the final arguments on the motion for a new trial were made.

Alleged tampering with witnesses and misconduct on the part of the jurors form the basis for the request for a new trial. Affidavits introduced by Mr. Power allege that Ely Marian, one of the witnesses, told people that employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company tampered with him, offered him $300 to remain away from the trial, and threatened to discriminate against him at the mines if he testified in the case.

It is also alleged that four of the jurors drank beer while having dinner at the St. Louis hotel on the evening they were out in the charge of an officer. It is also claimed that one of the jurors left the others in front of the St. Louis and went across the street, remaining away for several minutes.

The answering affidavits introduced by Attorney C. O. Baldwin for the mining company, are just as sensational in their charges. One signed by Marian is to the effect that Mr. Power attempted to get him to go on the stand and testify that he was at Chisholm and saw the accident, when he was in reality in Pennsylvania at the time it occurred.

The affidavits of George S. Munsey, H. C. Gravatt, George H. Young and John S. Dahl, the four jurors charged with drinking beer, were that each man had one glass of beer with his meal, and with the consent of the officer in charge. They say that the beer had no effect on them, and their verdict was their true judgment on the case. Mr. Dahl admitted having a copy of a newspaper, but he says he read nothing about the Rober case, and put the paper away when he learned that it was not proper to read anything in it. He also says that he went across the street, but was not gone more than two or three minutes, and was in sight of the officer and the other jurors all the time.

Mrs. Rober sued for $20,000 on account of an injury to her 9-year-old daughter, Anna, who was injured at Chisholm by the explosion of a dynamite cap, which some boys had found. The company was charged with negligence in that it was claimed that the cap by which the child was injured, was found in the vicinity of a powder house of the company and its employes were negligent in leaving the caps lying around.

After the arguments last evening, Judge Dibell took the matter under advisement and he will make a decision on the motion later.

BOUND TO BREAK MARINE UNIONS

Lake Carriers Likley to Start Season Facing Strike.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 8.—Cleveland officials of lake labor organizations profess to have no definite knowledge of a strike. It was said they are waiting for news from the Buffalo conference.

A number of contracts returned by engineers have been received by Cleveland vessel owners. At the headquarters of the Engineers' association it is stated that two engineers who had sent their contracts back on Tuesday have paid their dues to the association for a year.

The engineers of the Western and Anchor lines, have been offered places without signing contracts. The men have refused to go to work unless the old men of the Mutual Transit company are taken back. New engineers have been hired by the Mutual line and the manager of that fleet refuses to let them out.

Marine hostilities were started in South Chicago when efforts were made by the vessel owners to start out a few boats. It then developed that the marine workers had been notified not to ship on any vessels controlled by the Lake Carriers' association.

The Marine Firemens' union recently held special meetings in all the cities around the lakes and last Sunday orders were issued b ythe national officers prohibiting any union firemen from shipping with an engineer who had signed a contract.

The Lake Carriers' association is determined to break up every union on the lakes.

PREPARING FOR DRIVES.

Loggers Along Upper Mississippi Are Getting Busy.

Little Falls, Minn., April 8.—Preparations are being made for the first drive of the season to commence as soon as the river is free from ice. The river is clearing fast and it is believed that it is only a matter of a few days before the ice will be entirely gone.

Tuesday Ed LaVoie had the outfit for his crew moved from the warehouse to his wangans, near the paper mill, and he is having everything about the boats put in readiness for commencing the drive. He expects to be able to start in a week or ten days. Mr. La Voie will take his crew down the river as far as Sauk Rapids.

North of the city, Jud Freeman is providing for his drive. His boats are near Belle Prairie and the outfits are being hauled to that place.

Mr. Freeman will commence the season by towing his boats to Brainerd, and then work back toward this city. He expects to be able to start Monday.

J. S. Murphy, foreman at the sorting works just north of the city, stated Tuesday that he believes that the boom house will be open the first of the week

WEST END

COMMITTEE TO REPORT

West End Republican Club Will Hear More of Paving.

Members May Discuss Other Needed Improvements at Meeting.

The West End Republican club's special committee, appointed to investigate the possibilities of paving Garfield avenue, will make its final report at the meeting of the club to be held in President Jensen's office this evening, and it is expected that something interesting will be brought out as it will probably be known whether or not the wholesale interests are willing to bear that portion of the expense of the improvements which the residents of Garfield avenue think they ought to.

The committee, which is composed of Alderman Peter Olson, J. W. Preston, and Roy Hood, has conferred with the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, with the residents of Garfield avenue, the wholesalers, and others, and is now qualified for classification as a group of paving experts.

Members of the club, who were among the first to take up this matter, feel confident that it can be pushed through, and that the new pavement can be laid this summer.

If there is time after the disposal of the Garfield avenue topic this evening, the club will consider some other improvements needed in the West end, which members are planning to bring up.

WELL KNOWN DULUTHIANS IN CARICATURE

MAYOR ROLAND D. HAVEN.

lines of business, and besides practically every iron range town was represented, and there were delegations from Lake, Itasca, Carlton and Aitkin counties.

All wore badges, labelled, "No tonnage tax," and no more desperately concerned body of men ever assailed the state capitol. Indeed, the history of the state has never developed a situation that has brought out the people of a section in such numbers, and with such earnestness. The impression upon the members of the senate was obviously great. If anything was needed to show that the fight over the tonnage tax is not a fight between the state and the Steel corporation, but a fight between misguided prejudice and misunderstanding in a large part of the state against the people of the northeastern part of the state, this has accomplished it.

Many Senators Listened.

Besides the members of the senate committee on taxes and tax laws, before which last night's hearing was held, a majority of the senate was in attendance, and the senators listened attentively to the arguments, a number of them taking copious notes.

The crowd in attendance from Northeastern Minnesota was in itself impressive, but it was made still more so by the manner in which the speakers were applauded when they touched upon matters showing how great is the concern of the whole people of Northeastern Minnesota, how terrible the results to that section will be, and how deadly an injury will be done a struggling region if the tonnage tax bill is allowed to become a law.

Representative Chester A. Congdon of Duluth made the principal talk against the bill, following out somewhat the same lines as in his speeches before the house tax committee and the house itself. He was heard with keen interest by the senators, and his talk was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause from the visitors from Northeastern Minnesota.

Mr. Congdon said that he had found that many controversies are due to misunderstanding of respective viewpoints. "The advocates of the tonnage tax profess that the mines cannot be made to pay a fair tax without adopting the tonnage tax method. We know that is not true, and we believe that the sole object, and we know that the sole result will be to make the property in our part of the state bear a larger proportion of taxes than property in other parts of the state. The iron mines constitute five-sixths of our wealth, and of the 200,000 people in the iron country fully half gain their livings directly from the mines, and a quarter more derive their livings from the mines indirectly. We ask that you put yourselves in our place; that you grasp our viewpoint. To a man, without regard to wealth or position or creed or politics, we believe that the tonnage tax threatens the prosperity of every man, woman and child in our section.

Tax Liable to Change.

"The tonnage tax, being on a different basis than other taxes, becomes an unknown factor, liable to change at any time. Men engaged in manufacturing iron will have to make a large allowance for possible increases. The trouble is that if this special method of taxing mines is adopted, and it is found to be an easy source of revenue, the temptation to increase the tax until it not only decreases the state taxes of other sections but perhaps abolishes them altogether will be dangerously strong.

"It is not so much the amount of money involved that hurts, but it is the sense of unjust treatment; the feeling that the rest of the state, because it has the power, exerts it tyrannically. Most revolutions have had their origin in oppression of this character. It is the feeling that we are not being treated as the rest of the state is treated that stirs us up; the realization that we are treated as the Philippines or Porto Rico are treated. The iron interests will not bear this special tax. Such interests always have methods of shouldering tax burdens off upon others, and one way is by the reduction of wages. The range workmen have been among the best paid laborers in the country, and we want them to remain so. (Applause.)

"The tonnage tax would discriminate against the low grades of ore in favor of the high grades. The large companies own most of the high-grade ore, and most of the low-grade ore is owned by residents of Minnesota. That ore will not be developed until it is necessary, and such a handicap will delay its development indefinitely. With the uncertainty about taxation that this law would produce, nobody would want to risk investment in them. Nothing is surer to reduce their value than a law like this.

"We want this ore manufactured in Minnesota. Conditions have arisen under which it is economically possible to manufacture it here. There are two coming steel centers, one at the head of Lake Michigan and one on Lake Superior. The market is ripe for the production of these manufacturing centers. Pittsburg has passed its climax. Steel will be manufactured nearer the market and nearer the ore supplies. The grade of the ore is deteriorating, because the best was taken first. There is waste in taking the low-grade ore to Pittsburg, so the plants must move to the ore supplies."

Duluth's Fine Position.

Mr Congdon read extracts from a letter written by a large steel manufacturer, who admits that Duluth's technical position is splendid for steel manufacturing and who says that steel manufacturing will be done on Lake Superior, where the ore meets the coal that comes up the lakes. The steel plants will not be scattered, but if property in one section of this state is to be singled out for special taxes, the steel manufacturer will fear results, and will hesitate to invest in this state. It is just as easy to start up in Wisconsin as it is in Minnesota. Naturally, if Minnesota adopts a system under which it will be impossible accurately to estimate the tax cost, steel manufacturers will not come here.

"If you adopt this tax," said Mr. Congdon, "you will drive forever out of the state the possibility of developing steel manufacturing." This remark caused a rousing burst of applause.

Continuing, Mr. Congdon said that the establishment at Duluth of the steel plant projected by the United States Steel corporation is only a beginning. At Gary many smaller plants have gathered around the big plant of the Steel corporation, and the same thing would happen here if the state encouraged it.

"Duluth wants to be a manufacturing center. We are asking this legislature to let us work out our future as the rest of the state is doing. We have few advantages, and many disadvantages. While we are working out our future, we ask you not to load us down more than you load yourselves. (Applause.) We want to bear our share of the burden, but don't put so heavy a load upon us that we can grow no further."

Is Unconstitutional.

Taking up the constitutionality of the measure, Mr. Congdon showed by the very decisions quoted by Mr. Bjorge to prove its constitutionality that the bill is manifestly unconstitutional. It is a tax on interstate commerce when it touches ore shipped out of the state, and if it applies to ore manufactured in the state it will be a handicap upon home industry.

The main feature of Bjorge's argument for the tonnage tax is that it is impossible properly to value the iron mines for purposes of taxation. Mr. Congdon showed that it is easy to value iron property, in fact much easier than it is to value a store full of merchandise. The tax commission has full knowledge of the values of the iron mines. On the other hand, a flat tax per ton upon the output is absurd when it is considered that it costs four or five times or ten times as much to get the ore out of some mines as it does to get it out of others. In no state in the Union is the tonnage tax system in use. In no state in the Union is the tax upon mines distributed differently from other taxes. There is no reason for proposing a special method, except to make the iron property bear a heavier burden of state expenses than other property. St. Louis county now pays 67½ per cent of the state taxes and 28 per cent of all the railroad taxes; two-thirds of the property of the county belongs to the railroads, the state or federal government and is exempt from taxation, thus forcing the general tax burden of the county on one-third of the property within its borders.

Speeches were also delivered by Andrew Nelson and Capt. Alexander McDougall of Duluth, Dr. Lenont of Virginia, J. C. Vaughn of Chisholm and W. J. Rasleigh of Aurora. Others were scheduled to speak, but were unable to do so owing to the lateness of the hour.

On motion of Senators Alderman and Gunn, the hearing was continued until next Tuesday, when representatives of Itasca county will address the committee.

THEATERS OF NEW YORK

Lead the World in the Number and Variety of Their Productions.

ST. REGIS CONVENIENT TO ALL

In the number, beauty and convenience of its theaters New York leads the world. The volume, variety and magnificence of New York's theatrical productions are all magnets that daily attract to the metropolis a vast army of strangers. These strangers must be housed and fed; and New York has risen to the occasion and has provided mammoth and palatial hostelries that are among the wonders of civilization. Some of these hotels—perfect, but mechanical and almost automatic in their service—are cold, even depressing in their atmosphere. There is one hotel, the St. Regis, located at Fifth avenue and Fifty-fifth street, which has retained "homelikeness" with its other advantages. Unequalled in its appointments and furnishings, with a cuisine unsurpassed by even the famed foreign restaurateurs, the stranger is here surrounded by "home" atmosphere and "home" refinements, and his stay in New York, whether for a night or "the season," is thus made infinitely more enjoyable. With all these advantages the rates are low: A large, sumptuously-furnished single room for $3 and $4 a day; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); or an elegant parlor, bedroom and private bath for $12 a day and upwards.

Rheumatism.

More than nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles, due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism. In such cases no internal treatment is required. The free application of Chamberlain's Liniment is all that is needed, and it is certain to give quick relief. Give it a trial and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain and soreness. The medicines usually given internally for rheumatism are poisonous or very strong medicines. They are worse than useless in cases of chronic and muscular rheumatism. For sale by all druggists.

Stillwater's New Mayor.

Stillwater, Minn., April 8.—The new city council will be organized on the 13th and the following day Mayor Armson will resign. The old council held its last meeting Tuesday night, and Aldermen Brennan and Schuelling, who retire, were complimented for their good service for the city. Paul J. Arndt is on the slate for president of the new council, and in that capacity will be acting mayor until a new executive is regularly elected.

Pembina Presbytery Meets.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pembina Presbytery held a very important meeting here this week, taking up and disposing of an immense amount of business. One of the important actions was the election of Rev. D. N. Scot of Grafton as moderator to succeed Rev. McIntosh of Park River.

The resignations of Rev. McMillan of Hamilton and of Rev. Forster of Hannah were received and accepted.

Try This Formula for Dandruff and Falling Hair

(From Le Matin, Paris, France.)

In response to request from our correspondent, Mme. Gracone, I reprint formula that appeared in issue of Jan. 15, for falling hair and dandruff. The ingredients in this formula may be found in the drug stores of France, Germany, England and United States, and the preparation is to my belief the most satisfactory and dependable one for the above troubles; also for giving the hair vitality, health and a luxuriant growth.

One ounce beta quinol (liquid), half pint alcohol, half pint bay rum or warm water; mix well and apply daily. Get the ingredients and mix them yourself at home. If your druggist hasn't them he can easily get them for you.

THE TRUTH.

The attention of the members of the state senate, who will vote soon upon the tonnage tax bill, as well as of the people of the entire state, is directed to the fact that it has been widely claimed that "the steel trust escapes with a 10-mill tax, whereas the farmer has to pay 25." This statement was originally made by the Northfield News, which has repeated it on numerous occasions, and it has been widely copied by newspapers in those sections of the state where the only conception of a tonnage tax is of a means of making the "rich foreign owners of iron ore" pay more taxes.

The statement that the "steel trust pays only 10 mills tax whereas the farmer pays 25" is false. The Northfield News, called to account by The Herald for this false statement, attempts to prove itself right in this week's issue. To do this it picks out six tax assessment districts in St. Louis county and harks back to the assessment of 1907. The districts that it chooses with the rate of taxation in mills are as follows: Hibbing, 9.55; Fayal, 11.9; Great Scott, 9.6; Nichols, 7.8; Stuntz (1), 7.7; Stuntz (2), 9.7. Average, 9.18 mills.

With these figures it triumphantly advises The Herald that "the steel trust" pays less than 10 mills.

Pursuing the same methods as those selected by the News, The Herald also selects six assessment districts in which the assessment in mills for 1908 is as follows: Ely, 47.1; Eveleth, 73.1; Tower, 27.3; Virginia, 22.5; Biwabik, 31.7; Chisholm, 22. Average, 37.3 mills.

Following the manner of the News, The Herald triumphantly informs it that "the steel trust" pays nearly four times the amount that the News claims it pays.

Which of the two statements above is right? Neither. When one wants to juggle with figures he can pick out a half dozen tax assessment districts in any big county which will prove nearly anything he wants them to prove.

The actual truth of the whole matter is that the average tax rate in St. Louis county is 18.37 mills. In order to prove that the Steel corporation pays only 10 mills tax the Northfield News picked out the assessment districts which had the lowest rate of any districts in the county, thereby getting a rate of 9.18 mills. Those that The Herald has quoted above, on the contrary, are not the highest in the county, but are taken from representative mining sections of the county, giving a rate of 37.3 mills. Neither average is correct, however. The only correct figures are those of the average of the county, which is 18.37 mills.

So much for the assessment of "the steel trust." In addition the Northfield News asserts that "the farmer pays 25 mills." If The Herald were to employ the methods used by the News in determining what the farmer pays it would select six counties, picking out those in which the tax rate is the lowest and we should have this result: Dodge, 19.55 mills; Mahnomen, 13.58; Murray, 18.65; Nicollet, 18.94; Sibley, 19.16; Steele, 18.91. Average, 18.13. Which is almost as near to 10 mills as it is to 25 mills. Would such a selection of figures represent the rate paid by the farmers of the state? Certainly not. Yet this is the method that the Northfield News uses to prove its contentions.

The average rate in St. Louis county is 18.37 mills, which is pretty close to what the Steel corporation has to pay on its holdings. The average rate in the state is 25.9 mills, which is considerably higher than the farmer has to pay.

ELECTION REFORM JUST BEGUN.

When the legislature of Minnesota assembled for its thirty-sixth session early in January of this year, it was quickly discovered that there existed among its members a marked discontent with the operation of the primary election law, a pronounced desire to secure its modification, a certain knowledge that upon no other proposition are the people of the state so determined as that there shall be progress in election reform, not retrogression, and a vast uncertainty as to what it is best to do.

The primary election laws of most Western states are in the main much alike; they succeed, in that they give to the people a larger and surer voice in the choice of their representatives and in that they have encouraged independence in political thought; they are at fault, in that they largely defeat the legitimate purposes of party government and in that they cause the expenditure of vast sums in elections. The faults of the primary election law have been observed from its first operation but the means of remedying them have not yet been suggested. Not knowing how to better the law, we have borne with its shortcomings for the sake of its greater blessings.

The proposal for primary legislation now before the legislature of New York state and advocated by Governor Hughes is a very different experiment in primary reform from that of our own in Minnesota and that in force in most other states of the Middle West. The New York plan provides for a combination of the convention and primary systems of nominating public officials. All nominations are to be made by party committees chosen by the people. These nominations must be ratified by a primary such as we know in the West. If the nominations are not satisfactory, others may be provided for by petition. The plan, it is expected, will work a remedy for the weaknesses of the law as we have found them in the West. While independence of political thought is encouraged, party lines for party purposes are preserved inviolate. While the choice of the candidate rests with the people, the lavish use of money to influence choice is largely prevented. At least, it is hoped that such will be the effects of the law. The passage of the bill is somewhat doubtful, but the country at large will be greatly benefited if it has the opportunity to study the operation of such a measure in actual use.

The cry for the repeal of the primary law in Minnesota comes from those who see its weaknesses as well as from the politician who prefers the old system of conventions. It is certain, however, that we shall never go back to the old system. Election reform has come to stay; in fact it has but just begun, and the present laws in Minnesota and other Western states are certain to be extended and modified so as to give the people still larger powers in the selection of their representatives without the evils which are now so manifest in the law. There is a strong demand for the extension of the primary election law to state officials in this state; if it were not for the admitted defects of the present law, such extension would now be accomplished. Many who thoroughly believe in the primary principle, hesitate to extend it further until it has been perfected.

MASTERY OF THE AIR.

The German government last year spent $1,000,000 on aerial navigation.

A few days ago Count Zeppelin drove an airship carrying seventy-five persons a distance of 175 miles in five hours in the midst of a severe aerial storm.

The navigation of the air is far from being a success as yet. But how far? The two facts here stated ought to convince us that practical navigation of the air cannot be so very far in the future. The remarkable success of the Wright brothers with their aeroplanes is further strong evidence that we are on the eve of finally mastering the air.

The mastery of the air will do more to upset and reorganize civilization than any other invention of man. Complete mastery of the air will completely revolutionize the science of war. The mind of man has for years speculated as to the changes that will take place when at last we are able to navigate the air as we are now able to navigate the sea and travel the land. Minnesota's own Ignatius Donnelly has given us that wonderfully fascinating story of "Caesar's Column" in which the destruction of civilization is pictured by means of a fleet of airships dropping bombs and deadly gases upon all the great cities of the world. The magazines and the papers have for years been full of fanciful stories of boats flying through space more freely than ships now sail the seas. Now the time approaches when what was once merely fanciful threatens to become practical. What will be the result? The possibilities of aerial navigation are so tremendous that the mind of man can hardly imagine what the result will be. Certain it is that we can now no more than imagine a few of the things that will take place when we can sail the air; of the essential changes that it will work in life we cannot even guess. War, which is now hell, will become a thousand hells—or hold, will it not become impossible? If we go to war with airships will we not blot each other out? And peace? If navigation by water is so much cheaper than transportation by rail, what will freighting by air become? Our Panama canal may become useless before it is completed—but there is no end to such speculations.

But to return to our beginning. Germany is spending $1,000,000 a year to learn how to navigate the air, France is spending $250,000, England $100,000, but what the United States is spending is not worth mentioning. We are spending, however, vast sums for our navy and army, all of which will be almost completely thrown away if some other nation suddenly perfects a method of successfully navigating the air. If we ought to spend hundreds of millions in building and equipping battleships, we certainly need to spend large amounts in investigating airships. Else all our power, all our prosperity, all our wealth, all our life is liable to be at the mercy of some other nation almost any day.

When an airship can carry seventy-five people, remain in the air and navigate successfully for hours in the teeth of a severe storm and land successfully, it is as certain evidence as we can have, outside of the actual fact, that the sailing of the air will one day be done successfully. We cannot afford to wait for some one else to achieve the fact; it must be our business to achieve it first.

Roosevelt will never be able to think of it as anything but sunny Italy.

Two women in an automobile in New York ran down a boy yesterday severely injuring him. The chauffeur was arrested and immediately released on bail. He will be given a small fine. The women, who were responsible, should be sent to jail. That would put a stop of motor car murder in short order.

The public ownership party elects a mayor at Brainerd—the most notable success of the party in Minnesota thus far. The result may have its significance of the trend of thought in so large a town, but it is of no immediate practical value to the public ownership cause as the party is not able to control the council.

Municipal ownership, long tried and something wanting thus far in its practical operation, is far from being condemned and is constantly gaining new advocates. After a very active campaign, the city of Fargo decided Tuesday by an overwhelming vote for the municipal ownership of its water and lighting plants, and one more experiment in municipal ownership will soon be under way. If municipalities, in establishing such ownership, would at the same time establish a system of accounting, which would show as certainly as a private undertaking would, the year's actual loss or actual gain, we should soon be able to arrive at a just conclusion as to the benefits of municipal ownership. The fact that the undertaking is a public one, backed by the public purse, and not dependent solely upon its individual credit, makes most figures in regard to public business undertakings unreliable.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Yesterday forenoon the Duluth hotels swarmed with citizens from the range. Most of these citizens, too, had a most determined look upon their faces. If one was inclined to be imaginative, one could almost conjure up a modern descent upon a despotic parliament. Remember when grim old Oliver Cromwell upset that parliament? Yesterday, in beholding these men from the North country, all girded for verbal battle and debate at least, one recalled the days where men were sometimes inclined to set right wrongs by might.

If the members of the executive committee of the Duluth Commercial club had selected a representative gathering from the range country, they could not have gathered together a more representative lot of men than assembled in Duluth yesterday, ready to respond to the call to defend their rights.

Robert Stratton, city attorney of Hibbing, and one of the men who has invariably taken a lead in movements for the advancement of Northeastern Minnesota, was one of the delegates from Hibbing who was at the Spalding yesterday.

"It is simply a case where we are fighting for our rights," he said. "The passage of the tonnage tax means that the business of the iron country will be paralyzed. It is more than a case of protecting our interests; for some of the people up there it will be a case of protecting their homes."

Patrick E. Dowling of Eveleth, the strenuous editor of the Eveleth Star, was an Eveleth delegate who was at the Spalding.

Mr. Dowling is the kind of a man who can put what he has to say in a very unmistakable manner. He left no doubt as to his opinion of the bill.

John Dwan of Two Harbors, who has a keen knowledge of the needs of this part of the state, was at the St. Louis. The people of Two Harbors will be hit especially hard should the Bjorge tonnage tax bill become a law. A great deal of the prosperity of that town depends upon the ore traffic. If the Bjorge measure becomes a law, many of the people of that city are of the opinion that the ore traffic will be greatly reduced. Mr. Dwan gladly volunteered his services, stating that it was the duty of every citizen who could make the trip to do so. With Mr. Dwan was Judge David H. Lawrence. Judge Lawrence began a campaign for the legislature last fall upon a platform which pledged him to attempt in every possible way to defeat any tonnage tax legislation. He withdrew from the legislative race, but now, in the role of a private citizen, is lending his influence to defeat the measure.

F. C. Myers, the banker and public-spirited citizen of Biwabik, was at the St. Louis. Mr. Myers has already appeared before the state legislature this winter in the interest of measures that affected the interests of towns in the northern part of the state. Yesterday he stated that the tonnage tax measure was the most vital issue that the northern part of St. Louis county has ever faced, and that the people of Biwabik, with the citizens of the other towns of the county, deeply realize what the passage of the measure would mean. Mr. Myers stated that the Bjorge measure would injure Biwabik equally with other towns of the range country, and therefore he, as one who had a public as well as a private duty to perform, was adding his protest to those of other citizens of Duluth and the range country.

C. R. Woods, the Chisholm attorney, who represents the public spirit of that town, was at the St. Louis yesterday morning. As an attorney, and as a man who has watched the growth and development of the range country for a number of years, and further, as a man who has thoroughly studied the possibilities of the Bjorge tax measure, Mr. Woods was in a very good position to understand and estimate the injury that the passage of the bill would mean.

Mr. Woods stated that the passage of the measure would mean that the business of the iron region would be materially reduced; that not only would the iron business be affected, but also every other industry of the range.

There wasn't a man in the range delegation who hadn't a decided opinion upon what injury would be worked to the range district by the passage of the measure. Men do not leave their business and travel to the state capitol unless they are deeply and vitally interested in some measure—especially when they pay their own fares.

The delegation yesterday was a representative one. Never have the Duluth hotels housed so many representative range men at one time, and some one of the delegation remarked yesterday: "When the political history of this state is written, they wont overlook the fact that Northeastern Minnesota made herself thoroughly understood on a certain measure that came up in the year of 1909."

Northeastern Minnesota will at least be accorded the distinction of being a game fighter.

THE WEATHER.

Snow came again last night, and Duluth shivered under a mild and very untimely blizzard. It cleared somewhat this morning, but the weather man looks for partly cloudy weather again tonight. The sun rose this morning at 5:33 and will set this afternoon at 6:46, making thirteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The severe storm central Wednesday morning over the upper lake region has moved its center to the lower St. Lawrence valley. During the past twenty-four hours it caused heavy rains in the gulf states and light rain or snow and westerly gales in the lake region. A rise in pressure from the Rocky mountains eastward to the Atlantic coast is attended by colder weather generally. The barometer is highest over Colorado. Pressures are falling and the temperature is rising in Montana and Alberta. Generally fair and somewhat milder weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes Friday, preceded tonight by freezing temperatures."

City Built by Advertising.

Van Norden Magazine: Do you believe in advertising? Los Angeles does. Little more than a generation ago Los Angeles was a Mexican pueblo of 10,000 souls and a few flea-bitten dogs. Today it is an up-to-date city, with nearly 300,000 people; progressive, busy, educated people, who enjoy as much culture as the Eastern cities that boast of more.

The commercial organizations of this Western metropolis have spent in the last ten years (directly) nearly $400,000 in telling what a fine place to live in Los Angeles is. Newspapers, magazines, train time-tables, street cars, handbills, posters, billboards, everywhere has been blazoned forth the virtues of Los Angeles. Persons who have never been within 3,000 miles of the city speak of it familiarly as a paradise on earth. And has this advertising paid? Ask a man from Los Angeles.

It has been the same with Los Angeles, though, as with any marketable product. You must believe in your wares. Now the Southern Californian believes in Los Angeles as he believes in his appetite. To him there's no earth like it; what's more, he tells people so. He tells them in such a way that they tell others. The answer; one of the finest cities in the Union.

Exceeding the Limit of "Regularity."

Kansas City Star: The Minnesota legislature has under consideration an enabling act to give the cities of that state the right to adopt the commission form of government. The reports from St. Paul indicate that the "regulars" among the politicians are opposing the measure because they see in it the abolition of the spoils system in city government.

It is quite certain that the man who can never get beyond party politics would oppose a measure that gives to the people the power to control their own municipal governments. The "regular" in politics always resents any suggestion that increases the influence of the individual voter and weakens in proportion the dominion of the "organization" in municipal rule.

But the Minnesota politicians are exceeding the limit of "regularity" in opposing this modern, sane movement for good government. Even the late Kansas legislature adopted a thoroughly up-to-date commission government measure without serious opposition, and Heaven knows that legislature was "regular" enough to satisfy the most exacting demands of the extreme advocates of "machine" rule.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Coleraine Optic: The visit to the Canisteo district yesterday by the state senators ought to open their eyes somewhat and enable them to vote intelligently on the tonnage tax question next week, when the notorious Bjorge bill comes up for passage in the senate.

Mille Lacs Pioneer: It is rumored here today that M. L. Cormany of the Princeton News and R. C. Dunn of the Princeton Union have buried the hatchet politically and in a business way, and will shortly merge the two papers, the News and Union, into one strong paper under the name Princeton News-Union. According to the rumor, Mr. Dunn will do the local and general news writing, while Mr. Cormany will do the political writing and dictate the policy of the paper in that respect. Thomas Prowse, the brainy editor of the Union, will, it is said, enter the editorial staff of one of the large St. Paul dailies. We have been unable to discover the original source of this report, further than that a man from Princeton brought the news here. The last man seen here from Princeton was Guy Ewing. If he is the author, the report may possibly be true, but we in no way vouch for its truth.

Mankato Free Press: The Little Falls Daily Transcript is 17 years old, and comments on the turning of another milestone in the issue of Saturday. The Transcript is a lively little daily and well patronized.

Winona Republican Herald: The two big railroad men, Harriman and Hill, both see a silver lining back of the present clouds in the business world. Both say that with tariff agitation out of the way, things will pick up. As a matter of fact there is every indication of a return of "good times" as soon as the tariff question is settled, and our Washington dispatches indicate that this will not be long deferred.

Moorhead News: While at Washington the other day James J. Hill told "the boys" from Minnesota that unless they voted for free lumber there would be seven Populist congressmen from Minnesota next year. This is the kind of an argument that usually carries weight with Republican congressmen, especially when the man who says so knows what he is talking about.

Little Falls Transcript: It looks as if the farmers of Morrison county who want prison-made binding twine and have not yet ordered their supply had better begin to wake up to the situation. The prison officials report orders already received for 12,500,000 pounds, while the full output for this year is not expected to exceed 16,000,000 pounds.

St. Cloud Times: Roscoe B. Higbee of St. Paul, enthusiastic director of the late lamented Hearst Independence league in the last Minnesota political campaign, has quit the Hearst party. Emphatically, he is done with Hearst and all his works and workers.

Influence of National Anthem.

London Evening Standard: "After the siege of the Pekin legations a dozen Russian soldiers, bent on loot and outrage, raided the house in which one of my band boys lived with his mother and sister," Sir Robert Hart said at a dinner at the Authors' club. "The boy snatched his violin and played the Russian national anthem and the looters stood to attention. Then they left the house without molesting any one."

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Philadelphia Ledger: "How are things in your line?"

"Well," replied the Fool Killer, "for a while after the close of boating, business was a little slow, but the hunting season helped out some, and there's a lot of delightfully thin ice to skate on now."

Philadelphia Enquirer: Beginner (wrathfully)—Look here, I'm tired of your laughing at my game. If I hear any more impudence from you, I'll crack you over the head.

Caddie—All right, but I'll bet yer don't know what's the right club to do it with.

Chicago Record-Herald: "What is your daughter doing now, Mrs. Dagney?"

"She's workin' downtown in an office."

"I suppose she must get pretty good wages."

"Yes, but it's awfully hard work. When she come home last night she was all wore out, havin' copied more than 300 letters on a heliotrope."

Philadelphia Record: The Bachelor—Marriage is a game of chance.

The Married Man—And you have conscientious scruples against gambling?

The Bachelor—Not exactly, but I have against drawing a booby prize.

Washington Star: "I see you have my pamphlet on your desk," said the economist. "What do you think of it"?

"It's betwixt and between," replied the heartless friend. "It's too light for an argument and not heavy enough for a paper weight."

Plenty Safe.

The Argonaut: Dr. Whipple, long bishop of Minnesota, was about to hold religious services at an Indian village in one of the Western states, and before going to the place of meeting, asked the chief, who was his host, whether it was safe for him to leave his effects in the lodge. "Plenty safe," grunted the man. "No white man in a hundred miles from here."

SUFFRAGE SCORES ONE

Opponents of the Franchise for Women, Get Theirs.

Question Club Members Get Beyond Depth and Sink.

The members of the Political equality club enticed the Question club members out of their depth last evening, in the city council chambers and drowned them under a flood of arguments on the question of suffrage for women.

When the storm cleared away, the Question club members were left drifting about on the troubled sea of thought clinging hopelessly to the wrecks of exploded arguments, riddled logic and shattered platitudes, and drenched by the waves of adjectives and infinitives with which the suffragists relentlessly swept them.

It was like taking a sugar stick from the fat, chubby hand of a 2-year-old infant. The members of the Question club didn't have their hearts in their work. In the first place, the Question club members are Socialists first, last and all the time, and don't worry much about other problems. In the second place, most of them believe in suffrage for women, anyway and were in no position to argue against it. In the third place, any of them who didn't believe in women's suffrage are too gallant to say so to the members of the Political Equality club.

The subject was: "Resolved, That equal franchise for women is just and expedient."

Dr. Mary McCoy, president of the first named club, led in the arguments for the affirmative, and C. G. Early, president of the Question club, led those talking on the negative side of the question. Some interesting talks were presented, and the affirmative had figures to prove some of their contentions.

Dr. McCoy declared that if women were given the right of franchise, the country would be better governed, the lives and welfare of men, women and children would be better protected, for they would insist upon laws that would provide every possible means for the health and safety of people generally.

The speaker said that women, if allowed to vote, would take a very active interest in civic affairs, and that the country would have better government in nation, state and city, and happier and more contented homes.

On Wrong Track.

President Early, in speaking for the negative, expressed the belief that women, in their desire for the ballot, were on the "wrong track." He said he did not believe the women of the country, as a whole cared anything about the right to vote, and said a woman would rather have a new Easter hat than all the voting rights that ever could be accorded her. He declared women would vote largely as directed by their husbands, anyway; that woman's place was in the home; and that politics is too rotten for any woman to think of engaging in.

Charles McCoy, son of Dr. McCoy, gave a long array of statistics in proof of contentions of the affirmative. To the statement that women had repudiated the right of franchise in Massachusetts, the speaker, by figures, showed that the statement was erroneous.

S. F. Fider pulled out the old argument about woman's sphere being the home, dusted it off, and served it up in the best language he could muster. It was a game effort to stem the tide, but it failed, and Dr. McCoy in summing up, riddled it and the other arguments against women's suffrage. The judges were unanimous in their verdict for the affirmative, and when a vote was taken by the audience it proved to be just as overwhelmingly in favor of the suffragists.

the same salary, besides the necessary office force. The state is to be divided into eight districts, and one examiner is to be assigned to each district. The object of the bill, of course, is to provide for better inspection of the state banks. All banks are to pay one-fortieth of 1 per cent of their assets as an examination fee twice a year, and building and loan associations are to pay $10 twice a year. There are to be at least two examinations of all banks yearly. The bill was passed, 92 to 20.

Next in importance was another bill by Senator Thorpe, providing that when state banks fail, the state superintendent of banking is to take them in charge for liquidation, just as the government takes charge of national banks under similar circumstances. This will do away with expensive receiverships and it is figured that it will reduce the cost of administering the affairs of insolvent banks very materially. The bill is copied after the New York law, which is said to have worked well. This measure has passed both houses and now goes to the governor for his signature.

The house also passed a bill by Senator Weis, permitting state banks to have savings departments, such as the national banks are now allowed to establish.

A bill by Representative Putnam, providing that banks receiving state county or city money on deposit may furnish approved public bonds as security in lieu of furnishing surety bonds, was also passed by the house.

So was a bill by Representative George W. Buck of Duluth, requiring that state banks in cities of more than 50,000 inhabitants must have a capital of at least $50,000.

The house yesterday afternoon refused to entertain a motion by Representative Lennon to reconsider the vote by which it had killed the Kneeland bill providing an optional system of collecting assessments for local improvements. One admitted defect in the bill was its requirement that before deeds could be recorded, they must have the city treasurer's certificate that no assessments were due.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the Spooner house bill accepting from the government as an agricultural school the Indian school at Morris. The gift includes buildings worth nearly $100,000 and several hundred acres of valuable agricultural land. The vote was 37 to 14.

The defunct state board of equalization didn't muster very many friends in the house yesterday afternoon when the Thayer bill reinstating it as a sort of adjunct to the tax commission came up. The vote was 14 for 62 against. This result was not unexpected. When the tax commission was created, the same law abolished the state board of equalization, because the tax commission took over all of its functions besides a good many new ones.

The town and village clerks of the state achieved as great a victory in the house yesterday afternoon in the defeat of the Nimocks-Swendsen bill, providing that chattel mortgages should be filed with the register of deeds, instead of with local clerks, as the town and village assessors did in the defeat of the county assessor bill. It was argued that it is a nuisance to have to travel all over a county looking up records, that many clerks do not keep their records in safe places, and that all these troubles could be overcome by having chattel mortgages filed at the county seat; but the town and village clerks had put up a hard fight against the bill, and the house killed it, 37 for 52 against.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the Kneeland-Stuart inheritance tax bill, which has been described in these columns, by a vote of 78 to 16. An amendment by Representative Buck of Duluth, providing that bequests to charitable institutions shall be exempt, was adopted before the bill passed, though the house had rejected it on a previous occasion. The bill provides a system of inheritance taxes graduated, according to the degree of kinship, and also according to the amount of the inheritance.

The house yesterday afternoon voted to adjourn over Friday and Saturday, Friday being a legal holiday this year.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the bill by Senators Sullivan and Durment, proposing a constitutional amendment providing that the legislature may increase the membership of the supreme court to nine members if it sees fit. At present it has five members.

The bill by Senator Works, allowing home rule charter cities to adopt the commission plan of municipal government, repassed the senate yesterday with the house amendments, without a vote in opposition. The bill now goes to the governor, who will sign it.

The senate committee on taxes and tax laws will have a hearing Monday night on the Wells house bill taxing water powers for state purposes at 25 cents per used horse power.

The senate committee on agriculture has recommended for passage the house bill appropriating $15,000 as a revolving fund to be used in buying dynamite to be sold at cost to settlers for use in clearing the stumps from cut-over lands.

GIRL SENT BACK HOME

Mary Kongestat Is Deported on Account of Insanity.

Reason Leaves Her After Less Than a Year in America.

After nearly two months in the county jail, during which time her demented mind gave itself over to the enjoyment of song in many languages, Mary Kongestat was yesterday started on the long journey to her old home in Austria.

The girl is 23 years old and has been in this country less than a year. She came across the ocean alone and has no relatives in this country. Arriving at Hibbing, she secured employment as a domestic and when she began to show signs of insanity, her employer turned her over to the authorities.

The immigration officials had considerable difficulty in finding the girl's home in Austria. On account of her condition, she would give them no information, and the search for enough of her past history to discover the town to which she might be deported, was a tedious one.

Yesterday the girl realized for the first time that she was to be sent to her old home. She seemed to enjoy the prospect, and she left the jail with a smile on her face and a light-hearted good-bye to the jailers. There is a possibility that with good treatment her reason may be restored in the familiar surroundings of her own country.

NO DAMAGES FOR INJURY

Jury Says Legless Boy Cannot Recover From Railroad Company.

Personal Injury Suit for $50,000 Decided in Defendant's Favor.

The sealed verdict returned last evening by the jury in the case of William M. Hillman, by his father, Matt Hillman, against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railroad company, was opened in district court this morning. The jury decided that the boy should recover nothing for his injuries.

The trial, which began last week, was an interesting one. The boy, who was run down by a switch engine of the company at the crossing of Cummings avenue in Superior, Dec. 22, last year, sued for $50,000. As a result of the accident, both of his legs were amputated five inches below the knees. The boy was in court during the trial, making his way around with the aid of artificial legs and a pair of crutches.

The stories of the opposing witnesses were almost directly contradictory. The boy said that he was walking on Summings avenue, going on an errand for his father. A freight train was passing the crossing, on one of the four tracks, and the boy said he walked out toward it and waited for it to pass. He said he didn't know he was standing on the other track, as he was enveloped in smoke from the passing train. Without warning of any kind, he said, the switch engine backed down on him.

The witnesses for the company said that there was no smoke, and the boy's view was unobstructed on both sides for a long distance. They said that he ran across the crossing, diagonally, stepping in front of the moving engine when he was struck.

The company was charged with negligence in not maintaining gates or having a flagman stationed at the crossing; in not giving warning on the approach of the engine to the crossing, and in running the engine at an illegal rate of speed over the crossing.

FELINES LOSE THEIR NURSE

Mrs. Louisa M. Wright Committed to State Insane Asylum.

Mrs. Lousia M. Wright, wife of Andrew Wright, of 827 East Fifth street, was yesterday afternoon adjudged insane in probate court and committed to the detention hospital, at St. Luke's, from where she will be taken to the state insane asylum at Fergus Falls.

Mrs. Wright's demented condition gave expression in a mania for caring for homeless cats. For years, in the attic of her home, she has maintained a cat hospital in which every variety of stray and forlorn feline was cared for tenderly by the woman.

At one time, there were as many as seventeen cats in the unique hospital. Yesterday there were nine, and in court Mrs. Wright expressed the fear that they would not be cared for when she was sent away. Her husband told a pathetic story of his wife's whims, which he was compelled to bear. Recently, one of the cats died, and the husband was pressed into service to assist at the funeral. The cat's body was placed in a box and buried in the back yard of the Wright home, by the woman.

Mrs. Wright was able to give but little information to the examiners yesterday. She didn't remember her age, and said that she had been ill most of her life. There are no children.

The person who has once experienced the pleasure of a cup of delicious "Salada" Tea is not easily persuaded to accept a substitute.

KEEP PLANS SECRET.

Wade Ellis' Indiscreet Interviews Result in Sweeping Order.

Washington, April 8.—The new order of Attorney General Wickersham, made for publication and directing that all information designated for the press go out through his office, has been issued owing to the indiscretion of Wade Ellis, who has succeeded M. D. Purdy of Minneapolis as assistant to the attorney general. Ellis went to Chicago recently to take up some prosecutions pending there, and went into the newspapers to the extent of columns, completely outlining the government's side of this case and in a general way giving the opposition full knowledge of federal plans. Wickersham was very angry when he heard about the Ellis interviews and talked the matter over with Taft, who was also angry. The result was the order, which bottles the department us as tight as wax on news matters.

WRECKS DELAY BOTH TRAINS

Both Special and Regular Are Late in Arriving.

Both the special that carried the delegates from the range and Duluth back from the senate committee hearing at St. Paul last night, and the regular train of the Northern Pacific, were late in reaching Duluth this morning.

The regular didn't reach Duluth until 9:30, coming over the tracks of the Great Northern. A broken wheel upon a freight train, ahead of the passenger, caused the train to back and switch over to the tracks of the Great Northern.

The special was held in St. Paul until after midnight to allow the delegates to catch it. When the time for leaving arrived, a wreck in the yards delayed the special until after 1 o'clock this morning.

Even with this delay at St. Paul, the special reached Duluth ahead of the regular.

POOR OLD NOAH WEBSTER OVERLOOKED SOME BETS

Poor old Noah Webster must turn over in his grave, thinking of all the bets he overlooked in making up his dictionary. The richest field left untouched by the great bookmaker, is the language used by the police to designate the different degrees of intoxication.

Yesterday a "jack" was brought into the depot.

"Drunk?" asked the sergeant.

"Just an edge," said the officer.

"Looks to me like a gentle slant," said the desk sergeant as he eyed the prisoner critically.

"No. Only an edge," said the officer.

These it seems are the first two degrees of intoxication. The first step is to "Get an edge," and the next "a gentle slant."

By diligent investigation it was found that the third step is being "keyed up." This is the stage where the world looks rosy, the knees become a little uncertain, and it seems a long distance to the ground.

Following the condition of being "keyed up" comes the stage of being "pickled." When a man is "pickled" the English language presents amazing difficulties to his tongue, and objects come in pairs.

Here comes the dividing line between being "decently drunk" and that stage where the victim's senses leave him entirely. There are many degrees of this latter condition. The first degree, just over the border line of being "pickled," is the condition of being "loaded." A man with a "load" is in no condition for polite society, or any other kind of society. When the "loaded" stage is passed, the next step is being "soused," and then comes the last and final stage of being "paralyzed." The less said about these last two stages the better.

Of course there are many other terms heard in the police lexicon, but they are synonymous with those given above. Such expressions as "half shot," "jagged," "half seas under," are often heard, but the above list fully describes the different stages as seen by the police.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The young woman met the old family friend on the street corner. She hadn't seen her for a long time and had forgotten some of her characteristics. She had forgotten that the old family friend was a "leetle hard of hearing." And so instead of smiling brightly and passing on, the young woman halted on the corner to exchange greetings and salutations.

"It's nice weather for April," was the way she opened conversation.

"What?" asked the family friend who is a dear old lady.

"I said," said the young woman, "that it's fine weather for April, isn't it?"

"I didn't quite get that, dear," said the old lady.

The young woman raised her voice somewhat. "It's a nice day," she chirped in a nice cheerful tone. "For April," she added to herself, being rather fond of the subtle sarcasm in her first remark. A gust as of January wind swept past and almost blew the little old lady off her feet. The passers by looked at the young woman in wonder standing on the corner insisting in a loud tone that it was a nice day.

"I don't hear very well, dear," said the old family friend in an apologetic voice and she looked up brightly with her hand behind her ear.

The young woman went bravely at it again. Her face was warmly pink, very pink, in fact almost red. Her voice rose on the stinging blast clear and shrill. "I said" she said, "That is was a nice day," and she tried to be utterly unconscious of the looks of the interested people standing on the corner, who were obviously and frankly interested in the conversation.

"It's no use," said the old lady and she drew the shiny black silk bag from her arm and drew out a long rubber trumpet. She applied one end to her ear and offered the other to the young woman. The latter was plainly embarrassed. She put the contrivance to her lips and opened her mouth but no sound came. She tried once more and weakly said, "It's a nice day."

"Humph!" said the old lady. "What are you thinking of, I'd like to know? Zero and snow and wind in April. How's your mother?" she asked as she put the trumpet back in the bag.

"Oh, she's very well," said the young woman.

"Not very well?" said the old lady. "What's the matter with her?"

"I said she was well," yelled the young woman. "She's not sick," she added.

"Sciatica?" questioned the old lady. "That's too bad. I must try to get around to see her."

"She is well," shouted the young woman.

"Don't yell so," said the old family friend. "It usually does swell in sciatica, doesn't it?"

"I don't know," said the young woman.

"I thought it did," said the old lady. "What doctor is your mother going to?"

"No doctor," shouted the young woman. "She isn't sick," she said, leaning forward and making great efforts to speak clearly, forcefully and distinctly. "She isn't sick," she added.

"I hope she hasn't taken up Christian Science," said the old lady; "I don't believe in it."

"She isn't sick," shouted the young woman earnestly.

"That's what they all say, said the old lady, with prim lips showing grim disapproval. "You tell her to sprinkle a little red pepper in her boots. It's the best thing for rheumatism you ever knew and it'll help sciatica, too, I'm sure. Don't you forget, Sally. You always were a forgetful child."

"I won't forget," yelled Sally, and a passing young man sent mute testimony of his gratitude to her for not forgetting.

"Maybe you won't," said the old lady, "but you used to fast enough. Tell your mother I'm coming in to see her soon," she said.

"Mother's in Florida," the young woman announced to the passing populace.

"I can't tell yet what day," said the old lady. "Some day next week, maybe. But tell her about that red pepper," she said. "And stop that car, Sally. Stop it, I say. Don't let them leave me. I want to take that car. Do hurry."

"I'll hurry, all right," said Sally to herself. "It can't stop any too soon to suit me," and she bundled the dear old family friend on the car and went and bought herself a chocolate nut Sunday as a bracer.

APPLE TREES.

Duluth School Children to Plant 1,500.

Duluth, in a few years' time, will be a fragrant flowering apple tree garden, if the efforts of the school children count for anything. Last year the Duluth children purchased and planted 1,100 trees, and this year they are ordering 1,500. It takes little imagination to realize the beauty of this vicinity as soon as Nature can coax those little apple trees to do their duty.

Mrs. J. H. Crowley, chairman of the department of home and education of the Twentieth Century club, is back of the movement to secure for the children who desire them hardy young trees at a very reasonable cost. The planting and culture of trees seems to appeal with especial force to the children, and they have ordered 1,500 this year. The orders will be sent to the nurseries this week and the trees will be planted on or about Arbor Day.

COLLEGE WOMEN

Continue to Be Interesting Subjects of Study.

Teaching is the cultured occupation which the most conservative girl may enter with self-respect, and two-thirds of the girls in college are preparing to teach. Except in the few universities which offer pedagogy, the college of liberal arts is the only preparation they can find. As soon as more professions open to women, and universities prepare for them, this congestion in the teaching profession and the college of liberal arts will cease, writes Madge C. Jenison in the April Delineator in an article on the American college girl.

Simmons college, now six years old, is already making an attempt to offer such preparation. It confers a B. A. for a private secretary's course, and for training in domestic science. Domestic science is the great immediate outlet for women. Many universities are developing courses in this ancient occupation now proposed for scientific training. Domestic science is in some such experimental stage as agriculture was twenty-five years ago. It was thought at first that teaching the profession of agriculture was not suitable for university work. Engineering was another branch that had to meet and overcome the same prejudice. Nobody now denies the dignity of such courses. As they have gained standing, men have come to the universities better prepared for them, the standard of work has advanced, and they have interested men of a better type. When university work in domestic science becomes efficient and leads to well-paid and dignified positions in the management of hotels and great institutions, thousands of women will enter this vocation who now look only to that of teaching.

The comparative work of men and women is a question going deeper and spreading wider. Some deans and professors are amused, and some are argumentative about it. Some tell you not to trust any statements that are not verified by figures, and some tell you that they are the only persons in the country that know about the matter. The situation is rather comic. The original argument against "the female mind" was that it could not cope with the college curriculum. Now they seem to think that the college curriculum can not cope with the female mind. We have it suggested in all seriousness, as the dean of women at Chicago notices with demure acidity, in a recent report, that women should be required to take more work, to offset the extra drain, executive, journalistic and athletic, which comes upon men. A good many reams of nice paper and hours of after-dinner talk are spent trying to account for a thing so unexpected as this pre-eminence of women in scholarship. "They are less distracted by outside demands of every kind than are men," a professor of English tells you. "If they are on the Maroon it is an honorary position," he says as he gets up to pace up and down and kick the fire into a blaze. "They do not have to stay up all night to get the edition out on time." Presidents' reports discuss comparative ages; they say that the women in coeducation are still picked women; they talk about physical reserve. There is a general skirmishing about for reasons. It is pleasant to sit and look for a while at this engaging aspect of affairs.

UNMARRIED PEOPLE

At Middle Age Apt to Be Lonely.

The bachelor is less at a loss when seeking to establish himself in a city boarding house than the spinster, says Margaret E. Sangster in the April Woman's Home Companion. Men are simpler beings than women. One hardly knows how to explain it, but the woman's mind has its labyrinthin turnings and windings in certain directions, where the man's drives straight to the point. On the other hand, the account is balanced by the fact that there are times when a woman is wonderfully direct and flies to her goal with the swiftness and precision of an arrow shot from the bow. At the same moment her husband and brother, lacking her intuition, go blundering around as if lost in a fog.

The solitary individual who has formed no family ties sometimes reaches a place of loneliness in the years beyond the meridian. He or she may still be in the enjoyment if excellent health and in possession of a comfortable income, but the friends of earlier days are absorbed in their homes and children, and the intimate associates of youth are scattered to the ends of the earth. Death makes breaks in the once solid ranks. A gathering of college men or women at an annual dinner twenty years after graduation begins to have its shadows of sadness. People who tread divergent paths cease to have common objects of interest. About this time it may occur to the bachelor uncle, growing stout and bald, and regarded by the people who know him as fixed for life in single blessedness, that he would improve his situation should he marry. It may be his good fortune unexpectedly to meet an old sweetheart who has, like himself, remained single. He will not be so conceited as to suppose this decision of the charming woman to have had anything to do with his earlier silence, but if he pays court to her he may discover that the woman, too, is longing for the sweet security of a home of her own. For some reason home is never as fully itself as the abode of a bachelor or spinster as when it is shared by wife and husband. The yearning for close ties is very insistent in the later season of middle life. Although the young people who are getting ready to marry in their twenties are disposed to doubt the fact, there are few happier marriages than those made in life's Indian summer. Occasionally bachelor uncle and spinster and aunt alike are called upon, when marriage comes to them late, to exercise the functions of stepfather and stepmother. It is noteworthy here that the stepfather is seldom other than happy in this role, while it bristles with difficulties for the stepmother.

LADIES HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS

Fit Better Because They Are Drafted—Not Graded!

ALL other patterns are graded—by that we mean that one master pattern is cut in medium size—and other patterns are cut from it by extending or reducing the lines.

Now you can see the nonsense of such a system—you know that a size 40 figure has not the same lines as a size 36. Neither has a size 32! Proportions vary in various sizes!

But there is an "average figure" of each size! And so each size in the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns is drafted to fit perfectly the average figure of that size! Thousands of measures were taken in order that the "average figure" of each size might be accurately fitted! Now, you understand one reason why Ladies' Home Journal Patterns fit so well! There are other reasons, too! For instance, all Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are cut high under the arm!

Home Dressmakers as Well as Professionals are Invited to Meet Miss Richardson of New York

She is giving practical information and instructions on dressmaking, cutting and and fitting for the home and for the shop—at our pattern department this week! Be sure to meet her—she is a graduate of the Phelp's School—and we are grateful to the Ladies' Home Journal people for the privilege of inviting the women of Duluth to bring her their sewing problems!

The Season's Stockings.

Both silk and lisle hose are shown in the new taupe shades, a long range of bronze, tan, mustard and champagne tints, as well as shades to match all the fashionable colors in dress silks, which include wistaria, reseda, rose, catawba and all the dull soft shades that in millinery are known as tapestry colors.

While very thin plain stockings are to be the acme of smartness lace or openwork hose are shown in no end of attractive patterns. Some are made with lace ankles and the upper portion plain, but the majority seem to be of the all-over openwork variety.

Stockings to match the color of the boot, tie or slipper, will be in the best of taste, but for those who like to give a little more piquancy to their footwear the stockings of a higher grade than the shoe or costume will be selected.

In the summer season the white tie will be worn with the white hose, or stockings of more brilliant color may be chosen.

In the latter case they should correspond with the belt, parasol or other accessories of the toilet.

For instance, with a white serge suit and white canvas ties green hose, parasol, etc., are very fetching.

Children's Styles.

Children will be seen mostly in tan shoes and stockings.

They are to be more stylish this spring than plain black.

They will be particularly suitable for boys who do not wear white, usually after they are 7 or 8.

For little girls there are plaids, and very pretty ones.

There are also the light-colored stockings, for wear with colored dresses.

These look best with slippers of black patent leather or of bronze.

Pink and blue kid shoes for children are pretty of course, but they are so perishable, and hence so expensive, as to be impractical in most cases.

For boys and girls under 8, socks will be generally adopted for summer wear.

In socks, stripes of contrasting colors are more popular than the plain ones.

Spring Fashions.

Foulards are shown in an unusually long range of patterns and colors for the spring.

Even lingerie waists of the most costly sort have adopted the little soutache braid.

Metalic gold fringe is used extensively on sashes, scarfs and even on tunic draperies.

Big metal buttons, jeweled sometimes, are pronounced features of the most stunning new gowns.

The new petticoats are being made of heavy satins now in preference to the heavy taffetas.

Of metallic nets there is a wide supply.

Gray seems to be perennially popular.

Flower-trimmed straw hats will be the rage.

Ruchings are quite as much thought of as ever.

Soutache is freely used on spring gowns and coats.

Net promises to be used not only for yokes and sleeves, but for gowns and waists.

Except for the crepe weaves, which are in a great demand, there are very few rough-faced materials.

The fancy for buttoning sleeves from shoulder to wrist has so far survived a change of season.

The tunic is one of the most pronounced characteristics of the fashionable gown of the moment.

Natural colored pongee bandings, embroidered in self-tone or in natural color, are very stylish.

LYCEUM—"A Stubborn Cinderella."

"A Stubborn Cinderella."

The last performance of "A Stubborn Cinderella" will be given this evening at the Lyceum. This bright musical comedy has had a very successful run in Duluth and has been playing to large audiences. There was a matinee yesterday and the engagement will close with tonight's performance, making the fifth in Duluth.

"The Lion and the Mouse."

Charles Klein, the author of "The Lon and the Mouse" and of "The Third Degree," bespeaks for the stage, nd particularly for the playwright, a greater field for the dissemination of sentiments with regard to the timely topics of the day, wherein abuses of power are concerned, and suggesting in the plays a remedy for them. Mr. Klein says:

"It is evident that the stage has just entered upon a new era in which public opinion is bound to be moulded by reason of the production of dramas in which are shown the existence of grave defects in the carrying out of legislation. The dramatic author has seen the shadow of coming events and has been quick to realize that the public is interested in plays that are virile and true to life. No longer will supposition heroes, clad in doublet and waistcoat with clanking sword, be greeted with applause, for he carries no burning message to the theater-going public, who see around them the existence of governmental evils which are allowed to continue by reason of apathetic legislators.

"The modern play must deal with the questions of the day, and, at the same time, in order to be successful and hold the interest of the audience, suggest a proper remedy for the evils in question." "The Lion and the Mouse" will open an engagement at the Lyceum tomorrow.

"The Servant in the House."

Everyone who saw E. H. Sothern's first production of "If I Were King" will remember the acting of George W. Wilson, who played the king in that celebrated romantic comedy. One of the big scenes of the play occurred just after the duel in which Francois Villon killed the grand constable. The guard is taking the vagabond poet away to prison, when a little old man, who has been watching the wild events of the evening from a table in the corner of the inn, calls out to the captain of the watch to stay proceedings. "I have taken an interest in that young man," he says to the officer.

"And who are you?" demands the captain of the watch, "who dare to interfere with the king's justice?" The palsied old man slowly straightens up, and his trembling voice assumes a world of dignity as he replies: "My man, I am the king's justice." At the same moment a courtier who has accompanied the disguised monarch on his midnight stroll through the slums of Paris, holds his plumed hat over the head of the black-robed old man, and cries out for all to hear: "God save the king!"

It was an intensely dramatic scene, and, as played by Mr. Wilson, easily stood out as the most compelling episode in the play. Mr. Wilson will be seen here in the near future as the bishop of Lancashire in "The Servant in the House," and the critics elsewhere have agreed that his acting in his present role is the finest thing he has done since he played the king in "If I Were King."

"The Servant in the House" will come to the Lyceum theater for one week on April 12.

Baker Jumps Into Sea Because Bread Does Not Rise.

San Francisco, Cal., April 8.—"If that bread don't rise, I'll jump into the sea," M. H. Stuhme, a baker on the Mariposa, said shortly before he disappeared from the deck of the ship while she was plowing through the tropic seas from Tahita to San Francisco.

When the Mariposa arrived in port the officers reported the disappearance of Stuhme and the circumstances indicate that, exasperated because his dough would not rise, the chief baker committee suicide.

Keeping Moisture From Fire Alarm Boxes.

Fire alarm boxes, police telegraph and all other metal boxes containing mechanism of any kind, and which are exposed to the weather, are not only liable, but do collect moisture, causing the different working parts to rust. This makes the instruments unreliable, and greatly shortens their life. The fault can be easily overcome by placing heavy blotters in the boxes to take up the moisture. Without doubt, as a malt tonic or beverage, Golden Grain Belt beer cannot be surpassed. A glass at meal time aids digestion. BLOW STUMPS BY DYNAMITE

Novel Exhibition of Clearing Land Will be Given May 3.

Duluth is to have a model stump-blowing bee. It will occur May 3, on the land controlled by Bishop McGolrick, at the end of the Woodland car line. The land is part of that which will be used for the St. James' orphanage and farm.

Prof A. J. McGuire, in charge of the Grand Rapids experimental farm, will give an exhibition of blowing out stumps with dynamite. That is the latest method for clearing land. Farmers' clubs of this county will be asked to send representatives to witness the contest.

Records of the time it requires to blow out the stumps, and the cost of the powder, will be kept. These records will be used as statistics in estimating the cost of clearing lands.

In the morning of the day the stumps will be cleared, a meeting of the delegates will be held in the rooms of the Commercial club. Prof. McGuire will address the meeting.

It is expected that many Duluth people will be attracted by the novel character of the exposition. Policemen will be on hand to prevent any too venturesome citizen from getting in the way of flying stumps.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Chicago Tribune, "modest laxatives, hot foot baths, a free perspiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting it must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is almost sure to be contracted. and in many instances pneumonia follows. Is it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cures of colds and can always be depended upon? For sale by all druggists.

WHISKY TRADE'S FATE INVOLVED IN THIS SUIT

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 8.—The fate of the whisky trade is involved in a case brought by the United States government in which there was seizure of nine barrels of whisky of Corbin & Co., Cincinnati distillers. It is being tried before Judge Thompson in the United States district court. The whisky was seized on the ground of substitution of other materials for the original products after the marking and branding of the barrels had been done. The United States attorney managed to bring out in the testimony of distillers themselves that they aim to obtain a uniform product of whisky and that they get what they consider to be a commercially uniform product. The attorney for the liquor interests on cross-examination got the witness to testify that ten degrees difference of heat in the room in which barrels of whisky are stored causes a difference in the color and the quality of whisky, and that the depth of the charring on the white oak barrels also cause differences of color and the taste of whisky to be developed.

The suit is being watched by distillers throughout the country and is declared to be more important than the internal revenue department's recent whisky rulings.

The case will go to the supreme court of the United States, no matter which side wins.

What Is Whisky?

Washington, April 8.—The bitter controversy which has been in progress ever since the pure food law was enacted, as to "What is whisky?" was renewed at the White House before President Taft as referee. The debate enlisted the services of many distinguished lawyers, among them being Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, and John G. Carlisle, former secretary of the treasury. In addition there were present the representatives of practically all the big distillers of this country. Mr. Choate appeared for Canadian interests. Mr. Carlisle represented distillers of his native state, Kentucky. Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, were among the government representatives heard. The hearing continued for more than two hours. This was the second time the president had been called into the controversy.

Under the ruling of Former Attorney General Bonaparte, in consonance with an opinion by Dr. Wiley, all whisky not aged and freed from fusel oil by several years of storage in white oak barrels, which have been charred on the inside, has been made subject to labelling under the head of "Imitation" or "Compound" whisky. The distillers who purify their product by higher forms of mechanical rectification and redistillation are anxious to have this ruling reversed, declaring they are suffering damage from the system of labelling now in vogue whereas their whisky is as pure and free from deleterious ingredients as the whisky rectified in the old-fashioned way and now regarded as the only "straight" whisky on the market. Most Scotch whisky and some high grades of whisky from rye and sour mach in use in this country are classed as "Imitation" at present.

At the conclusion of the conference it was announced that the whole matter would be referred to Solicitor General Bowers of the department of justice.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: APRIL 11. Acts 12:1-19. Peter Delivered From Prison.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley.

THE CONNECTION.

In our last lesson we saw Peter preaching to Cornelius, the Gentile, baptising him, and receiving him into the Christian fellowship. On returning to Jerusalem, Peter was called to account for doing so and eating with Gentiles besides, but his simple story showed them that God had brought it about and they were both satisfied and delighted. Meantime the scattered disciples went on up to the city of Antioch in Syria and preached to Gentiles gathering them into a church. Soon a famine spread over Jerusalem and Judea and those Gentile Christians sent aid to their Jewish brethren. Several years have passed and, while the religious authorities have ceased to persecute the Christians the Roman power has begun.

THE LESSON.

I.

Why Peter was Imprisoned. 1-6.

"Now about that time Herod the king put forth his hands to afflict certain of the church. And he killed James the brother of John with the sword. And when he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to seize Peter also. And those were the days of unleavened bread. And when he had taken him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quarternions of soldiers to guard him; intending after the Passover to bring him forth to the people. Peter therefore was kept in the prison: but prayer was made earnestly of the church unto God for him. And when Herod was about to bring him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and guards before the door kept the prison."

1. Herod the Persecutor.

Herod Agrippa I., grandson of the bloody Herod the Great, murderer of the Innocents, and brother of Herodias, who caused the murder of John the Baptist, is king over territory that has been reconstructed for him by his friend, the emperor, and that included a large Jewish territory. He has a little Jewish blood in his veins, and he makes use of it. After a vagabond life, he is at last on the throne, and all his shrewdness and brilliance are used in making fair weather with the Jews. He becomes a zealous observer of the law and a vigilant enforcer of it to all who violate it. His success in achieving popularity with the Jews is phenomenal. He knows how anxious they are to exterminate the Christians, and he determines upon a policy of gratifying them. James, brother of John, falls by the sword—a civil, not religious execution. The plan is a success; he can now venture further and kill off the leaders one by one. He seizes Peter, but a seven-days' festival is on hand, and the Jews have a prejudice against putting a man to death on a sacred day. Time was the sacred thing, not life; a day must be kept inviolate, but life may be despoiled! They will save him up for seven days and then kill him. There are the two scenes—the imprisoned apostle, and the praying church. The seven days drag along, but no relaxation of the vigilance of the prison keepers. Peter has escaped once before (Acts v, 17-42), and they will see that it does not occur again. Four bands of soldiers, with four in each band, to guard him—one band at a time for six hours—two soldiers at the cell door and two at the outside door opening on the city itself, beside two guards chained to his hands, and all doors securely locked. Herod in public assumes the role of devout Jew, and praises God that his enemies are about to perish, while in private he nurses his unscrupulous ambition and laughs scorn at both Jew and Christian.

2. The First Battle.

This is the church's first onset with the civil power. Herod proposes to show them that they are not in the hands of religious authorities this time. But God is guiding this divine history. Meantime, the whole church was continuing in prayer, but in small groups, for they must be cautious in conduct as well as earnest in prayer. The festival was about passed; one night more and then Herod will inflame the passions of the mob with a bloody sight. The last night is passing and yet no answer is given to their prayers; still they pray, for that they must do, as the children of the Great Father, and that will bring some benefit from the awful calamity, even if it does not save Peter. Those that pray are allied to heaven's power and they need not fear. Peter is sleeping, even in an uncomfortable position, either hand bound to a soldier, and knowing that his death is appointed for the next day.

II.

How He Was Delivered. 7-10.

"And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by him, and a light shined in the cell; and he smote Peter on the side, and awoke him, saying, Rise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands. And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And he did so. And he said unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. And he went out, and followed; and he knew not that it was true which was done by the angel, but thought he saw a vision. And when they were past the first and the second guard, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth into the city; which opened to them of its own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and straightway the angel departed from him."

1. Prayers Answered.

The answer to their prayers came late, but it came, and came at the best time to show God's power as well as to exercise their faith into strength and endurance. The account is graphic and vivid. The angels have ever been messengers sent on God's service, and are serving us now in God's name. The deliverance was supernatural. Being so, it was leisurely, yet not slothful. By a stroke on his side the angel awakened Peter, while a light, either from his presence or a separate phenomenon, showed him the objects around him. Omnipotent power has control of soldiers and chains and doors. Peter is told to do nothing that a man cannot do; but is not allowed to omit any natural or needed thing. The angel will do the rest. He must rise and dress, going through the three steps of dressing, in order, putting on girdle, sandals and outer garment over the tunic, though if the angel had not kept at him and told him which thing to do next he might have both blundered and delayed, so confused was he, between an effort to comprehend what it meant, and a fear of waking the soldiers. He was bidden to do his part and the angel did the rest—made the chains fall off, kept the guards blinded or asleep, and caused the doors to open as of their own accord. He did not fear, yet he wondered whether it was a reality or only a dream, so strange did it all seem to Peter, just wakened out of sleep.

2. Safeguards.

The guards standing and looking at them saw nothing as they passed, because the angel had made Peter and himself invisible, or had flung a veil over their eyes. They heard nothing as the bolts moved back, and the hinges turned, for there was not a sound; the omnipotent God was doing it.

The angel gave him only the help that was needed, and only as long as he needed it, requiring Peter to do everything that was in his power to do, and then putting him on his own resources entirely when these resources were adequate. That is God's way.

III.

What Next? 11-19.

"And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a truth that the Lord hath sent forth his angel and delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews."

Only this one verse is printed, but a thrilling story follows:

1. Peter's Recovered Self-possession.

By this time Peter had recovered from his confusion of mind and his divided consciousness. He saw that God had achieved another triumph in behalf of his people. He had always defeated the religious powers, and now "Herod," as well as the Jews, were whipped. A few hours more and they would have done what they expected; they had planned and they had confident expectations. But they are fighting God—and with the usual result.

Peter is now where his own powers can meet every emergency; he is left to use them. No longer under the guidance of another, his mind resumes its functions more rapidly, works swiftly in grasping the situation, and plans the wisest course of action. Of course he goes to the disciples; to the group most accessible, as the dawn is approaching; to the group, perhaps, most anxious; to the group who will most speedily tell the news to others and relieve their anxiety.

2. Relieves His Agitated Friends.

It was an interesting home, that of another Mary, sister (?) of the noble Barnabas; therefore, of importance and probably wealthy; mother of young Mark, who was afterward a helper to Saul and Barnabas and the writer of the "Gospel of Mark." The story is so graphic in its details that we conclude Mark must have been the informant of the writer of this story—Luke.

The portress, named Rhoda—Roso—did the very natural thing of listening first to find out who it was, for Peter was calling as well as knocking, and those were dangerous times, and that was a dangerous hour. Her joyful conduct at hearing Peter's voice was very natural. In her mind his deliverance was his safety, and she forgot that the pursuers might be on his track that minute in her haste to relieve the anxious friends who had been praying for him all night. Strange, they would not believe the girl, would not believe their own prayers were answered. They tried to argue her down, that it was a mistake, by first telling her she was crazy and then hedging behind a reservation that, if she really heard his knocking and his speaking, it was his angel. In thinking that they suddenly fell into the view of the rabbis—that a guardian angel attends each one and can assume his form at will.

Meantime, while the warm discussion goes on, Peter, impatient and exposed to arrest, still batters at the door. Then, suddenly it occurs to them that they can settle it by going to see, and they all go this time.

3. Wisely Evades Further Danger.

Peter seems to have not come fully in, but, stilling their exclamations with uplifted hand, he puts them in possession of the simplest facts of the case, and, instructing them to tell the great leader, James brother of Jesus—and others, hastens away to some securer place, either in the city or in more distant parts.

It was not cowardice to flee. Later it became a fad among Christians to expose themselves to danger in order to win the martyr's crown. But no man has a right to throw his life away rashly.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Every attempt to constitute it a natural occurrence must be excluded.—Meyer.

The enthroned Lord has given his followers two signal victories so far. They have triumphed over religious persecution. They have burst the bonds of Pharisaic legalism, and established a church among the Gentiles. Their third trial is at hand. The state comes to notice them and unsheaths its sword in opposition. Will the Lord deliver them from the enmity of the throne, as he did from the malice of the sanhedrin? Nothing can withstand His purpose to establish His church in the world.—Stilier.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Can one cultivate the consciousness of God's presence, till he is aware of God anywhere and everywhere?
2. Must one's achievements be limited by his ability?
3. Does God ever do for us what we can do for ourselves?
4. Is the power of prayer as yet fully known and utilized?

RHEUMATISM

Cured by Safe and Easy Home Treatment.

There are thousands of people suffering every day from rheumatism who can be cured.

Some continue to suffer because their doctors have said their cases were chronic and incurable. Others have tried many remedies without relief and have become discouraged.

The patient who has not tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has neglected a remedy for rheumatism that has accomplished thousands of cures. It is not a theory nor an experiment. The cures are a matter of record and capable of proof.

A Disease of the Blood.

Rheumatism runs in families. It can be inherited. It is therefore in the blood.

Every physician knows that the blood is greatly changed during an attack of acute rheumatism, that there are few acute diseases in which it becomes thin and watery with greater rapidity.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood. They begin at once to counteract the disease. Sometimes a very short treatment suffices to effect a cure. Other cases require persistent treatment. The following nearby cases are easily investigated and will be found to prove every statement made for this treatment:

ST. PAUL WOMAN CURED.

She Hopes Other Rheumatic Sufferers Will Try These Pills.

Mrs. J. T. Sloggy of No. 1170 Cortland street, St. Paul, Minn., relates her cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as follows:

"A few years ago I suffered a great deal with rheumatism, being confined to my bed some of the time, was under a physician's care and was unable to do any work. I was also troubled with indigestion. When spring came I was thin and nervous, had a poor appetite and was broken down in health generally. That summer I made a visit to Wisconsin and while there met an old friend, who had been a great sufferer from indigestion and had been completely cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I knew her word could be relied on so I got a box of the pills and commenced taking them. I felt benefited in a few days, but continued to take them until cured.

"That winter I had no return of the rheumatism, my appetite improved and I gained in flesh and strength. My cure was permanent and I have not taken any of the pills since.

"I have told others how the pills helped me and I sincerely hope that others suffering in the same way may be induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

SWOLLEN, PAINFUL JOINTS.

This Minnesota Woman Was in a Serious Condition But Was Cured.

Mrs. J. P. Christoffersen of Dodge Center, Minn., where she has lived for thirty years, gives sufferers with rheumatism the benefit of her experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as follows:

"A few years ago I was severely afflicted with rheumatism which was brought on by exposure to cold. The pains were in my arms and legs. My right hand was crippled so that I could not use it and my elbow was affected also. My shoulders were so sore that I could hardly touch them. The joints of my feet were so swollen and painful that I could just hobble around. There was a numbness in my hand and it seemed as though it was dead. I could put it in hot water without feeling it. I felt miserable all over. My back ached continually. I could not rest at night without taking drugs to deaden the pain.

"I was treated by a doctor for a time, but could not see that his medicine helped me. My sister wrote me about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began using them after I had been sick for over a year. I felt they were helping me after a short trial. The numbness gradually left my hand and I began to use it. I could see that my blood was in better condition and I was able to get around without effort. In a few weeks I was able to do my housework again and have never had the rheumatism since."

SCIATIC RHEUMATISM.

Remarkable Cure of a Pronounced Case in Minneapolis.

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure sciatic rheumatism is shown by numerous cases like that of Mrs. J. B. Hansen of No. 712 Essex street, Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"A few years ago following an attack of the grip I was taken with sciatica. For six years I suffered untold agony and thought it would be a blessing to me if I could only die. There were sharp, shooting pains in both of my limbs and my shoulders and arms were affected also but not so severely. If I moved about quickly, the pain would catch me so that I had to scream. My limbs would swell until I could hardly walk. I also had a terrible dull pain in my back which was often unbearable. I was confined to bed for a week or two at a time. While suffering with the sciatica I was further run down by weakness common to women of my age.

"I received such little relief from the doctor's medicine that I became discouraged and quit it. My husband urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as he had read how they had cured cases like mine. I felt better after I had taken the pills a short time but took several boxes until I was certain I was cured. I give this statement of my cure thinking that other sufferers may be helped as I was through using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

ANOTHER MINNEAPOLIS CURE.

Severe Attacks of Muscular Rheumatism Yield to This Treatment.

After suffering for a year Mrs. Ella Beatty of No. 314 West Twenty-eighth street, Minneapolis, Minn., cured herself of muscular rheumatism by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The permanent cure the pills made in her case was due to their purifying and building up of the blood. She says:

"The rheumatism came on me suddenly and, until the attack, I was feeling as well as usual. The attack seemed to settle in the cords of my neck. I had what the doctors called spasms of the muscles of the neck, which drew my head to one side. These spells caused me intense misery. The fingers of my left hand were affected until I was unable to use that hand. I was in bed for six weeks and during that time I had to lie in one position. If I moved my neck I would scream with pain.

"I could see no benefit from the doctor's medicine and gave it up to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills upon the advice of a friend. The pills soon had my blood in good condition and I have had no more of the pains. I am now the picture of health and can, therefore, recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

WILL DULUTH ADOPT PLAN?

Quite a Strong Sentiment Favoring Commission Government Here.

Mayor Haven Believes It Would be an Improvement.

Now that an act of the legislature has made possible in Minnesota the government of cities by commission, conjecture is rife as to the possibility of different municipalities adopting that form of government. Mayor Haven said this morning he believed public sentiment locally favored it, and that while a vote may not be taken on it at the next election, he believes the time is not far distant when the system will be adopted here.

"Personally, there are many things about this form of government that appeals to me," he said this morning. "I believe it is better than the old system, although I do not look upon it as perfection. There is room for improvement in the commission system, but as outlined now, and as at present in operation in several cities, it is a big step in advance of the old form of municipal government.

"For one thing, it centralizes responsibility. Better results are obtained because a man is put in office by reason of his ability alone, and not because he stands for a tight or a loose lid, or for something else which has no direct bearing upon the taxpayer. This applies to the mayor as well as to aldermen and all other municipal executive officers. Too often, under the present system, a man is elected because of his position on the saloon issue. His ability and his intelligence have nothing whatever to do with the selection. The whole question usually is: 'Is he for or against the saloons, or for a strict observance of the liquor laws, or a loose observance of such laws?' This is not as it should be.

"Under the commission form, a high enough salary is paid so that a good man can be secured for the office. He can afford to devote his time and intelligence to the duties of his office. A business corporation pays a man according to his ability to handle the duties connected with his position, and a city should do the same. A $5,000 man cannot be expected to lend himself to a work that pays only $1,000. It is all very well to talk of how a good citizen should lend his time and his efforts to his city for the sake of good government, without compensation. In theory the plan is all right, but in practice it isn't. Patriotic and loyal though they may be, men who are not paid, and paid adequately, for services rendered the city, will never give entire satisfaction in their respective positions, and it is absurd and unreasonable to expect them to."

MAILED HER DEAD PARROT.

Told Her of First Wife's Suicide—She Gets Divorce.

Cleveland, April 8.—"He used to wake me up in the night to tell me how his first wife committed suicide," said Mrs. C. Hemmetter, testifying against her husband in a divorce action in common pleas court.

Mrs. Hemmetter said the story was "creepy," and that at its conclusion her husband would twirl a revolver about his fingers and say:

"One wife is dead, another on the way, but the old general lives."

This was not all, Mrs. Hemmetter testified, nor would she be contradicted by the cross-examination of Hemmetter, who acted as his own attorney.

"I wanted my parrot, and when we separated, asked him to send it to me. He mailed it—dead," she said.

The divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty despite Hemmetter's plea to Judge Schwan in which he knelt before the bench and pleaded for some other assignment of cause.

MIKE DONLIN OUT FOR THIS YEAR

Will Do Vaudeville Stunts and Visit Europe During Summer.

Chicago, April 8.—Mike Donlin, the outfilder of the New York Nationals, arrived here yesterday and announced definitely that he would not play baseball with New York during the coming season. Donlin was accompanied by his wife, Mabel Hite, who is ill, and will take a rest here.

"We have vaudeville engagements far into the summer," said Donlin, "and after that we are planning to take a trip to Europe. I gave President Brush of New York a chance to sign me for $8,000, but as he refused, that is the end of my chances of playing baseball during the coming season."

AMATEURS WILL TALK IT OVER

Advisability of Forming New City League to be Discussed.

Tonight at the store of the Northern Hardware company a new city league will be formed among the amateur baseball teams of the city.

The league will be composed of eight teams, if the proper amount of enthusiasm is displayed.

Ray Johns has the matter in charge and will help the organization along by allowing the store to be used as a meeting place, and aiding the league in whatever other way he can.

The managers of the different nines have been enthusiastic all winter over the forming of an amateur league, and it is believed that the organization will be even more successful than the hockey league organized during the past winter.

All those who are in the least interested in the organization of a league are not only invited, but urged to attend.

Roller Record Broken.

"Pop" Shriver Sold.

New Orleans, La., April 8.—Manager Charles Frank of the New Orleans Baseball club, announces that he has purchased Catcher "Pop" Shriver from the Pittsburg Nationals. Shriver will report here in a few days from Hot Springs, where he has been in training with his team.

Track Will Be Guarded.

Chicago, April 8.—The First regiment of the Illinois National Guard will patrol the course of the Crown Point Lowell automobile road races to be held by the Chicago Automobile club, June 18 and 19. Governor Marshall of Indiana has granted the request of Governor Deneen of Illinois to permit the Illinois troops to cross the border. Fully 1,000 soldiers will be required to guard the twenty-four-mile circuit which will be used for the two road races. This will include the signal corps of 300 with its military telegraph service, the hospital corps and the commissary department.

HOW TO TRAIN FOR MARATHON.

1. Eat anything that agrees with you, but cut out pastries.
2. Every trainer has a good method. Stick to the method you started in with.
3. Do not run so much that you feel all tired out. Always stop your training work, feeling like doing more if you had to.
4. You should have a cycle attendant to ride along with you. He should carry your clothing and any nourishment, sponges and bandages needed.
5. Let your cycler keep you posted on the speed per mile averaged and the mileage covered.
6. Nourishments, such as pure fruit juices or beef tea, are good to have with you.
7. Do not allow yourself to be stimulated in order to finish. Drop out first.
8. Pay no attention to hot pacemakers, but run your own race.
9. Do not bother with being nourished so long as you are doing nicely and feel well.
10. Average your first miles in about six minutes. In the Longboat-Shrubb race, Shrubb averaged 6.00 for twenty miles, and then had to drop by the wayside.

OPEN SEASON IN IRON RIVER

Spaldings Will Play First Game Away From Home.

The Spalding baseball team will open their season at Iron River on April 25.

Manager Lavell had not intended to open up until May 1, with a game with one of the local teams, but the Iron River manager wanted an earlier date, as the citizens of that town are anxious to try out their team and find out just what can be expected of it the coming season.

The Spalding team is this year stronger than ever, and they hope to get a crack at the Fitwell aggregation.

SCHAEFFER IS CHOSEN CAPTAIN

Ray Fenton Will Manage the Fitwells During Coming Season.

At the annual meeting of the Fitwell baseball team held last night, Frank Schaeffer, the well known local catcher, was elected captain of the team. Ray Fenton was elected manager.

A purse of $100 was raised to back the team against Al Kuehnow's White Sox. The boys are enthusiastic over this game, and promise to give the Stockings all they are looking for.

A week from the coming Sunday, the men will get out for their first practice of the season. The team is made up practically of the same men who played last year, and they consider themselves very much stronger.

Those who will try for the team are: Earl Cummings, Ellis Cook, Paul Sturn, Roy Deetz, William Wendtland, Henry Boyle, Frank Schaeffer, A. Olson, John Michalek, A. Larson, Atlan MacAuley, B. Bennett and John Wickstrom.

To Choose a Referee.

Chicago, April 8.—Frank Gotch and Yousiff Mahmout will meet today and choose a referee for their battle for the world's wrestling championship, which will be held here April 14. Both men have presented a list of referees acceptable to them. This list contains the names of Bat Masterson of New York, Joel Ulman of Baltimore, Eddie C. McBride of Buffalo, Walter Kelley of Cleveland, and Dick Fleming, Malachy Hogan and Ed Smith of this city. Smith, who refereed the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match last year, appears to be the favorite for the place.

Old Ball Player Dies.

The Ideal Touring-Car
Franklin Model D
Practically no Tire Trouble
With its light-weight and easy-riding strong construction Model D is aptly termed the ideal of all automobiles for family use. Weighing as it does a third less than the average water-cooled automobile of smaller capacity, it gives minimum tire and operating expense. It most nearly fulfills universal requirements. Its compactness, ability, handsome body, large wheels, and the ease with which it handles place it in a class by itself—an ideal touring-car, not too large for city and business use, light-weight, refined and easy-riding.
Franklin Model D, $2800. Four-cylinder, 28 horse-power, five-passenger touring-car. 36-inch wheels, same size as used on the best water-cooled automobiles weighing 1000 pounds more. Aluminum body on steel angle frame—the strongest and lightest automobile body made.

JOHN PETERSON IS STILL ALIVE

Man Hurt at Commercial Building Was About to be Married.

John Peterson, who fell three stories at the Commercial building, corner of Fourth avenue west and First street, yesterday morning, is still alive at St. Luke's hospital, and it is now believed that he has a fair chance of recovery.

Fellow workmen say that Peterson had just completed a home at the corner of Tewlfth avenue east and Eighth street, and had purchased furniture with which to furnish it. All this was to prepare a home for a girl he left in the old country. The marriage was to have taken place within the next two months it is understood. The girl's name is unkown, and she has not been notified of her lover's injuries.

POLICEMEN INSPECTED

Clothing and Equipment of Men Up to the Standard.

The annual inspection of the police department was held yesterday afternoon, and everything connected with it was found to be in first-class condition. Clothing and equipment of all the men came up to the standard, with the exception of one or two who had carelessly leaned against newly-painted radiators in the municipal court building, just prior to the inspection.

The men lined up in the gymnasium at 2 o'clock, and passed in review before Chief Troyer and Capt. Fiskett. A number of new badges were given out. Henry C. Mason, patrolman, received No. 23, formerly worn by Jerry Gleason. A meeting of the Police Relief association followed the inspection.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL PROBE LAND FRAUDS

Uncle Sam Is Going After Illegalities in North Dakota.

Chief Wade and Assistants Reach State to Begin Work.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Land frauds in North Dakota—as well as mineral rights—are to be given a thorough investigation.

Chief Wade and eight assistants from the land department in Washington have arrived here and are ready to begin work. There are many homestead entries that are being held up, some of them through charges of fraud. An effort will be made to report on these during the summer to clear up the records. Wherever claims have been filed on coal lands experts are to make thorough investigations as to the value of the coal deposits and efforts will be made to avoid any more confusion like that created by the withdrawal of certain lands in this state, and relieved by the enactment of the Mondell bill.

Senator McCumber to Speak.

The officials of the North Dakota union of the American Society of Equity announce the acceptance by United States Senator McCumber of this state of an invitation to address the meeting of the national officers and those of the two Dakotas and Minnesota to be held here June 9 and 10. It is expected there will be hundreds of farmers from the three states in attendance and the senator will speak on his favorite theme of national grain inspection, reciting what has been accomplished up to date.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND HOME.

Noted Churchman is Back From His Visit Abroad.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Archbishop John Ireland, who went abroad last December, returned to St. Paul yesterday in good health, and glad to be in Minnesota again.

Perhaps he himself could not tell off-hand how many visits he has paid to the papal capital. Prelates of his rank must of necessity pay frequent visits to the head city of the church, and the archbishop has been in Rome so many times that he knows Rome and its environs about as well as he knows St. Paul, and the geography of Italy is almost as familiar to him as that of Minnesota. But this visit to the holy see must rank among the most important he ever made.

The terrible earthquake in Sicily and the southern end of Italy occurred Dec. 28, a few days after the archbishop arrived, and he was in Rome or in the stricken territory through much of the harrowing days that followed. He was entrusted with important work in connection with the distribution of the money and supplies sent from America, and in numerous ways was able to give valuable aid to the suffering.

He was honored by church dignitaries in many ways and was several times the guest of honor of American diplomats.

In France, on his way home, he was the recipient of honors no less marked than those accorded him in Italy, for it was in France that he obtained much of his education and he is known and honored there as among the foremost American prelates.

ADDITIONAL CHARTER COMMISSIONERS NAMED.

Bemidji, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—In accordance with a petition filed by the seven remaining members of the charter commission of Bemidji, Judge C. W. Stanton has appointed eight citizens to the vacancies on the commission, as follows: W. N. Bowser, W. A. Gould, H. H. Schumaker, Charles Nangle, G. M. Torrance, Dr. W. H. Smith, John Doran and P. J. Russell. As the commission now stands the membership includes those named above and the following: G. E. Carson, George McTaggart, Ed Trask, Matt Thome, Fred Rhoda and A. P. White and William McCuaig.

MUST SURRENDER MONEY.

Court Directs Highway Commissioner to Make Restitution.

Menominee, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Sherry, highway commissioner of Nadeau township, and township officeholder for the past fifteen years, must pay back to that township $600, which he received from it in payment for a gravel pit, which according to the decision of Circuit Judge Stone, never belonged to Sherry, but instead was the property of the township itself.

Judge Stone's decision marks the close of the most notorious case that has been tried in Menominee county in years. If the testimony of the men whom the judge upheld in this instance—men of wealth, integrity and power is true, then the little township of Nadeau, Menominee county, is reeking with graft and corruption. It is very probable that the township petitioners will now ask to have a criminal action started against Sherry, which may subsequently result in a grand jury investigation.

MILACA BADLY SCORCHED.

Business Block in Heart of Mille Lacs County Seat Burned.

Milaca, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the main business blocks in this city was destroyed by fire yesterday. The burned buildings are two saloons owned by Jerry Besser and Axel Johnson, two barbershops owned by A. M. Anderson and E. E. Price, one ice cream factory owned by A. T. Tufty and the Milaca jail. Every building was laid in ashes. The high wind fanned the flames furiously, although the fire department kept several streams playing continually.

The saloons have been out of use since April, as Milaca is dry. The buildings were mostly frame and it is believed will be rebuilt. The total loss is estimated at about $25,000.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LUCKY.

Fast Train Jumps Track Near Mandan, N. D., Without Fatalities.

Mandan, N. D., April 8.—Train No. 2, on the Northern Pacific jumped the track twelve miles west of this city at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, but fatalities and injuries were escaped by the presence of mind of the engineer. The engine and the baggage and mail cars left the rails and instead of applying the air brakes to stop the train at once, the engineer slowed up gradually and probably saved a serious catastrophe, which might have resulted had the air been applied and the great momentum of the cars that remained on the rails been suddenly slacked.

TITLE IS IN DISPUTE.

Ownership of Welch Mill Seems to be Matter for Discussion.

Aitkin, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Things are beginning to get interesting over the ownership of the Welch mill. The title to the property and the possession of it are in dispute and for some time it has been a question of considerable public interest who will come out on top and where the final ownership will rest.

The Duluth Log company while not claiming to own the mill has been in possession by virtue of a lease, but a few days ago R. J. Tully, who has acquired an interest in the property by the purchase of stock and through a deal with the stockholders' committee, has put his locks upon the property and is declaring himself in possession, keeping men at work there daytimes and two watchmen on the ground at night.

There are various interests to be satisfied and the whole tangle will probably go to the court for settlement before it is through with.

FOUND IN LAKE PEPIN.

Body of Wisconsin Man Who Lost Life Crossing on Ice.

Red Wing, Minn., April 8.—The body of a badly decomposed man, which has been identified as that of Thomas McMahan, at one time a prosperous farmer of Pierce county, Wis., was found floating in Lake Pepin, near Wacouta by Martin and Ole Olson of that place.

He spent a great part of his time around Red Wing, and was quickly identified by Coroner Robert L. C. Geib and later by Chief of Police Severson, who had known him for many years.

Miss Mary McMahan, who is employed at the St. James hotel, stated that the description of the man given by the authorities convinced her that the body was that of her brother, who had been missing since a few days before last Christmas.

Thomas McMahan was last seen crossing the ice at this point on foot, bound for Hager. It is believed that the ice gave way when he neared the Wisconsin shore and that he was accidentally drowned.

ELECTROCUTED AT WORK.

Wisconsin Man Loses His Life at Scandia, Minn.

Osceola, Wis., April 8.—The funeral was held here yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Odd Fellows, of Earl Rice, formerly of this place, who was electrocuted Sunday afternoon near Scandia, Minn. Rice and his helper were placing a lightning arrester on one of the steel towers for the General Electric company and the men were on top of the fifty-foot tower when Rice and his helper both received a heavy shock from the electric current. Rice fell to the ground and never regained consciousness, dying in a few hours. He received two severe burns, one on the right wrist and the other on the calf of his left leg.

CAPT. DAWSON VISITING COPPER COUNTRY FRIENDS.

Calumet, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. W. J. Dawson of Butte, Mont., was a visitor among friends in Calumet yesterday. Capt. Dawson was shown around the mines of Calumet by friends among whom was Capt. James, who was the guest of Capt. Dawson at Butte a short time ago. For six years Capt. Dawson was the chief of police of Butte City, and he is at present the general manager of the Butte & Montana Mining company, better known as Butte-Alex Scott.

EX-LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER HENRY PIERCE IS DEAD.

Houghton, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Pierce is dead at Franklin Mills, N. J., at the age of 70.

Mr. Pierce is best known in the Copper country through the fact that for a number of years he was lighthouse keeper at Eagle Harbor. He had charge of the mainland, as well as the range lights, and held that post for a number of years when the country was in its heyday.

He also was one of the veterans of the Civil war, having enlisted with the troops of Keweenaw county and followed their fortunes through the stirring times between 1861-65. He was honorably discharged at the close of the war and took up the work of lighthouse keeper, continuing in that capacity for a number of years.

Alleged Horse Thief Has Been Returned to Moose Jaw.

Minot, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Lambert Barr Duff, the alleged horse thief, has been taken to Moose Jaw, Can., where, it is alleged, he stole three high bred horses.

Duff did not want to go to Canada at first, but when he found that he would be tried on practically the same charge in ward county, he gave himself up to the Canadian authorities. Deputy Dick Steinhofer took him to the Canadian line Tuesday night, where he was turned over to the United States customs officers.

COMPANY K. INSPECTED.

Bemidji Militia Boys Make Favorable Impression on Army Office.

Bemidji, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I am more than pleased with the appearance of Company K this evening, and if you boys stick to your present determination and spirit, you will need to fear no old company in the Third regiment or the state guard at the annual encampment next June," said Lieut. Col. Gerlach, U. S. A., to the members of Bemidji's militia company Tuesday evening at their annual inspection.

The inspection was held in the Coliseum rink.

A large number of citizens attended. An inspection of equipment was held first, followed by roll call and muster, sixty-six members out of sixty-eight being accounted for. The other two boys were absent on furlough.

Lieut. Col. Gerlach expressed himself as well pleased with the soldierly bearing and physical build of the company.

WHEAT LOWER AT CLOSE OF NERVOUS MARKET

Options Are Erratic, Considerable Selling Going on During Day.

Durum Worked for Export to Germany at Highest Price.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 8.—Wheat was extremely nervous during an active session today and closing prices were lower. It was what one local trader termed a "wicked market," for it was a hard matter to tell what the options were going to do the next second. Prices bobbed up and down with great frequency, but the bearish tone finally predominated, the May option losing a point in Duluth and Minneapolis and ⅞c in Chicago.

It looked as if the big bullish interests were letting go of some of their holdings rather on the quiet and the buyers, who were responsible for the spasmodic rallies during the day, were eleventh-hour bulls.

A feature of the session here was the working of some durum wheat for export to Germany by local exporters, at the highest price ever paid for the grain. It sold for Germany at $1.31. Durum closed unchanged in Duluth.

There will be session of the American or foreign markets tomorrow, Good Friday.

Liverpool closed today ⅝d@⅞d higher, Berlin ⅛c lower, Budapest ⅜c lower, and Antwerp 1⅞c higher.

The May option closed 1c lower in Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, ⅞c lower in Chicago, ⅝c lower in St. Louis and 1¼@1⅜c lower in Kansas City. Comparisons are impossible upon the New York close. The July option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, ¼c lower in Chicago, a shade off in St. Louis, ⅛c lower in Kansas City and 1c lower in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅞c lower in Chicago and oats ⅝c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—At 1:30 p.m., the market was quiet. There was some little realizing due to the approaching holidays and the fact that the La Plata offerings were less firmly held and Berlin markets lower with the demand there less active. At the close, the market was steady and ⅝ to ⅞d higher than yesterday.

"Corn after the opening decline of ⅛d the market further lost ⅛d in sympathy with the easier American cables and the liberal La Plata offerings. At the close the market was ⅜d lower than yesterday."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 49 against 28 last year, and at Minneapolis 105 against 144 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 154 against 172 last year. Chicago received 53 against 19 last year. Winnipeg received 212 against 121 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 27,000 bu, last year 266,000 bu. Shipments 282,000 bu, last year 134,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 67,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 207,000 bu, last year 422,000 bu. Shipments 374,000 bu, last year 374,000 bu.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.21¼, advanced to $1.21½ and fluctuated wildly between that point and $1.20⅝ during the rest of the session, closing at $1.20⅝, a loss of 1c from yesterday. July wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.21⅜, declined to $1.21, rallied to $1.21⅝ and ranged between that and $1.20¾ during the remainder of the day, closing at $1.20¾, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday.

Cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.67½, declined to $1.66½ and closed there, a loss of 1¼c from yesterday. July flax declined from $1.66¾ to $1.65½ and closed there. September flax sold at $1.41 and closed at $1.40½, a loss of ¾c from yesterday.

Oats closed ⅞c lower.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Prices Inclined to Sag Owing to Selling by Commission Houses.

Chicago, April 8.—The pyrotechnic display which characterized trading in the wheat pit yesterday was entirely lacking at the opening today, and prices were inclined to sag, owing to quite general selling by commission houses and leading holders. News of the day was [illegible], but the market received no substantial support early in the session. Bull leaders were apparently willing to rest on their laurels for a time, at least. The market opened at declines of a shade to ⅛c compared with the previous close, May being at $1.25 to $1.25⅛ and July at $1.11⅛ to $1.11⅜. [illegible]

Later in the day prices were again raised to new high record marks in a mild burst of bullish sentiment, which carried May up to $1.26⅞ and July to $1.12⅜@1.12½. [illegible] The close was easy, with May ⅞c lower at $1.24⅞. July was off ⅛c at $1.11⅜@1.11½.

Declines of [illegible] in the May and July deliveries [illegible] selling pressure was general and the market had very poor support. Slow demand for cash grain, and prospects for a big crop this coming season were the bearish factors. Prices at the start were ⅛@¼c lower, May being at 66⅞ to 67c and July at 66 to 66⅛c. Early in the day May dropped to 65¾c and July to 65⅝c. The low point for May was 66⅛c. There was a slight recovery on buying by shorts, but the market closed weak, with May off ⅞c at 66⅛c.

Liberal realizing by leading longs caused weakness in the oats market. May sold off to 54⅞c, after opening ⅛@¼c lower at 55⅛@55⅜c.

Provisions were easy owing to the heavy tone of grain. Trade was of small volume at the start. Prices at the opening were unchanged to 12½c lower.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—The opening today did not respond to the higher cables, as the opening price was the same as yesterday's close. Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 125,000 bushels for the week. The trading was very nervous throughout the session, and the market was very choppy. Considerable trading was done, and the market was fairly active. Selling made May close at the low point, $1.20⅝, a full cent below the opening. Minneapolis today received 105 cars, against 144; Duluth 49, against 28. Winnipeg 212, against 121. May opened $1.21⅝@¾; high, $1.21¾; low, $1.20⅝; close, $1.20⅝. Barley—Receipts, 16 cars today against 8. Shipments, 19. The market was easier and prices today on all grades were ½c lower. Several cars of seeding barley were carried over on account of the slack demand. Closing range, 58½@60c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,423 tons. Demand was strong and in excess of the supply. Shipments decreased and prices remained unchanged. Bran in bulk, $22.00@22.50.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR

That Old Friend, the Green Bug Rumor, Returns.

All the Grain Exchanges Will Close Good Friday.

It had to come. No spring would be complete without it, and the wheat traders in every market in the country would feel uncomfortable and ill at ease if the event skipped a year. The green bug rumor has been heard.

As regularly as the last few springs have come around, they have brought with them green bug scares from the winter wheat districts. Sometimes they have been founded on fact and the pests have really damaged the crop, but at other times they have only been nightmares, to frighten the bears.

Today the gossip from the Chicago floor contained the information that Tonkawa, Okla., had reported that genuine green bugs were in the wheat fields around there. More reports will undoubtedly follow, but whether the bugs really do any damage to the crop this year remains to be seen.

All the grain exchanges in this country and those of Liverpool and the continent will be closed tomorrow, Good Friday. There will be a session here Saturday, however.

Minneapolis puts were $1.18¾ and calls $1.22 and $1.22¼ bid.

Chicago July ups were $1.13½@1.13¾ and downs $1.10½@1.10¼.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week are 2,800 bu. The actual shipments last week were 3,868,000 bu, and the corresponding week a year ago, 6,048,000 bu.

Argentine shipments of corn are estimated at 400,000 bu.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Opened Narrow and Became One of Specialties.

Prices Rose and Reaction Was Checked in Late Dealings.

New York, April 8.—Opening dealing in stocks today were active and the changes were mixed and generally narrow, but the gains outnumbered the declines. Chesapeake & Ohio opened at an extreme advance of a point on running sales of 4,000 shares. American Cotton Oil rose 1 and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Wisconsin Central and Virginia-Carolina Chemical large fractions. Atchison and American Locomotive declined ⅜.

Speculation ran along in about the same channel as yesterday, the chief demand being for the specialities. Some of the standard stocks showed some strength, but there was not as a rule much inquiry for the railroad list, outside of Union Pacific and Reading. Mackay companies advanced 3 points, American Cotton Oil 2½, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Hocking Coal, Western Union and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred 2, the common and Sugar 1¾, Wisconsin Central, 1½ and American Telegraph & Telephone 1¼. There were a few weak spots, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Colorado & Southern preferred and American Locomotive declining 1 to 1¼.

The market was one of specialties, one stock after another being brought forward from some obscurity for active advances. Of the usually prominent stocks, Atchison, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Colorado & Southern, National Lead, Consolidated Gas, Central Leather and Pressed Steel Car gained 1 to 1½. In the other cases, Hocking Valley rose 3¾, Wisconsin Central 6, Colorado Fuel 2¾, Mackay companies preferred 1¾ and International Paper preferred and American Linseed preferred 1 to 1½. Federal Mining sold at a decline of 4. Bonds were firm.

Many usually neglected stocks continued to come forward and were for a time more active than the usual market leaders. Low priced railroad stocks were rather more active late in the day. Chesapeake & Ohio got up over 2 points, Iowa Central preferred 1¾, American Sugar preferred and International Harvester preferred 1½; Rock Island preferred 1½ and the common, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Kansas & Texas, American Smelting, General Electric and American Beet Sugar 1.

The market closed irregular and active. Selling to take profits became the rule, although there were some further advances. American Cotton Oil rose 3⅝, Chesapeake & Ohio 3½, Pullman 2 and Great Northern preferred 1. American Hide & Leather preferred lost 1. The reaction ran to a point in some active stocks, but was checked in the late dealings.

LATEST NEWS—Butte-Alex Scott closes with flying colors and has thoroughly demonstrated its ability to be the leader of the local curbs. People generally throughout the country now readily concede its intrinsic worth and buying orders are pouring in from every town and hamlet and I expect a big further advance next week. I really believe the full paid will cross $20 and the $2 paid will cross $15 before the next ten days. It has the property: low capitalization: good management, and sound financial backing and a big broad market for its shares. Everything in its favor and nothing against its advance. In all seriousness Butte-Alex Scott as compared with any other of the newer Butte companies is worth double its present price and the market is bound to show this very soon. The company's office force worked night and day to get out the $2 paid certificates and they were issued as promptly as possible and they are now working night and day to get out the full paid stock. The big hoist and compressor will be on the ground within a few days and a large force of men is now at work preparing the foundation and no time will be lost. [illegible] There will be no market next Friday or Saturday. Things will boil next week. Be on hand and you can make all kinds of profits if you use your head. Buy Lake Superior & Sonora.

Still After Crazy Snake.

Chandler, Okla., April 8.—William Tilghman, a deputy United States marshal, chosen by Col. Hoffman to trail Crazy Snake to the Indian's hiding place and effect his capture, left here today for Hickory Stomping Ground. Tilghman is a well known scout, who is familiar with Crazy Snake's habits, and it is believed that he will locate the Indian. The chief is believed to be in hiding in the hills near Henryetta.

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT
BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA
CALUMET & SONORA

Butte-Alex Scott the greatest success ever brought to Duluth for many a day. Here is one of the cleanest propositions that we have ever handled. The mine is located in the very richest part of Butte Hill. Four big veins apex inside of their property. They have ore from the grass roots down. On the 1,245-foot level they have big bodies of milling ore and also a great amount of copper glance that assays up to 80 per ct. Miners have now begun in a big way to open up the ore chutes, and inside of three weeks you will find that the Scott Mine can deliver the goods in a big way. We know absolutely what we have on the 1,800-foot level. The mine is a regular bonanza at that depth. The West Colusa has proven our property and all we have to do is to get the ore out. On the upper levels the Scott Mine has hardly been scratched and openings will be driven from in every direction. We have no water to contend with. Our air connection could not be better.

The management is on its mettle, and you all know what this means. It means swift work. They have plenty of money and it is as good a financial property as any on Butte Hill. No new company on the Hill has greater possibilities and at the present time the stock at $15.00 is selling at almost four times less than the Butte-Ballaklava. Remember the Butte-Alex Scott company has a $400,000.00 call on 50,000 shares—only 100,000 shares issued. The mine at $15.00 per share is selling at the rate of only $1,000,000 and it is worth four times this amount and for the reasons given above this stock is absolutely the best buy on the board. We have the mine and are not afraid to tell you.

CAVALLIN IS ON TRIAL

Is Accused of Embezzling Money From Fitger Brewing Company.

Had Free Run on Expenses, But Spent Too Much Money.

Harry Cavallin, charged with the embezzlement of about $2,000 of money of the Fitger Brewing company, for whom he was general agent at Hibbing, is on trial in district court. The charge against him is grand larceny in the first degree.

Cavallin entered the employ of the company about the middle of May last year. He was in a minor position at Virginia until the first of September, when he became agent at Hibbing, and he remained there until about the middle of January, when the company's traveling auditor reported a shortage in his accounts.

Cavallin was working with a free hand as to expenses, which, as Charles M. O'Connor, office manager of the company, said on the stand this morning, was supposed to be a reasonable amount. Cavallin was supposed to spend such money as he thought necessary, and to report the amounts each week with his weekly report of sales and collections.

The money Cavallin is charged with embezzling was not reported with his expense account. The officials of the company say that he was leading a merry pace at Hibbing and got away with the money in the course of his "times." They say he acknowledged his shortage when he was confronted with it, and said he had spent the money.

Victor Power of Hibbing is defending Cavallin, and he has not yet laid out the line of defense. From his cross-examination of Mr. O'Connor, it is evident he counts upon the fact that Mr. Cavallin was under no definite restriction as to the amount of money he might spend to further the company's business interests, to release his client. Cavallin is well known on the range.

Y. M. C. A. ACTIVITIES

The Matinee Musicale will furnish the music at the men's meeting, to be held Sunday afternoon in the assembly room of the Central Y. M. C. A.

Miss Rodgers, Royal G. Wilson Miss Bradshaw and Miss Woodbridge will sing, and there will be several instrumental solos.

Short Easter messages will be delivered by several local men prominent in Y. M. C. A. circles.

The older boys of the boys' department Y. M. C. A. will attend the services in a body.

Next week Prof. D. B. Towner the noted hymn writer, will be the principal speaker. This service will be unique in that Mr. Towner will sing several of his latest compositions, accompanying himself on the organ.

He will be the last of the outside speakers to be brought to the city during the present season, but the meetings will be continued, local men filling the platform from week to week. The meetings this year have been very successful and J. A. McGaughey is already busy getting his speakers lined up for next season.

Dr. John Jackola, who has roomed at the Y. M. C. A. building ever since it was opened, left during the week for a three months' trip abroad. He will travel through the countries across the water, and study conditions abroad.

Tuesday evening in the gymnasium a dinner will be enjoyed by the different classes in gymnasium work. It will be a sort of a "get together and get acquainted" meeting. To get the men better acquainted is the real object of the dinner, which will wind up the work of the season. A. J. Frey, who has the affair in charge, says that he expects from 200 to 300 to be present. W. E. Richardson, P. Mitchell and F. C. Little are working out a program of songs, music and monologues which will, it is expected, make the event all the more enjoyable.

The handball tournament grows more and more interesting as the games are played off. The singles are now down to the sixteens. On April 20 the doubles begin. There are forty-four entries, and the rivalry is keen.

J. G. Mitchell, the new membership secretary, is busy with renewals. The big campaign for members took place a year ago, and nearly 1,200 of them have already declared themselves as ready to renew their membership for another year. Frank Crasswell, B. N. Wheeler, Mark Baldwin and Lane McGregor are on the renewal committee.

Tomorrow night Prof. C. P. Bull, assistant in agriculture at the state school of agriculture will speak on "Grass Crops." John H. Gray will also speak, but his subject has not yet been announced. The attendance at these meetings has been very satisfactory up to this time, and those who are interested in the work hope to have the largest crowd of the season out tomorrow night.

John H. Gray was for fifteen years professor at Northwestern university. In June, 1907, he was elected professor of economics and head of the department of political science at Minnesota.

He is at present a member of the executive committee of the American Economic association, associate editor of the Economic Bulletin, published by the American Economic association, associate editor of the Journal of Accountancy, and president of the Faculty club of the university.

His talk will no doubt prove interesting.

ASK TO ADOPT CHILDREN

Two Couples Would Take Little Ones as Their Own.

Two applications for the right to adopt children were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning and they will be heard at the special term Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ryckman ask the right to adopt Albert Ryckman, who has been living with them since birth, Nov. 7, 1908. The child was born to Annie May Carle, and she has given her written consent to his adoption.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franson want to adopt as their own child, Lillian Michaud, whom they took from the State Children's Home, March 3, 1904. They ask that they be given the child and that her name be changed to Lillian Deborah Franson.

Fire Marshal Purtell Tells of Working for Stephenson.

Says He Distributed $175 Among "Uncle Ike's" Workers.

Madison, Wis. April 8.—T. M. Purtell, state fire marshal, was called to the stand in the senatorial primary investigation today. He said he distributed $175 for Stephenson to several workers, but did not receive a cent for his services. He took little part in the campaign and instructed his men to keep out of politics, as they were under civil service.

S. D. Rickman, a deputy game warden, testified as to the meeting in the home of Game Warden Stone, when an arrangement for several deputies to take credit for a portion of Stephenson's campaign fund, was talked over.

Why Towne Went Out.

S. A. Towne, assemblyman from Sauk county, stated that his reason for leaving the room on the date of Stephenson's election was that he was called out by a page. When he got out, there was no one to see him. He met Mr. Wayland, however, and they talked of the advisability of remaining outside and "bringing the affair to a close." Earlier in the day, Mr. Ingram came to him and wanted him to act with the anti-Stephenson men. He made Ingram a proposition that in the event the investigation showed corruption in Stephenson's nomination, and if the anti-Stephenson men would support a Democrat, said Democrat to be named by the Republicans, he would stay by them now. Ingram said he would consent to the holding of a caucus with representatives from both parties and nominate a candidate.

"On this," said Towne, "I told him I would do as I d—— please."

Answering a question Towne said when he remained out of the assembly he "wanted to see the thing ended." He said that during the proceedings, Mr. Stone, who carried a mortgage on his farm, made false accusations against him, with the probable intention of influencing his actions in the election.

Towne said that during his talk with Wayland in the corridor he (witness) said something about financial embarrassment and he simply remarked that money was easy to get. Wayland, said the witness, made no promise, even of a loan.

Says It Was a Joke

At the session of the investigating committee, last night, Assemblyman John T. Farrell of Milwaukee, a Democrat, testified he went out of the assembly on the day Senator Stephenson was elected, because he was "sick and disgusted" with the attempt of members of the Democratic party to unite with Republicans and Social Democrats to prevent the election of Stephenson. Mr. Farrell denied he was offered anything for going out.

Assemblyman T. S. Ramsey of Milwaukee, a Democrat, testified that he was paired and that no inducements to keep out of the assembly were offered.

Assemblyman F. C. Zimmerman of Milwaukee, who charged $1,500 had been offered a member to leave the chamber, refused to testify.

"I can tell you all about that $1,500," said J. A. Domachowsky when called. He said that on March 2 he was shown a La Crosse paper which said he was going to walk out. March 3 he met a Milwaukee man, who laughingly asked how much he was to get to stay out of the joint convention.

"I replied about $1,500," said Domachowsky. "That was all that was to it. Afterward I met some of the assemblymen, among whom was Zimmerman, and I said I had $1,500. I was joking, but he seemed to take it in earnest, and he was so good a friend of mine that inside of fifteen minutes he had spread it all over the capitol."

"As a matter of fact, did you receive any offer of money to stay out?"

"No."

"Do you know of such offers?"

"No."

John—He Knows!

John Wanamaker says: "If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money. Somebody must tell him also that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—AMERICAN TELEPHONE JOURNAL.

SENTIMENT IS IMPROVED IN THE SENATE ON IRON ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL

Senators Vote to Attend the Hearing Next Tuesday Night.

Division on Resolution for Report Monday Not Conclusive.

Bill for Game Preserve of Million Acres Is Finally Passed.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the resolution adopted by the senate yesterday, the tonnage tax bill will be reported back to the senate some time Monday.

Another hearing will be had Tuesday evening, before the senate committee on taxes and tax laws, according to present intentions, when the representatives of the Cuyuna range will have a chance to tell what the Bjorge bill means to a new iron country, where most of the ore is of such low grade that the market must be encouraged to consume it.

The senate yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution by Senator Ole O. Sageng, the author of the one calling out the bill, by which the senate agrees to attend Tuesday night's hearing. The attendance at Wednesday's hearing was good, and the effect of the argument was noticeable. A number of senators, who have been classed as probable advocates of the bill were present, giving close attention to the speeches and taking notes of the arguments.

While a superficial view of the situation might lead some to imagine that

DECLARES THEY ARE FUGITIVES

Chicago Judge Orders Arrest of Three Alleged Swindlers.

Chicago, April 9.—John M. McFarland, Albert Miller Adams and Samuel Rosenfield, alleged to have swindled Mrs. James A. Patten, wife of a wealthy board of trade man, out of more than $20,000, by means of de luxe editions book swindle, were declared fugitives of justice by Judge McSurely in criminal court today.

The fugitives were at liberty on bonds of $3,000 each. When their cases were called today, they were not present and capiases for their arrest were issued.

Some months ago Samuel Warfield and W. G. Cooper were tried for complicity in the swindle. Warfield was convicted his case now being on appeal, and Cooper was acquitted. McFarland appeared as the state's chief witness against them.

FRANCE MAY NOT EXPEL

If Castro Is as Sick as He Is Reported to Be.

The Expulsion Edict Is Scored By One Paris Newspaper.

Paris, April 9.—If the condition of Cipriano Castro's health is really so grave that his enforced departure from Fort de France, Martinique, where he now is, would be dangerus, the French government is prepared to temporarily suspend the decree of expulsion against him.

Le Journal today takes issue with a majority of the French newspapers, which consider that France is bound to comply with the wishes of the Gomez government, with which negotiations for the resumption of diplomatic relations are now going on.

This paper declare sthat France has made a great mistake in following the American lead, and says the United States probably is aiding President Gomez in return for his sacrifices of Venezuelan interests in the settlement of sordid disputes between the two countries.

No matter what provocation Castro has given the powers, Le Journal goes on, they cannot ignore the fact that Gomez is a usurper, and it sets forth the opinion that the persecution of the powers probably will inflame Venezuelan public opinion against foreign intermeddling and at the same time strengthen the solidarity of Castro's partisans.

Castro Is Better.

Fort de France, April 9.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, who disembarked here from the steamer Guadeloupe two days ago, appears in much better health today than he was yesterday.

He has received no official notification of the determination of the French government to expel him from tthe Island of Martinique. He shows no perturbation, and is awaiting developments with tranquility.

Castro spends his time quietly in Hotel Ivanes, and receives no one. This morning he spoke of the possibility of his going to St. Thomas, D. W. I.

NO MARRIAGE, SAYS ANARCHIST

Emma Goldman Denies Alexander Berkman Is Her Husband.

New York, April 9.—Emma Goldman, the anarachist, whose husband's naturalization papers were canceled yesterday by the United States circuit court at Buffalo, a move which may lead to her exclusion from this country, is in New York. When told of the court's decision, she said:

"I am fully prepared to protect myself and my rights as a free citizen. This action in Buffalo is taken on perjured testimony and I will prove it when the time comes.

"I have been here twenty-five years with my parents and brothers and sisters, and settled in Rochester. When I was 18 years old I was married to Jacob Kershner. I don't know how long he had been here at that time, but he talked English very well. He was 26.

"I have never been divorced, nor have I seen him in sixteen years. He may be dead for all I know. He disappeared from Rochester long ago, and service was made on him in this action by publication."

She said the story that she was married to Alexander Berman was false, and that her only relations with him had been in the publication of the paper, "Mother Earth."

EXPLOSION HURTS SCORE IN ROME

Dynamite Stored for Illegal Fishing Destroys Building.

Rome, April 9.—An explosion occurred this morning in a four-story house on Borgo Pio street, near St. Peter's. Twenty persons were wounded, some severely, and the building was destroyed. All four floors collapsed. It is thought that dynamite, stored in the house by fishermen for illegal fishing, exploded accidentally.

The explosion was followed by a fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished by firemen and soldiers. The wounded were removed to the hospital.

PASTOR FACING CHARGES QUITS

Davidson Alleged to Have Contracted Common Law Marriage.

Washington, Ind., April 9.—Rev. E. E. Davidson, of First Christian church, charged with having contracted a common law marriage with Miss Laura Bunn Clark, daughter of a former mayor of this city, at the Metropolitan hotel, St. Louis, last December, has resigned his pastorate. Mr. Davidson denies that he entered into any sort of marriage contract with Miss Clark.

The community has been highly excited by the charges of Miss Clark. Davidson has been a popular preacher. He took a lively interest in the local option campaign and in his speeches attacked Charles Sefrit, editor of the Washington Herald. In an editorial in that newspaper today, the editor denounces the minister.

Miss Clark has published letters received while she was at the Grand hotel, Cincinnati, addressed to "Mrs. E. E. Davidson." These letters, it is alleged, are in the handwriting of Mr. Davidson.

RUNAWAY FINDS LOST RELATIVES

Left Home When 4 Years Old—Away Twenty-Four Years.

Kansas City, Mo., April 9.—John Alfred Kohler, known to his comrades as Johnny Alfred, a soldier, stationed at Jefferson barracks, near St. Louis, met his long sought brother, Kit Kohler, a brewery solicitor, in the latter's home here last night after twenty-four years of searching.

Johnny Altred ran away from home when 4 years old, and was picked up and sent to an orphan's home. He forgot his full name.

Recently his comrades urged him to endeavor to find his relatives. Kohler did so, writing a letter to a Kansas City newspaper detailing his history and it was read by Kit. After the reunion near here, it developed that the lost boy had lived for several years next door to Fred Kohler, another brother, in St. Joseph, Mo., without discovering the fact.

KEEP PACT OF SUICIDE

Man and Girl Die in Missouri With Arms Entwined.

Leave Note Telling Where to Find Their Bodies.

Alexandria, Mo., April 9.—Arms entwined, the bodies of Herman Bartlett and Belle Pugh, sweethearts, were found lying on the bank of the Mississippi, three miles below here, after a search of many hours, following the finding of a note telling of their suicide together.

Through the forehead of each was a powder burned wound and a revolver lay beneath them.

The young couple left their homes at 1 a. m. Monday. They wrote a note saying they would drown themselves together at a stated place.

Nothing has been learned revealing a reason for their decision to die.

ELECTION HITS BREWERS HARD

Michigan Counties' "Dryness" Means Less to Cincinnati Men.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 9.—"The 'drying out' of twenty Michigan counties in the local option election this week will cost Cincinnati liquor interests a large amount of business annually, and I believe it would be safe to estimate the loss at about $2,000,000 a year," says a wholesale liquor dealer, in a discussion of the liquor situation. "There is probably $50,000,000 invested in the whisky business in this city," he added.

This city supplied the larger part of the liquor consumed in the Michigan counties.

Two Companies Suspend.

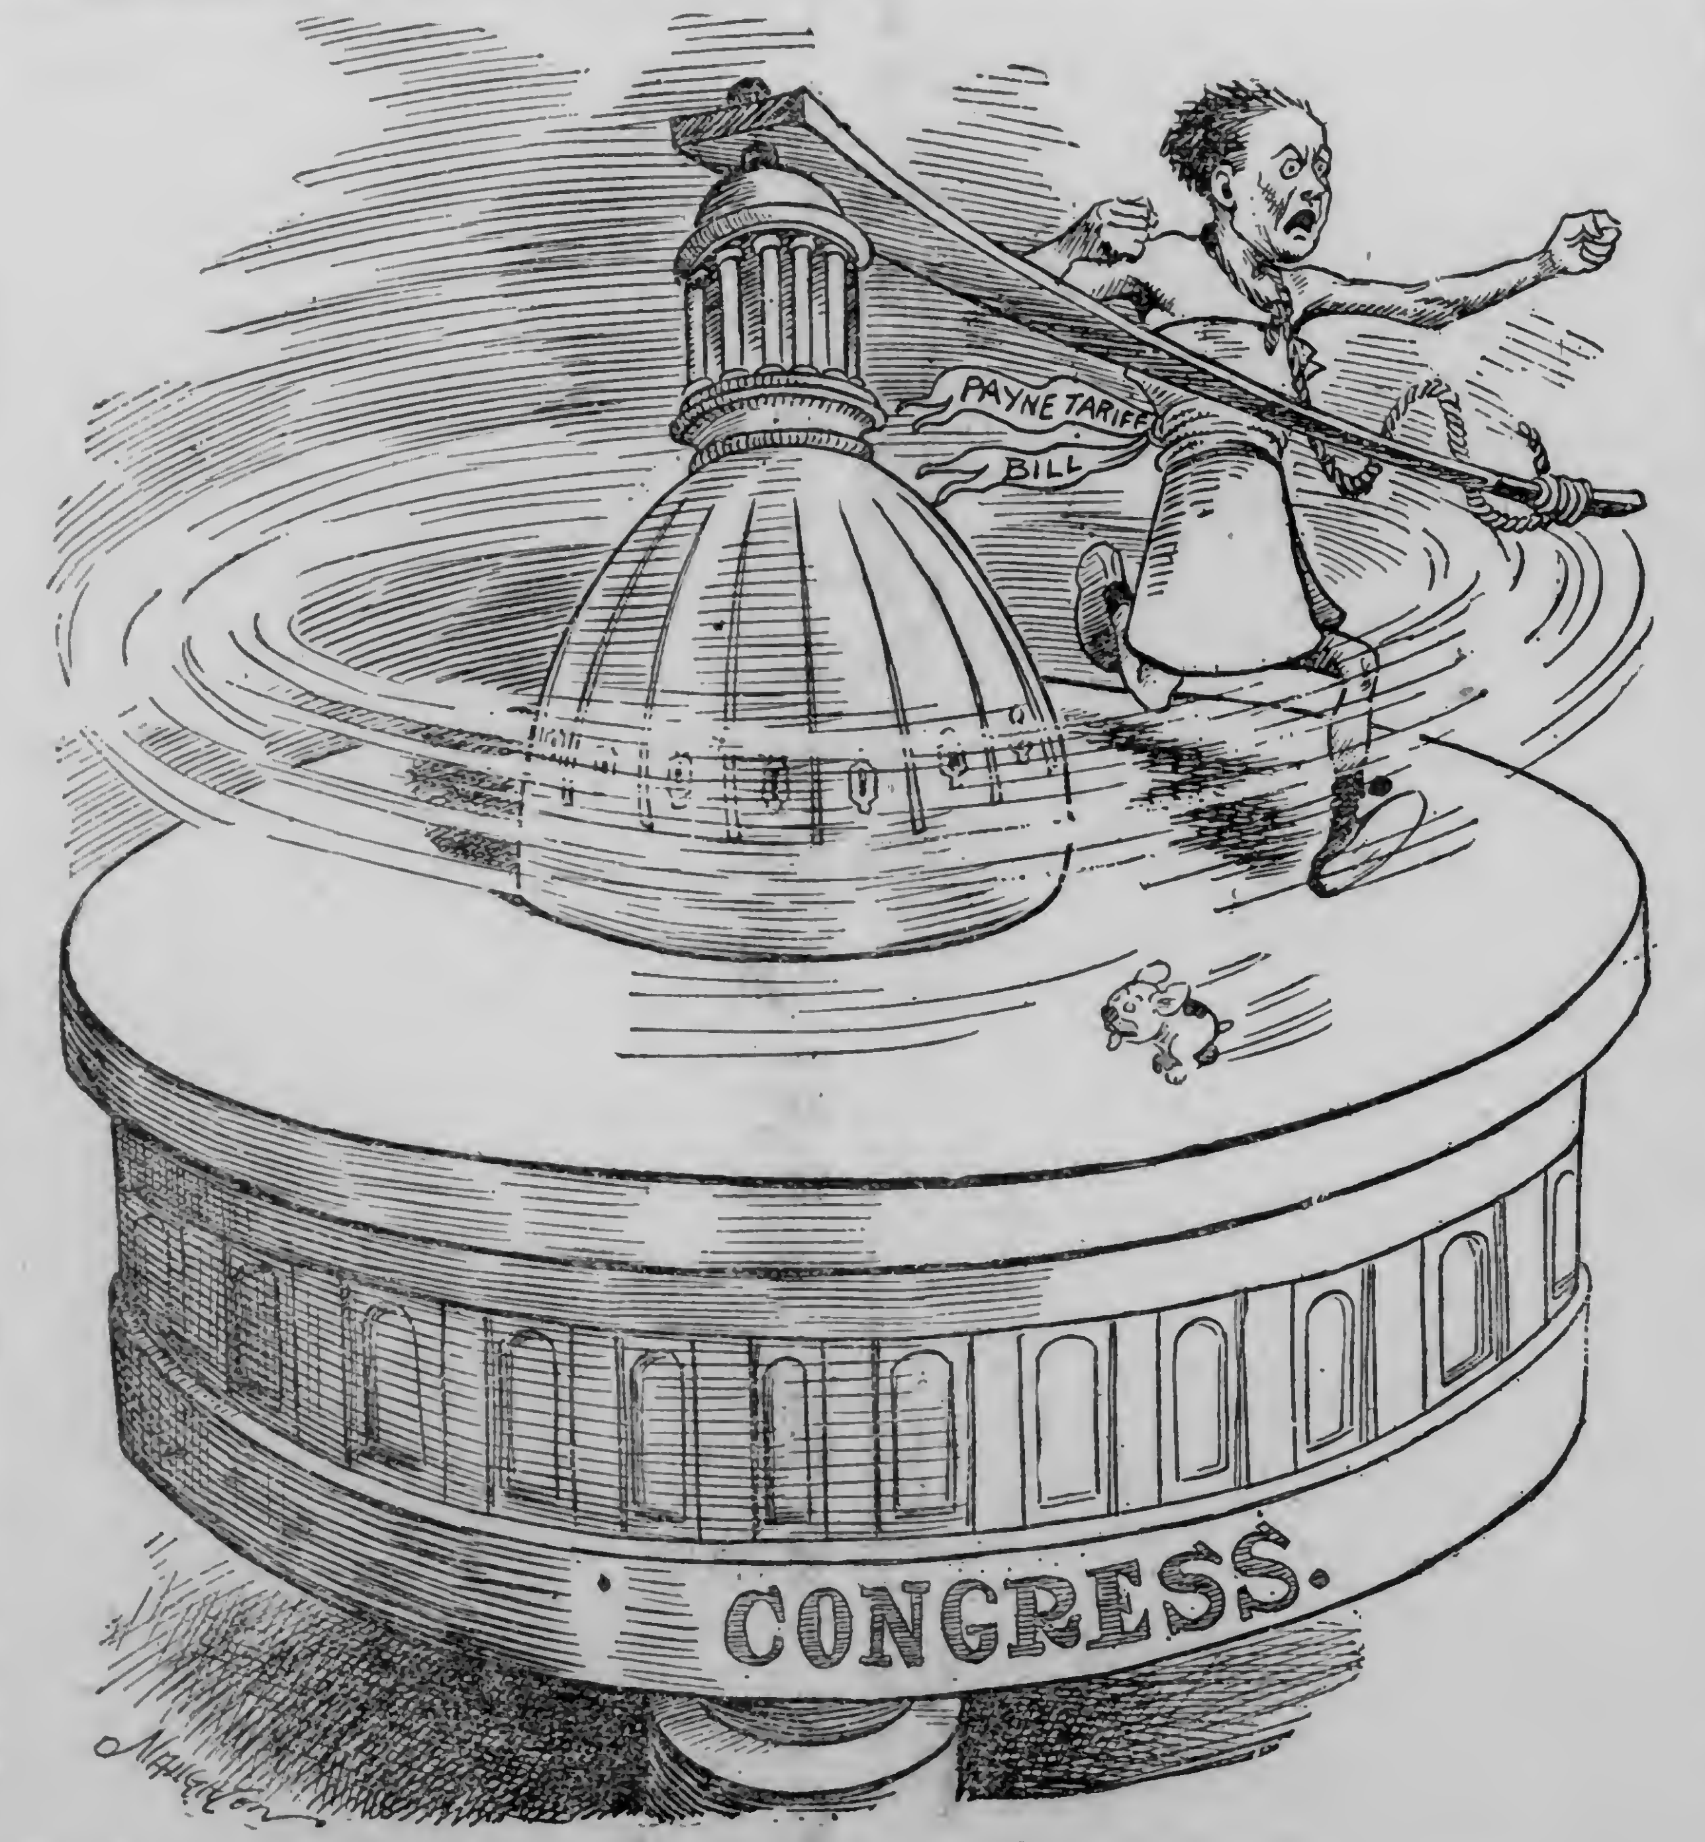
Binghamton, N. Y., April 9.—The Binghamton Trust company, capitalized at $300,000, and Knapp Bros., private bankers, having offices in Deposit and Calicoon, N. Y., suspended today. Chief Examiner M. W. Hutchins took charge of the trust company.

MINERS AND OPERATORS FINALLY FAIL TO AGREE

Philadelphia, April 9.—The anthracite operators and miners, who have been holding conferences in this city, considering wages in the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania failed to reach an agreement today and have adjourned finally. The operators rejected the modified demands presented yesterday by the miners. The answer of the operators was given to the mine workers today in a conference which lasted more than an hour. The officials of the United Mine Workers of the three anthracite districts will hold a meeting lato this afternoon to decide upon a course of action. The operators having headquarters in New York city left for that place on the 12 o'clock train over the Reading railway. They will give out a statement soon after their arrival.

THE TARIFF MARATHON RACE.

He Is Doing a Lot of Running, But Not Getting Any Place.



RUSSIA MIGHT OBJECT TO BURYING MODJESKA'S BODY IN POLISH SOIL

AT 80, HE WILL BE PRESIDENT AGAIN

PORFIRIO DIAZ.

MRS. DIAZ.

City of Mexico, April 9.—President Diaz has consented to "run" for the presidency again, although he is in his eightieth year. Recently he said he did not desire to remain longer in office, but had planned a trip abroad. He has been president since the establishment of the republic, save for one term, and his agreement to "run" means his election again.

International Question Arises as Result of Actress' Death.

Czar's Embassy at Washington Foresees No Complications.

Her Husband Was Exiled Due to Political Writings.

Washington, April 9.—The decision to take Mme. Modjeska's body to Poland for interment gave rise to the question whether the Russian government will permit this, in view of the disbarment of the actress from her native land, and the fact that the obsequies might incite a national anti-Russian demonstration.

At the Russian embassy here today it was said no objection would be made by the Russian government, so far as known here, to the interment of Mme. Modjeska's body in Cracow. It will be necessary, however, to secure the usual permission to allow a body to enter the country.

It was explained that if the government had reason to anticipate any demonstration, it probably would impose certain restrictions, such as a private and secret interment.

Widower an Exile.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 9.—Count Bozenta, husband of Mme. Modjeska, talked before her death of the reasons for the coming of himself and his wife, with others, from Poland in 1876.

Because of his political writings he was exiled from Poland, and Mme. Modjeska was imperial ukased because of the performance on the Polish stage.

Following the publication of a paper read by Mme. Modjeska at the World's fair in Chicago, which had to do with Russian-Polish politics and the former ukase of the czar, a further order was issued, barring Modjeska from Russian possessions.

WAR AGAINST THEATER TRUST

Shuberts Are to Combine With Belasco and Fiske.

New York, April 9.—The announcement by the Messrs. Shuberts that they have withdrawn from the Theatrical Managers' association is the first gun, apparently, of what will undoubtedly be a big theatrical war. The Shuberts, it is stated, have long been the object of concern to members of the syndicate, composed of Klaw & Erlanger, Nixon & Zimmerman, Charles Frohman and Al Hayman, and a fight against them is said to have been planned. But the Shuberts have taken the initiative, and are prepared to make the fight a thorough one.

A new managers' assosiation, which will include David Belasco, Harrison Grey Fiske and the Shuberts, will be formed, it is understood.

POLICE MARTYR'S BODY ARRIVES

Flags at Half Mast in New York for Petrosino.

New York, April 9.—Flags at half staff above the city hall and police headquarters today marked the arrival on the steamer Slavonia of the body of Lieut. Joseph Petrosino of the New York police department, who was assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, on March 12, while engaged in a specially important task of protecting Americans against Sicilian criminals. The police department, city officials, Italian societies and citizens will unite in giving further expression of tribute to Petrosino on Monday, when his funeral will be held.

On arriving at the quarantine station today the Slavonia was met by the police boat patrol, to which the body was transferred from the steamer and conveyed to the landing place at the Battery. Thence the body was escorted to the Petrosino home, to be guarded by police until after the funeral.

Unusual honors expressive of the city's appreciation of Petrosino's courage and devotion to duty will be shown during the funeral on Monday. Solemn high mass will be celebrated in St. Patrick's pro-cathedral, and after the services the body will be escorted to Calvary cemetery by a parade composed of police, military and many Italian societies. "Taps" will be sounded at the grave.

Many flowers, including a wreath from Mayor McClellan, have been sent to the Petrosino home and a movement is under way to provide Mrs. Petrosino and the detective's child with a permanent home and ample funds.

WOMAN FAINTS ON THE STAND

Witness Declares She Is Tired of Being Questioned.

New Orleans, La., April 9.—"I am tired of all this questioning. I would rather die than say another word."

This declaration of Mrs. C. S. McLean of Mobile, appearing as a witness before a United States commissioner was barely uttered when the speaker fell in a faint.

It was several hours before she fully recovered.

Mrs McLean was being questioned in the case of the United States against P. J. Krupp of New Orleans, who is charged with having sent an obscene letter through the mails to Mrs. McLean.

ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE

Mrs. Georgia Sampson, Facing Murder Charge, Cannot Sleep.

Pleads to be Allowed to Tell the Jury Everything.

Lyons, N. Y., April 9.—Georgia Allyn Sampson is to all appearances on the verge of a breakdown from the strain to which she has been subjected since the beginning of her trial for the murder of her husband.

She did not sleep at all last night, and this morning in turn demanded and pleaded with her attorneys for the privilege of going on the stand and explaining everything. Her advisers and friends had difficulty in restraining her.

When she entered court today the young prisoner was pale and haggard and her attorneys fear she may collapse.

The trial had been in progress only a short time today when the prosecution rested its case.

Mr. Tinklepaugh said that the witnesses for the defense would be few in number and that their testimony would be adduced to strengthen the defense's contention that Sampson had not been murdered, but had committed suicide. Photographic evidence would play a part in the defense, the attorney said, and expert testimony to show that suicide was possible in the circumstances would be presented.

Dr. Albert F. Hall of Fulton, N. Y., was sworn as gun expert for the defense. He was formerly examiner at the United States marine hospital.

MONTE CARLO IS DOING WELL

Prince of Monaco, Highly Pleased With Himself, Says So.

Monte Carlo, April 9.—The Prince of Monaco delivered a speech to the Monegasques a few days ago which is remarkable in many respects. When he first came to power in Monaco he was always complaining that his hands had been tied by his father, who had sold the concession for the gambling room till 1911. "It is wrong, shamefully wrong," he used to say, "for the dead to govern the living." But when he wanted money a few weeks ago, he extended the concession till 1960, so binding not only his son, but probably his son's son, for his own advantage.

In his address the prince said: "The law is the first guarantee of order and justice. Our country at the present time is in a peculiar position. Besides the national interests, which turn round our own existences it is a question also of the interests of a large number of foreigners, who have settled down with their fortunes in our country, relying on our justice and wisdom. We are only a small people, but the fact that we have during the course of centuries become rich and flourishing, without an equal in the history of other nations, proves that your princes have led you the right way.

"Truly, no Monegasque of the old stock can forget the glorious and fortunate history of the principality. I despise the lies which are such an important feature of politics. I shall only lead you to noble battles, for I do not possess the ways or means suitable to conquer enemies with Machiavellian acuteness; come to me, therefore, without fear; you will always find me prepared to listen to your wishes. You can count on the continuation of my faithful services, for I am above all the vanities of this world.

"I am proud of the position I occupy, and of the honor shown to my person; a position which I have achieved by hard work, and which no one will ever rob me of. I am proud to have been born on this old beloved rock, which I have brought to its present flourishing condition. What was it formerly and what is it now?"

LUNATIC KILLS LUNATIC.

Jamestown, N. D., April 9.—Julius Larson, an inmate of the violent ward at the state hospital for the insane, from Williams county, died Tuesday as the result of injuries received in a fight with "Scotty" Wanamaker, also an inmate in the violent department. Wanamaker and Larson got into a scrape, and the latter was overpowered, and Wanamaker beat him up in a horrible manner before the guards could separate them.

TO OPEN NAVIGATION.

Capt. Eberhardt Starts Boats on the Red Lakes.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. P. Eberhardt and a crew of eight men left Wednesday night for the Red lakes, where the captain will get his boats in shape for the opening of navigation on the Red lakes. He owns a large towing vessel and two or three smaller launches and barges, which he uses in the season for the transportation of freight and the towing of logs.

He will also continue the picking up of "dead-heads" from the tributary waters of the lake proper. It is supposed that this summer will see the last of these sunken logs secured and piled on the banks.

MARRIES BANK TELLER.

Former Brainerd Girl Figures in Pretty Seattle Romance.

Brainerd, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss George Smith, formerly of this city, figured in a pretty romance on the coast, according to word that has been received here telling of her marriage to Edward Martin, teller of the Bank of Commerce of Seattle. The marriage, although announced March 30, took place, according to reports, last August. Miss Smith was employed as a stenographer at the bank, and while she was away on her vacation Mr. Martin quietly joined her for a day, and they were united in matrimony. The matter was kept secret and she continued her work as stenographer until the announcement of her marriage a few days ago.

NEW COUNCIL IN CHARGE.

Affairs of Brookston Turned Over to New Hands This Week.

Brookston, Minn., April A.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new village council took over the reins of local government Monday evening. There was one vacancy in the council, and the treasurer and assessor had failed to qualify, leaving vacancies in these offices also.

Rowe McCamus received the appointment as trustee, Ralph Banta as assessor and Ed Harder as treasurer. The president of the council appointed the following committees for the ensuing year: Streets, Donley and Garland; licenses, McCamus and Epperson; auditing, Epperson and McCamus; purchasing, Garland and Donley. A considerable amount of routine business was also transacted.

C. O. Eklund returned Wednesday evening from Duluth, where he attended the meeting of the board of county commissioners. Mr. Eklund reports that the commissioners acted favorably upon the petition presented by the people of Culver township for the construction of a road from Alborn to Brookston. Work will be commenced upon the new highway in a short time.

How About Coal for Easter?

It may be more prosaic, but it is vastly of more importance to your domestic economy than Easter eggs, Easter hats, clothes or fine raiment. Now don't, like the Easter rabbit, do any jumping as regards conclusions in reference to the quality of coal. Most all coal that is sold is good, but some is better than others, and the better kind is what we furnish—PITTSTON Anthracite. And it costs no more than the other.

SOME OF THE ODD THINGS HAPPENING

SHOOTS SWEETHEART AND SELF IN BOOTH IN CHOP SUEY JOINT.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Following a lovers' quarrel, Henry Knipe, a grocer's clerk, 24 years of age, fatally shot Miss Alice Thompson, 22 years old, and then turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting two wounds that resulted in almost instant death. The shooting took place in a private booth in a Robert street chop suey house. The couple had been keeping company for some time and it is thought that Knipe had a rival and did the shooting in a jealous rage. The girl was shot twice in the breast and hospital attendants say her recovery is doubtful.

BOY PLAYS WITH OLD CANNON SHELL; FATALLY INJURED.

Atlanta, Ga., April 9.—While playing with an old cannon shell in the yard of his father's home near Ellenwood, thirteen miles south of Atlanta, Wayne Hightower, 10 years old, was fatally injured when the shell exploded. Ina Bowden, 18 years old, was slightly injured. The Hightower youth died. The shell was picked up on the field where the battle of Atlanta was fought.

WORKMEN, DIGGING, DISCOVER $8,500 IN OLD BRASS KETTLE.

Lexington, Ky., April 9.—While digging a post-hole in an abandoned lot, workmen discovered a brass kettle containing $8,500 in gold and silver that apparently had been buried for half a century. The lot formerly belonged to J. C. Dewitt, an aged pensioner, who died several years ago. It is believed he buried the money. The lot was sold at a commissioner's sale a week ago for $116.

FORTY BULLETS KILL AN ELEPHANT THAT RUNS AMUCK.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 9.—"Tom," an elephant in the winter quarters of the "Yankee" Robinson circus here, ran amuck, and seizing his keeper, Charles Bellew, he hurled him high into the air and then trampled him to death. The beast then ran through the animal park, uprooted small trees, destroyed three circus wagons and demolished a bridge across a lagoon. Forty bullets were fired into the beast before it was subdued.

SICK GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL TO TRANSFER POWER.

Hartford, Conn., April 9.—Governor Lilley, who is seriously ill, upon signing a bill by which a lieutenant governor is empowered to act as governor during the illness of a governor within the state, turned over the administration to Lieutenant Governor Frank B. Weeks.

OVER 2,000 PIECES OF MAIL ARRIVE FOR WILLIE WHITLA.

Sharon, Pa., April 9.—Attorney James P. Whitla and family, including Willie Whitla, have returned to their home here from Atlantic City. Mr. Whitla stated that he did not know when Mrs. James H. Boyle will be brought here from Mercer, Pa., for a preliminary hearing on a charge of complicity in the kidnaping of his son. Over 2,000 pieces of mail received in his home during his brief absence awaited Willie.

$10,000 BILL IS FOUND IN CHURCH PLATE; ADVERTISED.

Washington, Pa., April 9.—The insertion of an advertisement in a local paper that there had been found in the collection plate of the Roscoe church near here, after services, a $10,000 bill, developed the fact that the church officers think the donor made a mistake. The yearly collections of the church do not average much more than this amount and the officials in the advertisement state that they will return the money to the owner if he wants it back and can prove he inadvertently dropped it into the plate.

LAWYER GETS $1,000 A DAY AND YET HAS SICK SPELL.

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—The temporary indisposition yesterday of the Standard's $1,000-a-day lawyer, Moritz Rosenthal of Chicago, interfered slightly with the program of the defense in the presentation of its reply to the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for alleged violation of the Sherman act.

JUDGE UPHOLDS FATHER'S RIGHT TO SPANK GIRL OF 17.

Detroit, Mich., April 9.—In police court Justice Jeffries upheld the right of a father to administer the old-fashioned spanking to his 17-year-old daughter even if her dignity suffered. Margaret Granzin, aged 17 had her father arrested for disturbing the peace after a spanking. Granzin told the judge that the punishment was part of an effort to keep his daughter away from cheap theaters, and the jury decided that the spanking of the young lady of 17 was permissable in moderation.

LYCEUM—"The Lion and the Mouse."

"The Lion and The Mouse."

Henry B. Harris has employed his good judgment to its highest degree in supplying the cast of artists and stage setting for "The Lion and the Mouse" company, to be seen at the Lyceum tomorrow and Saturday evening, and on Saturday matinee.

This is the fourth season of "The Lion and the Mouse," and its popularity seems to be at its height. It has been said the Charles Klein play brought the attention of the governing powers to conditions existing in great moneyed interests and trusts of the country. This is not beyond belief, as shortly after "The Lion and the Mouse" had its premiere the trusts began to experience thundering attacks, which have continued to fall in their midst ever since.

"The Servant in the House."

The mysterious Hindoo butler, who gives "The Servant in the House" its name, is one of the most remarkable characters ever presented on the modern stage. This Indian who comes from the ancient city of Benares to accept a servant's position in a quiet English country home, calmly speaks of events he has observed, which his auditors know have occurred 2,000 years before. When summoned by the mistress of the house to perform a commission for her, he startles her by quietly announcing that he knows why she has sent for him, he has read her thoughts—"a certain gift of definition—his by birth." Only one person in the household pentrates his disguise before the end of the play, and she is the rosy-cheeked 15-year-old English girl, who forms an intimate friendship with this unknown stranger from the Far East.

"The Servant in the House" will be presented at the Lyceum theater for one week, beginning Monday, April 12, with Wdnesday and Saturday matinees, by Henry Miller's All-Star Associate players—a company of seven famous actors, including Creston Clarke, Clay Clement, George W. Wilson, Lizzie Hudson Collier, Wilfred Roger, Gladys Wynne and Henry Dornton.

SPRING TERM

PROPOSITION IS ILLOGICAL

Ore Tonnage Tax Is Denounced as Wrong in Principle.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial West says today editorially: "Probably never before has one part of Minnesota been so stirred up and incensed against another part of the state as at the present time; and the cause of it is the tonnage tax bill before the legislature and which has already passed the house. Northeastern Minnesota, including Duluth, or that part of the state known as the iron range, honestly believes that the enactment of a tonnage tax law would cause great injury to the iron mining industry. Furthermore, the iron range believes that it is being discriminated against by the agricultural part of the state; and again, that a tonnage tax would be unjust because unequally distributed. As suggested in a letter to this paper, the burden of proof is on the advocates of the tax to show that such a measure is justifiable.

"Whatever points may be advanced in favor of a tonnage tax, the proposition as a whole is wrong in principle, and therefore the bill should not become a law. If it were an emergency measure—if the state needed the money and had no other way of raising it, and if the Steel corporation had no other source of supply to draw upon, perhaps a tonnage tax law might be defensible. Or, again, if the state in its wisdom deems it best to retain its iron ore in the bowels of the earth for the use of future generations, then a tonnage tax law may be justifiable as a means of figuratively locking the doors of the mines. As a straight taxing proposition, however, a tonnage tax law is illogical, unjust and a crude way of attempting to extort money. 'Attempting,' because if it should close the mines or greatly reduce the output, the law would be a failure as a revenue producer.

"In the agricultural part of Minnesota there is a culpable indifference to the attempt being made to pass the tonnage tax bill. Also, perhaps, there is a sneaking sort of unacknowledged willingness that the state should get some of the 'Steel trust's' money, if it can. It may safely be assumed that if the mines were owned by Minnesota companies and the product were used in shops and factories within the state, nothing would be heard of a tonnage tax law. Obviously, then, the intent is to 'get something out of' those who take our ore. The Commercial West cannot believe that this is a correct theory nor principle of taxation.

"Some of the people of Duluth, in their wrath, have unwisely brought the United States Steel corporation into the controversy. It has been intimated that the Steel corporation would not complete the great work undertaken at Duluth, and might retaliate in other ways if a tonnage tax law is enacted. The Steel corporation should not be considered in connection with the bill in the legislature. As a state we have no knowledge of the existence of the Steel corporation, of Duluth, the iron range nor the agricultural interests. As a state we have no right to consider anything but the principle involved—that is first.

"As for the Steel corporation, the erection and operation of steel works at Duluth is a business proposition. If it does not complete the work begun, it will be because the business outlook is not good, and not because it is 'mad at us.' But if iron ore is placed on the free list, as seems probable, and if a tonnage tax is imposed in Minnesota, it seems highly probable that steel manufacturing will be more profitable at Gary, Ind., than at Duluth."

STEEL CITY DRY; "WAKES" IN GARY

One Year Ago 125 Saloons Flourished in the City.

Chicago, April 9.—Gary, the steel city, is a "dry" town.

Wednesday night the last of the 125 saloons that were flourishing and doing business in the city one year ago closed their doors for what the temperance people believe to be forever. Fifteen saloons went out of business; the other 110 had been dropping out at intervals during the last year.

All of the saloons held "wakes" Wednesday night. Chief Martin gave notice that he would not interfere with the saloons in any way that night. For once Gary was wide open. Crowds thronged all the saloons.

The closing comes as a result of the remonstrance against saloons signed by a majority of the voters in Calumet township, and presented to the county commissioners of Lake county one year ago Wednesday. Under the Indiana law this remonstrance estopped the commissioners from granting any more liquor licenses. The last license expired Wednesday.

The loss of license money to the county through the closing of the saloons will be about $12,500 yearly.

MILLER KEEPS EAR TO GROUND

Wants to Hear From Constituents on Tariff Bill.

Congressman Clarence B. Miller has sent out a circular letter to his constitutents requesting advice on their sentiments in regard to the tariff bill, which is now before congress. Incidentally, Mr. Miller takes advantage of the opportunity to defend himself from the attacks made on him on account of his votes during the organization of the house. Part of the letter follows:

"Congress is busy revising the tariff. I desire to keep in close touch with the sentiment of my district, hence this letter to you. The proposed bill puts the following on the free list: Iron ore, hides, wood pulp, coffee and coal. On lumber the duty is reduced from $2 to $1. Tea is taxed from 8 to 9 cents per pound. Duty on steel products, boots and shoes, sugar and print paper greatly reduced. I should like an expression of your views on these changes, or any other in which you are interested.

"During the organization of the house I was a member of the so-called insurgent band, and in Republican caucus voted against Mr. Cannon and against adoption of the old rules. Being bound by rule to support the majority will of the caucus, I did so until released, then acting with others of liberal views, I was instrumental in securing beneficial changes in rules as follows: (1) Calendar day when any member can bring up his bill for passage; (2) unanimous consent calendar; (3) selection of members of committee on rules by the two parties acting in caucus.

"I sincerely trust you will look upon me as your personal representative in congress, and call upon me whenever I can serve you."

Dickinson in Chicago.

Chicago, April 9.—Jacob M. Dickinson, secretary of war, arrived here today to keep an engagement to speak at a banquet of the Hamilson club tonight.

TIGHT WADS NOT WANTED

"Pikers" Don't Make Good Brewery Agents, Says Witness.

Harry Cavallin, Charged With Embezzlement, Was No "Piker."

A brewing company doesn't want any "pikers" in its employ. A "tight-wad" can't get business from the company's patrons so they allow a man practically a free hand in his expenditures made in the interest of the company for the purpose of holding business, and securing new patrons. So said P. C. Schmidt, attorney for the Fitger Brewing company, on the stand in district court this morning during the trial of Harry Cavallin, charged with the misappropriation of about $2,000 of the company's money while he was its agent at Hibbing.

In answer to questions put by Victory Power, Cavallin's attorney, in the cross-examination, Mr. Schmidt said the company allows its agents to use their own judgment in the matter of expenditures, giving the office manager supervision of them. If the expenditures mount up higher than is commensurate with the amount of business the agent is put on the carpet. If it is repeated too often, there is an adjustment of the tinware, and a new face visits the saloons.

A good deal of inside information on the brewery business was given to the jury. If an agent makes a big collection and would expect to treat everybody in the house on the strength of it he leaves a few dollars that "de gang" may be treated when they show up, providing there are only a few in the place at the time. If the collection is big enough he may leave $8 or $10. If one brewery is doing the keg business with a saloon, no attempt is made by other breweries to interfere with that business, said Mr. Schmidt, unless the patron is dissatisfied with the product he is handling.

Mr Cavallin was distinctly not a "piker" in the brewers' understanding of the term. About a month after he took charge of the Hibbing office, his expense account was reported as $400. The amount was a little strong and the office manager ordered him to curtail, but his expenditures among the company's patrons at Hibbing were never niggardly.

The prosecution of Mr. Cavallin is based on the allegation that he failed to report the expenditure of the money he is charged with embezzling. He claims he spent it in the interest of the business. The books of the company at Hibbing were introduced this morning to show the state of the accounts and the bookkeeper at the Hibbing office was on the stand nearly all morning explaining the entries.

HOLDS OWNER RESPONSIBLE

Court's Drastic Interpretation of North Dakota Anti-Liquor Law.

Fargo, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The power of the courts to close buildings used for violating the prohibition law of this state was involved by Judge Pollock of Fargo in the case of Druggist Foogman of Hillsboro.

Foogman owned a building in which he formerly conducted a jewelry store. Later he added drugs and stationery, and still later took in a Mr. Clark for a partner and called it the Foogman Drug company. Foogman had personal charge of the jewelry side, while Clark conducted the drug business, but Foogman had the largest interest and handled the cash. The store was raided on a charge of violating the prohibition law and a large quantity of whisky and wines seized. The evidence showed that Clark had made many illegal sales, but Foogman was not so charged. The court held that Foogman was responsible, as the owner of the building. The liquor was ordered destroyed and the store locked up for a year. Property owners, and especially druggists, have watched the case with a great deal of interest.

Minot, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dickson Steinhofer, deputy sheriff of Ward county, will get $200 for arresting William Lambert Barr Duff, who was taken back to Canada on a charge of stealing three high bred horses from C. Aurora, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Francis William, the 2-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ayatt of the Mohawk location, died Monday night. The funeral was held from the Catholic church Wednesday.

Messrs. Olson, Porter and Banks finished their surveying work here for the Oliver Mining company Wednesday, and have returned to McKinley.

It is reported that the contract has been let by Dr. Lenont of Virginia, for a $10,000 hospital, to be built on the northwest corner of Jackson street and Fourth avenue.

A SECOND SHAFT IS BEING SUNK

Roger-Brown Company Pushing Work on Cuyuna Range Property.

Deerwood, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Rogers-Brown Ore company has commenced work on their second shaft on the Rabbit Lake mine. They will put down a four-compartment shaft with two openings for skips.

The new shaft is located a short distance northwest of the present shaft, and most of the ore will be taken out through it. The company has now drifted 250 feet and Supt. Kruse reports perfect satisfaction with results. The company has five drills at work on its location in 30-46-28 seeking a suitable location for the shaft there, it having been decided to abandon the one already started and sink one farther from a small lake, the water of which is bothering them greatly.

Deerwood young men have organized a baseball team and will play its first game a week from next Sunday. Bert Lough is captain and manager. Their first game will be with Cuyuna's team, of which Ed Rhodes is manager. This team is said to be a strong one and a good game is expected.

The office building of the Rogers-Brown Ore company is now nearing completion. The building is built on residence lines rather than according to the traditions of what an office building should be. There is a handsome colonial porch in front with four office rooms, a blue print room and a vault on the first floor and four bedrooms and a library on the second floor. There is a large basement with vault and the building will be heated with hot water.

BRANCH OF UNIVERSITY.

Athletic Association Cannot Therefore be Sued, Says Supreme Court.

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Holding that the University of Minnesota Athletic association is a branch or department of the University of Minnesota, the Minnesota supreme court, in a majority decision, has decided that it could not be sued.

The decision was handed down in an appeal by the association from a judgment obtained in the Hennepin county court by Edward E. Gorge for $2,000 for personal injuries received Nov. 2, 1907, when a part of the grand stand at a football game collapsed.

REFUGE MOUNDS MAY BE BUILT

Bill in Congress Proposes Protection From River Floods.

Washington, April 9.—The construction of fifty experimental mounds on which the people living along the banks of the Mississippi river may take refuge together with their livestock during seasons of flood, is the proposal that Representative Wallace is preparing to urge upon congress. He has introduced a bill for the appropriation of $50,000 for this purpose.

"The government has constructed levees along the Mississippi," explained Mr. Wallace today, "from the mouth of the Ohio to the head of the passes, sometimes fifteen miles back from the river.

"Between the levees and the river are more than 1,000,000 acres of valuable farming land. As a result of the levee building policy of the government the lives and property of the inhabitants on that 1,000,000 acres of lands are threatened every time there is a flood. The levees tend to bank the water up over the land. The aborigines constructed mounds along the river on which they might take refuge, and I believe that, owing to the policy of the government, long since adopted, it ought to construct new mounds for the present inhabitants."

Henseler today rendered his verdict in the Krueger murder case, holding Michael Soboleski, a tailor, responsible for the deaths of Ludwig Krueger and his wife, Augusta, whose bodies were found buried in the cellar of their home after it had been destroyed by fire, the morning of April 1.

TOOK HER LIFE BY DROWNING

Msr. Alice Smith, Formerly of Duluth, Committed Suicide.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 9.—Mrs. Alice Smith of 1421 West Thirty-second street committed suicide yesterday afternoon by jumping into the lake at Edgewater park.

Later, her husband, Frank Smith, who had found a note at home from his wife, after reading its contents, hurried to the Eighth precinct station and sought the aid of the police to locate her. The police told him of a woman's suicide at Edgewater park. Smith hastened to the county morgue and identified the body as that of his wife.

"Oh, Allie, why did you do this?" he shouted, as he recognized the body through the glass case. Then he became hysterical with emotion and left the morgue. The police refuse to tell the contents of the note but hint that it indicated domestic troubles.

Mrs. Smith was a refined-looking and rather pretty woman, of about 35 years. It is said that she came from an excellent family at Duluth, Minn., where her relatives reside. She was married to Smith ten years ago. She had a daughter by a prior marriage, who is with relatives at Duluth. Both the dead woman and Smith made their living by cooking on vessels during the navigation season. Mrs. Smith was an artist, and in the winter gave art lessons.

which they are accredited as legal residents.

"It was to correct this abuse of the civil service law which requires an apportionment of employes of the civil service among the several states and territories that this amendment was adopted," said the senator. "Many people come to Washington, live here for twenty-five or thirty years, and their children claim the former residence of the father, although they may never have been in the state for purposes of apportionment.

"This is not in accord with the spirit of the civil service law, and either the section requiring apportionment should be repealed, or the apportionment should be made on a basis of actual residence."

The cause of death was congestion of the brain.

Mr. Wetmore was well known in Duluth, particularly in the West end, where some years ago he conducted a newspaper. He was a brother-in-law to Col. W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill). He lived at Bay View Heights during the last few years of his residence in Duluth.

MINSTREL SHOW BY MILITIAMEN

Company M of Hibbing Planning to Entertain in June.

Hibbing, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lieut. Col. Gerlach and Capt. Hatcher, state military storekeeper, were in Hibbing Wednesday night and inspected the local militia company. The inspection was largely attended, and both Col. Gerlach and Capt. Hatcher were favorably impressed with the manner in which the men went through their drills. It is the intention of the company to give a minstrel show in June that will eclipse anything of an amateur kind ever presented in Hibbing.

The show is to be given in the Power theater, and Holly Shepard will be engaged to instruct the players in their several parts. Another military ball will be given in the near future, the last one at Close's hall having been such a great success. The track team is already making preparations for several meets which will be held previous to the events held annually in connection with the annual encampment at Lake City. The men who won honors at Lake City last year will again be out, while several new men who have reputations for athletic ability will also try for the team. The old members who have signified their intention of again getting out are as follows: George Haley and William McLeod, in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dash; William Archambault, shotput; J. M. McCarthy, high jump; Walter Crandall, pole vault, and G. Haley, broad jump.

The ammunition for target practice will be shipped here from St. Paul Monday night. Outside practice is to be held as soon as the weather permits. The armory will be ready not later than May 15. This is something that Company M has been sadly in need of in the past, and will be greatly appreciated. It is to be one of the finest armories outside the big cities in the Northwest. The drillroom will be 50 by 110 feet. There is also to be a locker room, shower and plunge baths, quartermaster's room, non-commissioned officers' schoolroom, company room, first sergeant's office, quartermaster's office, kitchen and officers' room.

Eveleth Militia Inspected.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lieut. Col. William Gerlach, U. S. A., inspected the local militia company last night and was greatly pleased with the work of the company. He complimented the men on their appearance and progress since last year, and predicted that they would be among the best companies in the regiment if they kept up their work. All the companies were striving to be the best, but the Eveleth company would be amongst the first.

About sixty-two men turned out last night. A large number of people witnessed the inspection. The newly organized Eveleth City band made its first appearance last night, playing before and after the inspection.

NASHWAUK'S NEW SCHOOL.

Duluth Contractors Are Pushing Work of Excavating.

Nashwauk, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—McLeod & Smith, the Duluth contractors, who are to build the $50,000 school to be erected here this year, are already pushing the excavating work.

The building will be one of the finest of its kind in this section, facing Deering avenue, with sides on Second and Third avenues.

The building will contain at present eight rooms, with main and individual halls, and an extra high basement, which will be fitted up with a gymnasium, shower baths, playrooms, etc. The third floor will be used as an auditorium, and will be as finely furnished and decorated as any auditorium on the range. Provision has been made for enlarging the building at any time by the addition of wings at each side of the front, which will add four rooms for teaching. Nashwauk has long needed such a school, as the present accommodations are altogether too small, necessitating the holding of the kindergarten class in the Finnish church, as well as crowding each room to its utmost capacity.

CARL R. JOHNSON.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl R. Johnson, who this week resigned from the city council as alderman in order to attend to his business in Virginia, where he has located, was popular here as the owner of the Johnson Supply company. He was always actively interested in the city's welfare and there is general regret over his decision to leave the city.

FIRE FIEND AGAIN VISITS CHISHOLM

First Conflagration Since Great Calamity, Guts Variety Store.

Chisholm, Minn., April 9.—Special to The Herald.)—The first fire here since the great calamity of last September broke out last night in the variety store of B. Baernstein on First avenue, starting about 6 o'clock, while the proprietor was a supper, and the alarm naturally caused great excitement. Within two minutes there were hundreds of people running to the burning building, ready to assist in preventing the spread of the fire. The shell of the building was saved through the wood work of the firemen, but the interior and the contents were completely destroyed by flames or damaged by water. There was no insurance and the loss amounts to several hundred dollars. The origin of the blaze was the explosion of a gasoline lamp.

HOT AFTER GAMBLERS.

Mayor of Bovey Starts War on the Green Cloth Knights.

Bovey, Minn., April A.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chief of police has been ordered by Mayor Provinski to close all gambling places in this place and to notify saloon keepers to observe the closing law to the letter. The town has heretofore been on the wide-open policy, the twenty-five saloons running about as they pleased, and the mayor's order meets with general approval.

The council has voted to spend $30,000 to pave Second street and Seventh avenue and to extend the water mains a distance of 3,000 feet. The work will begin as soon as the contracts can be let and weather conditions are favorable, so as to have the contracts completed during the summer.

FANS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Hibbing Lovers of Sport Expect to Have Great Nine.

Hibbing, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A directors' meeting of the baseball team was held last night and steps taken to perfect the organization for the coming year.

This year's team will undoubtedly be placed on a salary basis and the merchants will be asked by the committee appointed to subscribe toward its maintenance.

This year's team will undoubtedly be the best of the many fast teams that have represented Hibbing. Bob Gelselman, the fast little center fielder, will captain the team on the field.

CAPT. TREZONA "WATCHED."

Popular Eveleth Mining Official is Remembered by Fayal Employes.

Eveleth, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the employes of the Fayal mine like their superintendent was evidenced the other evening at the Fayal club when Capt. R. R. Trezona, who has just returned from an extended trip with his wife, was presented with a gold watch valued at $200, the gift of the employes of the Fayal mine. Supt. G. H. Dormer made the presentation speech, lauding Supt. Trezona's work and his standing as a mining captain. The response of Supt. Trezona indicated the feeling with which he accepted the gift. The captain and his wife left Eveleth, Feb. 2, and visited the most prominent places in California, Washington and Montana.

Selling liquor without a license was the second charge. Three kegs of beer, thirty bottles of beer and a case of pop were brought to the municipal court as exhibits and evidence. Drascovich was fined $75 or seventy-five days. An appeal will be made to the district court.

PLANING MILL TO START MAY 15.

New Industry Will Soon Be Running in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. A. Spang and William Hoolihan have bought the planning mill outfit put in some time ago by the King Lumber company and have ordered additional machinery which will be shipped about May 1.

They have secured a site on the river just above the Itasca Paper mill between Burrows and Clough avenues and expect to have the wheels turning by the 15th of May. They have secured the services of George Shook to take charge of the mill work. During the past winter Mr. Hoolihan put in several thousand feet of timber that will be put through the mill besides which they will do custom work.

The mill will not be on a large scale to start with, but will cost about $6,000. In addition to planning they will make laths this season. The site selected is a very desirable one for the purpose and no doubt it will be made to pay from the start.

The celebration of Easter Sunday at St. Joseph's Catholic church will be of unusual interest this year. The many decorative and other improvements recently added to the interior of the church building through the effort of the Rev. Conconi mass in F with violin and cello accompaniment will be sung. In the morning Rev. Dean Buechler's sermon subject will be "The Joys and Sorrows of Holy Mother Church." In the evening at 7:30 the subject will be "The Resurrection."

Two Harbors, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of notable visitors was here this week looking over the Iron Range terminals, the big docks, the work on the sorting yards, etc.

Prominent in the party were officials of the Canadian Northern railroad, and the trip is believed to be fraught with considerable significance, but just what it means cannot be learned.

In the party were: General Manager McLeod, General Superintendent Cameron, Traffic Manager Shaw of the Canadian Northern, M. A. Murphy of the Duluth, Virginia & Rainy Lake, and Mr. Hill, purchasing agent of the same road, together with Messrs. Johnson, Clark and White of the Duluth & Iron Range.

TARIFF BILL VOTE NOW

ure, to be done, the principal feature of which was action on the various committee amendments, which it is intended to incorporate into the bill. The proposed amendments to the drawback law will probably arouse considerable discussion, and for that reason they are being reserved until the last.

The consideration of the bill to provide for the thirteenth and subsequent censuses is the chief business to come before the senate when it meets today. Senator La Follette, chairman of the committee on census, reported this bill to the senate yesterday, with amendments which were regarded as likely to give rise to debate on the civil service law.

By one of these amendments examinations for positions in the entire civil service of the government must be taken by applicants within the states to which they are accredited. Previously, they have been entitled to take the examination anywhere, being required only to prove citizenship in states in which they claim legal residence.

So complicated has become the sugar schedule by reason of the conflicting statements made by sugar importers and representatives of American beet sugar factories that the sub-committee of the committee on finance, consisting of Messrs. Burrows and Smoot and Flint, have determined to take steps to discover just what was the agreement reached last May, at a conference between Mr. Taft, Charles B. Warren, president of the Michigan Sugar association; Phillip McMillan and Senator Smith of Michigan. This conference was held at the Boardman residence in this city, and at the conclusion Mr. Warren stated that Mr. Taft had made a proposition in regard to the admission of Philippine sugar, which met the approval of the beet sugar interests in this country.

It has been supposed that the Payne bill, providing for the free admission of 300,000 gross tons of Philippine sugar annually, was drafted in accordance with that agreement, but since the bill was taken up by the senate committee vigorous protest against the Philippine section has been made by beet sugar interests. Their chief protest is not directed against the introduction of 300,000 tons annually free of duty, but upon the belief that that quantity will be expanded and a smaller duty paid upon the whole of the importations.

Wire to Warren.

A telegram was sent to Mr. Warren last night asking him to come to Washington at once and inform the committee just what he understands to have been the agreement with Mr. Taft. A reply has been received from him saying that he will arrive here some time tonight, and a session of the sub-committee will be held immediately upon his reaching the capital. It is probable also that the members of the sub-committee will go to the White House and converse with the president concerning the understanding reached last May.

About half of the membership of the senate was banked in front of the finance committee's rooms for two hours before the committee began its sessions on the tariff bill today.

The senators were buttonholing individual members of the committee and they proposed changes in a variety of schedules from acetate of lead to zinc. Several coast senators were there asking for increased protection of citrus fruits and it is reported that Senator Flint, a member of the committee has succeeded already in increasing the duty on lemons to 1½ cents per pound, which is a quarter of a cent in advance of the Payne rates and 1 cent in advance of the existing Dingley rate.

Senator Dixon asked the committee to place a duty upon ore from which antimony is reduced. There is now a duty upon antimony, but none upon the ore, and the Montana senator asserted that there is a combination which controls the antimony production by reducing imported ore, which they obtain at a cost less than is required to take the ore from Colorado, Montana and Idaho mines.

Senator Dick was present to look after the retention of the reciprocity clause concerning bituminous coal and Senator Elkins was there to get the clause removed. A number of Democratic senators sought admission.

CURFEW SHALL NOT RING.

Virginia Judge Comes to Rescue of Down-Trodden Husbands.

Richmond, Va., April 9.—Police Justice John Peter Crutchfield added another statute to the unwritten code today, when he ruled that a married man may stay out as late as 10 p. m., whether his wife forbids such hours or not.

Mrs. Hatkin Shiplin tried to prevent her husband from smoking a cigar and talking politics on a neighbor's porch until that hour. She made so much fuss about it that the neighbors had her arrested.

"We married men don't have much liberty now, but you have no right to keep your husband in the house all the time," said the court. "Your husband has almost as many rights as you have and you must respect them. I agree with you that he should not stay out all night, but you must let him smoke his cigar and talk politics if he wants to. I am the protector of down-trodden men. Our curfew shall not ring tonight nor any other night in Richmond."

Helena, Mont., April 9.—Mrs. Mary Goodnow, a well known Madison county ranch woman, has been placed under arrest for obstructing a highway. WATSON CONCLUDES FOR STANDARD OIL.

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—Attorney David T. Watson of Pittsburg this morning concluded his argument for the defense in the suit to have the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey dissolved as a persistent violator of the Sherman anti-trust act. Again and again the lawyer emphasized his first legal proposition, that it mattered not what the defendants might have done in former days, the only question for the court was whether the Standard Oil was engaged in restraining commerce and engaging in unfair competition on Nov. 15, 1906, when the bill of complaint was filed against it.

SUICIDE WAS DRAMATIC.

Osage, Iowa, April 9.—Mrs. Hannah Pierce, aged 75, climbed to the top of a fifty-foot windmill tower and jumped off to her death. Her daughter saw her, but reached the scene too late to stop her mad act. She was ill and no doubt insane.

SUIT TWENTY-NINE YEARS OLD COMES UP.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., April 9.—A suit of James D. Bell and others to recover for labor and material furnished the Vermont division of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad thirty years ago, which has been before the courts twenty-nine years, will come before the May term of the supreme court at Montpelier. Since the action was begun the railroad has passed through a receivership and has been absorbed by the Boston & Maine. More than half of the fifty original claimants have died in the course of the litigation.

INCENDIARIES DESTROY SCENE OF PRIZE FIGHTS.

Philadelphia, April 9.—The building of the Olympic Athletic club in Essington, Pa., near here, in which 15-round prize fights were given, and which was recently closed by the authorities, was destroyed by fire today of undoubted incendiary origin. The clubhouse was located in Delaware county, and has been the source of many contentions because of the recent objection to prize fighting. The loss is estimated at $15,000.

DEFENDANTS FILE ANSWERS

Clark Mining Company Denies That Mrs. Rogers Was Defrauded.

An answer to the suit begun some time ago by Mary T. Rogers of Oklahoma has been filed with Clerk T. H. Pressnell of the federal court by Wilson G. Crosby, John McClintock and Edward W. Barnes, the defendants.

The answer is a lengthy one and goes much into detail, explaining how the land was bought, not stolen, from Mrs. Rogers and denying the fact that the widow was ever defrauded in any way.

Mrs. Rogers in her complaint claims that living as she did in an out of the way place, she had no means of telling how valuable the land was, and that the purchasers took advantage of this fact and misrepresented everything to her so that the land which has since become valuable, went into their hands for a mere song.

The defendants deny all this and say that the land was purchased at a fair price at the time the transaction was made, that it was covered with incumbrances, that the title was not clear, and that the real expenditure came when these things came to be cleared up.

On the ground that the whole affair was misrepresented to her, Mrs. Rogers asks $280,000. The price originally paid to the widow for the land was $4,750, which the defendants say was but a small part of the actual money invested.

The land in question contains about 120 acres and is now said to be very valuable on account of ore deposits found there. It is the sw ¼ of the nw ¼ of sw ¼ of section 28, township 58, range 20 w.

Duluth Merchant Says Revision Interests Foreign Business Men.

Business interests in Europe, as well as in America, are awaiting the outcome of the tariff revision in the United States, according to Al Abraham of the Oak Hall clothing company, who, with Mrs. Abraham, returned this morning from a ten weeks' trip abroad, where they visited the principal cities of interest.

On their way over they were on the same ship with Mr. and Mrs. James Granger of Duluth, although they did not know it until after two days out from New York. Mr and Mrs. Granger went on to Egypt, and will not return to this country until next month.

While in Europe Mr. and Mrs. Abraham visited Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, Geneva, Nice, Monte Carlo, Cannes, Lyons, Switzerland, Holland, Strassberg, Berlin, Belgium, Paris and London, and then home.

They were in Paris during the strike, which tied up the cables and mails between this country and there and caused great inconveniences to American tourists, not to mention the big business interests.

Mr Abraham says that while they were in Paris they witnessed the unveiling of a statue which caused quite a demonstration among the Socialists and Anarchists of the city. The demonstration nearly ended in a riot. About 1,000 mounted police and cavalrymen were called out to keep the peace.

Though they had a great deal of inclement weather on their journey, Mr Abraham says they had a most enjoyable and interesting time.

BUCK PAROLED AT STILLWATER

Wrecker of Mankato Bank Is Given His Liberty.

Stillwater, Minn., April 9.—Among the paroles granted by the state board of control at its April meeting was one to Alfred A. Buck of Mankato. He was a son of the late Judge Daniel Buck of the supreme court, and was convicted of bank wrecking. After his Mankato bank failed he went to Mexico, but was located and taken back home, where he was found guilty of grand larceny in the first degree and sentenced to six years and four months. His father died later.

The young man was received in the prison Nov. 1, 1905. His term expires, allowing for good time, May 15, 1910. By the terms of the parole he will be released from the prison when suitable employment is provided for the period that must elapse before his final discharge.

He was one of eleven prisoners granted paroles, and there were three discharges. This is the largest number of releases from the prison in one month, upon parole and discharge, in many years.

INJUNCTION HALTS MISSOURI ROADS FROM THREE-CENT FARE MOVE

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—Under the terms of a temporary injunction all railroads operating in Missouri are restrained from putting into effect the 3-cent fare which was to have obtained after midnight tonight. The injunction was granted at the instance of Seebert G. Jones, circuit attorney of St. Louis, acting for Governor Hadley.

The petition alleges that the railroads have entered into an unlawful agreement to fix the rates and thus have failed to carry out their charter requirements in operating connecting lines. It is also charged that there is a discrimination between classes of passengers in that some are charged 3 cents on the ticket rate and others 2 and 2½ cents on the mileage basis.

The injunction is returnable next Monday.

All the proceedings surrounding the filing of the suit were accompanied by secrecy and yet revealed a clever arrangement to have the proceedings brought at a time when the railroads were off guard, and no proceedings could be brought to forestall the effect of the injunction.

DO NOT WORRY

It Makes Wrinkles, Prematurely Ages and Causes Nervous Dyspepsia.

It really doesn't seem sensible for any one to worry or fret about indigestion or dyspepsia; they are curable until they develop into or lead to diseases that may be incurable. Kodol prevents dyspepsia and other serious ailments by giving the stomach effective aid in its processes of digestion—thus making and keeping the stomach well, strong and active. And when you have a sound stomach, you need not worry about dyspepsia, or what it leads to. Indigestion and dyspepsia if neglected too long, will result in irreparable damage to the whole system. Kodol is the stomach's ever ready assistant—anxious and able to help prepare this food, and make strength and vigor for the body. Every tablespoonful will digest 2½ pounds of food. If your stomach is experiencing any difficulty at all in the correct performance of its daily task—try a few doses of Kodol. You will then know just what Kodol is for—and what it will do. Our guarantee—Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate; any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.

DIRECT NAMING PLAN DEFEATED

New York Assembly Votes Down Hughes Nomination Bill.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—Direct nominations as recommended by Governor Hughes have received their death blow in the assembly at least so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. By a vote of 112 to 28, after a debate lasting most of the day, the assembly decided to sustain the adverse report of the judiciary committee, which, with two dissenting votes out of twelve, had registered its disapproval of the measure. Assemblyman Green introducer of the bill, with Assemblyman Klein, submitted a minority report. Seventy-five Republicans and thirty-seven Democrats voted by indirection against the bill, while eighteen Republicans and ten Democrats voted for it.

While the bill was being defeated in the assembly, Governor Hughes was on his way to Rochester to speak on direct nominations. Already there is speculation as to whether there is a possibility of the legislature being called back in extraordinary session by the governor because the assembly did not vote directly on the bill, but upon a motion to adopt the report of a committee.

SPAIN'S NAVAL PROGRAM.

Alfonso Interested in Plan for Improvement of Fortifications.

Madrid, April 9.—The recent journey of King Alfonso to Ceuta, accompanied by the war minister, had great political significance. The visit had for its main object the fulfillment of the second part of the program for naval reconstruction. Two years ago it was recognized that Spain would reconstruct her navy, and then begin the renovation of her military ports, making Ferrol, Vigo, Cadiz, Cartagena, Rosas, Mahon, Ceuta, Melilla and Teneriffe places capable of giving shelter to and protecting Spanish squadrons, or squadrons belonging to allied or friendly powers. The naval program has now passed both chambers without modification.

Several weeks ago it was decided to study the second portion of the program, and, therefore, the king personally, and the new minister of war, Gen. Linares, visited Ceuta and Cadiz. In their visits to strategical places the best means of placing fortresses will be studied, and in the next budget the necessary credit will be asked for the military works and for guns, which will be manufactured in the Spanish works at Trubia, which have already been fitted for turning out heavy pieces up to 13.5 inches. Shells will be made in the military factory at Seville.

At Cadez and Ceuta the ports will be sheltered, and the batteries constructed in such a way as to render them extremely difficult of attack. This spring King Alfonso will examine other ports, Ferrol and Vigo receiving special study. All this great reform of the military ports of Spain is being done in full accord with England, and England is particularly anxious that the works shall be carried out in the shortest possible time. The days when England was not so closely related to Spain and was opposed to fortifications in the environs of Gibraltar are now over, and both nations are in full agreement in recognizing that the Straits of Gibraltar are like the jaws of a bulldog, which would be stronger still if the lower jaw, which is Ceuta, had a strong row of teeth. Thus the batteries of Ceuta and Gibraltar could cross fires and set the whole strait in a blaze if necessary.

ADVANCE IN PORTO RICO

Decade of Uncle Sam's Rule Shows Great Strides Made.

Much More Progress Than in 400 Years Under Spain.

San Juan, P. R., April 9.—Ten years of American rule have done more for Porto Rico than four centuries of Spanish administration, according to figures compiled here on the eve of the tenth anniversary of the ceding of the island to the United States by the treaty of Paris, in 1899. Statements of exports and local commerce for the period show with what leaps and bounds this prosperous corner of Uncle Sam's domain has begun to forge ahead now that the Spanish lethargy has been thoroughly shaken off, and a review of the achievements of the military and civil governments discloses a record of which Americans may well be proud.

Ten years ago the exports from Porto Rico to the United States were valued at $2,414,356. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, they were $25,891,261, or over ten times that amount. The new figures show a probable further increase for 1909. In 1908, less than $3,000,000 worth of sugar was exported. Today the total is over $14,000,000. In coffee, which used to be the leading staple, the increase is also marked, although sugar now holds the first place. In every case the new prosperity, which has made these figures possible, is credited to the insular government and the sound basis upon which affairs in the island have for the first time been put.

Effective Work Done.

Go wherever you will, throughout the island and you will not lack evidence of the quiet but tireless and effective work of the American administration. Four hundred and thirty-five miles of macadamized roads, in splendid repair, now make communication easy between San Juan and Ponce, and the cities on the west coast. Two-thirds of this has been built since the occupation. The railroad around the island, projected by the Spanish, but allowed to hang fire year by year, is now an accomplished fact. Big harbor improvements have been made in San Juan and Ponce, and more than 1,000 public schools have taken up the work of educating the Porto Rican children—and sometimes their parents.

In nothing else has the efficient work of the insular government been more clearly shown than in the way in which the public finances of the island have been reorganized. For slipshod and corrupt methods of taxation under the Spanish regime have been substituted sound fiscal methods, and the result has been a sudden growth of prosperity in the agricultural districts, which furnish the basis of the island's wealth. The net public debt is now less than $3,000,000, or less than 2½ per cent of the assessed valuation. The bulk of this money has been spent in public improvements, which have brought their indirect return many times over. Further work of this character recently led the government to issue $3,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds, which were promptly taken by a syndicate in the United States, of which Lawrence Turnure & Co. of New York, A. G. Edwards & Sons of St. Louis, and the Western Trust & Savings bank, of Chicago, are the principal members. This assures funds for the further development of the system of harbors and public highways, which the United States engineers, who superintend all such work, have recommended.

Spain's Neglect.

The record of Spain during her four centuries of control is less one of serious maladministration than of sloth and neglect. Although Porto Rico is perhaps the most fertile island in the Antilles, it was not until the beginning of the last century that the Spanish government made any attempts to exploit it. Prior to that time it had been used as a penal colony. In 1870 it became a province of Spain, with representation in the cortes. By that time there was a large class of "Gibaros" or prosperous Spanish farmers of Andalusian stock. No encouragement toward systematic farming was offered, however, by the provincial government, and while the emancipation of the slaves in 1873 did not bring about the commercial and social disorganization as elsewhere in the West Indies (the blacks remaining as freedmen with their masters) the island marked time until 1898.

The American work of regeneration really began in 1898. Public schools were established in the larger towns before the Spanish garrisons had evacuated San Juan and Ponce. Hospitals were erected and the same effective campaign of sanitation undertaken that brought about such spectacular results in Havana. A naturally healthy climate has assisted the government physicians in bringing down the death rate to perfectly normal proportions. The island has now a population of 1,000,000 persons. As in Cuba, the whites greatly outnumber the blacks.

Words To Freeze The Soul.

"Your son has Consumption. His case is hopeless." These appalling words were spoken to George E. Blevens, a leading merchant of Springfield, N. C. by two expert doctors—one a lung specialist. Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. "After three weeks use," writes Mr. Blevens. "he was as well as ever. I would not take all the money in the world for what it did for my boy." Infallible for Coughs and Colds, its the safest, surest cure of desperate Lung diseases on earth. 50c and $1. Guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free. All druggists.

LONDON'S NUMEROUS ODORS.

If You Can't See Your Way, You Can Smell It.

London, April 9.—The Daily Chronicle says: "London in Smell" would form a pleasant sequel to Mr. Chitten's "London in Song." For in London you may find—if not the seventy smells that Coleridge identified in Cologne—enough to tell you where you are. The neighborhood of Covent Garden smells of vegetables. If you smell tanneries, you may know that this is Bermondsey. Billingsgate flings its odor of fish until you make your way to the smell of old clothes and sausages, and know you are near Petticoat lane. Garlic? Ah! this is Soho. And Saffron hill, abode of Italians, smells no longer of saffron, but of onions. When you smell pickles you know you are nearing the top of Shaftesbury avenue, and then you can certainly find the corner of the Tottenham court road by the smell of beer. But cities have each their peculiar smell, and no one has ever come back to London without noticing its peculiar appeal to coal smoke. Paris smells of coke, and Washington of negroes. Moscow has a strange scent of a popular berry, which we usually call a cranberry. St. Petersburg puzzled the writer's nose until, upon his second visit, he appealed to a sensitive woman friend, who had just arrived. "What is the smell?" "Why, it's old boots," she replied. St. Petersburg smells of elderly leather.

405-407 WEST SUPERIOR ST.

THIS STRANGER'S DREAM SOUNDS LIKE A TALE FROM ARABIAN NIGHTS

City Engineer McGilvray cannot say whether the man is French, Italian, Greek or Spanish, but J. T. Zaragozo, who professes to be an engineer, and who called at the city hall yesterday, has a scheme which beats a certain French engineer's moving sidewalk plan for Duluth to a frazzle.

So far as money is concerned, even a larger expenditure of cash would be necessary to put the project into execution. The man's idea is to erect a building on Superior street, which would extend to the boulevard. Its front door would be on the city's main thoroughfare, and its back door on its most popular driveway, about ten blocks distant.

The structure would be ten stories in height, and would have street railway tracks along its roof. On each floor would be a roadway for teams, which would be lifted to upper floors from Superior street by means of powerful elevators. Each floor would connect with one of the hillside streets. For example, a load of coal going to Fourth street would drive on to the elevator on the Superior street level, and be hoisted to the fourth floor. It would leave the elevator there, and find itself on Fourth street. And there you are. The overloading ordinance would no longer be necessary. The problem of heavy loads would be solved.

Huge Apartment House.

The huge building would be a mammoth apartment house, containing hundreds of rooms on each side of the roadways on the different floor levels. The living rooms would be fitted up with all modern conveniences, as if they were in the finest flat buildings in teh city. Doors would open out upon the roadways and, of course, all the apartments would have outer windows, facing either to the east or to the west. There would be elevators every half block, and people living there and wanting to go down town could either walk along the roadways, which really would be immense corridors, or they could take the elevator to the roof and board one of the street cars.

A cute idea in connection with the proposed building is a toboggan slide on one side, leading from the boulevard to the bay front, and a ski slide on the other side, covering the same distance. It is figured that a tobogganist or ski rider starting at the boulevard would attain a velocity sufficient to carry him to the Superior entry. He might then be unable to stop, and would crash into the Great Northern ore docks, and do them great damage, due to the force of the impact. This could be guarded against, however, by driving a double row of piles in front of the docks, as a protective shield. If properly braced, these would save the docks behind them from injury at the hands, or rather the bodies, of the ski and toboggan riders. It would be great sport. In this connection, it is proposed to have automobiles constantly in service to draw the coasters back across the bay.

Airship Stations

By the time the building is completed it is expected airships will be quite the fashion, and it is proposed to establish airship stations along the roof. This would provide an ideal starting and lighting place for the great artificial birds of the air, with their loads of human freight.

It is figured that the structure could be built for a matter of $15,000,000 or thereabouts. Mr. Zaragozo told Mr. McGilvray that if he would raise the capital among Duluth's copper kings, he would see to it that the popular engineer was elected president of the stock company, and also made general superintendent of janitors, an important position, by the way, for Mr. Zaragozo says it would be necessary to employ 207 janitors to properly look after the building. Mr. McGilvray suggested that it would be a good idea to have the city build the affair, and make the positions of janitors' jobs to be filled by political appointment. The man doing the appointing would have great political power.

The building would be of steel and stone construction and would be absolutely fireproof. There would be a suitable number of garages on each floor, the most of them being located on the upper floors, of course, for they would be the longest. It is planned to have the building have a 200-foot frontage on Superior street, and, of course, it would be the same width all the way back. There would be archways over each street along the route of the structure.

Mr. Zaragozo has only $10,000 of his own money to invest in the project, but thinks there will be no difficulty in raising the remainder in Duluth and New York, but principally Duluth. He figures the big sums of money coming in constantly as rentals from the hundreds of occupants would pay a satisfactory interest upon the investment. He would establish a complete fire department upon the third, seventh and top floors as protection to the occupants. The city engineer said he would take the matter of organizing the company under consideration, and Mr. Zaragozo said he would return for his answer at 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

GERMANY'S CRIME INCREASES.

Bavaria Heads Cities in the Criminal Record.

Berlin, April 9.—Recently published criminal tables of the German empire point to a steady increase in crime. Roughly speaking, the criminality of the empire rises 2 per cent annually over and above what might be expected from the natural increase of the population.

One of the most unpleasant features is a constant increase of habitual criminals, another the more rapid increase in the number of juvenile offenders. The increase in all branches of crime would seem however, to be confined to the males, as the number of adult and youthful female criminals is steadily decreasing.

Dividing the population of the empire into industrial, trading and agricultural classes, crime is much more prevalent in the first of these classes and less prevalent among persons engaged in trade and agriculture.

Bremen seems to be the most criminal district of Germany, followed by Bavaria, East Prussia, Berlin, and Hamburg. The freest from crime are the small principalities in Central Germany.

WHEN ENGLAND SHOOK

London Chronicle: In the course of long history England has known a few serious earthquake shocks. In the days of William Rufus one was felt throughout the country, and in 1274 an English earthquake destroyed Glastonbury among its other damage, while part of St. Paul's cathedral fell in as the result of an earthquake in the sixteenth century. Perhaps the most recent serious shock was that which inflicted much damage in the Eastern counties in 1884; a mansion house fund opened for the sufferers.

MISSIONARY'S WIFE PRAISES CUTICURA

Daughter's Head Encrusted with Dandruff—Feared she Would Lose her Hair—Many Treatments were Futile—Baby had Milk-Crust.

BOTH CHILDREN CURED BY FAMOUS REMEDIES

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest, and we were living on the edge of the desert at an elevation of nearly five thousand feet. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair, which was very heavy. After spending between five and six dollars for various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. After rubbing the Cuticura Ointment thoroughly into the roots of the hair, I gently combed the crust of dandruff free from the scalp, and then gave her head a thorough shampoo with the Cuticura Soap. This left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and after the hair was dry I again rubbed the Cuticura Ointment, this time sparingly, into the roots, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. My troubles with dandruff were over, although for a long time afterward I used the Cuticura Ointment as at first, after shampooing, which kept the scalp and roots of the hair moist. I have used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called "milk-crust on baby's head, and have never found anything to equal them. You are at liberty to publish this letter, for I do sincerely believe that the Cuticura Remedies are a blessing to mankind. Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 20, 1908."

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful curatives for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed, when necessary, by a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) is often sufficient to afford immediate relief of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.

PREPARING FOR EASTER

Fragrant Flowers Fresh From Bermuda Have Reached New York.

Opening of the New Bridge Across the East River.

New York, April 9.—With billions of Easter lilies budding behind a bristling array of palm branches in stores and stalls all over town, Gotham is today preparing for as gay an ending of Lent as ever opened the season of blossoms and bonnets here. Half a dozen huge hulls have just been warped to the waterfront loaded from stem to stern with tons of fragrant Easter flowers, fresh from Bermuda. Thousands of dollars' worth of the precious plants are each hour being potted and borne away to the ends of the island. Banked to the roof of every florist shop in the city, their opening blossoms are being sought by eager crowds of holiday shoppers, who are paying high for these first tokens of the opening season. With the lavish orders which the fashionable milliners are reporting today, these signs show such a spirit of hopefulness for the future as has not been observed here in years. The busiest as well as brightest summer season in a long while is being already anticipated in this metropolis.

Burdening Bridges.

Twenty million dollars' worth of steel and stone is today just beginning to bear across East river the human load for which eight years have been spent in fitting it. Now that the last rivet has been put in, the giant cantelever skeleton of the Queensboro bridge, and the first foot been set across its huge expanse, New York is becoming proud of the task, which has taxed its purse and patience through several administrations. Third of the great mid-air links, that now actively bind the boroughs over the water, this latest bridge structure is today just beginning to draw off some proportion of the rush hour tide that ebbs away to the suburbs from the offices of this island at sundown. A constant procession of automobiles has already begun to monopolize its gangways, on air line routes from upper Fifth avenue to the speedways and swell estates of Long Island. Altogether, the opening of this new outlet is only serving to show the pressing need of many more.

Higgins to Hughes.

While Hughes is struggling to break the bonds of the bosses up at Albany, veteran political observers in this city are today recalling the last visits and talks of the late Governor Higgins here, which plainly foreshadowed the present trend of events. No man in the public life of the state ever came closer to those who enjoyed his company at the old Albemarle hotel than did Higgins, whose visitations were a frequent feature of Amen Corner society. During the last months of his term the domination of the men who hold the conventions, committees and primary nominations in the hollow of their hand was plainly overburdening and irking this brave, gentle man. The power of the primary wielding bosses was often the subject of discussion when the Amen brethren visited the chief state executive at his breakfast table across the way, and no one failed to note the wearied way in which Hughes' predecessor contemplated his fight against these odds to gain some expression for the will of the people. That the wresting of the bosses' grip from the primary polls would inevitably come about was at the time agreed to; and now many of the former visitors at the Albemarle believe this day is at hand.

Startling Sounds.

Even the noise of Roosevelt's send-off has been forgotten in the roar of dynamite from the explosion of the Hoboken viaduct, which is still ringing in the ears of New Yorkers today. If an earthquake or volcanic eruption had struck Manhattan island, it could have caused scarcely less commotion than did the report of this accidental blast as it boomed out in the dead of night. Not since the explosion of the Tarrant drug house has New York city experienced as startling a sound. Millions of windows were slammed open, and from the stillness of the night the city in a few moments began to buzz as it does at mid-day. Accidents of this sort are rare on this island, though enough explosives are stored in stores of cellars and lofts of the wholesale districts to blow the town to atoms. Everyone is hoping that the scare will teach a lesson to the city's careless inspectors.

Fight Fans.

More New Yorkers are mad for the excitement of the prize ring today than ever flocked to the fights when this game was legitimatized hereabouts ten years ago. To see the polite little bouts which crafty promoters are now holding before a dozen gilded clubs, thousands of fight fans are beginning to pay heavy prices and cry in vain for real action. The big negro Johnson is today drawing crowds of white men each night simply to watch him punch the bag at a music hall. This general mania for the sights and sounds of the pugilistic ring is being made much of by the sporting gentry and theatrical managers of this city, and no one would be surprised to see efforts made to again turn Manhattan into an island of prize fighting.

ITS INITIAL ACTIVITIES

First Work of the Sage Foundation Endowed With $10,000,000.

Prevention of Tuberculosis and Blindness—Playgrounds Urged.

New York, April 9.—The initial activities of the Russell Sage Foundation, endowed by Mrs. Sage with $10,000,000, are given to the public for the first time in the Survey, the New York weekly magazine which has just changed its name from Charities and the Commons. In an article by Robert W. de Forest, counsel for Mrs. Sage, the Survey says:

Had Mrs. Russell Sage wished to perpetuate the name of "Sage" in such manner as to challenge the attention of all observers, her foundation would have taken some material form instead of being a still-working educational force. She might have built a pyramid, or a new Colossus of Rhodes, which would have caught the eye and put to shame some of the seven wonders of the ancient world. Had she, and the trustees whom she has associated with herself in the Sage Foundation, sought to advertise the work of the Foundation to gain acclaim for all it is doing, they might have insisted on branding every activity in which it took part with its sole name. In doing so, however, they would have lost the co-operation of many of the forces and many of the individuals who are seeking in different ways to accomplish the purpose of the Foundation; that is "the improvement of social and living conditions." And by so doing they would have been acting contrary to one of the principal means suggested by Mrs. Sage in her letter of gift for carrying out this purpose. For these reasons the Foundation has sought to ally itself with other existent forces and other individual efforts working in the same direction.

Among the propagandist movements to which the Foundation has contributed both direction and financial support are the following:

Prevention of Tuberculosis.

At the time when the Foundation was organized the educational side of the movement to prevent tuberculosis was being successfully prosecuted in the city of New York under the leadership of the New York Charity Organization society. The National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis had been organized and was looking forward to the international congress which was recently held in Washington. There had been no considerable educational movement in the state of New York. The Foundation provided the means whereby a very successful educational campaign has been instituted in New York state through the State Charities Aid association. The result of this campaign has been that over $1,000,000 has been appropriated by municipalities, counties and individuals for tuberculosis hospitals, dispensaries, and other agencies. It has also helped the educational work of the Charity Organization society in Manhattan, and the same work of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities in Brooklyn. It has enabled the national association to accomplish several other special pieces of work and to begin some educational work, which when once proved successful will be supported by individual contributions. The Foundation contributed to the international congress at Washington. It also paid part of the expense of the recent tuberculosis exhibition in New York, which attracted the unparalleled attendance of about 750,000 people within six weeks.

Playground Extension.

The Playground Association of America contained among its officers and members great enthusiasm but very small financial resources. One of the first things the Foundation did was to contribute the money necessary for a model playground and exhibit at the Jamestown exposition. The Russell Sage Foundation has contributed largely to this movement and has secured for it the guidance of Luther H. Gulick, M. D., as president. Since the Foundation took part in this movement playgrounds have been established in about 100 cities and about 175 have been projected under either municipal or private management.

Care of Children.

The Foundation has been carrying on investigations into placing out children in families, and the management of children's institutions. The result has been very encouraging. Notable improvements in methods are reported in several states. The Foundation has recently secured the services of Hastings H. Hart of Chicago, as a member of its staff to oversee and direct its work for children.

Children's School Gardens.

The Foundation gave the money necessary to establish and operate at the Jamestown exposition a model children's school garden. It has aided in the education of teachers for such gardens, and it has assured the continuance of a model garden in the neighborhood of New York to which the many who are seeking information and direction on this subject can be referred as a demonstration of what they can do in their own localities.

Charity Organization Extension.

At the time when the Foundation was organized a movement was in progress to promote the organization of charity organization societies in cities in which they did not already exist. This was under the direction of Charities Publication Committee. The Foundation has given this committee the means to secure the services of Francis H. McLean, formerly connected with the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, and Miss Margaret F. Byington, formerly of the Boston Associated Charities. The secretaries have visited some fifty cities and towns and report encouraging progress everywhere. One noteworthy accomplishment was the establishment of an Associated Charities in Pittsburg.

Prevention of Blindness.

The Foundation has been supporting the work of a special committee of the New York Association for the Blind, directed particularly to the prevention of blindness in children. A recent pamphlet on this subject, entitled "Children Who Need Not Have Been Blind," issued by the committee, has had wide circulation.

Social Research.

Illustrative of research relating to lines of effort in which action may be expedient are the following: A careful study of workingmen's and other forms of small insurance, conducted at home and abroad by Lee K. Frankel. In co-operation with the school officials of New York city, Leonard P. Ayres, under the direction of L. H. Gulick, has been making a study of the causes of slow progress among school children. Valuable discoveries have been made. A study of the evils of the salary loan business and of the chattel loan business. The desirability of establishing an employment bureau in the city of New York. This last investigation, conducted by Edward T. Devine, will unquestionably lead to the establishment of such a bureau on a business basis within a short time.

An important special line of research has been the so-called Pittsburg survey, of social and industrial conditions in Pittsburg as a typical American industrial city. The material will be assembled into a series of reports somewhat analogous to Charles Booth's famous report on the city of London. Part of this material has already been published in "Charities and the Commons." It will be embodied in several volumes now in course of preparation by the Foundation. As a direct result of the Pittsburg survey, a civic commission, composed of fifteen leading citizens of Pittsburg, each chosen because of special qualifications, has been appointed by the mayor to work for the betterment of conditions in the city.

The schools of philanthropy in Boston, New York, Chicago and St. Louis have been given the means to establish departments for social investigation.

The publications of the Foundation already number eight, and are in the form of books and pamphlets. They are standardized in form and typography and are issued by Charities Publication Committee, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York.

Other Activities.

The subject on which the Foundation is at the moment placing great emphasis is that of the housing of the working classes. It is not proposed to duplicate the existing model tenement buildings, but it is giving serious attention to suburban housing. The recent purchase of some fifty acres of land near Jamaica, L. I., which has been credited in the public press to Mrs. Sage, was a purchase by the Foundation. For more than a year past Grosvenor Atterbury, the well-known architect, has been making for the Foundation studies for small houses, and experiments in cheap construction.

Among the corporate or individual efforts to which the Russel Sage Foundation has contributed pecuniary aid are the following: The National Red Cross, to secure the appointment of a director, Ernest P. Bicknell; the president's homes commission of the city of Washington; the expenses of the recent child saving congress in Washington.

The above statement of the initial activities of the Foundation is not inclusive or complete, nor is it intended to be. It is only illustrative. The Foundation has many lines of effort under consideration, and action in some is progressing. Publicity would embarrass some of these efforts. Knowledge that the Foundation was aiding financially might deter contributions from others toward the same purposes and discourage desirable co-operation.

An Adaptable Foundation.

The fundamental idea of the Foundation is to place in the hands of qualified trustees the income of a considerable fund with power to use it in whatever particular way they think best from time to time to improve social and living conditions. It is not confined, as have been so many foundations in the past, to a single form of social betterment. A foundation most needed and most beneficent a quarter of a century ago might now, with the shift and change of social conditions, be comparatively useless. A foundation most wisely adapted to present needs might find those needs better supplied from other sources in the course of the next generation and thus become unnecessary.

The history of past foundations emphasizes this point of view. Many which were highly desirable when they were established have become useless and worse than useless. More controlling, however, is the thought that with the constant change of conditions, and broadening, or it may be contraction, of the sphere of government activity, the future may develop other and greater needs for private philanthropic action than any which are now apparent. For these reasons the Russell Sage Foundation was made sufficiently elastic in form and method to work in different ways at different times.

KIBOSH ON FIREWORKS.

Eclipse of Moon No Cause for Noise, Says Chinese Prince.

Hongkong, April 9.—On the occasion of eclipses of the sun or moon, it has for centuries been customary in China for everybody, down to the meanest subject, to let off firecrackers and cause gongs to be beaten for the purpose of frightening off the monster which is supposed to be swallowing the luminary, and for every mandarin holding office to burn candles and incense and prostrate himself before the darkening orb. The superstitious custom no longer to be officially recognized. A Pekin letter states that the astronomical board presented a memorial to the prince regent the other day reporting a forthcoming eclipse of the moon and recommending the performance of the usual ceremonies. To the horror of the conservative portion of the court, Prince Chunn replied that all this was mere superstition which must now be abolished forever. The news that this enlightened view is held by the prince regent is said to have filled the hearts of all liberal minded Chinese with gratification.

The heavy rains of the last few days have made the roads almost impassable and Weston's progress will be slow.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.

Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to INSIST upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements, giving rise to frequent headache, backache, dragging-down pain or distress and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostation, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Holy week has no diversions but church and preparation for Easter week. There are many people who observe the festival of Easter without actively considering holy week, and, their attitude of mind can be understood and appreciated, but how do those women manage who attend devotions in the morning and evening and between times plan for that most earthly of all woman's possessions, her hat? And yet, truly it may be, that choosing that same hat may be a part of the penance of the Lenten season.

When memory calls to mind the several different species of fright that one has had while trying spring hats, it seems that Easter, and spring, and fashion, and hats, are not all unmixed blessings. When one thinks of one's heavy pensive face staring lugubriously out from under a mound of heavy straw or as it looked, appearing thin and pinched under a towering column unadorned save for a few yards of spangled net, and a cluster of lilies festively caught in with a few sprays of lilies of the valley and chastely fastened with a bow of yellow velvet caught with an iridescent buckle—or when one remembers and hides one blushing face at the memory of how one looked under a frivolous cascade of fetchingly feminine foolery that was also called a hat—then one thinks with longing of savagery and freedom.

The weather man says partly cloudy for Easter, and what winds there may be will be blowing from the east.

The Rev. J. W. Powell sends out a special invitation to those women, who, through force of unavoidable circumstances, will choose to wear their old hats on Easter to attend services there, for at the Endion Methodist church has gone into effect the custom of removing hats during the service. Along the back row and on the outside aisle, seats may be placed for those women with new hats who are especially anxious to keep them on. Otherwise the hats will be removed. This dictum has fortunately, or unfortunately, however you happen to look at it, not gone into effect at most churches, and the Easter array will be bright and interesting.

There are in the world, however, plenty of people who will not wear or think of having an Easter hat, but the whole world is interested in the flowers of Easter, and the greenhouses and the florists are the most attractive places in the city these last two days. For weeks the gardeners have have done their best in coaxing along the beautiful growing things and hundreds of Easter lilies, in their pure and simple beauty, will express the spirit of Easter in churches and Duluth homes. The other plants, in beautiful springlike yellow or a blaze of pink beauty, and the cut flowers, will all have their place in the Easter of 1909.

Y. W. C. A. BIENNIAL

Meeting to Be Held This Month at St. Paul.

The approaching date of the biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian associations, to be held in St. Paul April 22 to 26, draws attention to the significance of the gathering, which while technically the second biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian associations of the United States of America, is in reality the first since the union of the associations of the country became a fact and the national board was elected.

The regular business of the national organization will be transacted. Reports and recommendations in view of the past two years of study and experiment will be presented by the national board to be considered and acted upon by the convention in their relation to the future policies and developments of the national work and as they will affect the activities of the national board for the ensuing two years.

The program provides for a number of addresses on subjects closely allied to the association movement. Among the speakers will be Bishop Charles P. Anderson, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of Chicago; Prof. Walter Rauschenbusch of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Rochester, N. Y.; Rev. Francis J. McConnell, D.D., president of DePauw university; Rev. Samuel L. Zwemer, D.D., of the Student Volunteer movement; Rev. John Douglas Adam of the First Presbyterian church at East Orange, N. J.; Walter M. Wood, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, Philadelphia and Miss Mary E. Wooley, president of Mount Holyoke college, who will speak in general of the association movement. Special hours will be given to the study and discussion of problems that belong to specific parts of association work and opportunity made to visit the nearby local city and student centers.

The convention is a national gathering at which will be enacted legislation to effect and influence for all time the work of the Young Women's Christian association in all sections of this country. It will likewise influence the development of association work in other countries where there are American secretaries sent out under the foreign department. The program has been carefully planned with all of these points in view, and there is every reason to expect that the biennial convention of 1909 will be the most inspiring and the most far-reaching in results of any gathering of the Young Women's Christian association workers ever held.

The national organization now represents a membership of over 184,000 women located in the cities, educational institutions, industrial centers, mill villages and towns of the country. Effort is being made to secure a representative attendance of at least 1,000 regularly accredited delegates, each local association being entitled to one voting delegate for every 100 voting members.

Y. W. C. A. MATRON.

Mrs. E. D. Hardin to Be in Charge at Building.

Mrs. Ethel D. Hardin of St. Paul has been engaged as matron of the new building of the Young Women's Christian association, and will be in the city to assume her duties May 1, when it is expected that the association will be occupying the new quarters. Mrs. Hardin has been matron of the hospital at the Soldiers' Home at St. Paul. She will be in charge of the floors devoted to the dormitories and parlors.

The work at the new building is progressing rapidly and the finishing work is now being done in many parts of the building.

THE EASTER SEASON

Should Lead All to the Larger Life.

Cannot you and I, when the Easter season comes around, make all its memories and all its ceremonies help us in living the larger life? asks Edward Everett Hale in "An Easter Talk" in the Women's Home Companion. We go back to the morning when the sad, heart-broken women found that the stone was rolled away from the mouth of the sepulcher, and we find that morning a new life began for the world. We read in our Bibles carefully and eagerly about the Marys and about the walk with Jesus to Emmaus and about the company who met Him by the lake shore. But it is not they only whose life is enlarged. As it has proved, the new birth of the world began then. And if you and I use our Easter memories rightly—yes, if the children can feel that this is not only frolic, but larger life out of which the frolic is born—so much the better for all of us.

I do not like to have people talk and sing as if the memories of Easter belonged only to funerals. When the Savior says, "I have come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly," He does not mean merely that He must make them feel sure of a future life. He means to enlarge everybody's life now where everybody live. Did not Peter and Andrew know what life more abundant meant as soon as they had talked with Him? I am glad to have people live as immortals live; and what He wanted was that you and I should live as immortals live. People tell me that capitalists do not like to invest money unless it is going to bring them in profit within the next ten years. That may be true of capitalists who know nothing except about the counters which we call money. But what Jesus Christ promises you and me is that we may have more life today and tomorrow and every day, if only we will live as immortals live. He is not satisfied with telling us at an open grave that he who did inhabit that body is to live a life where we do not see him. He wants that you and I shall live more on Tuesday than we lived on Monday. That is what he says to Peter and Andrew and Salome and Dorcas and you and me. He says that this is a part of heaven and that our Father in heaven is here. We can find Him if we seek for Him with all our hearts; and He will speak to us if we listen to Him. Our lives enlarge themselves as soon as we enter on the service which is perfect freedom, or as soon as we feel that real presence of the living God.

MAY DAY GOWNING.

The Climax of Spring Fashions is Reached.

May day, I believe, is supposed to countenance a certain license in dress. Colors turn more vivid, gowns more daring and hats more audacious and provocative than at any other time of the year. Spring makes us over, and we in turn make over our wardrobes to match the rejuvenation of our minds and bodies, writes Mrs. Simcox in the May Delineator.

Youthful frocks that we would reject at any other time and season are accepted without a quibble under the innocuous influence of the maddest month of the year. Bebe hats and pinafore dresses are powerful allies of the society for the suppression of old age and become the "open sesame" to the Never, Never Land inhabited by those of us who refuse to grow up.

And wearing what we feel like seems to be the order of the day with most of us just at present. Fashion is in a generous mood and for once has ceased to bully us into following one straight and narrow path regardless of consequences. She seems to have repented a little of the vigorous discipline to which she has subjected us and our embonpoint for the last year. She is giving us a little breathing-space during which we can revel in whatever styles seem to suit us best before sending us of on another will-o'-the-wisp chase after some other quality quite as elusive as our long-sought-for slenderness.

For never in my experience in the dressmaking world has there been such a remarkable latitude in the choice of fashions opened out to women. The medieval and Ranaissance styles meet the follies and foibles of the directoire and Louis XVIII periods in perfect amity over the teacups. A glimpse into a smart restaurant leaves one with the confused impression that some ambitious artist has tried to present the history of dress of the last twelve centuries on a single canvas.

Varied as the fashions are, all of them are conventionalized more or less, so that those of bygone day's blend with the present styles into a curious composite type that is very interesting. They have all the puzzling charm of a half-remembered face that teases you with its familiarity and yet exasperates you with its strangeness.

As for the status quo of the different epochs, there is really little to choose between them. The practical styles—by which I mean normal waistlines, skirts of decent width and sleeves a little fuller than they were last winter—have successfully reinstated themselves in popular favor. They indicate a more reasonable attitude on the part of the couturieres who are beginning to grasp the fact that last season's styles were as cruel to some women as they were kind to others. They are making amends royally, and the newer, simpler, less picturesque, but also less exacting, fashions are sure of a very warm welcome.

Household Hints.

Just for a change try filling apples which have been bored ready for baking with orange marmalade or raisins and a little butter and sugar. The result is delicious.

Add a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the water in which prunes are cooked. The syrup will be much improved in flavor.

A good rule to remember about flour is that for pastry it can not be too cold, while for cake, and especially for bread, it should be slightly warm.

Styles in Jewelry.

So much that is old has become new that our grandmothers 'possessions are being held up as the latest thing in fashion. This is not only true of cloths, scarfs, hair ornaments, high-heeled slippers, but of jewelry.

With the craze for Byzantine jewelry has come the revival of three kinds of ornaments worn by another generation.

These are corals, seed pearls an' cameos. All three are in the height of style.

Necklaces of seed pearls are almost as valued as diamond ones these days. Brooches of them are sought after and worn with great pride.

THE EVENING STORY

THE EXECUTIONER

By Edgar White.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

When Jerry Thorton, big, bearded and stalwart, arrived from the isthmus everybody in Savertin knew of the tragedy that was coming.

Who had told the man of the tropics about the incident at the old homestead was a mystery. Certainly the sunny-haired girl who suffered did not, nor did the widowed mother. But the big brother had the news as true as his own terrible purpose, and he had come on the wings of the wind. Old friends had met him at the depot and shook hands as men do when there's been a bereavement in the family. The old mother and the sweet-faced daughter were surprised to see him.

Richard Sothern, manager of the Great Northern collieries at Saverton, had doubled the capacity of the three large plants that had been under his control the past five years. He had by his energy and fine executive ability practically become the bone and sinew of the place. No man stood higher for business integrity and correct conduct until—

The scoffer says there's one temptation no living man can stand, and that it is not money. Sothern, handsome, masterful, in the prime of life, had an easy conquest when he laid siege to pretty Katie Thorton, the exile's sister. He had met her at a social gathering and was keenly aware when the blue eyes shot timid glances in his direction. Totally unschooled in the great enigma of passion, she gave all with the magnificent generosity of a trusting heart and then fell from heaven to earth like a wounded bird, kissing the hand that struck her down.

Three unprofitable days followed Thorton's arrival. Having come from a land fantastic it was quite natural that he should finally decide that the condemned was hiding out in one of his own mines. The superintendent assured him that Sothern had gone on a brief trip to Chicago, but is was proper he should try to save his superior. Thorton insisted on going down and a roadman was furnished him to explore the world below the sunlight.

In No. 8 and 10 he had only a long, tiresome walk, with bent head, for his reward. No. 13 was the final colliery to be examined. In this there were a number of abandoned entries far to the southward. Most of the props had been removed and great masses of the roof had fallen in. The air was deadly. Nothing could dissuade the determined executioner from making the journey.

The roadman stood at the entrance of the black tunnel, while Thorton, with revolver in one hand and dimly burning pit lamp in the other, staggered through the gloom. Finally the light went out and the roadman saw the resolute searcher trying to relight it with a match. He succeeded and pressed on.

There was a sound of crashing stone far down the entry and the tiny blaze went out forever. The roadman called loudly and then started down toward the fall. He soon became aware that he was traveling ankle deep in water. The fall of rock had uncovered a subterranean lake. He retraced his steps rapidly to the "bottom," where he signaled the engineer and was soon on top.

A rescuing party was quickly organized and began tearing away the rock that formed one side of Thorton's tomb. The air was bad and work slow, as the water was steadily rising. By noon hardly any progress had been made and the men came out concluding Thorton was dead.

Sothern arrived on an afternoon train and was briefly informed of the situation. He immediately gave orders to connect the pumps and put them to work. Then he put on a pit suit and took a supply of matches and oil. The superintendent offered to accompany him, and several expert miners went along as reserves.

As they were being lowered an enormous cloud of smoke towered over the engine room, showing the pumps were heroically doing their part in the work of rescue. A surgeon had been summoned to await developments. Sothern and the superintendent worked alternately with their picks against the mass of rock. The air courses had been switched so as to improve the supply, but as there was no through passage the current was sluggish. Again and again the lights would go out and golden time was lost. Inch by inch the water crept up to the breast of the men toiling for another's life. The superintendent finally succumbed and dropped his pick. Sothern heard the groan as his light went out and carried him back to the mouth of the entry. The men there put him on a coal car and wheeled him to the "cage."

Another man would have relieved Sothern, but he refused the offer. There had to be sound bodies to complete the work after he had made his way through the barricade. Standing waist deep in the black water he worked with two hands on the pick, slowly enlarging the aperture. One of the men came up and held a light while he crawled through.

He stumbled over boulders and then fell on the man for whom he was searching. Bending his ear to Thorton's heart he detected a faint sign of life. The water had now risen to the hole Sothern had made with his pick and if there was to be any escape it would have to be at the imminent risk of drowning. The unconscious man could not guard his mouth, so Sothern tied his handkerchief around it. Then he painfully dragged the great form to the hole in the rock debris and called to the men on the other side, who, with closed mouths, struggled through the water to receive the burden.

Slowly and with exceeding difficulty they fought their murky way through the water-logged passage to the mouth of the entry. As they laid Thornton down in a dry place, he moved slightly and showed other signs of returning consciousness.

The miners then turned and started back to assist Sothern out. They had not gone far when they were blocked by the water which had risen to the roof over the depressed roadway. No pick could shatter that wall; no man could find his way through that dreadful barrier and live. They shouted and the metallic echo of their own voices mocked them. They hunted up long poles, pushed them in and found nothing. With the soft movement of the vampire, the black damp settled over them, and all the lights went out. This warning could not be disregarded, and the men hurried back with the one who had been recalled to life.

On top the stars were casting a soft glow over the valley, as the cage arrived with its load. The pumps worked steadily, driven hard by great boilers carrying a tremendous steam pressure. The black smoke rolled grandly from the tall stack and was lost in the haze of the night. From the cottonwood forest came the wierd calls of the screech owl and the whip-poor-will.

In the little church amid the miners' cabins, a priest stood before tall, lighted candles and conducted a mass for the dead. The girl with wavy, sun-lit hair, clad in a garb of deepest mourning, knelt in a far corner alone.

"Judge not, and ye shall not be judged; condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned; forgive and ye shall be forgiven."

The slight form of the kneeling girl trembled; her face was buried in her arms, which were thrown across the back of a pew ahead.

"Oh! Father! Forgive! Forgive!" she sobbed. "Forgive him as freely as I do."

DAVIDSON TO TESTIFY

Governor Answers Summons of Primary Inquiry Committee.

Stephenson Money Given to Make Men "Work Harder."

Madison, Wis., April 9.—The senatorial primary investigation committee today unanimously decided to certify the failure of L. H. Stevens of Lancaster to obey the subpoena of the committee of the upper house of the legislature that he may be tried for contempt.

Governor Davidson sent word from Soldiers Grove that he would reach Madison Saturday evening and testify before the committee with regard to the $1,200 campaign fund handed to him by Game Warden Stone.

Deputy Game Warden E. W. Tuttle of Oconomowoc explained the distribution of $200 of the Stephenson funds. Several amounts aggregating between $50 and $75 were paid various men known to favor Stephenson's candidacy. Asked as to why he gave money to men known to be for Stephenson, he replied, "To get them to work harder."

Tuttle said he contributed $100 to the Republican campaign fund, the amount being handed to Deputy Game Warden Bowman. He did not remember whether it was before or after he received the Stephenson money.

E. J. Rogers of Dodgeville used $551.97 of Stephenson's money in Iowa county. Payments to a number of poll workers, Editor Z. M. Reese of Dodgeville, traveling expenses and salaries went to make up the total.

Reese is also a bank president. On the stand he said he looked upon the transaction to work for Stephenson "as a business proposition." He might have worked for Hatten if he had been offered $5 per day by him in advance of the Stephenson arrangement.

A. E. Storrs, deputy game warden of Fennimore, said he received $10 from Stephenson's fund. Stone testified he paid Storrs $20. Storrs was not a Stephenson man, so he turned the work of circulating nomination papers over to William Decker and paid him.

Storrs was in a previous campaign by order of his then superior chief, Warden Henry Overbeck.

"What were you to do?"

"Beat Babcock."

From his conversation Storrs said the governor (La Follette) knew he was doing political work and sanctioned it.

"AMBULANCE CHASERS"

Attorney Baldwin Pays Respects to "Personal Injury Vultures."

"Buzzards Who Make Their Living Off Injured Workmen."

During his argument to the jury this morning, in the case of Frank Zabukovetz against the Oliver Iron Mining company, Attorney C. O. Baldwin paid his respects to the "personal injury agents," who appear in almost every case which come before the court. He assailed them in no uncertain terms and with pronounced vehemence.

The occasion was a question put by W. E. Culkin for the plaintiff to E. B. Ryan, Jr., one of the claim agents of the Oliver company, who testified to getting a statement from one of the witnesses of the accident shortly after its occurrence. Mr. Culkin asked if Mr. Ryan thought it fair to secure such statements without the presence of the injured man or his attorney.

"Does counsel for the plaintiff think," said Mr. Baldwin, "that when we go to investigate an accident in one of the mines we should search out one of those buzzards, one of those ambulance chasers, who make their living off the injured men of this county, that he may accompany our agents? Does he think we should call into the case one of those vultures, who surround an injured man on the street and excitedly ask how he got injured, who crowd these courtrooms during the trial of the personal injury cases? I am not referring to lawyers, but to such as those who maintain offices downtown and advertise themselves as personal injury agents to solicit business for lawyers, and get their bit from the proceeds of the case, if there be any."

Zabukovetz was injured June 27, 1907, in the Pioneer mine at Ely, when an electric motor collided with a dump car, which he was pushing. His leg was badly splintered and he is still on crutches. He claimed that the boss sent him ahead with the car, telling him there was no danger, as the motor would not come out of the drift before he could pass its mouth. He sues for $20,000.

The company put in a double defense. It claims that the boss did not send the men ahead with the car, but that a fellow workman told them the motor would be out. They claim the men assumed the risk in going ahead with the car before they were certain that there was no danger from the motor. They also produced a settlement signed by Zabukovtz Jan. 17, 1908, he receiving $1,000 for his release of any cause of action.

The plaintiff claims that the release was induced by fraud; that he was told before he signed that he would be well in a year, and his signature was affixed with the understanding that it was a release on condition that he was well in a year after the accident.

The trial of the case was characterized by acrimony on both sides. The lawyers were at sword's points all the way through and every witness was given a severe grilling. Mr. Culkin will make his argument to the jury this afternoon and the case will be submitted.

DIVORCE AFTER MANY YEARS

Mrs. Nick Maus Tells Husband He Is No Longer Wanted.

After having lived with her husband, Nick Maus, for thirty-two years, Mrs. Nick Maus found that they were not made for each other, and told her husband one day when he returned home from work, that she no longer had any use for him.

This was five years ago. Thursday Maus told his story in the Superior district court, and was granted a divorce. He agreed to make over to his former wife two houses valued at $6,000 and keep for himself one valued at $1,200.

There were no children by the marriage. They did, however, adopt a daughter, who is now grown up and living with Mrs. Maus. The aged man presented a pitiable sight as he told his story yesterday.

Maus is 64 years old and looks much older than his age would indicate. He said that there had never been any trouble in the family, and that the incident of five years ago, when he was told that he was no longer needed, was the first he knew of his wife's discontent.

Julia Culhane, who received a decree from her husband, Thomas Culhane said that she had been married twenty-seven years. There were eleven children in this family. She testified that her husband had failed to provide her with the necessities of life, and that for many years she had to support the children. Culhane made no defense.

James A. Kernan and Lena Klinkert were married in Superior eleven years ago. For ten happy years, life flowed along like a song. At the end of that time, however, he began to abuse her, she claims, and wound up by deserting her Thanksgiving a year ago. There are two children and Mrs. Kernan was given their custody, together with $20 a month alimony and an absolute divorce.

THE "CURIOSITY SQUAD" WAS GIVEN RUDE JOLT

Frank Stumph, a young wooodsman, yesterday afternoon scattered consternation around police headquarters, and caused a small stampede of blue coated officers for inner rooms.

The man walked into the building and stood before the counter in the main room. It was a quiet time of the day, and several men attached to the station were standing around. Stumph had an interesting look about him, and the idle officers surrounded him to learn the nature of his trouble.

"Well, young man, what can we do for you?" Capt. Fiskett asked.

Stumph looked doubtfully at the circle of faces, thoughtfully scratched his head, and drawled, "I'm not just exactly sure, but I think I have got the smallpox, and I want to find out what to do about it."

His words had the effect of a bomb, unexpectedly exploding. There were streaks of blue in all directions, and in a fraction of a second Stumph was alone in the room. Shortly afterwards he was ordered to stand on the sidewalk in front of the city hall, until the health authorities could be notified. It developed that he really had the smallpox, and he was sent to the pesthouse. This is the season of the year when woodsmen afflicted with the disease occasionally show up in Duluth. There are now seven cases at the pesthouse, a much smaller number than is usual for this time of the year.

ATTACKED BY MUSKRAT.

Upper Peninsula Sheriff Has Desperate Encounter With Animal.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff John Lehman had an exciting encounter with a muskrat at Princeton recently. He was there on business and was walking over one of the roads when he came across the animal. The muskrat attacked him and he gave it a severe kick, sending it several feet away. The rat immediately went after the officer and caught him by the leg of the trousers. It took the sturdy sheriff about five minutes to dispose of the animal, which fought desperately.

Mr. Lehman could have killed the animal in a hurry if he had used his revolver, but he made up his mind when he saw how desperately the muskrat fought, to kick its life out.

NINE LIVES LOST IN FIERCE GALE

Wreckage of Tug George Floss is Washed Ashore.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 9.—There is no longer doubt that the tug George Floss with her crew of six men and three passengers went down in Lake Erie during Wednesday's gale. Wreckage from the boat was washed ashore today twelve miles east of Cleveland.

The wreckage consisted of part of the cabin with the word "Floss" on it, and some bucket racks. No bodies were found. Those on board the Floss when she left Cleveland were Capt. William Barry, Capt. John Daily, Engineer Fred Gilbert, Peek MacKenzie, Frank Wessehler, Henry Anderson, John O'Donnell, Joe Martin and a 16-year-old boy named Campbell. The three last named were passengers on the Floss and had gone fishing with the crew the day of the gale.

PROOF LACKING SAYS ROSENTHAL

Standard Oil Lawyer Denies Discrimination in Railway Rates.

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—"I maintain that in all this great record, there is no proof that these defendants ever received discriminatory railway rates —secret or otherwise—over their competitors," was the assertion of Moritz Rosenthal, attorney for Standard Oil, today, in his address in the United States circuit court, which is hearing the government's dissolution suit against the big corporation.

After describing the conditions in railway circles prior to the passage of the Elkins act, Rosenthal insisted there is no proof in the record that the defendants accepted any concessions from any lawfully established rate. He said the only proof in the record of the acceptance of railway discrimination of any kind, is a receipt showing the acceptance of $7.40 by the Standard Oil Company of California from the Santa Fe on two shipments made to California and Arizona, where an overcharge was made.

TRAGEDY OR COMEDY?

A few days ago a young American woman on the Pacific coast announced her intention of marrying a young Japanese man. The young woman was of "prominent" family, so was the young man. Both were estimable persons and of lawful age. But they were of different races, and this is what set the whole Pacific coast by the ears about the matter. The young people were compelled to leave one state and to be married as quietly as possible in another. The papers of the coast were full of the matter for days and now that the young people are married two representative journals of the coast come to us with widely diverging editorial comment upon this admixture of races.

The Portland Telegram maintains that there is no "good, sound, common sense reason why the great American public should forget its serious occupations and go to throwing fits because a young woman, who happened to be born in the United States, should take it into her head, with the consent of her mother, to marry a young man who happened to be born in Japan." "As to whether, because of their training, education and racial point of view, they would eventually be happy and the marriage productive of the best results, that was a matter which concerned them alone," declares the Telegram.

Quite the opposite point of view is stoutly maintained by the San Francisco Call which describes the marriage as "a pitiful domestic and social tragedy." The Call thinks that the intermarriage of races widely separated by blood and color is a matter of the highest social concern. "Such marriages prophecy disaster," it says. "The codes of ethics of the two races are essentially and radically different. * * * There is a rude philosophy in the words of one who was born in the swirl of mixed races that 'East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet.' They may not fuse without shipwreck."

Thus we have it vigorously maintained by two able critics both upon the ground, the one that the marriage is but comedy, the other that it is tragedy. Those of us who are not personally affected by close contact with other races than our own, will doubtless think that many people have made more ado over this matter than it warranted, yet we cannot fail to look with fear and regret upon the mixture of races so radically different as the black and the white or the white and the yellow. The San Francisco Call is entirely right in saying that the white and the yellow races are essentially and radically different; if this be true, what will be the product of such a union? Surely that is a matter which is some concern to other people besides the young woman and the young man now most immediately affected.

Society may be depended upon to defend itself, however, and the bitterness and the vindictiveness with which the young people in this case were pursued is entirely unworthy of those who did it. The case is an isolated one. There have been others, but they are few and far between. Society is undoubtedly opposed to such intermarriages. But it has no need to interfere in the individual instance under present conditions. Its opinion is so pronounced that its opinion alone will protect it completely.

As to the young people themselves, we cannot fail to deplore their hardihood in embarking upon so perilous and uncertain a sea, but we wish them bon voyage just the same.

THE BATTLE JOINED.

Most people understand perfectly that the issue of the day is between the masses of the people on the one hand and the great business organizations which have developed in the past few years on the other. The principle of looking out for No. 1 must inevitably inspire all attempts in business, and the operation of that principle together with the swift and tremendous commercial development of the past quarter of the century has made business the principal problem of government. On the one hand today, we have the people, earnest and honest, though somewhat moved by prejudice and by bitter memories of injustice sustained; on the other we have the huge combinations of modern commercialism devoting all their powers of the best brain and almost unlimited capital to their protection and aggrandizement.

Both parties to the contest want business prosperity. Commerce and industry, being necessarily selfish, wants to take for itself all that it can lay its hand upon. The people want a solution of the industrial and commercial problems of the day that will maintain prosperity and at the same time give every man the fruits of his labor.

We are wont to style as "the interests" the great business combinations that are enlisted for this fight. The term, while carrying with it some reproach, will do as well as any other. The interests must inevitably be selfish, for it is the principle of looking out for No. 1 that animates them—it is the principle that dictates every move of the Standard Oil company, of Wall street, of E. H. Harriman, of thousands of trusts and combinations, great and small. When we consider the government, and the work that it has to do in solving this problem of the proper relation of business to the people, we have to remember this fact of business selfishness, and to distrust accordingly its attacks upon government. This much by way of preface to the remarks of E. H. Harriman, who declared last week: "Regulate the government; it needs regulation far more than the railways. Prevent the recurrence of an anarchistic attorney general. Don't elect a demagogic house of representatives. See to it that the senate is not filled with a lot of inebriates." Mr. Harriman followed up this outbreak with the declaration that the "past administration was extravagant, inconceivably exravagant. In fact it has been a case of maladministration for years from the national capital down to our town councils."

Let us not mistake the meaning of this language. It is nothing more or less than an indictment of the American people for their attempts to regulate great business enterprises. That is exactly what it means—no more, no less. If there had been no attempt to set things right between business and the people, we should never have had this remarkable outburst from Mr. Harriman.

The Harriman interview is strictly in line with efforts which have been put forth for the past few months, and are now being put forth with cunning and persistence, to discredit the recent administration—not as a matter of hate towards Roosevelt, but in order to confuse the public mind as to the problem of the day to the end that the selfish ends of business may regain the ground they have lost and grow stronger to resist all attacks in the future.

The Herald does not for a moment believe that these efforts will succeed. While Harriman and others of his ilk, with their thousands of henchmen in government and business, are thumping on the sounding board and blowing the loud bassoon, the Taft administration is quietly proceeding to carry out the plans which have been laid in the past seven years for the solution of our great economic problem. The solution will take many years, but when it is approaches accomplishment business will be more stable, prosperity will be greater, the few may not so easily gather great riches, but the many will have a better chance for the comforts and necessities of life.

THE SPOILSMAN'S HARD CONDITIONS.

The spoilsman is hard beset. He finds himself called upon to defend his coveted privileges on all sides. President Roosevelt's veto of the census bill, in which congressmen were allowed to name the enumerators, was a hard blow, and President Taft's demand that the spoils system be eliminated from the bill means that the spoilsman has lost more ground never to be regained.

Congressmen naturally cling to the privilege of naming the census enumerators. It enables them to make their seats in congress more secure by increasing the number of those to whom they can grant favors. Naturally the congressman names for census enumerators the men who can be most useful to him in his next campaign for votes. Quite naturally, too, such men are often not at all qualified to make the best enumeration. Hence the unreliability of the census; hence the inevitable loss to business interests.

The late Carroll D. Wright, thoroughly conversant with every phase of the census system, asserted not long before his death that a year's time and $2,000,000 in money would have been saved to the government if the provisions objected to by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft had not been included in the last census bill. How much the country lost by reason of them nobody knows.

The house has bowed to the inevitable and has passed a census bill providing for competitive examinations for all clerks and employes of the next census. These examinations will be similar to those now given by the different departments under the civil service rules, and the result will be a census taken by those who are most competent to do the work and by those who are under no obligation to any one for their positions. The census will cost less money, its results will be the sooner known, and it will be the most accurate census ever taken in this country.

The moral effect of the fight for a civil service census will doubtless be very great and will have great weight in the campaign to put the spoilsman clean out of business.

VALUABLE FRANCHISES.

Some day cities will wake up to the fact that their franchises are valuable and will quit giving them away.

The traction companies of Chicago admit this week that they spent over $350,000 in 1907 to secure the adoption of ordinances granting them certain franchises. They declare that this amount was spent legitimately, for advertising purposes, etc. The inquiry that will persist in most people's minds will be, if the companies spent $350,000 legitimately, how much did they spend that was not legitimate? They may have spent nothing dishonestly, and granting that they did not, is not $350,000 a great deal of money to spend lawfully to secure franchises in one city for one business concern? If that much money can legitimately be spent to secure franchises, the franchises must be very valuable to the companies. If they are valuable to the companies, ought they not to be valuable to the city? If so why should they be given away?

The tariff is not to blame for all the swollen fortunes that exist in this country. Hardly less to blame than the tariff is this giving away of valuable public rights in cities. In thousands of instances the people of American cities have freely given away rights for which they should have been paid large sums. Not only have they received nothing for privileges whose sale ought to have gone to materially reduce their taxes, but they have given private concerns the right to exact tribute from them. It is a notorious fact that there are few American cities in which the people have not granted authority to private corporations to legally rob them.

The admission of Chicago's traction companies of their enormous expenses to secure franchises ought to be another lesson to us of the value of municipal franchises, which should never be given away, but always sold to the highest bidder, and then only for nothing less than the minimum price fixed by a competent civic commission.

Woman's suffrage doesn't know where it is going but it is on the way.

We are all free traders. The one article that we want protected is the exception that proves it.

If you don't like the Payne tariff bill, take it out on the umpire. He'll be handy soon.

It must be fine to be a Standard Oil attorney. Big fees while you are at it and sure preferment to the president's cabinet.

Some ways you look at it, our legislators are not very well paid. For the 2,000 bills introduced at this session each member of the legislature gets only 50 cents apiece, and it took them ninety days to do it.

The Caucausian, a weekly paper published in North Carolina, has been convicted of criminally libeling the chairman of the Republican state central committee. Here is where the righteous indignation of the New York World [illegible] will once more flame forth at another horrid trampling under foot of the sacred right of free speech.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

S. H. Date of Floodwood was at the St. Louis yesterday. Mr. Date says that the land values in the country surrounding Floodwood are advancing to a very good figure, and also that the city real estate of Floodwood is getting to a figure where it indicates what a thriving town Mayor Lokke's little city is getting to be.

The reason Mr. Date assigns for the advancement of the land values in the vicinity of Floodwood is, that the country is settling up very rapidly. He says that it is getting to be a splendid agricultural region, and with the coming of each additional farmer to that part of the country, the value of the land is increasing.

Mr. Date says the citizens of Floodwood are out to boom the town. If you go to Floodwood and have the most remote idea of becoming a citizen of that fair little city, or harbor some idea of settling in the nearby country, the good citizens of Floodwood will, according to Mr. Date, show you all its attractions. They are after settlers up there, and the best of it is that they are getting them.

J. H. Carlson of Hibbing, who was a guest of the Lenox yesterday, after listening to the arguments that were made before the senate committee on the Bjorge tonnage tax measure, is one of the delegates who is of the opinion that the state—that is, the rest of the state that seems to be arrayed solidly against St. Louis county in the matter of the tonnage tax issue—will be forced to take notice by the mere fact that one county will send 300 determined citizens to a state capitol to present a cause that means almost a livelihood to them.

Mr. Carlson was asked yesterday if he believed that the visit of the delegates helped the cause. He explained that it was not so much really what was said, though the arguments were all facts, but the manner in which it was shown that the northeastern part of the state is in deadly earnest, that will count.

Those members of the delegation seem to agree that it will be the moral effect of the appearance of the delegation before the members of the senate committee, that will have the greatest influence in the end.

Right at this time the whole incident is not given the significance that a greater perspective will give it. If it had happened in Chicago or New York, it is quite probable that the Associated Press would have given it a costly column of space.

Yesterday A. Fred Simons, a great nimrod friend of J. W. Gilboy and one of the Ribenack brothers, dropped over to the gossip section of the Lenox lobby. He had just come down from the vicinity of Grand Marais, where J. W. G. and one of the Ribenack brothers occasionally go fishing, and it was evident that he had something upon his mind, although he had removed his winter fur cap.

"Ain't she a pippin'?" was the introductory remark of A. Fred.

She sure was, too. "She" in question, was a sparkler, one that would have graced the hand of an empress. A. Fred held it up to the light, and watched the admiring eyes of his friends follow the shafts of light that radiated from the diamond.

"I was a spearin' fish," said A. Fred. "I speared one and toted it home to the ole woman to cook. I went out in the yard to bring in some of my traps. Purty soon I heard the ole woman up and scream. I went a loping back into the house, and there sat the mother with her eyes sticking out, and she a holdin' this jewul up to the light.

"'Lor, another!' yells I, 'where did you get that piece of jewulry?' She didn't seem to hear me. Leastwise, she paid no 'tention to the things I yelled at her. She jes kept right on gazin' at that stone, fascinated like I hev seen them pee-wee birds charmed by snakes.

"'Come out of it, ma,' says I. Then I goes over and nudges her. That kind of brings her back to Grand Marais, and she up and tells me that she finds the ring in the stomach of the fish I speared."

There was a silence after A. Fred had completed his narrative of the fish and the ring. However, A. Fred, even though he be a fisherman, is known among his boon companions to be a man that has a high regard for the truth.

One of the Ribenack boys asked A. Fred what he was going to do with the ring.

He replied that it had been a hard winter up Grand Marais way, and that the price the ring would bring, would help some; but that ma was just so stuck on it that he was going to have it cleaned and take it back to her.

"The fust ring I have given the ole woman since we was hitched," commented A. Fred.

THE WEATHER.

Duluth was not the warmest place on the weather map last night and early this morning. The temperature last night was 8 degs. above zero, which was considerably below most other points on the continent. It was only 2 degs. above the minimum temperature at Minnedosa, which is colder than Quebec. The sun warmed citizens up a little.

Fair and warmer weather is predicted for tonight and Saturday. A year ago today it was clear and cool. The sun came up this morning at 5:29 and is scheduled to set at 6:49.

Mr. Richardson says of weather conditions:

"Slight barometric depressions are central over New York and Alberta. During the past twenty-four hours the Eastern low pressure caused further rain or snow to the eastward of the Mississippi river, while the Western Canadian disturbance has caused warmer weather throughout the Rocky mountains and Eastern slopes. The barometer is high over the Dakotas and Texas, colder weather resulting in the lake region, Ohio valley and Southeastern states. Freezing weather or killing frosts occurred this morning in Northern districts and Southward to including the Ohio valley, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Northern New Mexico, Utah and Nevada. Generally fair weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Saturday."

The Cow and the Bullpup.

Louisville Courier - Journal: The Washington Herald is at great pains to belittle the foolish talk about a breach between the incoming and outgoing executives. It admits, and it rejoices at, a difference of atmosphere, a temperamental diversity, a change of tone; but it declares that to "orient the situation" in any other direction works manifest injustice to both the august personages. It continues:

"Mr. Taft owns a cow instead of a bullpup; he plays golf instead of walking out in the rain; he eats an apple for lunch; he is shaved by his valet; he is going to try and get along harmoniously with congress; he won't flourish the big stick; his messages will be short—what a vast and grateful improvement on the late regime!"

These points of divergence are radical without being revolutionary; they do not necessarily imply a repudiation of "my policies," neither do they indicate much more than a gratifying determination on the part of Mr. Taft to see through his own spectacles and to be his own man.

The distinction lies neither in fundamentals nor in principles—rather in angle of vision and in trend of mind. Opposition affected the one as with a destroying Berserker rage; he was all for violence and noise when crossed; the other will be more placid but just as unbending, given to compromise in non-essentials only.

And be it remembered that both Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt are party men and, more emphatically, party leaders; flirt they never so sedulously with this Democrat or that, with this Democratic plank or that, they will never forget that they are responsible as well to the people over whom they preside. Nor will that party suffer them to forget it—as indeed, why should it? Caves of Adullam have never fared well in the Republican party, and regularity is a mantle more comprehensive than many charities.

Mr. Taft is chief, vice Mr. Roosevelt, promoted to a private station. They have more in common by that tie than many will allow, and if one keeps a cow where the other stabled a bullpup, why should he not—if he can afford it?

New Head Gear.

Detroit Journal: Alas, for the scant measure of comfort and condolence which it is within the most of us to impart to affliction! Would that something worth while we could say to the correspondent who thus unburdens a full heart:

"Editor The Journal: I am alarmed and ask you for information, if not guidance. During the last visitation I suffered my derby to be brushed from my head in the street cars and theaters and thoroughfares and churches by the four-footed diameter of the "Merry Widow" hat without protest. I have had my nose tickled and my ears pricked and my eyesight menaced by plumes. When addressed, I have peered beneath great expanses of brim to find my interrogator. Never a word have I said. But this "peach-basket" millinery unnerves me. It is fearfully and wonderfully made, indeed. Where will it end? That's what I want to know

"THE MERELY MASCULINE.
"Detroit, April 1, 1909."

"Peach baskets," indeed! Would that that were all! We ourselves, awestruck, have observed waste baskets, coal scuttles, wash boilers and even some esthetic elaborations upon the chaste and lovely architecture of the ash can. The meaning and the end of the sartorial phenomenon we know not, unless it be the renascence of the utilitarian functions of dress, a conversion of the common or kitchen variety of utensils into feminine ornaments of surpassing loveliness. We have questioned not, because it is not our privilege nor courage to question. [illegible] the frying pan and the wash tub [illegible] Easter bonnet, we may nerve ourselves timidly to interrogate. But not before. And maybe not then.

The locks at Sault Ste. Marie will be opened for business tomorrow, April 10.

Tomorrow is dog license day. If licenses are not procured by May 1, a $5 fine is liable.

The police are looking for a forger who mulcted H. F. Williamson, Louis Bondy and Levine & Co. each on a $15 check.

R. A. Chisholm left last night on a short visit to St. Paul.

This is The Herald's seventh birthday. A reference to the files of the first issue on April 9, 1883, shows that antique chestnut, even then old, regarding the anxiety with which "Duluth awaited the arrival of the first boat," as fresh and bright as it is now. The ice went out of the bay that day, but was solid in the lake. The Paige-Sexsmith Lumber company, which had flourished like a greenbay tree, was in the agonies of dissolution. Mr. Munger was building the postoffice, and, as usual, was booming something; just then it was the weather.

The bids for the different materials to be used in the construction of the Duluth range lights were opened at Detroit and the contracts awarded as follows: Peyton, Kimball & Barber, Duluth, lumber; J. J. & R. A. Costello, Duluth, paints and oils; Wells-Chapin Hardware company, Duluth, hardware; Scott & Holston, Duluth, factory work; Daniel McCue, Duluth, stone filling; W. St. Amour, Duluth, pile driving; Russell Car & Wheel company, Detroit, bolts. Work will begin in a few days.

Notices have been posted in the custom house for the sale of the famous iron boat "101." Axworthy, the defaulting Cleveland, Ohio, city treasurer, owned a $10,000 interest in Capt. McDougall's boat, and to satisfy his creditors the boat will be sold; but as Capt. McDougall has arranged matters with the creditors, the sale is merely a matter of form to perfect the title.

Dr. J. S. Hening of Superior died yesterday in his 73rd year.

Sheriff Charles Wickstrom of Douglas county, Wis., has appointed J. B. French as his deputy, to succeed D. McFayden, who has resigned.

Charles Catlin and others interested in the building of an opera house at West Superior regard favorably a proposition from Architect W. G. Hodgson to build an opera house to cost $65,000, in consideration of $20,000 cash bonus. The corner of Fisher avenue and Broadway is the proposed site.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: The "pork" bill, as the bill appropriating $300,000 for roads and bridges is characterized by members from the Twin Cities, has passed the senate and has been sent to the governor for his approval. The amount voted for this purpose is $100,000 in excess of that voted two years ago. Red Lake county gets about $7,500 of the "swag."

Gary Graphic: The Greenbush Tribune of Greenbush, Minn., tells a story of a farmer who came into that region fifteen years ago without any capital. He had a hard struggle for a few years, says the Tribune, but he kept at it and now has a farm of 560 acres, all under cultivation, and has his own creamery upon his farm. He not only makes and ships his own butter, but last year bought $15,000 worth of cream from his neighbors. Such a farm is a blessing to his neighborhood. It is pretty safe to assert that his farm is not decreasing its fertility from year to year.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: St. Louis county citizens are sending out a statement of the taxes paid by the several counties into the state treasury, and also what is received back from the state. These figures prove the claim that St. Louis is not getting a fair division. For instance, Ramsey county pays in state taxes for all purposes $376,880.10 and receives back $146,874.10, and Hennepin pays $620,352.21 and receives $245,907.10, while St. Louis pays into the state treasury nearly as much as both, $815,528.18, and receives back only $127,424.90, or only half as much as Hennepin and less than Ramsey. The most of the other counties in the state get back more than they pay. Stearns county pays in $47,007.89 and receives $65,919.30. It certainly looks as though St. Louis taxpayers had grounds for complaint.

Starbuck Times: "Will the republic endure?" inquires Thomas W. Lawson. The fact that it has endured Mr. Lawson so long ought to be proof positive of its abundant ability to stand anything.

Cannon Falls Beacon: A bill has been introduced in the legislature providing for a classification of windmills. Is this a move for self protection by our law making body?

La Porte News: Northern Minnesota, just in its infancy of development, instead of being fostered by its big brother to the south, is being hampered in every possible way. We asked for a fair reapportionment measure and they tell us it would be unconstitutional at this time. We have tried for years to have a law enacted that would allow logs to be assessed in the county where they were cut, but the "interests" could always muster up votes enough from the "solid south" to defeat this measure, and now to clap the climax, they force us to pay a special tax on iron ore, our main product. Talk about class legislation.

Des Moines Plan in Practice.

Washington Herald: If results at the end of the first year of operation count for anything, the plan of municipal government on trial at Des Moines seems to have been a success. The officials, who have the administration of Des Moines in hand, are still working harmoniously, and in spite of the fact, that under the present charter, the five members of the commission are paid salaries of $3,000 each, the city now has a surplus of $20,000, instead of a deficit of $50,000 or more, as in former years, under the old municipal system. These facts would seem to argue favorably for the new plan of city administration.

This Des Moines plan is not intricate. Ten per cent of the voters may petition for an election to decide whether or not the city shall adopt the law, and a majority of voters may adopt it or drop it, after trial. A mayor and four councilmen constitute the governing commission, which both makes laws and executes them. Each member of the commission is at the head of one of the following five departments: Public affairs, accounts and finances, public safety, including fire and health, parks and public property and public improvements.

Members of the commission are elected without regard to wards or other geographical divisions and without regard to party lines. The names of all candidates are placed on the ballot in alphabetical order. The voter picks his choice and marks the ballot as many times as there are offices to be filled.

The mayor and the councilmen are elected for two years, but any one of them may be recalled by the voters, just as the mayor of Los Angeles has recently been recalled. Likewise, with [illegible] the voters have power of initiative and referendum. 25 per cent of the voters may [illegible] referendum on any action of the commission, positive or negative, and the decision of such referendum election is made binding on members of the commission. Franchise-granting ordinances must be submitted to the voters for adoption or rejection.

By enactment of the Iowa legislature in the spring of 1907, commission government may be adopted in that state by cities of 25,000 inhabitants or more. Des Moines, a city of 75,000 population, instituted the plan soon after the supreme court of Iowa, in February 1908, had upheld its constitutionality. Cedar Rapids has also elected to try commission government.

Very much the same idea has been in force for several years in Houston and Galveston, Tex., and California cities, Los Angeles notably, have similar provisions. Portland, Or., is following the commission plan, and the report of Governor Hughes' charter commission in New York contains many ideas apparently derived from Des Moines' charter.

Artist—Yes.

Friend—And how much did you get for the picture?

Artist—Nearly enough to get my overcoat out.

Philadelphia Record: Tommy—Pop, what is the difference between a cook and a chef?

Tommy's Pop—About $20 a week, my son.

Cleveland Leader: Him—Mary! You have been kissed before!

Joax—On the contrary, it is very holesome.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Did you ever gamble, ma?"

"Only once, my son."

"And when was that?"

"When I married your father."

Success: "Say, grandpa, make a noise like a frog," coaxed little Tommy.

"What for, my son?"

"Why, papa says that when you croak we'll get $5,000."

Chicago News: Boreleigh — Ha-ha, old man! Nailing down a carpet, are you?

Jones (who has just struck his thumb)—No, you fool! The carpet was here all the time. I'm just putting the floor under it!

Judge: Braggs—A safe conversation rule is: When in doubt talk of the weather.

Gribbs—Safe nothing! I met my tailor yesterday, and on my speaking of the weather, he replied:

"Yes, it is unsettled, and that reminds me of that little bill of yours."

A TONIC FOR THE STOMACH

Minnesota Evidence of the Power of This Treatment to Cure Dyspepsia.

There are thousands of people, who are without ambition or strength to do their day's work and who are always tired out, have but little appetite and a poor digestion, cannot get a refreshing night's sleep and are subject to headaches, backaches and nervousness because their blood is impure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and as it becomes pure and red it strengthens the muscles, tones up the nerves and makes the stomach capable of digesting food.

Mrs. Anna S. Bowyer, a farmer's wife, of R. F. D. No. 1, Dundee, Minn., has been entirely cured of stomach trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and heartily recommends this tonic treatment to anyone similarly afflicted.

"Following a general run-down condition," she says, "I suffered with stomach trouble for about one year. I had been feeling mean for some time. My stomach became sour and I was constantly belching gas. My heart was affected and for six months I could not lie on my left side. It beat so fast that it seemed I would choke and could not get my breath. The least effort to do anything made me short of breath. I was so nervous that sleep was almost impossible and I could not bear any noise. I was troubled with splitting headaches and with dizzy spells. My appetite was gone and I had no ambition to work. I was confined to bed for two or three days at a time.

"The doctor said I had stomach trouble but I gave up his treatment after a short trial as it did not help me in the least. I tried many medicines but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I read in our paper of a case that seemed to be exactly like mine that had been cured by the pills. I was hopeless of ever feeling better but thought I would give the pills a trial. At first they did not seem to help me but I had confidence in them and after a thorough treatment I felt well again. I have been wonderfully benefited. My heart and stomach do not trouble me any more and my appetite is hearty."

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

HAS BELLS AND WIRES

In His Head, He Tells the New York Police.

New York, April 9.—"I have telephone bells and wires in my head, and I want you to take them out before I short circuit everything. Let me show. Jingle, jingle, jingle, hello central, give me 863 Chelsea. Hello, is this 863 Chelsea? All right. Hang up. This is just a demonstration."

This was the patter of a man who said he was Joseph Gilmore, aged 30 years, of 205 East Forty-second street, a "chauffeur out of work," who went to the Morrisania police station, and told Lieut. Place that he had just lost his job.

"I can get any number I want," said the human telephone. "If this keeps on and you don't remove these bells, I will throw myself in front of a subway car. But, if I do that, I'll short circuit the whole subway service."

While he was talking, the police summoned Dr. Levinson of Lebanon hospital, with whom the man went along, smiling serenely when they put a straightjacket on him.

"Don't touch me without rubber gloves," he advised the doctor. "I've got more electricity in me than there's is in the electric chair. So be very careful."

He was taken to Lebanon hospital, and later transferred to Bellevue.

LUXURY IS INSTALLED

Happy Hunting Grounds in East Africa for Roosevelt.

Iced Drinks and Electric Fans Temper the Equatorial Heat.

New York, April 9.—A London correspondent of the World says: From descriptions gained here of William N. McMillan's bungalow, thirty miles north of Nairobi, in British East Africa, which has been referred to as the first place "in the jungle" where Mr. Roosevelt will be entertained, one imagines it more nearly resembles a luxuriously appointed summer cottage in the Adirondacks than the popular conception of a rough shooting shanty in the African wilds.

An Englishman who recently pitched his camp in the wilderness far out on the plains toward the great hill Doyna Sabuk, not far from Mr. McMillan's place, Juya farm, sends the following pen picture of the farm and surrounding district:

"Yesterday I rode over the old trail again, but instead of the lone camp in a world of wild animal life which two years ago marked the site of McMillan's place, I found that the face of the country had changed. Where had been game tracks now stretched a cart road, a notice board warned travelers that the white man possessed the land.

"As my mule jogged on toward Juja farm I realized that the notice board prohibiting shooting was no mere byword; around me were many zebra; gazelle grazed in hundreds. Three hundred yards away two rhinos were trotting along, suspiciously waving their heads as they winded me; beyond these was a herd of milch cattle in front of a man's dwelling.

Leave Tea to Shoot Lion.

"Such is life in East Africa—the leaving of tea to shoot a lion; transition from the wilds to iced drinks among one's fellows.

Riding up to the homestead, grim possibilities were suggested by the high iron fence inclosure—lions, thieving Masai, who knows! Once through the gate it seemed scarcely possible that danger lurked outside, hearing hoofs beat beneath one on a well made drive, seeing around one bright flowers and smooth lawns, in front a bungalow with cool green and white paint, wide verandas, long easy chairs, all whispering of rest and comfort to a saddle-weary man.

At night the bungalow is ablaze with electric light from a current generated by Mr. McMillan's own plant. There are all the conveniences in the interior of the house that are to be found in any New York home, including baths with hot and cold water. Telephonic connection with Nairobi has recently been established.

Beyond the main building are many others, which make Juja Farm look like a small hamlet, the most conspicuous landmark for miles around being the water tower erected to supply the private waterworks system recently installed. I catch a glimpse of cultivation in a valley where flows a stream fringed with trees. Only the Athi Plains to the west, frowning Donya Sabuk to the east, tell me that I am in savage Africa; almost I had thought I was riding up to a station homestead in settled Australia.

Cool Drink and a Smoke.

A warm welcome—a cool drink, a smoke and a few minutes of rest in a Bombay chair—and I am off with the stock manager, Mr. Parker, to see what is going on.

We look at the stables first, a wide quadrangle, high walled, with accommodation now building for 100 animals. One side is finished and occupied by two smart ponies, some mules, and a grand young bull, bred from imported parents at the government farm, Naivasha. I admire their perfect condition and the cleanliness of their surroundings, while my guide explains the scheme of the buildings: here are to be loose boxes and stalls, there coach houses and harness rooms. All are paved and drained, the loose boxes netted against mosquitoes,—for when rain comes these pests bring death to horses in this part of the world and man must devise means to fight the evil. Outside the stables are fowl runs, just completed; near by stand half a dozen farm wagons lately arrived from an American factory.

We pass on to the men's quarters, airy bedrooms on either side opening into a big dining hall; around the building a wide veranda—windows not yet in, paint not dry.

Thence to the dairy, also of stone, and to my mind the best building of the sort I have seen in the Protectorate, thoroughly ventilated and cool, with a broad passage through the center, in which stands a boiler for scouring all utensils; on one side the dairy proper, with separator and white enamel fittings, on the other a bacon room, with flitches and hams. Down near a marshy bend of the river are the piggeries with swine of all sizes, young and old, the picture of health.

Pumping Station and Electric Plant.

A glance at the store, its plenteous stock of provisions, farm requirements and clothing, at the newly completed managers' quarters, and we go on past a cattle dip to the most important improvement on the estate, the pumping station and electric plant. Here great masonry buttresses are being erected to protect the pump, which the last rainy season drowned several feet deep in the flooded river. Above these is the engine house with gleaming machinery, dynamo, storage cells and ice chamber. From here starts the system carrying light and water to every building in the homestead.

Down a narrow track and we come to the fruit and vegetable garden of rich, loamy soil. Despite the dry weather green stuff is plentiful, young trees look well, and here, side by side with pineapples and bananas, are English fruits and grape vine, a bold trial of the country's powers which, let us hope, will yield success.

A Cosmopolitan Company.

My brain is whirling with all I have seen when we return to the house for lunch, daintily served by quiet moving Somalis. Around the table are men from the United States, England, Germany, India, Australia—wanderers into the earth's far corners, each with a story to tell.

Hunger satisfied, we sit and yarn until two ponies are brought and Mr. Parker and I ride off to an out station, Long Juja, on the northeast portion of the estate, which I learn as we go totals about fifteen thousand acres. A road is in the making to connect the two places, telephones are in working order, fencing is going on.

The country is very dry, but food is plentiful, and I notice on the way that the character of the soil changes from black cotton to sounder quality with sweeter grasses; and there is certainly no fault to find with the stock we see. I had anticipated rough, tick-infested animals, and found sleek coated cattle and sturdy donkeys comparatively free from the pest. Most of the stock I had seen before at Naivasha and elsewhere. I rode out prejudiced against their new home and found every animal improved. A few sheep we see do not look quite so well, but the quality of these could not have been good at any time.

A cup of tea with the nukeeper, a glorious gallop over the plains, many hartebeest staring at us in mild amazement, and we are back at the homestead in time to see the milch kine come in.

Darkness is coming on, and in a summer house on a rocky knoll we watch the sun set over distant Donya Lamuyu, talking and smoking until the stars come out and valleys and plains grow black.

I learn that some ten white men and over 700 Indians, Somalis and natives, are at work on the place, that incessant labor is demanded in order that stock may be housed when the rains come; that 100 mules and ponies are arriving from Abyssinia. I hear of materials brought thirty miles by ox transport, of heart-breaking delays through flooded rivers, impassable swamps, quarantine restrictions, of the house imported from England in sections, of Mr. McMillan's faith in the integrity of the administration in spending thousands on land to which he has not yet obtained title.

Electric Lights and Fans.

Then we go back to the house, with its electric lights and fans, its soft wall papers, beautiful engravings, books and comfort, and are joined by another visitor returning from the river with a fine basket of fish, including a splendid four-pounder. We dine and tell stories far into the night.

Dawn comes, and with it the stir of renewed toil. I, too, must be doing, and as I ride homeward to Nairobi across the wide plains my mind runs on what I have seen, on the work done by enterprise and capital, backed by willing help.

The Easter Marathon Will Be Run Sunday---Are You Ready?

GETTING in front and keeping there—that's the way Marathon races are won. It's the way anything else in this world is won; and no man who wants to win can afford to neglect anything, great or small, which may contribute to his being in front. You want to win success in your undertakings, whatever they may be; and one of the things which every man needs and ought to be sure of, is good clothes; they help your appearance, add to your effectiveness, make you feel more successful; and there's a lot in the way a man feels who is trying to win.

FORMER MAID SWEARS

That Mrs. Howard Gould Was "Always the Lady."

New York, April 9.—The deposition of Mrs. Ada Kent Bradley, a former maid at Castle Gould, was filed in the supreme court on behalf of Katherine Clemmons Gould in her suit for a separation from Howard Gould.

Mrs. Bradley deposed that Mrs. Gould was "always the lady," and that Mr. Gould was "a perfect gent" and nice to his wife. Her duties were to take care of Mrs. Gould's dresses and to assist her to dress.

She deposed that she had never heard Mrs. Gould curse and said that she never saw her under the influence of liquor.

"Don't you know that Mrs. Gould would drink brandy and then become excited at trifles and scold and discharge the servants?" she was asked.

"Not while I was there."

"Have you ever been close enough to Mrs. Gould to smell brandy?"

"I have been close enough, but I never smelled it there."

XTRAGOOD Knee Pants Lined All Through

Knee pants are lined on all XTRAGOOD suits for boys, and that lining doubles the life of them.

But that isn't all. All XTRAGOOD trousers have patent waist bands. A clever elastic device takes the strain from the seams and the cloth. No boisterous boy can harm trousers like these.

The pockets are "tacked" to stay. The seams are "overcast" to prevent raveling.

The seat seams are reinforced with tape, and thrice sewed. The waist bands are sewed double.

The buckles are patent riveted. The suspender and fly buttons are patented.

All XTRAGOOD trousers have belt loops—some have side buckles—some watch pockets.

NEVADA JUDGE'S RULING MAY BAR VIRGINIA HARNED FROM GETTING DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., April 9.—The divorce colony is much disturbed over a ruling by Justice Orr that both parties to a divorce action must be bona fide residents. The E. H. Sothern-Virginia Harned divorce suit is almost identical with the case in question.

The decision is given in the case of Howland vs. Howland, in which the wife came here and caused papers to be served on her husband during a brief business visit. The court held that such action was illegal. He declared the law did not throw the courts of Nevada open to the world, so that people might come here, stay a day or or so, the plaintiff start the action, the defendant come in and be served and thus confer jurisdiction on the court. "If such were the intention," he added, "then I must say that Dakota in her palmy days could not approach the mark that Nevada will make in her divorce laws. The statute applies only in the case of a bona fide resident of the state, served in whatever jurisdiction he may be found in the state."

There are at least fifty men and women here to get divorces to whom the decision will apply.

SOUTH CAROLINA AND KANSAS BOYS, SLAYERS

AGE 10, HE KILLS CHILD

Harper, Kan., April 9.—Willie Hotchkiss, 10 years old, who was reported killed by wolves, was slain by his playmate, George Nichols, 10 years old, according to a confession made by the latter.

George said he first invented the wolf story, fearing to tell the truth.

AGED 6, HE KILLS GIRL

Union, S. C., April 9.—Though he is only 6 years old, Fred Bell is a prisoner in the Union county jail here on a charge of murder.

It is charged that the child Wednesday afternoon shot Ethel Thomas, 3 years of age, and then tried to hide the body.

So far, the motive for the boy's crime has not been learned.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

If an old sore existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the place that would kill the germs; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result. Just as long as the pollution continues in the blood, the ulcer remains an open cesspool for the deposit of impurities which the circulation throws off. S. S. S. cures Old Sores by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity and taint from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. When S S.S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. SPORTS OF THE DAY

THE LEAGUE IS A SURE GO

Amateurs Enthusiastic Over the New City Organization.

Seven Teams Are Represented at Informal Meeting.

The outlook for a fast league, to be composed of the fastest amateur teams in the city, is very bright at the present time.

Seven teams were represented at the meeting last night at the Northern Hardware company's store. Some of those who were expected failed to show up, and some of those least expected were on hand.

But one more team is needed to make the circuit an eight-club affair, and it is thought that there will be more than one asking admission when the details of the league are finally arranged.

All the teams which were represented at the meeting last night are fast ones, and they will no doubt furnish good amateur sport.

The Oak Halls, Duluth Heights and Maroons have also said that they favor the scheme, and it is likely that all three of these teams will make application for admission.

Tht boys think they could very easily make it a ten-club outfit, but the matter of grounds bothers them, and they deem it impractical to have more than eight for the reason that some of the teams would have to be idle while others had games. This would be unsatisfactory, to say the least, and as they plan on keeping the teams busy all the time, keeping the interest alive by so doing, it is likely that one more team will be taken into the league and the ten-club idea dropped.

There will be another meeting Thursday of next week. At that time the committee named to look up grounds and feel out the other teams will report. A constitution will then be adopted and a schedule arranged. Officials will be elected, a board of directors chosen, and bylaws adopted.

Ray Johns presided at the meeting.

The teams and their persentatives in attendance at the meeting last night were: Adams Athletic club, Frank Mork; D. G. Cutler's, Poissant and Lenean; Cascades, Hoppe and Bannock; Hummers, Hackett and Schadewald; Centrals, Dinkel and Black; Postoffice, Weinstein and Gillenberg; Unions, Page.

BLUE LAWS WILL NOT BE ENFORCED

Vice Chancellor Says His Court Merely Enforces Equity Rights.

Jersey City, N. J., April 9.—Vice Chancellor Stevenson, in refusing, yesterday, to grant an injunction to restrain the ball game here between the New York Nationals and the Jersey City Eastern league team next Sunday, said he would not enforce the blue laws. He granted an order, however, to show cause why the Jersey City club should not be restrained from playing on their West side grounds on Sundays. The order is returnable next Thursday, so that next Sunday's game will not be interfered with.

"This court," said the vice chancellor, when the lawyers for the complainants argued that ball playing on Sunday is illegal and something that the law frowns on, "does not enforce the blue laws. It merely enforces equity rights. In those cases where the court enjoins the doing of certain things on Sunday, it is not done because the day is Sunday, but because the people are at home on that day and the annoyance might be greater than on a week day, when so many people are not at home."

The application for an injunction was made in behalf of the West side property owners, some of whom contended that the cheering at the games disturbed the Sabbath quiet, while others insisted that crowds trampled their gardens.

Wrestling Tournament.

New York, April 9.—Preliminary bouts in the wrestling championship tournament of the Amateur Athletic union were held here last night in six classes: 115, 125, 135, 145 and 158 pounds, and heavyweight divisions. The winners will continue in the finals tonight. Among the surprises in the 135-pounds class was the defeat of Louis Dole of the New York Athletic club, a former national title holder by Gustave Hakanson of the Swedish Gymnasium club of Brooklyn.

Princeton May Meet Yale.

New Haven, Conn., April 9.—In view of the fact that Yale will probably not row on Carnegie lake at Princeton at its formal opening next month, and the general feeling that Yale should meet Princeton, the Princeton crew has been invited to take part in the Yale spring regatta. No answer has been received.

Crane to Meet Gould.

Boston, Mass., April 9.—Joseph Crane of this city, a former title holder, by defeating his club-mate, Dr. G. S. Derby, in the finals of the amateur court tennis championship at the Tennis and Racquet club yesterday, won the right to play Jay Gould of New York, the present champion, in the challenge match on Saturday. The score was 6-1; 6-0; 6-0.

ON WATER SATURDAY

Boat Club Crews Planning to Launch Their Shells.

Training Quarters Will Shift From Y. M. C. A. to Club.

The candidates for the senior crew of the Duluth Boat club will, if the weather continues pleasant, get out on the water Saturday.

This will be the earliest water practice in some years. The ice is now practically all out of the bay, so there will be nothing but the shivery winds to interfere with the work of the athletes.

There will be this year, it is expected, three eight-oared crews on the water regularly, the seniors and two junior crews. The men work out each day between 5 and 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. on the rowing machines, and are fast rounding into shape. The juniors will follow the lead of the seniors and be out on the water in a few days.

The candidates for positions are working hard and the rivalry is keen. The crews this year give promise of being the best in years.

For a period of ten minutes during each practice hour, the coaches have the men row from thirty-four to thirty-six strokes a minute, so that they are practically covering the entire course each day in practice.

Work on the machines gets tiresome and now that they have been working out in the gymnasium for some time, the change to the water will be a welcome one to those who are to row under the Duluth Boat club colors at St. Paul this coming summer.

CHASE HAS SMALLPOX.

New York First Baseman Is at Detention Hospital in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., April 9.—Hal Chse, first baseman of the New York Americans is at the detention hospital here undergoing treatment for smallpox. His physicians so diagnosed his illness Monday.

The case was reported to the Augusta board of health, and the patient was ordered to the smallpox hospital. He has the mildest form of smallpox and is responding finely to treatment. He will be detained seventeen days longer. His wife telegraphed yesterday that she is on her way here from Jersey City. She will not be premitted to see the patient. He is in good spirits and has the run of the big hospital, being the only patient there.

Last Sunday half the New York club went to Savannah and half came to Augusta from Macon to play practice games. Chase, who had been suffering from stomach trouble, was with the Augusta visitors. He complained of being ill Monday night. A doctor pronounced the illness smallpox.

The regular team players were with Chase in Macon, on the train and in the hotel here. The second team was with him in Macon. Dr. James B. Morgan informed Manager Stallings that the smallpox had not at that time reached the contagious stage, and that there was absolutely no danger to the other men. However, every man was vaccinated, and every article of clothing and everything in the hotel was fumigated.

Hal Chase is believed to have contracted smallpox here from two bell boys, who are now in the contagion hospital.

Catcher Eddie Barrett of New York and Pitcher William Brunner of Gulf Port, Miss., members of the Macon club of the South Atlantic league, have been sent to the hospital suffering with clearly defined cases of smallpox. Brunner is very ill.

Eleven members of the South Atlantic league club were vaccinated yesterday.

THE RIFLE MATCHES

Program for National Matches at Camp Perry in August.

Important Change in the Rules for the National Team Match.

Washington, April 9.—Official announcement is made of the program for the national rifle matches under the auspices of the National Board for Promotion of Rifle Practice and those of the National Rifle Association of America, which will be held on the Ohio state range at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August next. The preparations for these matches are of a more elaborate scale than ever before and it is believed that the attendance will exceed that of any previous match. Lieut. Col. R. K. Evans of the United States cavalry, who is on duty with the general staff and who has been executive officer of the national matches for the past two years, has been detailed by the war department for this duty in connection with the coming national matches, and this year will also act as executive officer for the National Rifle association matches. He will have an enlarged personal staff, and approximately 100 regular officers of the army will be assigned to duty in connection with the match. About 1,000 enlisted men will be on duty at the range. It is expected that at least fifty teams representing the states and territories, the infantry, cavalry, navy and marine corps, and the naval academy, will be entered in the national match. Each team is entitled to twelve shooting members and three alternates, an aggregate of 900. They are also entitled to three officers and are usually accompanied by more. In addition there will be a large attendance of unattached members of the National Guard and civilians who will participate in the individual matches, as well as teams from regiments, companies and rifle and revolver clubs drawn to the range by the matches above mentioned and those of the Ohio State Rifle association and Department of the Lakes Rifle association and of the Ohio National Guard which will immediately precede the national team match. Congress has appropriated $12,000 for messing the competitors in the national team match, which will be done in the magnificent new concrete mess hall erected by the state of Ohio, in which 1,000 men can be fed at one sitting. Congress has also very materially increased the amount of money for prizes in the national team match, the national individual match and the national pistol match. The National Rifle association has adopted the policy of returning the competitors the entire amount of the entrance fees less the actual expenses either in the form of medals, or cash prizes. The Ohio State Rifle association will have a prize list far in excess of previous years, and there will be the new matches of the Department of the Lakes Rifle association which will be shot for the first time. The amount of prize money will thus be increased by from $6,000 to $10,000 and the whole program is the most attractive ever offered for military rifle shooting in this country. The state of Ohio has generously placed at the disposal of the various organizations the magnificently equipped and extensive range, with more than 200 targets, without further cost than the necessary expense of operation. It will also furnish tentage and camp equipment to competitors.

Important Change Made.

A most striking change has been made in the program for the national team match. Heretofore the teams have been entered as one class, with six prizes offered, of $300, $200, $150, $100, $75 and $50. This year the teams will be divided into three classes to be known as A, B, and C, respectively. This classification will be made on the standing of the teams in the last national match the first fifteen teams constituting Class A, the next fifteen Class B, and the remainder, Class C. States and territories entitled to representation, but not so represented in 1908, will be added to Class C. There will be four cash prizes in each class, as follows: Class A, first, the national trophy (given by the congress of the United States), $450 in cash; second, $360; third, $300, and fourth, $250. Class B, first, the Henry A. Hilton, trophy and $350; second, $250; third, $225, and fourth, $200. Class C, first the Branze Soldier of Marathon, presented by the conmander-in-chief in behalf of the state of New York, and $300; second, $200; third, $175, and fourth, $150. Every member of a prize winning team will receive a bronze medal, the design for the three classes being different. The total prize money in the national match is thus increased from six to twelve. It will be noticed that the first prize for Class B is equal to the second prize in Class A and the first prize in Class C is more than the second prize in Class B, the second prize in Class B being equal to the fourth prize in Class A, and the second prize in Class C being the same as the fourth prize in Class B. It might be expected that occasion would arise when a team in Class A might try a little jockeying in order to land a better prize in Class B than it could in Class A or in Class C than it could in Class B. This has been provided for by the adoption of a rule that no team shall be eligible to win a prize in a class lower than the one in which it shall have been rated for the year. Thus a team classified in C can win any prize in the match; those in Class B are eligible to the prizes in Classes A and B, while those teams which stood among the first fifteen at Camp Perry last year can shoot only for the prizes in Class A. Teams in Classes B and C, making a total score sufficient to win any prize in a higher class, must take the place and prize in the higher class to which such total score entitles them. No team shall be eligible to win more than one prize in the same national match. Hereafter each year the teams competing in the national match will be reclassified upon the basis of their standing in the national match immediately preceding. Any team which drops out a year or two will, on again entering the competition, be given a serial number, according to its standing in the last national match in which it shot.

Preventive Jockeying.

As a further preventative of possible jockeying the order of fire has been materially changed. Last year the 200-yard rapid fire immediately followed the 200-yard slow fire and, the skirmish run came in between the 800-yard stage and the 1,000-yard stage with which the match ended. This year the order of fire will be as follows. 200 yards slow fire; 600 yards slow fire; 800 yards slow fire; 1,000 slow slow fire, 200 yards rapid fire; a skirmish run. Owing to the possibilities in rapid fire and at skirmish the interest will thus be maintained until the last shot in the match is fired, for many a team will change its standing in the final stage of the match and every team will go into the skirmish run with the possibility of winning any one of the twelve prizes, for of the highest possible total score of 4,200 points, 1,200 of them can be made in the skirmish run.

In accordance with the action of congress in limiting entrance to the national matches to members of the national guard and of the regular service, the national board has changed the rules of the national individual and the national pistol matches by eliminating therefrom members of the National Rifle association and affiliated clubs

MAY CONTEST HER MARRIAGE

New Question May Come Up at Mrs. Boyle's Hearing.

Mercer, Pa., April 8.—Attorneys for both sides are preparing for the preliminary hearing of Mrs. James H. Boyle, charged with the abduction of Willie Whitla. It is said the hearing will be held at Sharon, Pa., within a few days.

The woman's legal representatives will force the state authorities to make known by what right they are holding Mrs. Boyle on a charge of kidnaping in Pennsylvania. The rumor is current that her attorneys will prove she was not in the state when the abduction was committed.

In addition, it is said, some interesting developments are possible as to the identity of Mrs. Boyle, which up to the present time has not been unquestionably established. It is also reported that the matter of her marriage with Boyle will be contested.

MOST HORRIBLE CRIME.

Policeman Placed Under Arrest for Attending Political Rally.

Louisville, Ky., April 9.—Police Corporal G. Henry Stoepler was placed under arrest by Chief of Police Haager on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Louisville is under Republican rule, but it is charged that Stoepler not only got drunk and violated the law, but while intoxicated attended a Democratic political rally. This was too much and now the police officer, who is a terror to offenders, is getting a dose of his own medicine.

SISSY AND LOAFER

What He Advertised For, But McHose Won a Jewel.

Dayton, Ohio, April 9.—William McHose, a former prominent manufacturer, believes in doing things "by opposites," as he explains, in order to accomplish anything. Six of the finest young men in Dayton applied for a place in response to the following ad:

> "WANTED—A boy, about 17 years of age, to assist in taking care of horse; must be lazy, an expert crap shooter and a sissy. Apply to W. McHose, 59 Green street, Dayton, Ohio."

"Had I asked for a nice, honest young man the chances are that I would have heard from the biggest loafers in the city," says Mr. McHose. "In this odd way I secured capable applicants.

"Once I advertised a house for rent and I stated in the ad that I wanted a family of ten children with four dogs. I promised in the ad to furnish a hatchet and a box of nails for the children so they could enjoy themselves in the parlor if they desired. The result was that I secured good tenants. You might as well be honest about it; you've got to do things 'by opposites' these days."

Powerful Interests Are in the Cole-Ryan Smelting Company.

Factors in Mining and Financial World on the Directorate.

New York, April 9.—After keeping the mining public guessing for months, the International Smelting & Refining company, which promised to become a formidable rival of the American Smelting & Refining company, finally organized at the offices of John D. Ryan in New York, electing a board of directors, which in turn named Mr. Ryan as president, Dennis Sheedy of Denver, vice president, and J. W. Allen, secretary and treasurer, says the New York Commercial.

On the board are representatives of various powerful factors in the mining and financial world, among them Amalgamated Copper, the United Metals Selling company, Butte Coalition Mining company, United States Steel and the American Brass company, which is the consolidation of the big brass manufacturing interests of New England.

The board of directors consists of Urban H. Broughton, Charles F. Brooker, Thomas F. Cole, John D. Ryan, Adolph Lewishon, E. C. Converse, Thomas Morrison of Pittsburg, C. A. Congdor of Duluth, Charles H. Sabin, Dennis Sheedy of Denver, William D. Thornton, Charles F. King and J. W. Allen.

Election of Board.

The announcement of the election of the board is the first official information given as to what interests have come into the big propect, beyond the fact that Mr. Cole and Mr. Ryan were the prime movers. The interests of the Amalgamated company are predominant in the organization. The president of the new company, John D. Ryan, is president of the Anaconda Copper company, a subsidiary of the Amalgamated, and is closely associated with H. H. H. Rogers, William Rockefeller and the other dominating interests in Amalgamated. Thomas F. Cole of Duluth represents interests of which he himself is the head, and he is one of the moving spirits of the new corporation because of his unusual ability as an organizer. In fact, Mr. Cole and Mr. Ryan have been associated for some time in some of the biggest mining propositions in the country. Mr. Cole is president of the Butte Coalition Mining company and the Greene-Cananea Copper company, and is largely interested in various other copper properties in Michigan, Montana and Arizona.

Urban H. Broughton is president of the Utah Consolidated Mining company, whose properties are at Bingham, Utah. Adolph Lewisohn, a director of the International company, is vice president of the Utah Consolidated. Mr. Broughton is treasurer and manager of the United Metals Selling company and vice president of the Raritan Copper company, which is a subsidiary of the United Metals Selling company, which is controlled by the Lewishon and Amalgamated interests. Mr. Broughton is a director in Butte Coalition.

Adolph Lewishon is president of the United Metals Selling company and of the General Development company and his mining interests extend from Mexico to Ontario.

Charles F. Brooker is not one of the coterie whose names appear in the directorates of these mining companies, but he is an important acquisition for the International as he is the head of the American Brass company, a consolidation of the big brass manufacturing interests of New England. He is also a director of the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company.

Dennis Sheedy.

Dennis Sheedy of Denver is one of the prominent smeltermen of the West. He resigned from the directorate of the American Smelting & Refining company about the first of the year and went over to the new syndicate.

Edmund C. Converse represents still other interests that have been brought into the new smelting corporation. He is a director of the United States Steel corporation and of the Allis-Chalmers company, and is president of the Mohican Oil & Gas company.

Charles S. Sabin is president of the National Copper bank of this city. Mr. Congdon, Mr. Thornton and Mr. Allen are associated with Messrs. Cole and Ryan in their various mining enterprises, and Mr. King is on the board as the New Jersey representative, the company being a New Jersey corporation.

The International company has undertaken to effect a gigantic combination of copper-producing companies in the United States and Mexico, and proposes to buy or build smelters that will make it a formidable, if not overpowering competitor of the American Smelting & Refining company. The new corporation has acquired control of the Raritan Copper company at Perth Amboy, N. J., which has been under the domination of the United Metals Selling company. This plant does a large business in the refining of blister copper, electrically, for the subsidiaries of the Amalgamated and various independent companies. The United States Metals Selling company, the greatest of the metal agencies, becomes at least an ally, if not virtually a subsidiary of the International. The Cole-Ryan interests already control the Greene-Cananea Copper company in Mexico, the Butte Coalition and North Butte in Montana, through Mr. Broughton and Lewisohn the Utah Consolidated at Bingham, Utah, and by recent acquisition the Giroux mines at Ely, Nev.

Some Negotiations.

The company is negotiating for the Torreon smelter and mines at Torreon, Mex., for the Colorado Mining company mines and the Knight smelter at Tintic, Utah, and other properties, and is preparing to built a big smelter in Pine canyon, in Tooele county, Utah. This is by no means the limit of the ambitious program mapped out by the new company. It is asserted that control of the Calumet & Hecla company, which has been swallowing smaller copper companies in Michigan, is soon to pass under the domination of United Metals Selling company interests and eventually to become an asset of the International.

The company is capitalized at $50,000,000, but only $10,000,000 will be issued at present. The stock is said to be largely oversubscribed.

AGED MAMMY

Rewarded the Engine Crew That Saved Her From Death.

Delmar, Del., April 9.—Engineer Edward T. West, who runs the Norfolk Express, was surprised yesterday when Laura Davis, an aged colored woman, handed him $2 with the remark, "Here, mister, is a dollar for you and your fireman for saving my life. When I goes to Norfolk next time I will get you a better present."

Dumfounded at first, West remembered seeing her a few days ago on the track ahead of his train and scaring her off with his whistle.

APPETITES OF GREAT

The Meat on Which Presidents and Millionaires Are Fed.

Steward Tells of Fortune's Favorites' Likes and Dislikes.

New York, April 9.—Eugene May, a member of the Stewards' club of this city boasts that he waited upon more presidents, millionaires, actors and actresses of world-wide fame than any other man in this country. He is at present superintendent of the Portland Commercial club of Portland, Or. Being in this city today, he told a reporter about his observations of the appetites of the great.

Mr. May was manager of the Overlook Mountain house in the Catskills when President Arthur stopped there. The presidential party arrived a few hours late, the delay being caused by the president, who stopped over at a brook and succeeded in landing half a dozen trout.

Mr. Arthur insisted on going to the kitchen to have them cooked in butter, not taking any chances of lard being used. President Arthur told Mr. May that he always looked after the cooking of his fish when in a strange resort.

Insisted That President Drink.

In the second term of President Grant he was the guest of a Paterson, N. J., silk manufacturer at a banquet. Covers for 200 were laid and no expense was spared. One of the worst storms that Paterson ever experienced took place on the day of the dinner and only seventy-five guests appeared in the hall. Under the circumstances there was such a surplus of wine that the waiters pressed it upon everybody within reach to get rid of it. Mr. May, who was the caterer, said the president gave a look of amazement when one of the waiters leaned over and said:

"Have some more sherry, general."

Just the same Gen. Grant took more sherry.

According to May, President Harrison was the plainest eater of any of the presidents, often ordering scrambled eggs and plain ham and sometimes asking for bread and milk.

Marshall Field was another very plain eater. John D. Rockefeller, while not a lover of expensive dishes, enjoys oyster soup, roast beef, all kinds of vegetables and a cup of strong tea and graham bread twenty-four hours old.

Mr. May, who was in Chicago for several years as steward of the Hotel Richelieu, said one of the high livers who kept the food department busy was the late Pierre Lorillard, whose favorite dish was diamond back terrapin. As Mr. Lorillard wanted the largest in the market Mr. May often paid $100 a dozen for them.

Patti Was an Epicure.

While Mr. May was connected with the Hotel Richelieu he attended to the whims of Mme. Patti and her husband, Mr. Nicolini. Patti then appeared like an innocent school girl, knew what she wanted and refused to accept something just as good. She ordered saddle of spring lamb for dinner for the week, and as it was in the month of March spring lamb was not gamboling on the Illinois prairies. Mr. May sent out and got a corner on spring lamb, paying $10 each. One dollar each was paid for heads of cauliflower not much bigger than the price if it it was paid for in silver.

The songbird always drank champagne with her meals, as did her maid. Mr. Nicolini drank champagne for breakfast, preferring heavy Burgundy for dinner.

Melba had her secretary look after the cooking of her meals and was very fond of French cooking, her favorite dish being chicken breast with truffle sauce.

Mme. Calve was very fond of newly invented dishes. Sir Henry Irving was considered a crank in regard to his meals. His valet always prepared his tea, which was carried along as personal baggage.

Ellen Terry always dined with Sir Henry, but she ordered her meals independently. She was very fond of cocoa, which she always carried with her. If Sir Henry wanted a turkey, a whole fowl was prepared and served, if he desired beef a whole sirloin, enough for a dozen persons, was fixed up with mushrooms.

HUNTING THE ALLIGATORS

A Ten-Foot Specimen Worth $40 Landed in Florida Recently.

St Petersburg, Fla., April 9.—Alligator hunting has become quite a fad, and a sport with some of the tourist friends and residents. Nearly every Sunday a party goes to Salt lake, which is almost the only place these saurians can be found, and hunt the 'gator. While resembling fishing in a manner, it is greater sport to those who delight in it, though attested by greater calamities at times. The proper mode of procedure is to get a long pole, on the end of which is a hook, metal being preferred. The fisher goes in the bog, and finding a hole in which he thinks a 'gator is lying, first takes a rope and throws it about the entrance of the hole. Then, with his hooked pole, he rams down the den and waits and listens. If successful, soon he is rewarded by having the 'gator catch hold of the pole—he being furiously mad. Teasing his 'gatorship thus for a period, the 'gator finally grabs fast to the hooked pole and is pulled from the den. It is with a spirit of uncertainty that he is dragged forth, for it is not known whether to get into shape to run or to fight.

After the 'gator is dragged to the surface, he, in his madness turns and rolls and finally twists himself up in the rope or noose that has been previously prepared. When, by assistance from others of the party who have been waiting and watching for the sport, the 'gator is somewhat fastened, the rope is made fast to his legs, which are then drawn over his back, the mouth closed and tied. Then comes the time of the life for the 'gator fisherman, if their prize is a large one. The 'gator is for the most part caught in marshes, where it is soft and slushy, and too wet for either horse or wagon to enter. The fishers are compelled to carry their catch to higher ground, there to be loaded into the already waiting wagon, and the hunt is ended with the exception of marketing or selling the 'gator or his hide.

Last Sunday Roy Latham of Philadelphia, T. B. Fernandez, Harry Coleman and B. M. Latham of St. Petersburg, together with Paul Hornlein, made an excursion to the alligator marshes. They captured the largest one that has been taken into captivity in months. The 'gator weighed 500 pounds and was ten feet in length. After getting the saurian from his den and tying him with ropes, they were required to carry him on their shoulders for a distance of half a mile to the wagon. A value of $40 has been placed on this specimen, as he is an exceptionally good one, and was injured but little in his capture.

GOVERNOR'S VETO IS VERY WELCOME

Thief River Falls Glad Normal School Is Not Located.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not a little enthusiasm was manifested last Tuesday evening when word was announced that the Cass Lake normal school bill had received the governor's veto.

This section, as well as the whole Northwest, was interested in the success of a bill leaving the location of a normal school to the state normal board, but this view of the matter did not appeal to the legislators, though it appeared to with the governor and general public.

FARMERS QUITE BUSY.

Spring Work Commences Under Auspicious Circumstances.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers are ready for the opening of the spring's work. The fields are free of snow and a few warm and dry days will see the opening of this season's campaign for a big crop. More land will be cultivated in this territory than in any former years, and a heavy potato crop will be planted. This is fast becoming the banner section of the Northwest for the successful raising of the tubers.

School opened last Monday for a two months' term, having been closed one week for the Easter holidays.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SOO MEN RUN LINE

Engineers Already Laying Out Duluth-Thief River Cut-Off.

Pennington's Herald Interview on Road's Future Verified.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A surveying party, that has been in the field for six weeks in the vicinity of the southern part of the Red Lakes, in northern Clearwater county, and working toward Thief River Falls, has been the occasion of more than a little comment and curiosity on the part of the residents of this section. Apparently the crew is running some kind of a line in an easterly direction toward this city and extending north of Bemidji and Cass Lake. That it is connected with the Thief River Falls-Duluth proposed cut-off of the Soo, is believed. Particularly is this belief accepted, when it is known that last week in an interview in The Duluth Herald, the president of the Soo stated that work on this branch would begin this summer. It will surely be needed this fall, for the Soo is compelled to ship all its grain business in the fall rush from its "Wheatline" branch, which runs straight west from this city 300 miles through North Dakota, over the Great Northern line, transferring at Erskine, some fifty miles south of this city. That the Soo won't long continue this way is well understood. The new line will open up the only really good hardwood and farming country in Beltrami county if it runs along the south side of the Red Lakes and strikes near Blackduck and crosses the Great Northern in Aitkin county.

ROOSEVELT MAN FINED HEAVILY

Is Mulcted $50 for Selling Tainted Meat at Spooner.

Spooner, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The warfare of the state of Minnesota against violators of the state pure food laws advanced several degrees here yesterday, when W. F. Hunt of Roosevelt was adjudged guilty of selling tainted and filthy pork and was fined $50 and costs, after one of the most unusual trials ever conducted in this section.

Mr. Hunt, who is breaking into the spotlight as the promoter and president of the Minnesota Air line, a proposed railroad that will bring his town, Roosevelt, into prominence, and it is claimed will change the map of this section of the state, was arrested recently by Harris Bennett of Duluth, deputy state food inspector, on the charge of selling diseased, tainted and filthy hogs to John Gabrilson, a local hotelkeeper. He gave bonds for his appearance yesterday before Justice of the Peace Kyler when the trial came off. It was the big event of the week here and the court room was crowded. C. R. Middleton appeared for the state and George Erickson for Hunt. Deputy Food Inspector Bennett was on hand. So was the hotelman, who bought the bad pork and others to bear out the claims of the state. In order to furnish the court with evidence his claim was well substantiated, Mr. Bennett and the state's attorney proposed the pork in question, which was hanging in an abandoned barn be examined. This was done, the entire courtroom going on a smelling investigation. They saw enough to convince them the state had made out a clear case and the sentence of guilty and a fine of $50 followed.

The case has attracted widespread attention in this section and before leaving for Duluth, Mr. Bennett said he felt assured the outcome would have a wholesome and salutary effect in the enforcement of the pure food laws.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 9.—John C. Griffin, a Milwaukeean born and bred, has been appointed general agent of the Soo line, with headquarters in this city. Mr. Griffin represented the freight department of the Canadian Pacific here until two years ago, when he was transferred to San Francisco.

He is a son of Henry T. Griffin, assistant general passenger agent of the Milwaukee road, and a nephew of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

EASTER PROSPERITY FATAL.

Milwaukee, Wis., April A.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent because of inability to cope with an unusually prosperous Easter trade, William Freytag, florist, ended his life shortly after midnight Wednesday by inhaling gas in the bathroom of his home.

"It was business trouble and ill health," said Mrs. Freytag. "He worried much about his business. Recently his most valued employe left him, and he was unable to find another to fill his place. He discovered that the Easter trade was unusually big, and he could not handle it. Failure of the Easter lilies to grow properly added the last touch to his depression."

Bismarck, N. D., April 9.—The new penitentiary board has organized by electing Michael Murphy of Jamestown president of the board, and the warden acts as secretary. FARMER IS ACCUSED.

Fargo, N. D., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with a statutory offense, Ray H. Combs, a farmer of Watson township, was arraigned before Judge H. F. Miller, being brought in from the West by Deputy Sheriff J. C. Ross. Bail was fixed at $1,000, which was furnished, and the trial was set for Friday. The complaining witness is Floy Mills, and a feature in the case, which may play an important part is the fact that she is under 18 years of age, according to her statement.

HANCOCK'S NEW MAYOR IS YOUNG

W. FRANK JAMES.

Hancock, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. Frank James, who was elected mayor of this city this week, to succeed Mayor A. J. Scott, is one of the youngest chief executives the city ever had. He was born in the Portage lake district, and all his life has been spent here. He was among those who volunteered from Houghton and Hancock at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and if the boys never fought any thing larger than mosquitos, it is no fault of theirs. He is adjutant of George Millar camp, Spanish War Veterans, is prominent in fraternal circles, and has been an active supporter of the Republican party. He has just concluded a term as alderman, during which he served very capably on the finance committee, and with August Mette assisted materially in placing Hancock on its feet.

AFLOAT ON ICE FLOE.

Thrilling Experience of Locomotive Fireman on Storm Lake.

Winthrop, Minn., April 9.—James Pink, a fireman on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railway, residing at Winthrop, had a perilous adventure at Storm lake. At that place he proceeded to walk across the lake. When he was a short distance from shore the ice suddenly gave way and he found himself floating on a small cake of the ice that was hardly big enough to hold his weight. After being driven by the wind across the entire length of the lake he landed safely. The ride was of two hours' duration.

DROP "WISCONSIN CENTRAL."

Railroad Will Be Known as Chicago Division of the Soo.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The name "Wisconsin Central" will be dead for the next ninety-nine years and possibly forever, except on the face of bonds and stocks of the railroad company now known by that name.

An official of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie Railway company had decided to drop the name "Wisconsin Central" and in its place "Soo Line" would appear. The entire system leased by the Soo Line will be known hereafter as the Chicago division of the road.

The Chicago force, numbering about 100 men in all, will come to Minneapolis beginning April 20, and will probably be at work about the first of next month in the general office building of the Soo Line, on Second avenue south.

The Soo line has begun work upon on terminal improvement in North and Northeast Minneapolis that will call for the expenditure of about $1,000,000. The work will be pushed through the summer. The Soo's entrance into Minneapolis will be changed and its use of the Northern Pacific tracks given up.

SPECIAL ERSKINE ELECTION.

Next Tuesday Voters Will Decide Upon Improvements.

Erskine, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school facilities are inadequate for this growing village. The town hall and other buildings have been used the past two years to provide room. A special election will be held next Tuesday to vote $11,000 bonds. This sum will be used to build a fine eight-room brick school house. The plans have been prepared by Architect Keck and show a handsome, up to date building, with the very latest improvements for school buildings. The building is to be completed before the fall term of school begins.

WINTER GRIPS MANKATO.

Southern Minnesota City Has Tussle With Elements This Week.

Mankato, Minn., April 9.—Winter played a return engagement here early this week. Tuesday there was a snow and sleet fall that would have done credit to December. A high northerly wind arose and continued throughout Tuesday night but the snow was so damp and sticky that it did not drift. It put an end temporarily to the thoughts of spring, and brought orders to the coal dealers.

Wires were diastrously affected by the storm. In this city many telephone wires were broken and poles prostrated. Telegraphic communication with the Twin Cities was cut off this forenoon. The railroads generally had enough wires to direct the movement of trains, but no more.

The trains were delayed more or less on all of the roads, but the trouble is expected to be only temporary.

The wind blew out one of the plate glass windows in the front of W. R. Hodge's saloon, north of the city hall.

BRAKEMAN IS BURIED.

Victim of Larimore Fatality Sleeps in Crookston Cemetery.

Crookston, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Ernest Newman Ergescon was held Wednesday afternoon, from the Hauges Lutheran church, Rev. O. F. Johnson, officiating.

There was a very large attendance, many railroad men being present, Mr. Ergeson having been a well known brakeman for several years past. He was 24 years of age and his tragic death at Grand Forks, resulting from an accident at Larimore, was a terrible shock to his friends, and the deepest sympathy is extended to the members of the stricken family. The remains were laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery and despite the inclement weather, they were followed to their last resting place by a large number of people.

Red Wing, Minn., April 9.—George Colby, who lives at Central Point, near Lake City, committed suicide. He sent his wife uptown on an errand, set fire to his home and then cut his throat. Neighbors soon discovered the fire and extinguished the flames. The man's life was extinct before he was found. Colby was about 50 years of age and in poor health and was despondent.

Cambridge—The home of J. P. Grant who lives near Grandy, was consumed by fire at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. The fire was first discovered on the second floor. Presumably it caught from a defective chimney. Nothing was saved from the second floor, but part of the household effects on the first floor were saved.

International Falls—The union of churches in the Easter services for next Sunday, April 11, will be of special interest. In the morning at 11 o'clock Rev. Parrish will preach at the Baptist church and Rev. H. E. Fuller will preach at the M. E. church in the evening.

Crookston—The Christian Endeavor societies of the Crookston churches will hold a union sunrise service next Sunday morning, Easter day, in the Presbyterian church. The services will start at 7 o'clock and it is expected that they will be of more than usual interest to every one who attends.

East Grand Forks—Robert Anderson, a farmer residing near here lost $200 while delivering potatoes to the Brown grocery store yesterday. Mr. Anderson scoured the city in search of the lost treasure, finally finding the money at the rear of the Brown store.

St. Cloud—The annual statement of the local postoffice receipts by Postmaster C. Grinols shows an increase of 12 per cent over the business done last year. During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1909, the receipts of the local office amounted to $28,105.59 as compared with $25,295.97, an increase of $2,809.62 or about 12 per cent.

East Grand Forks—Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Enright, prominent residents of Western Polk county, and children took their departure this week over the Northern Pacific for their new home in California. A large party of friends accompanied them to the station at East Grand Forks and sent them off with many expressions of good will.

St. Cloud—Mrs. Mary Schneider, aged 75, wife of Joseph Schneider, died at her home here Wednesday of dropsy. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the Catholic church at St. Wendel, where interment will be made.

Stillwater—A telegram was received Wednesday from Seattle, Wash., from Mrs. Bert Harris, nee May Kenyon, announcing that a boy was born to her last Saturday.

Lake City—John Nobel, aged 50, a resident of this city for the past twenty years and employed as a tinner for the Richardson Hardware company, was instantly killed while repairing an elevator. The cage dropped to the basement and Mr. Nobel was pitched down the elevator shaft, striking on his head. His neck was broken.

Mankato—Tuesday's municipal election resulted in the election of A. G. Meyer, mayor; D. C. Davies, treasurer; George G. Krost, recorder, and G. W. Eichstaedt, George Pass, Peter Lloyd, Joseph Hampl, Frank Mahowald and Martin Wiltgen, aldermen.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The North Dakota pension board held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the office of Dr. Kaess. There was just one applicant to come before the board. The applicant was John Lente of Kempton, N. D.

Wahpeton, N. D.—It is announced on authority that a franchise will be asked of the city councils of Wahpeton and Breckenridge, for the operation of an electric railway. Local capital, together with electrical experts from the East, are behind the proposition.

Bismarck, N. D.—The government will cease using its electric light plant at Fort Lincoln two miles from the city, and will have its current furnished by the local plant in the city, owned by the Hughes Electric company. The government has gone over the matter thoroughly, and have discovered it will be a great deal cheaper than to operate its own plant.

Fargo, N. D.—Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hyde of New Rockford, former residents of Fargo when Mr. Hyde was cashier of the old Red River Valley National bank, have decided to return to Fargo to make their home.

Bismarck, N. D.—State Auditor Brightball is preparing the matter of glandered horse indemnity for the consideration of the state auditing board and within a week or so the claims now on file will be audited and warrants drawn to cover them, under the appropriation of $80,000 made by the legislature.

Towner, N. D.—F. F. Fritz, the present mayor, was re-elected over George B. Vermilya by a vote of 84 to 31. Henry Erickson and J. N. Kuhl were elected aldermen; Andrew Gilbertson, treasurer; J. J. Flanagan, city justice; J. L. Killion, police magistrate, and George V. Vermilya, park commissioner.

Minot, N. D.—An immediate order for twelve rubber fire coats was authorized by the city council Monday evening for the fire department. The city will also purchase about 1,000 feet of hose. This matter was referred to the fire committee.

Grand Forks, N. D.—With the idea of securing at least 500 delegates to the state Sunday school convention that will be held in Grand Forks on May 18, 19 and 20, the officials of the North Dakota Sunday School association are busily engaged in preparing plans for the great event.

CROKER SAYS WAVE OF PROHIBITION WILL DRIVE RICH MEN FROM COUNTRY

New York, April 9.—Commenting on the wave of prohibition legislation sweeping over the country, Richard Croker predicted that this course, if persisted in, would drive those Americans who had amassed fortunes abroad, where more liberal views prevailed.

"Europe," said he, "can give us points on personal liberty. Here we stopped horse racing, one of the grandest sports there is. We class it as a crime. We legislate as to what and when a man shall drink. The whole question-will resolve itself to this: 'We'll make money here, but we'll go to Europe to enoy it.'" yesterday's vote was a test indicating the outcome of the fight on the bill, it is not by any means conclusive. At least half a dozen senators who voted for the resolution to require the committee to report Monday did so because they feared that a later report would prevent the bill being considered fairly, and when it comes to a vote will vote against it.

If the report of the committee Monday is for indefinite postponement, there will be something of a test on the question of sustaining the committee report. If an adverse report is sustained, and the bill indefinitely postponed that will settle the matter, and there will be no need of the hearing Tuesday. If an adverse report is overturned, the bill will be ordered printed and placed on general orders, and the same course would be taken if the report is favorable to the bill.

In the event of the bill going on general orders it will take two days for it to appear, when it will come at the end of the list, with a number of measures ahead of it. After being considered in committee of the whole, if it is advanced to the calendar it can hardly be reached for several days more. In the regular course of events, it is just barely possible that the bill will come to a vote without suspension of the rules, and that requires forty-two votes instead of the thirty-two to pass it.

However, the sentiment in the senate is greatly improved as a result of the hearing Wednesday night, and it may very easily be that the bill will come up in regular order and be defeated by a decisive vote. The friends of Northeastern Minnesota are very hopeful that some of the strongest men in the senate, who are giving the matter careful attention, will declare against it as unjust, impracticable and unconstitutional, and their weight cast in the balance against the bill will leave no doubt of the result.

The tax committee is placed in a very delicate position by yesterday's action of the senate. It has not had a chance to hear all of the arguments on the bill, and the demand for a report Monday came just on the eve of an adjournment until that day, so there will be no opportunity for a meeting of the committee until the day the report is expected. What the committee will do cannot be forecasted, though it is known that a majority of the committee, as the matter stands now, are opposed to the bill.

The visit of the gallant 300 citizens of the iron country, representing not only Lake, St. Louis and Itasca counties, but Carlton, Aitkin and Crow Wing counties, has been the talk of St. Paul since Wednesday night. The fact that that number of citizens would drop their private affairs and travel to St. Paul at their own expense to protest against a pending measure, has gone a long way toward bringing about the thing most needful in the present situation—that the representatives in the legislature of the rest of the state should catch a glimpse of the viewpoint of the average citizen of the iron country. It was evident beyond dispute that every man in the party was honest, earnest and desperately fearful of the result of what the legislature might thoughtlessly do.

It is worthy of note that while the people of the iron country have been watching the fight with tense and agitated interest, while they have been passing resolutions and remonstrances by the hundreds, and while they have been journeying to the state capital to make a plea for fair play, there has not been a single petition in behalf of the tonnage tax bill, and not a single individual nor a member of the legislature has come to St. Paul to make a plea for the passage of the measure.

A change in the system of taxation so radical as this, one would expect, would require weighty reasons in its favor to secure a hearing. One would expect the average legislator to put the burden of proof upon the advocates of the measure, and not upon its opponents. It is unfortunate that the whole burden of proof has been upon the opponents of the Bjorge bill, but such is the fact. However the arguments against the bill have been piled up in a volume that should be more than sufficient to overcome this handicap, and if reason and an appeal to the innate sense of fair play that lives in every man can win a fight, the tonnage tax fight is won.

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by the St. Louis county delegation giving the assistant county attorney for the iron range of St. Louis county an increase of salary from $900 to $1,200.

"No person shall use a shotgun to kill or take muskrat" is the new matter in an amendment to the game laws by Representative MacKenzie, which the house passed yesterday afternoon. While ribald, lightminded people might see in this merely a measure compelling the use of clubs, revolvers or cannon in killing muskrats, as a matter of fact the object of the bill is worthy. It is said that hunters often wantonly kill muskrats because they have guns along and there happens to be nothing else in sight to shoot at, and the intent of the bill is to stop this practice.

Representative Rosenwald had a bill before the house yesterday afternoon setting burglary with explosives apart as a separate offense, and providing a penalty of twenty-five to forty years. Several members objected to the bill because the minimum penalty was absurdly excessive, and it was killed, getting 46 votes when it needed 60, with 32 votes against it. Then its defeat was reconsidered so that it could be amended. The house adopted an amendment making the minimum punishment five years in prison, and then adopted another by Representative Selb, providing that the punishment shall be not less than ten years, leaving the maximum to the good sense of the courts, and the bill was passed.

After having a modest amount of fun out of it, the house yesterday afternoon indefinitely postponed the Sawyer bill prohibiting the wearing of red, white and blue tights "or other unseemly apparel displaying the national colors by any female person at any public performance." Representative L. H. Johnson said he couldn't see why it was made to apply to female persons only, but before the point could be argued Representative Conroy moved that the bill be indefinitely postponed, and his motion was adopted.

A bill by Representative W. A. Nolan, providing that school boards may provide transportation from October to April, inclusive, for children between 6 and 16 years of age living more than two miles from the schoolhouse, passed the house yesterday afternoon.

So did a bill by Representative Burnquist, providing that judges of probate cannot have their offices in the same room with practicing attorneys.

The bill by Senator Farrington, setting apart a game preserve of nearly a million acres in Northern Minnesota along the international boundary, in St. Louis and Lake counties, passed the house yesterday afternoon, and it now goes to the governor. It prohibits hunting in national forest reserves or in areas set apart by the game and fish commission as "breeding grounds." This is Minnesota's part of the deal by which Ontario sets apart 1,000,000 acres across the boundary, making an international game preserve of 2,000,000 acres, in which big game will have a chance to propagate and multiply unmolested.

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative Pfaender, prohibiting the state board of control from accepting any rebates or gratuities in connection with purchasing contracts. This is the outcome of the controversy between the public examiner's office and the board of control. The board made a coal contract, and later the coal company made a rebate in the form of a personal check given to S. W. Leavitt of the board. The state lost nothing, and the members of the board gained nothing, but there has been much criticism of this method of doing business, and the passage of the Pfaender bill is the result.

Representative L. H. Johnson, in opposing the bill, said that there had been only one case of rebating that anybody knew of, and in that case the state gained $5,000.

Representative Pfaender, while admitting that there was nothing corrupt in the deal, said that the checks for rebates were made to a member of the board as an individual, and not as an official, and that this was a dangerous practice. Representative Washburn said that the practice is immoral and bad and that the bill should pass, so that there may be clean, open competition. Representative Lennon said this was one of the times when he had to vote for a Democratic measure, as the practice it is designed to stop is pernicious. The bill passed, 61 to 11.

The senate yesterday refused to concur in the house amendments to the Thorpe bill recreating a state department of banking, and appointed a conference committee. Later the house directed the speaker to appoint a conference committee in behalf of the house. The dispute does not go to the merits of the bill, and there will be no difficulty in reaching an agreement. The senate felt that the amendments adopted by the house requiring banks to pay a semi-annual fee of one-fortieth of 1 per cent of their assets would make too large a fee in the cases of large banks, and the joint committee will get together on this point next week.

A number of bills affecting the three large cities were made a special order for next Tuesday night on motion of Representative Lennon of Minneapolis. None of these bills affects Duluth directly.

Both houses adjourned yesterday afternoon to Monday morning at 11 o'clock on account of Good Friday and Easter.

The house bill permitting baseball games on Sunday afternoons has been placed on the senate general orders by a favorable committee report.

The house yesterday passed a bill by Representative Brady allowing the compromise or sale of judgments for personal property taxes.

The Conley bill, allowing the state board of health to examine plans for and to inspect the construction and operation of all municipal and state water works and sewage systems passed the house yesterday, with an amendment preventing its applying to the three large cities.

State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where he will address the City club of that city on "The Campaign in Minnesota for a Working Men's Compensation Act." While in Chicago Mr. McEwen will attend a meeting of the advisory committee of the American Association for Labor Legislation, of which he is a member.

CLERGYMAN "TOUCHED"

Loses His Wallet Containing $100 in Hotel Washroom.

J. Lane, an English Episcopal minister, was "touched" this morning in the toilet room of the Spalding hotel, for $100 by unknown parties.

Mr. Lane, who is not staying at the hotel, but merely stepped into the washroom this morning, hung his coat on the wall. It contained a wallet and close to $100 in bills. When he turned to put the garment back on, he discovered that the wallet and money were gone.

Mr. Lane comes from England. He is in America as a tourist and had come to Duluth from Winnipeg. The money taken was all he had with him and the loss will be a severe one to him.

There were in the wash room at the time two or three other men, who, of course, were unknown to Mr. Lane. The money was taken at a time when the clergyman's back was turned, and he has no idea as to the guilty party.

Detectives from the central station are making an effort to recover the money.

There was in the wallet one $50 Canadian bill. The rest of the money was in smaller American bills.

Mr. Lane was on his way back to England. He had transportation to New York, and the $100 was for his steamer ticket.

THE TICKERS ARE SILENT

Grain and Stock Exchanges of Country Are Closed.

Not a ticker is ticking in the country today, as all the markets are closed in observance of Good Friday.

The New York and Boston stock exchanges are closed and will remain so until Monday, and there is nothing doing this morning on the local curb.

The Duluth Board of Trade is having no session and there are no grain markets elsewhere in this country or abroad. There will be a grain market tomorrow, however.

DEATH CLAIMS MOTHER ALSO

Mrs. A. H. Crassweller Succumbs to Shock of Daughter's Death.

In rather poor health when her daughter died in California last Tuesday, Mrs. A. H. Crassweller of Duluth was unable to recover from the shock occasioned by the girl's death, and she passed away yesterday at Long Beach, Cal., where she had spent the winter.

Mr. Crassweller learned Monday that his daughter, Kate, was not expected to live, and started immediately for the West. Before he reached his destination he learned that both his wife and daughter were dead. He did not arrive at Long Beach until 10 o'clock last night, ten hours after his wife's death.

The bodies of both mother and daughter will be broght to Duluth for burial. The family has been prominent locally, with a very wide circle of friends, especially in Lakeside, where they resided. News of the double death comes as a shock to their friends here.

Mrs. Crassweller had not been in good health for several months, but her condition was not regarded as serious. The shock of her daughter's death, however, was more than she could stand and she immediately took a turn for the worse, and gradually sank until the end came last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Billson of Duluth, who have been living at Pasadena, Cal., came to the aid of Mrs. Crassweller during the little girl's final illness, and were present when the mother died.

BURGLARS WERE INTERRUPTED

Had Goods Packed Ready to Leave, When Frightened Away.

The fact that one of the proprietors had an engagement to meet a man at the cigar factory of Piering & Dworshak, 605 East Fourth street, last night, saved the place from being burglarized. Burglars had broken into the factory, and had a gunnysack filled with cigars in boxes, when frightened away.

Mr. Piering and the man had agreed to meet at the factory at 8:30 o'clock. The friend arrived a little ahead of time, and stood before the place, waiting for Mr. Piering. He supposed the place was closed, and was surprised when a man came out of the factory, but concluded it must be an employe, and asked him if Mr. Piering had been around yet.

The stranger failed to give him any information on that point, but asked for a match and lighted a cigar. Shortly afterwards he was joined by two other men, who came from the rear of the building, and the three walked rapidly away.

When Mr. Piering showed up he found both the back door and window had been broken open. Behind the counter he found the gunnysack filled with boxes of cigars. It is believed the lighting of a match by the man in front was a signal of danger to the others. Nothing was taken from the store.

MICHIGAN YEOMEN HAVE MEETING AT ESCANABA.

Menominee, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the state conclave of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen this week at Escanaba, Fred A. Bruce of Menominee was elected state foreman and Louis Allard, also of this city, was chosen state treasurer. The next annual conclave will be held in Menominee and Roger M. Andrews of Menominee was named supreme delegate to the national conclave at Minneapolis on June 8.

WANT BRIDGE TO MOVE FURNITURE

Park Pointers Want Repairs Delayed Until After May 1.

"The first of May am movin' day."

Not until after that eventful day in the lives of the housewife, and husband, too, for that matter, do the members of the Park Point Civic club want the aerial bridge closed for repairs.

A meeting of the club was held last night in Mission hall. It was voted to protest to the board of public works against the proposed closing of the bridge. The Park Pointers will ask that the repairing of the bridge be deferred until furniture vans have stopped moving the household goods of spring movers to the point.

A request that the sand be removed from the sidewalks of the point was sent to the board of public works.

A plan of organizing fire districts, so that people living in each of these districts can be called by telephone where there is a fire, was brought up last night. It was stated that the telephone company had the matter under advisement. The fire district committee was instructed to continue negotiations with the telephone company.

SCHOBER CASE NOT FINISHED

Charles Schober, charged with attempting to burn the Vienna bakery, 207 West Superior street, the morning of March 27, was given a preliminary hearing in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

The case took up all the afternoon in Judge Windom's court. The court announced the case would be continued until noon Saturday, when Schober will be bound over to the grand jury it is expected. A number of witnesses were examined yesterday.

The firemen testified that when they visited the bakery, in response to an alarm of fire, they found a blaze in the back part of the building, and the indications were that the fire had caught from a candle burning in the open end of a barrel of oil-soaked paper. Another barrel, in which the candle had not yet burned down, was found in the building, they said.

WALLACE'S BILL BEFRIENDS FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTER.

Washington, April 9.—A friend of the fourth-class postmaster has come forward in the person of Representative Wallace of Arkansas, who has introduced a bill to give such officials as compensation 100 per cent of the first $50 of the gross receipts of his office, 60 per cent of the next $100, 50 per cent of the next $200 and 40 per cent of all further receipts. The bill provides that in no case shall the compensation exceed $250.

MARINETTE COUNTY PROBE TO BEGIN.

Marinette, Wis., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marinette is to have a grand jury. Acting District Attorney Samuel H. Cady, appointed by Circuit Judge Hastings, has received the order from the circuit judge and immediately notified the Marinette county jury commissioners to prepare a list of seventy-five eligible grand jurors.

Although District Attorney Cady is very reticent about his mode of procedure, it has been stated on good authority that his first move will be an investigation of county board affairs, then an asylum probe, followed by a city examination.

A. E. Schwittay, the suspended district attorney, is in Madison answering a charge of embezzlement brought against him by the Marinette county

NO HOLIDAY FOR THE COURTS

Juries, Judges and Stenographers Are Working Overtime.

Two judges, two clerks, two stenographers, two bailiffs and twenty-four jurors are working in the courthouse today. All of the offices downstairs in the building are closed and the "rat-tat" of the oypewriter is not. But upstairs two juries are mute witnesses to legal jousts and auditors of forensic efforts.

Good Friday being a legal holiday, the jurors sitting in court thought yesterday afternoon that they would abstain from the legal diet on which they have subsisted for some time past. They dreamt of being excused until Monday morning, but they reckoned without the seldom-ceasing movement of St. Louis county's district court.

"Friday morning at 9 o'clock," was the dictum given oy Judge Cant and Judge Dibell yesterday afternoon, and some long faces took themselves to their evening meal. They turned up bright and smiling this morning and sat through the session without a whimper.

Before Judge Cant, Harry Cavallin, charged with grand larceny in the first degree, is on trial, while the personal injury damage suit of Frank Zabukovetz against the Oliver Iron Mining company is being heard before Judge Dibell. Judge Ensign is indisposed and his courtroom has been still for several days.

NEARLY 500 MASONS AT BIG ANNUAL BANQUET

Class of Fifty-Four Takes the Thirty-Second Degree.

Impressive Ceremony of Extinguishing the Lights, Held.

Five hundred Scottish Rite Masons attended a banquet at the Temple on Second street last evening, in observance of Maundy Thursday, and in accordance with an ancient and impressive custom of the order, which includes the beautiful ceremony of extinguishing the lights, to be lighted again Easter.

In the Valley of Duluth, Orient of Minnesota, a jurisdiction which has its fount in this city, there are scattered many Masons and scores of them came from long distances, to attend the ceremonies which took place yesterday afternoon and last evening.

From the range cities, from Cloquet, Carlon and towns in that direction, and from Baudette and the borderland country, members of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite made the pilgrimage to the temple to sit with their brethren of Duluth at last evening's function.

It was the Maundy Thursday banquet of A. T. C. Pierson, Chapter Rose Croix of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, and in point of attendance and in other ways, it was one of the most successful ever held here by the order.

There were fifty-four in the class which was initiated into the thirty-second degree, with impressive ceremonies, at the Temple yesterday afternoon. These exercises were largely attended.

The extinguishing of the lights at the conclusion of the banquet was perhaps the most impressive feature of the observances. It is one that has long been observed by the Masons, and the ceremony takes place in every Scottish Rite headquarters on the Thursday of Holy week. It is symbolic of the crucifixion of the Lord.

Today and tomorrow, these lights will remain extinguished but on Easter Sunday, the ceremony of relighting them, symbolic of the rise of Christ from the dead, will take place, with one of the beautiful services of the Masonic order.

A brilliant array of speakers was heard in response to the toasts at the banquet, among them being George W. Warvelle, who is very prominent in Illinois Masonic circles and who came to Duluth especially to attend the spread and speak on the subject, "Freemasonry as a Factor in Modern Society."

Mr. Warvelle proved an eloquent orator and was listened to with rapt attention.

Trevanion W. Hugo, wise master, presided as toastmaster, and spoke on the subject, "A Twice-Told Tale."

Samuel E. Adams of Minneapolis, lieutenant grand commander and sovereign inspector general for Minnesota, was present, and he responded to the toast, "The Supreme Council and the Sovereign Grand Commander."

Robert E. Denfeld, R. W. grand orator, spoke on "The Grand lodge of the State," and Jerome E. Cooley, M. E. high grand priest, talked of "The Grand Chapter of the State."

Arthur P. Cook, K. C. C. H., spoke on "The Government of the Country."

"The Class of 1909" was the topic of the address made by Frank H. Pequette, an Indian missionary.

Secretary Cooley gave the roll call, and Albert A. Farrington, K. C. C. H., responded to the toast, "To the Memory of the Brethren of the Rite Whose Labors Here Below Have Ceased During the Past Year."

Vocal solos were given by Miss Alice Sjoselius, Walter L. Smith and Phillip Gordon Brown. There were also orchestra selections.

The members of the Scottish Rite chorus are: J. P. Johnson, H. V. Eva, L. S. Meader, Cameron Hewitt, Don E. Cole, Fred Reynolds, M. H. Schussler, S. E. Catherall, J. G. Harris and Harry G. Gearhart.

GEORGE W. WARVELLE,
Prominent Illinois Mason, Who Was One of the Principal Speakers at the Maundy Thursday Banquet.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements for yesterday's exercises and the banquet comprised: William B. Patton, Hubert V. Eva and Lyonel Ayres.

Other committees on arrangements were made up as follows: Music, Horace W. Reyner, Arthur F. M. Custance and Harry G. Gearhart; decoration, John Panton, Henry Van Brunt and Walter W. Seekins; banquet, Hubert V. Eva, Andrew C. C. Volk and John W. Miller.

Sawmill of Benefit.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. A. Halvorson of the town of Ranier in the eastern part of this county was in the city this week and reports that the small sawmill that he built this winter has been of great assistance to the settlers of that section. A great deal of small timber grows in that neighborhood and this when sawed up is as useful for farm purposes as the more expensive grades.

EASTER TO BE CLOUDY

The Weather Man Is Not Hopeful of Sunshine.

Says the New Hats Will Not Get Wet, Though.

The weather man does not promise a great deal of sunshine for Easter Sunday, but he feels certain that the Easter hats will not be damaged by dampness during the hours for church services.

"Partly cloudy weather, with mild easterly winds; mild temperature." That is what Weather Observer Richardson said when asked about the Easter weather.

He said it might rain or snow Sunday night, but not until late in the evening.

People who have Easter shopping to do tomorrow can have the satisfaction of learning that fair and warm weather is forecasted for Saturday.

All is not dark for Sunday, however. Mr. Richardson says the sun will shine once in a while. Anyway, the usual quota of new togs will probably make their appearance, as dressmakers, milliners, tailors, clothiers and haberdashers have been enjoying a bountiful Easter trade. They have been about as busy during the last few days as the church choirs, which are rehearsing the music to be given at the Sunday services.

Services are being held in many churches today and more are scheduled for this evening. In the Episcopal and Catholic churches services began at noon today and lasted until 3 o'clock. In churches of other denominations services will be held this evening.

Cleveland-Cliffs Pay Days.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's pay days this month will be as follows: Next Wednesday, the 14th, Lake and Cliffs shaft; Hard Ore and Salisbury, 15th; Maas, Jackson and Negaunee, 16th; Swanzey district, 17th, and Imperial, 20th.

RAILROAD NEWS

STOPOVERS ARE MORE GENERAL

Railroads Are Growing More Liberal in This Respect.

One of the latest developments of Eastern travel, according to the statement of a traveling passenger agent, who is in Duluth today, is that all the larger cities of the country are demanding of the railroad lines, that stopover privileges be granted on through transportation.

According to this same official, this plan will probably be carried out in the Western travel this summer. Heretofore railroads have hesitated in granting stopover privileges on through transportation, the transportation generally read right through to the destination point. But many of the commercial clubs of the larger cities have asked that passengers be allowed the privilege of stopping off at certain points, and as a rule the railroad lines of the East have complied with the request.

The result is that the cities of the East and the Middle West, such as Cleveland and Cincinnati, have been getting some of the money of the travelers who have stopped off in their cities.

One reason for this concession upon the part of the railroads, is that the ticket scalping business has been practically driven out. Railroad officials are not so quick to believe that a man will dispose of his ticket, if given a stopover privilege.

ANDERSON RESIGNS.

Severs His Connection With the Rainy Lake Company.

David O. Anderson has resigned as secretary of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company at the offices of the company today. Some time ago Mr. Anderson severed his connections with the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg Railway company, so his resignation from the Lumber company severs his official connection with the Cook and O'Brien interests, as well as the other interests allied with them.

Mr. Anderson, who is a director in the Northern National bank, has been with the Cook & O'Brien interests for a number of years. He is at the present time out of the city.

MEAT LIST IS HIGHER

Steaks and Chops Are More Expensive Here Than They Were.

The Easter Eggs Will Not be Out of Reach.

With Lent not yet over, the natural supposition of the layman would be that the meat market would remain unchanged, or perhaps easier, for a while yet, but the rise in meat quotations this week just shows how little the average layman knows about it.

The past few days have recorded a bulge all along the line of meat prices, from steaks to chops. They are all more expensive by from one to two points than they were a week ago.

Beef is quoted today at 7½ to 11 cents, according to the grade and quality. These prices are higher than they have been in two months. Light receipts had quite a little to do with the advance.

The same is true of pork loins. They are now selling, wholesale, at the packing companies' branches here for 12 to 12½ cents. Mutton is very firm at 10 cents a pound and lambs are bullish—paradoxical as this market expression must seem—at 13 to 14 cents.

The keen ones in the market foresaw this bulge in meat prices a week or so ago, their barometer being lard. The advance in lard prices a little while ago was a forerunner of the bulge in meats. Lard has not gone up this week, but it is very firm at last week's quotation, 11½ cents a pound.

The rest of the produce market has furnished little development in the way of fluctuations in prices, either way. The staples have been in good demand at the old prices and the newer things have been coming in in the same quantities and selling at the same prices as they did a week ago.

The South is sending some nice radishes to this market right now. Radishes have been more or less in the market, at certain prices all winter, but these radishes which are arriving daily were grown out of doors, and, somehow, they they taste better than the hot house variety. Also, the price is nearer the reach of the common man. He can now afford to eat a radish and not feel that he is swallowing a day's salary at one gulp.

Tomatoes furnish another feature of the fresh vegetable market. They are arriving in large quantities now from Florida and Louisiana and are excellent in size and flavor. The prices are unchanged from last week, $3 per crate of six baskets.

It seems that Easter eggs are going to be more expensive than the products of the hennery were a week ago. Twenty cents will still buy a dozen fresh eggs in the wholesale market. The demand has been firm during the week, but receipts have been good, although poor country roads may curtail them during the next few days.

Potatoes are still among the strongest features of the market. Old potatoes are very firm around 95 cents and $1 a bushel, and stocks are diminishing rapidly.

As for the new potdtoes, they are beginning to arrive, but the prices asked for them at the commission houses are quite lofty. About $3 a bushel is the price sought. Receipts are still light, and these new spuds are coming a long way.

Oranges are a big feature of the fruit market. They are offered in any quantities desired and also in any sizes. Receipts have been very liberal this month, and all the fruit has had a good quality and good sales. Prices range from $2.75 to $3.25 a box, according to the size and quality.

Cranberries are still quoted, but there are not a great many of them left in the market, nor is there much of a demand.

Sweet potatoes are still in, at $1.75 a bushel.

California lemons are offered at $3.75 a box.

Grapefruit is still a popular delicacy in the fruit line. This has been an exceptionally good season for grapefruit. Receipts have been liberal and prices moderate. This week's quotations are $4 to $4.50 a box.

Endives are offered at $2 a bushel.

Bananas are firm at 4 to 4½ cents. Importations have been rather light during the last few weeks.

Butter and cheese remain steady and unchanged from last week.

For those who are fond of that combination, biscuits and honey, new fancy white clover honey may be had in the wholesale district for 17 cents a pound.

Poultry is steady. Dressed spring chickens are 15 to 17 cents and hens are selling at 16 to 17 cents. Turkeys are 25 cents a pound and ducks 17 to 18 cents.

WEST END

REVIVE OLD CLUB.

West End Commercial Club Will Be Revived to Boost Paving.

Nothing more can be done to further the Garfield avenue paving project until the initiative is taken by somebody other than a political organization, according to the report made by the Garfield paving committee of the West End Republican club, at the regular meeting of that organization held last evening in President Jensen's office.

In the West end, political lines are sharply drawn and the Republicans' committee intimated last evening that the Democrats were piqued because the Republicans took hold of the paving matter first and have been so active in pushing it.

However, the members of the club are anxious that the plan to pave Garfield avenue be not thwarted by differences of political opinions among the residents of the neighborhood, and it was proposed last evening to set on foot a movement to revive the West End Commercial club, which has been peacefully sleeping for several years.

A mass meeting of West enders will be called for next Thursday evening and the club reorganized. At the time of its demise there were thirty members enrolled, and it is figured that all those will come in and that many others can be enlisted in the ranks.

Congress Well Atended.

The attendance was large at the Salvation Army's religious congress in the barracks at Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street, last evening. The congress is being given under the auspices of the Scandinavian corps of the Army and was opened yesterday afternoon by Col. Nelson, the commanding officer of the Western division. There will be meetings every afternoon and evening until Sunday, when there will be four meetings. The congress will adjourn with a big Salvation Army rally in the barracks Sunday evening.

Good Friday Services.

Three Swedish Lutheran churches of the city will hold union Good Friday services this evening at 7:45 in Bethany church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

The congregations of Bethany church, the First Swedish Lutheran church (uptown) and Elim Swedish Lutheran church (West Duluth), will attend the services.

Dr. A. J. Krantz of the West Duluth church and Rev. Carl Solomonson of the uptown church, will preach.

West End Shortrails.

John Koneczny has gone to Ashland, where he will sing.

The West End Hillside Improvement club will meet this evening in Alderman Peter Olson's shop, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson of 2017 West First street.

The Central Butter & Egg company is moving into its new building at Michigan street and Nineteenth avenue west.

Members of St. Luke's Episcopal church attended the union Good Friday services in St. Paul's church, uptown, this afternoon.

Miss Mary Cedarstrom has returned from Minneapolis, where she has been visiting.

The Adams Athletic association gave a dancing party last evening in the Lincoln Park auditorium. The proceeds will be placed in the baseball fund.

The Joliet club has issued invitations for a dancing party, to be given at the Lincoln Park auditorium Monday evening.

Roy Lutz has returned from a trip to Brainerd.

Ingvald Sveen, formerly connected with Moe's store, is now making Duluth territory for a Minneapolis wholesale house.

The St. Jean Baptiste society will meet Tuesday evening in the church.

DO YOU WANT TO BUY AN AIRSHIP?

The Aerial Navigator Is the Most Optimistic of Men.

London, April 9.—The recent aero exhibition, the first of its kind held in the British Isles, was crowded with visitors.

The inventor of a flying machine is surely the most optimistic individual in the world; so optimistic indeed that ofttimes he regards it as quite unnecessary to test the practicability of his invention. Thus some of the exhibitors at Olympia are offering for sale machines which have never flown, and yet are guaranteed to conquer the air with the ease and freedom of a bird. And, moreover, they are selling them.

In the absence of a Wright machine, the aeroplane, which is receiving the most serious consideration, is the biplane, made by the firm of Voisin Freres, the constructors of the machine in which Henry Farman made his successful flights.

Next to the Voisin in interest is the Robert-Esnault-Pelterie monoplane, also French. It has actually flown 1,640 yards at a height of 131 feet, and at a speed of fifty-six miles an hour. The price is $7,000, the same as that asked for a Wright aeroplane.

The only other monoplane shown is the Weiss, an English-made machine, designed on the lines of a bird without a tail. The Weiss has flown 3,000 yards. It is offered to intending aviators for $2,500, at which figure several machines have been sold.

It would seem, indeed, that aeroplanes are selling briskly at Olympia. The principal English exhibitor, Howard Wright, is getting a good share of the orders. His machine has never flown, so the half dozen or so sales he has negotiated are provisioned and to be confirmed if he satisfactorily demonstrates the practicability of his invention when the exhibition is over. The price is $6,000, which sum includes free tuition.

Capt. Windham is exhibiting a biplane in which he hopes to cross the English channel some time this year. As yet it has not lifted itself from the ground to any great extent, but its inventor has booked an order to build a machine for $3,350.

The makers of the Breguet biplane, intended to carry two persons, are offering it "ready for the air" at $5,000. They say that its normal speed is 43½ miles an hour, but inasmuch as it has not yet left terra firma of its own accord the statement is based on theory.

The De La Hault aeroplane belongs to the flapper type and is the weirdest contrivance in the show. The metal frame is shaped like a pyramid, the 100-horse power engine being at the base and driving vertical shafting. By an ingenious mechanical movement a figure eight action is given to two wings at the top of the pyramid and this, it is hoped, will afford bird-like rising and traveling power. The machine bears a strong resemblance to a skeleton windmill. The inventor says that his invention has flown five miles in Belgium. The price is $6,000.

But it is not necessary to pay so much for a flying machine. One fitted with a motor car motor of about 18-horse power, which it is declared is sufficient for purposes of ordinary flight, can be bought for $1,250. It is possible even to purchase an aeroplane on the installment system. One firm undertakes to supply machines on the condition that completion of payment shall be deferred until a flight over a stipulated distance has been carried out.

WILLISTON'S NEW MAYOR.

Williston, N. D., April 9.—John Bruegger Tuesday defeated Mayor Joseph Wegley, in a spirited contest for mayor, in every ward in the city. Mayor-elect Bruegger made his campaign on a platform of rigid enforcement of the law, and the largest vote in the history of the city was polled.

War Veteran Buried.

SUGGESTS SPLIT AMONG MINERS

Canadian Branch May Break American Federation.

Fernl, B. C., April 9.—"It looks like a split," said an official of District No. 18 of the United Mine Workers of America today. "If Morgan comes along and makes an agreement, it means that the Canadian miners will break from the United Mine Workers of America and form an independent Canadian organization." Morgan is a member of the international board in the state of Washington.

"If Lewis or any of his associates butt into this business, it's the last of the international in Canada," declared President Frank Sherman, when asked if it was true that President Lewis was not going with the operators with a view of having the disputed agreement enforced.

The last few days have been quiet all over Crows Nest Pass, but things are again livening up and some decisive movement will soon take place.

HOW THREE CHORUS LADIES KIDNAPED TEN OF THE VERY, VERY "YOUNG SET"

"A Stubborn Cinderella" has come and gone, but she left a dent, or at least the fair members of her entourage left a dent in the hearts of some of the high school boys, and very recent graduates, who made the company's visit to the Lyceum the occasion of their first plunge into the youthful pastime of buying suppers for the chorus girls.

The first night of the show, the youths, in their best suits, with their tightest-fitting Cluett-Peabody-Corliss-Coon collars, and their hair nicely combed, sat in one of the first rows and made eyes at the Amazons, after the manner of their fathers' performances during the old, old days of "The Black Crook" and "Evangeline." They wrote notes to the objects of their affection, and last night they did the thing up right by meeting some of the girls after the show and taking them to a popular cafe, just like real "men about town."

The high school cadets did the Great White Way and Rialto specialty for fair. They had the time of their lives, smoking countless cigarettes, drinking red, white and blue lemonades and cordials, and gazing into the eyes of real actresses from the really and truly stage.

To be sure, there were hardly enough chorus girls in the party to go around, but the boys generously shared the smiles of the broilers with each other. And when one of the girls would smile over the top of her golden fizz at one of the sports of 16 or 17 summers, the embryo rounders would curl up in the intoxication of enjoyment and admiration.

Of course, the youngsters attended the show again last night. They industriously "touched" their fathers for money to buy new baseball gloves with during the day, and when the orchestra began to play the overture, there they were, about ten strong.

Their entrance to the cafe, in one of the big hotels, after the play, created no end of a diversion for the other guests.

The boys reconnoitered carefully before they went in the cafe. One of their number acted as scout. He cautiously entered the cafe and peered around to see if the fathers of any of the revelers were among those present.

Assured that there would be no parental interference, the scout waved his hand to his comrades, and they all trooped in. There were eight of them, and they were proudly escorting three chorus girls.

The head waiter smiled, the waiters smiled and the other guests in the cafe looked up from their steins and smiled big broad smiles. They had all been 16 themselves, and some felt like it still.

The head waiter escorted the flushed and infatuated youths to one of the booths in the big room. It proved too small to accommodate the party, and its members were obliged to again troop across the room and brave the grins of the interested assemblage. Once in a larger room, however, the revelers were more at ease.

"Whatcher going to have?" queried one gay old boy of 16, as he lit a fresh cigarette.

"Yes, girls, have a little bite. A clubhouse sandwich and somethin' to drink," said another.

Why, certainly, the girls would have a little something. They would like some bluepoints, a lobster salad, some fricassed turkey wings, potatoes au gratin, radishes a la Marcelle, a demi tasse and a quart of White Seal.

"Wow! But the boys were game. They were eight strong, and if they all put together they could pay for it, all right. And then they ordered some drinks for themselves.

They were "real devilish" about their drinks, too. They ordered vari-colored mixtures, to be imbibed through cool-looking straws. The waiter eyed some of the smaller ones sharply, and they squirmed and ordered claret lemonade instead of dry Martinis, which they really wanted. But the bigger boys went in for golden fizzes, creme de menthes and all that sort of thing.

They had the waiter going with the variety and magnitude of their order, but he just went to the bartender, ordered a bunch of illuminated mixture and let it go at that. When he brought them and set them before the youngsters and their blonde divinities, the table looked like a rainbow.

Boyish faces were buried in the cool depths of red lemonade and a pall of Turkish cigarette smoke hung over the table.

About an hour of listening to how Mort Singer was going to star Maizie Marcelle (who was speaking), and how crazy George M. Cohan was about the dancing of Tottie Footlights (who also spoke), more cigarettes, more red lemonades, and then they took the girls down to their train.

It was a great night in Bohemia for the very young set.

THE GIRL, THE FUDGE, THE MOUSE AND THE BOSS' NEW SPRING SUIT--- A LITTLE TRAGEDY OF REAL LIFE

There is a good story being told upon a stenographer—a man—who is employed by a certain railroad department head. This young man who pounds the keys is just about the size of the boss. He has a weakness for the fair sex, and it is presumed that they in turn like him. He also has a weakness for nice clothes.

His boss is out of the city. The other day a suit of clothes was delivered to the office. It was in a box, but there was no doubt that it was a suit of clothes. It lay upon the desk of the chief for several days before the inspiration came to the young man.

Suddenly the thought came to him. Why not wear the boss's suit out to make a call upon the girl that he likes the best? The clothes of the boss were sure to be of the latest mode; he is the kind of a man who wears the best. So the young man fell for his idea. He quietly gumshoed up to the office, around about 7:30 p. m., when the electric lights of the city were piercing the gathering gloom, and made a dark change.

His girl thought that the suit was the "swellest ever." So did the young man. After they had talked about the kind of an Easter hat the girl was going to ask pa to purchase; whether the sun was going to be a perfect gentleman upon the day when headgear breaks out in spasms; of the solemn pledges from which Easter would bring release; the girl proposed that they go out into the kitchen and manufacture some fudge. They did. That is, they started for the kitchen with the intention of making the fudge.

Now by this time—the young man had almost forgotten the fact that he was wearing his boss' suit. He should have been more careful. He should have asked the young lady for one of Bridget's or Hilda's aprons. But he didn't. In the time of spring the fancy of young men turns to anything but practical precautions.

The chocolate was black, and hot, and sticky. That's the way all chocolate that is going to be really first-class fudge should be. And while the young girl poured the chocolate that was hot, and black, and sticky, she requested the young man to hold the receptacle. Sure he would; a man always likes to make himself useful in the kitchen.

The cat must have been asleep. Just as the chocolate pan was poised, waist high, a measly little mouse ran across the floor. There was a scream, a crash, a groan; three separate and distinct sounds. First the girl screamed. Then she dropped the chocolate. Then the young man groaned.

The new Easter spring suit looked as if it had been employed to mop up the hearth—an exceedingly dirty hearth, at that.

Of course there is no use crying over milk that has been spilt, even if the milk is diluted. The young man didn't say much; he was thinking like a Standard Oil attorney. Ella Wheeler Wilcox has informed anxious young ladies that they mustn't permit their young men callers to remain after 10:30 p. m. This young lady didn't have to tell the young man that it was getting late. The damper upon his spirits was as thick as the chocolate down the front of the new Easter coat.

No, the boss hasn't returned as yet, but the dry cleaner says he is doubtful if the spot—or the area—can be removed from the coat. The coat is a very light and delicate fabric.

The boss is expected home tomorrow. Sufficiency.

NOT RELATED, SAYS WHITLA

He Again Denies Any Kinship to Mrs. Boyle.

Sharon, Pa., April 9.—A conference was held today between James P. Whitla, his legal representative, Attorney Cochran, and Justice of the Peace Gilbert, following which announcement was made that Mrs. James H. Boyle, one of the alleged abductors of Willie Whitla, will be brought from the Mercer county jail to this city for a hearing Monday or Tuesday.

Justice Gilbert said either day would suit him, and it would also permit the return of Mrs. Boyle to Mercer in time for the meeting of the grand jury, April 19.

Whitla today again denied that Mrs. Boyle is either related to him or to any of the members of his family. He said he did not know who she was, and that his attorneys had been unable to obtain anything additional as to her history, but it was his intention to go through with the prosecution of Mr. and Mrs. Boyle in a thorough manner. He said the prosecution had sufficient evidence to have the woman held, and that when the case came to trial, more evidence would be forthcoming.

FIRST STRAW LID OF SEASON

Real Spring Bonnet Seen at Large on Duluth Streets.

There was a straw hat upon the streets of Duluth today. It is the first of the season. The wearer seemed unconscious of the attention he was creating, by hanging out the early harbinger of the buttercups and daisies. He walked from the union depot up Fifth avenue to First street, turning down that thoroughfare. Curious eyes followed in the wake of the man with the alfalfa bonnet, but he seemed engrossed in solving some abstruse problem, for never a glance did he give, at the many curious ones watching him.

The hat, in question was a black, sober affair. It didn't look like a new one; rather like one that had traveled far and fared better. Anyway it was a straw hat, and must be accorded the distinction of leading the Duluth Easter season.

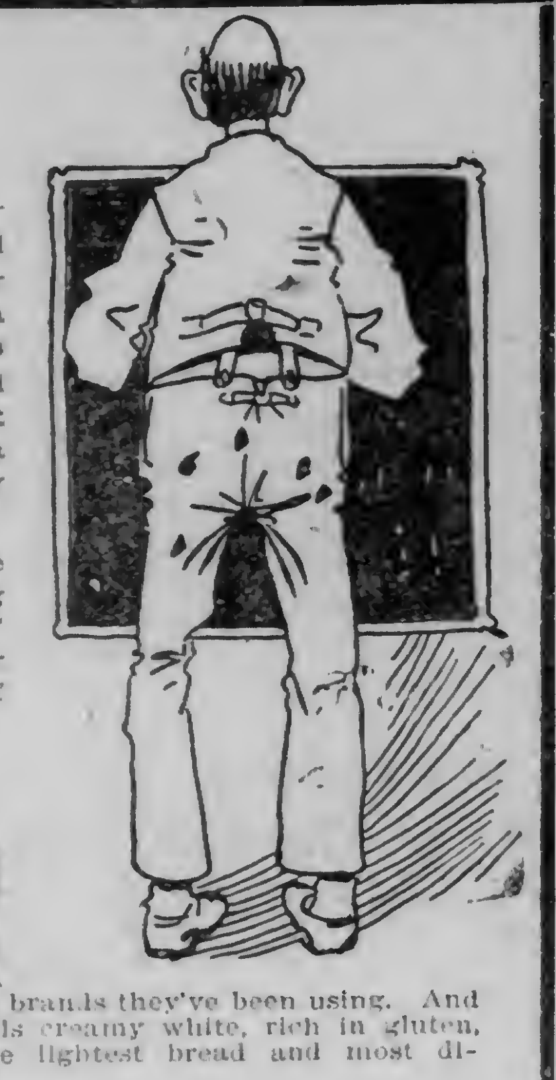
LOOKING BACKWARD



A hundred years or so, you'll find that Shakespeare or some other poet wrote, "how use doth dread a habit, a habit in man.' He was right, too, some people get so used to a certain thing that they cannot shake the habit and change to a better one, when the opportunity is offered them.

Take flour for instance. If some of you people who are "looking backward," will just "look forward" a little, you'll find your neighbor and the majority of the people of Duluth all using

FRIENDLESS IN A STRANGE CITY

Aged Wisconsin Woman Tramps Streets Looking for Work.

After wandering about the streets for hours, first looking for work, and later for a place to sleep, Mrs. Catherine McMullen, an aged woman from Phillips, Wis., wandered into the police station last night, and asked for assistance. She said 25 cents was all she had in the world, and that she had been unable to find a decent bed in which she could sleep for that price. She carried a heavy grip, and was very tired. The police officers saw to it that she was provided with a good room in a first-class hotel.

The woman had a tale of hard luck to tell. She said she came to Duluth last Tuesday from Phillips in response to advertisements teling of employment to be had here and on the ranges. She spent all her money on a railway ticket to Biwabik, where she was to take a position as servant in a hotel. When she arrived in Biwabik yesterday she found the proprietress of the hotel had just been forced to shut up the place because of a lack of business. The woman gave Mrs. McMullen enough money to pay her fare to Duluth. She did what she could to find work here, but failed in her search.

FOUR INDICTED AS EMBEZZLERS

State Senator Patterson of Ohio Among Those Involved.

Ashland, Ohio, April 9.—A joint indictment charging embezzlement of $15,555 has been returned against State Senator Frank M. Patterson, ex-Common Pleas Judge Robert M. Campbell, ex-Common Pleas Judge H. L. McCray and George Ullman, ex-cashier of the Farmers' bank.

The charge grows out of the settlement of the estate of Mrs. Mary F. Freer, who left to the Ashland County Childrens' Home the sum of $10,000. Of this amount it is said only $144 was turned over to the home.

Ullman acted as the administrator of the estate and Campbell drew the will. The other two men, it is charged, participated in the embezzlement in their legal capacity as lawyers. Two other indictments were returned against Campbell, whose term as common pleas judge expired only a few weeks ago.

"STRONG ARM" FOR DAKOTA MAN

Visitor From Devils Lake Is Held-Up and Robbed.

Richard Penturff of Devils Lake, N. D., complained to the police this morning that he had been robbed of $35 by two strangers. He was drunk at the time of the alleged robbery and cannot give a description of the men.

W. G. Rogers, a railroad brakeman, was arrested this morning upon suspicion of having been connected with the affair. He was seen in company with the Dakota man early last evening, but further than that there appears to be nothing to connect him with the crime.

Penturff was seen with different men during the evening, and was drinking heavily in several Superior street saloons. He claimed that two men were walking with him to the depot when one of them struck him over the head, knocking him unconscious. He was on his way to Dakota, intending to take the Great Northern evening train. When he regained his senses he found that his money was gone.

FAILS TO FIND MAN SO MURDERS HIS RELATIVE.

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—Unable to find Louis MacAluso, against whom he cherished a bitter hatred, Salvatore Ferlossa wreaked his vengeance in a Sicilian manner on the next of kin last night, waylaying and shooting Samuel MacAluso in the hallway of their home at 5048 Daggett avenue. The victim received three bullet wounds and died today. Ferlossa is a fugitive.

BURY HIM IN ST. LOUIS

Remains of Ethan Allen Hitchcock to Be Taken There.

Deceased Had Been Relentless in Government Prosecutions.

Washington, April 9.—Former Secretary of the Interior Ethan Allen Hitchcock, who died today, had been ill for some weeks. He contracted a severe cold while in the West, and when his condition became more serious he hurried to Washington to place himself in the hands of specialists who had attended him during his official career here.

He suffered from a complication of kidney, heart and pulmonary diseases.

Ever since he reached here he has been in bed and constantly attended by his physicians and trained nurses. With him in the home of his son-in-law, Lieutenant Commander Sims of the navy, the former naval aide to the president, were his children, Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Shepley, and his daughter, Miss Margaret Hitchcock. His condition had become steadily worse the past few days, and last night hope for his recovery was abandoned.

Hitchcock's passing marked the close of a career the prominent feature of which was an administration of the interior department that stirred the Western land problems as never before. Brought here from St. Petersburg, where he had served as ambassador under President McKinley, Mr. Hitchcock was almost immediately plunged into a vortex of complications growing out of vast frauds, charges of frauds and counter charges, growing out of the acquirement of public lands in the Western states.

Hitchcock directed the most sweeping investigation arousing the enmity of powerful political interests. The work was one of the most unswerving and relentless in the annals of government prosecutions. He prosecuted cases against numerous men in public life and private business, including United States Senator Mitchell of Oregon, who was convicted and died not long afterward, Former Congressman Singer Hermann, who had served as commissioner of the general land office and who was acquitted, Former United States Senator Dietrich of Nebraska, Representative Williamson of Oregon and John A. Benson, a millionaire real estate broker of San Francisco. Mr. Hitchcock was a target for many attacks on the floor of congress and protests filed in the White House.

The body will be taken to St. Louis tomorrow and the funeral will be Monday.

Floating Compass Needle.

When a thoroughly dry and clean sewing needle is carefully placed on the surface of water the needle will float even if the density of steel is seven or eight times that of water. A sewing needle thus floating upon water may be used as a compass, if it has previously been magnetized. Good health may be obtained by the daily use of Golden Grain Belt beer. It will also aid digestion and give keen appetite. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

TARIFF TALK AT AN END

House Takes Basic Slag From Maximum-Minimum Provision.

The Amendment Affecting Grain Speculation Is Adopted.

Washington, April 9.—After the house of representatives had had the Payne tariff bill under discussion a short time today, it was voted to take basic slag, ground or unground, out of the maximum and minimum provision, Mr. Payne explaining that it was used mostly by farmers as a fertilizer.

A substitute for Section 3 covering the maximum and minimum features of the bill, offered by Payne yesterday, occasioned lively debate. When it became apparent that almost countless amendments would be proposed to that section, Payne sought to rally his cohorts by appealing to them to vote down all such propositions.

He called attention to the fact that the substitute section is an elaboration of the original section in that it specifically points out the articles which should come within its scope.

All attempts to amend the section except in the case of basic slag and petroleum failed and the vote then being taken, the entire substitute for Section 3 was adopted.

The house adopted the committee amendment to the Payne tariff bill, which is intended to prevent speculating in grain.

A substitute for the maximum and minimum provision was offered by the ways and means committee to the original provision of the Payne bill. It does not change the effect of that section, except on a few articles. The maximum provisions are applied to baume and manufactured clays. The maximum duties of 2 0per cent ad valorem are withdrawn from coffee, furskins, potash and various potash salts. The proviso for the free entry of wood pulp is included in the maximum and minimum sections and a 20 per cent maximum is applied to steel bands for saws in places of the Dingley rates as a maximum.

At the final meeting before the passage of the Payne bill, the ways and means committee today decided to place a duty of 24 cents a bushel on barley, in place of the original duty of 15 cents, and increased the duty on barley malt from 25 cents to 40 cents a bushel. The duty on ferro-silicon was made 15 per cent ad valorem, instead of $4 a ton. It was also decided to take petroleum and basic slag from the maximum provisions, so that no increase can be made in the duties on these articles for the purpose of retaliation.

An amendment to correct an error in the classification of cold rolled iron or steel bars was agreed to. The phraseology of the Dingley bill was restored to the paragraph covering bars that are polished in addition to being cold rolled.

The British Columbia government has passed regulations curtailing the size of net used in salmon fishing, also enforcing the regulation that no fish should be caught from Saturday to Monday. It is feared that at the present rate of unrestricted fishing (338,000 cases this year) this industry will be ruined in a few years.

WHAT HUNTERS TEACH ANIMALS.

Pall Mall Gazette: If proof were needed of the part played by sportsmen in this education of the wild, we have it in their curious limitations when confronted by dangers of another kind.

No number of fatalities keep these game birds away from the telegraph wires; no lengthening death roll warns the woodcocks and other fly by nights to avoid the fatal lantern of the lighthouse. Not all the centuries of havoc have taught the larks to build their nests out of reach of scythe and sickle. Only the noisier menace of dogs and guns has brought acquired experience. In this the true sportsman has his consolation, for if difficulty be the essence of sport then that difficulty is likely to increase.

RESIDENTS INTERESTED

More in Duration of Congress Than in Tariff Question.

Special Session Is a "Pick-Up" for the National Capital.

Washington, April 9.—Tariff dominates all Washington these days. The city is filled with visitors who are interested in one way or another in the measure with which congress is struggling. Schedules, ad valorem, specific duties, preferential rates and the like from the main topic of conversation about the capitol and in hotel lobbies. The resident Washingtonians are more directly interested in the duration of the special session than they are in what congress will do with the tariff. This special session is what the printer would call a "pick-up" for Washington. The nation's capital is either one of the liveliest or one of the dullest of the nation's great cities, all depending upon whether congress is in session or not. Usually after the short session of congress Washington looks forward to a summer stagnation, but now comes the tariff and keeps congress in our midst.

Just how long it will take congress to finish its work is one of those things no fellow can find out. If the men who usually control legislation had their way, the whole business would be gotten out of the way in a month or six weeks, and they may be able to carry through the program.

It is very doubtful, however, if they can. In both the house and the senate there is an element which has imbibed the idea that it has been sent to Washington to actually take some part in the proceedings of the national legislature of which they are members and who are not disposed to let Speaker Cannon and his little circle and Senator Aldrich and those who circulate about him, do all the work just as they please.

It is this new factor in the legislative equation which makes it impossible to predict even approximately how long congress will be in session. The longer the better, is the way unofficial Washington feels about it.

"Another 'show me' piece of legislation has been introduced in the Missouri legislature," said Jerome S. Hare of Jefferson City, Mo., who was here recently.

"You can imagine how solicitous for the welfare of their constituents our Missouri lawmakers must be, when a bill has been introduced providing for 'pure shoes.' You don't know what that means? My dear sir, the great and sovereign state of Missouri demands pure shoes, and will not brook any interference on the part of the national government. The whole army and navy will not avail against the demand for 'pure shoes,' which is heard in the classic legislative halls of the great 'show me' state.

"Senator Bradley of St. Francois is the father of this 'pure shoes' bill. 'We ought to have pure boots and shoes,' said the senator. 'I want to leave shoes branded "solid leather" or "containing paper," or otherwise designated. Missouri has been robbed, so St. Louis manufacturers tell me, of upward of $2,000,000 on account of paper sold in shoes. These impure shoes are unhealthy. They have spread the white pleague among our little children who have to wear them. Our people ought to know when they are being imposed upon, so far as shoes are concerned. I make bold to say that I regard pure shoes for our children as more important than pure food.'

"These are the words of Senator Bradley. They are pregnant with the loftiest patriotism, and the leather industries of this country should call a special convocation and vote the senator a leather medal."

It sounds quite like old times to see the announcement that Miss Nellie Grant is in town. When the fact was printed a few days ago it made Washingtonians of the older generations rub their eyes for awhile and do a little dreaming. The Nellie Grant of today is the daughter of Jesse Grant, youngest son of the famous general and niece of the first Nellie Grant, whose sad story is a part of history. The second Nellie Grant is not unlike the one for who mshe was named, who, while she was far from being a beauty, was yet an attractive child, with smooth, clear skin, fine intelligent eyes, and a wealth of light brown hair, which, according to the fashion of the day, she wore crimped and hanging down her back. She was of bright and gay spirit, Gen. Grant's only daughter, and it is doubtful if any one ever had a happier girlhood, for Nellie Grant was not only the spoiled darling of her parents, but all of society made a pet of her, and she was hardly more than a child when she made her debut. Mrs. Grant was much criticised for bringing her out so early. Her marriage to the Englishman, Sartoris, was not a happy one.

Col. Mark L. Hersey, U. S. A., who is here in charge of the Philippine Constabulary band, which took part in the inauguration of President Taft has seen long service in the Philippines, and has been a close observer of international questions affecting the position of the United States in the Orient.

"Japan's position financially," said the soldier, "is such as to preclude the inpossibility of war. In the city of Nagasaki, for instance, which formerly was one of the most bustling ports in the Far East, business is now in a stagnant condition. The war with Russia was a costly experience to the little brown men. Over there the attitude of the Japanese is friendly."

The Philippine Constabulary band was organized about seven years ago, when William Howard Taft was governor of the star-spangled isles. In those days the musicians frequently gave concerts at his residence. The advancement made by the band has been remarkable. The work of the soloists is said to be astonishingly clever. Felix Cruze, the cornetist, is a direct descendant of the Apyan, who played the bamboo flute in the band of Dato Soylman of Manila, when Juan Salcede, a Spanish buccaneer, captured the city in 1591.

"When the Kansas anti-liquor law goes into effect," said Jackson J. Crothers of Topeka, Kan., "our state will have a prohibition law which is absolutely 'air-tight,' even prohibiting physicians from prescribing liquor for the use of patients. "This bill," continued Mr. Crothers, "is the outgrowth of the crusade against the 'joints' by Attorney General Jackson. It provides that any person who shall manufacture, sell or barter any spirituous, malt, vinous, fermented or other intoxicating liquors shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. "The punishment is a fine for each offense of from $100 to $500 and imprisonment of from thirty to ninety days in jail. There is just one exception made in the act—the sale of wine for communion purposes. The new act also does away entirely the drug store permits to sell liquor. This act is one of the most stringent prohibition measures in existence. The third conviction for a violation of the act is made a felony, and the penalty a penitentiary sentence of from one to two years."

Unless some scheme for checking the wraps and headgear of callers at the White House is adopted, the attaches there may have to resort to that form of sign which is usually displayed in quick-lunch rooms, namely: "We are not responsible for hats and coats." Recently what might be termed an epidemic of mixed hats and coats has struck the White House. It has compelled the attaches to scrutinize the headpieces of visitors as they depart, and if their appearance denoted any change, then this question has been asked: "Did you get your own coat and hat?" The reason for such a query may have puzzled some of the recent visitors, but it was made in their own interest. Not long ago Secretary of State Bacon walked from the cabinet meeting to his office bareheaded because some thoughtless person who had stopped in to see the president carried off his new spring hat and forgot to return it.

The idea that ex-Senator, now Sectary Knox, is devoid of a sense of humor received a fearful shock when the story of an encounter which he is alleged to have had with a new capitol guide while his eligibility for the cabinet was unsettled became known.

According to the narrative it took place on the day when the house was debating the bill to remove Mr. Knox's disability to become a member of the cabinet. The new guide, not knowing Mr. Knox, and seeing him enter the building with two or three other gentlemen, is said to have accosted the senator somewhat thus:

"Would a guide be of service to you gentlemen in seeing the sights of the building?"

Senator Knox started to walk on; then hesitated, and ventured:

"A right competent guide might be useful to me just now."

"Show you all the points of interest, sir, and explain them in full," said the guide.

"What I want," proceeded the senator, "is somebody who will show me where I am at myself."

It is further declared that before the guide discovered what the ensuing burst of laughter meant, he was drawn aside and informed whom he had been addressing.

OLD INDIAN FIGHTER HERE

Col. William Gerlach Arrives to Inspect Militia Companies.

Col. William Gerlach, retired, and W. H. Hatcher, state military storekeeper, are here today to inspect the Duluth militia companies. The inspection will take place tonight at the armory. There will be no charge to witness the inspection, and the public is invited to be present.

Col. Gerlach is one of the best known military authorities in this country. He has translated many German military works into English for use in the United States army. Many of these works are in use in the army at the present time. For his work along these lines, and upon some original articles upon military affairs Col. Gerlack is widely known in army circles.

He is also well known in Northwest military traditions. Befoore the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad to the Pacific coast, Col. Gerlack led a detachment of soldiers from North Dakota, where they were stationed to the Pacific coast, marching overland the entire distance.

He has fought Indians upon the prairies of the Northwest. Col. Gerlach is at the present time residing in St. Paul.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: This was a great day on the horse market. The biggest bunch of big horses sold to a single buyer in America this year was made yesterday when Donald Grant & Co. gave their check for 130 head, to be shipped in seven cars to Gooding, Idaho, where Grant & Co. are working on a big irrigation project. Twenty-four head of big horses were sold to W. H. Grant to be used in grading work at the state fair grounds. Retail trade was unusually active. Big rugged mules are in demand by contractors. All classes of draft and general purpose horses came near making a complete clean up. Dealers are expecting large supplies of big horses and mules on the market tomorrow. Word has been received that several big consignments of logging horses have been shipped to this market.

"I SURRENDER SERENELY," SAID CRAWFORD; DIED

Funeral of the Great Novelist Will Be Held Monday.

Knew Death Was Coming and Felt No Fear.

Burial Will Be Devoid of Pomp or Ostentation.

Sorrento, Italy, April 10—The funeral of Francis Marion Crawford, the American novelist, who died yesterday, will take place next Monday. His last words were:

> "I enter serenely into eternity."

The municipality desires to give Mr. Crawford a public funeral, but it was his wish to have no pomp or ostentation. Thursday night he expressed the presentiment that he was soon to die, and almost immediately afterward, when referring to the approaching Good Friday he said:

"I die with Christ."

Everywhere in the village of Santa Aguello, where the Villa Crawford stands next to the old Capuchin monastery and amid orange groves 200 feet above the sea, there is profound mourning. Fishermen and peasants among whom the author was most popular, on hearing that he was dead, went to the villa to express their sorrow.

Crawford first saw the light of day in Italy, the country he loved, for he

INDICTMENT IS QUASHED; CHEERS

Haskell Gets Ovation When Town Lot Cases Fall.

Tusla, Okla., April 10.—The Governor Haskell Muskogee town lot indictment was quashed today.

The court, in its decision, which was very long, quashed the indictment on the ground that they were returned by a grand jury composed of twenty-three men under the federal law, instead of by a jury of sixteen as provided for by the Arkansas law, which was held to be in force in old Indian Territory by federal enactment at the time when the alleged frauds were committed.

Sylvester Rush, special assistant attorney general, who worked up the cases for the government, stated after the opinion was handed down today that he would again present the matter to the grand jury, submitting it without delay to the body now in session. The defendants affected by today's decision besides Governor Haskell are: Clarence W. Turner, Muskogee, proprietor of a hardware company, former member of the city council, who was born in Cleveland, Ohio; Walter R. Eaton, Muskogee, who was secretary of the Indianola Construction company of which Governor Haskell is president. The company scheduled a large number of town lots. He was indicted jointly with Governor Haskell and C. W. Turner, on one indictment carrying forty-eight counts.

Governor Haskell with a party of state officials and friends, went to Muskogee from the capitol at Guthrie on a special train. His trip developed into a demonstration of an unusual character, and when the train was met at Muskogee he was met by bands and cheering thousands. Hundreds of men, some of them the most prominent in the state, marched in the procession that escorted the governor to his hotel. At the hotel the governor responded to wild clamors for a speech, and from the hotel veranda declared he had been attacked maliciously and persecuted and that time would vindicate him.

WOMEN ARE HUMILIATED

Senator Smith Tells of Insults to Government Employes.

Is Rebuked By Clapp—Civil Service Under Fire.

Washington, April 10.—A continuation of the debate of yesterday on the civil service law was the order in the senate today. The bill to provide for the thirteenth census coming over from yesterday is the order of business, the section placing the examinations for appointments in the census under the civil service commission being under consideration when the measure was taken up.

It is expected that before the senate adjourns today the census bill will have been passed. No further business will be transacted until the tariff bill is received from the house of representatives and reported by the senate committee on finance.

A general denunciation of the civil service law and the system of making promotions in the executive departments in Washington characterized the debate on the census bill.

"I know of cases," declared Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, "in which women clerks are humiliated because they will not permit a petty chief to take the liberties with them that they can with other clerks."

Mr. Smith declared that there were no more contemptible policies anywhere than existed in the civil service of the United States, which he added, excelled anything in that line ever known during the spoils system in its operation under Andrew Jackson. No man or woman, he said, could get promotion "until he bows or kow tows to some little petty chief, who shields himself behind the law."

Senator Clapp, referring to the remark of Senator Smith, said they hinted at matters that could not be publicly debated.

NIGHT RIDER SENTENCED TO YEAR IN PENITENTIARY.

Mrs. Hitchcock, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Sims, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shepley, Miss Margaret Hitchcock and George Hitchcock of St. Louis, accompanied the body.

Washington, April 10.—For any persons "except an Indian, in the Indian country," to in any way dispose of or attempt to dispose of any spirituous liquor to any Indian under the charge of any Indian superintendent or agent, or unon any Indian reservation or within twenty-five miles of any Indian reservation, renders him liable to be punished by imprisonment for not more than two years and by a fine of not more than $300, if a bill introduced by Representative Andrews of New Mexico is enacted into law.

ASKS AFTER WIFE HE SHOT; IS TOLD SHE LIVES, KILLS HIMSELF

Bingham, Me., April 10.—Lying exhausted on the snow-sovered ground, after a flight of twelve miles through the woods, Herbert Nottage, who last night shot and seriously wounded his wife, Lucinda, discharged his revolver into his mouth when confronted by a posse early today and inflicted a wound which caused his death within an hour.

Nottage quarreled with his wife last night at the house here where she is employed and shot her five times. According to the physicians, Mrs. Nottage cannot survive her injuries.

Immediately after the shooting Nottage fled, but was overtaken, exhausted. When his captors aroused him he asked for news of his wife. Upon being told she was still alive, Nottage drew his revolver and shot himself through the mouth.

Report That Gomez Is Willing He Should Rule Again.

Fort de France, Martinique, April 10.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, was informed officially today of the decision of the French government to expel him from Martinique.

He at once declared to the chief of police of Fort de France that the state of his health was such as to make it impossible for him to leave his bed.

The government thereupon called in Dr. Bouvier, who will make a report on Castro's condition.

FEARS HIS MIND WILL BE DIMMED

Aged Man Hastens to Prove Charges of Forgery.

Lebanon, Ind., April 10.—Joseph S. Miller, who died or committed suicide last week, forged his father's name to notes amounting to $25,000.

The father, Matthew G. Miller, a farmer of this county, has filed suit against the Farmers' State Bank of Lebanon and sixteen individuals, holders of the notes. Miller, who is 82, and in feeble health, recites that he fears that unless he is able to prove the forgeries now, his mind will become clouded by illness and the holders of the notes will close on him and leave him penniless.

The court has ordered that the defendant appear with the notes April 22.

INTRICACIES OF TARIFF BILL AS PASSED ALREADY SHOWN IN HIDE SCHEDULE

PRINCIPAL POINTS IN TARIFF BILL AS PASSED BY HOUSE

Hides remain free.

No free lumber. No countervailing duty on lumber.

Petroleum on the free list.

To the free list are added evergreen seedlings, cloves and nut oil, which is used in making varnish.

The "joker" in the cotton cloth schedule, which, it was claimed, would increase the duty of the Dingley bill several hundred per cent, is corrected, the proviso for the method of counting the threads in the cloth being made the same as in the present law.

The section restricting the contents of packages of tobacco is amended to conform with the present law that union labels may not be excluded from such packages.

The drawback section is added so that it cannot be taken advantage of for the purpose of speculating in grain.

The Philippine free trade provision is amended so that rice will not be admitted free from the islands.

The duties on barley, barley malt, charcoal iron, pineapples in crates, saccharine, medicated cotton and cotton collars and cuffs, as originally in the bill are increased.

To retaliate against Turkey, which country prohibits the importation of American filler tobacco, a proviso is included in the tobacco schedule increasing the duty on filler tobacco from any country which prohibits the importation of the American tobacco. The internal revenue is also amended so that raisers of tobacco will not have to pay manufacturer's license to dispose of their leaf tobacco.

There are several technical changes in the steel schedule, principally downward.

Lace curtains and netting machines are included in the proviso which permits the entry free of duty of lace machinery prior to April 1, 1910.

An increased duty is presented on gloves and stockings.

American Tanners May Be Seriously Affected By Change.

Free Lumber Advocates Snowed Under by the Majority.

Lower House Votes 217 to 161 for the Measure.

Washington, April 10.—The Payne tariff bill reached the senate from the house two minutes past noon today and was immediately referred to the committee on finance.

Washington, April 10.—The intricacies of the Payne tariff bill, which passed the house yesterday by a vote of 217 to 161, and the complications which may result from its enactment into law, are illustrated by the hides and leather schedules. In connection with the maximum and minimum provisions of the new bill a peculiar situation is presented. The bill places hides on the free list, with a retaliatory provision for duty of 20 per cent ad valorem on hides coming from countries which do not give the United States the benefit of their most favored nation clause. The duty on sole leather, as now in the bill is 5 per cent ad valorem. The maximum duty provided for sole leather is 20 per cent of the duty in addition, which makes it 6 per cent ad valorem. It is contended that inequality between the maximum duties on hides and sole leather is so great that it will seriously affect the American tanners.

One Republican, Austin, Tenn., voted against the measure and four Democrats, all from Louisiana, Messrs. Broussard, Estopinal, Pujo and Wickliffe, voted for it. An attempt by Champ Clark, a minority leader, to recommit the fill with instructions failed. When the bill actually was passed the Republicans cheered lustily, some dancing up and down the aisles and patting their fellow members on the back.

Vote on Lumber.

Fifty-five Republicans voted for free

OLD DREDGE IS NOW TO BE USED

Designed Twenty-Five Years Ago for Panama Service.

Washington, April 10.—At a cost of about $35,000 the Isthmian canal officials are restoring for use the Marmot, an old French ladder dredge of the Belgian type, which was launched at the La Boca shipways March 25.

It will soon be at work on the Pacific entrance to the canal doing the excavation for which it was designed twenty-five years ago, but never entered upon.

It is a composite dredge, made of a hull taken from the beach at La Boca, opposite the Panama railroad wharf, plates dug out of the mud at San Plabo and machinery from an old dredge at Gorgona left on the banks of the Chagres by the French.

The capacity of the dredge will be about 6,000 cubic yards a day or two twelve-hour shifts.

The entire series of shots was fired in thirty-six seconds and only two guns were used.

GOVERNOR IN DENIAL

Says He Does Not Know Where $1,200 Came From.

Davidson Gives His Version Before Senatorial Primary Probers.

Madison, Wis., April 10.—Governor James O. Davidson today gave his version of the $1,200 campaign fund sensation, which came out in the testimony of Chief Game Warden J. W. Stone before the senatorial primary investigating committee last week.

The governor denied having knowledge as to where the $1,200 came from, and said that the members of the committee knew more about the affair than he does. Senator Morris conducted the examination.

Davidson said he deposited the $1,200 in his open account. Asked if he spoke to Stone about the money after receiving it, the governor said:

"Well, I met him once, but I do not say positively that I did speak to him."

"Did you ever find out where the money came from?"

"No, I never did."

"In other words, when you saw in the newspapers that Stone had testified that the money came from the game wardens, that was the first knowledge which you had?"

"Yes."

"Well, from what you may have heard since, do you know where the money came from?"

"No, not positively; I think you gentlemen know more about that than I do."

"Is there anything else which you desire to state to the committee?"

"No, sir; the money is in my hands. If that money has been collected from

She had an impromptu reception in the court, thanking and shaking hands with her lawyers and each of the jurors.

ATTEMPT AT DYNAMITING FEARED BEFORE FUNERAL OF PETROSINO

New York, April 10.—Fearing an attempt to blow up the house where the body of Lieut. Joseph Petrosino lies, or the church where his funeral is to be held, the authorities have placed heavy guards on and around both the house and church. Besides the guards, fifty plain clothes detectives are mingling with the crowds on the streets and keeping watch for any possible overt move in the vicinity of the house or the cathedral of St. Patrick where the funeral services will be held Monday.

A letter which led to the taking of these precautions was received by Mgr. Kearney of the Cathedral.

While the priest refused to discuss the letter, it is said at police headquarters that the precautions taken are fully warranted by the communication.

A FIGHT TO THE FINISH

Madame Gain Refuses to Be Driven Out of City.

Police Have About Exhausted Supply of Stool Pigeons.

Wanted—Stool pigeons.

Who by?

Police department.

What for?

To secure evidence against Clifton hotel.

The qualifications?

Must be unknown to Madame Gain.

It's a warm and merry battle now being carried on by the police department on one side, and the redoubtable lady of French extraction on the other.

"We shall chase her out of town," say the police.

"Not until I have spent every cent I possess," says the madame.

Fighting is the very breath of life to her. She enjoys it, apparently, as the automobile enthusiast enjoys exceeding the speed limit. It looks as if this would be a fight to the finish. What that finish will be, no one can guess.

"I spotted six stool pigeons in the place last night," said the madame yesterday.

"That is only a beginning," say the police.

And that's just the trouble; the madame spots the stool pigeons. She seems to recognize them as soon as their feet hit the first step on the stairway leading up from the street.

"There were two policemen from West Duluth in the bunch last night," she said yesterday. She was asked how she knew.

"Friends described them, and told me they were coming," was the reply.

A week before the St. Croix avenue disorderly district was closed by order of the council, Mayor Haven issued his ultimatum.

"We are going to drive Madame Gain out of town," he told the reporters.

"Madame Gain has got to go," Chief Troyer echoed.

And they meant what they said, and immediately began the driving process. But the woman refuses to be driven. She maintains that she has as much right to remain here as any of the other women who were inhabitants of the district, citing Jeanette Palmer, who is running the Brunswick hotel, undisturbed, and Minnie Myers, who is operating the West, undisturbed, as examples, and says she is going to remain in Duluth, particularly in view of the fact that she is the actual owner of more real estate than all the rest of the St. Croix avenue women now in the city, put together.

The more the police try to drive, the more stubborn the madame becomes. Her hotel, the Clifton, has been raided three times since the first of the year. She claims, and the police admit, that more stool pigeons have been employed in an effort to secure evidence against her than for any single place before in the history of Duluth. Probably not a week has passed by in the last three months that at least one pair has not visited the Clifton.

"I'm glad to see them come; they help business," observed the madame yesterday, with a laugh.

Stool pigeons, let it be said for the benefit of the uninitiated, are men employed by the police to secure evidence against hotels, saloons, gambling dens, etc., which are suspected of doing something contrary to law. Madame Gain has had such a varied experience with these men lately that she has developed into a veritable stool pigeon expert. Naturally shrewd, she has become so wary that further expenditures for such men on the part of the city seem useless. She is now acquainted with the face of practically every man in the police department, and of practically every man out of it likely to lend himself to the business of stool pigeoning for a living. Those whom she doesn't know, friends tell her about.

After two of the three raids Madame Gain was acquitted in municipal court of the charges brought against her, but the third time a conviction was secured. An appeal to district court was taken, however, and to make their case stronger, the police have been trying to secure further evidence against her. Whether or not they have succeeded will develop at the trial in district court.

A NICE DISH FOR EASTER

"Rain or Snow With Easterly Winds," Says the Weather Man.

Gloomy Outlook for the Fashion Parade in Duluth.

The weather man sat in his hilltop house,
And chortled in fiendish glee;
For a wierdly sardonic,
Scarcely harmonic,
Sense of humor has he.

"Cloudy and windy, with rain or snow,
For the Easter Sunday show;
Oh, I hate to do it,
And I suppose I'll rue it;
But it tickles my fancy so."

The weather man, keeping in mind the rancor that the public feels against the person who prognosticates pleasant weather, only to have it turn out badly, has dished the following up for Easter Sunday: "Cloudy; rain or snow; brisk easterly winds."

He is taking no chances on having to run for his life tomorrow, if disappointed Duluth women look out on leaden skies, hoping from his say so, for warm sunshine. Not he.

Any Easter hats ready for execution would much better have been worn this afternoon, if there be any truth in what the weather man anticipates for Easter Sunday.

The man who tied up $5 in a new Easter lid can go down and shake the furnace for the cigars, and the man who decided to make the old one do, will have a chuckle coming. And the women—but, of course, such worldly thoughts won't come to them on Easter morning.

LARGE BARN BURNED.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large barn located on the so-called Washburn farm, two miles south of Grand Forks Junction, was destroyed Thursday by fire of unknown origin. The farm dwellings were not occupied at this time, and just what caused the blaze is a mystery. The building destroyed was valued at about $800.

During the spring every one would be benefitted by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. It furnishes a needed tonic to the kidneys after the extra strain of winter, and it purifies the blood by stimulating the kidneys, and causing them to eliminate the impurities from it. Foley's Kidney Remedy imparts new life and vigor. Pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

Four Were Hurt.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 10.—Four men were seriously injured in an accident at the new twenty-four story Oliver building being erected here by United States Senator George T. Oliver. A plate supporting a giant derrick snapped throwing the victims to the bottom of the excavation forty-five feet below.

YOUNG MEN WANTED

United States Government Gives Railway Mail Clerks $800 a Year to Start, and Increases to $1,200.

Uncle Sam will hold an examination for Railway Mail Clerks in Duluth and throughout the United States on May 15. Many ambitious young men, with only a very ordinary school education, can readily pass. The government wants young men over 18 with common sense, to take examinations for railway mail clerks and carriers, and the Government Positions Bureau of Rochester, N. Y., with its peculiar knowledge of the requirements of the examination, can fit any young man in a short time to pass. A government position means steady work, good pay, and a yearly vacation. There is time to prepare for the May 15 examinations, and any reader of The Duluth Evening Herald can get full information how to proceed, free of charge, by writing The Government Positions Bureau, 914 Powers Block, Rochester, N. DELEGATES KEEP SEATS Insurgent Faction of Electricians Still Recognized By Assembly.

Await Action of American Federation of Labor.

Though the Electrical Workers' union, local No. 31 of this city, is not recognized by the American Federation of Labor, on account of the stand on the per capita tax, which was brought up at the last convention at Denver, the delegates of that union will not be unseated by the trades assembly of this city, until final instructions are received from the American Federation of Labor.

This was decided last night at the meeting of the assembly after one of the hottest fights that has taken place in that body for some time. The matter of unseating the electrical delegates was brought up at the assembly meeting two weeks ago, and was referred to the executive committee, which met with the executive board of the electrical workers on Sunday, April 4. Their report, which recommended that no action should be taken until final word was received from the American Federation of Labor, was read last evening, and after much debate, was accepted.

Most of the Duluth union electricians are said to belong to the insurgent faction, the side at present not recognized by the American Federation of Labor. The other faction, whose officers are F. J. McNulty, Peter Collins and J. E. McCadden, is said to be favored by the American Federation of Labor. According to a communication received and read last evening from the recognized electrical international body, the "Duluth local joined the secession movement, and by reason of non-payment of per capita tax, their charter stands revoked."

The insurgents are by far in the majority in the United States. A convention has been called for April 15 next, at which time the American Federation will take final action, and until that time the Duluth trades assembly will take no action in regard to unseating the delegates.

A communication was received and read from the American Federation of Labor petitioning aid for the striking hatters of the country. The communication stated that there are 10,000 hatters and hat trimmers on the strike, and that 40,000 women and children were involved, and in need of food and clothing. The United Hatters of America have been on a strike for several months and are greatly in need of assistance.

The communications asked that every union man contribute 10 cents to be collected on April 17. Another collection will be taken up on May 15 if the strike should not be settled by that time. As the assembly had already contributed once to the support of the strikers, the communication was filed.

The following extract is from a communication received from the Cigarmakers' international, with headquarters at Chicago: "The committe of ways and means of the congress has proposed a bill providing that 150,000,000 cigars shall be permitted to come from the Philippines free of duty in one fiscal year. While this may seem a small amount, it is simply the entering wedge and I suggest that you write your congressman and both United States senators in protest." The request will be complied with.

At the meeting last evening, eighteen locals were represented. Two delegates were obligated.

Should Be Well Wrapped.

Washington, April 10.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has instructed all postmasters to inform persons who mail package to the Philippine islands and other distant points, that they should be securely wrapped in order to have them reach destination in good condition, complaint having been made to the department that merchandise has been received in bad shape.

Go to the Land of Sunshine and Wealth. ATTALIA On the Beautiful Columbia River, Washington

IRRIGATED FRUIT LANDS.

The town of Attalia is beautifully located on the Columbia, in the famous Walla Walla Co., and Columbia River valley, Washington. The resources of this state and valley offer to all who are seeking opportunities to better themselves far greater than has ever been known in the history of the world, an investment safer and surer than has ever been known in the history of this country. Words oftimes fail in truth, but statistics never lie. The man who saves $350.00 a year receives an average of 3½ per cent interest from the bank. The Columbia River Valley Fruit Lands offer you more than 200 per cent interest on investment, besides a beautiful and healthful and independent life. Our sales have reached over $500,000. We have several hundred satisfied customers. The price on land has advanced and is soon to advance more and you have yet an opportunity to double your money already within a year, if you invest now. Are you seeking opportunity. When opportunity is presented, will you grasp it?

The bank resources of the state of Washington has the largest average per capita of any of the states in the great Northwest, and the wonderful productiveness of the soil in that state, when under irrigation, together with the stupendous workings of the magnates of our country to make Washington the best railroad state in the Union, will further increase the amount per capita. Why does the state of Washington attract the big men and financiers of America more than any other state? You can answer the question yourself. There must be something in it.

ATTALIA HAS BEEN MADE TERMINAL OF NORTH COAST.

Lands have been purchased by that road from the Attalia Development Co. for terminals—consider what that means. The secret which has troubled many is now out. It is a part of Harriman's system, and Attalia is made the terminal of the road. The O. R. & N. R. R. at Attalia will give the North Coast connections from Spokane with the East; traffic connections from Seattle to Spokane through Attalia or connections from Seattle to the East. In addition to this an electric line is now under way through Attalia to Pasco. This together with the North Bank road and the Northern Pacific R. R., which both also pass right through Attalia, give our investors an unsurpassed access to markets and convenient travel, five different conveyances by rail that cannot or never will be paralleled in any other district. Attalia is also at the head of Columbia river navigation and enjoys the advantage of transportation on that big navigable body of water, boats running up and down all the year around. Attalia is a natural shipping point and the railroads must of necessity come through our valley owing to its location and the largeness and resourceful territory in that valley and country adjacent thereto. You can readily see what that means for Attalia and its productive five and ten-acre tracts. If you investigate other land propositions you will no doubt note the disadvantageous distance at which these propositions are from markets and railroads and which is of great vital importance to the grower and receipts.

Listen! The assets of Columbia River valley are the largest in the country and we want you to go at once to investigate and verify our claims carefully. Many have done it before you and have in all and every case been gratified over the conditions as existing at Attalia, after a comparison of other districts, as with ours. Don't take our word. GO AND SEE. Like all other good things, we have imitators and knockers. We know of some people, that can tell you all about Attalia and other good propositions out West that were never out there, or perhaps eyed the greatest country in the world from a car window. We have a large list of men who have been out and bought, men of judgment and careful scrutiny, men who went out West to look for climate, a future home and profits, and who looked beyond a year of development. We present our proposition and tell them what we have and invite them to Go Out and See before investing one cent with us.

WATER. Our water supply for irrigation is inexhaustible, deriving it from two different sources, the Walla Walla and Columbia rivers. Our concrete waterworks and canal costs a quarter of a million of dollars and are now in full working. The drinking water at Attalia is excellent and I may safely add that it measures up fully to the excellent Duluth drinking water.

THE SOIL. We have a very deep, rich volcanic ash soil, with a loam-subsoil, affording an excellent drainage. No spots of alkali anywhere on our land. The Attalia lands have a perfect air drainage, affording freedom from frosts, due to our location near the famous Columbia Gap. We are favored with the earliest and longest growing season, maturing from two weeks to a month earlier than other fruit-growing districts. This is a big feature to the man of lesser means, who cannot afford to wait until the trees become bearing, as he can raise two crops of vegetables and strawberries every year between trees, making a living for himself and family, with enough over to meet another payment. Strawberries in the Columbia River valley is a very big thing, and is now paying handsomely, and upwards of $500.00 to $800.00 an acre. This can be done, and is being done now. Let me kindly inform you that you may not be able to do this in other sections, as the season is not long enough and frost nearly always kills the early vegetable and berry productions. It is the early ripening that pays on the market.

CLIMATE. There is not a more delightful place or more equitable climate in the world than in the Walla Walla county, Wash., and along the Columbia river in that county. As I have stated before in my ads, this county and valley is a mecca for the man or woman bothered with rheumatism, asthma and catarrh. The soothing tendencies of this well known clime is the thing for your nerves. Attalia has a pure, dry and invigorating atmosphere with about 316 days of sunshine a year, and there being an entire absence of humidity in the atmosphere and one is never oppressed from the heat.

PRODUCTIONS. The finest varieties of apples, grapes, peaches, smaller fruits, nuts, etc., grow prolifically in our valley and are FIRST on the market. Five cuttings of alfalfa a year, giving 9 to 12 tons to the acre. The Attalia lands under proper care and attention will yield from $300 to $1,500 an acre a year, depending on the age of the orchard. These figures can only apply to irrigated orchards. The non-irrigated orchard lands can only produce a small fraction of the above receipts, besides, taking chance on a production every other year with no fancy-market-demands for that kind of fruit. Orders of over 200,000 cases of fancy irrigated apples have already been booked to be shipped through Seattle next fall for the Orient. This is just a small beginning of incoming orders.

EMPLOYMENT. We are prepared to furnish steady work at wages from 25 to 45 cents an hour, preference given to investors.

TERMS. The price on lands range from $150.00 to $325.00 an acre, including perpetual water right. We sell the land in 5 and 10-acre tracts. Our terms are one-fifth down, balance four annual payments, and one-fourth down with no payment for two years from date, balance three annual payments. We will sell the land to you, plant it into orchard, take care of it for any specified time, giving you one-half of the gross receipts every year. This plan was raised with $50.00 an acre on April 10th, and will be followed with a raise on the raw land soon. Only a short time before all of our lands will be sold.

EXCURSION, APRIL 20th.

The railway fare is $25.00 one way and $52.50 for the round trip. (Full fare will be refunded on the first payment of 10-acre purchase.) After that the fare will be $40.00 one way.

Go with us on April 20th, and see for yourself.

For particulars and information further, call or write before April 20th.

E. HULTQUIST,

Sales Manager, Attalia Development Co.,
Hotel McKay, Duluth, Minn.

THE COST OF THE FERRY BRIDGE

City Comptroller McCormick this morning prepared a statement showing the exact cost of buildign, operating and repairing the aerial bridge. The statement covers all expenditures in this connection up to the first of the present year, and includes interest on $100,000 20-year 4 per cent bonds. The grand total is $159,117.39.

The original cost of the bridge, with approaches, was $108,740.34. The cost of maintenance and repairs for four years was $26,168.25, and the interest on the bonds up to the first of January was $12,000. Free ferry service while the bridge was out of commission cost $12,208.80. The biggest year for maintenance and repairs was 1908, with $8,280.18.

Free boat service will again be established next Wednesday morning, when the bridge will stop running, in order that a platform may be built upon the upper frame work, from one side of the canal to the other.

It is expected the work will be completed in two weeks time, and the bridge will remain out of commission for that period, except upon Tuesdays and Fridays, when, between the hours of 5 p. m. and 8 p. m., the car will be operated for the convenience of those having things to be taken across the canal, such as groceries and household effects.

WEAK MEN, WAKE UP! WHY DO YOU WAIT?

Are you satisfied to turn the grindstone for the other fellow all your life? Are you content to be a plodder all your days? There's nothing in it, and you know it. Then why not brace up and be a Man? We are making hustling, energetic men out of wrecks every day. In every walk of life you'll find these men—men whom we have saved from lives of wretchedness and despair—men who are making their mark in the world—men who will tell you that their success in life dates from the time that they began the only absolutely safe and sure remedy for a weak man—a broken-down man.

Our remedy is an honest remedy, a logical remedy, a time-tried remedy. You have seen our advertisements for over twenty years, if you have been on earth that long, and if you'll write to or consult some of the men who have been cured by our scientific methods, then why do you wait if you are weak and suffer and go down the road of self-destruction? You know you are not the man you ought to be—what's the use in bewailing your fate? We can help you! We guarantee our cures to be lasting and thorough.

If it's fresh strength and energy you want, VIM and VIGOR, that's what we can give you, and you'll be a long time getting anything like that by any other man.

If your stomach don't work, refuses to digest your food; if your bowels do not move regularly; if your kidneys are weak; if your liver is sluggish; if your blood circulation is poor and your blood is full of Uric Acid or other impurities; if your powers of Manhood are weakening; if your head aches, Debilitating Losses, Urinal Disorders, Irritability, Despondency, Sleeplessness or any other signs of Nervous or Physical breakdown, stop and THINK! Don't, don't depend upon drugs to build you up; they'll never do it. Don't you know that all such symptoms are crying out the fact as loudly as they can that the nerve cells of your body are robbed of their power—their vitality? Don't you know that it is nerve power that operates every organ, every function of the body? Don't you know that the basis of nerve power is health? Then, why not get it?

We can cure you of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Cancer, Tumor, Discharges, Gleet, Syphilis, Blood Poison, Piles and other Chronic Diseases.

VARICOCELE.

This disease is often associated with Hydrocele, enlarged prostate gland, spermatorrhoea, stricture, bladder and the whole train of associated diseases is brought on by that secret vice of habit, which destroys body and soul, even of the best and of the most hopeful of young men.

We found in former years that cutting and dissecting out these veins did not cure our patients. The deep-seated nerves that control the function and nutrition of the sexual organs were still causing the patients trouble and more pain than before. After our discovery of the poisons in stagnant circulation of Varicocele, we invented the "Direct Method of the Dissolving Process," and this method is as superior to the old-time cutting and blood-letting and drugging as the modern electric light is superior to the old-fashioned tallow candle.

We are specialists in Men's Diseases Only, and we are as successful in the cure of these diseases as we are in the cure of all and any man's ailments. Men, if you want a cure of your suffering, no matter what your trouble is and how long you had it, come to us and you will not look longer for the restoration of your health. Consultation is free from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Sundays, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. No. 1 West Superior street

A MEETING OF PROTEST

Citizens Will Gather at Hazelwood to Speak Against License.

Opposition to the Saloon in Oneota Plans to Act.

A mass meeting of residents of Oneota who are unfavorable to saloons, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street, to protest against the granting of a license for a saloon at Thirty-eighth avenue west and Oneota street.

This is the license which is being sought by William Meiers and the matter will be decided by the city council at its meeting Monday evening.

Meiers, as is well known, seeks to secure the license and operate the saloon lately the property of Carpenter Bros., whose license was revoked because of their conviction for selling liquor to minors.

At the time the Carpenter case was being tried, considerable opposition to the saloon was aroused, and when Meiers began to lay plans for the securing of a license, to succeed the Carpenters, the citizens opposed to the operation of the drinking place, laid plans to block the move.

The mass meeting tomorrow will be a demonstration against the granting of the license. The projectors of the meeting have caused circulars announcing the project gathering to be widely circulated. The circular particularly invites women to be present.

SUCCESS SEEMS SURE.

Hillsiders Secure Enough Names to Petition for Grading.

The committee appointed by the West End Hillside club to secure the signatures of property owners to a petition asking for the grading of Piedmont avenue, which will permit an extension of the street car line there, reported at the meeting of the club last evening that enough names had been secured to insure the success of the project.

The idea of securing the names was not only to indorse the project, but to secure pledges of financial support from the holders of property. Every signer of the petition has agreed to an assessment to help pay for the work, the rest of the money to come from the city and the county.

Members of the club feel that the desired improvement will surely be authorized soon and work started by May. They hope to see the extended car line on Piedmont avenue in operation before the snow flies next fall.

It was expected that a delegation of Hermantown farmers would be present last evening to talk over with the Hillsiders the plan to have the county do considerable grading and improving on the road to Hermantown.

Nilson Will Be Here.

Rev. Nils Nilson, pastor of the Third Swedish Baptist church of Minneapolis, will preach at the Easter services in the First Swedish Baptist church in the West end, tomorrow. Services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Easter music will be given under the direction of Prof W. E. Ericson. Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m., and Young People's society at 5 in the afternoon.

West End Shortrails.

John Koneczny has returned from Ashland.

Al Burrows and Ben Callahan of St. Paul are registered at the Esmond.

Rev. J. Wilfrid Loughbridge, pastor of the Central Baptist church, has returned from Minneapolis.

Miss Karin Eng is expected to arrive in a few days to visit her brother, Walter Eng.

Meetings of the Salvation Army's religious congress in the barracks at Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street were held this afternoon, and another meeting will be held tonight. Tomorrow there will be a children's meeting at 9 a. m., a meeting at 11, another at 4 p. m., and in the evening the congress will conclude with a big rally.

John H. Norton, county attorney, will deliver an address on "Napoleon Bonaparte" before the members of the French Naturalization club.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carlson of 2122½ West Fourth street, have gone to the Twin Cities to spend Easter. On their way home they will stop at Brainerd and visit their two sons at that place.

Another meeting in the holy week series was held last evening in the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. Rev. H. K. Madsen preached on the general topic, "Christ's Last Week on Earth."

If the weather is not too cold, candidates for the Adams Athletic association's baseball team will get out for practice tomorrow morning on the grounds near the ore docks.

PLANS MADE FOR BOYS' BANQUET

Annual Dinner at the Boys' Department on April 16.

The regular monthly meeting of the boys' department cabinet was held at the boys' building last evening.

The committee on the annual banquet reported that the date for the big social event of the year had been set for Friday, April 16. E. W. Peck of Minneapolis, has been secured for toastmaster. The other speakers will be: William Eklund, "The Boys' Department:" Russell McLean, "Camp Miller;" Harvard Rockwell, "Duluth Central High School;" Archie Glass, "Does It Pay-" Lawrence Jacques, "The Ladies." The boys' department orchestra will provide the music and there will be a short program.

The committee of women who will have charge of the banquet, has met and made arrangements for the dinner. They will meet again Wednesday morning at 10:30.

NEW SHOW HOUSE TALK

Although there have been many rumors of new theaters in the past, of which naught came, it is reasonable at this time, with the William Morris "independent" vaudeville circuit and the Eastern burlesque wheel both invading the Twin Cities, to believe that Duluth is in a fair way to secure a new theater.

Judging from the fact that William Morris, ever since he started his opposition to the United Booking offices, which represent the Keith-Proctor, Percy Williams, Kohl & Castle, and Orpheum circuits, has overlooked no bets, he will be tempted to secure a foothold in Duluth, and the fact that the Western burlesque wheel prospered here before the razing of the Metropolitan, will either bring that organization back here with a new theater or the Eastern burlesque wheel will open a theater at the Head of the Lakes.

As has been said, it looks very much as if Duluth could not lose out.

There is no doubt about William Morris getting into the Twin Cities and it is practically assured that the Columbia Amusement company (Eastern wheel) will have burlesque theaters in both St. Paul and Minneapolis next season.

Beginning April 19, the William Morris acts will be booked in the new Miles theater in Minneapolis. Mr. Miles has not leased his house to the New Yorker, but has merely made arrangements to book his acts, which is an arrangement that seems to be most satisfactory to both gentlemen. Mr. Miles gets first-class vaudeville for his house and it permits him to buck the Orpheum, a little distance down the street, on an equal footing, and on the other hand, Morris adds a new house to his fast growing circuit.

The Morris vaudeville is on as high a plane as the Keith & Proctor and Orpheum variety, and incidentally, the sight of the increasing links in the Morris chain all over the country is giving the United Booking offices considerable worry.

It is certain that Duluth and the field it offered, has not escaped the notice of the alert Morris, or that the Orpheum people have not entirely forgotten about the Zenith City.

There has already been talk that the Western burlesque wheel will re-enter Duluth with a new theater to be built this summer and possibly the advent of the Eastern wheel in the Twin City field will spur the Westerners on in this direction.

SHORTER TIME BY DULUTH ROUTE

Through Freight to Winnipeg Will Pass Through Duluth.

Now that Duluth has daily through freight connections with Winnipeg it is expected that this city will become a competing factor with St. Paul as a gateway for the freight that is shipped from Chicago to Winnipeg.

Railroad officials in this city have been working for some time to secure this through freight service to Winnipeg. At the present time it is stated that freight can be shipped from Chicago to Winnipeg in twenty-four hours less time than it takes to ship freight via the Minnesota transfer. It is only natural therefore, that Duluth railroad officials should expect to get much of the Chicago freight that is routed through to Winnipeg.

Twenty-four hours the best of the time, is putting the matter in a conservative light. When business is very heavy Duluth will have at least sixty hours the best of the through running time. The reason for this is that the Minnesota transfer is invariably congested and cars are held there often more than forty-eight hours.

It is expected with the completion of the Wisconsin Central the freight movement from Chicago will naturally increase, but even under present conditions railroad men look to see an immediate increase in the through freight movement.

AGE LIMITS

It is said that the Pennsylvania Railway will employ no new man over 35 years old. The Southern Pacific makes the limit 40. They all want young men. Every year the old fellows on one pretext or another are being dropped by every corporation. We must all face it. Wise men are preparing for the inevitable day by providing an income for themselves.

There is nothing that fills the bill like an orange grove in the Isle of Pines. Selected lands still $40.

COMES FROM PHILADELPHIA TO SHOW THE DEAF HOW TO BE CURED

The coming of J. L. Nohner, representative of the Philadelphia Ear Masseur, to Duluth at the St. Louis hotel Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 15, 16 and 17, should be looked forward to with great interest. This is the instrument that has proven so valuable in the treatment of deafness, head noises and ear diseases. This masseur, by reason of its scientific arrangement, air is forced into the external ear by compression and mechanically vibrated so as to force the drum membrane and the paralyzed muscles of the ear into an immediate action, and by the continued use of this instrument, morning and evening, about five minutes each time, the function of the drum membrane, the nerve and the muscle of the ear are restored to their normal function. It is the greatest invention ever devised for the treatment of deafness. The average mind scarcely realizes the many wonderful things that can be done with compressed air.

As old as history, doctors, specialists in character, have attempted to treat ear diseases by blowing or compressing air into the internal ear, but their system was proved inaffective and almost barbarous, usually leaving the patients in a worse condition than they were in the beginning.

The Philadelphia Ear Masseur, being arranged on a scientific principle, forces the vibrating air into the external ear by compression and by extraction withdraws same in like quantities. Time and space forbids entering into detail, but we want to impress upon you the fact that this is the instrument that cures, no matter who may say you can not be cured, no matter who has doctored you, what altitude you have been in or what medicine you have taken, we know you are but little better and we know if you are not already deaf you will be so in time if you permit it to run on. This instrument is comparatively new, having been used only by some of the leadnig specialists for the last few years. Of course, if you are rich and can afford to go to a specialist twice a day and pay him from $2 to $10 a treatment and pay your board in some Eastern city and stay there long enough, he can cure you. But why do this when you can be cured at home? You can secure a free demonstration and be convinced, you can see at a glance and feel the wonderful effects of this wonderful instrument. Remember that this is not an appliance to be worn, it can be operated without the use of an assistant, either with water, compressed air, by hand or any power.

Mr. Nohner does not come as a physician to treat you nor can he sell these instruments direct, but he will, however, after he has demonstrated to you the qualities of this instrument take your order for one, asking a small deposit from you as a guarantee of good faith, and the instrument will be shipped you direct from the factory.

YOUNG LAW-BREAKERS ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Smith and Gilbert Rowe arrested by Officers Cole were arraigned yesterday in the municipal court. Both are young fellows, who have previously enjoyed good reputations. The charge was that of stealing brass valves and rods from the Oliver company. Both plead guilty. Young Smith was let off with a very light fine owing to this being his first offense. Rowe was remanded until today at 2 o'clock.

It was only a few weeks ago that a band of young boys were caught stealing in the same manner and it was thought at the time that their punishment would serve as a warning to others. The Oliver officials are bound to break up this unlawful practice if they have to put on special detectives.

Robert Tierney was arrested yesterday charged with stealing an overcoat. At his hearing Tierney claimed to have bought the coat for $5. His examination was put over till today at 2 p. m., in order to give him a chance to prepare his defense.

NEWSBOYS HELP CHIEF

Assist Police in Capturing Two Fugitives From Justice.

Joseph Fisher and Peter Morin Wanted in Marquette.

Chief of Police Troyer late yesterday afternoon arrested Joseph Fisher and Peter Morin, fugitives from the Marquette, Mich., prison, charged with violating their parole. They were captured after a somewhat exciting chase, in which several newsboys assisted. Harry W. Schaffer, a local blacksmith, and Jacob H. Brown, laborer, were also arrested for attempting to help the men escape.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the chief received a long-distance telephone call from Marquette, saying that two men were here who had broken parole after serving time for burglary in the Marquette prison, and stating that information could be obtained as to their whereabouts at No. 11, the Glen.

It happened that all the detectives were out on the street when the message was received, so the chief undertook to get the information himself. An old gentleman at the number given admitted knowing the men, but was unwilling to give any information, further than to say that they were working some place on Garfield avenue. Chief Troyer followed the tip, and started for Garfield, and shortly afterwards learned that two men from the house in the Glen were also headed for Garfield, evidently to warn the fugitives.

The chief got there first, however, without their knowledge, by boarding a street car and, fearing he would be recognized, got a newsboy to follow the men when they came along, himself taking the trail some distance back. At 1600 Garfield avenue the two men entered a saloon, and one of them emerged a minute afterwards and crossed the street to No. 920, from which the chief figured he had located the hiding place of the men. Meantime he had telephoned the police station for more men, and Detective Schulte was sent in hot haste to the scene.

The chief kept watch in front of the house, hoping assistance would arrive before the men tried to leave, and fearing that they might make their exit by the back door. This is just what they did do, but the newsboys, several of whom were interested in the case, tipped the police official off to what was doing, and by sprinting around the house he managed to intercept John Brown, the Duluth man, as he was about to start away with the two Michigan men. By showing his revolver the chief had no trouble in rounding them up.

Brown and Schaffer were released from custody this morning. They will not be prosecuted. An officer is now on his way from Marquette to Duluth to get the other two men and take them back to Michigan.

CASTRO IN BED

matter of permitting Cipriano Castro to remain on the Danish West India island of St. Thomas in case the former president of Venezuela should proceed there from Martinique.

Back to Power?

New York, April 10.—A revival of the rumor that Cipriano Castro, the deposed president of Venezuela will again assume the presidency with the consent of President Gomez, is contained in a special cable dispatch from Port of Spain, Trinidad, to the Herald today. The dispatch says:

"It is said here that there will be no opposition to his (Castro's) landing, on the part of President Gomez, who, it is believed, is ready to give up the presidency without opposition."

SEVEN MEN MEET DEATH

er of the Sixth district, there are no more victims in the wreck. The dead:

MICHAEL GIBSON.
WILLIAM GIBSON, his son.
STEVE NEMIS.
ARTHUR CUSTER.
THREE FOREIGNERS.

A number of miners were slightly injured by the explosion, among them being two sons of Michael Gibson, who, with his son, William, met death.

The explosion occurred just as the day shift was going off duty, and the fact that the death list is not larger is accounted for by the fact that the men were near the mouth of the mine and had but to make a short dash for safety. The dead and injured were part of a party of twelve miners who had been drilling holes preparatory to setting off shots. Laying about them were about 200 sticks of dynamite.

Six holes had been drilled, the charges sent home and the electric wires, stretching 500 feet, which are used to explode the sticks, had been attached. As customary, the men had been warned, and, it was thought, had gone toward the mine entrance and were beyond the danger point.

With the day shift nearly out, the current was switched on. There was an explosion, and then within the space of a few seconds there followed a second blast. It was this last that caused the fatalities.

Clouds of dust and smoke poured from the mine mouth, enveloping the retreating figures of the day shift; then groans and moans came from its depths. As soon as it was safe to enter, rescue parties under Supt. W. R. Calverly, Mine Inspector Blower, Mine Foreman Edward Jones and Assistant Mine Foreman Harvey Burkheimer and Robert Hunter made their way to the aid of their entombed comrades. The last three men were overcome and had to be carried from the mine.

Spring Debility

Is marked by loss of appetite, by weak, tired, languid feelings, and if the blood is very impure, by pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions.

It is a condition in which it is especially hard to overcome the germs of infectious and contagious diseases, which invade the system, here, there and everywhere. The white blood corpuscles, sometimes called because they fight the germs of disease, are too weak to do good service.

Little Soldiers in the Blood

It is a condition, therefore, that not only makes you feel sick and miserable, but also exposes you to danger.

The extraordinary efficacy of Hood's Sarsaparilla in Spring Debility has been proved by the largest volume of voluntary testimony in the world.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all spring troubles, restores appetite, gives strength and animation, cleanses the blood, clears the complexion, and builds up the whole system.

And it is no trouble to take it—only three small doses daily.

Boils and That Tired Feeling.

"It is from a sense of duty that I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla and write you this letter. Every spring I would have boils break out on my body and as the season became warmer, would have that tired feeling. This weakness and nervousness unfitted me for labor, so I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine, weighing only 132 pounds. I am glad to say it did me a wonderful amount of good, purified my blood, overcame that tired feeling, made my nerves quiet and steady, and my weight has increased to 196 pounds. I was constable in my little town for many years, able to handle the best of them, all owing to the benefit I derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla." Robert H. Despreaux, Middletown, N. J., Jan. 23, 1909.

Pimples and Poor Appetite.

"I am well satisfied with my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and if ever I need a blood medicine again, I shall certainly take it. In the spring I had pimples and boils all over my back, with poor appetite, and general run down 'springy' condition. One course of treatment for my blood had done me no good, then I turned to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did the business just right. It gave me a good appetite, and drove all the impurities out of my blood. Every opportunity I have to recommend this medicine, I gladly do so." H. P. Boyce, Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 11, 1909.

☞ Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination. These ingredients are the very remedies that successful physicians prescribe for the same diseases and ailments. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today, in the usual liquid form or in the chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar.

"I SURRENDER SERENELY"

was born at Bagni Di Lucca, a noted health resort in Tuscany, Aug. 2, 1854. His father was Thomas Crawford, noted as a sculptor.

Assiduous care was given to the education of Marion, and he studied in the United States, Italy, England and Germany. In the United States he attended Et. Paul's school, Concord, N. H.

His first work after graduation was in India, where at Allahabad for two years he edited the Italian Herald. Since 1883 Mr. Crawford had lived at the Villa Crawford, near Sorrento. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Gen. Berdan, U. S. A., on a visit to Turkey in 1884.

Mr. Crawford was a hard worker. His efforts were confined principally to the writing of novels, though he did some work in critical philosophy, and wrote one play, "Francesca Di Rimini," which Sarah Bernhardt produced in Paris in 1902. Among the numerous novels from the pen of Mr. Crawford are "Dr. Claudius," "An American Politician," "Zoroaster," "Marzios Crucifix," "The Children of the King," "In the Palace of the King" and "The Little City of Hope." Many of his works have been translated into foreign languages, and as a mark of recognition of his ability, the French government bestowed upon him the Mon Brun prize and a gold medal.

The novelist had been ill for some time, one of the symptoms of his affection being fevers, which tended greatly to weaken him. Prof. Enrico Di Rienzi, director of the American clinic of the University of Naples, was called into consultation at the Villa Crawford ten days ago and found serious bronchial and pleuratic complications. His illness had its origin in an attack of influenza.

Death came peacefully and when his family with one exception was at the bedside.

the wardens, I am ready and anxious that every dollar be restored to them, and I am perfectly willing to leave it with you gentlemen to distribute.

"I want to say another thing before I get through, and it is that I never authorized any one to solicit campaign funds for me, never asked any one in the state for help since I was governor, and in the most emphatic manner, told the game wardens in my office a year ago last March, not to interfere with politics.

"It was my desire to keep their hands out of it, and I never knew the wardens had anything to do with the senatorial or any other campaign until it came out here."

"Why did you tell the game wardens to keep out of it?"

"Because they were all under civil service."

The governor said that Game Warden Stone walked into his office one day while he was sitting talking with a gentleman and left some papers and an envelope. He did not know there was any money "in the stuff at all;" that Stone walked out and did not say a word. "I found out afterwards, though, that along with other matters, there was money in the envelope."

The governor denied Stone made three visits. His impression was that Stone called in September, while Stone said it was in August, Davidson continued.

"I took the money. It was in my hands. I had to do something with it. Not knowing there was money in it, I had put it in my desk. Quite a while after, I could not say how long, a gentleman came into the office. I was sitting alone, but Former Attorney General Sturdevant might have been in the back room, and he laid another envelope on my desk. I supposed there might be some money in it, and I said to him: 'Stone, what does this mean? What is it for and where does it come from?' He rushed out of the office and said, 'Don't ask any questions.'"

Senator Morris asked the governor if he thought $100,000 could be expended legitimately in a senatorial campaign.

The governor said he did not have much experience with that amount of money, but presumed that a man could spend it legitimately if he was very careful.

Senator Morris then tried to get the governor's views of the senatorial investigation and asked:

"I want to know as to whether a thorough investigation ought to be conducted."

"If you have an investigation, make it as thorough as possible," answered the governor.

When Senator Morris ended his questioning, Senator Husting, the Democrat on the committee, began an examination covering ground already covered.

Kept In Strong Box.

Upon further questioning, the governor said the money was kept in a strong box at first, not on the desk. After election the money was deposited in the shape of a certificate of deposit. The governor said he did not know what the money was for but supposed it was campaign contributions. He had sent for Mr. Stone several times, but he was out of the city. Later on the incident incompletely slipped his mind.

The governor said it was a big surprise to him when the matter came out in the investigation, that there had been money contributed to him that way. Not a cent of the $1,200 was used in his or any other campaign. Moreover, he said, whenever persons offered to contribute to a campaign fund, he sent them to the state central committee.

Governor Davidson explained that the mysterious way of handing the money to him kept him from using it. "I wanted to keep it in reservation, so that if there was any question, it could be corrected," said he.

He said he would rather have returned the money to Stone but after the investigation came up, it came into his mind he would not return it to him because if there was any responsibility to be taken, he did not want any one else to shoulder it.

As to whether he indorsed contributions from employes to the governor's campaign fund, witness said:

"That depends on how it is made. It has always been so." He could see nothing wrong in state employes contributing voluntarily. He did not consider it pernicious activity on the part of civil service employes to contribute money to the campaign fund.

At the conclusion of the governor's testimony, he was told that if he would sign a voucher he could get his witness money.

"I don't want any money. I want to contribute this to the state; I don't care to sign that," he replied.

O'Connor of Hancock.

Deputy Game Warden Edward O'Connor of Hancock told the committee of a conversation which Game Warden Stone said he had with the governor regarding the game warden's campaign fund, in which the governor was credited with saying: "You boys are doing too much." O'Connor quoted Mr. Stone's remarks and said the game warden said:

"I have given two packages of money to the governor and am going to give another."

"The first time I walked in and laid an envelope on his desk, I said there were some documents for him to sign. Then I walked out.

"The next time I walked in and when I laid the envelope down the governor said, 'The boys are doing too much.'"

Mr. O'Connor was very positive about this conversation and said it took place at the Sherlock hotel.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

IT RECALLS OLD CRIME

Administrator of Murdered Man's Estate Would Sell Property.

Land That Belonged to Victim of Peter Matheison Involved.

Bemidji, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a petition filed in the probate court by the Northwestern Trust company of St. Paul, administrator, for an order to sell certain lands in Roseau county at private sale, the murder of Johann Johanson, at Tenstrike two years ago, is sharply brought to mind.

Peter Mathieson, who was convicted in the district court of the murder, and given a death sentence by Judge McClenahan, which was commuted to life imprisonment, drew $400 belonging to Johanson from the Scandia American National bank of Crookston, where the murdered man had deposited it.

Henry Funkley of this city, county attorney at the time of the trial, was appointed administrator of Johanson's estate and instituted a suit against the bank to recover the money belonging to the estate. Mr. Funkley later resigned from his position as administrator and, at the request of Johannes Grunow, the German consul at St. Paul, who was acting for heirs in Germany and Denmark, Judge of Probate Clark of this city, appointed the Northwestern Trust company of St. Paul administrator, this company continuing the suit which Mr. Funkley had started.

The land at present in question is 160 acres in Roseau county, which Johanson had mortgaged to Walter Anderson for $300. After Johanson was killed, Mr. Anderson bought in the property at a sheriff's sale for the mortgage and costs, amounting in all to $410. Mr. Grunow, in the interests of foreign heirs, redeemed the land later. The land is now valued at $1,400 and the Northwestern Trust company has asked for license to sell the property at private sale. The hearing will be before Judge of Probate Clark.

PLANNING "HIKE" TO ZENITH CITY

Members of St. Paul Y. M. C. A. Figure on Long Walk.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The walk of the four Winona boys who "hiked" from the city down the river to St. Paul, as an example of what the Winona Y. M. C. A. Hiking club can do, covering a distance of about 100 miles in good time, and while here heard Gipsy Smith, the great evangelist, is being generally discussed in local Y. M. C. A. circles, and may be beaten in the near future. Some of the best walkers in the Y. M. C. A. are planning, as soon as school is over, to walk to Duluth, a distance of about 150 miles, as the railroads run, but perhaps a little more by the average highways.

The proposed Duluth "hike," if carried out, will no doubt attract considerable attention among local pedestrians, as well as those living at the Head of the Lakes.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Admitting that his heart belonged to another, not his wife, and openly proclaiming his love for the affinity, Paul Loesin was sentenced to the house of correction for one year by Judge Neelen for abandonment.

With her baby, Mrs. Loesin appeared to prosecute, and, when her husband declared his love for another, announced that she was willing for him to get a divorce and "live happy ever after."

The affinity to whom Loesin wrote love letters of feverish intensity did not appear. She was busy at work in a grill room and couldn't get away. But the letters were presented.

Loesin was brought back from Minneapolis by Detective Henry Kruse. Mrs. Loesin, who had been residing with a sister in Two Rivers, Wis., returned to prosecute.

FARMERS HAVE GRIEVANCE.

Animals Protected by Law Bother Upper Michigan Men.

Seney, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers in the district adjacent to Whitefish bay, at the extreme eastern end of Lake Superior, have a grievance against the state of Michigan, all because wild animals that the law protects are causing them considerable loss.

Among others who suffered loss last season was James M. Clark, deer getting into his garden and destroying everything in sight. He says that at one time he counted twelve of the animals feeding within the enclosure, yet under the laws he was not permitted to kill them. The farmer believes he has an action against the state for his loss, and would like to see a test case instituted in order to determine a question that has never been settled in Michigan. Beaver, too, are causing damage in the Whitefish country.

Ranier, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of the Indian who was drowned last fall by the capsizing of his canoe in the upper rapids, was found this week by some Indians who came across the bay.

The body had floated under the ice near the American shore and lodged against a large rock, and the recent warm spell having loosened the ice exposed the body. Some Indians from the Canadian reservation took the body across the lake for burial. The body had lain in the water all winter and was somewhat disfigured from being tossed about.

New Member of Board of Control at Stillwater This Week.

Stillwater, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The April meeting of the state board of control was held at the prison this week. Charles E. Vasaly, the new member, made his first official appearance with the board here. This is the beginning of his tour of state institutions.

After the visit to the new institution the board took up a heavy amount of routine work at the old prison. The new member was inducted into the modus operandi of hearing the large group of prisoners that sought an audience, the number being thirty-two. There were twenty-six applicants for parole, ten of whom were new ones and six others who had various causes to be presented.

The financial statement for the month of March shows cash transactions on account of binder twine to the amount of $37,452.06, and collections from miscellaneous sources to the amount of $9,328.30. OFFICER WAS POOR SHOT.

Fires Six Times at Fleeing Prisoner Without Result.

Menominee, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A score of passengers at the local Northwestern railway station Thursday were thrown into a state of panic when Officer Grant fired six shots at a fleeing prisoner before the latter surrendered. None of the shots took effect. The prisoner, who gives his name as George Miller, is now in the county jail, and the police believe he is one of the robbers who have been operating successfully in the Fox River valley for weeks.

As Miller stepped from the train the officer was walking briskly in his direction, and Miller, seeing the bluecoat, leaped from the platform and dashed through the yards. Officer Grant emptied his revolver, and just as he started in pursuit, the fugitive threw himself flat on the ground and made no further resistance. When taken to the county jail he denied being implicated in the Fox River robberies, but is being held pending investigation.

Her parents came from Southern Minnesota to take charge of the remains. Both are highly respected people, the father being a minister at Iota, Minn. The unfortunate girl had been an inmate of a local resort and her aged parents knew nothing of her mode of living until they arrived here, they supposing that she was doing housework as her letters home intimated that much. 18,000 Cured of Rheumatism

Over 18,000 grateful people have written us unsolicited letters telling how young and well they feel since Hill's Rheumatic Pills have driven away every twinge and ache—loosened up the stiffened joints—given new flexibility to strained and tortured muscles.

What a range of suffering these letters cover—men and women who never expected to walk again—who had been bed-ridden for years, as helpless as babes—whom untold agony had warped and twisted until they were unable to feed or dress themselves—all cured, all free from suffering through the wonderful virtues of the healing roots and herbs combined in this miracle-working remedy.

have been in use for 73 years without a single change in the formula. They are the only remedy we know which really cures Rheumatism without leaving trouble just as bad in its place.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills are purely vegetable. They contain no harmful minerals, such as iodides and salycilates, to upset the digestion or weaken the heart. They cure by aiding nature—gently stimulating Kidneys, Liver and Bowels until the poisons which cause Rheumatism are removed from the body. It only takes a short time, and you are free from every ache and pain and feel years younger as the deadly uric acid poison is dissolved and passed off as nature intended.

Determine to know today what the harmless but wonderful healing herbs and roots used in Hill's Rheumatic Pills will do for you.

TEST THEM FREE

We realize that there are hundreds of worthless nostrums on the market—that you may have been deceived into trying them and derived no benefit. If so, you will have a right to be suspicious. To all such we will give a liberal sized package of Hill's Rheumatic Pills for a letter or postal describing their case. Address the letter to Belden & Copp, the makers, Dept. 108, Minneapolis, Minn. The package will come prepaid. Pay nothing then or at any time. When you find the aches and pains going, and see yourself becoming better and stronger each day—then you will KNOW and BELIEVE, and will be as anxious to continue the remedy and be cured as we are to relieve your suffering.

You can then secure these Pills from your home druggist.

PLAN HAS ITS DRAWBACKS

Government By Commission Not Unmixed Blessing, Says Hugo.

Public Affairs Committee May Discuss It in Near Future.

Since the passage by the legislature of the act enabling cities to adopt the commission form of government, the discussion of this subject has sprung up anew in Duluth.

At the last meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club the members were asked to indorse the plan, but the matter was sidetracked until after the legislature had acted on the bill then pending. It may be brought up again at any time now. Many of the members are in favor of it, although few of them have made an exhaustive study of the plan as yet.

T. W. Hugo, chairman of the committee, stated, when asked for an opinion upon the advisability of a commission form of city government for Duluth, that his opinion would be simply snap judgment, as he had given the problem but little study. He said that he would state off hand what he believed would be the weakness of the commission form of city government for Duluth, or, for that matter, for any city.

"In the first place, we are liable to inherit many narrow tendencies under the commission plan of city government," said Mr. Hugo. "It is really getting away from the popular form of government, and getting down to a business principle of running a city.

"You can't run a city like you can a big corporation. There is a certain freedom of will that you must give the people. Many of these popular privileges that exist under the present form of government might be removed under the business-like administration of the city. That is the opinion I have at the present time, without going exhaustively into the subject. I am satisfied that many of the evils of the popular form of government would be done away with; yet there are probably some evils that would spring up under the commission form of government.

"As I said, there are certain liberties that you cannot take away from the people. These liberties would not be permitted in a corporation that was conducted along a strict business plan. I am afraid that under the commission plan of city government many dissatisfactions would spring up. I am of the opinion that the commission form of government would not be in force long before the people would rebel against it.

"Further than this I am not prepared to go at the present time. That is my opinion from a merely cursory study of the matter. It is possible that I might change my view with more investigation."

CAMPAIGN SINGER DYING.

Jules Lumbard, Whose Singing Caused Men to Enlist.

Chicago, April 10.—Jules Lumbard, well known all over America as a veteran campaign singer and Republican worker, and one of the few remaining characters of the Lincoln campaign, is lying at the point of death from paralysis. He is 78 years old.

His physicians attribute his attack largely to the fatigue and exposure he underwent during the last national campaign.

Aside from his political activities, Mr. Lumbard is well known to the railroad world. For twenty-five years after the close of the war he was general traffic manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, with offices at Omaha, Neb.

He was obliged to retire because of failing health and advancing age twelve years ago.

Mr. Lumbard was born at Honeoye Falls, N. Y., and was one of a family of seven boys. Jules Lumbard served in the recruiting department and was credited by President Lincoln with having raised 20,000 troops for service in the field.

Late in the war, when men no longer were anxious to enlist, Mr. Lumbard one night sang "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," from the steps of the old Chicago courthouse and started so much enthusiasm that several companies were enlisted on the spot.

SEVEN LIVES A MONTH.

Appalling Fatalities From Auto Speeding in New York.

New York, April 10.—Figures furnished by the board of health establish that since Jan. 1, 1908, seven lives a month on an average have been sacrificed to the craze for automobile speed.

The number of fatalities resulting from improper manipulation of motor cars between Jan. 1, 1908, and April 1, 1909, was 101. This includes persons run down and killed on the streets and persons killed while riding in cars in accidents.

There have been seventeen automobile fatalities in the three months ending March 31, 1909.

An appallingly large percentage of those whose lives were sacrificed to the speed mania in the period mentioned have been children. Even the most law-abiding of the automobile owners are aghast at the figures. Some of them are forwarding an agitation to have children kept off the streets entirely.

"If they must play outdoors," say the motor car owners, "make them play on the sidewalks."

Motor car owners and drivers want a law passed which will relieve from responsibility any motor car driver running down a person anywhere but on a crossing.

WILL SPEND $500 TO PLAY HIBBING

The "Red Mill" Company Hires Special Train From Grand Forks.

That the theatrical business today is conducted upon a commercial scale is thoroughly evidenced by Charles Dillingham's verbal contract with W. J. Powers, manager of the Hibbing opera house at Hibbing, Minn., through his representative, George H. Murray, business manager of "The Red Mill" company, who is now at the Spalding.

In conversation with a Herald reporter last night, Mr. Murray was commenting upon the methods now employed in the transaction of theatrical business of today and what it was some ten or fifteen years ago.

"Last year, when I was here with 'The Red Mill,'" remarked Mr. Murray, "I met Mr. Powers of Hibbing, who had seen the performance and was very anxious to have the play presented at his theater in that city. He spoke of his house very thoroughly, also the population of Hibbing and the numerous small towns that could be drawn from on the iron range, and said that he was convinced that the business he could give 'The Red Mill' would be an inducement to play there one night next season. After taking the matter into some consideration, I told Mr. Powers next day that I would surely give him a date, but I could not say at that time what day it would be, but some time during the month of April, upon the conclusion of our Pacific coast tour. I finally elected to give him 'The Red Mill' at Hibbing on Sunday night, April 18, so now comes the rub. In order to carry out the verbal agreement with Mr. Powers, 'The Red Mill' company will have to run a special train from Grand Forks, N. D., through to Duluth, and a special train over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, a distance approximately of 425 miles, at an expense of nearly $1,000, and keep the people on the rail from midnight of April 17 at Grand Forks until noon of Sunday, April 18. The contract means a dead loss to Mr. Dillingham of at least $500, no matter if they play to $1,500 in Hibbing on that night. The train consists of two 60-foot baggage cars, two 16-section standard Pullmans and a diner.

"In the old days," remarked Mr. Murray, "had we found that it would be impossible to use the regular service of the railroad in order to make a jump, and then found that it would mean a special train all the way, we would simply wire our regrets and say that the date is off, and that would be the end of it, but now a man's word must go—as it should."

Manager of "The Red Mill," Who Will Lose $500 to Play in Hibbing.

Object to Strong Medicines.

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prescribed by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism, and more than one out of every ten cases of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. For sale by all druggists.

JUDGE'S HOME IS LOOTED IN SUIT

Negro's Attorneys Cause Seizure of Household Effects.

Atlanta, Ga., April 10.—A special meeting of the Atlanta Bar association has been called to make what reparation it can for the invasion and dismantling of the home of United States Circuit Judge W. B. Sheppard, under a writ of attachment.

A month ago the judge's secretary was driving Judge Sheppard home, when the car hit a negro. The judge claims he was not negligent, but agreed to pay the injured man's bill and give him $50.

Attorneys for the negro refused to accept the sum and said they would sue. Instead of filing an ordinary suit, they waited until late yesterday evening and swore out a writ of attachment. One of the attorneys, accompanied by a constable and a force of negroes, went to the judge's home and found Mrs. Sheppard alone with her children, one of them only 6 months old. They seized everything in sight and loaded it on drays. They took all the furniture, except the beds, clothing of all members of the family, trunks, and even the toys of the children.

MRS. JANE EDWARDS ROOT.

Aged Woman Breaks Fast Walking Record

And the Winner, Mrs. Jane Edwards Root, of 1605 E. 30th St., Cleveland, O., 80 Years Old, Whose Picture Appears in the Illustration, Won the Race by Walking 2½ Miles in 26 Minutes. Mrs. Root Attributes Her Vigor, Health and Staying Powers to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Which She Has Taken for Years.

In a recent interview Mrs. Root said: "I seldom take medicine, but two years ago at my home in Cleveland I felt not very strong, so bought one bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I was benefited by it. I am 80 years old, and won the championship in the great walking contest for aged people in Cleveland. I came out winner of 28 contestants over 75 years of age (14 women and 14 men). I beat the world's record, and now hold the championship for the United States and Europe. I walked 2½ miles in 26 minutes, and was not at all tired; could have walked it right over again One paper gave the account as two miles in 26 minutes; all the other papers were right. When I reached the end, not another walker was anywhere near me, and the enthusiasm was great. I have had an immense mail ever since from professors in colleges and prominent men all over, wishing to know how I lived, what my diet was, what caused this wonderful strength and endurance at 78 years of age. I take good care of my health, have camped out every summer for the past 25 years, live well, and use as my only medicine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have known during the past two years several wonderful cures from Duffy's Malt Whiskey. It is a remarkable medicine for Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble. Two instances have come to my notice of permanent cures. My wonderful health and ability to walk long distances I attribute to using it as a medicine."

SEASON TO OPEN SOON

Brook Trout May be Legally Caught After Next Thursday.

Duluth Anglers Making Preparations for a Busy Season.

There is joy in the hearts of local anglers for on Thursday the trout season opens. From the 15th of April until the last day of August, it is lawful to fish for trout, giving the sportsmen four and one-half months' time to get in their year's sport in this line.

The season this year opens more favorably than for a number of years past. The warm spring weather, which prevailed three weeks ago, worked wonders with the streams.

Close to the city the creeks and rivers have about finished their annual task of carrying off the melted snow, but farther from town the streams are still high. The season is about two weeks ahead of that of last year according to those who seem to know, and while the wise ones say there is not much use in making a trip so early, many of them have planned to have a line in the water on the opening day.

Every year on the opening day, the mouth of Chester creek and Lester river are dotted with men and boys who wish the distinction of pulling out the first fish of the season. These streams were recently planted by the government, and each spring they replant them with more fry. Some large specimens of the speckled beauty type have been taken from the creeks from time to time.

Last season was a good one, according to local sportsmen, and it is expected that the coming one will be even better. The government has been very active of late in planting the streams and the work has begun to tell.

Duluth fishermen are particularly lucky, for there are many places they can go and be gone over Sunday or even for a shorter length of time. The streams are close to the city, and almost any fine morning in season, business men can be seen coming home with a pole over their shoulder and a basket under their arm. Many enjoy little before-breakfast excursions of this kind.

For those who desire longer trips, and there are many, the north shore trips are attractive. One can scarcely make a mistake in getting off the boat. All the streams are said to be good, although many people prefer to go to Grand Marais, where the largest of the north country brook trout are caught. The fishing at Chicago bay is always to be depended upon, and many Duluthians make regular trips to these north shore points during the summer months.

In the other direction, there is Foxboro, Nickerson, Holyoke, and many other points where the fishing is good.

The hardware dealers report that never in the history of their business has the demand for fishing tackle been so great.

AMERICA WILL BE REPRESENTED

James McCoy or Holland Forbes Will Go to Switzerland.

New York, April 10.—James C. McCoy or A. Holland Forbes will be selected, according to present plans, to represent the Aero club of America in this year's international balloon race, which will be held at Zurich, Switzerland, early in October. The club has made an entry, but the name of the contestant need not be formally announced until July 1. Nine countries with a total of twelve balloons will be represented in the race, which will be the fourth competition for the Gordon Bennett trophy, America having won the first year, Germany in 1907 and Switzerland last year.

McCoy is in the Philippine Islands at present, but he is expected to return early in the summer, and in that case he will undoubtedly be chosen to pilot the American balloon. Mr. Forbes is chairman of the contest committee of the club and should he go abroad for the race, it would necessitate the appointment of a new head for the committee, which will have general charge of the New York to Albany fight during the Hudson-Fulton celebration in the first week of October.

GOTCH TO TRAIN HARD FOR YUSSIF

The Turk Is Not Held Cheaply by Present Champion.

Chicago, April 10.—Frank Gotch is not going to take any chances with Youssif Mahmout, the big Bulgarian Turk. Gotch has started in on a program of hard work to get in condition for the match, for Frank knows that it will end him if he does not vanquish the foreigner decisively. Gotch is not in top form just now, having been idle for many months. He will need some hard going to get himself hard and give him wind.

The Turk has cut a wide swath in America since he landed here. He has never had his shoulders put to the mat. He has waded through Beell, Olsen, Americus, Rouen and all the cracks, and now only Gotch stands in his way, and to beat Gotch is to win a world's title.

Despite the Turk's great run of victories there is not a very genuine confidence in his ability for some reason. The public has a suspicion that Mahmout has been boosted beyond his just deserts for the purpose of insuring a success from the Gotch match.

Mahmout saw Gotch in a fifteen minute handicap match in Chicago and said that Gotch did not impress him as having good staying powers.

This is ridiculois in view of the match with Hackenschmidt.

If the Turk hopes to win by outwinding the American farmer he is due to be sadly disappointed.

Yussif is unquestionably a man of superior physical strength, and has much speed along with his strength, but he has not impressed critics with his cleverness as being a clever, scientific, resourceful wrestler, as Gotch is

It will be a big, strong, straight-nerved man against a keen, quick-thinking, resourceful wrestler, almost his equal in strength, and his superior in all the fine points of the game.

Everybody knows that there is no danger of Gotch quitting, or being wearied by a long bout. He can stand any pace the Turk may set.

If Yussif's power is not so much greater than Gotch's [illegible] to amount to a handicap, then Gotch will win, for he will show the Turk tricks he never dreamed of.

In meeting the Turk Gotch is keeping a promise made some time ago. Frank promised that if Yussif first proved himself superior to the best men in the country, then the champion would give him a chance. "In eight months," says Gotch. "Mahmout has beaten nearly every wrestler of prominence in America, and now I am ready to make good my promise. I do not underestimate the Turk, and I will be in the best condition when we meet. I shall train with Farmer Burns and Emil Klank."

WIN RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Washington State College Men Prove to be Crack Shots.

Washington, April 10.—The state college of Washington won the national competition championship for rifle shooting with 22-caliber cartridges, among the colleges and universities on their indoor ranges in the contest last week, that institution making the highest score, 949. Seventeen institutions competed.

Columbia University of New York, winner of the trophy last year, was second with a score of 923, and the University of Wisconsin third with 918. The highest individual score was made by A. A. Leech, Jr., of Columbia university, who made 49 points standing and 49 points prone, a total of 98 out of a possible 100. The match was shot at fifty feet on a National Rifle association target having a one-inch bull's-eye. Ten students composed a team each firing ten shots standing and ten shots prone. The winning team made a score of 51 points less than the possible 1,000 points, or an average of 94.9 per man.

LOU DILLON HAS GONE ABROAD

Accompanies the Consignment of Billings' Horses to Other Side.

New York, April 10.—With the European turf invaded this year by American thoroughbreds, great interest was attached to the shipping abroad of Lou Dillon, the "trotting queen," and other harness turf celebrities from the stables of C. K. G. Billings, millionaire horseman of Chicago.

Lou Dillon was shipped on board the Hamburg-American line steamship Patricia. This sturdy little mare, who holds the world's record of 1:58½, is to be exhibited this summer in Berlin, St Petersburg, Budapest, Vienna and other cities.

Mr. Billings intends to tour the whole of Europe this year and he will take his horses to the various cities with him. Mr. Billings did not go with the horses, but will leave within a few days on his yacht Vanadis.

The horses to go along with Lou Dillon are W. J. Lewis (2:06¼), Tempus Fugit (2:07¼), Fleming Boy (2:07½), Turley (2:07¾), Bertha Mae (2:08), and Delight (2:08¼). All were in charge of Charles Tanner, the trainer from Cleveland, Ohio, who has been looking after the valuable horses of Mr. Billings for a number of years.

Special stalls were fitted up between decks for the horses and they will receive the greatest of care during the trip across. The stalls have been padded and boxed so that no injury can come to the valuable steeds, even in a big ocean storm. The news that Mr. Billings has shipped abroad will come as a surprise to the followers of the trotting and pacing turf. This means that his horses will not be seen on the grand circuit or elsewhere in this country this year. It is the intention of Mr. Billings to merely exhibit his horses on the other side. He never races for other than ribbons here, and he will pursue the same course on the other side of the ocean.

His horses go direct to Berlin. Some weeks will be spent in getting them tuned up for action on the track.

Evans Has New Job.

GIVE POOR PACKY AN OPPORTUNITY

The Chicago Lightweight Thinks Nelson Should Fight Him, and Soon.

New York, April 10.—Packy McFarland, the lightweight who made Leach Cross look cheap in their recent bout at the Fairmount Athletic club, is as much entitled to a match with Battling Nelson for the lightweight title as anybody. McFarland is one of the most scientific little men that ever got into a ring. He is a boxer of the Jim Driscoll school, but is not a particularly hard hitter. Still there seems to be no doubt that in a limited-round bout, say of twenty-five rounds, he would be able to stay with Nelson, if only because of his extremely clever defensive tactics.

He is as fast on his feet as a squirrel. He is quick-witted, knows how to duck and dodge, can feint beautifully and is also able to shoot his punches to the mark. Head work is always a potent factor in the success of a first-class pugilist, and McFarland rates with the best of them in this respect. If he had Leach Cross' punching power, it is believed that McFarland would be as invincible a lightweight as any since the days of McAuliffe and Lavigne. At that he can punch with enough strength to put a weakened opponent down, but it would require a long bout for him to accomplish such a result.

McFarland's performance suggested a bout with Owen Moran, if the latter can agree to fight at 135 pounds at 6 o'clock. Driscoll took Cross on 135 pounds at 5 o'clock, while McFarland and Cross made this weight two hours later. Moran is not far behind Driscoll in fighting skill, and that is why he seems to be a logical opponent for the Chicago man, who prefers, however, a bout with Nelson.

Nelson, by the way, is gradually convincing the sporting public that he doesn't care to risk his title with a first-class challenger. He has been dodging McFarland for a long time; and avoided both Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, and Cyclone Johnny Thompson. Because of this strange attitude Nelson has been accused of fearing defeat, especially when he still insists that, no matter whom he selects as his next opponent, he must receive a $15,000 guarantee, win or lose.

DINNER TO END SEASON

Gymnasium Classes to Celebrate Close of First Winter's Work.

Many Prominent Business Men Will Assist in the Program.

The end of the winter season of indoor sports at the Y. M. C. A. will be marked by a dinner to be given next Tuesday evening, April 13 in the gymnasium of the association building. The affair will begin at 6:30 o'clock, and after the eatables have been disposed of, there will be a very interesting program, which will include athletic stunts, music and speeches.

The program will be especially noteworthy because of the prominence of some of the men taking part in it. W. J. Olcott will give an exhibition of Indian club swinging. He is said to be one of the best amateurs in this line at the Head of the Lakes. W. E. Richardson will act as toastmaster. Messrs. Richardson, E. C. Little and Pentecost Mitchell are on the program committee.

A. A. Boelter is down for a vocal solo, and L. K. Pray will render a selection on the piano. Dr. Day will entertain the diners with one of his justly-famed monologues. There will be several responses to toasts. The dinner will be attended largely by men who have been and are members of the physical exercise classes at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. These include many of the leading business and professional men of the city.

The season during the winter just closed has been a very successful one so far as the association gymnasium work is concerned, and from the viewpoint of sports. The classes have been large, and the atendance has been good all during the season. Class members, young and old alike, have manifested an active interest in the work, and in improving themselves physically, and the physical director has been kept busy seeing that all comers were given the necessary attention.

A keen interest also has been shown in the indoor sports made possible by the roomy gymnasium. Basket ball, indoor baseball, hand ball, boxing and bowling all have come in for their share of attention, and numerous experts at the different games have been developed. The association members can well view with satisfaction results of the winter's work.

Kelly to Fight Papke.

Chicago, April 10.—Hugo Kelly and Billy Papke were matched here yesterday to fight again at Colma, May 15. Articles were signed soon after Jimmy Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter, reached here. Coffroth and Silvie Ferretl, Kelly's manager, agreed to twenty-five rounds at 158 pounds. Coffroth announced that, in the event that Kelly won, he would try to arrange for a bout between Kelly and Ketchel. In the meantime, he said, he would try to match Ketchel and Jack Johnson. Coffroth left in the evening for New York.

Englishman Knocked Out.

Paris, April 10.—In a boxing contest here yesterday, Sam McVey, American heavyweight, knocked out Bill Warren, an Englishman, in the second round.

LONG TRAINING TRIPS A HANDICAP TO TEAMS

(BY TIM MURNANE.)

Nashville, Tenn., April 10.—I am firmly convinced that too much time is spent each spring by the major league ball teams in the Sunny Southland.

Three weeks in the South and one week west of the Ohio river, or one short month of preparatory work, is sufficient to put any team in the country on edge for a six months' battle for the highest honors in baseball.

Any longer time is a handicap to a ball team, even with favorable weather conditions, and time is not far off when all the leading ball clubs will fully realize this fact.

The time has passed when the baseball fans of the South will enthuse over the presence of a major league team from the North. Wrapped up in the playing of their local teams, they do not relish the idea of witnessing games where the men from the North show so much superiority on the field, even when far from their best. Even the world's champions from Chicago found a cold reception awaiting them at Memphis and Nashville, while the Boston Red Sox would have attracted three times the number of persons in the small towns of New England.

No club hopes to make expenses on a Southern training trip, yet the chance of witnessing the great players in action should prove a magnet to draw out the real baseball fans even at the Klondike—players selected from 10,000 with many of the finest workmen the game ever produced. Yet I have seen these great stars go onto the field unnoticed in this country.

The baseball scribes of the South seem to be well posted on the game, and follow the Northern dope very closely.

DULUTH "PUG" WILL MEET FIGHTER OF REAL REPUTATION

WALTER WHITEHEAD,
Duluth Pugilist, Who Will Meet Mike Schreck This Month.

KAUFMAN MAY GET FIRST FIGHT WITH JOHNSON

New York, April 10.—Don't be surprised if the first fight that Johnson attempts is with Kaufman. He will probably fuss around for awhile waiting for Jeffries to challenge him. Then he will fuss around awhile longer because Jeffries doesn't challenge him.

After that he will have to meet somebody in the ring, and that somebody looks very much like "Billy" Delaney's latest protege, Kaufman.

Johnson told Willus Britt that he couldn't see Ketchel, because Ketchel is a middle weight and not in his class. Possibly so. Maybe he doesn't want to see him. Ketchel isn't over anxious to take a chance with Kaufman, for he believes that he might jump into the championship if he could get a go with Johnson. True, he might not beat Johnson, but that wouldn't be laid up against him very long.

Langford doesn't seem likely to get a fight with anybody. It may come his turn after awhile.

The logic of the situation is shaping [illegible] toward a match between Joh[illegible] and Kaufman, and there's one g[illegible]od [illegible]ing about the Kaufman end of it—[illegible] isn't dodging the match.

Just at present he seems to be the only man who is willing to make some kind of a match for the sake of trying to show that he is good enough to be classed with the top notchers. It's a safe wager that Johnson finally is forced to the point where he will have to discuss business seriously and it isn't a bad guess that he will talk with Kaufman when the time comes.

MARATHON BUG IS HERE

Duluth Athletes Are Enthusiastic Over Long Distance Running.

Many Local Organizations Are Taking Up the Sport.

The Marathon "bug" has hit Duluth. No only among school boys, but among those who work in downtown offices the sport has already become popular. At boarding houses all over the city the sole topic of conversation seems to be Marathon running. After dinner the enthusiasts get out and try it, but rarely farther than one block at a time.

The would-be athletes get winded quickly and, after the championship of the block has been decided, they retire to the house and talk it all over. A distance of twenty-six miles seems almost impossible to them, and most of them agree that one block constitutes about the right distance.

The boys' department Y. M. C. A. is thinking of taking up the sport, although the distance would have to be lessened greatly. There have been two or three informal short races pulled off, and the sport seems to be popular with the boys.

Now that the weather is fine, the boys get a chance to work out of doors. Several of them are training for the long distance runs with the idea of getting themselves in shape in case there should be a Marathon framed up for the grade school athletic meet this year.

Th militia men got the "bug" some time ago and have been pulling off informal events ever since.

Duluth is handicapped in that it has no place in which to hold a Marathon. The spring time is here, however, and if the present talk of a Marathon for Duluth materializes it will probably be held in the open.

Years ago a big bicycle race was considered the proper thing on Memorial day. Now all over the country they are planning Marathon races for this same day.

CREWS WILL ROW ON SCHUYLKILL

Yale and "Pennsy" Meet for First Time in Twenty Years.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Aquatic relations between Yale university and the University of Pennsylvania, after a lapse of twenty years, will be resumed this afternoon when crews representing them will meet in contests over the national course in the Schuylkill river. Yale 'varsity will meet Pennsylvania 'varsity and the second crews of both institutions will also row for supremacy. Ideal weather is promised for the race, which will begin at 4 o'clock. While the day is cool, there is on the river probably but very little wind and the river will be smooth when the crews take the water. The original arrangement was for the races to be rowed over a two-mile course, but yesterday it was decided to reduce the distance to one and one-half miles. The change was made to avoid a sharp turn in the river, which might handicap the crew holding the outside position.

Both crews are in perfect condition and confident of victory.

The races have excited much interest and a large crowd is expected.

Yale first crew:

Rice, bow; Glenn, No. 2; Brainerd, No. 3; Wallis No. 4; Wodell, No. 5; Hyde, No. 6; Mills, No. 7; Homer, captain, stroke; Cass, coxswain.

Pennsylvania first crew:

Hoagland, bow; Rogers, No. 2; Shelling, No. 3; Breitenger, No. 4; Walton, No. 5; Shoemaker, captain, No. 6; Braddock, No. 7; Ballard, stroke; Westcott, coxswain.

Yale second crew:

Brooks, stroke; Holloway, No. 7; Patterson, No. 6; Baker, No. 5; Colburn, No. 4; Van Blarcom, No. 3; Frost, No. 2; Thorne, bow; Fearing, coxswain.

Pennsylvania second crew:

Brown, bow; Heisler, No. 2; Ferguson, No. 3; Marx, No. 4; Reeves, No. 5; Thompson, No. 6; Bennett, No. 7; Stiles, stroke; Rosengarten, coxswain.

SOX WILL BE GOOD IN THE OUTFIELD

Comiskey Has a Wealth of Material for Garden Trio.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—Comiskey and whoever his manager proves to be are going to have a tough time selecting an outfield for this year's team. They are going to have a strong trio of gardeners, but the trouble is to select the best three. There is a bunch of splendid outfield talent in the squad, and it is an open question now as to who are the best men. Of course, it will be a survival of the fittest.

The White Sox outfield candidates include Dougherty, Hahn, Cravath, Altizer, Mattleks, John Anderson, Welday, Beall, Bader, Dalton, Flannagan, and maybe Fielder Jones. There are more than enough outposts for three teams, even if Jones doesn't return. And among the bunch are men who possess strong qualities, which will have to be weighed carefully before being rejected.

If Jones returns his old position in center field will be waiting for him. There is no chance to beat Dougherty out of a regular position, for he is the team's best hitter and the best base runner in the league last season. That makes it look like a wild scramble among ten others for Hahn's job in right.

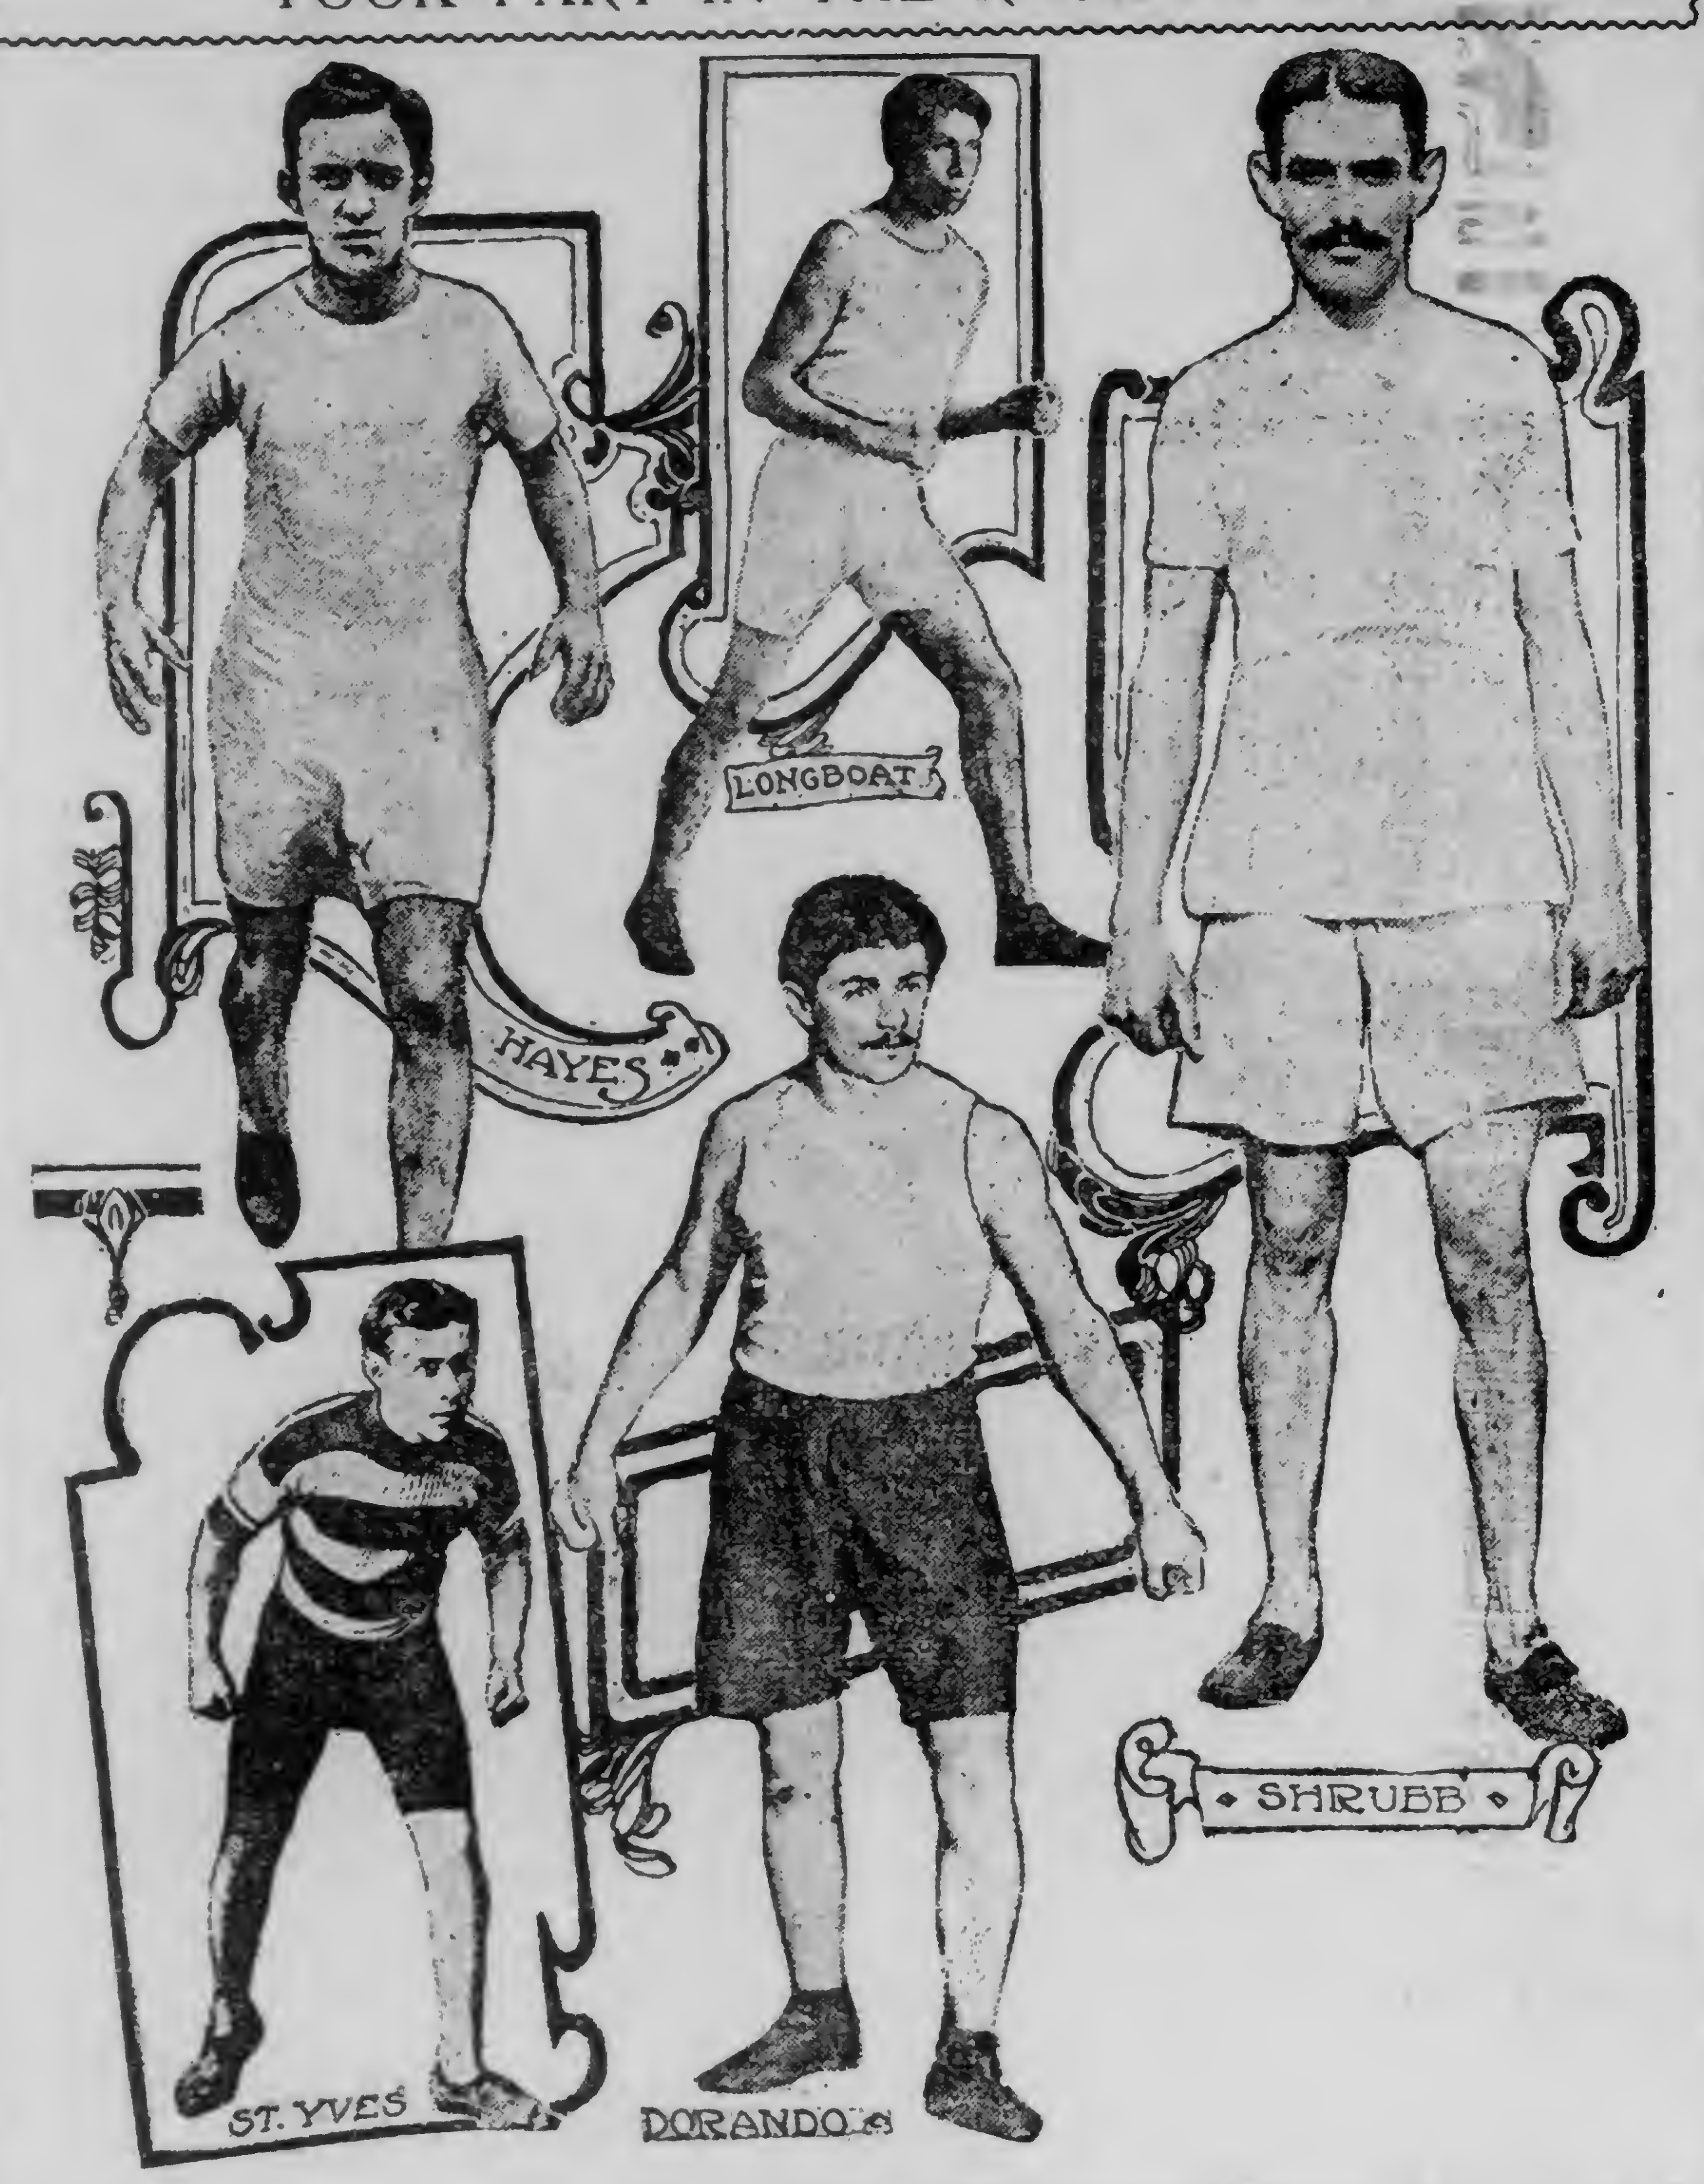
Hahn probably isn't worrying a great deal, for his work has always been high-class, and even if somebody else were to prove himself a stronger hitter than Eddie, he could be used of a place as utility outfielder.

Among the others Cravath has the call on account of his ability to hit. Above all things else that the White Sox need, good hitters have the preference. And that Cravath person certainly can wallop. There is no chance to keep a slugger like him on the bench and when the opening game starts in Detroit, April 14, it is a 1-to-10 shot that Cravath will be in the lineup somewhere if he is well at the time.

Cravath is not at all like the common or garden type of biffers. He doesn't swing blindly at every ball pitched in the hope of lifting it over the fence. On the contrary he knows the value of a base on balls as well as anybody else, and is one of the most particular batsmen up at the plate. In the games played so far by the Sox, Cravath has drawn two more bases on balls than any other player, Parent being second, but having played in more games than Cravath.

As the time rolls by, it begins to look more and more as though Jones didn't intend to join the team. In case he adheres to his determination to pass up a salary of $10,000—or more, if Comiskey offers him a raise over last year's figures—then the outfield makeup would probably be Cravath, Dougherty and Hahn.

FIVE GREAT MARATHON RUNNERS WHO TOOK PART IN THE RACE AT NEW YORK



BALL PLAYERS ARE EXAMINED

Show Tongues Three Times—Given Clean Bill of Health.

Richmond, Va., April 10.—The New York American Baseball club club, after passing through various experiences with the health authorities at Lynchburg and other places since their departure from Augusta, Ga., where Hal Chase, their star first baseman, is now occupying an entire hospital in the "enjoyment" of a case of smallpox, arrived here yesterday, was given a clean bill of health, and defeated the Richmond team yesterday afternoon by a smore of 5 to 1.

After the players had thoroughly satisfied the Lynchburg authorities, Health Officer Dr. Levy of Richmond met them on their arrival here and proceeded to make an examination of his own. This was followed by an examination by Dr. A. W. Freeman, assistant state health commissioner, and afterwards by Past Assistant Surgeon Sternberg of Washington. The result was that the New York Americans were given a clean bill of health and are entitled to enter any city on the schedule.

Every member of the team has been vaccinated, and some now have sore and itching arms, which probably will interfere somewhat with their playing. They are in a jovial frame of mind, however, and do not anticipate any further annoyance.

BASEBALL MEETING.

Little Falls Athletic Club May Own Its Own Grounds.

Little Falls, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the Little Falls Athletic association, held at the city hall Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected: Charles Sylvester, president; Dr. S. R. Fortier, secretary; T. C. Gordon, treasurer.

The members of the board of directors are the four officers and three business men from each ward. Those elected were: First ward, W. H. Hall, Frank Renick and George Moeglein, Sr.; second ward, George Klewel, Al Dugas and Dr. G. M. A. Fortier; third ward, A. A. Feuger, J. Jetka and T. H. Dewey.

The site committee reported on the site which they looked over in the south end of the city near the hospital. They reported that the land was adapted for use as a ball park, but that the owners could not be located at once. Some favored commencing work on the park on these grounds but it is understood that the land has been offered for $360 for the tract of about five acres.

ABE ATTELL IS PEEVED

Ghetto Pugilist Shows Hatred for His Clever English Rival.

Moran Will Take on Nelson; After That, Attell.

New York, April 10.—Members of the Fairmount A. C., who saw the Moran-Murphy bout, were unexpectedly let into a secret. When Abe Attell jumped into the ring to challenge the winner, he bowed in response to generous applause, and then, according to ring etiquette, he walked over to Murphy's corner and extended his hand in friendship. Murphy shook it warmly and Attell said something pleasant to the Harlem boxer. But just when the members expected to see Attell cross over to Moran's corner for another cordial handshake the American featherweight champion turned the other way, muttering to himself, and got out of the ring without a look in Moran's direction. Moran saw it all and laughed, but the club members apparently did not approve of the slight. Attell has been very bitter in his feelings toward Moran ever since the clever Briton fought two draws with him in California. Prior to those encounters Attell was hailed as the best featherweight in the world, but after dictating terms to Moran in each instance Attell found that he had met his match.

When Attell faced Jem Driscoll recently and was bested in ten rounds he saw Moran warmly encouraging the Welshman, and afterward tendering his congratulations. Attell, therefore, decided to keep away from Moran until he could get the Briton into the ring with him again. As Attell declared publicly that he wanted to fight the winner of the Moran-Murphy go, sporting men were naturally looking forward to a fight between Attell and Moran. Attell, it is understood, wants to box Moran at the American featherweight limit, 122 pounds ringside, a weight that Moran can make, but it is said that there is no chance for a match until Moran has either succeeded or failed in his desire to take a crack at Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, in a ten-round bout at 133 pounds, ringside.

Because of Moran's splendid showing against Murphy, there seemed to be a general desire to see him mix it up with Nelson. Moran never put up a better fight in his life than with the Harlem boxer. The fact that Murphy had about five pounds the better of the weights cut no figure with Moran, who weighed a trifle more than 128. Although Murphy is fully as clever in ring science as Nelson, he could not ward off Moran's fast and never ceasing attack, with the result that he received the worst beating of his career. If Attell would agree to meet Moran at 126 pounds ringside, or 125 pounds at 6 o'clock, it is thought that the Englishman would be stronger than the American and would possibly win decisively, just as Driscoll did. But Attell, according to his friends, will take no such chances.

Attell is anxious to meet Nelson, too, and thinks that he can outpoint the Battler, for the excellent reason that just one year ago, he held the lightweight champion to a draw.

Nelson has been telling the sporting public that he is ready to meet all comers, bar color barred, at the lightweight limit, and Moran says that he will give the Battler a chance to show that he is on the square. It is the opinion in some quarters that Moran will make a serious error if he agrees to fight anybody at less than 126 pounds. He is growing, and in his present form it is believed that he can make things hum with Nelson or Attell unless he is compelled to weaken himself in order to secure a match.

Players to Get Reward.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 10.—Manager Chance of the Chicago National league team, announctd last night that the National league pennant would be raised in Chicago on June 3, and at the same time the $10,000, which President Murphy had awarded to the club for winning the world's championship, would be divided among the players who were eligible for the world's series last year. On June 16, the world's championship pennant will be raised, Chance said.

Mahmout will wrestle Fred Beell in an exhibition match before the Chicago Athletic club tonight. Gotch will act as referee.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The big event of the coming week in high school circles will be the debate between the Duluth school team and the one representing the Pine City high school. This debate will take place at the school assembly hall next Friday evening. The question is: "Resolved: That the United States should annex Cuba." Duluth will take the affirmative and those who will represent the school are Robert Donaldson, Harlow Watkins and Charles Evans. These men were selected after a long series of try-outs and preliminary debates, so they are recognized as the best men in the school and most capable to represent it against such a strong team as the Pine City one.

The Duluth team has gone through a long series of difficulties that would discourage any team, but they have begun over again each time, and overcoming the difficulty faced the work with renewed determination, and now they declare they are better prepared than ever to meet the enemy. Bearing in mind the sting of last year's defeat at the hands of Pine City, they will work harder than ever, and the student body will be there to cheer them, and to help them along in every possible way. In fact the team depends to a certain extent upon the large attendance of the students and the people of Duluth for encouragement. The Public Speaking club is under considerable expense in bringing judges and debaters here which it can not bear alone, so a small admission fee will be charged. The Musical society will assist and will give several musical numbers during the evening. This appearance of the Musical society takes the place of the mid-year concert usually given every year.

The Public Speaking club held its semi-annual election of officers last Monday afternoon. The candidates elected for the different offices seemed to be very popular among the members of the club for they were all elected without much opposition and took their chairs amid great applause. Those elected were: Charles Evans, president; Harry Zlatkiviski, vice president; Erling Mostue, secretary; Rodger Lerch, treasurer; Harlow Watkins and Abraham Soloman, sergeants-at-arms.

This club has experienced a remarkable growth this year and has broadened out a great deal in its activities. Under the direction of Mr. Baker the members have successfully accomplished a large amount of work and are striving to do greater things. Next week they will bring the Pine City team here. They have had one debate in the evening at the school which was a marked success. They are now working on the interclass debates for the championship of the school. At the end of the year medals and other awards of merit will be given to those who by their work this year, are deserving of them.

The sophomore-freshmen division of the Philomathian society gave a little play at the meeting on Monday afternoon. The play was one taken from the popular book, "Little Women." It made quite a hit with the members of the club, and they were very well pleased with it. The acting was very good and the humorous scenes well produced. The male characters were especially good. The cast was as follows:

Beth	Mary Robinson
Joe	Nellie Feetham
Amy	Florence Webb
Laurie	Chelsie Final
Mr. March	Winnifred Andrews
Mrs. March	Mary Whipple

The senior-junior division of this club is at the present time working on a play to be given some time soon. It is a Japanese college play.

The question of the class night exercises was settled by the senior class at a special meeting held last Monday. Mr. Custance appeared at the meeting for a short time and told the seniors that a movement was on foot to present a permanent memorial of the late Principal C. A. Smith to the school, and asked the seniors if they wished to start it and carry it along by charging admission to the class night exercises. The class immediately voted to take the lead in this move, but when it came to the matter of raising funds, a warm debate ensued. Some of the members thought it would be more honorable to take up a subscription among the business men and the scholars, than to charge admission to class night. But a majority of the class voted down the subscription list idea and voted for admission charge to class night. The senior class members claim they have been greatly misunderstood and misrepresented in this matter. Each senior will have two free tickets to give away, so there will be no imposition on the parents, and if a subscription list were circulated it would be an imposition upon the business men and outsiders. The seniors desire to raise the money by their own efforts, as they will be doing, for they will present a fine play on class night and the public will be given value for money received, and at the same time will be given the opportunity of expressing their apreciation of Mr. Smith and his work here.

This year has been more barren of social events than any year in the history of the school. The only affair given this year was the senior hop just before Christmas. The juniors did not give their mid-year hop, and the other classes do not expect to give any, for the restrictions imposed upon them are too great. However, the seniors are determined that their last year will not end thus, so they are beginning to make plans for a very succesful senior farewell, at which all the seniors will be able to attend if they wish, and at which the other classmen may join in the dance. Also the juniors are determined to give something in the way of a social time, and at a meeting last week they decided to give the annual junior-senior, and appointed a committee to begin making arrangements for it. The J. Q. H. M. R. club has signified its intention of giving a hop some time before school closes. With these three events to look forward to, things won't be so dull after all.

NEW SECRETARY OF WAR HAILS DAWN OF APPROACHING ERA OF WORLD-PEACE, IN BANQUET TALK

Chicago, April 10.—The celebration of Appomattox day by the Hamilton club in the Auditorium Annex last night was made notable by the presence of distinguished speakers, whose addresses were of particular interest. Gen. Fred D. Grant spoke briefly on Appomattox, and Secretary of War Dickinson chose as his subject "The Progress of Peace." Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, spoke on "The Integrity of the Nation," and "The Integrity of the States."

Senator Borah made a strong appeal in favor of jealous watchfulness to preserve local self-government in its greatest vigor as the surest guarantee for a perpetuity of free institutions, and at the same time emphasize the importance of federal power as provided by the Constitution.

Secretary of War Dickinson called attention to the fact that mankind is always hoping for the fulfillment of the prophecy that strong nations "shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks, nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." He said the time is not far distant, "but there has been such development and strengthening of the forces that make for peace that its advocates are boldly aggressive, knowing that they have the potentiality that comes from the quickened, universal conscience of an enlightened age."

Taking up declarations that have been made that certain questions cannot be settled by arbitration, he said:

"Although it has often been said that questions of national honor cannot be settled by arbitration, experience has shown that the term 'national honor' is variable and in some degree shadowy and that many questions which, under a former code, would have been catalogued under 'national honor' which have been submitted and settled in this way, even though at the outset, as was said by Lord Russell in regard to the Alabama claims, such a submission was thought to be incompatible with national dignity.

"There can be no disarmament until the greater powers agree upon a system of concurrent action," said Dickinson, in concluding. "The tide of public sentiment all over the world is setting strongly in this direction."

THE TAFTONIAN CHAIR THAT WAS LOST AND IS FOUND

The wrinkles have been chased from the expansive brow of "Perky" Johnson, clerk of the district court. The lowering clouds that have enshrouded his usually beaming countenance for over a week, have been swept away; the twinkle has returned to his eyes, and the smile of genial big-heartedness to his lips. A mystery has been cleared up, and with it the causes of the clerk's plunge into the depths of deep, dark, dank, dismal desperation have disappeared. He is himself once more, and the employes, visitors and the habitues of the office rejoice, for "Perky," not himself, is not "Perky" at all, but a very formidable J. P. Johnson. But to the tale. List:

Mr. Johnson, be it known, may be short on height, but he's long on avoirdupois. When he settles into a chair that chair indeed must be well propped or there will be a spill and work for the furniture repairers. The ordinary chair is not for him—at least with safety—and for that reason by his desk there stands a chair of William Howard Taftonian dimensions and proportions, into which he may settle with content, safe in the assurance that nothing is going to give way to deposit him ignominiously on the floor, and upset the dignity, which he must maintain in his position.

About a week ago Mr. Johnson, exuding good nature and good fellowship after a good night's sleep, a hearty breakfast and a brisk walk in the spring air, came into the office ready for a day's hard labor.

Suddenly, the smile left his face, the spring in his carriage and dark clouds spread over his brow. His hand went to his head and he gasped. The deputy clerks stopped work and stared in consternation at the change that came over their chief and, following the direction of his stricken glances, they saw the cause of his distress. There was an aching void beside his desk. His beloved chair had disappeared.

His grief was too keen for words of consolation. With sorrowful mien he picked up a flimsy chair and, though he must sit, he did not fling himself into it. He sat down gingerly. For days it was his fate to sit in the unsubstantial piece of furniture and start at the warning creaks.

Each day he sat and pondered, fighting his own battle without assistance. Each day his distress became more keen and the fear of his deputies increased. But one day there was a brightening of the careworn countenance. Ha! An inspiration.

Over at the county jail deputies love luxuries. Chairs are provided for the jail office, but not always the kind that jailors would have. Some years ago a chair disappeared from the office of the county treasurer. For two years it was unheard of, and then it turned up, battered, but still in the ring, for it had done valiant service in the jail office for all that time. Mr. Johnson remembered the story.

Joe Allen, jailor, appeared in the clerk's office.

"Guess you'd better bring my chair back, Joe," blandly remarked the now smiling clerk.

"What chair?" asked Joe without batting an eye.

The apparent surprise was disregarded by the embryo Sherlock Holmes. He dispatched one of his deputies to the jail, while Allen stood in open-mouthed wonder, and there, reposing in the office of the jail in all its massive ponderosity, was the chair of the honorable clerk of the district court. The chair is back in its accustomed place and all is once more serene with its owner.

"Stung" is the legend over the desk in the jail office. For six days the chair of the clerk of court had been secreted in the basement of the bastile, covered with mattresses and other concealing matter. On the seventh day it was carried upstairs to do its customary duty, and on that seventh day "Perky" Johnson had his inspiration.

There are no hard feelings. Whoever took the chair just borrowed it, anyway.

MAKES FINE RECORD IN EASTERN SCHOOL

Roy Harker, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harker of 631 Tenth avenue east, who has been attending the New York Trade school since November of last year, has been named the first honor pupil in his class, which numbers 300. Mr. Harker is in the plumbing department and was also chosen one of the class for exhibition work. His friends here are much interested in the fine record which he has made.

EASTER TRADE CLASSED FAIR

Bradstreets Says It Is Almost Good Out West.

New York, April 10.—Bradstreets today says:

Trade crop and industrial reports are still very irregular, but the underlying tone of business generally is slightly more optimistic. All present or future favorable occurrences, however, cannot disguise the fact that some lines of industry are still very much depressed; that the first crop report of the year—that made by the government of winter wheat—is a poor one, indicating a short crop; that buying is still hampered in some sections by unfavorable weather or by the reduced purchasing power of the public, and that caution and conservatism still govern commercial operations to a large degree.

Easter trade at retail is classed as fair to good in most parts of the West, fair at the East, but below expectations at the South. Some slight expansion is noted in filling in orders by jobbers, but trade in this line is distinctively of a between-seasons character. In wholesale lines there are indications of more confidence in buying for all. Bye classes of products, women's wear goods, seem most active, but the automobile trade, paradoxically enough, returns one of the best reports of any single industry. In purely industrial lines the building trades return very good reports and enormous volume of work is planned for the coming spring and summer. The iron and steel, coal and coke trades are all rather depressed, and most activity is in structural shapes of steel, presumably at the expense of prices.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending with April 8 were 227, against 204 last week, 234 in the like week of 1908, 194 in 1907, 161 in 1906, and 196 in 1905. Canadian failures number 38, which compares with 23 last week and 28 in the like week of 1908.

AT THE LYCEUM

CHARLES RANN KENNEDY'S GREAT SYMBOLIC DRAMA, "THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE," WILL BE PRESENTED HERE FOR ONE WEEK BY AN ALL-STAR CAST.

In every audience assembled to witness "The Servant in the House," there are keenly intellectual men and women who grasp all the author's subtle meaning in the lines written with a double significance. A greater number of auditors ignore the symbolism and find quite sufficient material to interest them in the surface story. During a second or third hearing of the play, however, the internal story unfolds itself, and one is able to trace the many beautiful symbols that give Charles Rann Kennedy's drama a double charm.

"The Servant in the House" is not really an allegory in the full sense of the word, nor is it constructed like a morality play, which it is sometimes rather loosely called. It is indeed a play of today, full of real human interest. An allegory is the definite expression of intellectual conceptions, through lay figures posing as persons, as for example, in Spencer's "Fairy Queen." In an allegory the tendency is to propound the truth at the expense of the characterization. Symbolism is a more subtle affair. In a word, allegory definitely states, while symbolism suggests. The big symbolic meaning of the play which the author wishes to convey is "Christ as the touchstone of life, and the solution of all human difficulties, religious, social and personal, not merely by the inspiration of sentimental fancies about Him, but by the impelling to deeds that carry out His will." The symbol of Manson's personality and the cesspool under the church, and the large cosmic symbol of the present discontent among the civilized nations exemplified by class distinction, and the hate of brother for brother, are readily recognized. But the numerous recurrences of these symbols throughout the five acts can be traced only by careful study of the lines and the stage directions. In the last line of the play, "In God's Name—Your Brother," the author spells name with a capital "N," to further accentuate the fact already symbolically established, that Manson is indeed Christ upon the stage.

The symbolism of the personality of Manson is brought out more emphatically than any other in the play. The jam episode at the beginning of the first act is a clever theatrical trick, utilized for the conveyance of a psychological subtlety. It catches the attention of the audience and creates an atmosphere of mysticism that paves the way for the author's double meaning. In the scene when Mary first suspect's Manson's identity, Mr. Kennedy introduces one of the most beautiful symbols of the play. "Who are you?" she asks with the dawn of knowledge shining from her face. "I am——," he begins, when the sound of a bell from the church checks his speech. Then, with deepened humility, he answered her question, "I am the servant in the house."

An equally significant symbol lies in the fact that Mary is the only one who recognizes the bishop of Benares in Manson, the butler. Her's is the clear vision of innocent childhood and immediately recalls the verse in the new testament "Except ye become as little children, yet cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven." It must also be remembered that Benares is the "Holy City" of India. The symbol of the servant becoming master is quite obvious, as is his answer to the bishop of Lancashire's outburst. "If I could have my way with you, I would have you publicly whipped. I would visit you with the utmost rigor of the law. I would nail you up, sir, for an example."

"I have encountered similar hostility before, my lord," Manson significantly replies, "from gentlemen very like your lordship." Who can mistake the veiled reference to Calvary? The bishop of Lancashire, of course, is Mammon. The symbolism of his personality is shown by his use of every power for his own end, and the episode of the five-pound note that recalls the buying and selling of Christ. Also, he is blind and deaf—has "eyes to see, but sees not, ears to hear, but hears not."

The symbolism of the drain that led to the cesspool under the church is frequently misunderstood. It is not an attack upon the foundations of religion or established churches. It means that religion is fettered by the moldering coffins and decayed bones of the past, that we are not worshipping a dead Christ who once was, but a living Christ, eternally present. Old ideas, old prejudices, dead statements, a greater veneration for the forms of religion than for the practical application of Christ's teachings, must be removed by the "drain man." It drives home the fact that many who loudly profess their faith in Christ are the worst of atheists, and only realize that truth when they are brought face to face with a spiritual crisis.

Not the least evidence of skill in the construction of the play is Mr. Kennedy's careful development of the internal and external stories. The symbolism is constantly being harped upon and suggested, yet it is made a part of the text of the surface story. The author has incorporated into his drama a greater amount of symbolism than is to be found in half a dozen of the old moralities, yet his play grips even the souls of men and women to whom the words allegory and symbolism are strange and incomprehensible words. In every audience there are some playgoers who are deeply and genuinely affected by the pathos and tragedy of the surface story, moved to laughter by its comedy, impressed by its beautiful tableaux and stirred by its eloquent declamatory passages, who do not even realize that Manson is a reincarnation of the Christ.

"The Servant in the House" will be at the Lyceum all next week, commencing Monday, April 12, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"THE MELTING POT."

Walker Whiteside, in Zangwill's Great Drama, Coming to Duluth.

Israel Zangwill's new play "The Melting Pot," in which Walker Whiteside will be seen for the first time at the Lyceum, is perhaps the most ambitious effort yet put forth by that author. As a writer of fiction his name is a pre-eminent one, and of late years his dramatic work has come to have a distinct meaning for the theater-goer. In the present instance it is agreed that while Mr. Zangwill has traveled far afield for the locale of play, he nevertheless writes with a surety of purpose and a dramatic force, that is little else than convincing.

"The Melting Pot," is symbolic of America itself, and while each scene is laid in and about New York, the drama is national in its scope and meaning. The story, a simple one, runs briefly thus:

David Quixano, a young Russian Hebrew, student and musician, has come to the United States as a harbor of refuge from the persecutions his race and family have suffered in Russia. His parents have been murdered at Kisheneff, and he carries the scene of that moment with him always. He has come to his uncle's home on Staten Island and there he is making a living as a violinist, both by teaching and by playing. For weeks he has been working upon a wonderful epic opera that is to symbolize all that is best in America itself, and his love and admiration for the land of his adoption is beyond anything of which he has ever dreamed. In previous days, and during the period of his first arrival in New York, he has met at a settlement house on the lower East side of the city, a young woman who is teaching and working there. Her name he discovers is Vera Ravendal. In the first act Miss Ravendal comes to David's uncle's house to request him to play for the settlement upon a certain occasion. There for the first time she discovers he is a Hebrew. At the same time she reveals the fact that she is herself a Russian, who managed to escape because her revolutionary learnings and propaganda had brought her under the notice of the police.

On her next visit she brings with her a young man of social position, Quincy Davenport, Jr., the son of a multi-millionaire, who has evinced an interest in her. He promises to bring, and does bring, the leader of his own private orchestra to overlook David's opera score. This Herr Pappelmeister is struck with the bigness of the theme, and Davenport arranges that the opera shall be played on a certain occasion.

Davenport then discovers that Miss Ravendal has fallen in love with young David, and immediately throws up the entire proposition. Seeing the situation clearly, he sends his yacht to bring the Baron and Baroness Ravendal, Vera's father and stepmother, to New York in an effort to put a stop to the affair. David has left his uncle's house and is making his living in the slums of New York, where Miss Ravendal is a worker. David has still fearsome memories of the day at Kisheneff, and describes in detail "the face of the butcher" who directed the massacre. On the arrival of Vera's father and stepmother, the former is horrified to discover that his daughter's promised husband is a Hebrew, as this is contrary to all the Russian canons of caste. However, he realizes the situation and is about to make the best of it when David enters and recognizes the baron as "the butcher." In a scene of impassioned force he describes the whole scene as he recalls it, and denounces the baron—before he knows he is Vera's father—for what he is. The situation is then brought home to him, and both he and Vera recognize at once that marriage between them is impossible.

The fourth act is a Saturday night—the Fourth of July—on the roof garden of the settlement house, and David's opera is here being performed for the the first time. He himself has crept away to nurse his seared heart alone, and to him comes Vera. Their greetings are at first of the most formal character, but as they talk they begin to realize that race and creed are as nothing when they are but fragments tossed into "the crucible," as part of the material that the Almighty is using in His construction of the American people.

Having realized this, the next step is an inevitable one and, of course, they arrange to marry immediately.

For Mr. Whiteside's support, Liebler & Co. have made a remarkable selection of players. These include Henry Bergman, John Blair, Grant Stewart, Chrystal Herne, Leonora Von Ottinger, Louise Muldener, and, of course, Mr. Whiteside.

Throughout there is said to be a bigness of theme and an idealization of the American spirit that makes an indescribable combination of interest, and those who know Mr. Zangwill and the quality of his work, are assured of the remarkable nature of the play. Throughout, it is said a distinctly new note is struck, and the symbolism of "The Melting Pot" is carried to a height that is apparent at a glance. Mr. Whiteside's engagement is for April 26, 27 and 28.

LYCEUM NOTES.

News of Attractions Booked for Duluth During Present Season.

The triumph of Inez de Verdier is a tale often told. It happened two or three seasons ago, when the skittish Fritzi Scheff was playing an engagement at the Cleveland opera house. The prima donna declined to go on for one of the performances, and Miss de Verdier, who had understudied the role, was told to go ahead and make good, if she could.

The way the opera house audience got up on its feet and howled its approbation of Inez de Verdier and her singing and dancing, and pretty face and pretty ways, will never be forgotten by those who happened to see and hear it. It doesn't make the story any worse to add that Fritzi herself is supposed to have witnessed her understudy's triumph from a seat in the balcony.

Miss de Verdier is now one of the shining lights of "The Red Mill." This show is under the management of Charles Dillingham, the same who controls Miss Scheff (or tries to) and divers other stars.

Nobody knows the advantage of systematic understudying better than Dillingham, and his shows fill their dates in spite of sickness or tandrums.

"The Red Mill" is coming to the Lyceum April 19 and 20.

The luckiest musician in Europe at this moment is Herr Franz Lehar, the composer of "The Merry Widow." Herr Lehar, who comes from the Gypsy race of music lovers, was formerly bandmaster of the Twenty-sixth Austrian Infantry. When the operetta was produced for the first time in London at Daly's theater, Mr. Lehar personally conducted the orchestra, and in view of the fact that he could not speak a word of English, his work was considered wonderfully clever. Mr. Lehar is expected to visit Americal this year, and when he does he will receive a great welcome, as he is easily the most talked about composer of the day.

The play in which Florence Roberts will appear at the Lyceum this season is "The House of Bondage," by Seymour Obermer, an Englishman who is attaining a great vogue through this work. Miss Roberts is said in "The House of Bondage" to have the strongest role she has ever played, which is saying a very great deal. She is supported by an exceptional company, including Thurlow Bergen, Hallet Bosworth, Harry Gibbs, Ann Workington and Mary Bertrand.

The Messrs. Shubert will present Clyde Fitch's latest and screamingly funny comedy, "Girls," which played one whole year at Daly's theater, New York, at the Lyceum this season. "Girls" deals with three delightful specimens of feminine perversity, who start out so bravely in the first act to be independent of the aid of the masculine gender, only to learn in the end that their truest happiness depends upon the very chaps they so valiantly affect to despise.

Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, the popular singing comedian, will appear at the Lyceum soon in his new play, "When Old New York Was Dutch," which recently had a remarkably successful run in New York, where it drew capacity audiences. The New York critics, without exception, pronounce the new play the best that Mr. Wilson has ever had. It will be presented here with the original cast and all the elaborate scenic, mechanical and electrical effects used in New York. Mr. Wilson has composed several new songs for the play, which he sings.

Harry Montgomery, who will appear as a talkative negro servant in "Mary's Lamb" when Richard Carle brings his newest musical comedy to the Lyceum this season, is a brother of David Montgomery, of Montgomery & Stone, now playing in "The Red Mill." He and his brother began their stage careers together, appearing in vaudeville made up like Pullman porters. Harry, who is perhaps better known as "Samp" Montgomery, has been with wagon and tent shows and in every kind of stage entertainment. Once he played the drums in Sousa's band. He has "created" three great negro characters—Eaton Ham, in "George Washington, Jr." Low Down Smith in "Cape Cod Folks," and Sylvester Q. Nightingale" in "Mary's Lamb."

There is beauty, grace and dignity—the three things essential to the satisfactory portrayal of true drama—in the interpretation of "The Right of Way," Eugene Presbrey's dramatization of Sir Gilbert Parker's great story of Canadian life which will shortly be presented in this city by Klaw & Erlanger, with Guy Standing and Theodore Roberts in their famous interpretations of "Beauty" Steele and Joe Portugals. The romance and the tragedy of the powerful story will be readily recalled by the playgoer who sees "The Right of Way." Selecting Charley Steele's "den," the Cote Dorion, the hut on the Vendome mountains, and the valley of Cooling Springs as the successive scenes of his five acts, Mr. Presbrey has constructed a play that, unlike numerous other dramatizations, is perfectly clear and understandable without a knowledge of the original novel.

"Why Girls Leave Home," which is said to have many features that other productions of melodrama have not, namely, not a revolver from one end of the book to the other, will be presented at the Lyceum soon.

AT THE BIJOU

SENSATIONAL PARISIAN NOVELTY DANCE L'AMOUR DE L'APACHA, DIRECT FROM THE MOULIN ROUGE, PARIS, WILL BE ONE OF THE WEEK'S BIG FEATURES.

THE new bill which will open at the Bijou, commencing Monday afternoon and continue all week, should prove one of the strongest of the season. The patrons will have a chance to see the latest Parisian dancing novelty, entitled "L'Amour De L'Apache," a dance of the famous "Apaches" of the Parisian under world presented by Cook and Miss Rothert, who come direct from the Moulin Rouge, Paris, where the dance was first originated. At the present time in New York city it is being presented in "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge."

The dance is very fascinating and has been a big drawing card as well as a big success for these talented artists. Besides the Apache dance, they introduce a whirlwind of eccentric acrobatic dancing and comedy stunts.

Another feature that is making the public take notice is Weston, Young and company, who are presenting Searl Allen's screaming comedy, entitled "The New Reporter," which is one of the year's big comedy hits in vaudeville. There are five people in the sketch and every one a prominent part.

One of the best comedy singing acts that has ever appeared at the Bijou will be given by Mann and Franks. This act has been one of the big hits over the Orpheum and Eastern circuits, and from press notices from the papers where they have appeared they are justly entitled to the hit they are making.

Gil Brown, the comedian who has made thousands laugh in the musical field, will present his clever singing, talking and dancing act, in which there is not a dull moment from start to finish.

As a musical treat the Faust Brothers, the pantomime musical comedians, will introduce their original novelty musical act, playing on a number of very odd and unique instruments.

Isadore Silver will sing the newest popular song hit, entitled "Take Me Out For a Joy Ride."

The moving pictures will be exclusive subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and performances every night at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either 'phone. Special school children's matinee will begin Saturday afternoon, when 10 cents will be the charge for any seat, and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"A FOOL THERE WAS," SUGGESTED BY KIPLING'S POEM—HENRIETTA CROSSMAN'S SUCCESS IN "SHAM"—"THE CONFLICT," BASED ON BALZAC.

New York, April 10.—If there is virtue in titles, perhaps "A Fool There Was," "Sham" and "The Conflict," the three latest plays, may point to something. There seems to be a significance of gravity. They all deal with modern society. We have had a congestion of Western plays; at present the stage is used to mirror the foibles and worse, the wickedness, of society. "A Fool There Was" carries its own mission, for any one who has gazed upon a copy of Sir Burne-Jones' famous picture, "The Vampire," of which Kipling wrote his famous poem about the fool who loved "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair." To make the play miss none of its significance, in the event that any there was who had not read the poem or seen the picture, the management folded copies of both in the program on the opening night. The scene was the Liberty theater, where a few nights before Mrs. Leslie Carter had wept through "Kassa," and Robert Hilliard, who had not been seen on "the legitimate stage" since he appeared as the road agent in "The Girl of the Golden West," appeared as the hero of Porter Emerson Browne's daring play.

In the first act there is a suicide on the deck of an outgoing steamer. This is a mere atmospheric touch. A youth is seen to come out of the crowd of tourists and hide himself behind a convenient corner which a rather striking-looking young woman among the passengers is about to pass. For a moment they stand confronting each other. The woman appears startled. The man acts like one possessed. Presently he flashes a pistol into her face. She turns to stone. She gazes at him with a fixed look. The pistol does not explode. A smile flits over her face. Presently the beautiful face assumes a waggish expression. Her lips move, her face is bent forward with an enchanting look. "Kiss me!" she whispers. "Oh, God!" exclaims the man; there is a pause; the report of the pistol and the youth sinks down on the deck in his own blood. The woman draws her skirts aside, smiles contemptuously and disappears in one of the alleys. Great excitement. The body is removed, the blood washed up, and the event hushed.

Presently we see the seductive woman reclining in a steamer chair, with magazines about her and settled for the journey, while near the railing a handsome man in middle age and a light, handsome summer suit is waving farewell to his wife and child and intimate friend on the pier as the steamer pulls out. They vanish from view, and he turns. The eyes of the two meet—and the play begins.

It is the old, old story of the man who goes to the devil for a worthless woman, forgets wife, child and home and sinks to the lowest level of social degradation. Browne and Hilliard have gone the limit of this theory. No halfway stations and final redemption. Had they done so, the play would not have had some of the wonderfully telling scenes, and perhaps neither Hilliard nor William Courtleigh would have abandoned their lucrative vaudeville engagements to play them—Hilliard as the light-hearted Jack Schuyler, with a high position in diplomatic life and a little Eden of domesticity, and Courtleigh as the bluff, honest, slangy, modern New Yorker, who having once been a worshiper of Schuyler's pretty wife (Nanette Constock), is now the honest friend of the family, and presently is called on to exercise every moral instinct of unselfish devotion to arouse the conscience of the fallen husband. Whisky and women—or rather, a woman—bring Schuyler to the threshold of depravity. In the last scenes of "Drink" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom." His work is graphic, and barring the horror his realism inspires, his acting alone should make the play a go. But there's the rub. It isn't exactly "a pleasant play," and critical opinion is divided. It shocks some by its unsparing truthfulness, and attracts others who don't mind being enthralled by the illusions of the stage. It re-

THE FIRST SIGNS OF SPRING

Spring is here.

Notice that rush of warm blood through your veins as you feel the warmth of the midday sun and the breath of the bracing spring air on your cheek. Notice that longing that comes for a tramp in the bracing open air, over the walks crossed by little rivulets of melted snow, and out into the drying roads as you look through the window of your office at the cloudless sky and the warming rays of the sun beating down on the surrounding roads.

Who needs to be told there are signs of spring? They are everywhere. You feel it in your blood, in the air, in the people and the conditions around you.

But there are tangible signs of spring. Some subtle influence seems to come over the juvenile mind as the joyous spring time approaches. If, as the saying goes, in spring the young man's thoughts lightly turn to love, the young boy's and the young girl's thoughts lightly turn to the games of spring. There is baseball on the corner lots, with the air a little cool perhaps and the ground a little slushy, but ball and bat come out of their winter hiding place as soon as there is a square inch of dry ground and a ray of spring sunshine and the game which lasts all through the summer until the first snow flurries come in the fall, is on.

Marbles and "duck on the rock" are disappearing, but not extinct and childhood's days are recalled to many an adult mind by the sight of a crowd of youngsters in the games that have been known since children have been children in the United States Fingers may get a little blue, for all the wintriness is not out of the air, but marbles and baseballs are in season long before straw hats and peek-a-boo waists.

For the little girls, there are "jacks" and some strictly masculine games also. Girls are not averse to baseball nowadays, for the "Woman's Invasion" is noticeable even in the field of children's sports.

The man, who doesn't feel within himself that spring is here, doesn't need to go uninformed for lack of signs. He has them on all sides.

mains to be seen which side the public takes. The role of the vampire is played by Katherine Kaelred, a young Australian actress, who shared honors with Courtleigh in the splendid supporting cast, which includes a remarkable child actress, little Emily Wurster.

Next in order of production comes "Sham," by Geraldine Bonner and Elmer Harris, which was summoned off the road to fill the gap at Wallack's theater created by the withdrawal of "Votes For Women," which lasted only a week. It served to recall Henrietta Crosman from the vaudeville stage, and bids fair to re-establish her in popularity on Broadway, where she has not in a long time been seen in a success. In "Sham" she realizes the role of the heroine of a true, modern, picturesque romance, a female Beau Brummel, living by her charming wits and practicing the arts of a gay deceiver with the gentle skill of a social Dick Turpin. The piece is a pleasant, amiable and humorous satire on the shabby genteel class of New York society who live far beyond their means and are put to every shift to keep up a position. They have pedigree and expensive tastes and everything except money. And the comedy shows how a woman with the instincts of a born grafter manages to make everybody contribute to her support. But then this Sham is an enchanting creature, and Miss Crosman not only played the part to the mark, but she distinguished it by youth and every other essential attribute of physical beauty. New Yorkers never saw her look more radiant than in the role of this 28-year-old bachelor girl. The interval of years since her memorable triumph in "Mistress Nell" at the Bijou was wiped off the board as if no such thing as time ever played pranks with an actress. And everybody seemed rejoiced to see her again in a rollicking success. People recognized the type at a glance. For two acts she is seen in shameless acts of gratifying that would lay her open to indictment in any court of competent jurisdiction for obtaining goods under false pretenses. Neither her friends nor her enemies, the common tradespeople, are spared; and it is not until her heart is touched in a romance with an honest young Western mining engineer that she shows the good that is in her. Then, although offered an eligible match with a millionaire, she determines to prove herself worthy of the man she loves. She tries to pay her debt by selling an heirloom, a necklace supposed to be worth $20,000.

It proves a sham. The genuine pearls were removed years before by an improvident father and sold to meet pressing needs. The disappointment is great, for she has resolved not to accept her young engineer until she has purged herself of her accumulation of bad debts. But she sticks to her purpose, and the lucky intervention of a rich relative enables her to win in the end. She had already dismissed her true lover and turned down the millionaire, but a check for $8,000 sent her by the Van Ripers for the false pearls, in order to protect the good name of the family, brings with it her chance of happiness, and the hero in the case is recalled in time.

The play had some gaps of colorless conversation and dearth of action, but in the main it is well written and well constructed, and the dialogue is at times brilliant. It was well received and will probably remain at Wallack's for some time.

Robert Drouet appeared at the Garden theater in "The Conflict," which did not score heavily. It is by a young San Francisco writer named Samuels, and exploits the magic skin problem in Balzac's famous story of "La Peau de Chagrin," translated into English under the title of "The Wild Ass's Skin." A young Parisian, tired of life and about to cast himself into the waters of the Seine, waits for nightfall in the old curiosity shop of an antiquarian and is given the wild ass's skin inscribed with a cabalistic legend in Arabic, which declares that the possessor may gratify any wish, but with each wish fulfilled the skin will shrink until it is reduced to nothing, when the possessor must die. This old curiosity shop scene was well presented and the events held the audience in a strong grip. But the next three acts were written without regard to Balzac's story and diminished in interest in correspondence with the shrinkage of the skin. Raphael is shown between the influence of a siren and poor young girl who loves him from pure motives. He becomes rich, but riches bring misery and the knowledge that death and pain are drawing him nearer his fate. It is the pure love of the poor girl that makes him wish for the welfare of others, and thence on the skin no longer shrinks and he regains happiness and health.

The idea is not bad, but the work is amateurish, and the interest inspired by Balzec is not supported by the adapter by any skill in handling characters or situations, and the play fell flat.

Dr. Wuellner, the famous German lieder singer, who used to be a noted actor with the Meinigen company, has been appearing at the New German theater here in two dramatic performance: Oscar Wilde's "Salome" and Ibsen's "Rosmersholm," supported by Hedwig Reicher, who is to pass over to the English stage next season. He played the tetrarch in the first play with great power, Miss Reicher doing some splendid work as Salome and executing the dance of the seven veils with remarkable grace; but Dr. Wuellner made his greatest hit as Rosmer, in which he cannot be surpassed. It was a remarkable performance, which held the tremendous audience that assembled to see it spellbound until midnight, although the actor was suffering from a severe cold which led to the dismissal of the next night's audience and the postponement of the performance until a later date. For the closing performance at this theater, soon to become the Plaza under the Shuberts, the company is presenting this week "The Wavers" of Hauptmann.

Henry Miller's son, who is playing the bridegroom in Grace George's production of "A Woman's Way," had a narrow escape from being completely blinded by the application of undiluted adrenalin to his eyes, which were inflamed. The young actor neglected to follow the instruction of calling for the medicine in the diluted form, and bathed his eyes in it, full strength. A physician had to be called, and the pain was relieved sufficiently to enable him to finish a performance. Saturday night, with his eyes closed, the other members of the company guided him about the stage. He spent all day Sunday in a dark room.

The success of Eugene Walter as a dramatist has been a spectacular one, and hard upon his achievement in "The Easiest Way" comes the announcement that two more plays are about to issue from his workship. He has completed a big melodrama which is to be produced either late this spring or early in the fall. The Shuberts may be its producers. The play has a single situation which ought to carry it straight to big success. The title best liked by the author for this piece is "The Last Muster." Another play upon which he is now engaged is a comedy, bearing the name of "Another Way," which at once recalls the salient points of "The Easiest Way." The probability is that Charlott Walker (Mrs. Walter) will be the star of this play, and it is more than likely that Dvid Belsco will give it his expert touch.

Prof. Alfons Mucha, the famous Bohemian artist, the creator of the celebrated poster panels and portraits of Madame Sarah Bernhardt in all her principal parts, is at work upon a life-sized portrait of Miss Maude Adams in the character of Joan of Arc. The canvas, when finished, will represent Joan as a peasant of Doremy, listening to the voice of St. Michael, bidding her to assume the leadership of the French army.

Oscar Strauss, the composer of "The Waltz Dream," has written an operetta with George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," as the basis of the libretto. It is called "Der Tapfere Soldat" ("The Brave Soldier"), and is one of the big successes of the Vienna season.

The redoubtable Shaw, according to reports, is at work on an effort which is shortly to be produced in London by the Afternoon theater. According to its author it is not a play, but "a short dramatic sermon of an exclusively theological character."

Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton, authors of "The Sins of Society," which will be the spring and summer offering at McVicker's theater, Chicago, beginning Wednesday night, April 14, have written Brooks and Dingwall, the producers of the Drury Lane success, that they will try to be present at the opening performance of the play in Chicago. The authors, who are now in London, wrote "Sporting Life," "The Great Ruby," "The Price of Peace" and other big melodramas which have been produced in this country.

"The Wizard of Oz" is to have a London season. Hurtig and Seamon have secured the privilege of making the venture and intend to try the British public some time during the coming summer.

Miss Billie Burke has almost accomplished the end of her present American season in "Love Watches" and will shortly sail for London, where, surrounded by her present company, she will be seen for the summer season in London in the same comedy. Miss Burke's London engagement will be followed by her return to America, where she will resume an extended tour to the Pacific coast in "Love Watches," eventually playing the piece two years.

Marie Doro, the petite comedienne, who has been playing "The Richest Girl" in New York, is to lay aside that piece when she begins her tour to the Pacific coast shortly. It has not been a pronounced success and she will fall back on her play of last season, "The Morals of Marcus." It will be Miss Doro's first trip to the far West and her season will contineu until Aug. 1.

Within a few days Paul Hervieu's play, "Connaise-Toi" (Know Thyself), will be given its premiere at the Comedie Francaise in Paris.

Would this be possible in America? Dr. Brahms, the director of the famous Lessing theater in Berlin, where Ibsen, Hauptman, Sudermann and the other modern realists were first cultivated, has established a law which forbids the appearance of the actor before the curtain at any time. The rule has been extended to a certain degree to the author as well, and the latter is only permitted to appear at the end of the performance.

Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott are to make a tour of this country next season under the direction of the Shuberts. Naturally, when they begin their tour in New York next fall, they will be housed in the new Maxine Elliott theater The play which Mr. Robertson and Miss Elliott will present is "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which aroused a certain amount of interest when produced in London this season. The piece is by Jerome K. Jerome.

Ada Lewis, whom Liebler & Co., have attempted to promote to the plane of stardom in the comedy which was recently produced in Chicago, "The Head of the House," will be temporarily balked in this pleasing promotion. The comedy has not succeeded in pleasing the people, and, though a fortnight has been spent trying to doctor it up for general consumption, the response has not been encouraging. As a result the play has concluded its run.

While on the subject of plays giving up the ghost, Bertha Galland has also concluded her run in New York in "The Return of Eve," and will shortly abandon her efforts with it after a short supplementary road tour. Jeff De Angelis, in "The Beauty Spot," follows her in the Herald Square Theater.

John Galsworthy's new three-act play, "Strife," which deals with the interminable problem of labor and capital, and which has just been produced with marked success in London, is to be given an American hearing next season.

David Belasco was in his best mood at a dinner at the St. Regis preceding his vacation—his first vacation in twenty long, hard years.

Mr. Belasco, in the course of a learned review of barefoot dancing, problem plays and such-like outcroppings of stage history, smiled and said:

"It may be true, as some have claimed, that immoral plays are due to the immoral taste of woman. Yes, that may be true; but, gentlemen, did you ever watch at the theater an elderly, staid, perhaps somewhat unprepossessing wife, brooding over a husband a little younger than herself? These wifes, surely are no supporters of tho immoral stage spectacle.

"Such a wife sat in one of my theaters during the production of a drama. The heroine, a beautiful girl, said at a dramatic moment:

"'Merciful heavens, I am undone!'

"The wife rose hurriedly.

"'Come, Clarence,' she murmured sternly, 'we've had enough of this. I'm not going to have you drinkin' in any Salome dance or disrobin' act.'"

Julian Eltinge, the sensational and artistic female impersonator, who has been tempted to accept a season's bookings on the vaudeville stage, has refused in order to be the special feature in a musical comedy to run through the summer in New York. He is to star next season under the management of Cohan & Harris.

Lionel E. Lawrence has arranged for the "road" rights of Edward People's charming comely, "The Prince Chap," and in the fall is to make a tour of the Southern cities under his own management. Lawrence was one of the half dozen actors who played the title role in "The Devil" this season. His success in this region has induced him to ask them to accept him in "The Prince Chap" next.

Louise Dresser has been engaged as a member of the all-star cast which Charles Dillingham is forming for "The Candy Shop," which Mr. Dillingham will present as a summer show in New York. The Broadway production will be made late in April. "The Candy Shop" is George V. Hobart's latest musical piece and the scenes will be laid in and about New York.

One of the plays to receive Charles Frohman's attention early in the fall will be "The Harvest Moon," from the pen of Augustus Thomas. The play will be produced in September, with George Nash as a "featured" capacity. "The Harvest Moon" first came to life as a one-act playlet, written for a Lamb's gambol. It scored an instantaneous and tremendous hit. Nash acted the principal role at that time.

It is being stated that Mrs. Leslie Carter is to form an alliance with the Shuberts. Whether they will manage her or merely book her is not well defined.

The long standing suit entered by Paul Hervieu, the French dramatist, against the J. S. Ogilvie Publishing company for infringement of copyright, was decided last week in favor of the complainant. In December, 1903, Hervieu entered for copyright at Washington printed copies of his play, "Le Dedale." These copies were printed in Paris on the press of L'Illustration, a Paris journal. Two years later the Ogilvie company entered for copyright a play in English, based on Hervieu's drama, and called "The Labyrinth: or, A Case for Divorce," by George Morehead. This English version was published in book form.

Hervieu immediately brought suit for infringement of copyright. The defendants claimed that there could be no infringement because, in applying for copyright, the French author had filed copies of a book printed from type set outside of the United States. The copyright law states that the filed copies of the book that is to be protected must be printed from type set within this country. The complainant's attorneys, Ernst, Lowenstein & Cane, contended that this provision of the law referred to books, and that books and dramatic compositions were distinctly separated.

The decision, given by Justice Martin in the United States circuit court last week, upholds the contention of the complainant's attorneys; that the copyright secured by Hervieu was for a "dramatic composition," and that the filing of copies printed outside the United States complied with the requirements of the law relating to the copyright of dramatic compositions. "The Labyrinth" was originally played in this country several seasons ago by Olga Nethersole.

Ben Teal, the famous stage director, and Charles Frohman have parted company. Their contract has expired, and will not be renewed. For years Teal was the general stage director of the Frohman productions. In a fortnight he will go abroad to assume charge of a new production, and will return to this country in the fall.

The musical entertainment which F. P. Adams, the jester of the New York Mail, and O. Henry, the short story writer, are contriving for Harry Askin, has its basis in a quasi-fantastic sketch of Mr. Henry's, which appeared several weeks ago in Collier's Weekly, under the name, "He Also Serves." The story is about an educated Indian, with a fondness for rum, and the adventures while on a visit to his native tepee. John E. Young, now the featured member of the company playing "The Time, the Place and the Girl," will be comedian of the play, appearing as Hunky McGee, a crafty denizen of Broadway, with a typical O. Henry vernacular.

"The Family," Henry Miller's new production, has proved such an overwhelming success at Powers' theater, Chicago, that wheels have been set in motion to extend the original four weeks' engagement. It is possible that Mr. Miller may keep Robert H. Davis' play in Chicago until late in the summer. The actor-manager has the fortnight of his own engagement at McVickers', in "The Great Divide," in which either to extend the Powers' bookings or to look about for a larger playhouse.

"The Family" gets hold on its audiences chiefly because of its artless, natural, direct drive at the sympathies of the makers of American homes. The particular family which gives the play its name, happens to live in New England, but it is the type of millions of American households like it. A restless, imaginative girl, an amateur sport of a boy who smokes cigarettes and "dopes" the races, a shiftless, lovable father, a humble, firm patient mother—these five are "The Family," and they constitute the entire cast of the play, save one. He is a young drum major, who comes to town at the head of a minstrel show. The oldest girl falls in love; the drum major carries her off. Two weeks later the flower of the brood is located in a neighboring town, and the entire family rides over to forgive her, and also to welcome their new member. By accident the mother discovers the absence of a wedding ring. With quiet humanity she dismissed the foolish drum major, soothes the father and boy and reveals a bottomless well of tenderness for her daughter, as she opens her arms to her. Thus the family is reunited.

"The play is an example of what mother love can do," said Mr. Davis, who, by the way, is the editor of Munsey's Magazine. 'The backbone of this nation are its commonplace households and to show that the sublime is inextricably mixed with the commonplace is, I hope, of some value. And I suppose that most people will agree that the spark of sublimity in most commonplace households resides in the mother-love in them. It is that of which I have tried to remind folks."

Mr. Miller has selected the six artists on the American stage best fitted to portray family types. Mabel Bert, who created famous mother roles in "Ben Hur," "The Crossing" and "The Master," is the sublime but humble and care-worn Yankee mother. Florence Fisher, known on Broadway as the delineator of the thoroughly wholesome American girl, plays the restless daughter and Edith Speare, who is only 17 herself, and has already reached fame as an actress of child parts, portrays the second daughter. Henry V. Donnelly, who has been coming to Chicago for years, as leading comedian with Margaret Anglin, Elsie Janis and in "The Waltz Dream," enacts the father of the family, and John Westley who jumped into prominence three years ago as Clem, in "The Three of Us," and only this season gave a remarkable characterization of the mad poet in "The Vampire," plays the son of the family. George W. Howard, late leading man with Mary Mannering and Blanche Walsh, plays the heart-mashing drum major.

After 'The Family's" career in Chicago ends it will be brought to New York, with a few intervening weeks on the road, so as to give it an autumn opening on Broadway.

In confirmation of the reports of the success of the Tarkington-Wilson romance, "Cameo Kirby," at the Studebaker theater, Chicago, the theatrical supreme court of that city, consisting of the critics of its nine principal papers, handed down a verdict decidedly in favor of the new play from the pens of the authors of "The Man From Home," by a vote of 8½ to ½. These critics promise a long Chicago run for the play, so that it is unlikely that it will be seen anywhere outside of that city this season. The success of the drama itself, however, was no less pronounced than that scored by Dustin Farnum, the star, while James Lackaye made the hit of his career in the part of a fat Mississippi river gambler. May Buckley, little Donald Gallagher and an excellent company also shared in the honors.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

NORTH BUTTE IN GOOD SHAPE

Work on New Levels---Both Drifts in Ore on Edith May Vein---Output Shows Little Variation in Six Months.

Butte, Mont. April 10—For several weeks there has been a great deal of liquidation of North Butte in the East, the reason for which is more or less of a mystery. The condition of the mine does not justify unusual selling at this time, for the property is in better shape than ever in its history, and the two new levels at a depth of 2,000 and 2,200 feet are opening some splendid ore bodies and 400 feet of additional stoping ground. So far only the Edith May vein is being opened on those levels, but some time during the present month the crosscut on the 2,200 will be started north toward the Jessie vein, it being the intention to open that level first for the purpose of draining the ground from above. The drifts on the new levels have been extended west on the Edith May about 400 feet, all the way in ore, but of variable extent and richness, owing to a faulted condition of the vein at that point. The drifts will have to be extended about 100 feet more in order to get under the big ore body shown on the 1,800-foot level. The drifts are just now approaching this ore body. There are some good stopes on the 2,000, where the ore is 12 to 15 feet wide. The south branch of the Edith May vein was cut by the station at the 1,200, and the drift was started west right from the station.

The branch joined the main vein about 200 feet from the station and there is good ore at the junction, several sets wide. On the 2,000-foot level a crosscut about ninety feet long was run before the vein was cut. So far as opened the vein conditions on the two new levels are about the same as on the 1,800, except that the grade of ore is a little better—better on the

GOLDFIELD CONSOLIDATED

Earnings Were $1,074,000 in March---Tonnage for the Month Shows 19,350 Tons and the Mill Giving Better Results Daily.

Goldfield, Nev., April 10.—The preliminary figures on the earnings of the mill of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company for March show gross earnings of $1,074,000 with expenses totalling $124,000, leaving net profits of $950,000. The tonnage handled was 19,350 tons. These figures should satisfy the most timidly inclined that the mill is working in fair shape and that the ore reserves of the high grade ore are going into the mill.

The net value recovered from this tonnage is estimated because some of the bullion is now in transit to the mints and several carloads of ore are in transit to the smelters for which definite returns have not been received, but estimate is conservative. The total cost of production, including expense of mining, milling, transportation, and office, is (maximum) $124,000, leaving the net profit for the month's operation at $950,000.

United States Senator Nixon is now eliminated from the company, last week, having witnessed the passing of his interests to a syndicate headed by Bernard Baruch in addition to a private sale of his holdings to his mining partner, George Wingfield. The latter is understood to have taken up 100,000 shares of the Nixon stock, whereas the syndicate took up the remaining 200,000 shares. While the exact price paid over for the stock has not been given to the public, it is estimated to be between $7 and $8 a share. At these figures the transaction involved over $2,000,000, though it is not likely that the full payments were made immediately.

New Combination stope is shipping over thirty tons daily of ore running over $1,000 per ton, besides a big extraction of milling ore.

The total bullion output of Goldfield in March is estimated at over $1,300,000, including: Fraction, $95,000; Florence, $98,000; Daisy, $45,000.

Moore lease upraise on Combination No. 2 has opened two feet high grade free gold in Tellurium.

Daisy is getting high grade at the 400-foot level. The new Florence strike is one of the richest in the camp. Shipping ore opened in Star lease on the Lone Star. Fraction to drill for Combination vein.

COLORADO TUNNEL RESULTS

Great Opportunities From Thorough, Deep Drainage-Much Interest in Yak Tunnel---Second Strike of Copper in Manhattan District.

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 10.—The Roosevelt drainage tunnel, although its completion is more than a year distant, is causing the deepening of mines and extensive lateral development along the tunnel route and generally throughout Cripple Creek. The tunnel will afford transportation as well as drainage, thus removing the cost of hoisting from the lowest levels, which in many mines will be 2,500 to 3,000 feet. Progress on the tunnel is exceeding contract speed.

Much interest is felt in the Yak tunnel. Starting in California gulch just south of the city of Leadville, it was designed primarily to tap the Cord group of mines, half a mile distant. It has been continued eastword 15,000 feet into the Resurrection group. Laterals aggregating 10,000 feet have also been run to adjacent properties. The Leadville Exploration & Mining company, an auxiliary of the original company, is the principal factor in extending the bore in order to drain the Evans Amphitheater, now dependent on hoisting and pumping. Most of the mines in the district reached are under ten years' lease to one or both of these companies. The Cord group and other properties along the original tunnel route are yielding 8,000 tons of $7 ore monthly. Values are in lead, silver, zinc, copper and iron, with traces of gold. The tunnel may be extended to daylight in Park county through Mosquito range.

The Latchaw tunnel, eight miles south of Buena Vista, Colo., is on a four-foot silver ore body at 4,000 feet from the portal and 2,000 feet below the surface. Search was being made for the Butler-Dandy silver vein, which may be the one just discovered.

A second strike of copper in the Manhattan district, Fort Collins county, is reliably reported, with values from $60 to $200 a ton.

Hopkins & Co. of Scranton, Pa., are sinking a shaft 100 feet on the property of the Mayflower Gold Mining company at Gillette, Cripple Creek, where a body of ore was discovered recently while removing clay for bricks.

Mackey & Beezley, leasing on the Ocean Wave on Battle mountain, Cripple Creek, and Creede Gold Mining company, owner, have opened a five-foot vein of $40 to $190 ore.

A two years' lease has been secured by G. E. Copeland on the property of the Montrose Gold Mining company, controlled by the United Gold Mining company, Cripple Creek. The property comprises eight acres adjoining the Jerry Johnson and Forest Queen, and ore of good shipping grade is coming from the 400-foot level of the Montrose shaft. Royalties range from 10 to 25 per cent.

The Western Investment company, operating in the Mohican mine of the Mohican Gold Mining company, Cripple Creek, has opened on the 700-foot level a five to six-foot vein of shipping ore of $20 a ton average values. The property is on Battle mountain.

A total of 467 feet was the record of the Cripple Creek deep drainage tunnel for two weeks just past. The tunnel has now been driven 6,935 feet. The distance from the portal to the breast is 5,383 feet. The distances from the intermediate shaft are 801 and 751 feet respectively.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Two Companies Have Adopted the Leasing System, Which May Become Popular in the Hills---Golden Reward Makes New Strike.

Deadwood, S. D., April 10.—That the leasing system, so successful in other mining camps is to enjoy a wider scope in hte Black Hills is the opinion of many mining men here. Several companies have recently been figuring on this method of operation for their properties and two have adopted it. The Branch Mint company, with large holdings and a big mill in the Galena district, leased its property some time ago to New York men known as the Branch Mint Operating company. Now the Gilt Edge-Maid Mining company, in which United States Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota is a heavy stockholder, has leased its property at Turner, near here, to Martin E. Hiltner and Ernest Dill. Both the lessees are well known in mining circles here and both have been for some time connected with the Gilt Edge-Maid before it closed down the first of the year.

M. Lindeeman, for some time past connected with the Mogul Mining company, has assumed the management of the property of the Golden Crest Mining company in the Two Bit district.

Milling operations at the property of the American Eagle Mining company in the Portland district, may be resumed within a few weeks. It is also planned to commence sinking a new shaft shortly and to penetrate to quartzite to locate and open up the vertical ledges that exist in the lower strata in that section.

The Golden Reward Mining company has just made a new strike of seeming consequence in the Union workings in the Bald mountain district. The ore was encountered in a stope and is now being opened up to determine the size of the ore body. The ore is of much higher grade than the usual Black Hills ore.

The formations in the Dakota ground of the Imperial Mining company, in the same district, indicate that the work is nearing the permanent high grade ledges. Several small shoots have been opened up and good shipments made, and the character of the rock through which the drift is now penetrating is such that the management feels it will soon be in regular pay ore.

A small force of men has been put to work on the Oro Hondo ground near Lead, and this will be augmented with good weather. It is the intention of the Philadelphia owners to do considerable prospecting on the property during the coming summer and to start drifting from the lower levels of the 1,200-foot shaft in an effort to locate the missing vein that is believed to dip out of place from the regular Homestake formation.

SHIPMENTS OF LAKE COPPER

By Rail Continue at Normal Rate and Little More Than One Month's Production on Hand—Rich Showings in Old Bee Workings of the Michigan Mine.

Houghton, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the opening of navigation but two weeks away, shipments of copper by rail continue at a rate fully equal to that of the past several months. There is no apparent disposition on the part of the companies to hold their products until the cheaper transportation is possible, and as a result, the stocks of metal at the several smelters have not grown to the usual proportions noted in other years. The Calumet & Hecla docks, in particular, are quite barren of metal, but the storage bins contain the usual quantity of unsmelted mineral for transportation to the Black Rock smelter. At the Quincy smelter a large portion of the metal is Franklin stock, the accumulation of several months. There is little more than one month's production, or less than 20,000,000 pounds, fine copper available in the district at the present time.

The Michigan.

Operations in the old Bee workings of the Michigan mine recently reopened, disclose copper rock equaled by few mines in the Lake district, and by none of the Ontonagon county mines, with the possible exception of the Lake mine. Work at this point, however, has not progressed sufficiently to determine the extent of the present excellent showing, which, though limited, is unquestionably one of the richest obtained since the days of the old Minnesota mine, easily the most famous copper mine of the Lake Superior district in its day, nearly forty years ago. The Bee workings, originally exploited for mass copper were opened and abandoned many years ago, the lode proving a stamp rock proposition and considered quite without value in those days. Present operations began about one month ago with the cleaning out of an old adit through which the lode was tapped, and drifting upon the lode is now fairly in progress. The lode measures 12 feet in width and where intercepted by the adit carries copper in commercial quantities from foot wall to hanging wall. At considerably greater depth the lode is tapped by a cross-cut from the Calico workings of the Michigan mine proper, and shows but 4 feet of mineralized ground, indicating a pinching with depth.

Copper Range.

Copper Range plans to do considerable test pitting this summer in connection with the diamond drill exploratory operations in progress on the Canal lands west of the Atlantic mine, which lands are held under option by the company. The drill outfits have succeeded in obtaining several cores of vein matter fairly well charged with copper, though not a degree that would warrant shaft sinking at this time. Three diamond drill outfits are in service engaged in taking a complete cross-section of the property.

The Lake.

Recent developments at the Lake mine disclose very rich ground at a point ninety-five feet from the shaft in what appears to be a second or twin lode to the so-called Lake lode in which the shaft is sinking. The new discovery where opened by a cross-cut at the third level is exceedingly rich in barrel work and rope copper. The width of the lode has not yet been determined. The second level north drift which re-entered copper ground after driving through nearly 100 feet of barren trap continues to hold the improvement as it advances. All openings with the exception of the first level drift north which has reached the boundary and reveals very little copper, are now showing copper in commercial quantities. The mine was recently equipped with a steam hoist having capacity to lift a five-ton skip from a depth of 2,000 feet, which together with the new fifteen-drill air compressor will serve the needs of the company for several years to come. The company is understood to have sufficient funds to carry on operations until early fall when further financing will be imperative. Of the company's share capital, 80,000 shares are outstanding and 20,000 shares are held as treasury stock.

Atlantic.

Atlantic has gradually shifted the center of operations to ground north of the shaft, where crosscutting and drifting continues without interruption and without any apparent change for the better from the shattered and undeniably poverty stricken ground to the south. The shaft has attained a depth of approximately 2,200 feet, and from present indications there is small likelihood that the second shaft, of which there has been more or less unofficial talk, will materialize. A new fifteen-drill compressor installed some time ago remains idle,tthe old compressor having sufficient capacity to furnish the present air requirements. Six machine drills are in service engaged in exploratory work.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw has completed a very exhaustive test on rock from its Medora mine, and the stamp mill is no permanently shut down. The results of the test are rather discouraging and demonstrate the absolute necessity of underground openings of sufficient extent to permit of a very close selection of rock. In the creation of such openings, the activities of the company will henceforth be centered. The Medora lode is by no means barren, but a considerable proportion of it is undeniably unproductive which, together with the

GLOBE MINES LOOKING WELL

Strike of High-Class Sulphide Ore at Globe Consolidated Running Six Per Cent Copper—Another Stack Blown in at Old Dominion—Arizona Commercial's Excellent Progress.

Globe, Ariz., April 10.—The Globe Consolidated has made another rich strike of high-class sulphide ore, of which Manager McCarthy says: "We have cut three and a half feet of sulphide in a cross-cut sixty feet south of the west drift on the 1,200-foot level. Returns just received from an average sample of this ore show it to contain 6 per cent copper, 38.28 per cent iron and 40.11 sulphur. It is as good as any sulphide we have yet found in the Gem workings.

It is, in fact, as good a quality of sulphide as yet produced in the district, because of the high percentage of sulphur and iron it contains—although there are veins carrying much more copper. The Gem vein has been opened on the 1,200-foot level east and west of the main cross-cut for long distances, and the drifts almost their entire lengths are in good concentrating sulphide, capable of yielding a large tonnage.

Preparations are being made to resume sinking at the Gem. The shaft is to be sunk 400 feet or to the 1,600-foot level at which the great vein (100 feet or more wide) should show more general mineralization and carry better values. The Globe Consolidated is now a part of the holdings of the Cordova Copper company, having been merged with the Eureka.

At the Eureka property a great deal of work has been done preliminary to sinking a shaft, such as road making and grading, and it will not be long now until development is well under way. The location of the Eureka could scarcely be better, it being almost surrounded by some of the greatest mines in the Miami section. The Miami mine is on the north, the two properties adjoining each other for a length of 2,000 feet. On the west is the Inspiration, which gives promise of equalling the Miami, and adjoining on the south and west is the Keystone on which there is an extensive deposit of sulphide. Upwards of half a million dollars' worth of silicate ore was shipped from shallow openings on the Eureka, and a strong vein of carbonate has been opened to a depth of about forty feet on the Osceola claim. The development of sulphide ores at moderate depth on the Eureka would seem to be almost assured.

Live Oak.

At the Live Oak operations are confined to the extension of an old tunnel at shallow depth, in which years ago sulphide running ½ to 2 per cent copper was opened for 500 feet. This tunnel has been extended over 140 feet and is still in sulphide, which is of better grade than in the old section of the tunnel. It is the intention of the management to start sinking a shaft on the Live Oak at an early date. The property is regarded as one of the most promising in the Miami section.

Old Dominion.

Another stack has been blown in at the Old Dominion smelter, and in the future four furnaces will be kept in operation, with a further increase of smelting whenever the price of copper advances sufficiently to justify it.

Conditions at the Old Dominion property are very satisfactory, except for the heavy flow of water into the mine, amounting to about five and a quarter million gallons every twenty-four hours. However, the pumps are handling this excessive volume easily, their capacity being about a million and a quarter gallons.

Much of the water that finds its way into the Old Dominion mine is believed to come from Pinal creek, and with the view of arresting and diverting the water coursing down the channel a bed rock dam and flume were constructed. The flume was only very recently finished, and whether or not this system will prove effective in arresting the flow of water into the mine is as yet undetermined, as the recent rains have increased the flow of water in the creek far beyond the capacity of the flume.

Probably the most important development work being carried on by the Old Dominion company at present is in the east territory, where three drifts are being driven on the tenth, twelfth and fourteenth levels, in United Globe ground, and which will terminate at the old Hoozier mine, which in the early days of copper mining in this district was an important producer from comparatively shallow levels. The drifts from the Old Dominion will penetrate the Hoozier claim at greater depths and are expected to develop important ore bodies.

The old Hoozier shaft is situated about a mile northeast of B shaft of the Old Dominion and connection by the twelfth level is expected to be made in another month. The tenth and twelfth level drifts have opened extensive ore bodies, carrying high values in both copper and silver, and the twelfth level drift is still in high grade ore. The fourteenth level drift, started several months ago, has progressed about 600 feet. The work of timbering C shaft below the tenth level continues, and only about fifty feet above the twelfth level remains to complete the work.

Arizona Commercial.

The Arizona Commercial Copper company has made excellent progress during the past month toward the

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

No Expectation of Brisk Movement of Ore for Some Time—Amount of Shipments Still in Doubt—May Show Increase of Ten Per Cent Over Last Year.

Although lake navigation is about to open, there is no expectation of a brisk movement of Lake Superior iron ore for some time to come. This is the consensus of opinion of shippers and rail and water transportation men. The ore trade continues disappointing, and not much improvement is expected until the season of navigation is well advanced. Few sales have yet been made by the independent mining operators. Neither have the big consuming interests operating their own mines yet set definite estimates upon their ore needs for the coming year. With millions of tons of ore still in stock at lower lake ports and in furnace yards, and with the iron and steel business still at very low ebb, the situation is none too promising. It is the impression in mining circles that the shipments for the comng season will show an increase of probably 10 per cent over last year's outgo. This would bring the movement of approximately 30,000,000 tons. But there is no assurance that the production will be as heavy as the tonnage stated, and which is, in fact, only half of the aggregate capacity of the mines. In any event it is not the expectation of prominent ore-producing interests that shipments will attain particularly large proportions until along about the first of August.

Preparatory to the receipts of ore at the plant, the Steel corporation is making improvements at its central ore crushing works at Escanaba, Lake Michigan. It is at this plant that hard ore from both the Marquette and Menominee ranges is crushed to furnace size prior to being loaded into boats. The ore bins are being enlarged and rebuilt. A notable acquisition to the ore handling facilities of the Steel corporation on the Mesaba range is the 800 new ore cars to be added to the equipment of the Duluth & Iron Range road, and the first of which are now arriving. These cars are of steel and of a new pattern. Four powerful locomotives of the Baldwin type also are being added to the Duluth & Iron Range rolling stock. A new group of shops is to be provided for the Steel corporation's Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. This group will consist of a foundry and machine works and will be established at Virginia. At this point also there is in progress of construction an extension of the Missabe road to M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Sliver mine. On the Gogebic range, the Chicago & Northwestern company has recently stored hundreds of cars on out-of-the-way sidings. The rolling stock will be available whenever needed, but it is understood the company does not expect to do much ore hauling until the latter part of the summer.

Out of Commission.

On account of the collapse of the upper portion of the shaft house under the weight of the two steel ore skips and the heavy wire cable attached to them, the Steel corporation's Mansfield mine, in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range, has practically been out of commission the past fortnight. Pending repairs, some 100 men are idle. The accident was decidedly fortunate in that no miners were in the skips at the time. Exploratory work, in which much interest is being taken is that in progress for M. A. Hanna & Co., in sections 28 and 34, 46-33, seven miles north of Amasa. Diamond drills are in commission. The ground being tested is virgin territory, the nearest producing mine being Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Hemlock property at Amasa. The geological conditions are excellent, however, and should merchantable ore be found in quantity the western end of the Menominee range will undergo further expansion. Another new field being tested is the territory four or five miles west of the old Dolphic and Mastodon mines, where Ray Kimball of Crystall Falls is exploring in section 20, 42-33. Here also the diamond drill is being used. There is a belief that ore will be found between the diorite wall, which is a prominent geological feature in that vicinity, and the slates lying some distance to the south of it.

Because of a sudden inrush of water on the twelfth level it was recently necessary to temporarily suspend operations in the Hamilton shaft of the Steel corporation's Chapin mine at Iron Mountain, Menominee range. The occasion was not one to cause alarm, however. The limestone formation at the Chapin being favorable to the percolation of water, there is an exceptionally heavy flow of water even under normal conditions, for which reason the pumping plant is the most powerful possessed by any Lake Superior iron property. The shafts of the Chapin are of exceptional depth and the mine must drain an immense territory, under the most favorable conditions, while at times in the course of the mining work there are tapped great underground reservoirs or water courses which tax the capacity of the available equipment to its fullest. Bailers, which are run down the shaft on the skipways, are in readiness for use when the occasion requires and when the pumps are inadequate. It is on the sixteenth level of the Hamilton shaft that the huge Allis-Reidler pump is installed within a steel shell 34 feet wide by 60 feet in length and 22 feet in height. The pump chamber was excavated in solid rock, but as it is in the limestone, the walls cracked in places, and to protect the pump, vital to the opera-

COALITION SHOWS UP WELL

Output Being Gradually Increased---"Dead Work" Growing Less---Rarus Being Connected With the Tramway Shaft---Future Possibilities.

Butte, Mont., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Butte Coalition company (Red Metal), is gradually increasing its output, and the new levels in the Minnie Healey and Rarus mines are opening well, a lot of new ground being developed. The output now averages about 1,400 tons of ore per day. One day last week 1,100 tons were shipped from the Rarus and 600 from the Tramway shaft, the Minnie Healey being mined through the latter. The copper production is around 3,000,000 pounds per month. The extensive and costly "dead work" that the company has been doing for several years is getting gradually less and the mines are getting into condition for a large production at a low cost, the cost at present being at and under 10 cents per pound. The only thing lacking to bring joy to the hearts of stockholders is a better price for copper, and until that comes dividends will probably remain out of sight. The company at present is engaged in runnin ga crosscut from the Rarus 1,700 to the 1,700 station of the Tramway shaft, and that connection will be completed before the Tramway station at that point will be cut. The bottom of the shaft is a little below the 1,700-foot point. The new levels in the Minnie Healey, opened through the Tramway shaft, are the 1,300, 1,400, 1,500 and 1,600. The last named is just getting into the Minnie Healey ore bodies, but the others have been well opened and stoping is being done there. The crosscut from the Rarus shaft is to be sunk deeper and work will be started on that shortly. The new levels of the Tramway are the 1,700 and 2,000. The old levels did not actually indicate the depth and below the 1,700 the numbers will be changed to indicate actual depth. The 2,000 is about 140 feet below the 1,700. Mining is being done on the three veins in the Rarus ground on the 1,700-foot level. Drifting has just started on two veins on the 2,000. The Rarus veins are numbered, being known as Nos. 16, 14 and 20, located north of the shaft, and the drifts are going westward. As soon as the connection is made on the 1,700, a new level at that depth will be opened into the Minnie Healey from the Tramway shaft. By that time, if the copper market justifies it, the company will be in shape to double or triple its output.

New Vein in Colorado.

The Davis-Daly company has cut a second vein on the new level being opened at a depth of 1,400 feet in the Colorado mine. As it is within twenty feet of the first vein cut, it is surmised that it is a branch of that vein. The first was cut about 380 feet west of the shaft and is about sixteen feet wide in the crosscut. The ore is not of a high

THE COPPER QUEEN OF IDAHO

New Fifteen-Stamp Mill in Operation and is Splendid, Up-to-Date Plant---Indications for Greatest Gold Mine in Idaho.

Salmon, Idaho, April 10.—The Idaho Recorder gives an interesting account of the starting of the Copper Queen's new 15-stamp mill. It is an up-to-date reduction plant of about fifty tons capacity. The process is straight amalgamation with the best modern concentration combination. The mill is well below the working tunnel with gravity transportation for all the product of the mine from the chutes to the refining room.

There are nearly a mile of tunnels, drifts and upraises on the working level of this mine, all the work of the present campaign of prospecting and development. As a prospecting proposition this mine is an example for all mine operators. A mile of work in granite without premature effort at production is a demonstration of practical mining that should be held up as an object lesson, specially in this district where mining has been done backwards as a rule. Here we see thousands of feet of vein exposed with an average depth of nearly 400 feet. The Queen is an example of practical mining with satisfactory results that should encourage all operators in this new district. The "Queen is today the biggest gold mine in Idahe." Above this mile of work is a tonnage that will supply this big mill for three years, and the bullion product should approach $1,000 a day. This source of wealth overlooks Salmon from the mountain-side seven miles to the northwest.

The location of this ore occurrence on a great mountain slope affords an opportunity for a great system working tunnel. The opening of these ore bodies at limitless depth is now a consistent business proposition. The prospecting stage is passed. It is an estimate based on safe business principles that this mine holds $100,000,000. It is now only a case of tapping this wealth on successive levels. The vein system has been learned like a primer lesson, and the dips and angles of the ore shoots are fully comprehended. The veins are approaching each other on their dips, and they have come in contact in trend and dip to demonstrate the fact that the juncture of these veins produces very rich and large ore shoots. The contact of the Queen and Nellie veins on their dip is just below the present working tunnel level. Wherecever these veins have approached each other in the upper workings, great ore bodies have occurred, when they become one great fissure, as they must within fifty feet below the present level. That the opening of this enlarged ore body will double the present great value of the mine is more than a probability. It is a demonstrated geological fact, demonstrated by occurrences that are plain to any observer.

This mine has been very carefully

WORK RESUMED IN IRISH MAG

Gas Fumes Checked by Bulkheads and Water in Shaft Pumped Out---Calumet & Arizona Pays $60,000 for Germania Claims.

Bisbee, Ariz., April 10.—Work is proceeding as usual in the Irish Mag mine of the Calumet & Arizona. The gas or smoke with which the mine was threatened has been thoroughly isolated with bulkheads and all passage of the fumes effetcually ended. Six mon were overcome during the work of stopping the leak, which was in drift 24 on the 1,000-foot level, but all of them revived quickly and suffered no serious results. Over a year ago the mine was seriously threatened with a similar experience. The exact nature of the gases which drove the men from the mines was never ascertained, although it was generally ascribed to burning timbers. Whatever the cause, it was the same as that which caused the trouble last week. In the first experience the volume of gas was such that fifty or more men were overcome and the lives of several endangered by the suffocating fumes. Prompt action was taken at the first intimation of the recurrence of the trouble, and so far as the work of the mine was concerned there was practically no delay.

Proof of the worth of the Courtland group could not be stronger than the transaction on April 1 at the Bank of Tombstone, when the Calumet & Arizona paid $30,000, the balance due on the Germania and the Germania No. 1 claims. This was the final payment. The Calumet & Ariozna took an option on these claims April 2, 1908. The payment was in favor of William Cowan and Stevenson Bros. The Calumet & Arizona also paid about $10,000 on claims due on April 4 on the April Fool, the Lynx and other claims that belong to L. D. Shattuck and J. H. Snyder of Courtland. The total amount of the purchase price of the Germania claims was $60,000. This is the first claim actually paid for in full in the Courtland district.

The copper production of the Copper Queen company for the month of March, just ended, was approximately 9,000,000 pounds, considerably in excess of the February output because of the brevity of that month. There was no increase in the smelter capacity during the month and the production will probably be maintained on the present basis.

The figures for Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg production for March probably will not be given out until the middle of this month, according to a statement recently made by Secretary Campbell of these companies, the combined production of both companies will no longer be made public after the end of the month.

NEW STAMP MILL IN TANANA

Era of Milling Quartz Started---Copper Ore Running 75 Per Cent Shipped From Cordova Copper Company's Properties to Tacoma.

Seattle, Wash., April 10.—The second stamp mill to be installed in the new Tanana quartz district is now being sledded over the trail from Valdez. The outfit belongs to E. R. McConnell and will be installed on his claims in the Bonnifield country. The era of milling quartz started in the Tanana valley last week with the installation of the first stamps in that district by Brumbaugh, Hamilton & Kellogg.

Ed S. Orr, who came out from Fairbanks this week, has samples of the gold quartz, which are attracting considerable attention. The ore is liberally spotted with flecks of gold. The new quartz field, according to Mr. Orr, runs in three distinct parallel dikes, about 600 feet apart, across the headwaters of Cleary Creek.

At the eastern end of the dikes the Empire company has property on which a fifty-foot tunnel has been run. The ore runs several hundred dollars to the ton. On the Chatham Creek property two shafts have been sunk about 100 feet in depth, which tap the same vein at points 300 feet apat. Near Bedrock creek Lucien Rhoads has a thirty-foot shaft, running all the way through rich ore. Opposite Rhoads' property on the south dike of the quartz Dave Cascaden and others are also in good ore. They are now prospecting with a drill. Toward the westward on the middle dike Gordon Bettles and others have Millions upon Millions were made on such stocks as Calumet and Arizona, North Butte, Minnie Healy & Butte Ballaklava. We now call your attention to the greatest mine now before the public on which real big sure money will be made, namely the Butte-Alex Scott, located above the Leondra & adjoining the great West Colusa mine on Butte Hill. Full paid, now selling at $16.00, part paid at $11.50, only 100,000 shares issued $100,000.00 in the treasury and a call on $650,000.00. at this rate the mine is only selling for about $1,000,000.00. It is worth $5,000,000.00. Ballaklava is selling for almost $4000,000.00. and no man on this Earth is wise enough to tell which is the biggest mine. The $2.00 paid should sell at $30.00 which would be low enough. Watch developments at this mine!

The sum of $115,314.43 received by the independent school district of Duluth is divided into the following: Local mill, $9,737.04; general fund, $59,457.74; building fund, $19,939.84; interest and sinking fund, $26,179.81.

Ready for Fishermen.

The trout season opens in Minnesota Saturday, April 15, and all over the city enthusiastic followers of Izaac Walton are digging their fishing tackle out of the attic, the basement and the various receptacles, where it has been stored for the winter. Of course every fisherman will need something new, whether it be a pole, rod, line, basket, wading boots, hooks etc., and, anticipating the demand sure to come next week, "Zig," of the sports department of the Kelley Hardware company, has made great preparations to take care of the store's patrons. Never before has the department had so complete and attractive a display of fishing tackle of all descriptions as this season, one worth while looking at, whether a purchase is made or not.

EXTENSION ON ST. CROIX

Northern Pacific Railroad Begins Condemnation Proceedings.

Wants to Extend Across Private Property to Reach a Building.

The introduction of testimony was begun in district court this morning in condemnation proceedings brought by the Northern Pacific Railroad company against property on Minnesota Point, between Sutphin and Buchanan streets, to acquire a right-of-way, 26 feet in width, for an extension of about 400 feet of the line now running through St. Croix alley.

The proceedings are against several property owners, who would not come to terms with the railroad company. Some of the owners of the property in the coveted territory, have agreed to the sale of their land to the railroad company for the right-of-way, but several have held out and it is to acquire the necessary land from them, that the company has brought the proceedings under the right of eminent domain.

The proposed extension is primarily for the purpose of reaching the new DeWitt-Seitz company building, on the southeast corner of Lake avenue and Buchanan street. The company is about ready to occupy the building but there are no railroad facilities and it will be necessary to extend the track to reach them. The movement is a step in the commercial development of the Lake avenue district, which promises to become a popular site for wholesale houses.

The lots involved in the court proceedings are in the rearrangement of blocks 7 and 8, Upper Duluth. They are lots 8, 9, 10 and 11, owned by the Western Land association, and under lease to L. S. & S. Loeb company; lot 16, owned by Lachlan McLean, and lot 17, owned by the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church and the Finnish Temperance society.

The Northern Pacific railroad is represented in court by Oscar Mitchell, of the firm of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell. Andrew Nelson is appearing for the Western Land association, Bert Fesler for L. S. & S. Loeb company, Victor H. Gran for the Finnish church and Temperance society, and John Jenswold for Lachlan McLean.

SUPERIOR NEWS

SEVEN MEN ARRESTED.

Serious Charge Will Be Placed Against East End Residents.

On the complaint of a young woman, who resides in the East end of Superior, seven men, who also reside in the East end, where they are well known, were arrested yesterday afternoon by the police, and are held in jail, pending their arraignment at a late hour this afternoon in the municipal court, when it is understood a very serious charge will be placed against them.

The men are Edward Larsen, William Kline, George Stone, Ernest Armitage, Frank Martin, Andrew Nelson and Chris Kline. They are all between 20 and 26 years of age except Nelson, who gave his age as 42.

According to the complaint, on the night of March 31 the young woman was enticed into a vacant paint shop belonging to one of the seven, in the East end. There she was given intoxicating liquor to drink until she became drunk. She remained until morning in the building, and for the greater part of the night was in an unconscious condition.

Since the arrest of the men, Chief McKinnon has had them for hours closeted, trying to make them confess, and it is believed that this afternoon they will be made to answer a most serious charge.

OLD MAN SENTENCED.

Hopes He Will Outlive His Term in Prison.

"I thank you judge and I hope I will outlive my sentence" remarked Thomas Ryan, 59 years old, when given one year in state prison in the municipal court of Superior yesterday, after he had pleaded guilty to a burglary charge.

Ryan is broken down in health and physically unable to do manual labor. He spent sixty days in the workhouse last fall for petty larceny, and at the expiration of his term, the authorities were forced to give him a berth at the poor farm. Two weeks ago he left the poor farm. It is the believe of the police that he resorted to petty thieving so as to secure funds to eke out his existence.

Yesterday morning he was discovered ransacking a residence on lower Ogden avenue, and was arrested. In court he asked to be allowed to plead guilty immediately. He was very grateful when he was given a minimum sentence.

LOST MONEY IN HIS SHOE.

Police Find Woodsman's Roll and Lock Him Up.

Believing that he had been robbed, Edward Duffy, a woodsman, made complaint at the Superior police station, where he was put through a cross examination and searched. The search resulting in the finding of $125, the sum he said he had lost, in his shoe.

Much elated, Duffy, who was in an advanced stage of intoxication, invited the police to have a drink with him. His elation however turned to chagrin, when his money was placed in the safe, and he was locked up on a charge of drunkenness.

CHRIST.

Whatever may be our faith in, or our theories of, Christ the God and Christ the man, He typifies to the world in His Resurrection the principle of immortality. In the fact that He is risen, we hope also to rise. He triumphed over death; else would we all despair of life.

It is this conception of Christ, He that is life-giving, that makes the civilization which we call the Christian civilization. Had He not risen we should never have had a Christian civilization. And what is the true and underlying spirit of that civilization? It is the spirit of self-sacrifice. Had Christ not had power to lay down His life, He had not had power to take it again, and by so much as we have power to sacrifice self, by so much do we gain power to truly live. "The spirit of self-sacrifice," says Archbishop Patrick J. Ryan, "is essential to the continued existence of civilized society. Each man must pay a little of personal comfort to the general fund of society. Selfishness led to the fall of pagan nations and threatens our own." Christian civilization is founded upon the sacrifice of Christ. Each year we remember that sacrifice and we devote a portion of the year to definite self-sacrifice as a tangible token of that constant self-sacrifice which we must achieve to be Christlike in person or in society, that at the Easter of eternity we may all rise again to eternal life even as He is risen.

"Christianity," said Gladstone, "has marched for 1,500 years at the head of human civilization, and has driven, harnessed to its chariot as the horses of a triumphal car, the chief intellectual and material forces of the world. Its learning has been the learning of the world, its greatness, glory, grandeur and majesty have been almost, though not absolutely, all that in these respects the world has to boast of." And all because He laid down His life and had power to take it up again.

Emerson says: "The truest test of civilization is not the census, not the size of cities, not the crops, but the kind of man a country turns out." The Christian civilization turns out Christklie men, men capable of sacrifice and by that sacrifice capable of rising to true life.

JOY RIDING.

"They call it joy riding in New York," says the Knoxville Sentinel, "when an automobile runs down a pedestrian or a baby."

Now that we stop to think about it, does it not seem strange that we have passed innumerable laws, and provided the most severe penalties, in order to protect the pedestrian and the general traffic at the grade crossings of railroads, but that we allow machines weighing 3,000 pounds to be driven through all our streets at the rate of from twenty to sixty miles per hour? We have gone to extreme length in penalizing trains running on fixed tracks, upon which the pedestrian must deliberately step if he is to get hurt, while at the same time we allow the freedom of our streets to engines that are far more dangerous, because more uncertain and just as swift and deadly.

It is absolutely certain that every state and every community must at once adopt the most stringent measures possible if pedestrians are to be saved from the deadly automobile. Duluth has bern comparatively free from accidents, but who knows when its turn will come? The city is smaller, automobiles that run down pedestrians cannot escape so easily as in a city like Chicago or New York. There is less of speeding in cities of the size of Duluth than in the very large cities of the country, but there are few automobiles that are not run too rapidly upon the streets. In streets where traffic is at all congested, no automobile should run faster than the ordinary slow trot of a team of horses, yet automobiles are seen on Superior street going much more rapidly than that. Upon a crowded thoroughfare, or even upon generally frequented streets, every vehicle should go slowly. A child was run down and killed in Minneapolis this week by an automobile going at the rate of eight miles per hour. The driver of the machine stated that he could not stop in time.

People who drive automobiles grow almost invariably careless of the terrible power that lies in every touch of the hand. The temptation to go faster is one that appears to be almost impossible to resist. The automobile driver who does not constantly take chances is very rare. It were bad enough if it were his own life that he chances, but it is the lives of others. The automobile driver will continue to take chances with the lives of other people until the taking of such chances is rendered impossible or so dangerous to the driver that he dares no longer attempt them. People who are willing to take chances with the lives of other folks are not apt to be deterred by anything short of that which threatens their own lives. Any automobile driver who runs down and kills any person, except when it can be most clearly proved that the fault was that of the victim, should either die or go to prison for life. The man that has no regard for the lives of his fellow men is not a safe or a fit man to live among them. Speeding in any form should be punished with heavy fines and an invariable jail sentence. Speeding means taking chances with the lives of other people must be nominal fine, or any fine without an accompanying jail sentence, is a mockery for a man who commits such an offense.

Hurling an automobile along a highway at the rate of from forty to sixty miles an hour is generally regarded as "joy riding," but in fact any excess of speed whatever is joy riding. When joy riding is indulged in death is always the chauffeur. It is time we saw him driving there.

REVOKE THE GRANT.

Former Secretary of the Interior Garfield granted to the city of San Francisco the Hetch Hetchy valley to be used by the city as a reservoir for its water supply. At the time this grant was made, there were and at this time there are, fourteen other sources from which San Francisco can draw its water supply. The press of the country has been practically unanimous in its condemnation of this grant of one of the nation's public parks. Yet Secretary Garfield refused to revoke his order, and San Francisco is now making desperate efforts to secure the valley by an enactment of congress, fearing that the new secretary of the interior may not be so indifferent to the nation's interests as was Garfield in this matter.

The Hetch Hetchy valley is one of the most beautiful portions of the Yosemite National park and it is feared with good reason that the despoiling of this beautiful valley for commercial purposes is but the beginning of the despoiling of the entire park. It certainly is a beginning, and what has been done once, may be done again, and portion after portion of the park may be lopped off.

It is hoped that the new secretary of the interior will find time to get to this matter very soon and that he will investigate it and that the order of Secretary Garfield may be promptly revoked. To the charge that the use of the park by the city as a reservoir will destroy the valley, the San Francisco papers reply that "No secretary of the interior will ever revoke a permit granted to promote the highest use of cities comprising a million souls when the single change proposed is the substitution of a lake for a meadow." This argument has been used again and again but San Francisco has been compelled to admit, when pushed to it, that the use of the valley as a reservoir will destroy its scenic beauty and close it forever to the general public. If San Francisco ever gets the Hetch Hetchy valley for a water reservoir it will be closed for all time to the people of the United States.

BETTER TO VOTE THAN TO PRAY.

"It is more important to vote than to pray, more important to attend the party caucus than to go to prayer meeting." So says Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Methodist church.

Bishop Berry hits squarely at the cause of all our complaint with regard to politics. We score our congressmen, but thousands of us fail to vote either for or against him. Southern Minnesota charges the legislator who votes against the tonnage tax with being bought by the steel trust and Northern Minnesota assails the selfishness of the senator who voted down reapportionment, yet a full 100,000 of us, north and south, failed to go to the polls, last November. There is never an election comes around, wherein is a contest, that the contestees do not have to beg the voter to exercise his franchise. The newspapers day after day appeal to the voter to remember registration day. The candidate hires carriages and transports the voter to the polls and back to his home or his work. And yet with all this effort, fully one-fourth or more of us do not vote.

Possibly the good bishop does not wish to be understood too literally in his declaration that it is more important to vote than to pray. Faith without works is dead, but works alone wtihout faith would not be worth much, and if all the world went to vote and forgot to pray we should be worse off than we are now. But the bishop's appeal to vote strikes home to those who most need to be reminded of this sin of omission. It is not the bum, the ward heeler, the loafer or any other undesirable citizen who neglects to vote. Not at all. Your undesirable citizen votes early and as often as possible. But the better class of citizenship is too busy to attend to the matter of voing oftener than now and then. One has married a wife and cannot come. Another has bought him a business and must stay to set it in order. Others are "very busy" but graciously consent to go and vote when importuned by the candidate "if I can possibly find the time" on election day. On election day it is certainly more important that this class of citizens should go to the polling place than to the prayer meeting.

The failure of reforms, the slowness by which we bring about those which by common consent we all regard as highly desirable in political life and in the maintenance and operation of the government, is due not to the power of the politician, nor to the superior strength of special interests, nor is it because there are more who wish for evil than for good, but solely because those who want good things accomplished will not go to the polls on election day and vote for what they want. Imagine if you can what would be the result if the people were alive to every issue to the extent that every one of them voted at every election. Ninety per cent of the abuses of politics of which we complain would be wiped out in a single year.

There is food for thought in Bishop Berry's rather startling declaration.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

The passage of the Works bill providing that cities in Minnesota now organized under the charter system may adopt the commission plan of government as first exploited by Galveston, Tex., and later by some few other cities, will probably result in a number of Minnesota cities experimenting with with this form of government.

The commission plan of government has made a good deal of noise in the world. It has been applied very successfully in a few instances, and it has been heralded by many as the ideal plan of municipal government. Whether the government by commission plan in cities will prove a panacea for all our municipal ills is a matter to be determined by a much wider experience, however. The plan has been tried thus far only in cities whose condition as to government was so notoriously bad that something had to be done to get them out of the mire. Whether the success of the commission plan has been due to the inherent value of the plan itself, or to the demand for reform is an open question. We simply do not know about the commission plan yet. It has not been tried enough.

Public interest in the commission plan of city government is such that the plan will undoubtedly be tried in a considerable number of cities in Minnesota. It is expected that a special election will be held at Mankato very shortly to make the commission plan a part of the city charter. A well defined move is on foot to cause an amendment to the charter of St. Paul to be submitted to the voters for the adoption of the commission plan. Numerous smaller cities are quite likely to test the plan also. The charter commission of any city may submit an amendment to the charter providing for the commission plan or it may be compelled to submit such an amendment upon a petition of 5 per cent of the voters of the city. A three-fifths vote is necessary to adopt any amendment to any city charter.

A very important provision of the Works law is the provision for the recall of any elective municipal officer and for his removal by a vote of the electors of the city, for the submitting of ordinances to the city council by a petition of the electors of the city and for a repeal of ordinances in the same way, and for a referendum vote on all ordinances passed by the council in case such vote is petitioned for. These provisions of the Works law should tend to give the commission plan of government, or any plan for that matter, far greater efficacy than at present, for they enable the people of a city to interfere directly if affairs are not going to their liking. An official is not elected, under this plan, for a set period, during which he cannot be reached, but he is subject to recall and ouster from office at any time. In like manner objectional legislation may be stayed, and desirable legisiation may be proposed by the people of the city. These features are so manifestly a gain for the whole people that practically every city in the state now organized under a charter is likely to insist upon their incorporation as a part of the charter government.

The Works law, if all that is claimed for it be true, instead of being termed a plan for government by commission should be called a plan for government by the people, since it must necessarily make any city government more responsive to the popular will.

WHAT THE RAILROADS OFFER.

The railroads of Missouri contend that they were not making a fair per cent on their investment under the 2-cent passenger rate in that state and the federal court, by Judge McPherson, found that their contention is correct. It is probably true that the general public looks with a good deal of doubt upon this decision of the federal court; it is not sure that the court correctly estimated the amount of money that the railroads have invested. How much of the capital which the court used as the principal in figuring the rate of interest which the railroads are making on 2-cent rates was actual money and how much was water? That is the question that every man who seriously thinks about this matter asks himself.

The railroads themselves apparently admit that they do not need to charge 3 cents per mile for passenger traffic in order to make 6 per cent on their investment, for they have decided to offer the following passenger schedule effective in Missouri April 10:

Two thousand-mile interchangeable book on the certificate plan at 2 cents a mile.

Five hundred-mile book, good for bearer on all lines in Missouri, at 2½ cents per mile.

Five hundred-mile book, good for individual use only on issuing line of railroad, at 2¼ cents per mile.

A 3-cent basis in computing other rates with a 10 per cent reduction on round trip tickets.

These rates are very much better than Missouri expected to get and much better than the roads of the country offered prior to the beginning of the agitation for 2-cent fares. They practically mean that all who have occasion to use the railroads in connection with their business interests will pay but slightly more than 2 cents per mile. The infrequent traveler will of course pay 3 cents. The rates, although strikingly liberal as compared with those which prevailed a few years ago, will return the railroad companies much larger earnings than the flat 2-cent rate.

Meantime the investigation of the capitalization of railways will proceed apace. Every action begun by the railroads to set aside the 2-cent rate in different states, if such actions should be begun, will result in greater activity in investigating the capitalization of the railroads, a subject which is of the first importance in the solution of the railroad problem in this country. Until we can secure accurate data as to the actual amount of money invested in railroads, we will not be in a position to say what rates, passenger or freight, are just. It is just here that the government in attempting to deal with the railroads has been at a loss and at fault. The 2-cent passenger rate has been fixed by law in many states, under a general impression that such a state will return 6 per cent or more on the money invested, but the state's opinion is a guess at best, and if we are going to solve the railroad problem we have got to quit guessing.

Resentment for real and fancied wrongs and guessing at facts has been the basis upon which we have for the most part thus far been attempting to solve the railroad problem. If the government is going to attempt to regulate the railways it must employ business methods in its regulation. Else failure is certain.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The big cattle ranches of Texas are doomed. You will find before the lapse of a great many years, that the ranching district of Texas, which even now is fast being transformed, will be usurped by the small farmer."

J. A. Gareau, a Texas oil man, who was at the Spalding yesterday afternoon, en route for the Copper country, had this to say regarding the future of the great ranching district of the Lone Star state. He says that it is only a question of a few years until the big ranch will be an institution that has passed into history. The reason for this passing of the ranch, is that the demand for land is so great, that men see the opportunity to realize fortunes from their holdings.

"Many of the older ranchers of Texas have acquired acreages for a price that was so low that you might say the land was given away. Now this craze for cheap lands has struck the country, rather the craze for Texas has struck the country, and there is a flow of immigration across the continent. The people who are in search of new homes are crowding into Texas, paying a high price for land.

"For instance there is a Mrs. Kling in Texas. She is reputed to be one of the richest women in the United States. It is said that she possesses perhaps a 1,000,000 acres of Texas land. She owns one of the largest ranches in the state. This ranch is being cut up into smaller farms at the present time. There is the old Triple Bar ranch. This at one time was one of the largest cattle ranches in the world. This is also being cut up into smaller tracts. You can readily see what the profit to the men who hold these vast tracts is, when you figure that the are realizing anywhere from $10 to $15 an acre upon every bit of land they sell.

"It is only a question of time before this cutting up of the big ranches will result in the transforming of a cattle state into a purely agricultural region. As the ranch gives away to the farm, and the cattle raiser to the farmer, you will see that the raising of cattle upon a large scale for the markets of the world, will gradually become an institution of the past.

"In viewing the passing of the old days of Texas, the thought has struck me that it is only a matter of years until vast holdings of land in this country will be mighty few. Take it in Kansas. That state is going through practically the same transformation as Texas. There the large wheat farms are being cut up, and where formerly one man would own and manage hundreds or sometimes, thousands of acres in those great wheat farms, these farms are being divided and farmed or operated by two or three men. It is simply the question of the price of the land increasing in value. That is the answer to this passing of the large land holdings. In many parts of the country there are still large tracts in the hands of corporations. These men have possessed the foresight to see that it was only a matter of time until land in every part of the country would increase greatly in value. With this idea in view, corporations have secured great tracts of land. It is this land that is being so extensively advertised, and it is this land that the small land buyer is purchasing."

As spring approaches, baseball looms large in the minds of these tempestuous fans of the ranges. The question is, at both Hibbing and Virginia, "To be, or not to be." It is one that is making strong men apprehensive, even at this early day when the fragrant violet and the tender blade of grass have not pierced the tender clod of sod (how's that?) up there on the range—for Victor Power and some Virginia men at the St. Louis last night, were telling all about it—men who are capable of plucking iron from the bosom of old mother earth, are nervous when the subject of baseball is mentioned. Of course Virginia, or Hibbing, whichever the case may be, will win; but then.

As enthusiasm for the national game appears to grow in every part of the country, for baseball appears to be an institution that dullness of times and depression of stocks do not affect, the fever increases upon the range. Men from the ranges, come to Duluth to do a hard day's work, and sit of an evening in the lobby of our comfortable hotels, puffing peacefully of the fragrant pipe or the delightful Havana, contemplating nothing in particular, resting and enjoying life; when suddenly some man from the rival town puts in an appearance. He is hailed joyfully and they sit in friendly commune.

Then baseball is brought up and goodbye peace for the evening. It is really getting strenuous, and it will be a very good thing when the season opens. This winning pennants in morris chairs is more difficult and often fraught with more noise than the battle on the diamond.

It sure does look like a big season on the range.

THE WEATHER.

Cloudy with rain or snow tonight and Sunday, is the cheerful prospect that the weather man holds out for Easter Sunday. It is too bad that today's weather could not be swapped for tomorrow's if the prediction is to come true. A year ago today it was clear and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 5:29 and will set at 6:49, making thirteen hours and twenty minutes of sunlight. Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A storm of moderate intensity is central over Eastern Montana. It is attended by rain or snow in the extreme Northwest and preceded by rising temperature over the Rocky mountains, Eastern slopes and Northwestern districts. The eastward movement of this disturbance will cause strong easterly winds and light rain or snow at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours. An area of high barometer is central over the western lake region, Upper Mississippi and Lower Ohio valleys and has caused colder weather in the eastern lake region and North Atlantic states. Freezing temperatures prevail southward to the fortieth parallel and westward to the one hundredth meridian."

What is Love?

Washington Herald: Naturally, the inquisitive headline adorning this dissertation calls to mind the wise and otherwise Ohio State Journal. That remarkably erudite engine of uplift knows all about love, as, of course, it likewise knows all about everything else. As an infallible bureau of information and dispenser thereof, it has but one peer in all this land of the free and home of the brave—the Charlotte Observer. But let that pass. Here is what the Ohio State Journal says of love:

"Love is a matter of logic. It is a major and minor premise and a conclusion. It is a general proposition, a special application, and an ergo."

Oh it is, is it? And what in the name of common sense is that, anyway? "Love is a matter of logic," indeed! Go to; also tush, tush! As well say playing the races or speculating in cotton futures is a matter of logic. Love is logical in that you never can tell what is going to happen within the sphere of its activity, but in nothing more. Where is the youth worth while who would take to the woods and dwell with solitude the while he endeavors to diagram the thing he feels fluttering within him and thinks may be love As for the girls—

"They could think, and think, and think,
'Till their brains were numb;
We don't care what teachers say—
They could not do that sum!"

Which is pretty poor poetry, to be sure, but it is the way the song runs, and it fits our necessities in this emergency.

Peruse this further specimen of Ohio State Journal mind-wandering, kindly: "Falling in love' is not precisely the thing to do. Falling gives one an idea of stumbling, which is never to be regarded as a graceful or sensible thing. Instead of falling into love a person should approach it gradually. Just at the very point when he is beginning to lose his balance, he should stop and consider. He should ask himself, who is she, what is she; is this charm real, is it all superficial, will she stand a misfortune, is she a real gem or only paste—and such questions he should roll around in his mind as he approaches the citadel of the damsel's heart to see if it is worth taking."

We do not want to be rude or make unpleasant suggestions, but if that is the way they fall in love out Ohio way, we wonder what golden promise the approaching springtime holds for youth out there, anyhow. It may be theoretically right to "stop and consider" when you begin to suspect you have been fatally smitten with some particular female's charms, but it would be decidedly awkward to have some other less methodical and mathematical fellow step in and and get the girl while you are trying to figure it all out. Who wants to take a chance on that? Nobody in this neighborhood. And the sweetest girls would not bother with a slow-poke of that persuasion. The chances are he would get a lemon for all his pains, in the end.

What is love? We do not know, and we are not worrying. It is as old as the hills, and as young as laughter and song.

"And whence comes love?
Like morning's light, love comes without thy call.
And how dies love?
A spirit bright, love never dies at all!"

As some Scotch poet puts it:

"Love, love, love. Love is like a wilderness;
It wi' not let a poor body gang about his business."

Is that a matter of logic—or a logical thing? Not at all. It is just love.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Many promises are made, occasionally one is kept.

A lot of women seem to think it is better to be tight-laced than straight-laced.

People seem to be able to make good at being bad easier than at anything else.

A girl can pretend to like to go walking with a man so as to pretend her shoes don't hurt her.

The reason a woman is so much smarter in dealing with a man than he is in dealing with her is that he takes it for granted he is.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

How Big Is Your Easter Hope?

It is easy enough in the midst of general rejoicing on Easter Sunday to share with multitudes the world around the hope that gives to this great festival its chief significance. We are all affected by atmospheric conditions, and when in almost every house of worship songs of Christian triumph are being sung, and flowers in profusion, processions of little children, and the words of the preacher all unite to make the day distinct from all the others of the year, he would be a very big skeptic who could remain unaffected by these joyous demonstrations and say to himself or to others, "Oh, it's all a pretty fable. They know no more about it than you or I. They are simply guessing and hoping, and they have no solid ground beneath their feet in reason or argument."

Such an attitude on Easter day betrays a nature out of tune with one's fellow men, and yet we must never forget that the special observances of Easter pass with the day itself, and that unless one's hope is grounded on something else than what may be public sentiment at the moment, it cannot endure the tests that are sure to come during the 364 days before once more the church and the world will celebrate Easter.

This universal Easter rejoicing is made up of the contributions to it of a multitude of individuals. It will not last when individual hope and faith decay, and it is important that now and then one should ask himself what would happen if he were the only one in the world who believed in Easter and what it stands for. Would that single conviction suffice to perpetuate the belief in immortality? Is your personal faith in a life beyond the grave big and vital enough not only to inspire you but to become an influence over others, so that little by little it will generate the same faith?

The bigness of the Easter hope possessed by any individual will depend upon the sources from which it is drawn. We go to philosophy, for instance, and get a measure of assurance therefrom. The wise men tell us that life may persist beyond the grave because it is irrational to think that the energy and force bound up in a human spirit can ever be dissipated. Or, we go to the people interested in psychical research. They say that recent investigations have pared away the barrier between matter and spirit so that we can almost discern what is going on beyond the other side of the vale. We can almost hear the far off sounds that come from another world, as imprisoned miners are thrilled by the distant sound of the pickax and shovel in the hands of their rescuers. Again we go to the poets and they say almost with one voice though in different language,

"Life is ever lord of death,
And love can never lose its own."

But there is another kind of conviction concerning immortality that comes out of personal experience, out of the living of the highest kind of life that one is capable of living day by day. That in itself inevitably gives rise to a conviction of immortality, faint, perhaps at first, but ever growing strong in proportion as one devotes himself to the life of love and faith and service; to the life that is ever putting away that which is false and selfish and sensual, and taking on those finer qualities of meekness, humility, gentleness, courage and self-sacrifice. The early Christians felt that their life was bound up with that of their Lord, because they had come not only to believe in his personal triumph over death but to share to some extent at least those ideals of life and that program of life which were his. They felt that such a life as that must go on in some other sphere. So out of personal experience those Christian disciples and others like them through the centuries have come to know that death is but the gateway into a larger, richer existence.

The size of a man's Easter hope must tally with the demands and drains upon it week in and week out. He must have a hope big enough to enable him cheerfully to stick to some monotonous task from morning until night, big enough to enable him to lay away in the ground the forms of loved ones without indulging in bitter tears and wild and unavailing repining; big enough to face the sure end of his own life that will come sooner or later, and sooner than perhaps he thinks.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Philadelphia Record: Nell—When they were married he promised not to interfere with her religion.

Belle—Yes, and now he refuses to buy her a new hat for Easter.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "That young fellow ain't long for this world," opined Pizen Pete.

"He looks healthy enough."

"He is. But he wants to play the bad man, and nature never intended him for that part."

Washington Star: "I suppose your constituents ask you a great many questions?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum; "I make the first question serve as the text for a four-hour speech, and then they are afraid to ask any more."

Chicago Daily News: "Your Honor," said the convicted beggar, "can't you change my sentence of imprisonment to a fine?"

"Suppose I did," said the judge, "where would you get the money to pay it?"

"Oh," replied the convicted beggar, "I could beg a little every day till I had enough."

Judge: Officer—Hi, you! That car's smoking. It can't go in the park.

Driver—Can't go in the park? My dear sir, this car can go in the most unexpected places, also turn flip-flops, climb trees, do a really good buck and wing, and it not only smokes, but sometimes I suspect it of drinking. Possibly you mean the car may not go in the park. There's nothing in God's world it can't do!

Chicago Daily News: Barber (rather slow)—Beg pardon, sir, but your hair is turning a bit gray.

Victim—Shouldn't wonder. Look at the time I've been here.

Cleveland Leader: "We have queer ideas of values," says the philosopher of folly. "I know a man who will sell his vote for $1.50. But he has a yaller dog that no money could buy."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Mamma, may I play with Johnnie Cross?"

"No, George. He's a bad boy. Let him play with the other bad boys."

"Well, that's all right, mamma. His mother says I'm the worst boy on the street."

HEREDITARY GENIUS

BY SAVOYARD

I RECEIVED a letter some days ago from my friend, Col. John B. Brownlow, of Knoxville, Tenn., in which he mentioned that he had just read in a history of Southwestern Virginia the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Russell, a sister of Patrick Henry, and whose first husband was that splendid soldier, William Campbell, hero of King's mountain. Mrs. Russell had but one child, a daughter by her first husband, who became the wife of Gen. Francis Preston, the famous orator of South Carolina and follower of John C. Calhoun.

The other children were girls—one the wife of the distinguished Governor Joseph McDowell, of Virginia, another married Governor John B. Floyd of Virginia, yet another was the wife of Wade Hampton, and the youngest was the wife of the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Breckinridge of Kentucky and mother of the late William C. P. Breckinridge. Thomas H. Benton married a daughter of Governor McDowell, who, as well as Governor Floyd, was a Preston on the distaff side.

I doubt if any other line of our country, except the Randolphs, can equal that showing. There were four generations of distinguished Breckinridges. There were four generations of distinguished Adamses, and it is a curious fact that the mother of John Q. Adams and the mother of R. Barnwell Rhett of South Carolina were sisters. It has been stated that there were six generations of extraordinary men, mostly clergymen, of the Edwards family beginning with Jonathan Edwards, the grandfather of Aaron Burr. The Marshal family also is famous for hereditary genius. It is asserted in a book that I read some time ago that Thomas Jefferson, John Randolph of Roanoke, John Marshall and Robert E. Lee all found a common ancestor in a Randolph of the last half of the seventeenth century.

The patrician house of the Marcii, of the Rome that was grand, could scarce equal that showing in a like period of time. Marcus Brutus, who killed Caesar, was a lineal descendant of the Junius Brutus who banished Tarquin. He was nephew, also, of Cato the younger, and scandal said he had even more illustrious parentage, the most illustrious, perhaps, that profane history can show. To come down to a later period, Edward III, perhaps the greatest of the Plantagenets, was the father of the Black Prince and the grandfather of Shakespeare's Prince Hal, who, as Henry V, overcame France and conquered the French crown. Claverhouse was the kinsman of Montrose, and Berwick was the nephew of Marlborough. Vendome was the son of Henry of Navarre. Don John was the son of Charles V, who was the grandsire of Alexander Farnese. Caligny was but the most famous of a family of heroes. The two William Pitts well illustrated the transmission of genius from father to son. Henry Fox, his son, Charles James, and his grandson, Lord Holland, were all famous men, the last two lineal descendants of Charles II. All of these citations, and thousands more that could be made, only tend to prove that Tom Marshall was right in that audacious and risque interpolation with which he began his brilliant lecture on Napoleon Bonaparte before a select and aristocratic audience in Philadelphia some time ago.

But to get back to Mrs. Russell. She was a remarkable women, and it is a well established tradition that in fireside converse she rivaled the eloquence of her demi-god of a brother in the forum. Like all the distinguished Virginians of her day, she was hostile to the institution of African slavery, though herself a slave-holder, but in her will she manumitted all she owned, an example that would have been followed many years later, by Henry A. Wise, if that splendid meteor of American politics—famous at once for the passion of his eloquence and the sage of his counsel—had not looked round and found the slave of Virginia infinitely more contented and immeasurably better provided for than the free negroes of that commonwealth.

Col. Brownlow tells me that one of the grand-daughters of Mrs. Russell was the wife of John B. Floyd, secretary of war in President Buchanan's cabinet, and that reminds me that some years ago I was in a rather heated controversy in the columns of a leading newspaper, open to "letters from the people," with a rather dogmatic adversary, who called Floyd all sorts of a traitor for sending arms to the South, while he was secretary of war, and accounting for the earlier Confederate victories on that assertion.

I searched all day in the war office and found that not a gun was sent to a Southern arsenal after February, 1860, and that there was not a single day of Buchanan's administration that a single Southern arsenal had its allotted quota of arms, while every day of that administration the arsenals of the North had more than their quota. That was natural because the guns were made at the North. Now Floyd could have sent every weapon South, and had John C. Fremont been president, 1857-61, and Ben Wade his secretary of war, and peace yet unbroken, just as many guns would have gone South as Floyd sent. After I printed that, the proceeding had no more interest for my adversary.

Robert J. Breckenhridge was the greatest man of the name, though his nephew, John C., the vice president, had more admirers than any other man Kentucky ever produced, except Henry Clay. It is a tradition that Robert J. Breckinridge's brother, the father of John C., gave promise of a genius and career that would have eclipsed those of any other member of the family; but he died young.

For many years Dr. Breckinridge was the most eminent clergyman of the Presbyterian church, but like the clergy of Scotland and of England—indeed of all Europe, indeed of New England—Dr. Breckinridge asserted his right to take a hand in the affairs of Caesar. The son of John Breckinridge, the friend and counsellor of Jefferson, he was educated for the bar, but abandoned it for the church. In 1849 he was defeated for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, because of his hostility to slavery, and when the new instrument was submitted he went on the stump in advocacy of the "open clause," which was defeated, because the Garrisons, the Phillipses, the Giddingses, the Beechers and others of the North persisted in meddling. If they had never advocated the thing, Kentucky would have been a free state by 1859, and so would Virginia.

When the war came, Dr. Breckinridge was an ardent Union man, and presided over the convention that nominated Lincoln at Baltimore, in 1864, for re-election to the presidency, but he had two sons in the Confederate army and one in the Federal. But there was nothing singular in that—divided families were the rule in intelligent Kentucky in 1861.

Except Matt Carpenter, I would hesitate a long time before I would name the equal of W. C. P. Breckenridge as an orator among the men it has been my fortune to hear, and the styles of Breckinridge and Carpenter were so different that there is no comparing them. Take Breckenridge at his best, and it was easy to believe that the blood of Patrick Henry was in his veins. For sustained effort Bourke Cockran at his best was possibly superior to Breckenridge; but I have known the Kentuckian to attain flights the Irishman never reached, and in a congress that contained Breckenridge, Cockran, Bryan and William L. Wilson, a vote of the audiences, on floor or in galleries, would have given the plurality to Breckenridge.

But Breckinridge was more than an orator. He was the most versatile public man of his time, and nobody can decide whether he was greater in the forum, or at the bar, or on the lecture platform, or in the editorial chair. Had his genius been concentrated on a single one of these, what a mighty man were he!

But after all he never undertook the task for which he was better fitted than any other man—historian of the state of Kentucky. I don't mean a mere narrator of facts. You can find a $20-a-week fellow to do that; what I mean is a philosophical historian; one who not only knew what happened, but why it happened—what made it happen.

During the campaign of '96 Col. Breckinridge printed at least two papers on the "Old Court and New Court," questions that stirred Kentucky to the depths about three score years earlier. They are political classics, are replete with argument as they are limpid in statement, accurate in fact and beautiful in style.

If he had found the time and the patience—he had the industry, all right—if he had but written the story of Kentucky as only he could have written it, generations yet to be would hail him benefactor, and rear to his memory a monument cloud-capped.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Chicago Tribune, "modest laxatives, hot foot baths, a free perspiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting it must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is almost sure to be contracted and in many instances pneumonia follows. Is it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cures of colds and can always be depended upon? For sale by all druggists.

These reminiscences recently appeared in the World's Work and are now given in book form for the first time. In the course of the book Mr. Rockefeller glances back over his early life and pays a tribute to friends who aided him in launching forth on his business career. He also dwells at some length on what he pleases to term "the difficult art of getting," and follows this up with a review of his experiences in charitable work and refers to this as "the difficult art of giving." The Standard Oil company, its organization and purposes, are described at great length. In his closing chapter Mr. Rockefeller tells how to nurse and treat the commercially ill. He also describes the benefits resulting from working with a competitor, and writes from his own experiences in following the laws of trade.

Prefacing the book, Mr. Rockefeller has this to say: "It has not been my custom to press my affairs forward into public gaze; but I have come to see if my family and friends want some records of things which might shed light on matters that have been somewhat discussed it is right that I should yield to their advice and, in this informal way, go over again some of the events which have made life interesting to me.

"There is still another reason for speaking now. If a tenth of the things that have been said are true, then these dozens of able and faithful men who have been associated with me, many of whom have passed away, must have been guilty of grave faults. For myself, I had decided to say nothing, hoping that after my death the truth would gradually come to the surface and posterity would do strict justice; but while I live and can testify to certain things, it seems fair that I should refer to some points which I hope will help to set forth several much-discussed happenings in a new light. I am convinced that they have not been fully understood.

"When these Reminiscences were begun there was, of course, no thought that they would ever go so far as to appear between the covers of a book. They were not prepared with the idea of even an informal autobiography. There was little idea of order of sequence and no thought whatever of completeness.

"I confess that I have no sympathy with the idea so often advanced that the basis of all judgments in this country is founded on money. If this were true, we would be a nation of money-hoarders instead of spenders. Nor do I admit that we are so small-minded a people as to be jealous of the success of others. It is the other way about. We are most extraordinarily anxious, and the success of any one man in any walk of life spurs the others on."

THE ROYAL END. By Henry Harland. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., $1.50.

This delightful story, the author's last, has the characteristic charm of his other novels, "My Friend Prospero," and "The Cardinal's Snuff Box." It is light, it meanders, it is dilatory if you like, but it has the delicate touch and the suggestive style which appeal to those who do more than gallop through a novel. It is very pleasant to loiter with the author in Venice and near Florence, while he sketches the wooing of Ruth Adgate, an American heiress, by the Prince Bertram Bertrandoni. It begins in a gondola, on a moonlight night in Venice, and proceeds in a leisurely, high-bred manner among the beautiful surroundings of the Val d' Arno. There is no obstacle to its happy ending, except Ruth Adgate's best friend, Henry Pontycroft, and he is at the same time the prince's staunch friend and supporter. The scene changes from the environs of Florence to a colonial mansion in New England, and there the story moves serenely to an unexpected but a royal end.

An interesting feature of "The Royal End," stated by the publishers, is the fact that Mrs. Harland collaborated with her husband in its production, and after his death brought it to completion. Henry Harland knew how to write fine and lovable romances, and his many admirers will regret that his pen has been stilled by death.

BETWEEN TWO REBELLIONS. By Asenath Carver Coolidge. Watertown, N. Y.: The Hungerford-Holbrook Co. $1.

Everything that is done to expose the evils of war helps along the cause of peace. It does not matter whether these evils are dealt with in lectures or stories. If indeed lectures sometimes take the form of stories, so much the better. The Baroness Von Suttner has shown that a thrilling narrative and a touch of romance make peace all the more interesting to the average reader. Miss Coolidge is one of those writers who teach peace principles through the novel. Her latest book, "Between Two Rebellions, the Civil War and the Riel Rebellion," is one of the best examples of her work as a teacher.

MUCH ADO ABOUT PETER. By Jean Webster. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

Here is a very delightful book by the author of "When Patty Went to College," which charmed a great many readers a short time ago. It deals with some very real and very interesting people, including not only Peter, an Irish groom, but Annie, a pretty parlor maid, some very humanly mischievous small boys and some hardly less entertaining people "above stairs." There are a couple of romances, one above stairs and the other below stairs, and altogether the ten short stories which dovetail nicely into one long one make a book full of charming comedy and appealing romance, all related with insight, skill and charm.

THE BRONZE BELL. By Louis Joseph Vance. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co. $1.50.

If many young Americans fell into such a chaos of hair-raising adventures as did the hero in "The Bronze Bell," they would grow old before their time. Any young man can go down to Long Island for duck shooting; and he can stand having his friends fail to meet him at the station; and perhaps he can endure meeting the most beautiful girl in the world, or in fiction either, under very unusual circumstances. But when a nondescript individual presses a curious emerald ring into one's hand, and the day following, the peaceful shooting of ducks is turned into shooting of a very different kind, one requires strong and steady nerves. The hero of "The Bronze Bell" possesses them. He takes his adventures as they come as part of the day's work; he follows a mystery half round the world; he defies a mysterious, multitudinous, ominous "they;" he gets into international complications, and at last—wins the girl.

CIVICS AND HEALTH. By William H. Allen. Boston: Ginn Co. $1.25.

This handbook on getting things done shows how to detect and remove the elements in school, home and street environment that manufacture physical and moral defects. It gives the why and how for the physical examination of school children, of applicants for work certificates and of adults.

It is a call to efficient citizenship through social co-operation in securing an environment of things and of men that will permit, promote, and compel obedience to health laws. Individual health is treated as not only a personal asset, but a civic right that imposes civic obligations. Abstinence from unhygienic conditions is as imperative as abstinence from alcohol and tobacco. When others live unhygienically they invade our rights and reduce our safety, comfort, and capacity for work. Unhealthy living is antisocial, unpatriotic, immoral. Although addressed particularly to teachers, "Civics and Health" presents a constructive social program for public official, social worker, and parent. Health needs furnish the line of easiest access to intelligent consideration of industrial and social problems. Therefore to know how to study the health needs of one's community and to use schools, hospitals, government, volunteer bodies, and the press in meeting those needs, is indispensable for teacher and civic leader. Each subject is carefully illustrated. Throughout, health is related to patriotism and civic obligation, to individual opportunity and community needs. The author writes from personal experience with a force, directness and simplicity new in books of this character.

THE CHORDS OF VANITY. By James Branch Cabell. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

This is a book which might aptly be given the sub-title of "the heart affairs of a fanciful genius," for Robert Ethredge Townsend was a genius, at least in his appreciation for the other sex. His adventures make one of the most individual and unusual novels of the year.

FROM CELLAR TO GARRET. Edited by Minnie Iklehelmer. Newark, N. J.: Carbona Products Co. 10 cents.

This is a text-book on household science. It contains a world of useful information for the housewife, written by women who teach those very subjects to future housekeepers, in the schools.

Among the Magazines.

The special features of the April number of the Review of Reviews are an up-to-date survey of Europe's tariff laws and policies, by Frederic Austin Ogg; a clearly written account of the latest developments in the building of the Panama canal, by Forbes Lindsay (illustrated with map and recent photographs); an informing article on "The Truth About Dry Farming," by Charles M. Harger; a description of the phosphate deposits of the United States apropos of the national government's recent steps to reserve the phosphate lands in the West, by Guy Elliott Mitchell; an authoritative exposition of the disastrous effects of soil erosion in the Southern states, by W. W. Ashe; an account, with pictures, of the meteorological work conducted by means of kites and balloons, by Paul P. Foster; a brief summary of the noteworthy points in the famous Azeff case in Russia, by Herman Rosenthal.

Charities and The Commons became The Survey on April 3 and the first issue under the new name is inaugurated with a notable series of articles both technical and popular. Robert W. de Forest, president of the New York Charity Organization society, gives the first authoritative statement of what the Russell Sage Foundation has accomplished within the two years of its existence. Jane Addams of Hull house, Chicago, tells how our social institutions—churches, schools and the like,—may better adapt themselves on to American conditions. Gino W. Speranza, a New York lawyer and former counsel to the Italian consul general, writes on the Petrosino assassination from the Italian point of view. Gary, the new steel city in Indiana, is described in an illustrated article by Graham Romeyn Taylor, and Katharine B. Davis, who happened to be near Syracuse at the time of the earthquake, tells about the American relief work she inaugurated in that city. Miss Davis' article is fully illustrated.

The April Delineator marks another step in the progress of the foremost of women's magazines. In enlarged form, sumptuously illustrated, it offers a fascinating table of contents. Commander Robert E. Peary, United States navy, describes "The Most Dramatic Event of My Life," and William Estabrook Chancellor considers the question, "Where Shall We Live?" One of the most interesting articles of the month is by the famous producer of operas, Oscar Hammerstein, who discusses "The Future of the American Prima Donna" and predicts supremacy for her. Marie Van Vorst contributes an intimate study of Carmen Sylva in an article entitled "At Home With the Queen of Roumania." Lee K. Frankel tells "What Life Insurance Really Means." "The Children's Conference" at Washington and President Roosevelt's address reveal what the movement for the benefit of dependent children is accomplishing.

Spring has officially arrived, and all the earth is a-throb with new life and renewed vigor. Even in reading matter the demand is now for something stirring, lively, with plenty of action in it. These requirements are admirably fulfilled by the April Lippincott's. Its most important feature is perhaps the complete novel, "The Clue," by Carolyn Wells. This is a detective story, and no better one has appeared in a long time. The plot is based on the murder of a young heiress on the eve of her wedding day, and the subsequent efforts to apprehend the guilty party. Various persons are suspected in turn, but not until the services of the detective, Fleming Stone, by the way, figured prominently in a previous detective story by this author—"A Chain of Evidence," also published in Lippincott's Magazine. It is not too much to say that Miss Wells has never written anything better than "The Clue."

The April number of Scribner's Magazine is made notable by the first installment of "Gen. Sheridan's Letters Home." It is more than thirty years since his memoirs were published; no important addition to Sherman literature was made until five years ago, when the lifelong correspondence between the general and his brother, the senator, was published. The last important light to be shed on his career is in this present intimate correspondence between Gen. Sherman and his wife, Ellen Ewing, who was his boyhood's friend. M. A. De Wolfe Howe has selected and arranged the most important of these for the magazine in such a way that the significant and most human characteristics of the general appear. The letters begin in 1859 when Sherman went South to take the head of a military academy in Louisiana. He was right in the heart of secession and his comments on those critical days are very illuminating. When the war begins we see the growth of great respect and personal attachment that Sherman had for Grant. This number closes with the end of the campaign at Vicksburg.

Spanish art has been brought prominently to the notice of Americans by the works of two living Spanish painters, Sorolla and Zuloaga, now on view in this country through the enlightened enterprise of Archer M. Huntington, president of the Hispanic Society of America. These two foremost painters of Spain have sent across the sea a remarkable collection of their best recent work as described in the leading articles in the March and April issues of the International Studio. The paintings, which are being shown in New York, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, etc., are reproduced in these issues of the magazine, including a full page plate in original colors of Zuloaga's canvas, "Mlle. Breval in Carmen." The text gives an authentic account of the painters, who are still young, and whose struggle for recognition makes a most romantic story.

"Imagination in Business," by Lorin F. Deland, which leads the table of contents of the April Atlantic, is a brilliant discussion of the possibilities of trade through the exercise of that single quality which makes a man capable of succeeding in any business. The April installment of Gideon Welles' Diary gives novel and intimate details concerning the emancipation proclamation and the cabal against Seward, which almost disrupted Lincoln's cabinet. In J. O. Fagan's railroad series, the switchman-author takes up the fundamental problem of unionism and efficiency. John Burroughs contributes an imaginative paper on what he calls "The Long Road" of evolution, and Charles M. Harvey a picturesque account of "Fur Traders as Empire Builders."

In the World Today for April, the leading articles are: "What Our Navy Costs Us," by Lucia Ames Mead, a forceful argument; "The Rediscovery of Jericho," by Robert Crozier Long, an intensely interesting confirmation of the old Bible story of the wonderful destruction of one of the most famous walled cities of ancient times; "Porto Rico as a Fruit Garden," by Herbert M. Lome, an attractive proposition for investors. Other articles are: "The American Chariot Races," by Charles Frederick Holder; "Hunting Wolves By Automobile," by Charles Moreau Harger; "A Rag-Fair Day in Rome," by Gardner Teall; "The Fair That Will Be Ready," by Louis P. Zimmerman, referring to that in Seattle, May to October, 1909; "Insuring the Masses," by William J. Graham, deals with industrial life insurance.

The Strand Magazine—always interesting and original—is brimful of good things for April and contains many famous names among its fiction contributors. Excellent short stories are provided by E. Phillips Oppenheim, Morley Roberts, A. C. Herbertson, the ever amusing W. W. Jacobs, and other writers. A further long installment of Hall Caine's "White Christ" brings the reader to a point where "To be Continued" is particularly unwelcome. The story is the strongest Hall Caine has yet written and it is not difficult to understand why the author regards it as the work of his life. The leading article is a very live account of big game hunting in Africa written by F. C. Selous, the veteran hunter who selected the equipment for Col. Roosevelt's present expedition.

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for April is given to a discussion of recent schemes for the reorganization of the engineering branch of the United States navy by a writer thoroughly familiar with the conditions he describes. Instead of reorganization, he says, the plans announced and now under way will effect absolute disorganization. His article is a severe criticism of the activities of the Roosevelt administration, whose various schemes he characterizes as absurd, ill-digested and absolutely unworkable. A very important illustrated feature is the second installment of Charles Buxton Going's description of the methods of the Santa Fe, dealing with the stores keeping, shop-order and work-order systems.

The Popular Science Monthly for April is a memorial number in honor of Charles Darwin, the centenary of whose birth occurred on Feb. 12. It contains articles on Darwin's life, work and influence by Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History; Charles F. Cox, president of the New York Academy of Sciences; Prof. J. J. Stevenson, New York University; Dr. N. L. Britton, director of the New York Botanical Garden; Dr. H. C. Bumpus, director of the American Museum of Natural History; Prof. T. H. Morgan, Columbia university; Prof. William M. Wheeler, Harvard university; Prof. R. M. Wenley, University of Michigan, and by Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace and Sir Joseph Hooker. The number is illustrated by nine full-page pictures of Darwin, and by a number of pictures of those intimately connected with his work.

The Woman's Home Companion for April is full of Easter suggestions, spring fashions, Easter entertainments and Easter dishes. Grace Margaret Gould describes and illustrates the new styles in gowns, shirt waists, hats and in dress accessories. Fannie Merritt Farmer, the greatest cook in America, gives the receipts for many delightful spring dishes. It is a big magazine, cram full of interesting articles, stories, illustrations and valuable information. Maxine Elliott tells how she built her theater in New York. Dr. Woods Hutchinson gives expert advice on what to eat in the spring. There is an interesting article on the Emmanuel movement, entitled, "How Psychotherapy Works." Prof. Frank A. Waugh explains "The Foundation of Good Gardening." We are told how to make window porch boxes for plants. A milk expert tells how to make sure that milk is clean.

In the way of fiction, Putnam's Magazine for April is notable as containing the opening installments of a new serial of Tennessee mountain life by Alice MacGowan, author of "Judith of the Cumberlands." The short stories of the number are "A Good for Nothing Theory," by Jane Dalziel Wood; "In Sound of the Sea," a tale of the King Arthur region in Cornwall, by E. Seeleye, and "A Chapter From Life," by J. W. McSpadden, showing the disadvantage of being a great poet if you have to be a cabinet-maker also.

The World Mirror, for April, gives through Robert Sloss, a comprehensive exposition by Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch of the status of the woman suffrage movement today. Thomas Hanly discusses the "Problem of the Little Brown Man." "The Southern Gary" is interestingly told about by Day Allen Willey, while Lincoln Marshall tells of the 'Queen City of the West, Los Angeles." "Vital Economics for the Poor," "The National Library," "Fighting From the Depths," Canada's Hudson Bay Route," and a timely article on "Baseball Around the World," go to form a magazine teeming with entertaining and instructive reading.

How many persons are aware that it was Edwin Booth, the brother of the assassin of Lincoln, who saved the life of Lincoln's eldest son? The details of this extraordinary occurrence are given authoritatively in the April Century. The number contains four Lincoln articles of unique interest. Mrs. M. Helen Palmes Moss tells the story of how, within an hour, on the day of the shooting, she shook hands with both John Wilkes Booth and the president; and Leonard Grover, manager of Grover's theater, Washington, during Lincoln's presidency, has written entertainingly of "Lincoln's Interest in the Theater." There is first publication, also, of two remarkable letters—Edwin Booth's on the president's assassination, written immediately after the event, and that of Miss Julia A. Shepard, now living in Ogdensburg, N. Y., written to her father two days after the tragedy. It is an earthquake number, too—for Robert Hichens, author of "The Garden of Allah," has written a vivid, picturesque account of many hitherto unrelated incidents of the Messina tragedy; and another narrative is contributed by Frank A. Perret, the noted volcanologist, who has predicted seismic disaster in that region for two years, and who hurried back to Italy anticipating disturbance.

A modern Paul Revere has been called for; some one to "spread the alarm through every town, village and farm," in these, our broad, fertile and wealthy United States of America. The Metropolitan Magazine, always eagerly striving to keep in touch with the march of civilization, quickly heard this call, and, as speedily as possible, answered it. Consequently, in the April and succeeding numbers, the series of enlightening articles on the cause, prevention and cure of tuberculosis, makes the Metropolitan more than ever before a necessary magazine in all American households.

A striking feature of the April number of McClure's Magazine is the third of George F. Parker's papers on Grover Cleveland, which contains the ex-president's opinions of some of his great contemporaries—J. Pierpont Morgan, Theodore Roosevelt, James J. Hill, Senator Foraker and others. Burton J. Hendrick contributes an interesting article on the discovery of a serum at the Rockefeller institute, which has reduced the mortality of spinal meningitis from 75 to 25 per cent; Mrs. Harris R. Childs writes of the picturesque ivory trade; Rudolph Cronau tells about the wanton waste of our natural resources, and Guglielmo Ferrero, the great Italian historian, who came to this country at the invitation of President Roosevelt, contributes a remarkable paper on Nero and the Christian persecution.

True stories of plots, abductions, dynamiting and attempted murder undertaken against the San Francisco graft prosecution, form the subject of a thrilling article by Will Irwin in the American Magazine for April. Jesse Lynch Williams contributes to the same number stories by Grover. The Cleveland and stories about him. The article is full of anecdotes showing the great statesman's dry and lively humor. Ida M. Tarbell, writing a sidelight on the most lively question now before congress, exposes the various ways of juggling with the tariff, and practically declares herself to be in agreement with President Taft, who favors the appointment of a tariff commission. Prof. W. I. Thomas tells of the "Older and Newer Ideals of Marriage." William Allen White describes "Progress in American Cities," and Charles W. Wood tells of his experience during the last six months in "Looking for a Job."

Success Magazine for April contains the inside story of the waterways movement in an article, "The Man Who Boomed the Nation," by John L. Mathews. Walter Prichard Eaton attacks the indecent drama of the day in "The Trail of the Tenderloin." Charles Edward Russell discusses the political issues of the future under the title "After 1912?" The junk industry is picturesquely described by Rufus H. Gillmore in an article, "His Eminence, the Junkman." There is an anonymous paper, "The Frank Thoughts of a Second Wife," and an editorial by Orison Swett Marden, "Are You Superstitious?"

In the April Current Literature we find the heralding of the dawn of another era of good feeling more than justified by the universal commendations elicited by the recent inauguration of President Taft and his selection of the members of his cabinet. It is readily conceded that this group of men, most of whom are lawyers, is eminently fitted for the high degree of constructive work for which that body is intended. The "Personal Relations of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft" effectively quiets the rumor of any quarrel or ill-feeling existing between the outgoing and the incoming president. An especially timely sketch portraying the "Dramatic Intensity of Joseph Pulitzer" will be of great interest to the many readers of the New York World libel case. "The Young King of Portugal" and his prodigious education, together with a personal sketch of the sultan's "New Grand Vizier," form two particularly striking articles.

The leading story, and the cover design of the April Housekeeper, have to do with "Arabella and the Pirates," a story and a picture containing all the elements of romantic adventure and suspense. Lucian S. Kirtland brings the story to an unexpected denouement. Two other stories included in this number stand out distinctively in the realm of magazine fiction: "The Engaging Elephant and the Minister's Little Girl," by Jeanette Cooper, and "The Apple of Humiliation," a story of the East side, by William Chester Estabrook.

The April number of the North American Review opens with a strong article by Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company, entitled "Insurance Supervision and National Ideals," advocating the superintendence of the insurance business by the national government. George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the treasurer in the last administration, in view of the growing difference between the revenues and the expenditures of the government, suggests the adoption of measures for the "Regulation of the National Budget." Ida Husted Harper describes the present status of "Woman Suffrage in the United States." Thomas Thacher, in an article entitled "Mr. Taft and the Sherman Act," analyzes certain recommendations for the revision of the act made by Mr. Taft in the course of some of his public utterances.

The Wide World invariably contains such an amazing collection of stories "strange but true," as to place it in a unique position among magazine literature. There is nothing exactly like the Wide World published, and for this reason it has readers in every quarter of the globe. The April issue contains its full complement of interesting material. Harry de Windt, the famous explorer and first European to enter the sacred city of Lhassa, contributes a thrilling tale of the Klondike; Irene Lyon relates the strange adventures of "Two Girls in Japan;" John Mackie tells of his eventful journey through the Australian bush; Harold Shepstone describes Carl Hagenbeck's wonderful system of "Wild Animal Catching;" E. F. Martin of the Royal Niger company's service, gives a vivid description of the capture of a powerful rebel chief, and Melbourne Inman, the well-known billiard player, writes an amusing account of his trip "Round the World With a Billiard Cue."

It is delightful and refreshing to read in the April number what the editor of the National Magazine saw at the inauguration. He seems to have observed and heard what others did not, and describes it with the facile discrimination of the "letter home" and with the art of a careful chronicler. The "Story of a Great Nation" which is winning the highest approbation of educators and statesment and the host of National readers, holds that keen interest naturally expected from such a variety of eminent men writing about their particular branch of federal work. "The Bureau of the Mint," Frank Ellis; "Amending the Constitution," by the author of the thirteenth amendment, ex-Senator J. B. Henderson; "Work of the United States Experiment Stations," Dr. A. C. True; "International Fraternization," Elihu Root, are in the April number.

The story of the upbuilding of the great states of the Northwest is graphically presented in the issue of Harper's Weekly, for April 3, in a number of striking articles. "The Wonderful Northwest" describes Seattle, Tacoma, and the other towns that have sprung up upon Puget sound, and tells of their remarkable prosperity and growth. The forthcoming Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition is described in another article. E. E. Ellis, president of the Washington State Sportsmen's association, tells of the hunting opportunities which his state affords, and of the new national park in the Olympic range, in which the wild creatures are to find sanctuary. Another article describes the electrical development of the Northwest, in which trolley cars now run through the primeval forests, and still another tells of the country's horticultural and agricultural facilities. Harvey W. Scott, editor of the Portland Oregonian, tells what the Northwest is doing for education.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

Arrangements have been completed whereby Duluth will have a grand May festival of music, Friday and Saturday, May 28 and 29. This festival will be supplied by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Emil Oberhoffer, with the assistance of four eminent soloists: Miss Louise Ormsby, soprano, of New York; Miss Esther May Plumb, contralto of New York; Garnett Hedge, tenor of Chicago, and Arthur Middleton basso of Chicago. Four grand concerts will be given in the Lyceum theater, commencing Friday afternoon, May 28. A matinee will be given for the pupils of the different schools in the city, the prices of admission being 10, 15 and 25 cents. Mrs. A. M. Gow and a committee of Duluth women will have charge of the concert. It is the intention of Mrs. Gow and those associated with her, to have the program explained to the children in the schools previous to the concert, so that they shall be at least appreciative listeners. Friday evening will be symphony night, when one of the great master works of the modern school will be presented. It is hoped that the symphony will be Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic." There will be arias by all the soloists. On Saturday afternoon, May 29, there will be a "popular" matinee program presented. The evening will be operatic night, when among other numbers, it is more than probable the famous sextet from "Lucia" will be included in the program.

The visit of the famous Minneapolis orchestra is due to the efforts of Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Reyner. In the past festivals Mr. Reyner has been busily engaged in rehearsing choral works but as there will be no choral works presented at the festival, Mr. Reyner has assumed the full business management of these concerts and if he proves himself as good a business manager as he is a musical director, these concerts will be a big success. Complete programs will be issued in a few days, when an active campaign for advance subscriptions will be begun.

Matinee Musicale.

The last regular meeting of the Matinee Musicale will be held Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. hall. The accompanists will be Miss Riblette, Horace W. Reyner and Miss Morton.

To Sing In Oratorio.

The members of the choir of the First Lutheran church of this city, under the direction of John Olsen, will join with the Bethlehem choir of Minneapolis, of which J. Sether is director, in the presentation of Gaul's beautiful oratorio, "The Holy City." The oratorio will be sung at Minneapolis, Thursday evening of next week, and the local concert will be given May 31. The soloists will be Miss Ethlyn Abbott of this city, Miss Finsted of Minneapolis, O. Dagnes of Duluth, and Oscar Gronseth of St. Olaf college, Northfield. The chorus will comprise sixty voices.

A concert will be given by the local choir Monday evening of next week at the church.

WILL CLOSE ITS STORE

Nippon Art Company Will Begin Closing Out Sale.

Because two members of the firm have received notice to prepare a collection of Japanese art goods to be shown at the Alaska-Yukon exposition at Seattle, next summer, and the Japanico-English exposition in London, in 1910, the Nippon Art company has decided to close up its store at 17 Second avenue west, this city. Arrangements have been made to begin next Monday morning a closing out sale of the large and magnificent collection of choice pieces from the Orient and a splendid opportunity will be offered the people of Duluth to purchase for a low price some of the finest art goods to be found in the country. J. Fujino, president of the company, now in Sioux City, Iowa, has been recalled by the Japanese government to collect the Japanese exhibit at the London exhibition, and A. H. Chikusa, treasurer of the company, now in charge of the local store, must leave soon for Seattle to prepare an exhibit for the exposition in that city next summer.

The company opened its store in Duluth a year ago expecting to remain permanently, but affairs have so shaped themselves that the store must be closed.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

All the Girls Pledged By Sororities and Anxiety Ended.

Consul General Wilder to Deliver Next Commencement Address.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After seven months of anxiety everything is settled. The societies, after voting and revoting, sent out their bids last Friday night; the freshmen received them Saturday noon, and between 4 and 5 answered "in person"—or otherwise. Those who answered "otherwise" sent their invitations back by mail to the sorority. The contract agreed to by all the sororities concerning a late pledge date was held to this year by all, except Kappa Alpha Theta, who pledged, after a two weeks' rushing period, in the fall. Pan-Hellenic agreed upon "no rushing," with the exception of a big party, which was given by each sorority in the month of March. From March 29 to April 3, was the week of silence, and Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, the girls were pledged. Claudia Gowan of Duluth is pledged Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Consul General Amos P. Wilder is to give the address at the next commencement of the University of Minnesota. Mr. Wilder visited the Philippine Islands last year and made an address at a banquet in Manila.

On April 23, the board of governors will hold the first annual get-together for men, at the Armory, at 7 o'clock. The purpose of this gathering is to interest all of the men in the men's building proposition, and to make all the men acquainted with each other. This affair is to become an annual custom. Many vaudeville stunts, such as club swinging, singing and dancing, will be presented, but the feature will be the presentation of the slide of the new men's buildign on canvass.

The Dramatic club has decided to put in one of two Shakespearean plays, "The Taming of the Shrew" or "The Comedy of Errors," the choice to be made by Coach Clure, who will choose the one which can be most advantageously cast. The performonce of "King Rene's Daughter" was a financial success and the club hopes to have a heavy deposit to make toward the Burton theater fund at the end of the year's work.

Sophomores this year are particularly modest, and as yet but two or three have announced their candidacy for positions on the Gopher. Usually the campus is flooded with petitions at this time of the year, but this sophomore class is unduly reticent. The election is to come off April 20, and those who intend to run must hand in their names by April 15. Two new offices are open this year, an advertising manager and a forestry representative. The advertising manager's duty will be to solicit all the "ads" for the 1911 Gopher, for which service he will receive a small percentage of money collected.

The university hospital is at last a reality, and is now an integral part of the equipment of the medical college. The Elliot memorial fund has been available for two years, but the building site and cost of maintenance have been the problems for solution. Generous friends of the university, and the board of regents, have now provided for these, and the main building will be completed as rapidly as possible. The hospital, temporarily located in the Phi Psi house, is already caring for patients. Charity cases are sent there from all over the state. The number of patients will be limited only by the capacity of the hospital. The members of the medical faculty are enthusiastic over the prospects, and many predict that in a few years it will be the equal of Johns Hopkins hospital, one of the greatest teaching hospitals in the world. Dr. Moore, professor of surgery, had the honor of performing the first operation in the hospital and of giving the first clinic. Clinics will be given regularly from now on.

Several applications for the $150 scholarship offered to women students by the Minneapolis College Woman's club of this city, have been received by Dean Comstock. The committee which has it in charge, in awarding it, prefers next year's seniors, and lays great stress upon excellence in scholarship, wishing to make it an honor as well as an aid. The scholarship was first granted last spring and is at present held by a senior girl.

NEXT TUESDAY IS CLASS DAY

Twenty-Third Annual Event at Michigan College of Mines.

Houghton, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the annual class day exercises of the Michigan College of Mines, marking the graduation of the twenty-third class from the local institution, are well under way. The exercises take place next Tuesday evening in the gymnasium at the college and will doubtless be well attended. The speaker for the event will be Isham G. Randolph of Chicago, head of the Chicago sanitary district, and one of the foremost civil engineers in the country.

The program, incidental to the address by Mr. Randolph, is about completed. It will include a selection, "Beriot's Seventh Air," and a selection by the Calumet & Hecla orchestra; "The Pearl of Savoy," by Lachner.

It has been decided to commence the exercises at 8:30. Dr. Randolph will depart the following afternoon for Chicago.

The annual class banquet this year does not take place the evening after the class exercises, but will be held at the Douglass house Thursday evening, April 22. This date has been chosen because it is the day preceding the commencement of the annual spring election.

It is expected that the members of the board of control and faculty will be in attendance, as well as a few other invited guests. This annual banquet is a feature of the graduating class final term in school and is always a very jolly event.

MINER GETS DAMAGES

Jury Awards Only Small Part of the Amount Asked.

After Deliberating All Night Tired Jurors Settle Injury Case.

The jury in the case of Frank Zabukovitz against the Oliver Iron Mining company for $20,000 for injuries received last summer while working in the Pioneer mine at Ely, returned a verdict of $1,073.25 in favor of the plaintiff this afternoon, after they had been out all night deliberating.

The case was once settled out of court for $1,000, but according to the plaintiff, the mining company's agents secured his signature to the agreement by misrepresentation. Zabukovitz had his leg broken while working at the mine on June 27, 1907. He claimed the accident occurred through the negligence of the company.

All night the tired jurymen wrestled with the case trying to come to some decision, and did not succeed until this afternoon.

The case was a very bitter one all the way through, and the attorneys fought every scrap of evidence. W. E. Culkin represented the plaintiff, and C. O. Baldwin defended the mining company.

ANNUAL SERMON ON "THE HOME"

On the Sunday evening following Easter, Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church will preach his annual sermon on "The Home."

Mr. Rice believes that at least once a year people generally should bring to mind the old home, and especially the old folks. Following out this idea, he will deliver his annual sermon on "The Home."

In memory of his mother, he asks that each man wear a white carnation. If the mother be still alive, he urges that each man send her some little remembrance.

WEDDING IN LONDON

Is Desired By the Girl Friends of Muriel White.

Disappointed That She Is to Be Married to German.

London, April 10.—Muriel White, daughter of the American ambassador to France, is so popular here that her girl friends have sent her a round-robin begging her to be married in London. At the same time, all her friends have set upon a German. German men, however clever or distinguished, are not favorites in British society. Why, it is difficult to say. But there it is. When the public announcement of the engagement was made about a fortnight ago I was greeted on every side with "How could she? What possessed her?" or "Why couldn't she have married one of the dozens of nice Englishmen who had asked her?"

For all that, Graf Scherr Thoss of Silesia—everyone spells his name differently—is, by the accounts of those who know him, a very desirable young man, who comes of an old house. It was said it was his smart cavalry uniform which in the first instance charmed the fair lady. He has a mustache exactly like the kaiser's and is altogether German in looks. Although the army is his profession, he has scientific ambitions and is said to be extremely clever. But of ready money there is little despite statements to the contrary, which is the veriest detail to the bride-elect, who is greatly in love with him and will have plenty of her own.

Smart French society is extremely regretful, too, that the American ambassador's daughter should have taken a fancy to a German and this is one of the reasons why it is quite possible that the marriage may take place in London instead of Paris, where the old bitterness against the conquerors is as strong as ever.

Meanwhile, a most wondrous trousseau is being made for the bride-elect, some of which is being gathered in London by the same dressmaker who hurriedly made an exquisite outfit for her as a debutante when, with her father, she was suddenly summoned to join the house party at Windsor castle to meet the late king and the queen of Portugal. Both Carlos and Queen Amelia were greatly taken with the young American girl and the dead king took numbers of snapshots of her.

Not a few British suitors have been badly hit by the news of her engagement.

Are Careful of Doggie.

Ladies with precious pet dogs are as careful to avoid a house in which it is supposed there is an outbreak of distemper as if the dogs were children and measles or scarlet fever were reputed in the neighborhood. Mrs. Henry Higgins, who has several smart dogs, had completed the journey by motor to a country house the other day when she discovered incidentally that the dogs of her friend were indisposed. Thereupon she decided she would not enter the house and turned back, fearing that a precious toy dog she had with her might get contaminated. The journey was over 100 miles, but she was willing to face it again in the teeth of an east wind and blinding snowstorm. The chauffeur was difficult to treat with, but his mistress was obdurate. However, matters were amicably arranged when it was decided to spend the night at an hotel in the nearest town.

It is considered the worst possible form not to let intending guests who possess dogs know beforehand if there is any malady in the kennels, for many suppose that it is quite possible to bring away the germs of distemper in the same way as those of measles or any other illness. There are those who vow that their dogs have caught illnesses solely through having the microbes transmitted from the garments to their human friends who have previously visited an invalid dog. People are simply rabid on the question of contagion and go about with all sorts of preventives to mitigate possibility of transmission of germs.

Mrs. Adair's Good Time.

Mrs. Adair and her niece, Nellie Post, one learns through their letters to their friends, have been having the time of their life journeying in the East. They had letters of introduction to everyone worth considering in China and Japan, with the result that they have been feted almost to death. Chinese princes and Japanese big-wigs have all been at the feet of Miss Post. Both women have had presents of the most exquisite kimonos, china and the most artistic carved ivories. On their own account they have, however, been buying considerably and are bringing enough embroideries, screens, bric-a-brac tapestries and rugs to furnish half a dozen houses.

Lady Barrymore, Miss Post's mother, expects to arrive in London about the same date as Mrs. Adair and her niece, that is, the end of April. She, too, is now much better, having derived great benefit from her long stay in Madeira, whither she went when the weather in Brighton became so severe. It is, however, under her aunt's wing and not her mother's, that Nellie Post will spend the season. Miss Post is one of the most sought after American girls in Europe, being bright, interesting and good-looking. Besides, she will in time be a great heiress, as it is well known that her aunt, Mrs. Adair, is devoted to her and means to endow her very handsomely. Most of the girls of her particular set are now married, but she being rather more fastidious than the others, and perhaps more ambitious, says she is in no hurry. Some of her friends accuse her of being romantic and say that is why she is still Miss Post.

After the Ball Is Over.

"Ball breakfasts" are the very latest thing. Sometimes they are served at the conclusion of the dance in the house where it has taken place. In other cases a friend of the ball-giver offers to take on a number of the guests to her own residence and there regale them with a pick-me-up breakfast of the most interesting order. Devilled bones and devilled kidneys, curry, anchovies served in a variety of ways, tea and coffee, hock and seltzer and brandy and soda are all procurable at this meal. Many of the guests prefer ham and eggs to any dainties. As a rule, however, it is the more appetizing dishes which are asked for. When the fine weather arrives it is expected that these ball breakfasts will be a feature. The meal over, some telephone to their maids and valets to bring on their riding attire, and later take a canter in the Row; others have a rubber of bridge.

These ball breakfasts are, however, only for women, as the Victorian novelists would say, in their first youth. Fatigue soon tells after 25, and at all times it is a brave woman who faces the morning light after dancing all night.

There is a story told of one young matron who, having undertaken to give a ball breakfast, found on consulting her mirror that she was, as she expressed it, "looking like her own mother," whereupon she promptly fetched from her wardrobe a domino and mask, and, putting them on, went down thus arrayed to preside at the festivity. This innovation has been adopted since by several others, and it is said that the latest festivity will furnish an excuse for the invention of a new garment.

Van Alen Likes London Now.

Hitherto it is the country which has mostly claimed Mr. Van Alen's interests. He is one of the few American men who do not like London—in fact, he used to hate even to pass through it. All this is apparently changed, for, of late, he is constantly here either at friends' houses or entertaining on his own account at the smart hotels and restaurants. It is said that he intends to spend the whole season in town. According to reports, he is making a great study of English politics with a view to entering public life. His friends go so far as to say that the height of his ambition is to be a member of the British parliament.

KELLOGG CLOSES IN OIL CASE

St. Louis, Mo., April 10.—Special United States Attorney Frank B Kellogg, this morning commenced his closing address to the court in behalf of the government in the latter's suit to have the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey dissolved as a violator of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Mr. Kellogg asserted that the twenty companies signing the original Standard trust agreement were just as competitive and if anything more so, than the railways subscribing to the agreement in the Northern Securities' case.

Kellogg took sharp issue with the defendant's maps, showing that the price of crude and refined oil had followed the general increase and declines of prices of household commodities, even to being lower as a rule. The federal attorney insisted that the price of crude and refined oil had been higher than the proportionate increase of general supplies, offering a new set of tables, prepared by Dr. A. Dana Durand of the United States bureau of corporations, in support of his contention.

NO SIGNS YET OF ORE SHIPPING

There is apparently no hurry to start the ore season.

Officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads say that as yet no active preparations have been made for the coming season. The harbor is now clear, so that there is no obstacle in the way of the beginning of the ore shipping, if there were a heavy demand for ore.

Some of the boats at the lower end of the lakes are being fitted out at the present time.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad has received some of the new cars from the Pittsburg shops, but the officials say no active preparations are under way to start the ore shipping season. It looks as though the officials of the ore-carrying roads and the vessel owners were holding back to see what way the threatened labor trouble upon the lakes is going to terminate.

It is stated in some quarters that in any event the ore shipping season will not open until late. At this end of the lake there has been very little preparation made for an early season.

Fitting the School to the Immigrant

The Lost Opportunity of Our Public Educational System to Make American Citizens Out of Foreigners.

By PETER ROBERTS,
Industrial Dept., International Y. M. C. A.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

Michael Novak, a young Russian, had heard of the United States, and had come to America with two strong arms and a stout heart. When he loked for work he had only three words at his command "job" and "how much." But three years ago that was enough, for employers then hired thousands of men who knew not a word of English. Michael began with $6 a week. He realized the advantage of English and immediately began to study. As his knowledge of the language increased his wages rose and when last I heard of him he was earning $3.50 a day.

The foreign-tongued men in the industries can rise to the maximum of their efficiency only when they speak the language of the country, and nowhere is the knowledge of a language so important an asset as in the lives of these men in America. Both employers and employes know this. Slavs, Magyars, Italians, Greeks, Syrians and Persians are anxious to learn English, but the opportunities offered them are not many. Some public schools are doing good work, but they are oasis in the desert. The general equipment of schools is ill-adapted ot the needs of foreign adults, and the teaching is still more wide of the mark. To squeeze a six-foot Austrian into a child's combination desk, give him a primer, and have him wrestle with the sentence, "Sophie has a little doll," is incongruous to say the least. If the desire of the foreign adult to learn our language is to be properly met we must devise an equipment wholly different from that in use to teach the child elements of his mother tongue.

I have known many immigrants to plod over books, printed in their native tongues and designed to instruct them in our language. It is safe to say that no one ever learned a foreign tongue by studying disconnected words, grammatical rules, and directions for pronunciation. The men are in a hurry to learn the English of the shop and the mine, the mill and the forge, the factory and the dock. They do not want book English. Most of them continue to write their mother tongue, but they want their ears trained and their tongues accustomed to the sounds of English. They should be aided to this knowledge by the easiest and quickest way. This can best be done by helping them clothe the experiences of daily life in an English garb.

The foreigner lives and moves in a small world of which he is the center and about which he can freely converse in his native tongue. But English lets him into the larger life of America, raises his wages, calls him to a higher standard of living, and is the medium of better communication with his fellow workers. A vocabulary of 800 words will suffice if acquired in the form of simple sentences pertaining to every day occurrences. These words cannot be acquired from books. Language is not to be practiced in the seclusion of a room, nor used in monologue, but in the relation of men with men. It is the medium by which to express the intelligence, the activities, the necessities of life in the interdependence of modern society.

A knowledge of English is also necessary to protect the foreigner in life and limb. Shadwell in his recent book on industrial efficiency declares that employer and employe must co-operate if the horrifying accidents of modern industry are to be eliminated, and that no man should be employed in dangerous trades until he is made thoroughly conversant with the dangers incident to the work. But mining, the steel and iron works, the white lead and grinding trades employ thousands of foreigners who do not comprehend the simplest warning given in English, and cannot read the warnings even if printed in their native tongues. Again and again men are injured, who would have been saved if they had known a dozen English words. And the terrible casualties, the disgrace of our industrial records, will not diminish until our language is taught to foreigners employed in dangerous trades, that they may become familiar with the simple rules laid down for their protection.

A SHELF of three or at most of five feet which President Eliot of Harvard contemplates making, upon which may be placed all the books any one needs to read, no one of them more than ten minutes a day, in order to gain a place among men and women of cultivation, is a much larger shelf than many men have found necessary to attain cultivation.

James Bryce, ambassador from Great Britain to the United States, recently said that he had found it easier to memorize Homer in the original Greek than to commit the English of John Milton to memory. In that brief confession is to be discovered one of Mr. Bryce's habits with respect to books. His various publications and especially his profound work on the American republic, must have involved exhaustive reading of books. But that reading was professional. To memorize Homer, seizing a few leisure moments each day for that purpose, or to master Milton, constituted apparently much the greater part of the reading done by Ambassador Bryce chiefly with the intent to obtain a higher cultivation, and as a mental recreation.

Many American men of affairs thus seize a few moments of the day to read some one of the classics or to follow some favorite author, and ten minutes a day, the time set apart by President Eliot, will in the course of a month or a year make it possible to do what in the aggregate seems an amazing amount of reading. Americans who have gained triumphs at the bar and in public life or in finance, and two at least who have served as presidents of the United States, have made choice of daily companionship with books as Ambassador Bryce confesses he has done.

The great lawyer, Rufus Choate, who was a cousin of Joseph H. Choate, read enormously. He submitted to the monumental labor of reading every case decided by the highest court of Massachusetts, and then prepared a brief, first for one side and then the other, so that he might master every case, and this was done while still engaged in professional practice unsurpassed by any member of the New England bar. Choate, however, had an impromptu bookshelf, much smaller than the one President Eliot is to make. The spare place on the top of his dressing table was that bookshelf. Joseph H. Choate said recently to one of the foremost lawyers of New York that Rufus Choate once said to him, "Remember, Joseph, that these are the four great Englishmen, Shakespeare, Milton, Bacon and Edmund Burke. Read these in your spare moments, and when you have mastered them, you have mastered all that is worth while that has been written by Englishmen."

These, and a copy of Homer brushing covers with Virgil, Horace and Lucretius, were upon Choate's dressing table. The book was opened, and Choate was in communion with Greece or Rome while dressing. In the course of this mental entertainment, a quarter of an hour upon rising and no more than that upon retiring, Choate committed to memory much of Homer and of Virgil, and nearly all of Horace.

One of the nation's great secretaries of state, William L. Marcy, who, when in the senate, coined the epigram, "To the victors belong the spoils," by which the use of patronage for partisan purpose was defended, was of rugged, stern quality of mind. He seemed phlegmatic, seeing men and events in cold photographic accuracy, and it was a surprise to many to learn that he snatched a few moments each day from occupations that were engrossing to read the Greek poets, turning to them, as the Musselman turns to Mecca, for consolation and for rest.

One warm summer afternoon, Governor Marcy went to his room in Ballston, Spa, N. Y., to take, as was his custom, a nap of an hour. Late in the afternoon they went to call him. They found him lying upon the bed with an open Plato upon his breast, and they thought he was peacefully sleeping, but they could not awaken him, for he had passed away with Plato in his hands.

The Culture Reading of Two Presidents.

James A. Garfield chose some of the classics for the reading that gives mental entertainment and rest. His temperament was buoyant, and life for him was opportunity. His reading was very wide, but he reserved the classics for his leisure moments, ten, fifteen or twenty minutes being taken during the course of the day for that purpose. Like Rufus Choate, Garfield kept these captured voices of antiquity upon his dressing table.

One of his cabinet officers, who called early one morning upon business of sudden emergency, was summoned by the president to his dressing room. Upon the table lay a copy of Virgil opened at one of the Eclogues. The president, observing that the eyes of his cabinet officer wandered curiously to the open book, said:

"You are looking at my Virgil. I read a few lines from him almost every day. Sometimes my fancy turns to Horace, and I find great delight in reading a little of Caesar. What a wonderful writer he was! I have one or the other of these books open on my dressing table, so that as soon as I arise I can say good morning to Virgil or to Horace. I have done this for many years."

No president, not even Garfield, who was probably the most widely read man who had been elected president up to his day, had so vast and comprehensive range of reading as Theodore Roosevelt. And Roosevelt differs from most readers in the possession of one faculty which is phenomenal and almost unique.

Sir George Trevelyan, Macaulay's nephew and biographer, related to an American various anecdotes of his uncle which illustrated the incomprehensible ability of Macaulay to master a page at a glance, and a book of many pages in an hour. He often read with an open book in his hand as he walked the streets. A sort of sixth sense, that of perception, made it easy for him to thread his way along a crowded London pavement, without jostling or being jostled, still reading from an open book. As he read he assimilated and remembered. That is a power which Theodore Roosevelt possesses. By a single intention of his eye he masters in an instant a printed page. It is not a superficial reading with him. It is a gift of vision which but few have possessed. He knows the printed words by some all-comprehending communication instantly made between the eyes and the mind, and what he thus reads he remembers.

At the Philadelphia national convention of the Republican party, which placed Roosevelt in nomination for vice president, he was the center of the tumultuous excitement and suspense of the occasion. McKinley's renomination was assured. Roosevelt's nomination for vice president would be made by acclamation if he were willing to permit it to be done. When the excitement was at fever heat, an intimate friend of Roosevelt found him seated with composure and at perfect peace in the inner room of his apartment. To a stranger he would have appeared as a leisurely guest, passing the time with a book. He was reading one of the classics. He turned the leaves with the swiftness with which the shuttle flies in the loom. One glance and the whole page was absorbed, and then the next was in like manner encountered and mastered. If he led a strenuous life in the White House, there were still many peaceful and happy moments with the books that took him far away into communion with the great minds of the past.

The late Charles A. Dana was gifted with the power of absorbing a printed page with something like the instant imprisonment of an object by a flash of light upon the negative of a camera. And, in fact, the perfect optical adjustment to the columns of a newspaper and the transmission of the printed words to the retina occurred with photographic accuracy. So, also, he would master the page of a book. Mr. Dana's reading was varied, but it was sometimes thought that the few moments that he snatched from his editorial work to turn to Gray's botany were the chief comforts of his busy hours. He read those pages, not as a text book or hand book,, but for companionship. His face would beam with the pleasure he found in this communion with the work of Prof. Gray.

A Cattle Baron's Coat Pocket Library.

But reading of this kind is by no means confined to men of professional life. There are many men absorbed, apparently, in vast business undertakings, who have learned how to cultivate for a few moments each day, companionship with the immortals who have written.

A gentleman who was traveling upon a railway train between Chicago and New York observed Patrick A. Valentine, one of the foremost business intellects of Chicago and New York much occupied with a pocket volume, one of those little and conveniently bound books that are the delight of readers who are fond of carrying a book in the pocket. The common understanding of Mr Valentine is that he is a man who thinks beef, and breathes beef, and that he watches with mental vision the cattle on a thousand hills, or browsing upon the ocean-like pampas of South America—in other words, a beef baron. It would be presumed that if Mr. Valentine read anything but statistics, and the reports telling of the world's markets, he would be studying the dry figures of the financial columns of the newspapers. But instead of that he had discovered that the men who wrote for Greece or Rome might have written only yesterday, so near and immediate is their thought.

Mr. Valentine, on that railway journey, was reading from a Latin classic that had been well thumbed, and apparently was a familiar pocket piece. And this gentleman reported that when Mr. Valentine made his prolonged excursion to the Argentines to make vast negotiations for the cattle that feed on the luxurious grasses there, he took for companions some of the Latin classics, pocket editions with flexible covers, well bound and of good print. With them, this man of great business achievements passed his leisure moments. He read and re-read them as boys do "Robinson Crusoe" or "Monte Christo" and they were his joy and perfect mental achievement. Mr. Valentine does not need a shelf three feet or five in length, for the classics he studies can be conveniently carried in his pocket or his dress suit case.

The summer of 1899 was in New York city and its vicinity unbearably hot because of the humidity. But for six weeks when the Dog star reigns the late Frederick D. Tappan, who was chairman of the Clearing House association in New York city, went exactly upon the hour of 1 o'clock to the clearing house building to count and weigh the gold which was coming in great volume from Europe, $100,000,000 in all. And it was discovered one day, when Mr. Tappan was on his way from the bank of which he was president to the clearing house, that he carried, so to speak, his book shelf in the pocket of his summer coat. In that way many of Mr. Tappan's friends for the first time learned what books he read for recreation and cultivation.

In the right hand pocket of his business coat, Mr. Tappan was accustomed to carry each day certificates, usually in denominations of $10,000, and never less than $1,000,000 in all, with which the clearing house paid for the gold deposited with it. These certificates were, in fact, warehouse receipts for this gold, and when properly endorsed, they were received in the clearing house in payment for debit balances at each day's exchanges. A friend met Mr. Tappan almost exactly under the shadow of the heroic statue of Washington in front of the sub-treasury, and said to the banker that he would like to look at the certificates, for he had heard that they were beautiful specimens of engraving.

Mr. Tappan thrust his hand into his coat pocket, and withdrew from it, not the bundle of certificates, but a French novel instead. It was a paper-covered novel, and within a day or two had been received by a bookseller, whose specialty is the importation of the better class of French and German fiction. The volume was of about the thickness and shape of the bunch of clearing house certificates, which, when properly endorsed, were good for a million in gold. By some chance, Mr. Tappan had put the bunch of certificates in the left hand pocket, and so it happened that, plunging his hand into the pocket in which he customarily carried the certificates, he withdrew the French novel.

The banker's secret was out. He confessed to having devoted some leisure time every day to the reading of the French masters of fiction, past and present. That was his literary recreation. And he was self-taught in French. He began by reading the easiest French with no other aid than a French and English dictionary, and so economized his time as to be able to spend never less than half an hour a day upon this study. At last he mastered reading French, although he never spoke it fluently. And he was a frequent visitor at the shops in New York city where the modern and the classic literature of France was sold, so that in the course of a very busy life as president of one of the oldest New York banks, and for many years chairman of the Clearing House association, he nevertheless gained that fine cultivation which distinguished him in this way. He usually carried a French book in his pocket and had one conveniently at hand on his table at home, and a shelf much less than five feet in length would contain the French classics that he collected.

Within a few months, what was for many year the most famous of New York city's hotels, the Fifth Avenue, was torn down, and in place of it a colossal business structure has been erected. With the Fifth Avenue hotel, the name of Amos R. Eno is associated He built it years ago, and it was only one of many real estate ventures in New York which brought to Mr. Eno one of the very great fortunes possessed by New York men. He was an aggressive and yet eminently just business man, very busy, but still having that peculiar atmosphere of cultivation which is commonly associated with men whose life is among books. He gained that polish by a course of reading which would have involved a book shelf not over five feet long, although he collected many rare books.

Mr. Eno began many years ago the study of French without a teacher. He took ten or fifteen minutes each day to study, with the grammar and lexicon, the French language. At last he was able to read Fenelon's Telemaque, and was happy to discover that he could read sometimes a page without turning more than once or twice to the lexicon. And so he went on, still self-taught until at last he read French with facility, and, as he used to say, with felicity. The French literature was the entertainment of the leisure moments of each day, and he found his mind stimulated, and a fine reaction from the excessive cares of business life in his study.

What a Master of English Read.

On a recent railway trip from Washington to New York, the chief justice of the supreme court of the United States traveled in company with a distinguished citizen of Utica, N. Y. Chief Justice Fuller, within a few moments after the train was out of the Washington station, asked his traveling companion if he had known Roscoe Conkling whose home was in Utica. And when in reply it was said that he had had acquaintance with Conkling for many years, the chief justice asked all manner of questions bearing upon Conkling's political life, his professional work, and particularly his reading. For it seemed to Chief Justice Fuller that anyone who commanded so admirable an English style as Conkling possessed must have pursued a course of reading, particularly of the English poets; although there was something in Conkling's style that reminded of him of Hooker, the English clergyman, who was so constantly studied by the late Senator George Frisbie Hoar.

The chief justice learned that Conkling was not a wide reader, but that no day passed when he did not turn to a page at least of some one of the great English prose writers, and now and then to Milton. His library of the classics, representing the books which he cultivated, could have been placed upon a little shelf. He was also fond of fiction, and especially that in which a tale of action is told.

In September of 1880 James A. Garfield, then candidate for president, visited New York to hold an important consultation with the Republican leaders. Maine had been lost to the Republicans at the state election, and the anxiety was great. It was especially desirable that Senator Conkling should take part in this conference. But when the leaders met at the Fifth Avenue hotel, Conkling was not there. They searched everywhere for him, but could not find him, and the conference began and was finished without him, so that it was said, "Conkling is still sulking." Whether he was sulking or not, he was having a good time. In the house of his brother, the late Frederick A. Conkling, near lower Fifth avenue, the great senator remained three days as a guest, not going out excepting in the evening. His sole companion, except his brother's family, was a copy of Ouida's "Under Two Flags." He read that novel through while in that seclusion, and he praised this work of fiction highly. He was very fond of the play "Richelieu," either when acted or as a reading play. But it was known only to his intimates that he also found pleasure in novels of adventure.

So also the late Thomas B. Reed found leisure each day for reading a few lines from some of the greater English prose writers. And when a friend once asked him what he esteemed the finest page in English fiction, he replied that part of the chapter in

NOTES ON GARDENING

Those who have not already got their sweet peas should order them at once. At the rate the snow is going and the frost coming out of the ground the soil should soon be ready for sowing. The sooner they are sown after the frost is out, the better. Sweet peas germinate at a low temperature and the plants do better if the roots are in cool, rich soil. All kinds of seed sowing in hotbeds or house should be done either of flowers or vegetables. Days lost now means a much later crop and in some cases scarcely any crop at all. The tomato as a ripe fruit will suffer especially.

Laying Out a Vegetable Garden.

The old-fashioned way of laying out a vegetable garden in small beds is a thing of the past among first-class gardeners. Beds entail too much useless work in clearing up walks. The most practical way is to plant or sow everything in as long a row as possible and at sufficient distance apart to allow room for the use of the wheel-hoe and cultivator to the best advantage. If the garden is very small, hand sowing can be done, but if of considerable size a wheel seeder should be used, not only because it is ten times as quick, but does much more even work, saves time, seed and money. In large gardens a seeder and wheel-hoe are almost indispensable. The work is easier, better done, and after a little practice looks as well as the most skillful hand work with hoe or rake. The modern combined tool, for small gardens, as now made, is most complete, but for large gardens, where two or more machines are in use at the same time, the separate tools are perhaps the best. I have found the Iron Age the easiest running machine made and quite as reliable as any other. I have used several different makes all of which were good, but the Iron Age runs the easiest. For onions, carrots, parsnips, peas, beans, etc., it does the best kind of work. You can set the feed so as to sow any quantity of seed, either large or small, at any distance apart and at an even depth, either in hills from four inches up to two feet apart, or in one continuous line, the next row being marked out at any distance desired at the same time.

When first laying out a garden the perennials or anything that is to remain in one place for a number of years should be planted on one side, in rows to themselves, so that the rest of the garden is left free to be plowed or spaded over without interfering with them. The annuals should be sown or planted in continuous rows, choosing the kinds that require the same treatment, either as to the cultivation or the distance apart of the rows to follow each other. That is, if you have not sufficient seed or plants of one kind to finish the row, fill it out with something that requires the same treatment. By doing this an even, straight looking garden is the result, with no walks to clean up, but with plenty of room between the rows either for walking when necessary or for cultivation. The same seeds or plants should never, with a few exceptions, be planted or sown on the same ground two years in succession. Onions are an exception. If the ground be thoroughly prepared each year, onions may be sown for a number of years in the same place with advantage.

Time to Move Trees.

Now is a safe time to move trees that are out of place or grown too large. If moved while the frost is in the ground they can now be grubbed out making a circle round the outside of the roots and digging or picking down below the roots. The soil, being frozen, will stick to the roots and the whole tree and earth can be pried out with a crowbar in the case of small trees, and with block and tackle, if large. Trees thus moved should be planted in holes already made, being careful to plant them a few inches deeper than they originally grew.

Shrubs and Evergreens.

It will soon be time for planting hardy shrubs and evergreens of all kinds and those who are intending to do anything in this line should make out their orders and send them off, with directions to ship them when wanted. The earlier the orders are sent off the better. Nearly all seedsmen and nurserymen fill orders in rotation as received. If an order for shrubs, etc., is sent in now, the plants would be reserved to fill the order, and if short of any variety, notice would be given, enabling the would-be purchaser to choose something else or send elsewhere. Hardy shrubs and evergreens are very useful and ornamental many of them being great bloomers. The new Snowball Hydrangea must be the greatest of all flowering shrubs if all one reads of it is true. I have never grown it. It has been out only two or three years, but all reports are alike in its praise. It is claimed to be superior in every way to the Hydrangea Paniculata. Being a native of this country, it is very hardy, coming into bloom in June and continuing all summer. If the two, Hydrangea Paniculata and the Snowball Hydrangea were planted together in the shrubbery, a continuous display of large, showy, white blossoms would be the result from June to frost. Then there is Spirea Van Houtie and Bridal Wreath (Spirea Primifolia), two beautiful white early flowering shrubs; Spirea Antony Water, bright crimson, flowering all summer and fall; Weigilea Eva Rathke, a free flowering variety, continuing all summer and fall, a rich ruby carmine in color. Then there are the Lilacs or Syringas in all shades of lilac, dark purple, blue white, almost red, and rose. Snowballs of many kinds, among which is the Highbush Cranberry (Viliudnum Opulus) a hardy native which not only produces showy, white blossoms, but bright red berries in the fall, which make good sauce, jelly, etc., being both useful and ornamental.

The Rhododendrons.

The hardy Rhododendrons should be more cultivated, there are so many colors among them, and they are hardy with very little protection in winter. They only require a good garden soil, dug at least two feet deep, and mixed with leaf mold or peat, mulching well during the summer and protecting with leaves or litter in winter. When in blossom, they are very showy, being quite equal to fine Azaleas. The hardy Azaleas are also very showy and free flowering in the spring and summer. With the Rhododendrons for a background, they are very effective. The range of colors is good, white, crimson, yellow and many intermediate shades, and hardy, with protection, the same as the Rhododendron.

There are many other hardy shrubs which can be found in any good catalogue. When ordering hardy shrubs, it would be a good plan to order what hardy perennial plants are wanted, such as Hollyhocks, Larkspurs, Campanulas, or Bellflowers, Foxgloves, Hardy Asters, Columbine, Phlox, Anemonies, Iris, etc. Of the last named there are a great many varieties and colors, tall and dwarf, double and single. They come from nearly all countries, all are hardy and will grow in any rich soil, if well watered. The best place to grow them is near water, or in low, swampy ground, rich with black mud and decayed leaves. If planted on high ground, the soil must be rich and well watered. They are naturally a swamp plant, and require lots of water and full sunshine.

German and English Varieties.

The Japanese varieties, of which there are a great number, are perhaps the finest both in coloring and size of blossom, but there are many exquisite German and English kinds which, if procurable, are simply superb. These are very scarce and very high priced and seldom seen in the catalogues. Most good nurserymen have a great many advertised and for general planting the listed ones are more reliable to give satisfaction than the high priced hybrids.

Besides the hardy shrubs and perennials above mentioned, those who wish to get the most for their money should order Dahlia and Canna dry roots now. If started now the dormant roots of Dahlias and Cannas will produce from two to four or five shoots, each of which, if split off with a small piece of the tuber, will make a separate plant. These should be potted off in pots and placed in the hotbed or house. A 25-cent root will often produce four or five plants which, when bought as growing plants would cost at least 25 cents or more. Dahlias are a great favorite of mine. They have so much variety in color, shape and size: single, semi-double, double and cactus-shaped flowers in almost endless colors; almost black, to white, yellow, red and purple, with combinations of all colors. Some have a deep maroon ground, almost black, tipped with white. Frank Smith, the most perfect of fancy Dahlias is of this type. Then there are red or crimson ground, tipped white, white tipped with almost all the other colors. There are self colors in all intermediate shades, from the darkest to the lightest. There are delicate shades of pink, yellow and white combination in great variety. The cactus flowered are the most curious and very much in demand. With their long straight, curled, or twisted petals, their bright colors and odd combinations, they are perhaps the most striking of all. They are of all sizes, from small to large and look like no other flower in the garden.

Fancy Dahlias.

Then come the show and fancy Dahlias in all sizes from one inch in diameter to six, eight or even nine inches. These come in all colors and combinations found in this kind of plant and are the most perfectly double of almost any flowers known. The single, semi-double and peony flowered section are perhaps the largest and are in a great variety of colors. For cut flowers most of them are good. The better grown the longer the stems. The only fault they have is they have little or no fragrance. This, however, can be overcome by mixing a few sprays of some sweet-scented flowers with them. The soil for all perennials and tuberous-rooted plants I have mentioned should be rich, for the Cannas and Dahlias especially so. Both will do better with a good mulching of rich, well-rotted manure and plenty of water. They are always hungry and thirsty, as are nearly all plants of the same luxuriant growth.

Fruit Trees.

Many people will be planting fruit trees this spring. It is hoped those who do will plant them in orchards or in some place other than the garden. An orchard should be an orchard and a garden a garden. A combination of both in one is always a source of annoyance to the gardener and more or less tends to injure the produce of the garden, unless in the earlier stages, when trees are very small, it is very difficult to grow good vegetables or flowers under trees. Nothing is so trying to the temper of a gardener than when he is most attentive to his work to run against a tree, or have his hat knocked off or his face scratched by the branches of a tree. Cultivation of the soil is good for the orchard, however.

There was an article in The Herald a few days ago on the planting of apple trees, so I will not say anything about them unless to warn the planters not to be disappointed if they get no apples, or, at best, very few.

Crab apples, plums of kinds, cherries of kinds, currants, raspberries, etc., ought to do well here. Currants and raspberries I know do well if they are attended to properly. Larger fruit I have had little experience with in Minnesota. I have planted lots of apple trees, plum trees and cherries, but the trees are scarcely old enough to bear yet. I got a small crop of plums off Col. Colvill's place at Pike Lake one year. The trees had been growing wild for some years and had never been pruned until the year I had charge of them, so I think neglect was the cause of their not bearing, as the trees were old enough and big enough.

Pruning at the right time is very important. Late in the fall, when the sap has returned to the soil, or in the spring, before the sap begins to run, are, perhaps, the best times to do the pruning. Trees should not be pruned when the branches of the trees are frozen hard, for then they break, and instead of a smooth cut, a jagged break is the result, which takes longer to get calloused or healed over. A clean cut heals up much sooner. If trees are pruned when the sap begins to run much of the strength of the tree is lost, as the sap runs from the new cut. Take a maple tree and prune it when the sap begins to run, and in the morning when the sun strikes the tree you can see the sap dropping from every cut. It is easier to prune in the fall. Lilac trees should be pruned as soon as the blooming season is over. The blossoms for next year are formed on the new shoots made this summer.

JOHN WHELAN.

SOCIALISM AND OBJECTIONS

A peculiarity of the human race is that they will not strictly adhere to a line of criticism that is based upon the gospel truth. We have in a large measure become faddists, and we Americans are included, we proclaim to high heaven that ours will be the truth and nothing but the truth. This, of course, is true only when we are sleeping, and not while awake. We are condemned by some of the learned men of this city as well as others, that we believe to be the only factor in the production of wealth that has a right to its claim, that physical labor is the sole producer of wealth.

This criticism is made of whole cloth, and is I believe a conscious, malicious fabrication of the first water, they who make such absurd claims knowing them at the time to be untrue. What fool has ever made such claims. Who but an insane man could make the claim, that only physical labor was the sole producer of wealth? Labor moulds from the raw materials taken from the earth a finished product that has a use value, but this is only done after the directing authority has laid out the plans by which it can be done. Can any one, whether he be Socialist or capitalist, draw lines that can in any way separate the one from the other? The one has its being in the other. I am speaking strictly of labor that has a use value, and not that form of useless labor that is a drain upon physical and intellectual labor, but the one that cannot be without the other, the one that supplies human wants.

A laborer is a laborer, whether he be the man who digs in the ditch, or whether he be a professor or the president of the United States. A laborer can only be judged when compared with the welfare of all the people, not those who work in the interest of one class as against the interest of another class.

We Socialists do not care that a person may receive a large salary, but we ask the question: Does he render in services to the people an equal amount of good that can be considered a benefit to all the people? If not, does he deserve it? I know full well that if I cannot return to my employer a profit, he simply says: "There is the door, get!" Why should not all of the people have the same right?

Labor today is a composition. It has two parts, physical and intellectual. They can be seen working in harmony one with the other in the iron industry, we can see the ore dug from the ground by manual labor, directed by intellectuals, carried hither and thither, and finally returned in the form of the finished product. There can be followed the close relationship of the one to the other.

We are branded as unbelievers, as things, not men, that we have allied ourselves with a philosophy that is devoid of a religious belief of any form, that has no conception of God. I cannot deny but that there are men who claim to be Socialists that do deny the existence of a God or that they are Atheists. But my good Republican or Democratic friend, can you deny that there are unbelievers in your party? I do not take this method to excuse any Socialist for what he may or may not be, but for the purpose of driving home to all the unvarnished truth.

I am one who does not believe that a religion should be either a farce or makeshift, but believe that a religion should have power to mold the conditions that surround these feeble tenements of clay, that would have the effect of producing better men and women, that when the Grim Reaper comes, we may all answer the summons without fear and trembling, and enter into our just reward, the heaven that must mark the end of us all.

P. G. PHILLIPS.

BECOMES A ZINC PRODUCER

Former Gold Property in Union Basin, Arizona, Now Leading All Other Zinc Mines in the Territory as to Shipments.

Kingman, Ariz., April 10.—More than a quarter of a century ago the Golconda mine, in Union basin, fifteen miles north of Kingman, was noted for its production of rich gold and silver ore with a lead base. Following the custom then in vogue, the mine was worked under the tribute system and good money for the leasers and owners resulted. But at a shallow depth zinc ore, then much despised, as the smelters penalized it heavily, appeared in ever increasing quantities until the penalties overcame the other values and gradually work was abandoned. For many years the owners held the property, only doing the annual assessments, until a year ago it fell under the notice of J. A. Boyle, Jr., a gentleman well versed in handling that class of ore.

Seeing the possibilities of mining the exposed zinc, Mr. Boyle secured the property by purchase and went to mining by-products of the lead, silver and gold. How well he has succeeded is told by the carload results. There was much preliminary work to perform, but this was overcome, and from the very start shipping ore was found that soon put the property on a paying basis.

The mine is only developed to a depth of 240 feet in the deepest workings, yet under the present management sixty cars of ore have been shipped, while as much more is on the dump awaiting the concentrating plant that is to be built within the next ninety days. There is a main shaft and two auxiliary shafts 300 feet each side through which development is progressing. The shipping ore is from fifteen inches to four feet wide, while as much more is concentrating. The mine has recently been put into shape so that a car every day can be shipped or 450 tons monthly, averaging 47 per cent zinc. The shipments from this ore mine in the year 1908 exceeded all the other zinc shipments in the territory, it is understood, and for the present year this will be multiplied several times. The average net values of the ore shipped has been $450 a car. The ore is now being shipped for treatment to the American Metal company at Iola, Kan.

the 2,200 than on the 2,000. For the purpose of ventilation and drainage through the High Ore, crosscuts are being run south from the shaft to the old Speculator vein, which has just been cut 360 feet on the 2,000. Some good ore has been found on the hanging wall of the Speculator shaft, but no mining will be done on it at present. The old Speculator company practically worked the Speculator vein out down to the 1,600 level, but extracted only the first-class ore. The vein still contains a large quantity of good second-class ore, which can be mined at a profit some day. The North Butte company mined the Speculator for a time on the 1,600 and 1,800 levels, but no work has been done on the vein for several years.

The North Butte is not attempting to push production at present, and for six months the daily output of ore has varied very little, running from 1,400 to 1,500 tons per day. The copper production is around 3,500,000 pounds per month. General Manager Arthur C. Carson says he is very well satisfied with conditions at the mine, and developments on the 2,000 and 2,200 levels. The progress of the work has, perhaps, been slower than was anticipated, but the results have been satisfactory.

grade, though for some reason the management is reticent about giving out information. All the officers of the company will say is that veins "look good." From other sources it is learned that the ore assays from 2 to 5 per cent copper. The small vein cut a few days ago was a surprise. Two veins had been located by diamond drill explorations, and the second of these will not be reached for another month or so. One of the biggest achievements in running a crosscut in the Butte district was accomplished by the Colorado miners in March, when they extended the opening 359 feet. Nine men did the work, three working on a shift. The other vein is expected to be reached in about 250 feet.

At the Lexington.

La France Copper company, one of the Heinze corporation, in which United Copper is supposed to be interested, has stopped shipping ore from the Lexington mine, and all work at that property now is confined to development work. Under present prices of copper and silver and high cost of mining in the Lexington no profits can be made and shipments have been suspended. The vein opened on the 1,400-foot level last fall did not prove as satisfactory as it had promised when first encountered, but development work is carried on there.

Barnes-King.

The directors of the Barnes-King Development company, met in Butte a few days ago and elected the following officers: John Gillie, general superintendent of the Amalgamated company, president; C. W. Goodale, general manager of the Boston & Montana company, and W. H. A. Fischer of New York, vice presidents; C. C. Swinborne, cashier of the Daly Bank & Trust company, treasurer; John E. Corette of the Boston & Montana legal department, secretary; Ira C. Pringle, assistant secretary and treasurer. No other business was transacted by the directors. Conditions at the property of the company at Kendall have not changed much during the past year. During the winter work was stopped in the open cuts and the output consequently greatly restricted. Each month for a year the company has earned a little in net profits, but the possibilities of dividends are still as remote as they were a year ago.

sampled during the progress of development. There is no conjecture about its values, and the volume of ore can be measured by anybody, as it is exposed so as to be comprehensive. The assay sheets give values that make a sum total of nearly a million for the ore now in sight. The exposed faces in the mine would suggest that the future development promised more than the operators refrained from putting in figures for the reason that it would seem incredulous. For instance, one of the faces, that of the Nellie, south, is in a newly explored ore-shoot, and it is the finest that has ever been encountered in the mine. The Queen and Jessie veins have united at this point and the trend is into a great mountain where the 400-foot depth is increasing very fast as the drift progresses. The continuation of this shoot for 100 feet would add 100 per cent to the present reserve values. There is evidence that the mother ore shoot of the mine is being penetrated at this point of development. Here one of the walls is an igneous formation. The values were evidently brought to this mine by heated solutions. The values were precipitated from this source. These solutions, it is demonstrated, came from the Nellie fissure principally. The opening of this veritable golden chamber demonstrates that the central point of mineralization in that quarter of the mine is just being approached.

The most conspicuous element of greatness in this mine at this stage of development is the full comprehension of the system of ore occurrences. It is demonstrated that the ore shoots are permanent, that values increase rapidly with depth and that the shoots have a uniform trend. When a good mine reaches this stage it is one of the safest business propositions in all the business world. The management does not need to pray for the power to see into the ground after all these conditions have been demonstrated as they have been at the "Queen."

a good showing. Their ore carried some silver in addition to the gold. On the Little Eldorado side of Cleary Dome Jim Mulvahill and Shropshire have what is supposed to be a continuation of the Cleary veins. The Shoogy Gulch property, on the ore of which the Brumbaugh stamp mill made its first run, is owned by Whitman & Murray. They have tunnelled into their workings about 300 feet and have the ledge opened up. This property is a hile through the hill from the Cleary dikes in another mineralized zone.

Heavy snow slides caused by the recent warm weather have played havoc with the road leading from Juneau out to the basin mines of the Perseverance company. In places the road is covered with snow to a depth of twelve and fifteen feet. One of the employes of the mine started out to the property on snowshoes the other day and it took him three hours to cover the distance of four miles. Work will be started within a few days to get the road in shape for teams.

This coming spring will see much activity in hte basin, as the Perseverance company will go ahead with the construction of the new 100 stamp mill, the completion of the power station in town, which will develop 2,000-horse power, which will be transmitted to the mine by a system of cables, and the work of driving the tunnel from Sheep creek through the mountains to the Perseverance will likewise give employment to a large number of men.

A shipment of copper ore from the Cordova Copper company's properties which went forward on the last steamer to the Tacoma smelter promises to cause some stir in copper circles when returns are received. The company refuses to state what per cent it thinks the copper will run, but intimated that it would be not less than 75 per cent. Eight hundred pounds of the ore is known to be pure native copper. The property is on Fleming spit, about a mile from Cordova, and considerable development work has been done. It was only recently, however, that the rich lead was uncovered. It is said to be ten feet in width, but owing to the snow and other obstructions now on the ground it cannot be traced for its length.

exceedingly flat dip of the lode, presents a waste rock problem that is yet to be solved. Fairly well mineralized ground is revealed in the North lode, where a limited amount of drifting has been done at the seventh level, and a further good showing is had on the eleventh level at the intersection of the Medora lode with the west fissure, but with these exceptions the existing conditions are anything but encouraging. Mining operations will continue, and an endeavor will be made early this summer to locate the Osceola and Kearsarge lodes, which undoubtedly traverse the ten-mile stretch of mineral lands owned by the company.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale's activity is evidenced by an increasing rock production, the present output of 1,000 tons daily comparing with not over 700 tons daily a year ago. Production is now being had regularly through four shafts. At the No. 6 shaft, the new hoist has been turned over and is expected to go into commission this week. The shaft is sinking steadily below the seventh level and opening copper ground of excellent character at all points of attack. Shafts No. 4 and No. 5, next north, are doing equally well while the No. 2 shaft opened on the old mine and producing more than half the total output of rock, continues in ground of considerably lower copper content, though a slight improvement is noted in the south drifts as they reach under the old Huron workings. At "A" shaft on the Baltic lode, operations are confined to sinking. The shaft was put down over 100 feet during the month of March, and is now approximately 300 feet in depth. The lode will be opened laterally at the 500 level. Nothing of importance in the way of mineralized ground has developed thus far.

New Baltic.

The New Baltic company has erected a diamond drill stand, and is awaiting the receipt of the machine. The company expects to have two diamond drills in operation shortly. Trenching has temporarily ceased, owing to spring freshets and the attendant difficulties in keeping the surface workings free of water.

Ojibway.

Ojibway has reached the 800 level in the No. 1 shaft and is preparing to cut the fourth level station. The shaft reveals ground much the same as was noted higher up, in which occasional stringers of copper are in evidence, denoting the proximity of the lode to the shaft at this point.

Mass.

Mass has two machines rigged up in the lode recently disclosed south of shaft "A," and is driving both ways upon it. The rock, an epidote carrying considerable fine copper, presents a very rich appearance, but a careful inspection shows much of the mineral to be in the shape of flake copper and difficult to save in the process of milling. The new discovery is apparently not without value, and certainly looks promising.

Oneco.

Oneco is planning to make a thorough exploraton of its mineral lands north of the Arcadian. The company expects to locate the Baltic lode recently disclosed on the New Baltic Exploration company's property next south. The work will begin as soon as the weather moderates.

construction of a modern surface plant at the Eureka shaft. A machine shop, 32 by 70 feet, of pleasing design, with high roof, well lighted and substantially built, has just been completed and equipped with the finest machine tools, including a Blondin lathe, twenty feet long, radiator drill, Acme bolt cutter, American drill press, pipe machine to cut sizes from two to twelve inches, shaper, hack saw, combination punch and shears and emory stone. Adjoining the machine shop a warehouse is being erected of dressed lumber, the dimensions of which are 45 by 72 feet.

Grading for the smelter has been finished and excavating for ore and coke bins is progressing. The smelter, of 300 tons capacity, will be of steel construction throughout and designed with a view to its enlargement should it become necessary.

A spur has been constructed, 900 feet in length, from the Arizona Commercial railroad to serve the waterhouse, machine shop and smelter, and a switchback and high line spur will connect with the ore and coke bins. Three small houses for employes have also been erected.

Underground work at present is confined to cutting the sixth level station in the Eureka shaft, at a depth of 578 feet. The size of the station will be 21x40 feet and it should be completed in ten days. The new station pump of 750 gallons per minute capacity will then be installed and a drift started toward the west to connect with the winze at the old Black Hawk workings. With the new station pump installed, it will be an easy matter to unwater the shaft and recover the pumps on the 700-foot level. The opening of the 600-foot level will be pushed as rapidly as possible and the management expects to drive the drift to a connection with the Black Hawk workings before the middle of next August, the date set for the completion of the smelter. The opening of the 600-foot level will give 300 feet of stoping ground between the Eureka and Black Hawk shafts, and it is confidently expected that a continuous ore body will be found for that distance, as carbonate and glance ore was cut in the Eureka shaft and in the winze sunk forty-two feet below the intermediate level at the Black Hawk workings. Also the drift on this level east of the winze was in ore for a distance of 250 feet.

tion of the mine, the steel chamber was designed.

The Old Kloman Mine.

Diamond drilling is under way at the old Kloman mine property at Republic, Marquette range, an option on which was recently taken by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company. There is excellent reason for the belief that the Kloman eventually will become an important producer. When the mine was last operated, this more than a quarter of a century ago, ore was being taken from six pits, the deepest of which was only 240 feet. The mining work was very crudely done, small buckets being used for hoisting, and when a periodical depression overtoo the iron trade the Kloman fell by the wayside. Diamond drilling was subsequently conducted, but the boring was done too close to the hanging wall and not to sufficient depth, not much being known of the formation in those days. The deepest hole went down less than 1,000 feet, whereas the adjoining Republic mine of the Cambria Steel company has found its best ore bodies much below that depth. In fact, mining at the Republic is now in progress at a depth of 2,000 feet and the ore bodies are larger than were found nearer the surface. The Republic ore dips towards the Kloman. The Kingston pit of the Republic mine, which was worked up to the Kloman line, contains a vein that undoubtedly will be found to extend some distance into the Kloman lands.

Continued favorable developments are resulting from the extensive drill work that is being carried on in the territory between Republic, on the west, and Ishpeming, on the east. It is already practically assured that a number of large mines will be opened in this field. Borings showing ore of high grade have been made, some of the lenses found being located near the surface, while others are at considerable depth, demonstrating that the deposits make downward persistently and that the mines resulting will be long-lived. At the Buffalo & Susquehanna company's Portland mine at Michigamme, at the western end of the Marquette range, a start has been made by the contractors who are to strip 50,000 cubic yards of overburden and mine 100,000 tons of ore this season. The Buffalo & Susquehanna people have been paying a royalty on the property for several years and are anxious now to realize on the investment. The ore is of low grade, being lean in iron and high phosphorus, but the deposit is of considerable extent, and can be economically mined by the steam shovel method. Miles to the west, at the eastern end of the Gogebic range, extensive exploratory operations are in progress in the so-called Copps district, out from Marenisco. No less than seven diamond drills are in commission.

A heavy producer for a new mine this season, and one that is an underground proposition will be the New York State Steel company's Kellogg property, in the eastern portion of the Mesaba range. It would not be at all surprising if 500,000 tons and even more were shipped. The initial production was made last year, when 30,000 tons were sent out. The Kellogg deposit is estimated to contain some 10,000,000 tons of high grade ore and it is the announced intention of the operators to take out this ore as fast as possible. Development work has been proceeding vigorously for more than a year past. A considerable stockpile has been accumulated, in readiness for the advent of the shipping season. Working forces have recently been enlarged, incidental to which additional dwelling houses have been created at the mining location, which is a mile and a half west of the village of Biwabik. The Kellogg is operated under a lease which calls for a large annual production and the payment of a royalty of $1 a ton, this royalty being the largest at present in force in the Mesaba country.

The Biwabik Mine.

The Biwabik mine of the Biwabik Ore company, composed of Eastern furnace interests and in which the Steel corporation also is interested, is expected to send out probably more than half a million tons this year. The output last year was 365,000 tons. Operations were recently resumed for the season. The Biwabik is in excellent condition to forward a very large tonnage. It could produce upwards of 2,000,000 tons in a single year, if necessary, but as it is now the policy of the operating interests to ship only as much ore as is needed at their own furnaces, thus conserving the supplies, the mine has not been pushed to capacity for a number of years. It has, however, shipped in excess of a million tons per season. The property is excellently equipped and is wisely and ably managed.

A new property being opened on the Eastern Mesaba is Joseph Sellwood's Perkins mine, two miles northeast of Aurora. The ore body is being stripped. The Steel corporation's Stephens property, in the same vicinity, and which has been idle the past two years, is expected to be on the shipping list the coming season. So also are the Meadow and Fowler mines of the Jones & Laughlin company. The new Knox property of the New York State Steel company will be further developed. At Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Bangor and Syracuse mines, near the shore of Lake Embarrass, the ore bodies are now being opened after some years of incessant struggle with the water problem, and both properties will make shipments this year.

The open pit at the Steel corporation's Adams mine at Eveleth is being further enlarged, that portion of the ground formerly mined from the No. 1 and No. 4 shafts now being stripped. At the location which formerly was the village of Sparta, the Steel corporation is working a transformation. The town having been purchased, houses, business blocks and all, in order to permit of mining the ore beneath the site, the ground is rapidly being cleared of the buildings, the structures that it is impossible to remove to the new location at Gilbert being torn down. Stripping operations will be in progress shortly.

TEN MINUTE CULTURE COURSES OF FAMOUS MEN

"Vanity Fair" which describes Rawdon Crawley, as he wrapped the banknote Lord Steyne gave to Becky Sharp, around the bullet with which he intended to load the pistol that was to be used in his expected duel with Steyne.

Chauncey M. Depew once said to the writer that he had not read a novel in thirty years. He saw plenty of life, and in all its phases, without seeking for it in the pages of fiction. On the other hand, a long-time associate of Depew's, one of the great intellects concentrated upon railway development, William D. Bishop, who began the mergers which have now developed into the great system known as the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, found time almost every day to read some chapters of a novel.

Stern of face, quiet but with the suggestion of iron determination in his manner, he would not be judged at first sight as a man who would have the slightest inclination for fiction. Yet he found such cultivation as he had in reading of this kind. And in the days of his summer vacation at Saratoga, he spent many hours on the veranda of the hotel, absorbing the latest works of fiction.

In that respect Mr. Bishop resembled a college mate of his, who afterwards became president of Yale, Timothy Dwight. For when Dr. Dwight went to his vacation outing in the Berkshire Hills, he carried a store of novels, and curiously enough, was especially fond of the now almost forgotten novels of the late Dr. J. G. Holland. Fiction furnished him much of his mental recreation, but the fiction he preserved would not do more than fill a shelf five feet long.

The Newspapers His Library.

Jeremiah S. Black, a citizen of Pennsylvania, who held the office of secretary of state, there being no other from that state to hold that office until the present secretary, Mr. Knox, was named by President Taft, was a prodigious reader. And yet he found his chief fascination in recreative reading in a newspaper. Profound lawyer as he was, able judge and real statesman, he was happy if he had leisure enough to read a newspaper, beginning with the first line of the first column and reading every word, including the advertisements.

Judge Black once said to the writer that in reading a newspaper, he pictured the narratives of accidents, wars and rumors of wars, of politics, of births and deaths until at last the newspapers that he thus read fashioned for him a cosmogony that he thought better than any told by formal history. With his bushy eyebrows fringing the rims of his big spectacles his Roman nose pointing like a guiding finger at each line, his rugged face bent over the sheet, that grand old man pictured American life and the American citizen. He said he found as good as Homer in many newspaper reports, and he discovered the energy of American enterprise not only in the news columns but in the advertisements. His coat pocket was a sufficient shelf for him.

Chauncey M. Depew tells of a conversation he had with Joseph Chamberlain that furnishes a sidelight upon the reading of Gladstone. There was a very great cabinet crisis. The existence of the cabinet was suddenly imperilled. An immediate meeting was necessary, but they could not find Gladstone. At last some one suggested that they call at a house occupied by some literary people. A cabinet officer went there and found Gladstone intensely absorbed in a conversation with some literary Italians over a recent translation of Watts' hymns into Italian.

Governor Hughes and the Classics.

The speech delivered by Governor Hughes at Youngstown, Ohio, in the presidential campaign of last year is regarded as the most important address made by any Republican in that campaign. It sounded well when delivered and it read, as do Governor Hughes' vetoes, like the composition of a master of English style. Probably an explanation for this command of English and for the real cultivation which is one of the characteristics of Governor Hughes, is to be found in the convenient little library, no larger than can be well accommodated in the pockets of his coat, which is his companion when he travels and in his leisure moments. When he enters a railway car for a journey of some length he is prepared for an hour's association with the classics.

The reading of these authors not only is mental entertainment for him, but he finds in it mental stimulus and a perfect reaction from the cares of political life and executive administration. By this companionship he has been able to keep himself fresh and vigorous mentally. Scholarly men of New York city made it a point to read Governor Hughes' vetoes, of which there were a number in his first administration, finding in the style and treatment good proof that the governor keeps himself familiar with the classics.

Andrew Carnegie is a voracious reader. He is fond of the literature of music, and has made himself familiar with the biographies of the great composers. He reads Burns a great deal, and Shakespeare some, and in addition to that makes it a point to keep himself well informed upon all of the advances of science, of finance, of invention and of business. He reads rapidly and understandingly, absorbing and assimilating what is of value upon every page.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Duluth Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has proved the cure permanent.

J. E. Watts, 918 Tenth Ave., West Duluth, Minn., says: "I have no reason to withdraw anything I said about Doan's Kidney Pills when I endorsed them through the local papers several years ago. Prior to using this remedy I was subject to acute attacks of backache, so severe at times as to oblige me to stop work. I could not stoop and though I wore plasters and tried various remedies, I did not find relief. When Doan's Kidney Pills were strongly recommended to me, I procured a box and upon using them, was freed from my trouble. I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity in return for the benefit I received from them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, and the system is prepared for the coming event. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book of value to all expectant mothers mailed free.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A TEMPERANCE BEER

The Commendable Achievement of a Duluth Brewery.

FOR centuries, beer has been a standard beverage with the best classes of all civilized nations. In this country particularly it has been favored by many of our greatest men including William Penn, Samuel Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and thousands who in later years have distinguished themselves. For more than twenty-five years it has been the aim of the Fitger Brewing Co. to create a beer containing all the virtues of the old time brew, and at the same time decrease the percentage of alcohol contained. The fact that Fitger's Beer contains only 3½ percent alcohol, a smaller quantity than is contained in most patent medicines and just enough to aid digestion, is proof of this company's successful efforts. Thousands drink it in their homes and find in its tonic and food qualities a really beneficial beverage—a food and medicine combined. To the nervous and weak or to those whose tissues have been wasted through sickness it affords the proper elements to build up and strengthen the system as well as give delicious refreshment.

Try it in your home.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS said:—
"Forget not the rights of personal freedom. Seek not to enforce upon your brother, by legislative enactment, that virtue which he can possess only by the energy of his own will."

NO CESSATION IN THE BIG BULGE IN WHEAT

It Will Be Happy Easter for Patten, Bull Leader.

All Options Have Advance, the July in Chicago Leading.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 10.—It will be a happy Easter for Jim Patten, the bull leader, for wheat had another sensational bulge today, the more distant option leading. Chicago July closed 3¼c higher than Thursday—yesterday was a holiday—and both active options were up nearly 2 points in the Duluth market.

There was a steady demand right from the opening, and prices consistently advanced, closing at practically the highest level of the day. Argentine shipments were bullish, being 3,000,000 bu., against 3,808,000 bu last week and 6,048,000 bu a year ago.

The Modern Miller's report was somewhat bearish, but it had no influence on the market, buying kept on just the same. Both May and July were in good demand here. It was reported that Bartlett-Patten were heavy buyers in Chicago of July wheat, which closed more than tthree points up.

The Modern Miller says:

"Recent growing weather improved the condition of winter wheat in many sections, including some localities, where the prospects were poor. A more forward growth and healthier color to the plant is reported, notably in soft winter wheat territory. There are still many bad spots which may be plowed up. The geenral condition of hard winter wheat is favorable. Rain is needed in Texas, where the plant is suffering from lack of moisture."

Liverpool closed ⅛d to ¾d higher. There were no sessions in the continental markets.

The May option close 1¾c higher in Duluth, ½c higher in Chicago, 1½@1⅝c higher in Minneapolis, ⅞c higher in New York, ⅞c higher in St. Louis, 1⅛@1¼c higher in Kansas City and 2¼c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1¾c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, 3¼c higher in Chicago, 1½c higher in New York, 2⅜@2½c higher in St. Louis, 3⅜@3½c higher in Kansas City and 2⅝c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn and oats were unchanged from Thursday in Chicago. Corn closed unchanged to ¼d lower in Liverpool.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—Wheat was easier at the opening and under pressure to sell, stimulated by the easier American cables on Thursday at the close, and larger offerings. Values at this time were ¼ to ½d lower with the principal decline in May. Following the opening, the market responded to small buying and offerings became very scarce, and values advanced ⅜ to 1d. Support was attributed to nervousness among shorts, due to the light shipments from both Argentine and Australia and predictions of smaller world's shipments this week, with another liberal decrease on passage. The general market, however, was inactive, and at the close values were ⅛ to ¾d higher than Thursday.

"Corn was easier at the start and unchanged to ¼d lower in symptahy with larger La Plata offerings and a poor demand. Following the opening the market was extremely dull at opening prices."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 16 against 20 last year, and at Minneapolis 198 against 295 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 214 against 315 last year. Chicago received 21 against 9 last year. Winnipeg received 330 against 324 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 575,000 bu, last year 242,000 bu. Shipments—364,000 bu, last year 215,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 504,000 bu, last year 308,000 bu. Shipments—461,000 bu, last year 337,000 bu.

Wheat was actively traded in during the session in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ⅛c higher, at $1.20⅝, declined to $1.20¼, rallied to $1.21, declined to $1.20⅞, rallied to $1.22⅛, declined to $1.21⅞ and closed at $1.22⅛, a gain of 1¾c over Thursday. July wheat opened ¼c higher, at $1.21, declined to $1.20½, rallied to $1.21¾, declined to $1.21⅛, rallied to $1.22⅝ and closed at $1.22½, a gain of 1¾c over Thursday.

Durum wheat advanced 1c in this market, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet and closed unchanged. May flax opened unchanged at $1.66½, declined to $1.65¾, rallied to $1.66½ and closed there, unchanged from Thursday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.65½, declined to $1.64¾, rallied to $1.65½ and closed there, unchanged from Thursday. September flax was inactive and closed unchanged from Thursday at $1.40½ and October was unchanged at $1.36.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Inclined to Weakness Despite Firmness of Cables.

Chicago, April 10.—Despite firm cables, the wheat market was inclined to be weak during the early trading today, owing to considerable profit taking in the May delivery. Leading bulls were moderate sellers of that option and buyers of the July delivery. Spectacular features were entirely lacking and the volume of business was not large. The market opened firm, with prices unchanged to ⅜@½c higher, compared with Thursday's close. May being at $1.24⅞ to $1.25, and July at $1.12 to $1.12⅛. The pressure on May, however, soon carried the price down to $1.23⅞, while July, after touching $1.12¼, sold off to $1.11½.

Sentiment in the July became extremely bullish later in the day, owing to the urgent demand by one of the leading bulls. Excitement in the pit became intense during the final half hour and the price of that option rose rapidly. The top was reached at $1.15. May in the meantime sold up to $1.26. The close was excited and strong with May up ¼c at $1.25⅜. July was 3¼c higher at $1.14⅞@$1.15.

Ideal weather for farm work stimulated free selling of corn, which resulted in a weak market early in the day. There was generally selling by commission houses, and some profit taking by holders. Prices at the start were ⅛c to ⅜c lower, May opening at 66⅜c. Later May sold off to 65⅝c.

The market rallied late in the day, owing to the strength of wheat, May advancing to 66½c. The close was firm with May unchanged at 66½c.

Free selling of the September delivery had a depressing effect on the oats market. The selling was based mainly on the favorable outlook of the new crop. May opened unchanged at 54⅝c, and declined to 54¼c.

Provisions were firm at the start because of a 5c advance in live hogs, but eased off a trifle early in the session owing to realizing by outside holders. Prices at the start were a lower to 5@7½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Nervous Covering By Shorts Causes Strength in Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—The stronger cables caused by lighter Argentine and Australian shipments and estimated lighter world's shipments made the market open ¼c higher than Thursday's close. Support by the principal holders and the nervous covering of shorts made this market very strong and May advanced to a new high point, $1.22⅝. Stocks decreased 221,704 bu for the week, and it is estimated there was a decrease of 150,000 bu for the two days of the new week. Foundation Laid for $1.50 Wheat Market in America.

A Single Crop Failure Would Send Grain Soaring.

"The foundations are laid for $1.50 wheat," said one of the most prominent traders on the Duluth board this morning.

"If there should be a single crop failure in any of the large wheat-producing countries of the world, you will see wheat go to $1.50 a bushel in America this year. Conditions are just right for it, and the market is in a very critical condition.

"Right at the present time we are nearer to having a famine in wheat in this country than most people realize. The stocks are very low. It is rapidly coming to a point where this country needs all the wheat it can produce for home consumption, and it will not be long before we cease to be exporters. The export demand is heavy right now, and we haven't the wheat to sell."

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The past week has been a record breaker and the volume of business transacted was enormous. Some of the largest horse deals made on any market in recent years were consumated and among them being the 130 head to Grant & Co., the forty-four head of mules to the Richards company and the twenty-eight high-class drafters to the Lawrence Ice company of Lawrence, Mass. Numerous other good sales were made, while the retail trade was very satisfactory. While the market was nearly depleted of good big horses, new consignments are arriving to take their place. Big work horses from the logging camps are coming in daily and find ready takers among attending buyers from Dakota and Canada. The auction sale next Wednesday should be well attended.

"GOOD FRIDAY" —MRS. SAMPSON

Woman Acquitted of Murder Gives Out an Interview.

Lyons, N. Y., April 10.—Mrs. Georgia Allyn Sampson, whom a jury last night acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband, Harry Sampson, a nephew of the late Admiral Sampson, made the following statement today before leaving for her home at Macedonia:

"It was indeed a 'Good Friday' to me. God only knows what I have suffered, but I stood it for my father and mother.

"I am young and they are old, and I am willing to bear it. If father had given in at all, I would have dropped, too.

"Dear, dear, father, I never knew before what a father's love means. I knew I would be acquitted when the trial came, and I was contented to wait.

"I never dreamed that I would be accused of my husband's death until Mr. Hamilton testified at the inquest and everyone pointed at me. I am afraid of a gun."

IMMIGRANTS ARE RETURNING

Europe Again Sending Hordes of Laborers to This Country.

Over in Europe there is a belief prevalent that prosperity is returning to the United States. This belief is most conclusively borne out in the swarming to the shores of the United States of hordes of immigrants, who are filling the steerage cabins of every line steamer that is docking at Ellis Island, N. Y., and Duluth is getting her share.

Al Abraham, who returned yesterday from a trip to Europe, says that at the present time the immigration to this country is the heaviest it has been for years. Mr. Abraham returned to New York on one of the Hamburg company's liners. In the steerage hold of that ship were packed more than 2,500 immigrants. They were coming to the United States because they believed that prosperity is once more going to provide employment for the thousands of foreigners who flock to this country when the times are good.

Mr. Abraham states that over in Europe it is believed that good times are returning to this country. Laborers in this country have written their friends upon the other side, telling them to come over. Many of the people who left this country when the panic threatened are returning.

IMPROVED TONE NOTED IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

Flood of Inquiries Beginning to Bring Results in Actual Sales—Rental Problem Adjusting Itself—Good Demand for Suburban Property—Old Duncan House Is Sold.

The improved tone, which was noticeable in the real estate marke April 1, continued to gain strength during the week, and the real estate men are expecting the realization of the hopes which have reigned since early last fall.

Inquiry has been strong this spring, but there have been few actual transfers. That condition is changing and, although realty is closely held, there is considerable selling for realization of profit on investments and purchasing for actual use in building.

There isn't anything speculative about the market. No "boom," in the accepted sense of the term, as meaning unduly inflated values, is coming, and people, who go into the market for improved or unimproved real property do so because they believe it is a good investment, with prospects for good returns in fair interest and not with any idea of "getting rich quick" out of the proceeds of a big increase, from which they expect to draw at the top notch.

The market is strong and normally active. That is all real estate men want, for not even the investor or speculator is injured as much by a period of groundless high prices as the real estate man, for he knows the reaction is bound to come and react most certainly on him. Most of the sales made during the past week and most of those now in the air, are in improved or unimproved residence property. The home-building movement is on in all its strength. The suburbs are attracting the most attention, but the recognized residence divisions in the main part of the city are still far from built up, and desirable lots in those districts are selling at good prices.

Superior street business property is held tightly and very seldom is any of it turned loose on the market, or even allowed to be pried loose. Inquiry is strong, especially from Eastern people with money to invest in Duluth realty, but the owners realize the value of their property fully as much as prospective purchasers and they are averse to turning down the profits that are sure to come for a cash realization at present.

Prices are held at almost a prohibitive figure by owners of good business property, but the owners are setting their present prices by standards of what they expect five or ten years hence. They are doing it simply because they do not want to sell or don't care whether they sell or not. If they can secure advance profits, they may let go, but the purchaser will have to forgo any returns on his investment for some years. The seller gets these.

The rental problem is adjusting itself rapidly. It has given little trouble all around and everybody concerned is relieved. The usual number of people will move, but there are locations for everybody. It isn't very often that supply and demand in the matter of rentals off-set each other in a growing city, but that condition is presented in Duluth this year, as far as it may approach perfection, and the usually vexatious problem is solving itself.

Some people, who live in houses, want houses. The man at Lakeside would prefer to live farther west, and the man farther west would prefer to move east. To some Woodland is more charming than Park Point and to others, the aerial bridge to the contrary, Park Point has its allurements.

"This annual moving business reminds me a good deal of the conditions in fishing time," said a real estate man and rental agent yesterday. "You notice that in the fishing season, any number of men living down in Wisconsin come through Duluth on their way to the Northern Minnesota streams. People from here pass up the Northern Minnesota streams and go down into Wisconsin to fish. Anything at all for a change and in spring some people must change houses or they'd never live through the summer."

The rental problem has also been well taken care of among the business interests. A number of business houses were turned out on the market for locations by the building work in prospect for May 1, but they have nearly all been provided for. There was a spreading of the commercial district to the east on Superior street and an overflow to First street, which is constantly becoming of greater commercial importance, but everybody will have a new location May 1, and trade will go on as usual, while the builders will hold forth at their former locations.

Lakeside and Lester Park will move along a little more rapidly during the coming summer than ever before. The Lakeside Land company reports good inquiry, and if that is any criterion, it will do double the business of last year in the way of building homes on their land in the eastern suburbs. The new district of Lester Park, in which sewers were installed last summer, will be graded to some extent, and several homes will be built. The proximity to the lake, good car service and a freedom from the rush and bustle of the city by being just a little removed from it, have made Lakeside and Lester Park popular, and each year scores of homes have been erected there. There is plenty of room for the suburbs to grow.

The most important real estate deal of the week was made through the office of Little & Nolte, the former home of Charles A. Duncan on the northeast corner of Third street and Second avenue west being sold to Charles P. Meyers. The property includes a lot 100 by 140 feet and three houses. The main house, formerly occupied by Mr. Duncan, is on the corner and one smaller house in on the street to the east, the other being on the alley to the north.

The price is understood to be about $24,000. Mr. Duncan recently erected a fine new residence in the East end.

Other sales made recently by Little & Nolte are: Improved property on the corner of Sixth avenue east and Third street, including a lot 50 by 140 feet and two houses, for $6,000; lot on East Superior street, $2,500; four lots at Seventh street and Eleventh avenue east, for improvement, $1,600; two lots on Fourth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues east, for improvement, $1,200; lot on Eighth street, between Third and Fourth avenues east, for improvement, $525.

Architects say that their men are busy in preparation of the building work to be done in Duluth during the coming season. Though a number of big buildings are planned, the bulk of the work will be in the way of residences and apartment houses, of which numbers will be erected in all parts of the city. Most of the fine residences will go up in the East end, East Third street seemingly being the most attractive locations.

Architect W. A. Hunt is preparing plans for two more fine residences in the East end district. Joseph Sellwood will erect a $40,000 residence on the corner of Eighteenth avenue east and Superior street. Plans are also being prepared for a $12,000 home for Mrs. Florada in the East end. Mr. Hunt is also preparing plans for a $25,000 home for Rudolph Weyerhaeuser of Cloquet.

Architect Austin Terryberry is taking bids on a four-flat building for Gotlieb Krause. It will be erected on Sixth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues east, will be of pressed brick, and will cost about $12,000.

Mr. Terryberry is also getting out plans for a double house for A. K. Love, on Twenty-sixth avenue west, between Second and Third streets. It will be of pressed brick, with yellow pine interior finish, and will cost about $5,000.

N. J. Upham & Co. report the following sales:

George Wieland to Nicholas Mueller, lots 4, 5 and 6, block 128, Portland division, being 75 feet on the north side of Sixth street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, $1,500.

Ewald Mueller to M. J. Healy, the west one-half of lot 25, West Fifth street, Duluth proper, First division, at 115 West Fifth street, $3,300.

S. S. Altschul to H. A. Nelson, lot 12 and the east 6 feet of lot 11, block 29, Portland division, on First street between Fourth and Fifth avenues east, $1,400.

Axel W. Anderson to Charles Beuglet, part lot 15, block 95, Endion, being 35 feet on the north side of Fourth

TWO NEW CLUB BUILDINGS ARE RAPIDLY NEARING COMPLETION

THE NEW COMMERCIAL CLUB BUILDING.

Two fine club buildings are now being built in Duluth, the Elks' temple between Third and Fourth avenues west on First street, and the Commercial club's new building on the corner of Fourth avenue west and First street.

The new home of the Elks is practically completed, except for the decoration of the interior, and will be occupied by the order by May 1. The building is complete in every respect, and has one of the most attractive and artistic fronts of any structure in the city. The cost was about $25,000.

On the first floor are located large storerooms, but both the upper floors are to be devoted exclusively to the uses of the lodge. They will give the local branch of the order of Elks' one of the finest lodge homes in the country, and there are many very attractive ones.

At each side of the facade in front, there are two Elks' heads and another, with the clock dial, emblematic of the Elks' 11 o'clock toast, is a part of the pretty Mosaic work in the rotunda which leads to the quarters which are to be occupied by the lodge.

The new Commercial club building is still in the first stages of construction, but when it is completed it will be the finest building in the city. It will be three stories high when finished. The club will occupy two floors, giving the members twice as much room as they have in the present quarters.

Red brick and white stone are being effectively and artistically used in the construction of the building, which is progressing very rapidly. The new home of the club will be a valuable adjunct to First street, which is enjoying considerable prosperity right now.

The new building will give the club much more room, the lack of which has been a drawback in the present quarters on Superior street.

A HANDSOME HOME

We will build you a house like the one in this cut of the very best material on a handsome lot of good size in a desirable location, for perhaps 50 per cent of what this house would cost you on the same property in a year or two years from now.

Investigate and see if building material is not very cheap. We have done so, and are making a specialty this spring of building homes, because we can do so and give the purchasers more for their money than ever before, and much more than they will be able to obtain perhaps in six months from now.

We own lots close to the business center, at the Normal school district, Hunter's Park and Lakeside. You owe it to yourself to consider this proposition as early as possible.

If interested call at once.

RAISE CLOVER, IS HIS ADVICE

Scientific Farming Is Discussed by Speakers at Y. M. C. A.

Clover will grow better in the northern part of the state than in any other part of Minnesota.

This bit of information to those interested in the agricultural welfare of this county was given last evening by Coats P. Bull of the Minnesota State College of Agriculture, at the Y. M. C. A., before an audience interested in the development of the farming industry of St. Louis county.

Mr. Bull informed his audience that clover was one of the things that should should be cultivated by the farmers of this part of the state. He stated that clover growing was a great soil builder and prepared the soil for the growth of many other crops. The speaker stated that this country grew too little grass both for the needs of the soil and to supply the demand.

One reason why clover growing is so important in this part of the state, the speaker explained, is that clover contributes to the nitrogen of the soil. The growing of clover and other grasses also conserve the vitality of the soil.

Stereopticon pictures were used to illustrate the lecture.

Prof. John Gray of the agricultural college gave a talk on scientific farming. He informed those who would make a success of farming, that the old methods of a decade ago were just as obsolete as some of the old business methods were. Since it is a day of progress and economical effort, Mr. Gray informed his auditors that the farming profession must be placed upon the same scientific basis as the business of the country.

One of the important elements of success that enter into the farming of today, is the ability of the farmer to find out what the market wants and then produce that desirable commodity, said the speaker. "This is essentially an age of co-operation. It is an age where business methods must be applied. The farmer of today, if he is going to be successful, must develop business instincts. Not only must he develop business instincts, but he must also apply science to his farming, for this is an age of science, and the farmer must not be left behind in the industrial race."

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT

AT THE LYCEUM—"The Lion and The Mouse."

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

Old Favorite Is Still in Hands of Good Company.

"The Lion and the Mouse" is one of those plays a person can see several times and still enjoy. It opened a two-nights' engagement at the Lyceum last night, before an audience that received it just as enthusiastically as did the big audience which filled the Lyceum upon the occasion of its first appearance here, two years ago.

A high standard of excellence is still maintained so far as acting is concerned. The three leading parts are especially well taken. Edith Barker is all-satisfying as Shirley Rossmore, the girl who successfully opposes John Burkett Ryder, the money king. She is pretty and graceful, has a pleasing voice and can act.

O D. Byron, as Ryder, doesn't make a very good impression when he first makes his appearance. The first two or three minutes he is on the stage one is inclined to be disappointed, but this feeling soon turns to one of appreciation for a hard character well portrayed, when Mr. Byron settles down to his pace. Malcolm Duncan is very good as Jefferson Ryder, son of the money king. He is forceful and sincere, and his appearance fits the part.

The story of the play is too well known to bear repetition. It shows in a startling manner the power of capital in interfering with the national government in America, and the heartlessness of some big financiers in crushing men who stand in the way. Shirley Rossmore is a type of American girl that arouses one to a high pitch of enthusiastic admiration.

The performance was repeated this afternoon, and the engagement will conclude this evening.

BOUQUET FOR THE MILITIA

Inspector Says Duluth Soldiers Are Best in State.

High Compliment Is Paid the Three Local Companies.

After the annual government inspection of the Duluth militia by Lieut. Col. William Gerlach, United States army, retired, of St. Paul, last night, the inspecting officer declared the showing of the Duluth battalion was the finest of any battalion in the state.

Following the inspection, the 254 men, all in full dress uniform, passed in review before the mayor and city council. The attendance of the battalion was 100 per cent, something very unusual for any body of militia. A big crowd of frends of the militiamen had gathered to witness the marching of the troops, and the galleries were filled.

"Duluth can always be depended upon to hold up her reputation for fine work in the militia," said Col Gerlach, "but this time she has surpassed herself. The success of the local battalion is due largely to the energy of the officers, particularly Maj. Eva, Col. Resche, and the captains of the three companies of which the battalion is comprised. It is always a delight to inspect the Duluth battalion."

Formerly the annual inspection has been made with the men in heavy marching order and khaki uniform, but last night the usual custom was violated, and the inspection was made in dress uniform. This was because of the fact that the equipment of the local battalion is not in good condition now, because of the length of time it has been in service. A new issue of camp and marching equipment will be made next summer.

Capt. William Hatcher, military storekeeper, and Capt. E. M. Van Duzee, regimental adjutant, both of St. Paul, and members of Col. Gerlach's staff, were present.

After the review before the mayor and aldermen, each company was put through one movement of the manual. Company C, under command of F. D. Knowlton, went through with guard mount. Company A, under Capt. K. A. Franklin, gave an exhibition drill, including the execution of commands for loading and firing. Company E, under Capt. W. B. Miser, gave an exhibition drill in marching.

While in the city Capt. Hatcher will inspect the camp and field equipment of the battalion, and will condemn that which is unfit for further service, making out a requisition for new equipment sufficient to complete the property of the companies.

Maj. Eva will be the guest of honor at a banquet tendered him by members of the battalion on April 26, the twentieth anniversary of his services in the Minnesota National Guard.

Rheumatism.

More than nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles, due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism. In such cases no internal treatment is required. The free application of Chamberlain's Liniment is all that is needed, and it is certain to give quick relief. Give it a trial and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain and soreness. The medicines usually given internally for rheumatism are poisonous or very strong medicines. They are worse than useless in cases of chronic and muscular rheumatism. For sale by all druggists.

Work of Madame Sterling, Palmist, proving very satisfactory; is clever. Those who have visited the parlors of Madam Sterling the past eight months have been surprised at the excellence of the readings she has given them. She goes into details and tells the past in a very accurate manner, and her prognostications as to the future are very interesting. Madame Sterling is out of the ordinary in some respects, in that she tells your "history" as it has been. If there are any spots on it, Madame Sterling can tell you, if you want it, and you will be pleased after a reading. Palm reading, both hands, 25c; card reading, 50c.

ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL REPORTED TO SENATE AND PUT ON GENERAL ORDERS

Then Referred Back to Committee for Further Hearing.

Senate Recalls Firemen's Relief Fund Bill From Governor.

Laybourn Objects to Suspending Rules on Any General Bills.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The awkward situation of the tonnage tax bill, which followed the adoption by the senate of a resolution requiring the tax committee to report the bill today before tax hearings were finished, was met very deftly by the committee this morning to the apparent satisfaction of all interests. The report was required before the committee had completed its hearings, and before it could, in good conscience, pass upon the bill, therefore the bill was reported out without recommendation.

The reason the senate called out the bill was that it wanted a chance to act upon it and to that end the committee recommended that the bill be printed and placed on general orders. But another hearing on the bill had been scheduled for tomorrow night and the committee requested that the bill be referred back to it for the purpose of giving it further hearing. In order that the object of the Sageng resolution should not be defeated, it was recommended that this second refer-

MOUNT ETNA BREAKS OUT

Ashes and Smoke Again Pour From Famous Crater.

Sweden Has an Earthquake Which Causes Destruction.

Naples, April 12.—Mount Etna is in eruption.

A great cloud of smoke is pouring out of the crater and ashes are falling thick on the surrounding country. Considerable apprehension is felt, and the progress of the eruption is being watched with anxiety.

Earthquake in Sweden.

Copenhagen, April 12.—A violent earthquake occurred Saturday morning near Sundsvall, Sweden. It lasted nearly a minute and did considerable damage.

Lima, Peru, Is Shaken.

Lima, Peru, April 12.—A severe earthquake shock was experienced here at 3:45 this morning. The movement was from east to west and was accompanied by subterranean rumblings. No casualties resulted here. The quake was attended by a dense fog and clouds of dust. The cornices on several buildings were thrown down to the streets and clocks all over the city stopped. The shock was felt also at Callao, Barranca and Chorrillos.

INJUNCTION SUIT IS CONTINUED

Hearing in Missouri Railroad Case Will be April 23.

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—The hearing on the temporary injunction granted last Thursday against the plans of the eighteen Missouri railroads to enforce a new schedule of passenger rates was today continued to April 23 by the circuit court.

Circuit Attorney Jones suggested the delay, telling the court that he acted on information from Governor Hadley that Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, chief counsel for the roads, had declared that his clients were not ready to reply.

The court directed that the temporary order remain in force until after the formal hearing.

WOULD PUT CURB ON LEGISLATION

McCumber Proposes to Limit Special Pension Enactments.

Washington, April 12.—An effort to limit the volume of special pension legislation will be made by Senator McCumber, chairman of the committee on pensions, before the adjournment of congress. Such legislation has grown rapidly until, during the last congress about 8,000 bills, the object of most of which was to increase existing pensions were passed. This session 1,000 bills providing for pensions not obtainable under the general pension laws, have been introduced in the senate.

McCumber believes it possible to reach an agreement by which the house and senate practically will pledge themselves that they will pass a given amount of pension legislation in one session and no more.

GRAND JURY NEARS END

No Indictments Will Be Returned Against the Chicago Packers.

Attorney General Wickersham Has Given Them Warning Instead.

Chicago, April 12.—The federal grand jury, which has been in session for four months, chiefly engaged in investigating charges of rebating against packing companies, probably will adjourn when it reconvenes April 21.

As Attorney General Wickersham has chosen to warn the packers against pursuing their method of collecting damages on shipments, alleged to be tantamount to accepting rebates, no indictments will be returned against the stock yards concerns.

Representatives of the packers declined to discuss the Wickersham letter today in advance of official information, and it is believed that they will take no action until the interstate commerce commission has made a new rule for the railroads in fixing the amount of money to be refunded on damage shipments.

The charge of peonage made some months ago against the contractor who is constructing the new plant of the Corn Products company at Argo, Ill., near Chicago, had not been sustained and in this case also there will be no indictments.

CRY "DOWN WITH THE REPUBLIC"

Striking Button Makers in France Cause Terror Reign.

Meru, France, April 12.—The striking button makers of Meru, whose demands for a continuance of the previous wage scale in the button factories have been followed by violence and disorder, have brought about a veritable reign of terror here and in the neighboring towns of Crepin and Lormaison.

About 2,000 soldiers under the command of Gen. Nicholas, consisting of dragoons, Hussars and cuirassiers and 500 gendarmes, under the leadership of the prefect of Oise are today patrolling the streets of all the towns and the surrounding country, where further violence is to be expected.

The mob is ugly and cries of "down with the republic" are heard constantly. The soldiers are bearing the insults of the people with great stoicism.

Strobridge Is Dead.

Cincinnati, April 12.—Hines Strobridge, president of the Strobridge Lithographing company and one of the founders of the lithographing industry in this city, died at his home here yesterday. He had been ill for some time from heart disease. During the Civil war he produced the first oil portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Webster and other celebrated men ever printed in this country.

Capt. William Roberts Dies.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—Capt. William H. Roberts, for many years captain in the United States navy, died yesterday in his apartments in a Los Angeles hotel, where he was staying with his wife and daughter. He served in the Civil war and had been commander of the revenue cutter Manning.

LIES STILL; SAVES LIFE

Wife, Badly Slashed By Her Husband, Feigns Death.

Little Hope for Recovery of Man; Throat Is Cut.

New York, April 12.—John Olberding, recently liberated from an asylum for insane, lies in a critical condition in Harlem hospital with his throat cut after a struggle with his wife in their apartment on East One-hundred and Twenty-sixth street last night in which he held her on the floor and cut her wrists with a razor.

Police and neighbors battered down the door and rescued the woman.

Mrs. Olberding's experience with her husband was terrible. For more than ten minutes he pursued her about the apartment, brandishing the razor, and at last he cornered her in the sitting room. After he had slashed her wrists she feigned death and so saved her life.

She will recover, but there is slight hope for the man.

KNIGHTS GUARD MODJESKA'S BODY

Casket Almost Buried From Sight by Floral Profusion.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—Almost buried from sight in a profusion of floral tributes, the casket containing the body of Mme. Helena Modjeska has occupied a guarded place of honor in the Knights of Columbus clubhouse since Saturday afternoon.

This morning in St. Vibian's cathedral, the funeral services began under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. High mass was celebrated by Mgr. Harnett and the funeral sermon was preached by Bishop Conaty.

After the church ceremonies the body was taken to Calvary cemetery, where it will be kept in a vault until Count Bozenta's affairs are so arranged that he can take it to Poland.

Marion Crawford's Funeral.

Sorrento, April 12.—The funeral of F. Marion Crawford, the American novelist, who died here April 9, took place today. The ceremony was exceedingly simple. The little town of Sant Angello was filled with well known persons from Rome, Naples, Capri, Sorrento and Florence, who had come to pay a last loving tribute to the memory of the author. The public buildings of Sorrento, as well as many private houses, displayed flags at half mast.

New Orleans, La., April 12.—The arrival in this port last night of the steamship Noruegan, the Norway-Mexican gulf steamship line, signalizes the permanent establishment of the first direct passenger and freight service between New Orleans and Scandinavian ports. Three ships have been put into the service with regular monthly sailings.

Cannon May Reorganize House Banking-Currency Committee.

Breach Between Speaker and Chairman Fowler Not Healed.

Washington, April 12.—Much speculation is heard concerning the new committee on banking and currency which will be appointed by Speaker Cannon, along with other committees of the house, probably on the last day of the special session, and it is predicted the speaker will reorganize the committee from head to foot. Inasmuch as the Aldrich commercial paper measure enacted into law by the Sixtieth congress is regarded as a temporary measure, it is expected the new committee will be called upon to serve some very important financial questions and assignments to it, therefore, are anxiously sought.

EDWARD B. VREELAND.

Representative Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey has been chairman of the committee for several years. For some time, however, he has been in sharp conflict with Speaker Cannon. Mr. Fowler's reappointment as chairman of the committee two years ago was the subject of much consideration. Since that time Mr. Fowler has done little to heal the breach between himself and the speaker. The New Jersey member was th only Republican who announced his candidacy to succeed Mr. Cannon as speaker of the Sixty-first congress, and the fact that he did not make a campaign for the position was not due to any regard for the ambitions of Cannon.

Fowler was one of the insurgents who caused trouble for the Republican organization in the fight over the adoption of the rules of the house. However, his high standing as an authority on finance and his generai ability may again prove factors strong enough to retain the chairmanship for him.

If the speaker decides to reorgan-

THEY PASS LIE AGAIN

Mr. Roosevelt and Paris Newspaper Correspondent Are Busy.

Former President Repeats His Denial of Being Interviewed.

Paris, April 12.—Theodore Roosevelt and a correspondent of Le Journal are engaged in a controversy regarding the veracity of the correspondent. Le Journal sent its representative to Naples to see Mr. Roosevelt, and subsequently the paper published a long interview with the former president of the United States, which was widely copied. Upon arrival at Port Said last Friday, Mr. Roosevelt sent a cablegram to a Paris paper saying he had given no such interview.

This was published, together with the assertion of the correspondent that he talked half an hour with Mr. Roosevelt, and that the text of the interview as given is strictly accurate.

This denial coming to the eye of Mr. Roosevelt at Suez, he has again cabled Paris, reiterating his denial, and characterizing the interview as "an impudent fabrication without a particle of foundation." He says also that he never saw the correspondent of Le Journal.

The correspondent has replied with a new affirmation of the truth of the interview, and declares that he is prepared to bring further proof of his veracity.

NOT BIDDING FOR HIGH SOCIETY

But Christian Scientists Rent the Hotel Plaza's Ballroom.

New York, April 12.—Although 500 Christian Scientists gathered in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Plaza yesterday afternoon no services were held and the meeting was adjourned until next Sunday.

It had been announced that the ballroom had been leased for a year for Sunday meetings, but Mrs. Delia M. Gelbert, the moving spirit behind the project, declared that she deemed it best to postpone the service for a week in view of the fact that what she styled erroneous statements had been circulated concerning the plan.

She was particularly emphatic in saying that the Christian Scientists were not making a bid to attract persons socially prominent.

SMALL IRON PRODUCERS WITHDRAW FROM MARKET.

Birmingham, Ala., April 12.—Brisk iron selling in the Birmingham district has caused some of the smaller producers to withdraw from the iron market for a while, not wishing to sell beyond the second quarter of the year at prevailing prices. This is taken to mean that an advance in quotations is looked for when the selling for the last half of the year is on in earnest. The larger companies are selling as fast as orders are offered.

SENATE TARIFF BILL'S RATES ARE LOWER THAN THOSE IN HOUSE BILL

Chairman Aldrich Presents Measure to the Upper House.

Finance Committee Restores Iron Ore to Dutiable List.

Tobacco Schedule Is Unchanged—Hardwoods Placed in Free Class.

Washington, April 12.—The senate committee on finance, with all members present, met at 10 o'clock today, and Chairman Aldrich presented the tariff bill as amended by the majority of the committee. Many of the revenue-producing features will be reported subsequently, as they are intertwined with administrative features of the measure which will be adopted later.

Senator Aldrich said:

"In the main, the rates in the tariff bill as reported from the senate finance committee are lower than those in the bill as it passed the house, the actual number of reductions being about three times the number of increases. Such increases as have been made have been largely rendered necessary to preserve the the symmetry of the schedules. A considerable number of articles in common use have been taken from the dutiable list of the house bill and restored to the free list. The great mass of the rates reported are below those of existing law."

In schedule "A" (the chemical schedule), the principal changes are in the nature of reductions below the house bill. One important change is in putting distilled and expressed oils upon the free list.

In schedule B (earths and earthenwares), the rates remain largely the same.

In the house bill, by a change in phraseology from existing law, the duties on common earthenware in two colors are raised from 25 to 60 per

MUSICIANS REBELLING

Will Form a New Canadian-American Union.

They Revolt Against Rule of the American Federation.

Chicago, April 12.—The sweet bells of unionized music are jangled harsh and out of tune, due to the announcement of the impending formation of a new national organization of musicians in opposition to the American Federation of Musicians.

R. W. Starr, general recording secretary of the American Musicians' union, announced today that a delegate convention of 200, representing 20,000 musicians of the American Musicians' union, the International Musical and Theatrical union, the Knights of Labor Musicians and half a dozen other bodies, will meet in New York April 29 to form a new organization to include the United States and Canada.

The revolt against the American Federation of Musicians, which is the musical end of the American Federation of Labor, is due to what he alleges is the arbitrary conduct of union affairs by the national organization.

A rigid system of fines and regulations, which make it hazardous for an orchestra or band of one city to play in another, are among the grievances which are charged against the federation, and which the new organization is designed to correct.

SLAYER WAITS IN DEATH CHAIR

Brief Delay Due to Misconnection of the Wires.

Ossining, N. Y., April 12.—For the murder of his mother, Susan Carlin, in her home in Brooklyn, Bernard Carlin, aged 22, was put to death by electricity in the state prison here at 6 a. m. today. One shock of the current consisting of 1,840 volts only was applied.

A short delay in applying the current was caused by the accidental disconnection of one of the wires with an electrode.

After a delay of nearly a minute the wire was readjusted, the current was turned on and one minute later Carlin was pronounced dead.

Carlin had been an inmate of charitable or reformatory institutions the greater part of his life, beginning in infancy when his father died. He blamed his mother for permitting him to remain in these institutions and when he was released from the reformatory a year ago, immediately purchased a revolver, went to his mother's home and killed her.

MAJ. WILLIAM STANTON KILLS SELF IN HOSPITAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—Maj. William A. Stanton, 65 years old, a former United States army officer and a wealthy mining engineer of Goldfield, Nev., committed suicide in California hospital, shooting himself in the mouth with a revolver. Maj. Stanton has been suffering from heart trouble. His former home was in Philadelphia.

BILL PROVIDES FOR SALE OF NON-MINERAL LANDS.

Washington, April 12.—Unappropriated non-mineral desert lands of the United States not contained within any Indian reservation, forest reserve, military post, or United States reclamation district may be sold to any citizen of the United States at the rate of $1.25 per acre if a bill introduced in the house by Delegate Andrews of New Mexico shall be enacted into law.

SENSATION EXPECTED

Something New About to Be Sprung in Boyle Case.

Lawyers Reassert Case Against Woman Kidnaper Will Fail.

Mercer, Pa., April 12.—Activity was manifested today in connection with the legal proceedings of the Whitla kidnaping case. Attorneys for the prosecution and defense are engaged in details of the case and a sensation is expected so far as Mrs. Boyle is concerned.

It is said today by attorneys of Mrs. Boyle that the case against her will fall flat. It is asserted she is guilty of no wrong under the Pennsylvania law. However, should the case take this turn the Ohio authorities will prosecute her on the charge of blackmail, for which she was indicted in Cleveland.

Last week it was announced that Mrs. Boyle would be taken to Sharon, Pa., and given a preliminary hearing on a charge of child stealing either today or tomorrow. Unexpected developments have occurred and it is undecided today whether the arrangement for the hearing will be carried out.

It is the intention of former Judge Miller, counsel for the woman and her husband to have Mrs. Boyle go into a preliminary hearing at Sharon. Members of the Whitla family will be called upon to testify and the prosecution forced to show the strength of its case against the woman. As it is persistently maintained that Mrs. Boyle was not in Pennsylvania when Willie Whitla was abducted, her attorneys hope to have the charges against her dropped at this hearing.

A strict watch is being kept over James H. Boyle by the Mercer jail officials. For two days the prisoner has been greatly disheartened and his appetite is poor. Mrs. Boyle's manner is

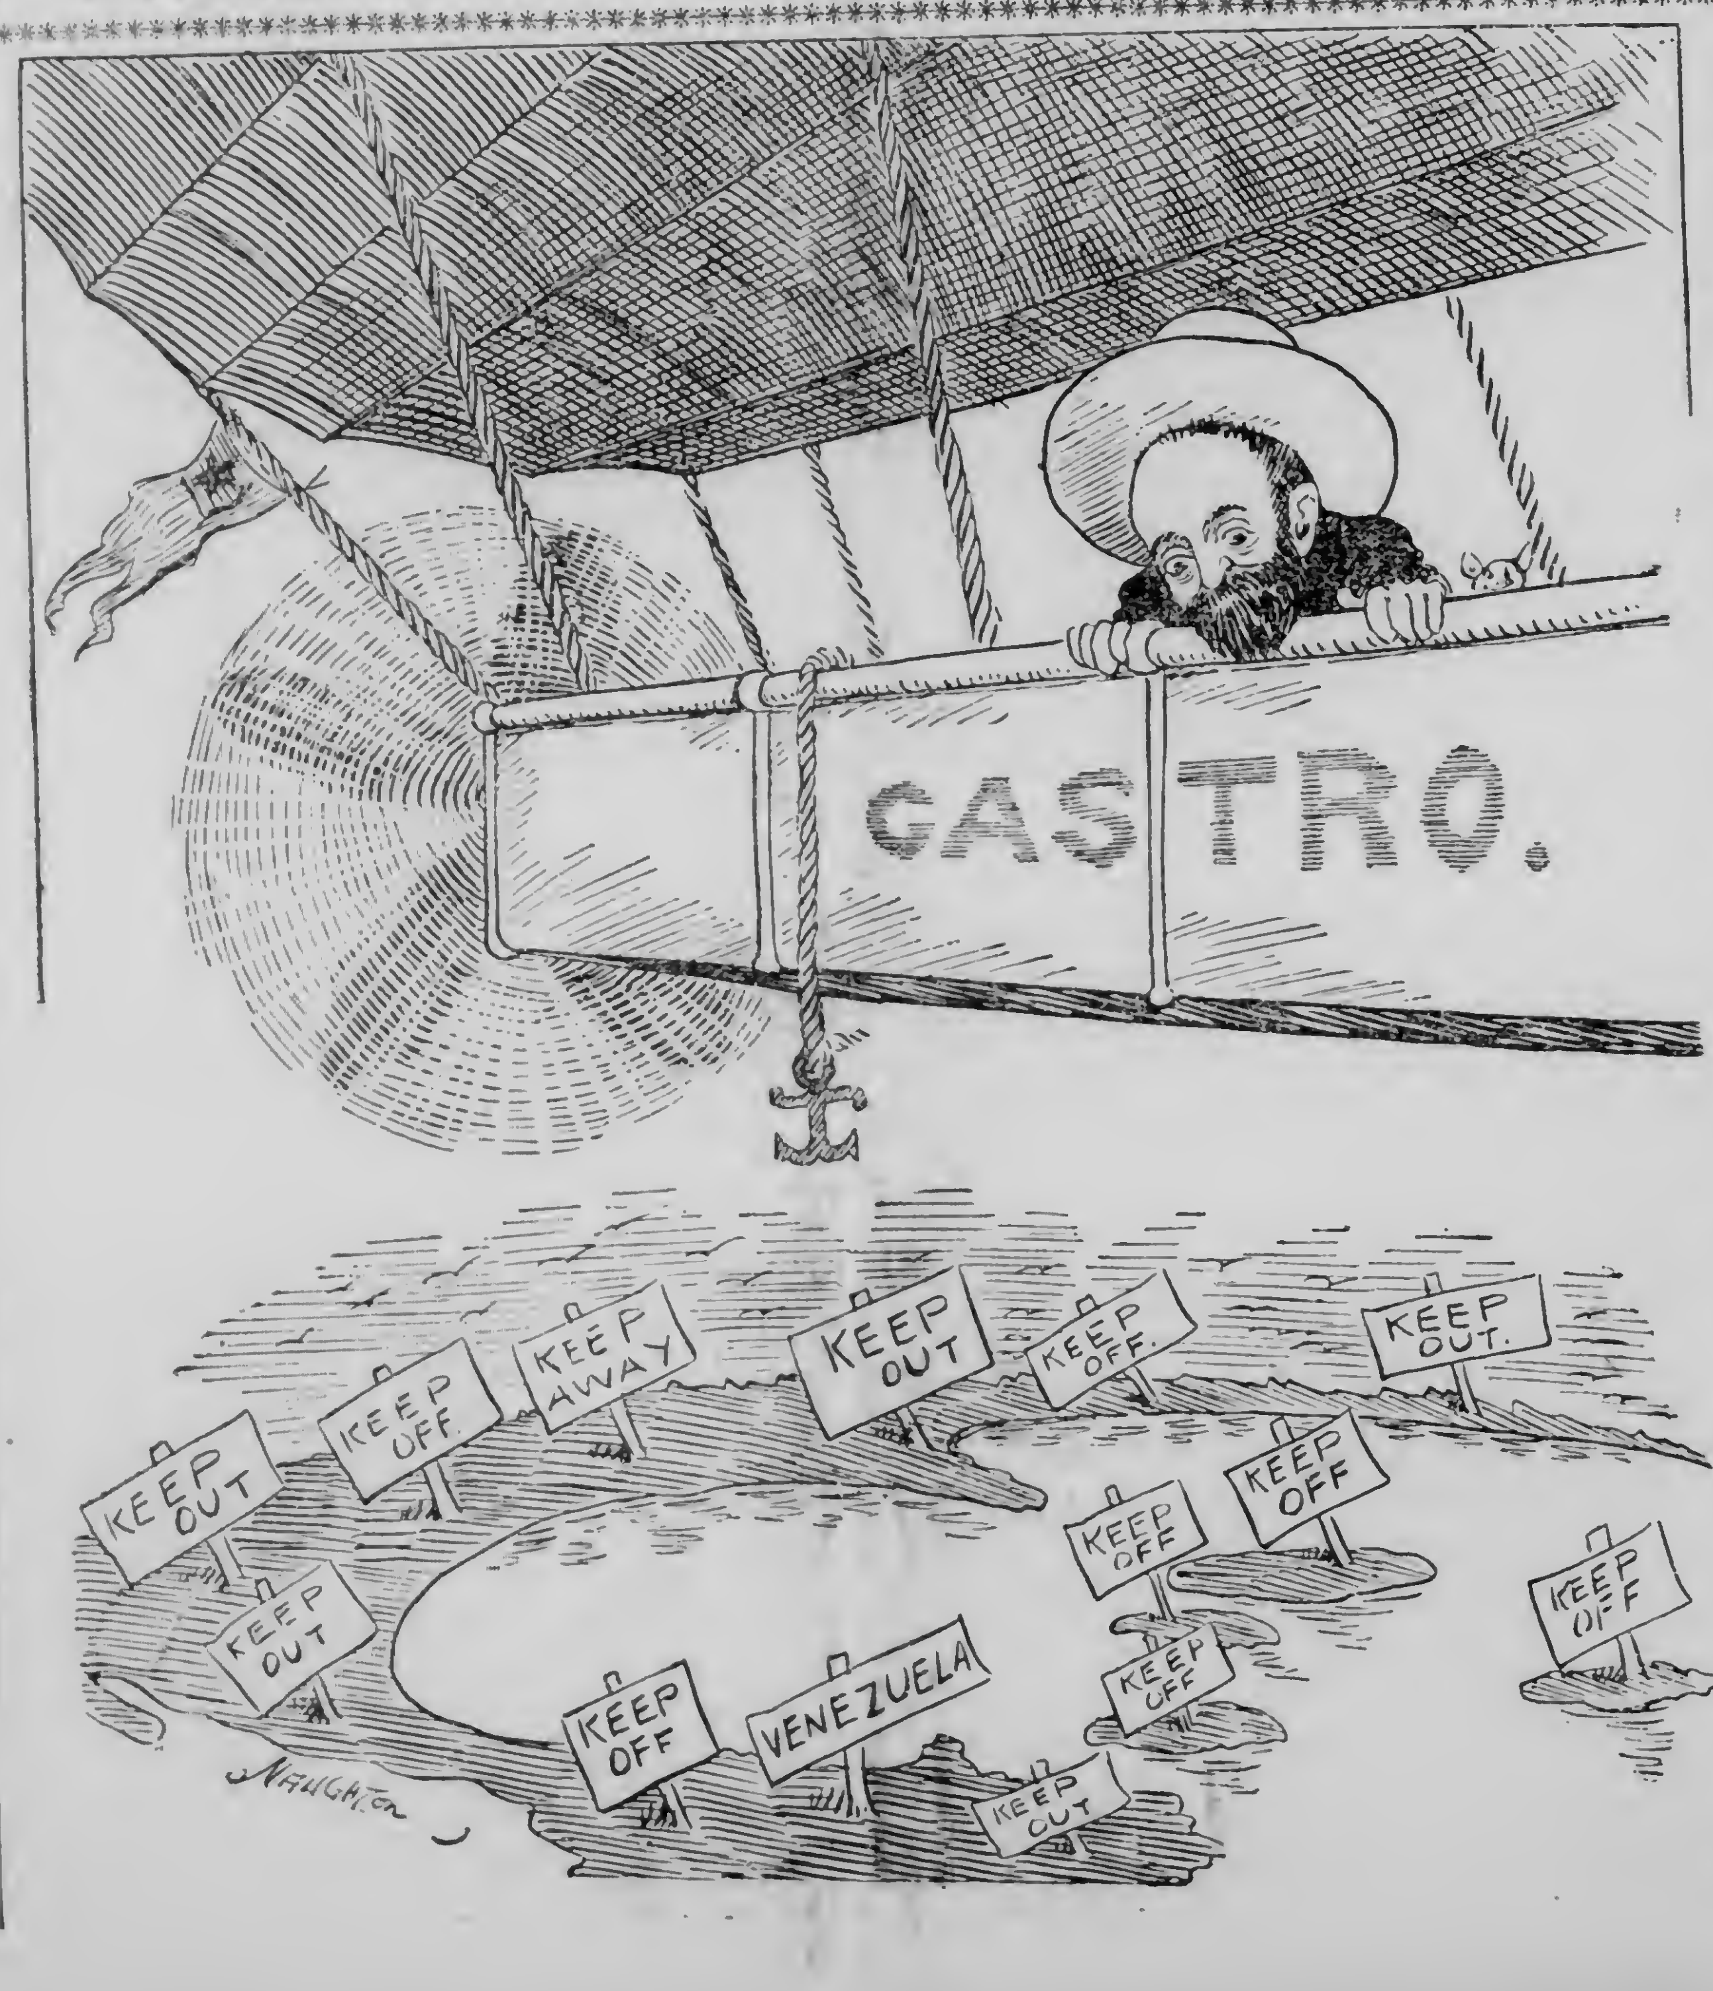
A SUGGESTION---WHY NOT VISIT VENEZUELA IN AN AIRSHIP.



TELEGRAPH COMPANIES HARD HIT BY THE CONTINUED HIGH WINDS

Chicago, April 12.—What with recent high winds and today's rain and fog, the telegraph companies report wires in bad shape west, south and east of Chicago today.

The last four months have brought unusual disaster to the telegraph companies. The blizzards of last winter razed wires and poles to a hitherto unknown extent, and after many weeks of work it was stated that hundreds of miles of line remained to be repaired.

Then came the gales of last week, which wrought havoc in sections untouched by the previous blizzard, and wrecked much repair work done after the winter's storm.

The trouble today was of a less serious nature, but the lines were in poor shape after their previous strain to withstand the rain, and great difficulty was experienced in forwarding telegrams. "Increasing delay" is reported from Omaha, Kansas City, Des Moines, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburg and other important points.

POLICE VIGILANT AT FUNERAL OF MARTYR TO THE BLACK HAND

New York, April 12.—The funeral of Lieut. Joseph Petrosino, assassinated while engaged in special service in Palermo, Sicily, was made the occasion today of a remarkable tribute.

The police department, including a number of its officials, many Italian societies and prominent citizens of that nationality, united in expressing the gratitude of New York city for Petrosino's self-sacrifice in his work, and sorrow because of the untimely ending of his career at the moment when he was believed to be engaged in his most important service to this city and country.

Although the hour set for the funeral services in the old St. Patrick's cathedral, Mott street, was 11 a. m., many Italians gathered early in Lafayette street, near the home of the detective, where the body was lying in state beneath a bank of flowers.

Twenty-five policemen were stationed in front of the Petrosino home, and fifty detectives were on duty in the yards and on the roofs of that and adjoining buildings. Four hundred and fifty policemen, including many dressed in plain clothes, were assigned to guard the funeral procession on its way from Lafayette street to the cathedral, and from the cathedral to Calvary cemetery on Long Island.

BOATS DUE ON APRIL 20

First Iron Ore Freighters Are Expected Next Week.

Shipping Season Will Be Open Sooner Than Anticipated.

Reports received in this city from Cleveland indicate that navigation at the Head of the Lakes will be opened about April 20, when, it is expected, some of the ships of the Pittsburg Steamship company will arrive here for cargoes of iron ore. While the reports are believed at the local office of the company, no official information has been received here.

"For various reasons I feel reasonably sure that navigation at the Head of the Lakes will open around April 20," said H. W. Brown, local agent for the Pittsburg Steamship company, this afternoon. "However, we have not received anything official at our Duluth office. We have no boats at the Head of the Lakes this spring, all of our vessels having been wintered in the lower lake region, and we have no intention of making any charters of boats belonging to other companies that are tied up here. If we carry any ore from Duluth this month the cargoes will be transported in our own boats, which will have to be brought to Duluth."

There is little question but what boats will be able to come to Duluth from the lower lake region around April 20. Tugs are now breaking up the ice in the bay here, and it will not be many days before the Duluth-Superior harbor will be almost entirely free from ice. Obstacles to navigation that might be encountered in the Soo river are said to be only slight. Ferry boats have been crossing the stream for several weeks, and if the weather remains favorable, boats from the lower lake ports will have no trouble in reaching Duluth.

MRS. MESKILL IS ARRESTED

Third Degree Assault Charge Results From Cat's Death.

Mrs. Lillian Meskill, who lives in Superior View addition, was arrested this morning charged with third degree assault. She is the woman who visited the police station last week and told the police that she had had trouble with Mrs. Carl Dreiling, a neighbor, because she believed the latter had killed her cat. Mrs. Dreiling, who had to visit a doctor as a result of the trouble, swore to the complaint.

"I am the daughter of a minister, and it would not look well if I were arrested for fighting," said Mrs. Meskill. "I would like to have this thing settled up without there being any warrant, or any court proceedings."

The woman was told that the matter rested entirely with Mrs. Dreiling. Mrs. Meskill pleaded not guilty in court this morning, and her hearing was set for next Wednesday. As nearly as the police can ascertain, someone poisoned the defendant's cat, and suspicion rested upon her neighbor. Despite Mrs. Dreiling's protestations of innocence, she is said to have taken revenge in the good old-fashioned fistic way, pulling her adversary's hair by way of variety. The set-to occurred in the alley behind the plaintiff's house and, according to all accounts, was fast and furious for awhile. Mrs. Dreiling received much the worst of it, and had to see a doctor about being patched up.

IS FINED FOR SUNDAY SALE

Keeping Store Open Sunday Cost Samuel Bernard $25.

Samuel Bernard, who operates a store on the Bowery, sold goods yesterday, in violation of the Sunday closing ordinance, and the offense cost him $25.

The merchant was arrested this morning, and pleaded guilty to the offense charged in police court. It was shown that he had sold a pair of mittens and a shirt.

City authorities are determined that law violations of this nature must stop. Warnings issued in the past, and even arrests, have had no effect. It is believed the $25 fine will be a lesson to all the merchants who make it a practice to sell things on the Sabbath.

FILO HITS THE TRAIL FOR AUSTRIA WHEN WIFEY SETS FOOT ON ELLIS ISLAND

An Austrian laborer leaned upon the ticket counter of one of the local railroad offices, and sighed wearily. He was obviously in trouble and he had evidently come looking or some one to assist in solving his difficulty. A second sigh escaped him. The intensity of the emission blew some papers from the counter, as an October wind scatters the leaves before it.

The immigrant agent looked up. His gaze encountered that of Filo Palovic, a man with a past.

Filo Palovic anxiously inquired the price of a ticket to Austria. Then he informed the ticket agent that he would call later for the ticket. He requested the ticket agent to be sure and save him a ticket, as if he were apprehensive lest tickets be exhausted upon the day he called.

Filo Palovic has a wife in Austria. There is where all the trouble began. This wife has signified her intention of coming to the land of the free and brave. That is where more trouble comes in. It is the intention of Palovic when he learns that his wife has set foot safely upon the shores of this country, to embark for the land of his birth. That is why he has made the anxious inquiry for the price of a ticket to Austria.

Seven years ago the Palovics parted. According to the story of Palovic, he repeatedly attempted to get his wife to come to this country. Just as many times she has refused. Then Palovic stopped writing to his better half. For five years no letters have passed between the pair.

Now comes the news. Mrs. Palovic asks forgiveness—she has married again. The marriage has proved a failure, not according to the way the retired president of this country would view it, for twins grace the union; but the second husband has failed to support his wife. She is coming to this country, twins and all, to make her home with Palovic.

But Mrs. ——, —Palovic don't know the second name of his wife—is very liable to be disappointed in the hope that Palovic will support her and the twins. She is liable to discover that her husband No. 1 has flown before her. Palovic is going to take no chances; he is going to wait until his wife has passed the inspection at Ellis Island, then he is going to leave on the first steamer and put as many miles of ocean as he possibly can between himself and the Mrs. and the twins.

Enoch Arden, hard pressed though he was, poor chap, faced no such predicament as does Filo Palovic. There were no twins in the case of Enoch, and even if there had been, it wasn't so hard to fill little mouths in those days of old.

So when Mrs. —— whatever her name is, passes westward she is liable to almost pass the eastward bound boat that is carrying Filo away from the peevish cry of the twins. Filo isn't such a dead one after all.

DANGEROUS FAKES.

Tricks to Introduce Alum Baking Powders Which Should Be Exposed.

There has recently been attempted at some of our grocery stores, and also at dwelling houses, by agents who are trying to sell alum baking powders, what the exhibitors call a baking powder test. They pretend to show by some boiling test that pure cream of tartar baking powders contain something which every woman of intelligence knows they do not.

It does not need a chemist to expose this trick. Cream of tartar, which is the chief constituent of the best and most wholesome baking powder, is originally a clear, white crystal. This is ground into a fine, creamy flour, in which form, mixed with baking soda, it is present in the baking powder. Cream of tartar, when mixed with water and boiled simply returns to its crystalline form, and that is all there is to the so-called test.

The matter of special interest to the public is to know what these people offer in place of cream of tartar powders of well known purity and established reputation against which these slanders are directed. They are offering a baking powder which official analyses have repeatedly shown is made from alum, a drug so well recognized by physicians and scientists as injurious to health that in many countries its use in bread is entirely prohibited! So cheap and inferior are the ingredients of this powder that it costs to make less than 3 cents a pound. No prudent housewife will knowingly put such stuff as this into her food.

SONS OF ELI WILL MEET

Yale Graduates Will Organize Association in Duluth.

They Will Hold Banquet at the Spalding April 24.

A Yale Alumni association is to be organized in Duluth. Its membership will comprise graduates of the Eastern educational institution who reside in the Head of the Lakes district, which includes Duluth, Superior and the range towns.

John C. Greenway of Coleraine, one of the best known Yale graduates in the West, has the project in charge. A meeting, at which there will be a banquet, has been called for April 24 at the Spalding hotel. The alumni will get together at that time and organize.

There are at least fifteen Yale graduates in Duluth, and thirty or more alumni in the Duluth district. Among the more recent graduates of the institution are: John Peyton, Walter Congdon, Ned Congdon, John C. Greenway, Paul Welch, William Drinkwater, Bernard Marshall, Seth Marshall and Rev. Albert Parker.

It is the intention to ultimately open club rooms in Duluth for members of the association. The Yale men locally are very much interested in the proposed organization, and it is believed that it will be a success from the start.

GOVERNOR STOPS FIGHT

The Mike Schreck-Walter Whitehead boxing contest, which was scheduled to take place at Hibbing tomorrow night, will be transferred to a Michigan town, where it will be pulled off either in private or public. The postponement of the bout was made necessary by an order from Governor Johnson, received this afternoon by Sheriff Bates, telling that official to notify the Hibbing Athletic club that the bout, which the governor said he understod was to take place tomorrow night, must not be pulled off. When notified, the officials of the club said that they would transfer the contest to a Michigan city, which has been very anxious to get it all along, and where a purse of $3,300 is guranteed.

The taking of the bout away from the range will be a sore disappointment to the sporting fraternity of both Duluth and the range towns.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Notwithstanding the fact that production is apparently exceeding consumption, the metal market is gradually strengthening. Lake is 13 to 13⅛ cents, and electrolytic is 12¾ to 12⅞ cents per pound. Sales at 13⅛ cents and 12⅞ cents, respectively, are reported for June delivery. There is a widespread sentiment among consumers that the price of copper will drop back around 12 cents again. This feeling is communicated to buyers, and is causing a withholding of orders. Consumption, therefore, is not taking its normal course. The stocks of copper, which are piling up in the hands of producers as visible supplies would be invisible under normal circumstances, as they would be carried by the consumers. The metal market may be described as drifting, and until some thing happens to convince consumers that the time to buy has arrived, it will continue dull and heavy. Then the surplus stocks will quickly disappear, and metal prices will advance 1 or 2 cents per pound. Those few producers who are availing themselves of every possible opportunity to sell now will have cause for regret later on. The situation is one in which the most optimistic will be the largest winners, whether they be producers or consumers.

"The generation of hydro-electric power is certain to receive widespread attention in this and coming years. Electrification of steam railroads will go ahead very rapidly. Both will consume a tremendous amount of copper. I feel very confident that within two years we shall witness another 'copper famine;' that consumption will again exceed production, and that the mines will be unable to supply the demand at a level of prices 50 per cent above those now prevailing. The copper trade has been through similar experiences many times in the past, and the disposition of some of those who pose as authorities to view the future with alarm would be exceedingly amusing, were it not that it is distinctly harmful to all concerned."

Will Choose Directors.

The annual election of the Commercial club will be held Wednesday, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon. The regular Australian ballot system will be followed in choosing the new directors of the club.

W. I. Prince, Henry Nolte, G. A. Everest and B. W. How are the holdover members of the board of directors, and with the five newly elected members to the board, will compose the board of directors of the club for the ensuing year.

The election of the officers of the club will take place Saturday by the board of directors.

We Are Fully Ready for After-Easter Shoppers

All lines are splendidly replenished until assortments are fully complete.

A liberal percentage of women have yet to provide themselves with spring wear, and the woman who has not yet shopped at the different establishments is liable to forget that the garments one gets, and the good sounding claims and promises that one reads cannot always be measured by the same yardstick.

About the only way to be sure, is to see—but again, seeing is sometimes at first quite deceiving, for garments may be sound, or unsound in parts not open to the eye.

Women are coming more and more to desire the well-dressed simplicity, smart style, quiet distinction, and good service that the tailored suit gives. These tailor-made devotees who have seen and tried the Gidding tailormades, have learned to know of a certainty that every line, every curve,and every detail, both exterior and interior, make for good looks, good wear, smart distinction, and a "shapeliness" that won't come out. We invite you here, either before or after you have looked the others over and we rely upon your own good judgment to tell you instantly where to buy.

Hats for After-Easter Shoppers

Great numbers of Gidding Bonnets have already found homes with faces they become. But versatile designers have been busy turning out new Headwear wonders, until the assemblage would almost deny that Easter had overtaken us. And those who have yet to choose Spring Hats will find assortments complete.

Tailored Suits $25, $29.50, $35, $39.50 $45 to $115.

One-Piece Dresses in the new weaves at $22.50 to $90.00.

Separate Coats $13.50 to $50.00.

Dress Skirts $6.75 to $30.00.

And everything that fashion demands, or woman desires in Waists, Petticoats, Undermuslins and Accessories.

DELEGATION TO PROTEST

Oneota and Hazelwood Residents Will Talk to City Council.

Will Oppose Granting of License for Saloon in Neighborhood.

Oneota and Hazelwood residents who are opposed to the granting of a saloon license to William Meier of Thirty-ninth avenue west and Oneota street, will attend the city council session this evening, in a body, to protest to the aldermen against the license.

A mass meeting of those opposed to the opening of the saloon, which is the one operated by Carpenter Bros. until their license was revoked for the selling of liquor to minors, was held yesterday afternoon in the Hazelwood Presbyterian church. About 100 men and women promised to make up the delegation to attend the council meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted and will be presented to the council:

"We, the residents of Oneota and Hazelwood park, wishing to protect our homes, children and property, do by these resolutions declare our unalterable opposition to the granting of a license to any person to sell intoxicating liquors within the residence district aforementioned, for the following reasons:

"1. There is practically no police protection, a result of which is a lax compliance with the provision of the laws.

"2. The district is essentially a residence district of laboring men whose earnings are needed for the support of their families.

"3. No financial gain will be made for the city, as another policeman must be paid if the license is granted.

"4. The city is under no obligation to provide a renter for the hotel owned by Mr. Meier and the Duluth Brewing & Malting company.

"5. Both of the aldermen from this ward oppose the granting of the license.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we urge upon the city council the right of a community under the law, and respectfully ask that the aldermen do not force this nuisance upon the people against the combined protest of the people and their aldermen.

"Be it further resolved, that we commend the act of the council in revoking the Carpenter license.

"Signed: A. Wicklund, chairman, and R. J. Gundy, secretary."

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Brick Yard May Be Established in West Duluth.

A pressed brick manufacturing plant is one of the good things being planned for West Duluth by William A. Whitney of Superior and Lucien and Lon Merritt of Duluth.

Grounds near the bay front are being considered. The brick will be made from sand and lime. It will be hardened by a hydraulic pressure process, instead of being baked by the sun, as clay bricks are.

Some years ago a brick yard was doing well at West Duluth. It was owned by J. P. Gunness. Several times during the last few years there has been talk of a brick yard at this end of town.

ORDINANCE IS UPHELD

First Conviction Secured Under New Garbage Measure.

Photographs Used to Prove Guilt of Theodore Nusbaum.

The camera was used to good effect in securing evidence against Theodore Nasbaum of 27 Mesaba avenue, charged with a violation of the new garbage ordinance, and chiefly as a result of the photographs being introduced at Nusbaum's hearing in municipal court this morning, before Judge Cutting, he was found guilty and fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to $16. This is the first conviction under the new ordinance.

Health Inspector Carhart, in making his rounds, stumbled across a huge pile of refuse in the yard of Nusbaum. He says that in all his experience it was the worst he ever encountered. Ashes, slops, old newspaper, beer kegs and bottles all were there, making an unattractive and unwholesome display. To make sure of his case, Mr. Carhart secured a camera and took several pictures of the huge pile of refuse. Despite the fact that the photographs were taken on a rainy day, some of them developed nicely, and from them a person could gain a good idea of conditions as they existed.

The new ordinance is much more strict than the old, and Health Commissioner Carhart says it must be strictly observed. Prosecutions will be brought wherever there are violations. The measure provides that receptacles must be provided for ashes, and for other refuse. It against the law to mix ashes with other refuse, for if this is done the garbage cannot be properly burned at the incinerator. Ashes must be kept in a separate receptacle.

Spring cleaning is now pretty generally under way all over the city. Unsightly heaps of rubbish, uncovered by the melting snow, are being removed, and back yards are being tidied up. Mayor Haven has not yet announced the date for the municipal spring cleaning day. As soon as the frost leaves the ground, and the weather permits, a day will be set aside as municipal cleaning day, and everybody will be expected to pitch in and assist in the work of cleaning up the city, putting it in presentable shape for the summer season.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

HORSES ARE WORKED OUT

Duluth Will Be Represented at Race Meets This Year.

Several Good Strings Will Be Tracked This Summer.

Duluth will send more harness horses to the big race meets this year than ever before in the history of the city. Among the number are some speedy youngsters that will surely be inside the money in most of their competitions.

The Frerker and Ansley string, which is stabled in the East end, is being worked daily by Trainer "Bob" Cherry and all of them are showing up to advantage. In this stable are Goldbug, a 6-year-old chestnut trotter that has never faced a starter; Queen Folsom, a bay trotting mare, 6 years old, that will make her maiden race this spring; Polly Pry, a bay pacing mare, who will hear the gong for the first time, and William McKinley, a bay pacer with a mark of 2:26½.

"I will take this valuable quartet of animals to Fargo the first day of next month and will track the string there until the June meets open," said Trainer Cherry today. "I have been roading them here for several weeks and they are showing great form."

Capt. Sullivan wintered his horses at the Hamline track and this season they will be taken to all of the big Canadian meets by Trainer Frank Loomis of Minneapolis. The string includes Lady Linton, a daughter of Lord Linton, who should be well up in the money this season. Other members of the Sullivan stable are Martigny, a green trotting stallion, and another colt.

Elliott & Runquist will race Onadonna, Miss Hartford and three or four other high bred steppers this year. They will do their spring training at Hamline, and the string will be in charge of Lon Matthews.

At Hibbing, Eveleth, Chisholm and Virginia the horsemen are all beginning to thaw out in preparation for the season's work. "Billy" Randall, the well known Duluth trainer, has gone to Hibbing to take charge of Byron O'Rourke's horses, which will probably be taken to Hamline later in the season.

TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION.

A. J. Frey Wants to Be Relieved of Duties at Y. M. C. A.

August J. Frey, for two years physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., has tendered his resignation to the directors of that organization. He says that he is desirous of being relieved of his duties on the first day of September. At a meeting held Saturday evening the directors considered Mr. Frey's request, but refused to accept the resignation.

Mr. Frey, who is a very able man in the physical department of the institution, came to Duluth shortly before the work of construction was begun on the new Y. M. C. A. building, and he has labored very faithfully. He says that his work is too confining, and he feels the need of a long rest.

First Annual Banquet.

From the way the list looks at present, it is expected that at least 200 members of the Y. M. C. A. will attend the annual banquet which will be given tomorrow evening at 6:30 in honor of the closing of the winter season in the gymnasium. W. E. Richardson will fill the role of toastmaster, and Mayor Haven, Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, John Uno Sebenius, Phil Bevis, Julius Barnes and A. J. Frey will make responses. A. A. Boelter, M. Pray and John Tresise will render vocal selections, Dr. D. H. Day will tell some humorous stories and W. J. Olcott will give a club-swinging exhibition.

"Kid" Teams Get Busy.

A number of baseball games were played Saturday among the "kid" teams of the city. The Eagles took one game from the seventh grade Jacksons and one from the Cubs, while the Lake Views broke even in a double-header with the Buzzers.

Columbias, 5; Larsons, 3.

In their first practice game of the season the Columbias defeated the Larsons yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 3. The contest was pulled off on the grounds at the foot of Fifteenth avenue west and was witnessed by many spectators. Fiero and Blaize and Gilbert did the battery work for the Columbias and McKenney and La Claire formed the battery for the Larsons. Ray Cole, manager of the Columbias, is desirious of securing games for his nine. He can be found at 934 Garfield avenue.

Tennis Club Active.

The Longview Tennis club is preparing for a busy season. The clubhouse at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Fourth street will be repaired and the grounds will receive considerable improvement. The club expects to have a membership of over fifty this season. Regular games will not be played until some time next month.

WEST END

CHURCHES WELL FILLED.

Services in West End Houses of Worship Well Attended.

West end churches were crowded at the Easter services held yesterday. Special sermons were given and the choirs sang beautiful Easter music.

In St. Luke's Episcopal church, the rector, Rev. R. J. Mooney, preached a strong sermon at the evening service. His text was "He Is Not Here, But is Risen," St. Luke, 24:6. The vested choir sang the service. The congregation was large and there were many out at the communion service, held at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Rev. Nils Nilson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church of Minneapolis, preached both morning and evening in the First Swedish Baptist church here. Rev. H. K. Madsen preached in the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church and Rev. Edwin Stromberg in the First Swedish Methodist church.

Rev. J. L. McBride, the pastor, conducted the Easter services in the Second Presbyterian church. There was a carol service in the evening. In the Central Baptist church, Rev. Loughridge preached and there was a carol service by Rev. M. O. Stockland.

COXSWAIN IN NAVY.

West Ender Home After Four Years in the Service.

Axel B. Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson of 1926 West Fourth street, is home after four years in the United States navy. He will make his home with his parents in this city.

Hanson went around the Horn with the torpedo boat flotilla, being a coxswain on the torpedo boat destroyer, Hull. Hanson and five shipmates were nearly drowned in the Bay of Magdalena, Mex. Their boat capsized and they floundered in the sea until picked up by others of the ship's crew.

Hanson says he would like to go back into the navy, but his parents want him to remain at home with them.

SUPERIOR NEWS

WILL SHIP CUYUNA ORE

Northern Pacific May Build Docks at Allouez Bay.

Reported in Superior That Construction Will Begin Soon.

Rumors are current in Superior today that the Northern Pacific road is planning to build ore docks on Nemadji point, just north of the river, and opposite the ore docks of the Great Northern road.

The Northern Pacific has the only road at present running through the Cuyuna range, and it is reported that the company is preparing to handle ore shipments from the new range. The company also owns some mining lands on the Cuyuna, on which some good ore strikes are said to have been made.

It was announced in The Herald recently that a railroad would be built to Duluth from the Cuyuna range by a company of which Cuyler Adams is the president. It is planned to begin work on this road this spring, and the plans for it may have stirred the Northern Pacific to activity.

The Northern Pacific property at the Nemadji river has been surveyed, and it is reported that work will be begun on the docks in the very near future.

AN AMENDMENT TO ORDINANCE

Will Be Unlawful for Minor Even to Enter Saloon.

It will be unlawful for a minor to even enter a saloon, unless on business for his employer, if an amendment to the minor liquor ordinance, which will be presented to the council this evening, is adopted.

The amendment, introduced by Alderman Shartel at the suggestion of Mayor Haven, makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for a minor to enter a saloon. The man in charge of the place at the time such offense is committed is equally guilty with the boy, and both are liable to a fine, not to exceed $20, or jail imprisonment not to exceed ten days.

The ordinance as it now stands makes it a misdemeanor for a minor between the ages of 18 and 21 to buy drinks in a saloon, but under it he is allowed to be in a saloon as long as he buys no drinks.

GWINN MAN STRICKEN WHILE GOING TO BED.

Negaunee, Mich. April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral was held at Gwinn Sunday afternoon of Robert McDowell, aged 30, and for several years employed by the Cleveland-Cliffs Mining cofpany, who died Thursday evening.

He was born in this city and spent his boyhood here, prior to the removal of the family to Ishpeming. He is survived by a wife and five children, all of whom reside in Ishpeming.

LOAVES TO BE SMALLER

Patten Wheat Corner Will Make Bread More Expensive.

Grocers Are Forced to Raise Price of Flour.

James A. Patten of Chicago has what practically amounts to a corner on May wheat, and the common people are being called upon to pay him millions of dollars in profits. As a result of the high price of wheat, the price of flour in Duluth, at retail, was today raised 15 cents a hundred, bringing the price to $3.40, from $3.25.

And this isn't all. Bakers say they are not going to raise the retail or wholesale price of bread, but it is said to be an understood fact among them, that they shall make their loaves a little smaller, so that they can go along making the usual profit at the old prices, and the purchaser will be none the wiser.

The grocers do not hold out any guarantee that flour will go no higher. They say there is a possibility of wheat going up to $1.50, and in this case, or even if the raise is smaller than that, the retail price of flour will be raised accordingly.

Those who are optimistically inclined will probably take into consideration, when they are paying advanced prices for flour, the fact that farmers who held on to their grain are getting good money for it, and will say that as long as the farmer is being benefited it is all right. This view is more pleasant than the one picturing speculators, who possibly never saw a farm, except from our windows, pocketing all the profits.

While there are some farmers who undoubtedly will benefit by the high prices, it is said that the majority had disposed of their wheat or the biggest part of it, at least, before the raise came. This leaves the increased profits to Patten and his followers.

ANOTHER ALIEN WOMAN ARRESTED

French Woman Caught in Superior By Immigration Office Deputy.

Jeanne Albot, alias Carmon Duforis, was arrested by one of the deputies from the United States immigration office Sunday in Superior. She was locked up in the county jail, being held there pending a hearing when she will be given an opportunity to show cause why she should not be deported from the country.

She has been about the Head of the Lakes country for the past six months, a part of which time she has spent on the range. At one time she is said to have been an inmate of one of the resorts on lower St. Croix avenue.

The woman is French and William H. Dean, inspector in charge of the local immigration office, believes she was imported into the county for immoral purposes by unknown parties.

The local office is making a determined effort to clean up all the alien immoral women in the community. There are now three waiting for deportation papers and there are likely to be more.

EASTER IN CHURCHES

Every House of Worship in Duluth Was Crowded.

Easter Music, Easter Sermons and Easter Flowers Mark the Day.

In every Christian church in Duluth yesterday Easter carols were sung, and an Easter sermon preached.

In spite of the rather threatening clouds, the weather was warm and pleasant, and the churches were crowded both morning and evening.

Easter attracts many people to the churches who never attend at any other time of the year, and there were many in Duluth yesterday who paid their annual visit to church. In many of the churches which are noted for their excellent music it was impossible to get a seat. At the Cathedral many were unable to gain admission.

All of the Duluth churches were beautifully decorated with floral offerings, and the altars were banked with lilies.

BRANDS STORY A BLACK LIE

Rabbi Lefkovits Says the Jews Did Not Crucify Jesus Christ.

Rabbi Lefkovits of Temple Emanuel spoke last night on "The Jew and the Christian."

He declared that the story that Jesus was crucified by the Jews is a falsehood, and has over and over again been proven a lie by all the great students of the world.

He said that teachers should be very careful of the impressions they create on the minds of the children by telling them this story. He said that the impression planted early in life was liable to stick, and that even though it were proved to him later, it would be hard to make him believe that the story he heard while a child was an untruth.

Mr. Lefkovits said that he had no quarrel with his Christian brothers, as that is what he considers them. He said they had made great progress and had accomplished good work. "I do protest," he said, "against the impregnation of thousands of young minds with the hate begotten lie of the Jews crucifying Jesus Christ."

He asked how men of the cloth could lead their flocks to the good of faith, hope, charity and good will toward all, when in the Sabbath schools this lie is taught, which is constantly making enemies for the Jewish people.

BURDICK TALKS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Railroad Evangelist Tells Men to Get Right With God.

The Matinee Musicale furnished the Easter music at the regular weekly men's meeting held in the assembly room of the Central Y. M. C. A. building unday afternoon. The music was the feature of the meeting, which was one of the largest held this year. Miss Bradshaw sang a solo, as did Miss Woodbridge. They also rendered a duet which was much enjoyed.

"Jim" Burwick, the railroad evangelist of Two Harbors, told the Easter story, and in his own picturesque language related some of the experiences of his wife. He urged his hearers to get right with God and impressed on them the fact that to live God's way the only real way of living.

His talk, delivered in his own peculiar style, was very interesting and was listened to with attention by the large crowd of men present.

Next Sunday will be the last of the meetings to be addressed by out-of-town men. Prof. D. B. Towner, the noted hymn writer, will be the speaker, and in addition to his talk will sing several of his own comptitions, accompanying himself on the organ.

The meetings for the rest of the summer will be addressed by local men.

CLEVER DOCTOR.

Cured a 20-Years' Trouble Without Any Medicine.

A wise Indiana physician cured a 20 years' stomach disease without any medicine as his patient tells.

"I had stomach trouble for 20 years, tried family medicines, patent medicines and all the simple remedies suggested by my friends, but grew worse all the time.

"Finally a doctor who is the most prominent physician in this part of the state told me medicine would do me no good, only irritate my stomach and make it worse—that I must look to diet and quit drinking coffee.

"I cried out in alarm, 'Quit drinking Coffee!' why 'What will I drink?'

"'Try Postum,' said the doctor, 'I drink it and you will like it when it is made according to directions, with cream, for it is delicious and has none of the bad effects coffee has.'

"Well that was two years ago and I am still drinking Postum. My stomach is right again and I know Doctor hit the nail on the head when he decided coffee was the cause of all my trouble. I only wish I had quit it years ago and drank Postum in its place."

Never too late to mend. Ten days' trial of Postum in place of coffee works wonders. "There's a Reason."

EVANGELIST IS AN EX-PUGILIST

Alf Allen, Former Middleweight Champion, to Address Woodsmen.

Woodsmen and laboringmen generally along the Bowery will this week have an opportunity to hear Alf Allen, former middleweight champion of Canada, who, since quitting the prize ring, has gained considerable note in the United States and Canada as an uplift worker. He will spend two weeks in Duluth.

He will do his talking at the Bethel, and the meetings will be open only to the class of men Bethel officers hope to benefit. He will tell the story of how he came to leave his old way of life and take up evangelism. Meetings will be held every night during his stay here, and it is expected that they will be largely attended.

Allen was well known to the sporting world as a prize fighter. He held the undisputed middleweight championship in Canada for years, and was the principal in many big ring battles. In the height of his fighting career he happened to attend an evangelistic meeting one night and became converted. Since that time he has been a hard and successful worker in the uplift movement.

Mr. Allen will speak at a men's mass meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building on Sunday, April 24.

PSYCHIC RESEARCH.

It Has Demonstrated the Power of the Soul.

"While organized spiritualism has done but little for the good of humanity, the honest labor of the 'Psychical Research society' has born wholesome fruit," said Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday. "It has perhaps not demonstrated a life beyond the grave to the satisfaction of everybody; but it has revealed the mysterious and wonderful power of the soul of man. No matter if we believe that the spirits of the dead may return to this earth or no, if they may communicate with the living or no, we must realize by the astounding demonstrations of the human mind, revealed in a seance room, that indeed we are akin in nature to the spirit in nature. We understand now better than before that we are the children of God. And this knowledge, be it spiritualistic or be it psychical, should deepen in us the religious life. But it will only do this where there is an active religious life. When such knowledge simply comes to a mind filled with curiosity about a possible beyond, there the fruitage is rarely satisfying. Many a one believes in spirits without having any spiritual life; he is certain that he has seen the dead arisen, while he has not eternal life in him. Even if spiritualism be true in its claims the history of spiritualism is not that of spiritual life.

"Yes, whatever spirits may do, or not do, humanity always has been and ever shall be inspired rather by men than by angels; inspired not by the sound of mysterious trumpets floating in the dusky air, but the voice of truth coming from warm human lips. Mankind will continue to get wisdom from seers and prophets, from olden Scripture which has slacked the spiritual thirst of a hundred generations rather than from any occult slate writing.

"If we would find a higher conception of immortality than the seance room can give to us, we must bring our soul in rapport with the good and the true in the world; we must see the eternal God-life manifested in His great sons and daughters and our faith will be strong; we must realize our own inherent divineness, and we shall not doubt immortality. The resuscitated or the resurrected Jesus gives us no proof of our immortality, but the Christ, who believed in His own deathlessness, because He knew the eternal God, as His Father, calls forth in us a conviction which is satisfied with itself."

CHILDREN TAKE PART.

Give Numbers in Special Easter Program at Lester Park.

The musical services held in the Lester Park M. E. church last evening were largely attended. The choir sang several numbers, but most of the delightful program was given by members of the Sunday school.

Miss Evelyn Le Tourneau gave a recitation, "Papa's Letters," and recitations were also given by Helen Wharton, Roble Wharton, Agnes Bradley, Bessie Sibbald, Anity Lundberg, Clinton Brookes and Rona Hanson.

The primary class sang a song, and "Easter Voices" was given by seven girls. Misses Bogen and Shaver sang a duet and Miss Bogen gave a solo. Miss Marion Brown sang "Springtime Again is Here."

EASTER PARADE WAS MISSING

The Weather Man Prevented Showing of Easter Finery.

Those people who made it a special object to stroll up and down Superior street and out Lakeside way yesterday, were grievlously disappointed in not seeing the display of Easter headgear and gladsome spring clothes, that one generally looks forward to upon the day that ushers in spring.

The Easter parade was distinctly a minus quantity yesterday. But few new bonnets were in evidence, and for some reason the new clothes were also not conspicuous in the throng that strolled up and down Superior street.

It was probably because the weather man did not serve up the brand of weather that brings out the gala day attire of Easter.

There were crowds upon the streets most of the day, particularly in the afternoon The people strolled up and down the streets, but the crowd was like the ordinary crowd that comes out upon any fine Sunday. It was not like an Easter crowd. The Easter hat and the new clothes were conspicuous by their absence.

There was a good attendance at all of the churches yesterday. Most of the Duluth churches were well filled at the morning services. At the churches many gorgeous Easter hats were worn, but the women who wore these hats, for the most part, went straight from church to their homes.

There were many automobiles out yesterday. Some of the feminine occupants of these autos wore Easter headgear of the approved stamp, but as a general rule the autos were hitting up such a merry clip that it was quite impossible for the curious to get more than a mere glance at the hat the lady wore.

HELPS POLICE FIND TROUBLE

Telephone Girl Develops Into an Amateur Detective.

Saturday evening a telephone girl at the central switchboard helped the police locate a signal of distress, and her work in this direction resulted in the arrest of Alfred Vaunier who, it developed, had dragged a woman he is claimed to have been abusing from the telephone when she attempted to call the police.

A woman's voice called for the police station about 6 o'clock in the evening, but when connections were made no answer could be secured from the call. Thinking something was wrong, the telephone girl looked the call up in the directory, and found it came from the old Masonic Temple building.

Two officers were dispatched to the address, where they found a man and a woman, who evidently had been engaged in a family row. They were taken to the station, and the man, giving his name as Vaunier, admitted that he had dragged his wife forcibly from the telephone when she attempted to call the police.

Vaunier pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct in police court this morning, and his hearing was set for this afternoon.

GETS BAD FALL.

Unknown Man Suffers Concussion of Brain, Falling From Stairs.

An unknown man fell from a flight of stairs in the rear of the O. K. saloon on Lake avenue, and suffered a concussion of the brain. He was removed to St Luke's hospital, where it is believed that he will recover.

The man's fall was due to the fact that the railing at the top of the stairs broke as he was about to descend, letting him fall to the ground. He had not been drinking. He is about 45 years of age. Two watches and $29 cash were found in his pockets.

The man was still unconscious at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

TOOK SHOT AT FLEEING MAN

Suspect Escapes From Special Officer in Darkness.

Special Officer Wahlstrom took a shot at an unknown man last night on the railroad track beween Second and Fourth avenues east, but the bullet went wild and the man made his escape.

Along about midnight the officer saw the unknown approaching with a heavy object upon his shoulder. He called to the man to stop, and told him he was under arrest. At this the stranger dropped the object he was carrying and started off at a run.

He hadn't gone far before Wahlstrom drew his revolver and fired. The man fell, but it was because he had stumbled over a tie, and not because he was hit. He soon disappeared in the darkness. The object dropped turned out to be a heavy beam, which probably was being taken for fuel.

ize the committee, it is believed he will select Representative Edward B. Vreeland of New York to head it. Mr. Vreeland has never been a member of the committee, but achieved signal honor a year ago by procuring the passage through the house of a bill he had drafted on the currency question which was later superseded by the Aldrich bill. Speaker Cannon then made him chairman of the house delegation on the monteary commission which is investigating the currency question.

Vacancies on the committee occur through the retirement from congress of ex-Representatives Weems and Burton of Ohio; Waldo of New York; Lewis of Georgia; Crawford of North Carolina, and the death of Former Representative Powers of Maine.

MUSICIANS REBELLING

zation,' said Mr. Starr. "We furnish a luxury. The difference between a good mechanic and a poor one is not great, but the difference between a good musician and a poor one is as great as the poles. For us a maximum and minimum wage scale is impossible. It has brought nothing but trouble so far."

Mr. Starr stated that several organizations of theatrical managers, amusement parks, state fairs and similar enterprises, stand back of the new movement, the bolt from the American federation has been brewing for years but first took a semblance of a form last summer, when the American Musicians' union secured an injunction against the American Federation, restraining the latter from in any way interfering with the business of the complainant.

In New York the prime mover in the revolt is Luther A. Ryer, president of No. 35, American Musicians union. His efforts, however were not confined to his home city, but to many others in this country and Canada, each of which, according to Mr Starr, will have delegates to the New York convention.

cent. The committee has reduced them to the rates of existing law. In glass and glassware the rates remain the same as in the house bill.

The senate committee restored iron ore to the dutiable list at 25 cents per ton—a reduction of 15 cents a ton from the Dingley rate. The house had made large reductions in this schedule throughout. Nearly all these reductions have been retained by the senate committee. In addition to those made by the house, the senate committee has made quite a large number of other reductions.

Lead Products Rates Raised.

The senate committee has ratified the house rate on lead ore of 1½ cents per pound, but has been obliged to raise the rates on lead products throughout the bill to correspond with this duty on lead ore.

Schedule D (wood and manufactures of wood), the senate has taken the house rate of $1 a thousand on rough lumber, a reduction of $1 from the Dingley law, and has retained the house rates on manufactures of woods, nearly all showing reductions from the Dingley rates. The only important change in the schedule made by the senate committee is the restoration of imported hardwoods to the free list.

The senate committee left the sugar schedule as it came from the house, but reduced the house rate on sugar in the biscuits and wafers from 50 to 20 per cent.

The tobacco schedule remains unchanged.

The agricultural schedule, including meat products, remains practically unchanged from existing law, but where reductions were made by the house, the senate committee has restored the Dingley rates, in response to the demands of farmers throughout the country and of the representatives of great agricultural products. The schedule is unchanged.

The senate has returned cocoa to the free list, believing that an article of such general consumption, both as a beverage and in all forms of chocolate, should no more be made dutiable than tea or coffee. The committee felt that if it was necessary to increase revenue, it could be done better on luxuries than on the everyday necessities of life, and have pursued this policy in the construction of this bill.

The senate committee has applied the same principle to spices, and has restored them to the free list, where they have always been. Again, on the same principle, the senate committee has increased the rates on spirits and wines 15 per cent throughout, which, it is estimated, will yield an additional revenue of $3,000,000, most of which will come from the increased duty on champagne.

Extension of Specific Rates.

In the cotton schedule there has been an extension of the specific rates to cover a class of fancy goods and novelties which are covered in the existing law by ad valorem rates. The resulting ad valorem rates have not been increased. The average rates in the cotton schedule, other than the rates on fancies and novelties, remain the same. There is one exception to this statement, and that is the reduction from the house bill on fashioned hosiery, where the committee has recommended the restoration of the rates of the existing law. The committee contemplates a still further substitution of specific for ad valorem rates in other paragraphs of the bill.

Raw flax has been restored by the senate committee to the dutiable list, otherwise the schedule remains substantially as it came from the house.

The senate committee has restored the rates in the wool schedule to the rates of the present law.

In silks the senate committee has adopted a new schedule, replacing ad valorem with specific rates in all cases where it was possible to do so, showing a slight average reduction from the equivalent ad valorem.

The senate committee has not yet decided what rates it will recommend in regard to wood pulp and the articles dependent upon it. They have also left open for further question the duties on coal and hides.

It would be impossible in a brief statement to review all the articles under the heading of cundries. The changes from the house bill in the main are of such minor importance as not to require a detailed statement. It may be well, however, to call attention to the fact that the senate committee has made a reduction of 15 per cent on an average in the specific duties on hats and bonnets, which the house had raised in some instances above the Dingley rates. The senate committee has also struck out the house paragraph in regard to gloves and has restored the rates in the existing law.

The senate committee has also added to the sundries of the dutiable list foreign built yachts owned by American citizens, which seemed to the committee a luxury which might fairly pay a duty of 35 per cent.

The Free List.

The free list, as reported by the senate committee, in the main remains as it is in the existing law. A few items have been put on the dutiable list and others have been taken from the dutiable list and placed upon the free list. There is one change, however, in the free list which is of great general interest and that is the provision in regard to free art. The house very wisely made paintings and sculptors more than twenty years of age free, and the senate committee has added to these works of art generally, including artistic antiquities more than a hundred years old.

The senate committee has taken no action as yet upon the maximum and minimum provisions or the administrative sections of the bill. They propose to report their amendments to these most important features of the act a ta later date. They have adopted this course because it has seemed to the senate committee of the highest importance to secure immediate action upon tariff and they felt confident that time could be saved by reporting the section imposing duties first and the maximum and minimum and administrative features later.

Iron Ore Duty.

The metal, agricultural, gloves and hosiery schedules of the Payne tariff bill are the most important provisions of the measure affected by the changes made by the senate finance committee, which today made public the amendments upon which it has reached a decision.

Senator Aldrich reported the bill as amended to the senate when it met at 12 o'clock, leaving the question of hides and free coal in an unsettled state, the committee has made many changes in the free list, most of which are to restore to the non-dutiable list the articles upon which the house committee placed a duty. On the other hand several articles, of which iron ore is the most important, have been restored to the dutiable list.

A duty of 25 cents per ton, a reduction of 15 cents from the Dingley rates, has been fixed for iron ore, and the duty on basic slag, which also was on the free list as the bill was passed by the house, is made $1 a ton. The reference to basic slag is an error in the bill as it was intended to place basic slag on the free list, which has been done in the provision regarding fertilizers.

The reference to the basic slag in connection with iron ore will be stricken out probably by resolution.

The difference of $2 per ton between pig iron and scrap iron, regarding which there was considerable controversy in the house, has been eliminated, but duty on both pig and scrap iron is retained at $2.50 per ton, a reduction of $1.50 from the Dingley rates. The finance committee has, on the whole, followed the policy with a regard to the iron and steel schedule, which is adopted in amending the Dingley bill in 1897, namely, slightly reducing the rates on the various iron and steel products.

The duty on bar iron has been reduced one-tenth of 1 cent per pound and the paragraph has been extended to include muck bars. A reduction of $2 per ton has been made in the duty on charcoal iron. The Payne bill, as reported to the house, first placed a duty of $6 per ton on this type of iron, but the house adopted an amendment, which increased the duty to $10 per ton, which has been reduced to $8 by the senate committee. An increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent per pound has been made in the duty on structural iron, but its application is limited to structural shapes not assembled or manufactured, or advanced beyond hammering, rolling or casting. The duty of three-tenths of a cent per pound which was placed by the ways and means committee on structural iron was made to apply to structural shapes, whether plain or punched or fitted for use.

Care of Oilcloth.

Oilcloth should not be swept with a straw broom or scrubbed with a stiff brush. Instead sweep with a soft hair brush and wipe off with lukewarm water in which has been dissolved a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and rinse with clear, warm water. Where oilcloth has been down for a few months and is losing the shiny surface, wash according to directions. Then melt a little ordinary glue in a pint of water, letting it stand on the back of the stove until dissolved. At night go over the whole carefully with a flannel dipped in glue water. Choose a dry day and by morning the glue will be hard and it will give a fine gloss and make the oilcloth wear much longer.

MARINE NEWS

FREIGHTERS ARE READY

Merchandise Boats Will Open the Season This Week.

Just as soon as the ice conditions at the Soo permit, the navigation season, as far as the package freight lines are concerned, will be opened on the lakes.

It is likely that the first package freighter will clear from Duluth for the lower lakes before the end of the week, and that boats will leave from lower lake ports for Duluth about the same time.

F. W. Winship, local agent for the Mutual Transit company, this morning denied the report that the firemen and other members of the crew of the Northern Queen, had been ordered to leave her and that only the engineer and his assistant were left. Mr. Winship stated that the boat had a full crew, and was ready to leave Duluth at any time. The Northern Queen will load flour at the Daisy mill for Buffalo and will probably clear before the end of the week.

The Queen is the only one of the company's boats that wintered at Duluth. There are seven boats in the fleet this year, including two new steamers, which were built last winter, and will be put in commission this spring. At least one of the fleet will leave the lower lake ports this week, and it is expected that all of the fleet will be under way before the end of the month.

Carrying a good load of passengers and merchandise, the steamer C. W. Moore of the Booth line passed between the canal piers yesterday morning and steamed out into the lake, easily making her way through the broken ice which was blown to this end of the lake Saturday.

The ice pack had been broken up by the wind, and the Moore had no trouble in getting through.

The Moore was the first boat to leave the harbor this spring, and her departure marked the opening of navigation on Lake Superior.

CAPACITY INCREASED

Additions Made to Ore Docks on Lake Superior.

It is of interest to note that with the opening of the iron ore shipping season, the capacity of the docks in the Lake Superior region will be increased 30,893 tons. This is due to the construction of the new dock which the Duluth & Iron Range road built at Two Harbors, and which has a capacity of 43,246 tons, and to the completion of a 2,000-ton dock by the Canadian Northern people at Key Harbor, Ont.

The total increase in capacity, according to these figures, should be 45,246 tons, but there has been a falling off in the capacity of the docks owned by the Chicago & Northwestern road at Escanaba, Mich.

The capacity of all the docks in the Lake Superior region, up-to-date, follows: Chicago & Northwestern, with five docks at Escanaba, and two at Ashland, 268,170; Duluth & Iron Range, with six docks at Two Harbors, 231,656; Duluth, Missabe & Northern, with three docks at Duluth, 269,034; Great Northern, with three docks at Superior, 283,000; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, with two docks at Marquette, 78,000; Lake Superior & Ishpeming, with one dock at Marquette, 36,000; Wisconsin Central, with one dock at Ashland, 48,356; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, with two docks at Escanaba, 113,900; and the Canadian Northern, with one dock at Key Harbor, Ont., 2,000.

The tables were prepared by W. A. Clark, chief engineer of the Duluth & Iron Range road.

March Lake Levels.

The United States Lake survey reports the stages of the Great Lakes for the month of March, as follows:

Lakes	Feet above tide water New York.
Superior	601.39
Michigan-Huron	580.05
Erie	571.75
Ontario	245.70

Since last month, Lake Superior has fallen one inch, Lakes Michigan and Huron have risen one and one-fourth inches, Lake Erie has risen four and one-fourth inches, and Lake Ontario has risen five inches.

During April, Lake Superior is likely to remain about stationary; Lakes Michigan and Huron should rise three and one-fourth inches, Lake Erie should rise eight and one-half inches.

Lake Superior is seven and three-fourths inches lower than the average March stage of the past ten years and about four inches lower than last year. It is four and one-half inches higher than in March, 1892, but ten inches lower than in 1906 and ten and three-fourths inches lower than in 1901.

The stages of the lakes to be expected during the coming season of navigation are well below those of the past few years. With compensation at Sault Ste. Marie by closing in part the outflow through the American Power canal, Lake Superior may be raised to its proper stage. Lakes Michigan and Huron are likely to be eleven inches lower than the stages of last season, taken month for month, Lake Erie seven inches, and Lake Ontario eighteen inches lower.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Is there anything on earth more entrancing than to watch a girl with soft pink cheeks and gray green eyes talk about equal suffrage, when she believes in it?

Miss Gwladys Wynne, a young English girl, who is playing with "The Servant in the House," and who is in America for the first time, who is a cousin of Edith Wynne Mathison of "Everyman" fame, and who has played in melodrama, and Shakespeare, and severe Greek tragedy, spoke with ardor of the cause this morning at the Spalding.

"Of course, I believe in it," said Miss Wynne, and the English pink of her cheeks deepened a bit and her eyes challenged anybody to say they didn't.

The interview will stop temporarily while an attempt is made to describe those eyes. That they are gray and green suggests little. That they are reasonably large also does not send zigzag lightning effects through one, and that they have lashes long and black and are also fitted out with the customary amount of eyebrows doesn't begin to convey anything of the wonder of those eyes. Gray with touches of black is a nice color scheme anyhow, and such gray! A melting, languishing, sparkling, snapping gray. A gray that on occasion turns to that wonderful shade of green, that is seen in only one pair of eyes in 5,000,000—oh, what's the use!

Miss Wynne has beautiful eyes.

"Of course I believe in equal suffrage? Don't you? How else can one think?" she wanted to know. "The reasons that they give against it are quite ridiculous, don't you think? They say that women influence their husbands and brothers. I shouldn't think the men would like that, would you? It makes them out weak. Those in London have gone in for it a little strong, I think. It's so extreme the lengths some of them have gone to, but there is no argument against it," said Miss Wynne.

"I love Chicago," said this young English woman. "And I think I like the East better than the West. But Chicago I think is lovely. You know when you come from a place on the map no bigger than this," said Miss Wynne, measuring off about two inches in the air, "one cannot get accustomed to feeling that the country is this large," and she spread out both arms. "And when I stood on the lake shore at Chicago I couldn't believe that it wasn't a sea."

A few remarks about Lake Superior.

"That's quite unusual," said Miss Wynne. "How large did you say it was? I didn't know that lakes got so large. I must see it."

This young English girl has played in America since last June, and will later go to London to create the role of the young girl in "The Servant in the House" at its London performance. Her work in this much talked of play has been altogether charming, according to the American audiences who have seen her.

Lunch herring, 20 cents a pound.

Rye bread, 10 cents a loaf.

The onion sets—who, by the way, ever plants so many onions?—are in the market in the greatest profusion, and in a way are the most attractive article that is shown. One never sees very many gardens around Duluth, and never, never, a whole bed of tender green onions, and one can't help wondering what becomes of so many seeds. There are three large crates full of "sets," which are in reality very small onions.

The artichokes are in the market again and supply a limited demand, and maple sugar, which is warranted pure, under the food act, is one of the best things to be had.

CEREMONY IS IMPRESSIVE

Big Crowd Witnesses Relighting of Lights at Masonic Temple.

The beautiful ceremony of relighting of the lights extinguished on Maundy Thursday, was gone through with at the Masonic Temple yesterday, and several hundred people filled the auditorium to witness it.

Last Thursday night the Masons of Rose Croix chapter of the Scottish Rite observed the ceremonial of extinguishing the lights. The relighting was conducted by the Rose Croix chapter and the commandery.

The ceremony yesterday began with the auditorium in inky darkness. First there was mournful music and singing. Then the presiding officer announced the coming of the sun, and a single brilliant light appeared. As each of the seven Masonic officers entered into the ceremonial, speaking of a different phase of the triumph of light over darkness, a new light appeared, until all seven formed a passion cross. After this the "Rose Croix," or rose cross, was brought in, and was greeted by the singing of "Gloria."

The Scottish Rite exercises were followed by the Easter services of the Knights Templar. Dr. J. S. Kirtley, pastor of the First Baptist church, offered the prayer and there were a number of songs. Reading from the Bible was followed by the Easter sermon by Dr. Kirtley.

A double quartet sang and Master Donald Alexander gave a soprano solo.

VISITS OLD HOME.

William J. Dawson, ex-captain of police of Butte, Mont., who has been in Duluth in connection with the flotation of the Butte-Alex Scott property, left Saturday evening for a visit at Scranton, Pa., the scene of his birth, and which he had not visited in thirty-two years, and he naturally looked forward to the visit with much interest.

Capt. Dawson left that section in 1877, and since then has lived chiefly in the mining portions of Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Montana and Mexico. He followed mining almost continuously barring the few years he held public office in Butte and is considered an expert on ore. Although he has lived in Butte since 1882 and finds much to allure one in the mountains and the life of a big mining camp, he admitted to friends before leaving Saturday, that he was very favorably taken with Duluth and expected to spend much of his time here in the future.

BUTTON PRESSED AND SHOW STARTS

Taft Gives Signal for Opening of Electric Exposition.

Louisville, Ky., April 12.—A brilliant electrical display opened for two weeks today, when President Taft pressed the connecting button in the White House at Washington, which started all the machinery in motion, and the Southern Electrical and Industrial Exposition was officially dedicated and started.

Several hundred exhibitors representing almost every electrical device of note in the United States occupy the gally decorated booths.

Lilley Takes Nourishment and Greets Visitors Cheerfully.

Hartford, Conn., April 12.—The condition of Governor George O. Lilley is reported this morning by the attending physicians as gratifying.

He is now resting comfortably.

ence should not result in losing the bill's place on general orders.

These recommendations were unanimously concurred in by the members of the committee, including those who are for the bill, and they were accepted by the senate without a word of debate. The bill will appear on general orders Wednesday for consideration in committee of the whole, but it is possible that a special order may be made of the measure for some fixed day soon.

The Armour plant matter bobbed up this morning again, when Senator Peterson offered a resolution in the senate directing the attorney general to look into the protest made by the St. Paul people against locating the packing plant at New Brighton and, if he finds that they are justified, to institute legal proceedings to enjoin the building of the plant. Senator A. L. Hanson gave notice of debate, putting the resolution over till tomorrow.

Senator Works offered a resolution, appropriating $50 to pay the expenses of Lafayette Young and John MacVicar, the two Des Moines men who came to St. Paul to address the legislature on its own invitation, regarding the commission plan of government.

Senator Laybourn postponed consideration of the matter by giving notice of debate.

Senator Putnam wanted to suspend the rules on the house bill, fixing salaries and clerk hire of judges of probate, but Senator Laybourn objected, giving notice that he should object to suspending the rules on bills of general interest, though he believed that local matters should be taken up soon as a special order.

Senator Putnam withdrew his motion.

The senate recalled from the governor the bill providing compulsory firemen's relief funds in all communities and will amend it so as to make the imposition of a tax for that purpose optional instead of mandatory. The governor would have vetoed it in its present form.

In committee of the whole the senate recommended for passage Senator Sullivan's bill creating a state commission to inquire into the operation of laws providing for indeterminate sentences for criminals in other state.

Representative Ware made an ineffectual effort to save his bill, prohibiting brewers from being interested in saloons, which the house judiciary committee reported as unconstitutional. Mr. Ware moved that the bill be placed on general orders, saying that it had been drawn by Former Attorney General Young and that he had the opinion of one of the assistant attorneys general that the state has a perfect right to make such a regulation, in spite of the committee's belief that his bill is unconstitutional. His motion was lost, however, and the bill was suffered to lapse.

The house judiciary committee killed the bill providing that probate judges must have legal qualifications.

The house passed, under suspension of the rules, a bill by the public lands committee allowing the state timber board to sell all timber on state lands, where the quantity on each tract is less than 100,000 feet.

BLIND PREJUDICE DRIVING.

The people of Southern Minnesota and their representatives in the legislature resent the statement that they are moved by prejudice in their insistence upon a tonnage tax. The Herald does not doubt that many of them think they are not moved by prejudice, but the facts show a very clear case against them.

Take the case of an area in Southwestern Minnesota as large as the area of Northeastern Minnesota which protests to a man against the tonnage tax. Suppose that some law were proposed in the legislature applicable only to Southwestern Minnesota and that every farmer, every business man, and every citizen in Southwestern Minnesota protested against the passage of that measure, what chance would such a measure have of becoming a law? Such a measure would not last as long as a snow fall in July in Kansas. Mr. Bjorge, author of the tonnage tax bill, now being considered in the senate, himself gives the reason why there is accorded a different treatment to Northeastern Minnesota than would be accorded to Southwestern Minnesota. A measure inimical to Southwestern Minnesota would affect "the farmers," while one hostile to Northeastern Minnesota affects "the steel trust." Could any living man proclaim prejudice more plainly than this? Mr. Bjorge has repeatedly declared that the principle of the tonnage tax should not be applied to other parts of the state because it would hit our own people and not "rich foreign owners." According to Mr. Bjorge and those who support him in the advocacy of the tonnage tax measure there should be one law for the rich home owner and another law for the "rich foreign owner." If this is not prejudice pure and simple, what is it? Of course this argument of the tonnage tax advocate completely overlooks the fact that the measure hits farmers and merchants and business men to the number of some 200,000 as well as "the rich foreign owner," and the fact that they overlook this fact, or determinedly shut their eyes to it, is simply further evidence of the strength of the cruel prejudice which moves them in this matter. In their prejudice against the "steel trust" they sacrifice the interests of all others.

A member of the state senate declared upon the floor of the senate last week that the interest of the whole state is paramount to the interest of any paricular section. The statement by itself is innocent enough and perfectly true. But it was made in connection with the discussion of the tonnage tax bill and clearly reveals the determination of the tonnage tax advocate to make that measure a law no matter what harm it may work to the section of the state that it it most nearly affects. That determination in the face of the protest of every soul in Northeastern Minnesota without exception is simply a determination to punish the "steel trust" and "get a million," let it work what ruin it will to the people of Northeastern Minnesota.

The Herald does not for one moment deny honesty of purpose to many tonnage tax advocates, but it is an honesty of purpose blinded by prejudice. The tonnage tax advocate denies his green goggles; he has looked through them so long at this question that he is color blind to right and justice, but everybody else can see the ugly green goggles that he has fitted to his face as plainly as the day

THE FOXY SUGAR TRUST.

The Payne tariff bill provides for a reduction in the duty on sugar from 1 and 95-100 cents per pound to 1 and 90-100 cents per pound.

This ridiculous reduction of 5-100 of a cent per pound has been made in the face of the fact that sugar is one of the most common necessities of life and the further fact that independent producers of sugar unanimously testify that no duty whatever is needed to protect the sugar indusry in this country.

As litle attention as possible is being called to the sugar schedule. There is good reason to believe that some of the provisions of the Payne bill have been inserted solely with the view of directing public attention from the sugar schedule. While we are busy shouting about stockings we shall probably overlook sugar.

The sugar trust has planned well—has been planning well these many years. Its greatest strength today comes from the union of the cane sugar producers and the beet sugar interests. Were it not for the influence of the beet sugar states, the sugar trust would have the greatest difficuly in keeping sugar from the free list at the present time. The beet sugar states, however, are states in which cane sugar is not produced and by conjunction with the beet sugar interests the sugar trust has been able to more than double its strength. Moreover the sugar trust has gone about the matter most cunningly. It has encouraged the establishment of beet sugar plants in many sections of the country in which beet sugar cannot be economically produced. If beet sugar plants were established only in those sections best fitted for the industry, the industry would need comparatively little, if any, protection from the tariff. But when beet sugar plants are attempted to be maintained in states like Michigan a protective tariff is absolutely necessary. The beet sugar industry in Michigan would probably be seriously crippled by putting sugar on the free list. The sugar trust is constantly seeking to strengthen itself in this way and is aiding in every way in its power the establishment of beet sugar plants in every part of the country. Every one of these plants in localities economically unsuitable is a tax upon the people. The country has got to support them through the agency of the tarjff. Every additional plant of this kind simply increases the people's taxes and rivets the tariff chains more securely upon the country. The increasing difficulty of escaping from tariff fetters is illustrated by the debates and the votes taken in the house during the past few days. Party alignment in these debates and votes has been completely broken down. The minority in the house, like the majority, has failed to stand for any settled policy, except the policy of maintaining a protective tariff upon every possible local product.

The effort of the sugar trust at this time is to prevent all discussion of the sugar schedule. It is attempting to throw dust in our eyes. It has set up dummy schedules for us to wax indignant over. In the senate the entire sugar schedule has been referred to a committee consisting of Burrows, Smoot and Flint, senators from the three beet sugar producing states of Michigan, Utah and California. If the sugar trust had had the appointing of the committee itself, it could not have more completely protected itself. In addition the trust is making a quiet but determined fight against the provision of the Payne bill to permit the importation from the Philippines of 300,000 pounds of sugar annually free of duty. It is not likely that the sugar producers really care anything about this clause of the bill, but if congress is kept busy defending this schedule it will not have time to think of something that might do the sugar trust more serious damage.

If a discussion of the sugar schedule is once started in congress there will be a demand from the country that will necessitate the reduction of the duty on sugar a good deal more than 5-100 of 1 cent per pound.

AN AMERICAN DESPOT.

Here's to the great American despot—Charles W. Eliot, more in the public eye now that he is a private citizen than in all the thirty-nine years of his despotic presidency.

To be a despot one does not necessarily need unusual physical strength, yet it helps if one has it. Dr. Eliot has it. Not long ago a 150-pound woman fainted opposite the campus, provincially known at Cambridge as "the Yard." Dr. Eliot picked her up, carried her within "the Yard" and into a building therein, all in the most casual manner; and a few months ago at the age of 75 he pulled a whaleboat for a distance of eighteen miles. Physically therefore, Dr. Eliot is well qualified to play the despot and play it he has with a success that ought to make him a pattern for depots of all time.

It is related in the current Forum that the Overseers of Harvard "are useful in backing up the president when he is in need of moral support. They are also useful in overruling him when he is anxious to be prevented from doing something which he does not really wish to do." These are the functions which the Overseers of Harvard have exercised for the past thirty-nine years. Dr. Eliot did the rest. "He has been adroit, sagacious, diplomatic, or threatening, by turns; but in all important things he has done precisely what he liked," says Harry Thurston Peck in the Forum. To quote further from Mr. Peck:

"I admire Dr. Eliot," said one of the English dons to an American, "for he uses excellent language. At the same time he does not know the difference between 'shall' and 'will.' I heard him say this morning, 'We will have rain tomorrow.'"

"Ah," returned the American, smiling to himself, "but you were probably not aware that he was speaking as Jupiter Pluvius."

The incident illustrates something that we are trying to say about President Eliot. One cannot be a despot for thirty-nine years without acquiring an imperiousness of speech and of thought and Dr. Eliot has that imperiousness very thoroughly. If we need somebody to send to the court of St. James to tell the English "where to head in" and "where they get off at," we should send Dr. Eliot. He can do it. In fact, he just couldn't help doing it. And there is such a finality about what Dr. Eliot says, that the English would take him at his word, really.

Since retiring from the presidency of Harvard, Dr. Eliot has set up a university of his own. In five feet of books, he says, read out of for fifteen minutes each day, there is a liberal education. Dr. Eliot originally limited his university to three feet of books; the additional two feet is probably for university extension. Dr. Eliot's university is a univeristy to which every man can go but from which no man will ever graduate, though many may get degrees in it. The founder of the university will presently specify the text books to be used in it; then you may matriculate as soon as you like, and go as far as it lies in you to go.

Despot that he is, there is much to admire in Charles W. Eliot.

ATTACK ON DAIRY INTERESTS?

The legislature of Minnesota has need to look closely into the possible effects of a bill regulating the shipment of cream and milk on railroads. If the bill, now pending, is as evil as it is feared, it will work the greatest hardship upon one of the most important of the state's industries.

The bill provides that all shipments of cream and milk must be made in refrigerator cars unless it has been pasteurized. It is claimed that the effect of such a law would be to cut out the small farmer and dairy man from shipping milk. If such would be the result, the great dairy interests of Minnesota would be paralyzed and, what is just as bad, the development of Northern Minnesota would be seriously hampered. Agricultural development in Northeastern Minnesota would practically come to a standstill. In St. Louis county dairying is being made the basis of farm development. Upon the Mesaba range vigorous efforts are being made to bring in farmers and to establish farming communities and dairying is made the principal means. Near Hibbing several thousand acres have been purchased by Iowa parties, a colony of farmers has been brought in, and several dairy farms have been begun. Agriculture in such sections must begin with dairying, for dairying will yield the quickest results and will give the farmer support while he is developing his farm. Anything which strikes at independent dairying strikes, therefore, not only at one of the state's greatest industries, but in a peculiar measure at the very growth of the state in those secions where growth is most needed and where it is now making its beginnings.

It is claimed that the aim of the bill is to create a creamery trust in Minnesota. If this is actually the purpose of the bill, it will not get far toward becoming a law, now that the light of publicity has been thrown upon it.

The senate will now do its worst.

Castro is another private citizen who succeeds in getting first page mention pretty regularly.

Three hundred thousand tons of Filipino sugar will come in free. This will be about enough to sweeten Rhode Island. The rest of us will pay tribute to the sugar trust for what we get.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Capt. W. H. Hatcher, state military storekeeper for the companies of the state militia, has a very high opinion of the efficiency of the national guard companies of Minnesota.

At the McKay, yesterday the captain stated that out of the thirty-six national guard companies in this state, there were but three companies that would not rank up to the standard of the companies of other states. There are three regiments of militia in Minnesota, composed of twelve companies to each regiment. It is the duty of Capt. Hatcher to inspect the clothing and accoutrements of each of these companies at least once a year. He has the best opportunity in the world to know the efficiency of the state guard.

"The Duluth companies are fully up to the standard of military efficiency," said the captain, in speaking about the three companies of Duluth. "We found, Col. Gerlah and myself, that everything connected with the companies here was all right. Their clothing and equipment is good, and Col. Gerlach found the members of the companies up to the standard of the other companies of the state.

"There are only three companies in this state that are not up to the highest standard. One of these companies is at Crookston. It is not the fault of the officers or the men of the company there. The city has provided no armory, and consequently there is not the opportunity to drill that is found at other places.

"They have some good companies on the range and as soon as the new drill hall is completed at Hibbing they will have even a better company. The Minnesota National Guard will compare with any in the country, and it is due to Duluth to state that its three companies are fully up to the high standard of efficiency set by the other companies of the state."

The farmers in the vicinity of Adolph are clamoring for better roads.

Albert Swanson of Adolph was at the Lenox hotel yesterday. He was asked about the condition of the county roads in his section of the county. "At this time of the year they are simply impassable," was the statement of the Adolph man. This is about the same statement that was made by a farmer of Loon Lake, just about a week ago.

According to the statement of Mr. Swanson, it is an impossibility for some of the farmers in the vicinity of Adolph to get to town in the wet season of early spring. The roads are simply mires of mud, and some of the farmers are compelled to remain upon their farms for as much as two weeks at a time.

The farmers of that part of the county are thoroughly in accord with the demand for better country roads. Mr. Swanson says the farmers in the vicinity of Adolph are sometimes kept away from their markets for weeks at a time. When they do go to market they carry their produce over what are at the best only excuses for roads. This is the case in many parts of the county.

George Shea, city attorney of Virginia, was at the St. Louis last evening. Mr. Shea says that now Virginia has the largest lumber mill in the world, is one of the points where traffic of Canada will pass through upon its way to the various parts of this country; is one of the largest mining centers in the world, and withal, is one of the thriving and progressive towns for its size in this country.

Just before he left the presence of the group he was talking with, the city attorney of Virginia couldn't refrain from the remark that this season, Virginia would once and for all, settle the question of baseball supremacy.

The desire to be upon Fifth avenue to view the Easter parade, was a desire that attacked many New York men quartered at the Duluth hotels yesterday.

Here is a railroad story a passenger conductor told at the St. Louis last evening:

There was an engineer upon the Northern Pacific railroad who took his 6-year-old son out for a ride in the cab with him. It was two or three days after the ride with his father upon the engine, that the little boy asked his mother to play train with him.

The mother was seated at her sewing machine and she readily consented to please the little fellow. The boy stood off and gave the signal and his mother started the sewing machine. That was the train. Then the boy gave a stop signal and went to the other room to see about some freight orders. Presently he came out. There was a scowl upon his little face.

"We will be tied up here for a h— of a while, just because those —— orders haven't been sent through," said the youth.

They didn't play train any more that afternoon, nor has the youth taken a ride with father since then.

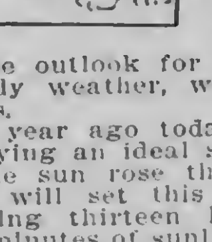
THE WEATHER.

CLOUDY



The weather man slipped up somewhat on his prediction for Easter. It threatened rain all day, but the weather was delightfully mild, almost warm, in fact, and there was nothing to prevent the wearing of Easter finery except the fear that rain would come.

The outlook for tomorrow is partly cloudy weather, with lower temperatures.

A year ago today Duluthians were enjoying an ideal spring day.

The sun rose this morning at 5:26 and will set this afternoon at 6:52, making thirteen hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A trough of low barometric pressure extends from Eastern Wisconsin to Western Missouri. During the past twenty-four hours this disturbance caused rain or snow in most districts lying between the 85th and 115th meridians, and also rain in Florida. The barometer is abnormally high over North Atlantic states. A rise in pressure in the West and Northwest it attended by colder weather generally. Very low temperatures for the season are the rule in Western Canada. Clearing and colder weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight. High westerly winds prevailed last night in the western lake region."

Ignorance the Cause.

Winona Republican-Herald: When the state senators visited the iron range country last week, they found the people very much excited over the fear that the legislature would pass the tonnage tax bill and that Governor Johnson would sign it. The bill has already passed the house and its fate is in the hands of the senate. It is noticeable that some of the senators, after a personal investigation of the matter, have undergone a change of heart, and have changed from the tax to the anti-tax side, and it need be no surprise if the bill is defeated in the senate, or at least has a pretty close call when it comes to a vote. Among these men is Senator Works, who told the iron range people that he had learned much by his visit.

"The farmers and merchants of the southern part of the state," he said, "do not understand that there is anything but the steel trust in the northern part of the state, and that information about the independent mines, the schools and other interests to be affected by the imposition of a tonnage tax should be given speedily to the constituents of the southern country members."

Before the Slaughter.

Buffalo Enquirer: The automobile season is approaching. In the next six months the locomotives of the highway will have their busy period.

Scattered about the country are hundreds of men and women and lusty children destined to fall victims to the machines before November's chill shall lessen their activity.

Some of these victims, marked for maiming or death, are owners, their families and guests, drivers and their friends. Others are the common herd, whose lot is to crawl along the thoroughfares.

The mass of literature on this topic is devoted to the duty of the automobilist to the walking public. An interesting exception is the letter of a Philadelphian to the New York American on the duty of the walking public to the automobilist.

This Philadelphian grants that a drunken automobilist is no more tolerable than a drunken engineer. Admitting that the drunken driver should not be permitted to run amuck, he is also insistent that permitting drunken pedestrians to stagger about is unfair to the driver.

While not denying that the driver should exercise care to avoid killing anybody, this fair-minded Philadelphian is able to perceive with equal clearness that the pedestrian should exercise care to avoid being killed. He evidently holds that sobriety and constant alertness are as incumbent upon the man inthe street as upon the man at the wheel.

If there is a preponderance of duty in this Philadelphian's view it is on the part of the pedestrian to keep out of the way of the car.

Wherever the greater obligation may lie, advisability instructs the pedestrian to be prepared to jump. It comes to the same thing whether duty or expedience gives the order.

Pedestrians believe the burden of responsibility is upon the driver. He should confine himself to reasonable speed and keep his eyes skinned and his hand ready to prevent collision. The view that the major responsibility is on the pedestrian has so much the element of novelty as to startle attention.

There is, of course, a way fair to both parties. It is reasonable speed and constant readiness for emergency on the part of the controller of the vehicle. It is also reasonable alertness and abstention from unpredictable street-plays on the part of pedestrians. With fair play all around there would be no need for the slaughter which will occur this summer. But everybody will not be reasonable, and the consequences will be hundreds of unnecessary injuries, and hundreds of untimely deaths. Take care that you are not one!

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Morrison County Democrat: T. S. Darling, a former Little Falls boy, appears in caricature in the Saturday Duluth Evening Herald. Tom is the general agent in Duluth for Canadian Northern lands and no doubt has waxed fat on "Eastern suckers," but we can hardly believe he has gained such aldermanic proportions as The Herald is wont to picture him.

Two Harbors Iron Port: Representative Buck voted right on all important measures in the state legislature and his many friends are pleased over the record he has achieved. He is one of the old settlers of Duluth and has a host of personal friends who were pleased to see him elected to the position he has so honorably filled. We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Buck in Duluth thirty years ago and no one at the Head of the Lakes at that time had greater confidence in the future of Duluth than that gentleman, whose most sanguine expectations have been fully realized.

Warroad Plaindealer: A Duluth man stripped his clothes on the street one day last week, and after appearing in Adam's gala dress for a short time, he was gathered in by the ding-dong wagon. We always had Duluth sized up as being a hot old town, but warm enough to go without clothes does not seem practical—at least, the reform-dress advocate was arrested and fined.

Walker Pilot: Duluth has the only aerial bridge of its kind in the world. Why not pass a law so the state can collect toll charges? One great advantage of such a law would be that it applies directly to St. Louis county.

Cambridge Independent-Press: However, leonine its ingress,—though we've forgotten how the month really did come in—March certainly went out like a lamb. It would take the pen of a Duluth Herald weather reporter to adequately paint the charm of yesterday's weather and though today is April 1, and we might in consequence be justified in playing the fool, we are not going to do so by descending to particulars of temperature, wind and sun. It was a delightful day and let that suffice.

A. M. Greeley in the Big Fork Compass: A Duluth merchant advertises a lot of shoes under the head, "They Won't Last Long." He may not mean just that, but no doubt he told the truth.

Princeton Union, Duluth and the iron range cities will in the near future, if not handicapped by ill-advised legislation, furnish an excellent market for all the poultry, mutton, pork, beef, veal, milk, butter and all the other products that the farmers of Kanabec, Pine, Mille Lacs, Isanti and Chisago counties have to spare. The building up of Duluth and the range cities means more to the farmers of the above mentioned counties than they at present realize. The establishing of a large iron-manufacturing center at the Head of the Lakes would be worth more to the farmers of Northeastern Minnesota than half a dozen Armour packing plants located in the suburbs of St. Paul and Minneapolis. If the farmers of this section of the state were alive to their own interests they would make their voices heard in a ringing protest against the unjust tonnage tax bill now pending in the state senate.

The Human Note.

Through the harmonies of Heaven stole a note of throbbing pain,
Touched with longing tinged with sadness, seeming human in its birth;
Seeming less the stainless music that is meet for such domain,
Than the cry of some dazed mortal, yearning—backward toward the earth.

But it did not sound forever, this stray note so passionate;
Soon the singer, now all-angel, sang with others round the throne;
"Glory, glory!" Past, forgotton, life and love beyond the gate,
That before had set his singing to a tragic undertone.

Yet there vanished then a richness more than psaltery or lute
Could outpour, though seraphs plucked them, worshiping the Lord a-near;
For within the vibrant grieving, now forever hushed and mute,
Lay the pathos of endeavor, hope and heartbreak, love and fear;
Yea, the wistful human groping, and the doubt that makes it dear.

"Do not worry, eat three square meals a day, say your prayers, be courteous to your creditors, keep your digestion good, exercise, go slow and go easy. Maybe there are other things that your special case requires to make you happy, but, my friend, these, I reckon, will give you a good lift."

Follow Lincoln's words of wisdom and keep your digestion good. When you have dyspepsia, indigestion or anyform of stomach trouble you can eat what you want and eat heartily if you take Kodol. Starvation seems a strange remedy for any disease; yet starvation by vigorous diet was once generally resorted to in case of indigestion or other stomach trouble. Even yet it is sometimes tried. Such a remedy is worse than useless.

When the stomach cannot do its work the task must be performed for the stomach. Kodol is the only preparation that does this. Any one who wants a healthy stomach can have it. Merely take care of the stomach when it is working properly and take Kodol when it commences to go wrong. Kodol will find the weak spot. Kodol is the one substitute which accomplishes Nature's results by Nature's one method. Every tablespoonful of Kodol digests 2¼ pounds of food.

Our Guarantee. Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate; any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE TARIFF BILL WILL MAKE ARE REDUCED $20,000,000

Washington, April 12.—Estimates of revenue the Payne tariff bill will produce have been reduced nearly $20,000,000 through amendments made to the measure before it passed the house. The senate finance committee will have to provide means for making up this difference, if the original estimates are to be met. The striking out of several countervailing duty clauses on which no estimates were made probably will lessen the bill's productiveness another $20,000,000.

The amendment taking off the 8-cent duty on tea subtracted $7,000,000 from the estimated revenues. The striking out of the countervailing duty on coffee and the maximum duty provision for a rate of 20 per cent ad valorem on coffee coming from countries which do not give the United States the benefit of their most-favored-nation clause, disposes of what probably will be $15,000,000 in duties.

Taking out the countervailing provision for lumber and for petroleum, two amendments made by the house, means a lost opportunity to increase the revenues by several million dollars, it is estimated. By repealing the manufacturers' license tax for farmers desiring to sell the leaf tobacco which they raise, the house has withdrawn much revenue under the internal revenue law. A slight increase in revenue may be provided by the increased tax on Turkish filler tobacco, pineapples and barley and barley malt.

The senate finance committee materially reduced many of the schedules of the Dingley bill as it passed the house, but to increase the revenue producing power of the Payne bill that committee will have to take different action with regard to the latter measure. The fifty or more amendments, all of which were offered by the ways and means committee, have addded a few more changes to the Payne bill as compared to the present tariff law.

In 1897 the senate committee placed a duty of 1½ cents per pound on hides, which was later changed to 15 per cent ad valorem, as it now stands in the law. The Payne bill, as it passed the house, like the Dingley bill when it went to the senate, places hides on the free list. Under the Dingley law hides have produced a revenue exceeding $3,000,000 annually.

An inheritance tax, by which it is hoped that $20,000,000 will be collected, is provided for. The internal revenue law is expected to produce $1,500,000 additional revenue because of the increase in the tax on cigarettes.

The two increases over the Dingley rates that stand out most prominently in the Payne bill are those in the rates on women's and children's gloves and hosiery.

The iron and steel schedules are distinguished through a general cut in duties. Iron ore is placed on the free list, and material reductions are made in the rates on pig iron, scrap iron and steel bar iron, round iron, blooms, structural iron forgings, anchors, cotton ties, steel rails, tin plates, wire and many other articles.

DEPOSED PRESIDENT, WHO IS EXPELLED ON MATTRESS, TO GO TO TENERIFFE ISLE

DENMARK CLOSES DOORS.

Copenhagen, April 12. — The government has instructed the governor of the Danish West Indies under no circumstances to permit ex-President Castro to land in that territory.

Fort de France, Martinique, April 12.—Prior to being taken aboard the steamer Versailles for deportation to France, ex-President Castro prepared a protest against the action of the French government, which has been submitted to the authorities here. It reads:

"I heerby protest against the action of the French authorities of Martinique in having me put by force on board an outgoing vessel:

"First, because I was ill at the time and because the act imperiled my life; second, because I have committed no offense against the government of France and the authorities of Martinique in the time that I was permitted to remain on that island; and, finally, because the decree of expulsion which orders my deportation out of French territory compels me to take passage aboard a vessel which will again land me on French territory.

"Moreover, these actions constitute a breach of international law and a denial of the rights of individuals. That such a thing should have come to pass in the land which saw the birth of Josephine and from which come the inspiration and presage of liberty, and at the hands of a people who shed their blood by torrents hardly a century ago to maintain unimpaired the rights and prerogatives of man, is inconceivable."

The ex-president, said just before sailing that if he was at liberty when he arrived at St. Nazaire he would immediately proceed to Spain to take passage for Santa Cruz, Teneriffe. Gen. Castro said that he was leaving his brother, Carmelo, here to receive all mail which he expects to be forwarded from Trinidad and Venezuela.

The removal of the former president of Venezuela was not without its pitiful aspects. Immediately on the announcement of the medical commission, who made a lengthy physical examination of Castro, that he was quite capable of making the voyage, the commissary of police, with an escort of gendarmes, invaded the hotel and proceeded to his chamber. They found the ex-president lying in bed, and although he still protested that he could not move, they carried him downstairs on a mattress, the patient all the while moaning dismally, and placed him on a stretcher.

Officers of the United States cruiser North Carolina, in civilian dress, helped to make him as comfortable as possible and then the stretcher was carried by four negroes to the dock. Gendarmes guarded it on either side and a crowd of persons numbering fully 2,000 followed the procession through the streets. The entrance to the French line piers was guarded by police and no one was permitted to enter except those directly connected with the transferrance of the ex-president.

NIAGARA FALLS RUN DRY FOR SECOND TIME KNOWN TO MANKIND

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12.—The voice of Niagara was mute yesterday for the second time in the memory of man. The first time was late in February, when, following a severe northerly blow, the falls ran dry. Now, following a severe southwester, the river is frozen solid from bank to bank.

Unprecedented weather has brought about unprecedented conditions. On Wednesday of last week the worst gale of the season and the most violent in the history of the weather bureau for April was recorded and, following the lakes and the channel of the Niagara, left ruin in its wake. The solid ice fields of Lake Erie were churned from end to end and piled in a huge conglomerated mass at the lower end of the lake.

At Niagara Falls there had been a heavy ice bridge in the pool below the cataract since the middle of winter. Under the impact of the mass of ice from the lake above and the added floods brought down by the wind, the bridge gave way and began to surge down the rapids. But before it could gain freedom in the ample waters of Lake Ontario, the wind shifted again to the north. Instantly the moving floes packed at the mouth of the river. Each instant of cold congealed the pack more solidly, and each hour brought added pressure from above.

Unable to escape by its natural channels, the level of the river rose by leaps and bounds. The highest flood level recorded from previous years is twenty-eight feet above the normal. Friday night the river was forty feet above normal.

All estimates of ultimate damage are conditioned by what the weather may have in store. The best that can be hoped for is a succession of calm, warm days. Then the ice will melt gradually. Already it has sunk five, and in spots, ten feet, as the support of the water beneath has been withdrawn. The worst that could happen would be another violent blow from the southwest. By no means all the ice in the lake is out. If that great mass should be driven down on to the jam below, the damage would be inconceivable.

GLENORCHY GOLD FINDS

Swarm of Prospectors Expected When the Snow Disappears.

Negotiations Are Pending For Sale of the Olive Mine.

Mine Center, Ont., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The inquiries concerning the reported rich gold discoveries at Glenorchy continue to come from all directions. Winnipeg, wedded to real estate speculation and the grain trade, is beginning to take notice. Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa are becoming deeply interested. Local prospectors and experts are anxiously awaiting the going of the snow and the opening of lakes and streams on the canoe routes. The present outlook is that a swarm of prospectors, investigators and investment seekers will pour into the Mine Center region in a way not seen since the days of 1897 to 1899.

Some time ago samples of ore from the Glenorchy discovery were sent to W. A. Preston, M. P. P., in Toronto, for assay. Returns at last have been received. In a letter over his own signature, Maj. Preston says that a sample from La Rosa de Ora claim assayed $490 per ton in gold and a sample from the Gladys claim assayed $122 a ton. Western prospectors here say that such surface showings in Nevada would start a boom audible from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Glenorchy's Future.

Glenorchy has been but a railway siding but, henceforth, it promises to attain importance. A regular station and depot building are expected and, when spring really comes, the promoters of the townsite will put several blocks of lots on the market. Thomas Wilson and associates will erect a hotel, which will be a great convenience for gold hunters. Maj. Preston persuaded the government to appropriate $1,000 to construct a wagon road from Mine Center to Glenorchy.

Maj. Preston advises his friends here that while no sale of the Olive mine actually has been made, negotiations are pending with a strong Eastern syndicate and the outlook is very favorable for closing it. As soon as snow leaves, a noted mining engineer will examine the mine and milling plant and make estimates for operation and improvements. With a large mill and able management, splendid results are expected from this property.

Maj. Preston also states that a resumption of work is planned for the Mayflower mine, near Banning station on the Canadian Northern railway, something over twenty miles east of Mine Center. This mine once was worked by an English syndicate that ran out of money and quit. The outlook for a mine is considered excellent and the new work contemplated will comprise deepening the shaft and considerable drifting.

Ferguson to Be Operated.

Old timers around here have faith and hopes pinned to those groups of mines around the Foley mine, near Shoal lake, and the Ferguson, Golden Crescent and Golden Star, on or near Bad Vermilion lake. It already has been announced that the Ferguson will be operated by Graham & Horne, the millionaire lumbermen of Fort William. Resumption of work is being considered by owners of other mines in that neighborhood, but all unite in saying that no plans have been fully worked out and that it is too early in the season to make any formal announcements.

Maj. Preston has been petitioned to have the government repair the wagon road from Mine Center to the Foley mine. This improvement would make the Foley more accessible, as well as the Manhattan, the Wiegand, the 500 acres of J. C. & R. M. Hunter of Duluth, as well as the heavy holdings of the Mutual company, backed by C. L. Lewis and associates of Minnesota. Maj. Preston holds out hope that this improvement can be secured provided a mine will actually resume operations in a serious and permanent way.

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Portland, Me., April 12.—Samuel Kline, 25 years old, recently of New York, and his bride of three weeks, Ida Kline, aged 21 years, were found lying dead from bullet wounds on the floor of their rooms here.

While the coroner believes it a case of murder and suicide, he had not decided whether the man or the woman killed the other.

The last two weeks of the honeymoon had been unhappy, it is said. There had been quarrels over the fact that Mrs. Kline's inheritance from her father, who died six months ago, was smaller than Kline had supposed it was.

CONTRACTS IN STEEL DIVIDED

New York Central Distributes Business Among Several Mills.

New York, April 12.—The most important development in the steel trade last week was the decision of the New York Central to divide its fabricated steel contracts, amounting to 39,000 tons, among several steel mills and fabrication shops. It is understood that the Lackawanna Steel company will roll the greatest tonnage, but that the Steel corporation interests will be awarded a substantial share, the American Bridge company doing the fabrication. The Kings Bridge company is to fabricate about 6,000 tons of the total, which covers the whole New York Central system. Other railroad orders placed include 3,600 tons for the Erie viaduct, 6,000 tons for the Chicago & Northwestern and 4,000 tons for the Burlington.

Structural steel orders are now pending for about 125,000 tons, about 80,000 tons of which are for buildings in New York city and immediate vicinity.

The steel finishing plants are steadily increasing without reflecting the larger specifications obtained on orders recently placed because of low prices prevailing. Bar mills are operating about 80 per cent; structural mills about 60 per cent; sheet mills, 67½ per cent, and tin plate mills 90 per cent of capacity. Only the rail mills are crippled.

It is reported the Cambria Steel company will roll 10,000 tons special rails for the Pennsylvania tunnel and terminal system to carry the electrical current.

"The Servant in the House."

The opinion of a play by a lay critic is always interesting. The following criticism of "The Servant in the House" was written to the Chicago Record-Herald during the run of the play in that city.

"I wish that the whole city could see and understand, if only as falteringly as I did, what that piece is worth, everyone would go and see for himself, and the great lesson that it sets forth. No thinking man or woman who sees enacted Charles Rann Kennedy's 'The Servant in the House,' can ever be quite the same again, can ever look on life quite as indifferently as before, can ever pass by his fellows without a feeling of kinship. It is a living, moving, acting reality, vibrating with a power born of its very simplicity, a living picture in which one sees the working of infinite principles. And from the face of the master-servant can be read the true meaning of life, the love that cannot be expressed in words or actions, that transcends law and duty—that love which is no respector of persons, but radiates like the sun on all mankind. I wish that every speaker in Chicago could see this drama, and then inspire his hearers to see it. I wish that 'The Servant in the House,' could be made to stay with us, as a living factor among the good things Chicago is giving to its people, for a long, long time. Sincerely, E. E."

"The Servant in the House," opens at the Lyceum theater tonight for one week's run with two matinees.

"The Red Mill."

LUMBERJACK A DETECTIVE

Police Arrest Him and Confiscate Guns and Badge.

Charged with violating the ordinance pertaining to detectives and detective agencies, Richard B. Howes, a woodsman, was arrested by Officer Mahlen in Bowery saloon Saturday evening. A badge of office, bearing the words "American Detective agency," was worn prominently upon his coat.

When searched at the police station he was found to have two revolvers upon his person, and enough ammunition to supply a dozen men in a practice shoot. He was dressed as a lumberjack, but admitted he was not disguised. Working in the woods was his regular line, he said.

The man came in from the woods only a few days ago, and having nothing better to do, fished out his badge, which he says cost him $2, and began hunting up clues on the Connelly murder case. Hs was much downcast when his badge and guns were taken from him at the police station, but brightened up visibly when told that he could have his badge back when he decided to leave the state. He was told, however, to do no more detecting in Duluth, as he did not come up to the ordinance requirements.

"BIG DAN" COUGHLIN DYING IN HONDURAS.

Chicago, April 12.—Dan Coughlin—"Big Dan" to the thousands who knew him as a former city detective, principal figure in the Cronin murder mystery, Clark street saloonkeeper and subsequently a fugitive from justice as a jury briber—is dying in far-away Spanish Honduras. Tourists returning from Central America bring the story of the closing chapter in the sensational life of one of Chicago's most notorious characters, the tale of a once physical giant wasted away by quick consumption and expiring an exile among strangers in Puerto Cortez.

Although far from friends, Coughlin is not wanting for their influence and money. The best medical attendance and trained nurses the little seaport affords have been at his command, although his last years have been passed in the humble occupation of foreman of a railroad construction gang. But a section hand may look at a king in Puerto Cortez, where extradition is a thing almost unknown, and it is not good manners to inquire as to one's neighbors' real names. Therefore Coughlin, temporarily "Jim Davis," gang foreman, has enjoyed such social pleasures as are possible in the out-of-the-way corner he selected as his retreat. Equipped with money, which ever came responsive to his slightest wish, Coughlin lived as he had in Chicago, "a liberal and good fellow," in the little colony of those "who can't go home."

The beginning of the end came early in January, when he suddenly began to waste away and was compelled to give up his vigorous outdoor work.

PHILADELPHIA EAR MASSEUR

The Great Cure for Deafness and Ear Diseases.

Free Demonstrations in Duluth

Mr. J. L. Nohner, representing the Philadelphia Ear Masseur, a modern invention for the treatment of deafness and ear diseases. The only rational and reasonably reliable instrument ever devised for the cure of deafness. It's basic principle is scientific and its mode of operation is by air compression under vibration. The vibratory air is forced in direct contact with the drum membrane and the paralyzed muscles and nerves of the ear are forced into action by a process that would be utterly impossible by any other mechanical device, and the treatment is so effective and sure in action that the paralyzed and damaged organs are worked upon by a powerful force which is harmless, absolutely painless and of lasting effect. No matter how thick the drum membrane may be or how completely it has fallen or how securely the little bones of the ear have grown together this treatment draws them loose, vibrates them to flexibility, restores the drum membrane to tenacity and renders it sensitive to sound. The treatment is scientific and it is positively effective in each and every case.

The Philadelphia Ear Masseur, while practically a new invention has however been used by some of the leading Eastern specialists ever since it has been on the market, but not until recently has it been convenient to demonstrate it to the suffering individual patient direct. Some remarkable cures have been made and every well selected case can be cured by it. The arrangement is so complete that any one can use it and it will not require more than about five minutes each treatment, morning and evening, for a few weeks or a few months until the worst cases will be cured. The machine can be run by compressed air, by water, hand power or any other power and requires no assistance. No matter how long you have been deaf, who has doctored you nor what treatment you have had, this masseur will cure you positively, permanently, and cure you to stay cured. Thousands of people are being cured, and thousands will continue to be cured.

A free demonstration by Mr. J. L. Nohner at the St. Louis hotel Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 15 16 and 17, will be given to all interested and those who call on him any time between the hours of 9 a. m. and 8 p. m. You take no risk and if you are not sufficiently convinced there is no harm done and no enemies made. Mr. Nohner does not represent himself as a physician, nor does he come to sell these instruments direct, his desire is to demonstrate to you the great curative results of the Philadelphia Ear Masseur, And if you are convinced after receiving the demonstration, then he will receive your order, charging you a small deposit down to assure good faith, and the instrument can be shipped to you, to be paid for when received. The charges are reasonable.

Remember the date and tell your friends or any one you know who are suffering with any form of ear disease, ringing, roaring or noise in the ears, of this valuable demonstration in Duluth.

Bemidji, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The natural beauties of Bemidji are to be cultivated and the city made more attractive this summer than ever, according to the present plans of the members of the Bemidji Improvement league, composed of most of the women of the city.

The officers of the league have called a mass meeting of all the citizens interested in improving the natural attractions of Bemidji, to be held in the city hall at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, April 17.

Papers are being prepared by several women, and there will be a general discussion of certain subjects pertaining to the cleaning up of the few disagreeable spots that might be found within the city, including a talk by the local health officer, Dr. E. H. Smith. A few papers, which were read at a recent meeting of the local branch of the Women's Federation of Clubs, will be delivered at the public meeting in the city hall.

The league has a very efficient corps of officers, most of whom have had experience in this class of work in other cities. The officers are: Mrs. W. E. Neal, president; Mrs. A. P. White, vice president; Mrs. J. M. Richards, secretary, and Mrs. W. N. Bowser, treasurer.

KILLED BELOW SURFACE.

Trammer in Tamarack Mine Crushed on 2,400-Foot Level.

Hancock, Mich., April 12.—Amelio Santino, alias Azetio, a young Italian trammer who had been in the employ of the Quincy Mining company only three weeks, coming hither from the Baltic, was struck by the man car and instantly killed at the 2,400-foot level of No. 2 shaft, Saturday.

There were no witnesses of the accident. When last seen Santino was descending by a ladder from the 2,400-foot level to the one below. It is presumed that he must have stepped out of the way directly in front of the man car which was ascending on the way opposite to that in which Santino made the descent.

The car was ascending at high speed and Santino was carried fifty or sixty feet. His head was frightfully crushed, and his body mangled.

Phillips, Wis., Boy Lassoed and Drawn Into Machinery.

Ashland, Wis., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roy Peterson of Phillips, is at St. Joseph's hospital with three depressed fractures of the skull and injuries to the brain, which are likely to cause his death. One of them lassoed him, the loose end catching in the machinery, and jerking him up against an edger, causing the resulting injuries.

FAVOR COMMISSION PLAN.

Many Fargoans Taken Up With New Municipal Government Idea.

Fargo, N. D., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The microbe of commission form of government has attacked a considerable number of Fargoans so badly that at tonight's meeting of the city council it is expected a petition will be presented to the city council. The law is rather peculiar in this state. It gives the council no option in calling an election if petitioned by 10 per cent of the voters and the only discretion allowed the aldermen is that they are given reasonable time to fix the date.

There does not seem to be a great deal of radical opposition to the plan in Fargo, but there appears to be a strong sentiment against calling an election at this time, just following the recent municipal election.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LOST HORSES ARE LOCATED

Blooded Animals Stolen in St. Paul Held in Wisconsin Swamp.

Search Over Four States Is Believed About to be Ended.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—A search for seven blooded race horses, which extended over four states and into Canada, may end in a swamp near Burnette, Wis., where four men, a woman and a boy are guarded by a sheriff and a deputy sheriff, who hope to bring down the reward offered for the thieves who entered the Carling stables here early in January.

The horses with the party are thought to be those owned by Mrs. Jean Mueller, who obtained possession of them after a long legal battle in the Ramsey county courts.

The horses taken from Carling's stables are Billy Pickering, trotter; Maggie, trotter; Princess Chamois, pacer; Lady Wheeler, pacer; Mickey Duff, running horse; Nellie Lee, pacer; Princess X, pacer, and a setter dog with the name E. H. Hill on the collar.

Swamp Is Guarded.

After the courts awarded the horses to Mrs. Mueller, they were stolen and have not been seen since. J. C. Babcock of White Bear lake told Sheriff W. A. Gerber of Ramsey county Sunday he had seen the horses and the men enter the swamp. The swamp is just over the border in Wisconsin and is accessible only by two roads, both of which are guarded. Sheriff L. P. Smith of Burnette county, Wis., is guarding one and Deputy Sheriff M. E. Madden of Sawyer county, Wis., is guarding the other. Sheriff Gerber is holding his force in reserve, but is determined to starve out the besieged rather than engage in a battle. As Babcock said the men had but a small supply of food, the sheriff hopes to starve them out.

Babcock says the horses are highly bred and answer the description of the stolen animals. Many men have been after the reward and the country surrounding the Twin Cities has been closely watched since the robbery.

Brainerd, Minn., April 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. H. Belangee, of Fremont, Neb., is in the vicinity securing 400,000 jack pine seedings for shipment to his home town.

Mr. Belangee states that these trees seem peculiarly adapted to the sand hills of Western Nebraska. Trees planted nine years ago are now 15 to 21 feet in height and are strong and vigorous. He states that the jack pine is growing in favor there as a shade tree and windbreak. They are also planting many catalpas there they making rapid growth and being almost indestructible as posts, when in the ground.

Agnes was working in a Janesville family but she wrote the Crandon man and sure enough the man came to see her. It took him but three days to make up his mind that Agnes was the woman of his choice and they were married in Rockford by special permit. The 7-year-old daughter of Charles Reigelsperger at Spring Lake in some manner severed the thumb completely from her hand with a sharp-edged instrument. The severed digit was splinted to its place and the little girl was brought here to a doctor. The thumb had been reconnected out of shape, out it was so far healed together that the doctor would not separate it. The misfortune is doubly severe as the child was born without fingers on her other hand.

AGE LIMITS

It is said that the Pennsylvania Railway will employ no new man over 35 years old. The Southern Pacific makes the limit 40. They all want young men. Every year the old fellows on one pretext or another are being dropped by every corporation. We must all face it. Wise men are preparing for the inevitable day by providing an income for themselves.

There is nothing that fills the bill like an orange grove in the Isle of Pines. Selected lands still $40.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

OPEN SEASON IN THE EAST

American League Teams Start Ball Rolling for 1909.

Washington Meets New York—Philadelphia Plays Boston.

Washington, April 12.—Bright skies and moderate temperature promise to provide the ideal baseball weather essential to make the opening of the major league season at American league park in this city this afternoon a success. The New York and Washington clubs, which finished last and next to last respectively, in the stirring league struggle of 1908, but both of which are believed to have been greatly strengthened in the meantime, are scheduled to begin here today a series of four games.

The home team will be almost as much of a stranger to Washington fans as the visiting clubs, none of its practice games having been played here.

The Washingtons are due to arrive here this morning from Columbus, Ohio, and the New Yorks should reach here about the same time from Newark, both teams having played with, and incidentally having been defeated, by minor league clubs, in those cities yesterday. But neither team presented its strongest front nor will be able to do so today. Walter Johnson, the local's star pitcher is suffering from the effects of a severe cold and will not mount the slab. The absence of McBride, the Washington shortstop, who is also sick, and Milan, the club's speedy center fielder, who is nursing a sprained ankle, will necessitate the Nationals going into the game with a temporary line-up.

On the other hand the New Yorks have been even more unfortunate being deprived temporarily of the services of their premier first baseman, Hal Chase, who is convalescing in the Augusta Ga., pesthouse from a case of smallpox. Then again practically every man on the team is favoring his sinister arm, upon which the vaccine point has left its irritating mark.

Southpaws probably will oppose each other in the pitcher's box when play is called by Umpires Egan and Evans at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon if "Doc" Newton, the New York left hander, is in form. Manager Cantillon already has announced that Burns will pitch for Washington, Kleinow and Street will be on the receiving sides of the visiting and home batteries respectively.

Washington is aroused by the opening, and all box seats for the game were sold days in advance. The capital fans are confident that today will witness the banishment of the "hoodoo" which has kept a Washington team from winning an opening game since [illegible].

On Wednesday, April 14, all the clubs in both leagues will march upon the playing field, and the dash to the pennant pole will be on in full cry.

In the National league the Eastern clubs will engage each other, while the Western clubs will start the season on their own playing fields. Brooklyn will cross the river and play the New York Nationals, while the Philadelphia team will go northward to meet the Boston team. In the West, Pittsburg engages Cincinnati at Cincinnati, and the Chicago club, world's champions, will have the honor of inaugurating the season at home with St. Louis.

The Western branch of the American league will go into action Wednesday with Chicago at Detroit and Cleveland at St. Louis, the New York team playing at Washington and Boston at Philadelphia, the first four days of the week. The Eastern league does not open until April 22.

Philadelphia, April 12.—An event for which local baseball followers have been waitin for weeks takes place this afternoon, when the local American league club meets Boston in the opening game of the American league season, in a park said to be one of the largest and the finest of its kind in the world. The park, which has been named after President Smith of the Philadelphia American club, and it said to have cost $500,000, will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

The weather is all that could be desired and an immense crowd is expected to attend the game, which will begin at 3 o'clock. The gates will be opened at 1 o'clock, and for an hour and a half a concert will be given by two military bands. At 2:30 o'clock the spectators, led by the bands, will sing "America," and then will follow a parade of the Philadelphia and Boston players to the flag pole, where a large American flag will be raised while the combined bands play the "Star Spangled Banner."

Manager Mack of the Philadelphians has not yet announced the make-up of his team, but will do so later in the day. The Boston team arrived here Saturday and is in splendid condition. Manager Lake says he has four pitchers ready to use in today's game, but he probably will pitch Arrelanes or possibly Chech. The Philadelphians probably will use Eddie Plank.

Farmer to Box Little.

New Orleans, La., April 12.—"Kid" Farmer of Peoria, Ill., and Walter Little of Chicago will meet in a ten-round bout before the Royal Athletic club here tonight.

Belle of Troy Wins.

Kempton Park, Eng., April 12.—The Southwestern 2-year-old selling plate of 103 sovereigns, distance four furlongs, was run here today and won by H. P. Whitney's Belle of Troy. Pine Knot was second and Icy Cup third. Thirteen horses ran.

BREEZE WAS TOO CHILLY

Oarsmen Were Unable to Get on Water Saturday.

St. Paul Crews Already at Work on the Mississippi.

Saturday's breezes were a little too chilly to permit the Duluth Boat club crews getting on the water, and the first work in the shells had to be postponed.

The senior crew had planned on getting out Saturday, but the cold northeaster made it impossible and the men worked out in the gymnasium as usual. If the weather is all favorable the men will get out some day this week. The juniors will follow suit, and before the end of the week it is expected that both crews will be on the water.

Dispatches from St. Paul state that the Minnesota men are already on the water, and in order to compete on an equal footing with St. Paul, Duluth crews will lose no time in beginning actual training in the shells. St. Paul crews always have had from two to three weeks' more training than Duluth, and this has told in the races. This year the Duluth men have in part made up for this by strenuous work in the gymnasium.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—After working at the rowing machines in the Y. M. C. A. building during February and March, the senior and junior eights of the Minnesota Boat club are now out on the Mississippi in daily practice.

The senior eight this season will be made up of all, except two, of last year's intermediate crew, and has been rowing as follows: Paine, bow; Edwards, 2; Schaub, 3; Otis, 4; Wright, 5; Larkin, 6; Foster, 7, and Nelson, stroke. This is the famous intermediate eight that won the junior events last year from Winnipeg and Duluth and took first place in their race in the national regatta at Springfield, Mass. They have been rowing in splendid form this year, and the Minnesota Boat club's prospects for winning senior eight were never before so good. They are young men of fine physique and endurance and this ,combined with the improved Yale stroke that Coach Langford has taught them, will make the eight an unusually strong opponent in the three regattas that Minnesota expects to take part in this year.

If Minnesota wins any of the international regatta events the victorious crews will be sent to the Canadian Henley at St. Catherine, Ont., Aug. 6-7.

But the biggest rowing event of the season will be the national regatta to be held Aug. 13-14 on the Detroit river, Detroit, Mich. Here will meet the Vespers of Philadelphia, Detroit club, New York Athletic club, Argonauts of Toronto, Winnipeg, Duluth, perhaps, and Minnesota. This comprises all the big crews of the country and will be one of the greatest rowing events in the history of that sport in the country.

The senior four, which last year defeated Duluth, Winnipeg and Kenora, is broken up and will not be reorganized until late in May. The junior four will be made up then, also.

VIRGINIA IS OUT OF THE RUNNING

Range Town Said to Have Plunged Too Heavily.

From present prospects it appears that the baseball supremacy of the range will be fought out this season by Hibbing and Eveleth. Virginia, the 1908 champions, hit too fast a clip last season. It is said that the nine that Virginia supported in 1908 finished the season $2,000 to the bad and the fans have not the heart to make another splurge.

Most of the Virginia players have joined teams in various Canadian leagues, Infielders O'Hayer, Walters and Taylor going to Brandon, while Pitcher Currie will fling for Winnipeg, and Pitcher Graham will twirl for Indianapolis.

Manager Pat Boyle of the Eveleth team was in Duluth yesterday scouting for information regarding good semi-professional players. He says that Eveleth is out after the big flag and that he will have a strong team.

Hibbing, as usual, will place a fast crew in the field. There will be some new faces in the line-up, as Pitcher Gilchrist and Third Baseman Brookins will not return to the range. Dave Williams, last season's manager of the Duluth White Sox, will be a member of Tom Brady's aggregation this year, and is now making his home in Hibbing.

There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the club this week, when the full line-up of the team will be decided upon.

HAVE PLAN FOR A PARK

Good Race Course and Football Gridiron May Be Laid Out.

Exhibition Building Might Be Used for Hockey Rink.

Lovers of harness horse sport, football, baseball and hockey are discussing the advisability of establishing a large athletic park in Duluth. The scheme was broached several days ago, following the announcement made by Elliott & Runquist, lessees of the West End Driving Park that they would relinquish the lease on the property and take their big string of pacers and trotters to Hamline to train. As a reason for their action they said that the driving park property was in such a sad state of repair that the expense which would have to be gone to, to get the property in fit condition for use would be too great in consideration of the returns.

While the plan for the establishment of a new park is yet in embryo, the scheme which seems to meet with the approval of those interested is to form a large stock company. If the West end park can be secured at a reasonable figure it is probable that some consideration may be given it, in the event of the formation of the proposed company. It is said by men who have made inquiries that the price set on the property last fall was $45,000, but recently when the owner was approached he asked $60,000. This value strikes the promoters as being too high and other sites will be looked over if the company is formed.

The promoters have in mind a park with a large exposition building, which can be used during the race meetings for exhibiting produce and such other things which go with fairs. This building could be converted into a dancing pavilion when not in use otherwise during the summer, and in the winter months might be used for hockey and curling games. The plans show a baseball diamond and a football gridiron in the center of the race course, the playing grounds being set out in front of the grandstand.

The judges' stand is on wheels and can be moved when games are in progress.

If the scheme to construct the park is carried through it is hoped by the promoters to have something doing at the park every week in the year. The speed program will consist of harness and automobile races and occasionally a big running meet.

A meeting of the promoters will be held just as soon as the tonnage tax question is settled.

TROUT STREAMS ARE STILL HIGH

Only Plan Is to Fish Near the Mouth, Says Trapper.

"You might catch a few 'big fellows' at the mouths of the rivers, but there isn't much use trying to fish the north shore streams yet," said an old-time trapper and fisherman, who was in Duluth yesterday.

"It hasn't been thawing any in the woods for the last few days, and there is still plenty of snow and ice along the streams as you get away from the lake. The streams are too high and muddy to make fishing good, and fishing them now is pretty poor sport.

"If anybody plans to fish on the opening day of the season, the only system is to keep near the mouth of the stream and try for the big fellows. You can probably get some big steel heads there, but it will be at least two weeks yet before there is any good fishing farther up the streams."

Many Duluthians have shacks in the woods which they use as headquarters for fishing trips during the summer, and they will visit these next Sunday to put them in shape for the season.

ST. YVES IS MATCHED AGAINST SHRUBB.

New York, April 12.—Henri St. Yves, who won the recent international Marathon derby, has been matched to meet Alfred Shrubb of England in a fifteen-mile race, at American League park here, Saturday, April 24. The race will take place at night, and will be run in the glare of hundreds of electric lights, especially strung for the occasion.

Many experts claim that Shrubb is the fastest man inthe world for fifteen miles, but those who saw St. Yves run shoulder to shoulder with him for this distance in the derby, and then go on and win, are confident that in St. Yves the Englishman has found his master at all distances.

Evers Wants a Rest.

Troy, N. Y., April 12.—"Johnny" Evers, second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, stated today that he desired to lay off for a season, and that he had completed correspondence with President Charles Murphy of the Chicago team to that end, with the result that in all probability he would take a complete rest for 1909.

JOHNSON TO BOX KETCHEL

Middleweight Champion Agrees to Do Battle With Negro.

Contest Will Take Place In California In October.

New York, April 12.—A match between Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, and Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, for a bout some time next October at Colma, Cal., has been practically arranged by James Coffroth, manager of the Colma club, and the final details of the fight will be determined at a meeting of the fighters and Coofroth here tonight. Coffroth made the announcement today that the match had been arranged, but said a few details, such as the selection of a referee, would have to be settled before the articles were signed.

"I spent over three hours with Jack Johnson last night," said Coffroth, "and he is satisfied to fight Ketchel. The mill will take place during Portola week in Colma. I talked with Jeffries, but he would not give me a definite answer whether he would fight Johnson or not; but he did say that if he did meet the negro it would be at least eight months before he would be ready to enter the ring.

"Ketchel is anxious to meet Johnson and I had no difficulty in arranging the match."

TRAVELERS HAVE A STRONG TEAM

U. C. T. Crew Will Play Big Schedule of Games.

While the Fitwell semi-professional baseball team is challenging the Duluth White Sox, it might do well to take a peek at the crew of players that Charles Sutton is signing up for the U. C. T. lodge of this city. If the Commercial Travelers do not have the swiftest semi-professional team that Duluth has ever seen, there are a whole lot of fans who will receive a severe jolt. The boys who visit the cross-roads Wanamakers are planning on a big schedule of games, which will include contests with brother teams in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

So far Manager Sutton has secured the signatures of "Bill" Lambert, the big outfielder, who was formerly with the Kansas City and Duluth crews, Will Gardner, the well-known athlete, who did the backstop work for Chicago University, Leonard Rosseth, catcher for the University of Wisconsin nine in 1905, and Pitcher Cook and Infielders Al Olson and Ray Fenton of last season's Fitwell team. Jack Desmond, who played first base for the Bijou team in 1907-08, may also be a member of Sutton's aggregation.

THE MacCOMBERS' FINAL HEARING

Attorneys Argue Their Case Before Judge Ensign.

The troubles of Olive Briggs MacComber and her husband, George Embert MacComber, were aired for the last time Saturday afternoon before Judge Ensign of the district court.

She is suing for a divorce, and both agree to this part of the matter, but the rub comes when she asks that part of his property be made over to her. She says he is the possessor of some city property, and he says that he has not a cent, and that he is in debt to his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Boyington.

Judge Ensign reserved his decision.

KILLED IN STREET DUEL.

Wealthy Albany, Ga., Man Is Shot By a Boy.

Albany, Ga., April 12.—Neville L. Ragan, one of the wealthiest men in Albany, was shot to death late Saturday in a street duel with Howard Clark, the 18-year-old son of John S. Clark, who is prominent in Albany politics. The tragedy followed a fist in the morning between the elder Clark and Ragan, in which both of Ragan's eyes were blackened.

Clark was a member of a recent grand jury before which Ragan appeared in an effort to secure the indictment of a city official. Ragan failed and evidently blamed Clark.

He approached the elder Clark about the matter Saturday morning and the fist fight followed.

Later in the day young Clark and Ragan met on the street. Ragan reached for his pistol and young Clark backed away, followed by Ragan. After Clark had retreated a dozen steps he drew a pistol and shot Ragan through the heart. Young Clark surrendered at once to the sheriff.

SCHIFF GIVES $100,000.

Fund Will Establish Technical College for Jews in Palestine.

Berlin, April 12.—Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, has placed $100,000 at the disposal of the Central Jewish Relief League toward establishing a technical college for Jews at Palestine. The college will be located at Harfa.

$600,000 FOR SETTLING WILL.

Big Fee to Lawyers in "Lucky" Baldwin Case.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—The largest law fee ever paid on this coast for brief services goes to the attorneys for Mrs. Lilly Bennett Baldwin for forcing a settlement of "Lucky" Baldwin's will.

It is approximately $600,000, and will be paid out of the estate to Former Governor Henry T. Cage and Walter J. Trask of this city and Garrett McEnerney of San Francisco. The former is to receive $300,000, Trask $100,000, and McEnerney the remainder.

Mrs. Baldwin will receive $1,400,000 for herself, and she is apparently well satisfied.

SWEDISH BAND SETS DATES.

Royal Regiment Musicians to Be at Chicago April 15.

Chicago, April 12.—The Royal Vendes Regiment band of the Swedish army, which comes to America by special permission of King Gustaf V., will appear in Chicago, April 15 and 18. The band is one of the largest exclusively brass instrument military organizations in Sweden. The director is John Ekblad.

BRIDE GETS LICENSE.

Adalia Oppel, Rather Than Postpone Wedding, Gets Paper Herself.

Miss Adalia D. Oppel appeared at the courthouse Saturday afternoon and applied to the clerk of the district court for a marriage license.

She was married the same evening to Guy R. Hoyt of Ishpeming Mich., and as her intended husband was not to arrive in the city until after the office had closed for the day, she took the marriage license matter in hand herself.

She is the first woman to call at the office on an errand of this nature in some months.

RESOLUTION OF PROTEST.

Commercial Travelers Ask That Tonnage Tax Bill Be Killed.

United Commercial Travelers to the number of 100 added their voices to the protest against the tonnage tax Saturday night. It was the regular meeting of the Duluth council, U. C. T., at K. of P. hall, and was largely attended. Several speeches against the Bjorge bill were made. Resolutions were passed condemning the tonnage tax on iron ore.

Among those who spoke were: C. W. Sutton, J. B. Sattler, John McDonald, Frank Parker and John R. Meining. The governor and senators will be supplied with copies of the resolution.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

SUPT. BELL INJURED.

Great Northern Official Knocked Unconscious and His Head Cut.

Brook Park, Minn., April 12.—Division Superintendent Frank Bell of the Great Western was quite seriously injured near here a few days ago. An extra had been sent to Sandstone and Mr. Bell's private car was attached at Milaca. When the train was approaching Brook Park, it broke in two and the brakes were set with such violence that the cars bumped together with a great jar. The train was a long one, numbering at least seventy cars. Mr. Bell was going from the caboose into his private car when the shock came and he was thrown against the door. A big gash was cut in his forehead and he was unconscious for some time. His car was set out at Sandstone and a physician called. It is believed that his wound will not result seriously.

KILLED IN SAWMILL.

Young Eddie Comstock Loses His Life Near Roseau.

Roseau, Minn., April 12.—A tragedy was enacted in the town of Melung a few days ago, when Eddie Comstock, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Comstock of Melung, formerly of Todd county, was crushed to death in the sawmill of his brother, Anva Comstock.

Anva Comstock was working on the skidway, when all of a sudden the carriage came to a dead stop. Anva at first thought the engine had gone wrong, but one of the men called out, "Look behind you." When he did so he beheld his brother stretched out on the ground, with his head jammed in between the end of the skidway and the carriage, which had caused the machinery to stop. The carriage was speedily pushed forward, but Eddy never moved and his head was found to have been crushed to a pulp. How the accident happened is a mystery. The dead boy's duties on the skidway never brought him within fifteen or twenty feet of the log carriage and his presence on the fatal spot cannot be accounted for.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

The very great majority of persons need a tonic in the Spring or early Summer. The system undergoes a change at this season and the entire physical machinery is disturbed. The general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling and a general run-down condition of the system, show that the blood is weak or anaemic, and a blood purifying tonic is needed to build up the deranged system and enrich the blood. The use of S. S. S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the long, hot Summer. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened and depleted it could not successfully throw off disease germs, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of fever, malaria or some other debilitating sickness. S. S. S. is Nature's ideal tonic. It is a composition of the extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks which science and experience have proven are best fitted for a tonic to the human system. It contains no minerals of any kind and is therefore perfectly safe for persons of any age. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion, rids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and strength to every part of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, stimulates the secreting and excreting members to better action, quiets the over-strained nerves, and makes one feel better in every way.

A NOBLE RECORD

Of many hundreds of thousands of cures forms a well sustained basis for every claim put forth by the makers of DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY as a remedy for many of the troublesome affections which afflict mankind; yet it is not extolled as a "cure-all" by any means. No extravagant promises are flaunted before the public to arouse false hopes in the afflicted. Your neighbors probably know of some of its many cures; ask them.

Through strengthening and arousing the stomach, liver and bowels into vigorous action, digestion is promoted, whereby the blood is enriched and purified, disease-producing bacteria destroyed and expelled from the body, and thus a long list of skin, scrofulous and kindred affections are overcome and sound, vigorous health established.

The "Discovery" contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs, and has its every ingredient printed on its wrappers. This OPEN PUBLICITY places it in a class distinct from the ordinary secret nostrums with which it has no relationship. Physicians, therefore, do not hesitate to prescribe it in bad cases of indigestion, torpid liver or biliousness and in skin and blood affections. People of intelligence and keen discernment employ it. The "Discovery" is a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal roots of great curative potency, and can in no case do harm to either child or adult. The aged find it a great invigorator.

You can learn more about this time proven and popular "Discovery" from the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a newly revised, up-to-date edition of which is now offered, in cloth covers, post-paid, for 31 cents in one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only; or in paper covers 21 cents. WHEAT STILL SOARING IN AMERICAN MARKETS

Prices Climb Before the Heavy Demand for the Grain.

Flax Is Firm at the Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 12.—The sensational advance in wheat showed no abatement during the active session today, and all the active options closed higher.

The July is the most active option now, and it was well bought in every market. There was also a good demand for May and September, both of which were up.

It was understood during the day that Patten and his associates were active bidders for July wheat in Chicago. Their stand is as bullish as ever, and the gossip which came from them was as enthusiastic as it was last week.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 1,279,000 bu, and is now 34,863,00 bu, against 36,142,000 bu last week, and 27,730,000 bu a week ago.

It was a holiday in Liverpool today.

May and July durum wheat sold at $1.14 in Duluth, which is a new high mark for the grade. The demand for it continues very firm.

The May spring wheat option closed ⅞c higher in Duluth and Chicago, 1@1⅛c higher in Minneapolis, 2⅝c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg. Wire trouble prevented the receipt of the closing prices from St. Louis and Kansas City. The July option closed ⅞c higher in Duluth and Winnipeg, 1¼@1⅜c higher in Chicago, 1c higher in Minneapolis and 3⅛c higher in New York.

May corn closed ⅛c higher in Chicago and oats were ¼c lower.

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago are shown as follows:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Continue to Soar—Oat Market Is Held Firm.

Chicago, April 12.—Wheat prices on the board of trade continued to soar today, the deferred futures advancing to new high record marks for the season. Early in the session the July delivery sold at $1.16⅛ and the September option at $1.08¾, the gain on the former being 1⅛c and on the latter ⅞c compared with the previous high point established Saturday. The market opened somewhat unsettled, with an inclination towards weakness owing to realizing sales brought out by wet weather in the Southwest, but rallied sharply early in the day on renewed buying by bull leaders. Trade in May was very small. Prices at the start were ⅜c higher to ⅝c lower, May being at $1.25½@1.25¾. July opened at $1.14¾@1.15 and September at $1.07⅞@1.07½. Within fifteen minutes July had advanced to $1.16⅛ and September to $1.08¾. May sold up to $1.26¼.

Trade was very nervous all day and prices fluctuated sharply on the execution of comparatively small orders. The high point for July was reached at $1.16¾. May advanced to $1.26⅜, and September to $1.09. A rather listless feeling developed late in the day and prices sagged a trifle on realizing sales. The close, however, was strong with July up 1¼@1⅜c at $1.16¼. May closed at $1.26¼ and September at $1.08⅜@1.08½.

Local receipts of corn were larger than had been estimated, and this caused considerable selling of that grain at the opening, which resulted in moderate weakness. The market, however, became firmer early in the session, owing to the strength of wheat. May opened ⅛@¼c lower at 66¼@66⅜c and sold up to 66½c.

Later in the day May advanced to 66⅜@66⅝c. The close was firm with May up ⅛c at 66⅝c.

The bulge in wheat held the oat market firm despite increased receipts and some profit taking based on the bright outlook for the new crop. May opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 54⅝ to 54⅝c and for a time held within that range.

Provisions were quiet and firm. Strength of grain and an advance of 5c to 10c in love hogs were the bullish factors. Prices at the start were 2½c to 10c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Support Furnished Largely By the Speculative Interests.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 12.—The market opened at a new high point, $1.23, and early in the session advanced to $1.24. The market was supported largely by speculative interests, which, added to buying by the big holders, made the strength. Local stocks decreased 225,000 bu for three days. The market was nervous and choppy. May closed at $1.23¼. Minneapolis today received 114 cars against 122; Duluth, 45 against 36; Winnipeg, 336 against 249. May opened at $1.23; high, $1.24; low, $1.22⅝; close, $1.23¼. July opened $1.23¾; high, $1.24⅞; low, $1.22⅞; close, $1.23⅝@1.23¾. Cash wheat was in strong demand again today. Millers were the best buyers and offerings were light. No. 1 northern sold for 2¼@2½c over and No. 2 northern ¼@½c over the May options. The long-predicted price, $1.25, was quite general for No. 1 northern. No. 1 northern spot, $1.25¼@1.25½; to arrive, $1.25¼; No. 2 northern spot, $1.23¼@1.23½; to arrive, $1.23¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.19¼@1.21½; No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾@63¼c; No. 3 white oats, 50⅜@50⅞c; No. 2 rye, 78¾@79¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 37 cars today, against 39, shipments, 20. Demand was good for the malting grades, and prices advanced. Feeding grades had a poor inquiry, and several cars were carried over. Receipts were heavy. Closing price, 58½@61c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,623 tons. Demand was strong and again in excess of the supply. Owing to the continued strong demand, prices were in a narrower range. Shipments over Sunday were light. Bran in bulk, $22.25@22.50.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Started Out Slightly Higher, Reacted and Advanced Again.

Sales to Realize and Further Buying in Closing Hours.

New York, April 12.—Trading in stocks started off with considerable animation after three days closed interval, in spite of the fact that foreign stocks were still in recess. Prices started at advances but the changes from Thursday's closing prices were small outside the specialities which were dealt in in great variety. There were large fractional gains in Reading, Atchison, Denver & Rio Grande, Kansas City Southern, American Car, American Telephone, National Lead, General Electric and Corn Products. American Cotton Oil rose 1¾, American Ice 1½ and American Smelting, International Pump, American Hide & Leather preferred, American Sugar, Hocking Coal, Wisconsin Central, People's Gas and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 1.

Realizing sales checked the advance in the active stocks, Reading falling back a point to below Thursday's closing. Some of the other leaders also sagged below last week's prices. Minor specialties and industrials meanwhile continued to advance briskly. Pullman showed a gain of 2¼, Louisville & Nashville, International Harvester and United States Pipe 2, Atlantic Coast Line 1⅝. General Electric 1½ and a number of others a point or more. Stocks began to advance with the publication of the senate committees amendment in the tariff bill. The demand was active and broad. Atlantic Coast Line rose 1⅝, Louisville & Nashville 3. International Harvester preferred 4 and United States Pipe preferred 1½. Erie second preferred and American Can preferred 2, Southern Railway preferred and United States Steel 1⅜ and Reading, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island preferred, Erie and Amalgamated Copper 1. Bonds were strong.

Reading made its usual response to the postponement of the supreme court decision in the commodities clause case, jumping 1¾ to 139⅜. The rest of the list hardened in sympathy, a number of the minor stocks making sensational advances. Iowa Central got up 3¼, the preferred 1¾; Minneapolis and St. Paul, 2¼; Sloss-Sheffield Steel, 2⅜; Rock Island preferred, 1½; Chesapeake & Ohio, ⅜, and Union Pacific, 1.

Concerted buying of the Gould stocks advanced the group strongly, but the rest of the list was inclined to sag. Wabash preferred and Denver & Rio Grande met the rise, but the others fell in line soon after. Denver & Rio Grande preferred gained 2¼, Wabash preferred 1⅜, Kansas City Southern 1⅜, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 1. Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis rose 5, Central Railroad of New Jersey 4, United Railroads & Investment 3½ and United States Rubber 2. Pacific Coast yielded 3½.

The market closed irregular and active. Sales to realize, mingled with further buying at fresh points, made the late market irregular. Northern Pacific fell 1 below Thursday and other active stocks reacted substantially. International Harvester preferred rose 5½. Federal Mining and United States Realty 5. New Haven 3, and Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island preferred and St. Louis Southwestern preferred 2.

The lumbering companies are sending in hundreds of horses from their logging camps, which offer real bargains to buyers. This week should find the spring season at its best.

My own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

APRIL 12, 1909.

A big market has now been established on Butte-Alex Scott. Orders come from all over the country. A market has been established on this stock so large that it is not uncommon to get orders from New York, Boston, Washington, Pittsburg, and even from the South as far as Texas. If it was not for the fact that this is one of the best mines on Butte Hill, it would not be in the limelight today, but when you bring out a proposition like the Minnie Healy, you are doing something that does not happen very often. You think the stock at $12.50 is selling high, do you? Well, if you do, just take the train for Butte, Montana, and take a look at the mine. It is one in a thousand and you will see the $2 paid sell at $30 or over, and it will be very cheap at that. The Butte-Alex Scott of today will be a much different proposition sixty days from now. You will read about it in Boston papers and from Butte you will get reports that they have made wonderful discoveries at this mine. All these things will happen. Why gentlemen, the 1245 has hardly been scratched. They are just beginning to blow it open. Mr. Stone wires that in the east drift they have opened up over two feet of copper glance and a great amount of lower grade ore, and he says it is a splendid showing. On the Butte-Alex Scott they have four big veins and a number of cross veins. Remember the Butte-Alex Scott mine is a real mine and we can expect news every day for a long time to come. They are working not only on one level, but on several levels, and they have ore on every one. Personally, I am away up in the air on this one. I have seen many mines, but never such a mass of ore in a property with such a limited territory. With such a mine, such a good management, so much ore, and with veins over 40 feet wide, why a man is a fool who cannot see the outcome. Did you ever figure it out? Here is the Butte-Alex Scott mine with 100,000 shares issued and 160,000 in the treasury selling at $1,100,000. When you pay $12.50 for Scott $2 paid, it is about the same as Buying Butte-Ballaklava for $5 a share. Now then, how can you beat a game like that? No one can tell you which will be the bigger mine, and anyone with any brains would have to say that they will both be big mines. To show you how close together these two mines are, I only have to tell you that the Ballaklava is now connected with a drift which enters the Butte-Alex Scott, and they are now getting air from our mine. They do not connect with the West Colusa, they connect with the Modoc and Butte-Alex-Scott. Here is a message received from Butte on the 8th, 1:42 p. m.:

MARTIN ROSENDAHL, Duluth: No connection yet, but they sound very close.
C. J. STONE, Supt.

Here is one on the 9th:

MARTIN ROSENDAHL, Duluth: Ballaklava made connection yesterday, one hour after I wired you.
C. J. STONE, Supt.

Butte-Alex Scott and the Butte-Ballaklava are the two best independent properties on Butte Hill. In the next year it will be a race to see which of these two will be the biggest. When we get the Norberg hoist and engine, which is bought, also the electric compressor, which is bought, and the big new boilers that were bought in Butte, we will then give them a run for their money.

Mr. N. F. Hugo and Thomas A. Merritt make a great team. Mr. Hugo also knows how to get work done fast. No man in this country understands how to place machinery any better. Things have to move when Mr. Hugo takes hold.

Here is a message received at 9 o'clock last night:

Butte, Mont., April 10.
THOMAS A. MERRITT, Gen. Mgr. Butte-Alex Scott Copper Co.:
Mine operating with full force on 10th and 12th levels, both making good ore, and am saving it for immediate shipment. East drift has two feet of copper glance and balance of drift in disseminated copper and improving.

Copper glance runs up to 80 per cent. Remember this glance alone would make almost 20 feet of 8 per cent ore. Now then, also remember the balance of the vein is all ore of different grades, and take the vein as a whole, it should run up to 20 per cent copper. This information can be relied on absolutely.

LATEST NEWS: Butte-Alex Scott continues firm with heavy trade, and all offerings are well taken at going prices. The news from the 12th level is certainly encouraging and higher prices are inevitable for the shares. All of the others are active and the New York and Boston markets are boiling with activity. Higher prices are predicted all along the line and some exceptionally good profits are possible. The market is sufficiently broad and active, so that you can buy or sell at a moment's notice.

RAILROAD NEWS

NOW HAVE CONTROL

Canadian Northern Assumes Active Management of Rainy Lake.

Much Speculation Regarding the Port Arthur-Duluth Line.

The Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad is now under the active management of the Canadian Northern Railroad company. This fact became known today, though, as a matter of fact, the Duluth road has been under the management of the traffic officials of the Canadian road for several days.

It is announced at the office of the Duluth & Rainy Lake road that there will be no changes in the personnel of the local office through the passing of the management over to the Canadian Northern officials.

Some of the present officials of the Duluth & Rainy Lake road have contracts that have one or two years to run before their expiration. But even without this consideration it is not believed that the officials of the Canadian road intend to make any changes.

The visit here last week of the Canadian Northern officials, among other things, was to officially approve of the taking over of the management of the Duluth road. Accounts of the road at Virginia were checked up by the various heads of departments of the Canadian Northern.

The taking over of the active management of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad by the Canadian Northern officials, means that the latter road has added another link to its rapidly growing stretch of railroad mileage in the West, and has become a competing factor in the traffic of this section of the United States. It has secured an opening to the Head of the Lakes, and it is only a question of time until the Canadian Northern trains will be running to Duluth over its own rails from Winnipeg.

In connection with the visit of the Canadian Northern officials to Two Harbors, the story of the taking over of the Alger-Smith road by the Canadian Northern, is revived. This road is not a mere logging road, but was built with the intention that some day it should be converted into a regular traffic route. Now it is believed that the Canadian Northern will secure this road, will extend it to Gunflint Lake, and then construct a railroad from Knife River to Duluth.

If this plan was followed, it would give the Canadian Northern a direct line from Port Arthur to Duluth.

What route the Canadian Northern officials may choose for the extension of the Gunflint Lake branch is problematical at this time, but it is known that this branch from Port Arthur will be extended, and that the Canadian Northern will be the road that will do the building.

Embargo Lifted.

Canada has removed the embargo upon railroads. Duluth railroads received announcement of this fact today. The prevalence in certain parts of the United States of the hoof and mouth disease among cattle was the cause of the officials of Canada placing the embargo upon the shipment of animals into the dominion. The embargo was not enforced against this state, but shippers of animals were required to make an affidavit that their animals were free from disease.

Animals shipped from Michigan and certain other states were held up at the frontier.

Will Visit Duluth.

A. J. Perrin, commissioner of the passenger department of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, returned this morning from Chicago. While in Chicago Mr. Perrin met George W. Hibbard, formerly general passenger agent of the South Shore at Duluth.

Mr. Perrin says that Mr. Hibbard is going to make a trip to this city in the near future to visit his many friends. He has several offers from different railroads under consideration at the present time, but is undecided just at the present time as to what he will do.

Mr. Hibbard was formerly with the Mexican Central railroad at the City of Mexico. When certain consolidations were made in the Mexican National lines Mr. Hibbard resigned his position.

"I'd Rather Die, Doctor,
Than have my feet cut off," said M. L. Bingham of Princeville, Ill. "But you'll die from gangrene (which had eaten away eight toes) if you don't," said all doctors. Instead he used Bucklen's Arnica Salve till wholly cured. Its cures of Eczema, Fever Sores, Boils, Burns and Piles astound the world. 25c at all druggists.

DOOM OF THE CIGARETTE IN MINNESOTA SOUNDED BY STATE LEGISLATURE

Spooner Bill Repassed By House and Goes to Governor.

Bill to Raise Duluth Special Municipal Judge's Salary.

Senate Again Has Debate Over the Armour Packing Plant.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Either the doom of the cigarette has been sounded in Minnesota, or another has been added to the list of unenforced and unenforceable laws of this state. The house this morning repassed the Spooner anti-cigarette bill, after concurring in the senate amendments to it, and the measure now goes to the governor for his signature. It is effective Aug. 1. When the bill passed the house at a night session, a couple of months ago, on the same evening of its introduction, it was regarded somewhat as a joke, and there was but one vote against it. This time, when it was in dead earnest, there were 73 votes for it and 37 against it.

L. H. Johnson called up the bill this morning and moved that the house concur in the senate amendments.

Representative Grant moved, as a

SCOUT CRUISER FORCED TO QUIT

New York, April 13.—The scout cruiser Birmingham arrived here today with her machinery disabled, having withdrawn from the twenty-four hour race with the Chester and the Salem. It is expected the Birmingham will put into the Brooklyn yard for repairs. She had completed less than twelve hours of the high speed run when she was forced to quit.

ACCUSED, HE KILLS SELF

Arthur Back, Alleged Embezzler, Dies on Eve of Trial.

Built Up Powerful Political Machine as a County Official.

Binghamton, N. Y., April 13.—On the eve of his second trial on the charge of embezzling Broome county funds, which was scheduled to open in Cooperstown at 10 o'clock this morning, Arthur W. T. Back, former clerk of the Broome county board of supervisors, former custodian of county buildings and former chairman of the Broome county Republican committee, committed suicide early today by shooting himself through the head.

Back was indicted by the Broome county grand jury in August, 1907, on eight charges of forgery and grand larceny growing out of his conduct of the offices enumerated above. His occupancy of these offices gave him control of the work of building roads on which Broome county embarked on a generous scale in 1903, and as a result Back built up a powerful political machine.

After an investigation by District Attorney Clark and State Comptroller Glynn, the latter reported that $500,000 had been dispersed from the Broome county treasury upon the sole order and audit of Back and that of this amount $166,868 was paid directly to Back and $176,388 to a clerk in Back's employ and dispersed by them.

BITE OF GOAT PUTS WOMAN IN HOSPITAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—Mrs. Theresa Liebscher, a resident of this city, was bitten by her pet goat yesterday and received injuries which necessitated treatment at the receiving hospital. Mrs. Liebscher had gone to a nearby lot to see what was the trouble with the animal, which was making a great noise and performing star acrobatic "stunts." Upon close investigation she found that the goat had swallowed a ball of string, the end of which was caught in its teeth. Mrs. Liebscher seized the goat and tried to take the string from its mouth and was severely bitten.

WOULD HIT ALL STOCKS

Bill With Good Object Would Have Hurt Legitimate Concerns.

Graham's Bill for County Insane Asylums Passed By House.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bill with a very good object, but which would have had some very embarrasing and unexpected results, was killed by the house yesterday afternoon, and speeches by Representatives Grant and Congdon of Duluth contributed largely to its defeat.

The bill was by Representative Carlson of Wright county, and its object was to protect "suckers" from the clever machinations of mining sharks.

Its effects, however, would have been to prohibit the sale in Minnesota of any mining or oil stock, no matter how honest or how valuable it might be, unless the companies issuing the stock saw fit to file with the secretary of state a statement which practically no legitimate concern would think of filing.

The bill provided that "every company engaged in or pretending to engage in the mining of minerals of any kind, or in the mining of coal, gas or

AMERICAN GIRL WILL WED JAP

Miss Goodman, Mission Worker, Engaged to Rev. Inazawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—An unexpected romance has entered into the life of Miss Kate Goodman, an American mission worker among Japanese women and children in and around this city, and Rev. Joseph Keninchi Inazawa, pastor of the Japanese Presbyterian mission, and a Jap. Accidentally thrown together less than a year ago, their friendship ripened into mutual admiration and now they are engaged. Mr. Inazawa was greatly surprised when he learned that his secret had leaked out, but acknowledged the truth of the report. No date, he said, had been set for the wedding.

Inazawa has been a resident of this city for several years, during which time he has been in charge of the work of the Presbyterian mission. He is well educated and Americanized. For more than twenty years he has been engaged in missionary work on the Pacific coast with headquarters at San Francisco.

Miss Goodman is a resident of Monet, a surburb of Los Angeles, where she conducts a night school for Japanese boys. For many years she has been a worker among the Japanese and has studied their language with the intention of going to Japan as a missionary. She is well educated and highly connected and was a student at the University of Chicago when she started a year ago for Japan. Inazawa is 45 and Miss Goodman a few months his junior.

SNOWDRIFTS HOLD TRAIN

Seventy-Five Passengers Are Blockaded in Colorado.

Road's Rotary Plows Fail to Make Any Impression.

MISSOURI GETS A HEAVY APRIL SNOW.

Chillicothe, Mo., April 13.—A heavy snow fell in this part of Missouri yesterday. The temperature dropped to below the freezing point. Fears are entertained that the large apple and peach orchards in this section will be slightly damaged.

Denver, Colo., April 13.—Blockaded in the middle of snowdrifts that are too deep and too long even for big rotary plows successful to back, the eastbound passenger train on the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific railroad, known as the Moffat railroad, is tied up at Earl on the west side of the Continental divide.

The train with its seventy-five passengers was blockaded yesterday at Corona on the summit of the divide, where a howling blizzard for a time threatened to keep it tied up for several days. The train finally managed to get back to Earl, where provisions are plentiful.

Two big rotaries failed to make any impression on the great drift which is packed almost as solid as ice and is twenty feet in depth. Today gangs of laborers attacked it with shovels.

FIREMAN KILLED FIGHTING BLAZE

Two Others Fatally Injured By Collapse of a Wall.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 13.—One fireman was killed, two fatally injured and several slightly hurt today, when a wall collapsed during a fire at the pottery plant of the Sherwood Bros.' company at New Brighton, Pa., below this city.

The dead man is George Hartman and the fatally injured are Benjamin Carr and Charles Fell.

The fire started in the mineral department of the works and spread rapidly. The dead and injured men were fighting the blaze from the rear, when suddenly the wall fell in, burying them under bricks and steel girders. Estimates place the loss at $12,000.

GATES TO PALACE AT CONSTANTINOPLE, MENACED BY MUTINOUS TURKISH TROOPS.

Demands Dismissal of Chief Advisers of the Monarch.

People of Constantinople in Throes of the Panic.

Minister of War Is Reported to Have Fled.

Constantinople, April 13.—Mutinous troops are demonstrating against the building of parliament and are at the gates to the palace. Panic has seized the people of Constantinople, and all through the city shops are being hurriedly closed.

Full of Revolution.

Frankfort, April 13.—"Constantinople has been in full revolution since early this morning," declares the Constantinople correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung in a dispatch from the Turkish capital dated today. "Two battalions of troops quartered in the ministry of war marched out at dawn, headed by their officers, and proceeded via Divan and Jolu streets to the Mosque of St. Sophia, from which point they surrounded the building of parliament. They demanded the dismissal of the grand vizier, the president of the chamber and the minister of war."

Situation Is Grave.

London, April 13.—The only news to reach London up to 12:30 today of the situation at Constantinople is contained in a code message, and sets forth that serious disturbances of a revolutionary character have broken out and that the situation is grave. This message is accepted here as foreshadowing a dangerous upheaval.

Neither the foreign office, the Turkish embassy nor the banks with Constantinople connections had any further information. The situation has been strained for weeks, owing to the bitterness between the committee of union and progress and the Liberals. The Liberals resent the attempts of the committee to control public affairs.

The murder of Hassan Fehmi Effendi, editor of the Liberal newspaper Serbesti, on April 7, is thought here to have been the climax of this political feud. The editor was shot and killed by an unknown man, as he was entering his office, and a government official accompanying him was wounded. The Serbesti had been carrying on a

CAUSES THAT LED UP TO PRESENT TURKISH CRISIS

The present grand vizier of Turkey is Hilmi Pasha. He was appointed to this office Feb. 14 in succession to Kaimil Pasha. Hilmi Pasha was formerly minister of the interior and before holding his office he served as inspector general of Macedonia.

Ali Riza Pasha is minister of war and marine and is grand master of artillery.

These and the other changes in the cabinet that took place in February showed the absolute control of the political situation by the Young Turks party, or committee of union and progress, which virtually imposed on the sultan a ministry of its own nominees.

February 14 the committee publicly repudiated any intention to overthrow the sultan or to install a military dictatorship, but the crisis and its outcome was then regarded as not promising well for the stability of the throne or the success of parliamentary government. It has been a question how the moderate elements of the empire would regard this assumption of absolute power by an irresponsible committee.

The committee of union and progress consistently opposed Kaimil Pasha, Hilmi Pasha's predecessor. It suspected him of being too considerate of palace influences, and complained of his slowness in conducting the negotiations with Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria.

April 3, Kaimil Pasha issued a statement in which he denounced the committee of union and progress, to whose machinations he attributed the vote of censure in the Turkish parliament and the consequent downfall of his cabinet. The irresponsible interference of this committee, Kaimil Pasha declared, had neutralized the efforts of the government and if permitted to continue would seriously endanger the future of the country.

Suffragettes Invade the Illinois Legislature in Force.

Many Take Children Along, Refuting Race Suicide Charge.

Chicago, April 13.—Two hundred suffragettes of Chicago and other Illinois cities began their first invasion of the legislature today when they left here on a Chicago & Alton special for Springfield.

Speeches will be made from the rear platform at Joliet, Pontiac, Lexington, Atlanta, Bloomington and Lincoln by members of the delegation, which includes Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin, well-known as a club woman; Mrs. Jane Adams, the settlement worker, and Katherine Waugh McCulloch, Chicago's only justice of the peace.

The legislators have agreed to give the women a hearing, and many social functions have been arranged by Springfield women, including Mrs. Deneen, wife of the governor.

Many children accompanied the invaders as a refutation of the allegation that women's clubs and the like are promoters of race suicide. Mrs. Algernon Smith of Chicago was accompanied by three healthy specimens of her family of eleven.

BATTLESHIP MICHIGAN TRIAL IS SATISFACTORY.

Philadelphia Pa., April 13.—The dock trials of the battleship Michigan, in course of construction at the New York Shipbuilding company, Camden, have been completed and are said to have been entirely satisfactory. The Michigan is 95.2 per cent completed and will be ready to be turned over to the government at the conclusion of the trial trips, the dates for which have not yet been fixed.

EARLY MORNING FIRE DESTROYS THE GRAND THEATER IN SUPERIOR

The Building Is Believed to Be a Total Loss.

Fire Started on the Stage—Cause Is Unknown.

"Superior Will Have Theater Next Year," Says Manager Marshall.

Fire of unknown origin completely gutted the Grand Opera House, in Superior this morning, entailing a loss that is estimated at $50,000. Thirty thousand dollars insurance was carried on the structure.

Only the stone front and the brick walls of the playhouse remain standing, and as they cool, some of the walls are cracking, so that in all probability they will have to be torn down or practically rebuilt.

Whether the theater will be rebuilt or not is problematical, but Charles A. Marshall, manager of the Grand, stated to a reported for The Herald over the telephone this morning, that he thought Superior would have a first-class playhouse next season.

"It is too early now to say whether the Grand will be rebuilt," said Mr. Marshall. "We are so busy now figuring up the loss and figuring with the insurance companies, that it will be several days before our plans can be determined.

PLUMBER WAS KING

He Tied Up City Health Department For Three Days.

Agent, City Attorney and Health Inspector Tore Their Hair.

> "Duluth has fought and won a campaign for the open shop in its building trades. A strong organization has been perfected and a permanent campaign arranged, that Duluth may be as noted for its freedom from industrial servitude as it is for its industrial activity."—Extract from booklet issued by the Commercial club.

This is the story of an obstinate plumber, an employer helpless in the face of that obstinacy, a sorely tried mother with three children suffering from scarlet fever on her hands, an irate and disgusted health officer, and a very much annoyed real estate agent.

Early last Saturday morning it was reported to the city health commissioner's office that something was wrong with the sewage at 1125 West Michigan street, a building occupied by three families. One family, Mrs. James Dunn and her three children, occupied the rear of the ground floor. Another family occupied the front of the ground floor, and a third family occupied the second floor.

The children of Mrs. Dunn were afflicted with scarlet fever. A health officer was sent to the scene. He found that the sewer pipes were blocked, so that all the sewage from the second floor backed up on the premises of Mrs. Dunn. Mrs. Dunn was under quarantine and could do nothing. Other occupants of the place referred the man to the rental agent. "I didn't block the pipes; you cannot expect me to repair the damages," said the agent.

The health officer went to the city attorney. The city attorney called up the rental agent and told him if he didn't send a plumber to 1125 West Michigan street, and have the repairs made, he would be arrested and prosecuted. The agent called up a boss plumber. The boss plumber sent a man to the scene. The man looked over the premises. He found the trouble. It was located on the ground floor, in front of the building, separated from the Dunns by the living rooms of the other family, which were not under quarantine. It was a hard job to repair.

Plumber Nervous.

"I cannot do the work, for fear of catching scarlet fever," said the plumber.

The health office was notified. The health office argued in vain with the plumber that there could be no possible danger of his being exposed working in the front part of the building. He remained obdurate. He would not repair the break. The rental agent was notified. The rental agent called up the boss plumber. The boss plumber had a talk with his employe. The employe finally consented to do the work. He went back to the building.

"You must fumigate all these rooms before I will condescend to make the necessary repairs," the plumber told the health officer. The latter, almost in despair, said he would fumigate the whole street if that would help any. The plumber said that it would not be worth while to do that, as long as all the rooms and corridors at 1125 were fumigated. Protesting that it was an unnecessary precaution, the health officer said it would be done. The plumber thought a moment.

"You need be in no hurry about it," he said, filling his pipe and hunting in his pockets for a match. "It is now 11:30 a. m. I am not supposed to work Saturday afternoon, and as real estate agents refuse to pay us double time for working Saturday afternoons, I cannot do the job until Monday, for of course, you cannot expect me to work on Sunday."

There was nothing for it but to submit. The work was put over until Sunday. A double padlock was put on the washrooms upstairs, so the people there could not possibly enter, and Mrs. Dunn and her neighbors were told to get along as best they could.

Monday morning, bright and early, health officers were sent to 1125 West Michigan street. They thoroughly fumigated the premises. The plumber who had ordered the fumigation process was communicated with.

"I have decided not to do the job," he said, complacently. "I cannot afford to take any risks." His answer was final. He could not be moved.

The rental agent was appealed to. The rental agent appealed to the boss plumber. The boss plumber had a talk with his employe.

"It's no use," said the boss. "If he don't want to do the work that's all there is to it. We cannot make him."

The rental agent reported back to the health officer. The health officer broke the bad news to Mrs. Dunn, and reported to his superiors. His superiors had a talk with the city attorney. The city attorney called up the rental agent and told him to get another plumber. By this time it was late in the day. The rental agent, well along in the afternoon, found a boss plumber, who found a plumber who was willing to risk his life and limb to relieve the sufferings of a worn-out mother, ill and in despair from long watches at the bedside of her sick children. And this morning the plumber, after three days of effort on the part of the health commissioner's force, the city attorney, the rental agent and the boss plumbers, visited No. 1125 West Michigan street and repaired the sewer pipes. And the health officer, who had had the matter in charge, went and got four stiff rye highballs. A fat, black cigar to boot, and he was smiling and happy again.

ANYTHING TO BEAT PATTEN.

New York Millionaires Hard Hit By Wheat Corner.

Chicago, April 13.—"Anything to beat Jim Patten," is the cry of the New York millionaires, Reginald Vanderbilt, D. G. Reid and the other men who are on the wrong side of the wheat market, but "the Napoleon of the pit" is still in absolute control, and the cereal rises or falls as he alone wills.

It is conceded that Patten can take any wheat that is coming to him on May contracts, because of the immense demand for the cereal in Europe.

The big bear interests are millions short, and their losses on paper are tremendous.

POLICE HALT SHIPMENT OF BODY; SUSPECT MURDER

Winnipeg, Man., April 13.—Ernest Morris, formerly of Bethany, Mo., is under arrest in Regina, Sask., charged with the murder of his brother, Charles B. Morris, a farmer with whom he lived. The police have stopped the shipment of the body to Missouri until it can be examined.

HOT TIME IN OLD DULUTH

One Arnold Farmer Was Going Some, By Heck!

Forgot Name of Livery Where He Left His Team.

Gus Dahlberg, an Arnold farmer, while intoxicated last night, placed his team in a local livery stable, and this morning forgot what he had done with the animals. He appealed to the police for aid, and after diligent use of the telephone, police headquarters finally located the missing horses at the Board of Trade livery.

Dahlberg doesn't get to the city very often. When he does strike Duluth he feels that it is entirely fitting and proper that he should celebrate the happy event. Yesterday the celebration took the form of drinking. He drank not wisely and too often. When night came he was very much under the influence. Feeling at peace with all the world, he hitched up his team early in the evening and started for home.

The horses knew the direction they were to take, all right, but the driver didn't. In trying to drive them over a hydrant on Third street the tongue of his wagon was broken, and he could proceed no farther. He had his senses sufficiently about him to realize that home-going was an impossibility for the night and to take the horses down town and put them in a livery stable. Then he continued his celebration.

This morning he awoke in a cheap lodging house, and wondered where he was at. He listened in vain for the crowing of the cock. No sounds of lowing kine came from the barnyard. He could not hear his wife bustling about in the kitchen, preparing the morning meal of buckwheat cakes, and no savory odor of coffee, and frying bacon and eggs, came through the door. He rubbed his eyes and scratched his head, and then rose and pulled the window curtain aside. A bunch of buildings loomed up across the way, and street cars whizzed along the street. He began to faintly remember events of the evening before, and understood that he was still in the city.

Spurred by thoughts of worried folks at home, and the probable scolding that was due him, he hastened downstairs and out into the street. He wasn't very hungry, and a cup of coffee and piece of dry toast satisfied his needs in the eating line. With a hazy recollection that his team was in some local stable, and that his wagon was on some unknown street, he headed toward the police station and told his troubles. It happened that a policeman had told of the location of the broken wagon, and the telephone was put to work locating the team. After trying three or four liveries, the chief's secretary learned the joyous news that the horses were contentedly munching their morning oats at the Board of Trade livery. And the farmer went on his way rejoicing.

INJUNCTION IS ASKED TO RESTRAIN TEXAS STOCKMEN

Fort Worth, Tex., April 13.—Dispatches received here today from Pawhuska Osage Nation, Okla., say the county attorney, in the district court there, asked for an injunction restraining Texas stockmen from bringing their herds to the Osage Nation for pasturage or other purposes.

If the injunction is granted, it will stop the movement of over a million of head of cattle each season from this state and cause an immense loss to the ranchmen.

It is claimed that in moving the herds to the Osage Nation a tick disease peculiar to cattle is brought in that section. The Texas cattle men expect to contest the case to a finish.

Old People Made Young

Hill's Rheumatic Pills are a Godsend to any person over 50 years old. By their gentle, natural stimulation of kidneys, liver and bowels they throw off the poisons which clog the system, causing the twinges, aches and pains which make old age hard to bear. When these poisons are removed there is no more pain—the muscles and joints become supple—you eat and sleep better and feel thirty years younger.

When old age comes the sewers of the body become clogged—kidneys are inactive—the liver is torpid—the bowels do not act freely. The waste matter is kept in the system. It's POISON. The result is the same as though the house pipes had clogged and the sewerage was backing into the cellar.

Hill's Rheumatic Pills

remove these poisons by restoring these vital organs to health. They are purely vegetable—they contain no salycilates, no iodides, no mineral poisons of any kind. These things injure the stomach and cause indigestion. Hill's Rheumatic Pills stimulate the appetite and strengthen digestion. These wonder-working pills are made the same today as they were 73 years ago. We have letters in our files from over 18,000 grateful people who have been relieved from pain and made to feel young again by this marvelous preparation of healing herbs and roots. Yet during all this 73 years Hill's Rheumatic Pills have never been advertised until now. They have been recommended from one to another until today, by their own merit alone, they are used in thousands of homes, to be taken occasionally as means of prevention by those who were in agony from Rheumatism and have been cured.

TEST THEM FREE

We realize that there are hundreds of worthless nostrums on the market—that you may have been deceived into trying them and derived no benefit. If so, you will have a right to be suspicious. To all such we will give a liberal sized package of Hill's Rheumatic Pills for a letter or postal describing their case. Address the letter to Belden & Copp, the makers, Dept. 108, Minneapolis, Minn. The package will come prepaid. Pay nothing then or at any time. When you find the aches and pains going, and see yourself becoming better and stronger each day—then you will KNOW and BELIEVE, and will be as anxious to continue the remedy and be cured as we are to relieve your suffering.

You can then secure these Pills from your home druggist.

RETAIL CLERKS HOLD BANQUET

Initiate Four New Members and Enjoy Big Spread.

Members of the Retail Clerks' association and their guests, to the number of more than 100, sat down to the annual banquet last evening at Kalamazoo hall.

The Retail Clerks' association is in a very flourishing condition, now having ninety-two members. Four new members rode the goat last evening, and were put through some strenuous initiation exercises, which the old members, at least, enjoyed. Following this the members and the guests enjoyed the banquet. C. H. Dippe, the financial secretary of the association, acted as toastmaster, and introduced several members of the association, who gave short talks. Among the speakers was Ambrosius Sauer, the president of the association, who gave a very interesting address. There was also a short, but very enjoyable, musical program.

AMBROSIUS SAUER, President of the Duluth Retail Clerks' Union.

A TIP FROM THE HEALTH OFFICER

"Be Careful Where You Shake Rugs," He Says.

"I wish you would tell the people, through The Herald, not to shake their rugs in hallways, out the back doors, or out the windows," said Health Commissioner Patton this morning. "The practice is a very bad one, and liable to spread disease germs. Where a rug is to be cleaned, let it be taken to the back yards, well away from the building. That is the only safe way. Then flying particles of dust, and with them disease germs, are carried away by the wind."

NO WITNESSES BEFORE COMMITTEE OF THREE.

Madison, Wis., April 13.—The senate committee of three appointed by Lieut. Governor Strange to investigate the election of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Marinette March 4, and to probe further into the senator primary, sat this afternoon in executive session. In the absence of Chief Game Warden Stone, who was to have testified today, the committee was without witnesses. Stone was here yesterday, but could not be found this morning.

A NEW HOME FOR FAMILY OF DOGS

Lanigan-Nacey Terrier Contest Is Settled Out of Court.

The Lanigan-Nacey dog contest has been settled out of court. Mr. Lanigan, who claims Mr. Nacey stole his canine, gets it back. The case was to have come up for trial in municipal court this morning, but in view of the peaceable adjustment of difficulties, it was dismissed without trial.

Charles Nacey claims the dog, half starved and evidently lost, followed him home from downtown one day. This was on March 5, he says. He lives at 313 West Superior street. He took care of the terrier, housed it, and fed it all it would eat. The dog rewarded him by giving birth to a litter of six puppies.

Michael Lanigan appeared on the scene last week and caused the arrest of Mr. Nacey, charging him with stealing the dog. Mr. Nacey protested his innocence. The case was set for today. A compromise was reached. Mr. Lanigan gets the mother and her puppies and Mr. Nacey escapes prosecution. Everybody happy. Curtain.

WILL SPEAK TO SENATORS

Itasca County Citizens Protest Against the Tonnage Tax.

Say the Bill Will Ruin Them If It Becomes Law.

Realizing that if the tonnage tax bill should become a law, it will force the people of the western part of the Mesaba range to carry a burden which they are unable to bear a delegation of citizens from Coleraine passed through Duluth today en route to St. Paul, where they will appear before the state senate this evening, and enter a strong protest against the measure.

"We have spent millions of dollars in making improvements in Itasca county, and as yet we have not shipped one pound of ore," said J. A. Vandyke, a member of the delegation, this afternoon. "Most of the residents of our town are laborers, who have built their homes and are paying for them on the installment plan. If the tonnage tax bill goes through it will practically ruin all these men, or at least will put an awful cramp in them.

"The ore on our end of the range is of a low grade. We have to wash it after it is taken from the ground, and, as a consequence, we have to wash four tons before we get one ton of marketable ore. Now if they are going to tax us on raw ore you can see what kind of position it is going to place us in.

"We are now paying to the state more than a just share of taxes. Our rate is 30.29 mills on the dollar, and last year we turned into the state treasury $67,203.79. Of that amount $15,810 was returned to us. Nicollet county paid in taxes last year $20,179.73 and received from the state $21,136.70. Their rate is only 18.94 mills. Otter Tail county paid to the state last year $42,929.57 and received from the state $67,219.60.

"I could show other facts to prove that we are being unjustly treated. As a matter of fact, if that bill goes through it is just about going to spell ruin for us. We have in our county five or six little independent mining companies that would perish surely. Then think of what will become of the Cuyuna range, which is just budding out. Those senators from the southern part of the state do not realize the condition we are in."

Besides the Itasca county delegation there will appear before the senate this evening representative citizens from Aitkin, Brainerd and Little Falls, who will also enter protests.

EPWORTH LEAGUE AT TWO HARBORS

The Epworth league is the young people's society of the Methodist Episcopal church, and at this district convention there will be delegates present from all the leagues in the Duluth district. Dr. E. C. Clemans, district superintendent, will preside at the sessions, which will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Two Harbors.

The convention will open Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a devotional study by Dr. M. S. Rice who will conduct similar studies at the opening of each session. Friday afternoon, three important papers will be read. One will be on "The Religious Needs of the Young," by Mrs. J. F. Pickard, of Hibbing; another on "The District Organization and the Local Chapter," by Mrs. James McDowell of Duluth, and another on "The League as An Aggressive Force in Evangelism," by Mrs. A. O. Hulberg of Two Harbors.

Friday evening, an address of welcome will be given by Rev J. F. McLeod, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Two Harbors, and the sermon preached by Rev. J. W. Powell of Duluth.

WHEAT SOARING AMID A FLURRY

New High Record Marks on Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, April 13.—Wheat for delivery in May, July and September established new high record marks at the opening of the board of trade today. May wheat, the available supply of which in the hands of one man, who is also the owner of millions of bushels of "paper wheat," for which shorts will have to settle at his own price, opened with small sales at from $1.27@1.28. The latter price is 3 cents better than the most sanguine prediction made two months ago by a leading bull. It is 8 cents over the price he publicly declared at that time would be reached. July rose early to $1.17⅜, an advance over yesterday of 1⅛c. September touched $1.09⅝, a gain of ⅞@1c over night.

The Liverpool market furnished the bull news of the hour. Wheat there, after the prolonged Easter holiday, faithfully reflected conditions on this side of the Atlantic, and prices were marked up 3¼@3¾d. Other European markets advanced sympathetically. The real influence, however, was a general belief which has been stubbornly forcing itself on the average trader that there is a worldwide shortage of the great staple cereal. Reports of favorable weather for the growing crop in the winter wheat belt was ignored. The bull leader was quoted to the effect that it will take three or four years for the wheat acreage, encouraged by high prices, to increase sufficiently to force the market to a lower level.

The opening flurry in wheat was due, it is said, to the closing out of the May contracts of Ennis & Stoppani, brokers of New York and Chicago, against whom an involuntary petition in mankruptcy was filed in New York today. The amount involved here is said not to have been large.

ICE IN RIVER CAUSES WORRY

Boats Are Loading in Preparation For Early Start.

Ice in the Soo river is the only thing that is worrying the transportation companies on the Great Lakes, which are anxious to start shipping early this spring. It will not be many days before all of the ice is out of the Duluth-Superior harbor and navigation, as far as the Head of the Lakes is concerned, will be formally opened. But the question of whether it will be possible to get boats up and down through the Soo river may cause some delay in ships leaving Duluth for the lower lake ports.

The Mutual Transit company is prepared to start five boats moving just as soon as it will be possible to get boats from ene end of the chain of lakes to the other. The Northern Queen, the only one of their boats which was laid up here for the winter, will be moved to one of the elevators this afternoon, where a cargo of wheat will be placed in her hold. She will then be ready to leave any day that she can get through the Soo. The Northern King, Northern Light, Northern Wave and North Wind, are all tied up at Buffalo, and as soon as possible will move toward the Head of the Lakes with package freight.

The steamers Schuck and Walker are loaded with grain, and lying at the Itasca elevator at Allouez, waiting for the ice to go out.

MOORE ARRIVES.

Booth Line Steamer Reaches Fort William on First Trip.

Fort William, Ont., April 13.—The Booth line steamer C. W. Moore of Duluth arrived just outside of the Welcome islands yesterday, and navigation at this port formally opened yesterday afternoon. The bay at Port Arthur has been clear of ice since last Thursday, and on Saturday the James Whalen, an ice breaker, came into Kam river at this city as far as the Empire elevator. The Whalen will have no difficulty in releasing vessels here. There are eight vessels in winter quarters here, two of them being now loaded for the down-trip. The others all had storage grain. The Loftus Cuddy will take out 380,000 bushels and the Jenkins will take out 340,000.

LIFE SAVERS ARE READY TO WORK.

The members of the crew that will be employed at the United States Life Saving station on Park Point this coming season, have assembled in Duluth, prepared to go to work as soon as the ice leaves the harbor. The crew, which will be same as last season, is made up of the following men: John Creigdon, William McKay, John McCloud, George Emerson, John Lester, Norman Matheson, John D. Miller and Archie Cloutier.

J. A. McLennan, keeper of the station, said yesterday, that the men would probably be placed at work the latter part of this week or the first of next.

SCIENTIFIC VISITING IN NEW YORK

Every Detail of a Stay at the St. Regis Hotel May be Planned

BEFORE YOU LEAVE YOUR OWN HOME

The twentieth century tourist plans his itinerary before he starts, and arranges for hotel accommodations as he does for transportation—in advance. The wise and seasoned visitor to New York, who comes to the city for a week or a month, can do much more than this. He can correspond with the St. Regis hotel, located on Fifth avenue at Fifty-fifth street, and take advantage of that hotel's "Scientific Visiting" plan. So comprehensive is this plan that the patron may lay down a complete program of what he wants to see, where he wants to go, and when, during the entire period of his stay in New York, leaving the details to be worked out by the hotel management. Everything will be arranged for him—or her, for this service appeals with particular force to ladies traveling alone—and every burden is taken off the traveler's hands from the time he is met at the railway station by the St. Regis' electric cab service until he goes up the gangplank of the steamship for Europe, or returns to the railway station for the journey home. Perfect service in a perfect hotel is the watchword at the St. Regis and for this reason its cuisine was established on the highest possible plane, but at prices no higher than charged by other first-class restaurateurs. Room rates as well are reasonable: $3 and $4 a day for a large, luxuriously-furnished single room; $5 a day for the same with private bath (or $6 for two people); $12 a day and up for a splendid suite consisting of parlor, bedroom and private bath.

LEAGUE WILL NOT UNDERGO CHANGE

Commercial Organization Rejects Application of Marshall-Wells Team.

At the annual meeting of the Commercial Baseball league, which was held last evening in the First National bank building, the same teams that made up the league last season were re-elected to membership. They are as follows: F. A. Patrick, Board of Trade, Wolvins and the Banks. An application for membership received from the Marshall-Wells Hardware company was rejected for the reason that the officers believed that a bigger league than four clubs would be cumbersome to handle.

One week from Thursday the league members will get together again when a schedule of games for every Saturday of the playing season will be adopted. This season the teams will all play on Saturday, which is different from last year, when only two teams performed. At this meeting arrangements will also be made for the raising of money to be used in grading and in other ways improving the open grounds at Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street. Yesterday the employes in the Wolvin building agreed to contribute $100 toward the support of their team.

TROUT STREAMS FILLED WITH ICE

Prospects for Early Fishing Are Far From Bright.

The warm sunshine of today caused all of the Duluth disciples of Izaac Walton to drag out their fishing tackle in preparation for a trip to the nearby streams next Thursday, when the trout season will open. While the prospects are good for fishing in some of the streams near this city, it is said by people who have been out to the different rivers that things do not look very promising just at present.

"I was up in the Cloquet river country last week and I found that most of the streams in that section are full of ice," said Ed Hazen of the Boston & Duluth Farm Land company, who is one of the greatest field and stream fans in the city.

"The water does not seem to be so very high for this season, and it has not a bad color. I think it will be at least a week yet before there is anything like fair fishing."

Frank Frerker, proprietor of the California Wine house, who owns a 160-acre farm along the banks of the French river, said today that he had recently walked along the bank of that stream for several miles. He said that there is no ice and that the water is clear and fairly high.

Hemphill Is Ill.

Washington, April 13.—Charles Hemphill, center fielder for the New York American league baseball team, which is playing a series of games with the Washington club, left for New York city today on account of a heavy cold. He played in yesterday's game here.

CASE WILL GO TO THE JURY SOON

Attorneys Are Summing Up In the Cavallin Embezzlement Action.

The case of the state against Harry Cavallin, alleged embezzler, will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

The evidence is all in, and shortly before the noon hour today, County Attorney John Norton began his address to the jury. Attorney Victor Powers will be given a chance to sum up this afternoon, after which the case will go to the jury.

Cavallin was employed by the Fitger Brewing company as their manager at Hibbing. They considered him one of the most promising of their employes. He was promoted from the position of bookkeeper to that of salesman, and from that to the managership of the Hibbing office. There has been much testimony from his former employers ... good name and general reputation.

There is, according to the brewery people, a shortage of $2,000, which Cavallin is unable to account for. He claims that he spent the money in getting business for the company, and they allege that he gambled away a good portion of it.

The case has been on for some days before Judge Cant of the district court.

Cumberland Presbyterians Act, Following Supreme Court Decision.

Nashville, Tenn., April 13.—Formal notices from the Cumberland Presbyterian in Nashville to members of the Presbyterian church of the United States, notifying them to surrender church property in accordance with terms of the decision of the supreme court of Tennessee, are being prepared and will be sent out at once.

This step, it may be said, will bring the situation between the two churches to a head.

Just what the unionists will do has not been determined upon, and the unionist leaders do not care to make a statement as to their probable course.

CARL PAULSON POLICE CHIEF

Appointed By Two Harbors' New Mayor---Others Named.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first meeting of the new city council presided over by the new mayor, Dr. Knauff, drew a large number of spectators to the council chamber last night. Many anticipated proceedings out of the ordinary, but they were doomed to be disappointed.

The new mayor made a few recommendations in the way of changes in the present management of municipal affairs. Carl B. Paulson was appointed chief of police; Martin Anderson, patrolman, and H. K. Killon, special policeman. Another appointment may be made later, if considered necessary. J. MacAlpine was elected city clerk and city collector of the water and light taxes. Silas Irwin was re-elected city electrician and W. R. Coleman was again chosen engineer of the water and light department. Louis Turnquist was re-elected street commissioner.

William Clark was given a saloon license by a vote of 4 to 3.

A petition was received requesting that the sewer on Fourth avenue be extended further east. Action in this matter was deferred.

It was decided to reduce the salary of the city attorney from $75 to $50 per month. No appointment was made. D. H. Lawrence and John Dwan are candidate sfor the office. Mr. Dwan served as city attorney for a number of years.

PREPARE FOR THE SHIPPING

Docks at Two Harbors Being Placed in Shape For Season.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hoisting machinery at the local coal docks and the coal clam shells are being overhauled and put in readiness for the opening of the season, as some coal barges will probably be in early.

Jones Bros., contractors, who have just completed the big grading contract for the Iron Range sorting yard, here, today forwarded their outfit, consisting of two locomotives and several dump cars, to Cincinnati, Ohio, their headquarters.

Manager M. H. Brickley has commenced work equipping No. 6 ore dock with a telephone circuit.

MUCH STRIPPING AROUND EVELETH

Indications Point to Mining Activity When Shipping Starts.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.) — Mining operations around here are going on steadily, in anticipation of the shipping season. Considerable stripping has been done in this vicinity during the past few months, and the local shipping season, when it begins, is expected to be a good one.

A new gauge has been added to the fire department equipment. It has been placed in connection with current indicator. The guage shows the water pressure at the firehouse at all hours of the day, so that anyone can tell by a little figuring just how much pressure there is at each of the hydrants, so that there can be no cause for a repetition of the handicap that arose at the high school fire. When more pressure is needed at any fire, the superintendent of waterworks can easily be notified, and more pressure secured from the pumping station. The equipment at the fire hall now is almost complete, all the latest improvements having been added as far as possible.

Eveleth, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lugi Pasuti, a Italian bootblack, known as "Monk" was in municipal court yesterday on a charge of assaulting the Chinese proprietor of the California restaurant. Pazuti had entered the restaurant and ordered a meal, which was not brought as quickly as he desired. He began to call the waitresses down and then the proprietor took a hand, whereupon Pazuti started after the Chinaman. A policeman was called and arrested the bootblack. Judge Prince fined him $10 for the assault, which was paid, and cautioned him to be more careful with his fists in the future. The case against Andrew Presnick, who was arrested for assault and battery on Mrs. Gus Johnson, arising over a dispute with an ax was dismissed. Charles Hillman arrested for drunkenness failed to appear, forfeiting $15 bail. Andrew Johnson, a homesteader, also arrested for imbibing too freely failed to appear and forfeited $10 bail.

They are: Supt. J. A. Vandyke, W. J. Stack and N. C. Goodwin. They will leave Duluth over the Northern Pacific at 1:55 this afternoon. Because of the low grade ore in Itasca county, there is strong opposition on the part of the business men and workmen against the tonnage tax.

SEVERAL MATTERS TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL.

Virginia, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the council meeting tonight it is expected that a number of important matters will be taken up, among them being final action on the purchase of twenty-nine lots in block 43, to be used for park purposes.

longing to the corps, as well as the Baldwin dirigible which was purchased last year.

There are at present three officers of the aeronautical division of the signal corps on the grounds making preparations for the conduct of the trials. The contracts for the delivery of heavier-than-air machines, held by the Wright brothers of Dayton, Ohio, who are now in Rome, and by A. M. Herring of New York, have not been fulfilled in every detail. Orville Wright, previous to the accident to his machine, made numerous flights, some of which fulfilled certain of the conditions specified in his contract, but none of them was official. He will have to make one flight for endurance, remaining in the air for two hours, and another for speed.

Orville Wright, who has been unable to make any flights since he was seriously injured last September, has announced his intention of himself completing the trials, which he began at Fort Myer in August last.

Although Herring has made a technical test of his aeroplane at Fort Myer, he has not made any public flights. He has formed a company together with Glenn H. Curtiss, whose flights in the "June Bug" and other machines belonging to the Aerial Experiment association, have made him famous in the world of aeronautics. The appearance of these two aeronauts with an aeroplane for which many ne wthings are claimed is being awaited with keen expectation.

Lieut. Frank P. Lahm and Lieut. Benjamin D. Faulois, the most prominent areonauts in the signal corps, will conduct the trials at Fort Myer this season. Maj. George O. Squier, assistant chief signal officer, and an authority on aerostatics, probably will take a prominent part. Lieut. Winter is the other officer who is now stationed in Washington with the aeronautical division.

International Aero Meet.

Berlin, April 13.—Preparations for the international aeronautical exhibition, to be held at Frankfort, next July, are fast approaching completion. Dirigible airships of rigid and non-rigid patterns, aeroplanes and spherical balloons will be seen in flight, and facilities will be offered visitors to make trips in airships starting from the exhibition grounds. For six days during the exhibition there will be races and other competitions of a sporting and military character. Experiments with aeroplanes will be carried out on a specially prepared velodrome in the grounds and there are already numerous entries. The Zeppelin and the Parseval airships will journey to Frankfort by air and take passengers on excursions along the Rhine. During the races communication will be kept up by means of the exhibition's own wireless telegraph system and carrier pigeons. Numerous prizes have been offered.

The honorary committee of the exhibition includes such prominent aeronauts as F. Cortlandt Bishop president of the Aero club of America; Count Zeppelin, Maj. Gross, Maj. von Parseval, Prof. Busley, Prof. Hergesell, Col. Schaeck, last year's winner of the Gordon Bennett balloon race; Comte de la Vualx, Prince Borghese, Maj. Gen. Kowanko, chief of the imperial Russian balloon park, and Capt. Amundsen of Stockholm.

DOOM OF THE CIGARETTE IN MINNESOTA SOUNDED

substitute, that the senate amendments be not concurred in, but his motion was lost, 49 for and 57 against. The amendments were concurred in and the bill put on its repassage.

Representatives Cal Stone and Selb spoke against it, saying that it is unenforceable and that it would not stop cigarette smoking in this state, because anybody can buy all he wants outside the state.

Representative Grant introduced a bill this morning raising the salary of the special municipal judge at Duluth from $2,000 to $3,000, and tried to get it passed immediately under suspension of the rules. Representative White objected, however, which made it necessary to get eighty votes, so the bill was referred to the delegations from Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis counties.

Representative Sawyer introduced a new bill authorizing city councils to regulate the rates charged by public utility corporations in cities over 50,000, and wanted to advance it to a special order, but Representative Lennon objected, and the bill was referred to the tri-county delegation.

Another outcome of the fight between Minneapolis and its gas company was a bill by Campbell, Washburn and Kneeland, authorizing Minneapolis to issue bonds to build a gas plant, which was introduced and laid on the table.

Representative Sawyer tried to get his bill giving city councils the right to acquire by condemnation public utilities plants, without a vote of the people or without any limit in bonded indebtedness to be incurred, advanced from general orders to the special order, but failed to get enough votes, so he had it advanced to the head of general orders.

Representative White tried to advance the general reapportionment bill, but Representative Carley, Democrat, objected and his motion failed to get eighty votes, the number needed, getting only seventy-one.

The Thayer anti-discrimination bill, which the house recently killed, then resurrected and laid on the table, was taken up this morning and passed, 64 to 44.

The Thorpe bill, creating a banking department in the state government, repassed the house this morning after the house had concurred in the conference committee amendments, and it will go through the senate again this afternoon or tomorrow.

The senate put in most of the morning debating Senator Peterson's resolution directing the attorney general to look into the Armour packing plant and see if it is going to harm state institutions. The same old wrangle that had become familier in the house took up the senate's time, but the resolution was indefinitely postponed, 50 to 12.

Senator Elwell offered a joint resolution, which was placed on senate general orders, directing the state tax commission to leave undisturbed the present basis of assessments in this state, instead of raising them all to 100 per cent. as the law requires.

Senator Works withdrew his resolution to pay the expenses of Lafayette Young and John MacVicar of Des Moines, who came up a while ago to tell the legislature about the commission plan of city government, Senators Hardy and Laybourn objecting to it.

The senate passed a resolution by Senator Moonan, requesting the state department to investigate the charge that a railroad accident in Mexico, March 19, in which Hrs. E. A. Everett of Waseca, was killed, was due to the incompetence and drunkenness of the train crew, to bring the guilty parties to justice and to compel safer methods on Mexican railroads.

The final hearing on the tonnage tax bill will take place tonight in the senate chamber, when representatives of the iron range will be heard. R. C. Dunn and others will also speak.

ECZEMA VICTIM SAVED AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Wintergreen Compound Stopped Itch at Once—Disease Soon Disappeared.

After dosing the stomach for years and trying all kinds of alleged cures for eczema, Mr. M. T. Firmin, reports a perfect cure. He simply washed the skin with an oil of wintergreen compound, mixed with thymol, glycerine, etc.

Mr. M. T. Firmin, for the last 20 years in the employ of C. S. Daniels Furniture Co. of Wichita, Kan., writes:

"Eczema first appeared on my body when I was a child 8 years of age. For over thirty years I scratched and scratched and doctored, it drove me wild.

"The disease covered my entire body from my scalp to my toes. My doctor and my friends all gave me up as incurable.

"Then I commenced using the D. D. D. Remedy. The first application stopped the horrible itching and gave me a night's sleep. It gave me strength and hope. I continued growing better.

"I kept up the treatment for months and am now entirely cured, excepting a little roughness on my left ankle."

Having personally known of many chronic cases, we have gained great confidence in D. D. D. Prescription. Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, Minn.

LAYS BLAME TO OVER-EDUCATION

Negro Charged With Forgery Conducts His Own Examination.

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—"To what source do you attribute your mental condition?"

"Super-education. I'm a negro and have no business with a college education."

This question and answer, propounded and replied to by Louis O. Graves, a graduate of Yale, was the climax to what Jude Taylor of the court of criminal correction today declared was the most unique defense he had ever encountered.

Graves was charged with forging a check. He acted as his own attorney, called himself to the stand and conducted his own examination.

After testifying that he had served terms in Jefferson City, Mo., and Chester, Ill., and that he had been an inmate of five insane asylums, he asked himself:

"Did you ever try to commit suicide?"

"Five times," was the response to himself. "I jumped from the third tier of cells and cracked my skull, I took poison in central police station. I tried to hang myself in the penitentiary and twice I tried to kill myself when I felt a desire to commit crime coming over me."

Graves says that he has no recollection of the forgery with which he is now charged. He was remanded to jail to await action by the grand jury.

CITY IN TWO COUNTIES; ONE IS WET, OTHER DRY.

Dunkirk, Ind., April 13.—This city is partly in Jay county, which lately voted dry and partly in Blackford county, which voted wet. Several keepers of saloons in the Jay county part of the town announced their intention to apply to the commissioners of Blackford county for licenses to open saloons in the wet neighborhood. The temperance forces will fight the shift.

CHURCH VOTERS CLASH AT POLLS

Contest Over Question of Closing St. John's Chapel.

New York, April 13.—Whether historic St. John's chapel is to be closed will be decided today, at the annual election of the Trinity church corporation. The question has been discussed for some time, and there are two factions in the field, one for and one against closing the old chapel. Rev. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity, will preside at the poll, and both factions will be represented by counsel.

Aged and infirm voters will be driven to the poll in carriages.

It is predicted that Trinity will elect the regular ticket of vestrymen, which will mean that St. John's will be closed. One hundred and fifty members of St. John's will march in a body down Broadway to Trinity to watch the proceedings. Three Chinamen are numbered among the voters for the regular corporation ticket.

WEST END

MRS. SWENSON DISAPPEARS

West Ender's Wife Mysteriously Missing—Husband Worried.

Hugo Swenson of 1910 West Second street is wondering where his wife has disappeared to.

Mrs. Swenson left the house Saturday noon, saying she was going to call upon a sick friend in West Duluth and that she would return later in the day —but she did not return and has not been seen by her husband since.

Sunday he discovered that Mrs. Swenson had taken with her a number of her personal belongings, including some of her clothing and trinkets.

She said nothing to Mr. Swenson of her intentions of leaving the city or of quitting his roof. She merely said she was going out to spend the afternoon and since that time, her husband has not heard a word from her and knows nothing of her whereabouts. He is at a loss to know the cause of her disappearance.

DATE IS CHANGED.

Meeting to Revive Commercial Club Will Be Held Friday.

The date for the meeting to revive the West End Commercial club has been changed from Thursday to Friday of this week.

The meeting Friday will be held in George M. Jensen's office, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. Capt. D. E. Stevens, who was president of the club at the time of its demise, will preside and George M. Jensen will take his post as secretary.

A large attendance is expected as there is considerable interest in the revival of the club.

Minstrel Show a Hit.

Members of the Emerson School Alumni association gave a minstrel show last evening in the auditorium of the school. The attendance was large and the amateur actors were generously applauded.

The usual minstrel first part brought forth smiles from the audience. Mr. Parfitt made a hit with his song, "The Smoked Irishman." Harry Hall of Superior opened the second part with a number of impersonations and Joe McLaughlin made a hit in the Yama Yama dance. William Bloedel in a German character part and Edward Stevens and Harry Parfitt in an interesting sketch came in for considerable praise. The performance was concluded with a song by the entire company.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be spent on the school library.

"CANNING" DID IT.

It Was the Phonographs That Overworked Caruso's Voice.

New York, April 13.—Now comes a new explanation of the mutiny of Enrico's Caruso's vocal chords, causing him to desist from further grand opera singing.

To be sure it was overwork that caused the vocal collapse, but the overwork was not performed entirely for the Metropolitan Opera company. To the great burden Signor Caruso had taken upon himself in grand opera and concert work he added the task of pouring his top notes into the business end of a phonograph for recording purposes, and it was a succession of these purely commercial engagements that finally wore out his finely developed vocal apparatus.

Of all the singers in the world none was more widely sought by the "talking machine manufacturers" than Signor Caruso. For a single song they were willing to pay him two or three thousand dollars. It was last season that Caruso began to realize what an enormous revenue this canning of his voice for widespread distribution would mean to him. He accepted engagement after engagement with the makers of records and it is said his income in one year from this source alone was more than $60,000.

Franklin Automobiles

Speed is Determined by Riding Qualities

When you want to make time your speed is not determined by the horse-power of the engine, but by the way your automobile rides. This explains why Franklin automobiles excel all others on American roads. No matter what the horse-power and speed rating of the heavy, rigid automobile, you can not use the power or make the speed with comfort and safety. But the Franklin goes along smoothly and consistently. There is less weight to handle; the passengers are not fatigued; the automobile is not racked; and the driver is not worn out by the strain of steering.

Model D, $2800, 28 horse-power, is a five-passenger touring-car you can afford to own and use every day. It is not a big expensive machine. Its sensible proportions, its ability, its handsome body, its 36-inch wheels, (same size as used on the best water-cooled automobiles weighing 1000 pounds more) and the ease with which it handles place it in a class by itself.

RUSSELL MOTOR COMPANY,

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Miss Althea Gift, the travelers' aid worker, who has recently come to the city to work with the Young Women's Christian association, meets eighteen of the twenty-five trains that arrive in Duluth daily. She plans her work to be at the station upon the arrival of those trains upon which are most likely to be young women in need of a friendly bit of help or advice.

"There is great need of a foreign-speaking worker in Duluth," said Miss Gift this morning, "especially one who knows a few words of Swedish, for the great number of foreigners who come to this city to make their home here or to go on to the ranges are the people who would most appreciate a few words spoken in their own language. I am planning to add a few Swedish phrases and words and directions to my vocabulary at once.

"The trains coming from the East especially bring a large number of foreigners. Yesterday we met the Eastern train in the late afternoon, and a young woman was at the train to meet her sister and her family who are expected from Sweden. They had not seen each other for nine years, and the Duluth woman was afraid that she might not recognize her relatives. We looked carefully at the new arrivals, but her friends were not among them. Knowing no word of Swedish, it makes it, as yet, a little difficult to be of assistance to these people. But if they are in need of help, it is not hard to hunt up an interpreter."

The assistance offered by the Y. W. C. A. through their travelers' aid workers is considered by the associations throughout America as one of the most important features of the association work. The need for all possible protection being provided for young girls coming as strangers to the city is realized by women in all the large cities, and Duluth has long desired to add this worker to the corps of the local Y. W. C. A. Miss Gift is a recent graduate of the Kansas City training school for deaconesses, and she is making her home at the Deaconess home in the Lafayette flats.

BLANCHARD-DA LUZE

Pretty Wedding Takes Place at Home.

The wedding of Miss Mabel M. Blanchard and Frederick Da Luze took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Di Marco at 514 West Fourth street. The service was read at 8 o'clock by Rev. R. J. Mooney of St. Luke's Episcopal church. There were no attendants. The bride wore a gown of soft blue and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Yellow tulips were used in decoration. Mr. Da Luze and his bride left for a wedding trip and will return to Duluth, where they will be at home.

THREE WEDDINGS

With Mrs. Forgy As Cupid Are Arranged.

The city of Duluth has added to its many distinctive features, a first aid to matrimony that is efficacious, satisfactory and really inspiring.

The Irish homesteader has chosen his bride! In a few days the wedding will take place and in a few more a Duluth young woman will go with the man who chose her, to the untilled fields of Dakota to settle happily for the spring and summer into the simple life. All Duluth has been interested in this affair. The homesteader, who was spending a few weeks in Duluth, with the breaking of the severe cold spell in the early spring, thought in mourning of the return to the loneliness of his homestead in Dakota. He confided his despair and loneliness to Mrs. Margaret Forgy, assistant humane officer, and she recognized the symptoms at once.

He needed a wife.

And she got him one. There were many, many applicants when it became known that an Irishman, of good habits, a farm and maybe two, some money in the bank and a desire to wed, was to be had almost for the asking and for some weeks, during which the homesteader, coy and hard to please visited around at all of the girls who would have him, Duluth was on the qui vive to know the end of the affair.

He has decided and everyone is breathing a sigh of huge relief.

Meantime a young Swedish man from a little town of Minnesota, owning a small hotel, wrote to The Herald and wanted any wives who might be left over from the first claim. The letter was handed over to Mrs. Forgy. She inquired carefully into the standing, responsibility and disposition of the applicant for matrimony and then hunted up a nice Swedish girl and that wedding will probably be an affair of June. There is also another affair that is being gently nurtured and coaxed and three weddings are to result, it is whispered, with Mrs. Forgy, wisely, kindly and interestedly acting as Cupid.

Wed in Germany.

The wedding of Miss Clarchen Dony-Fitger of Bremen, Germany, and Arthur H. Kreiger of this city, took place yesterday at the home of Arthur Fitger. The bride is the adopted daughter of Mr. Fitger who, as an artist, is known to many Duluth people. Mr. Krieger and his bride will go to the north of Germany for their wedding trip, and will return to Duluth to be at home at 815 East First street. Miss Wilhelmina Fitger of this city, who has been abroad for several months, was a guest at the wedding.

Dancing Party.

The members of the First division of the Minnesota Naval Militia entertained at a dancing party last evening at the Armory. The national colors and signal flags of the navy were used in the decorations, and La Brosse's orchestra played the program of dancing music. Several hundred guests were present.

The committee in charge of the affair were: W. F. Weston, E. F. Wharton, H. B. Andrews, B. Hanford, A. Davenport.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Adalia Dorothea Oppel and Guy R. Hoyt will take place tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Herman Oppel, at 410 East First street. The service will be read at 2:30 o'clock before a large number of guests. Miss Oppel has been the guest of honor at several affairs during the last fe wweeks.

Bridal Dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Dowse were hosts at the first of a series of dinners which will be given in compliment to Miss La Rue Sellwood and Charles S. Mershon. The affair was given at the Kitchi Gammi club. The table appointments were in yellow and covers were laid for sixteen.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. William White will entertain at dinner at their home on East Superior street in honor of Miss Sellwood and Mr. Mershon. The guests will be the immediate families and covers will be laid for sixteen.

SIGN PETITION.

Club Women Agitating Against Comic Supplement.

The Woman's Council of Duluth has been interested for many months in ways and means of suppressing the comic supplement to newspapers, which has also been the source of much agitation throughout America. The national kindergarten society and other organizations, magazine writers and individuals have written and preached, and agitated against the comic supplement as a "crime against children." There has never seemed a practicable way of joining in the movement in this city, although it has been discussed at length. The Duluth club women however, will be interested in the efforts made by the Minneapolis women who are circulating a petition asking the newspapers of Minneapolis to dispense with the comic supplement. There are many signers.

It is planned to have the work undertaken by the club women throughout the state and the movement will undoubtedly reach Duluth. The petition being circulated in Minneapolis is to be sent to the newspaper owners is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, herewith request that the illustrated, so-called comic, supplements to the Sunday editions be omitted, deeming it to be vulgarizing to children to allow their eyes to become accustomed to such cheap, crude, inartistic and vulgar images, teaching only lawlessness and irreverence. Knowing that you would not willingly be the means of demoralizing our youth we urge you in the interests of keeping our homes clean and wholesome to abandon the comic supplement."

The women in Minneapolis interested in the movement, point out that the Boston Herald yielding to a petition signed by a large number of Boston women, recently abolished its comic supplement.

HOUSE WARMING.

Knight of Columbus Entertain at New Hall.

The Knights of Columbus were hosts at an Easter dancing party last evening at their new hall at 222 West First street. The halls were attractively decorated for the affair, which was a house warming in honor of the moving into the new home for the society. Assisting the members in receiving were Mrs. E. W. Fahey, Mrs. E. L. Twohy, Mrs. V. J. Mullery, Mrs. Leo A. Ball, Miss Agnes Poirier, Miss Lottie Crowley, Miss Ada Rylie and Miss Grace Sheridan.

Paul's orchestra played and nearly 300 of the members and their guests enjoyed the affair.

WASH FROCKS

To Be the Feature of the Summer.

It seems rather unkind that, just after we have discovered bloomers and rompers and other labor and laundry saving garments for our offspring, Madame La Mode, with a fine disregard for small economies, should declare herself irrevocably in favor of the wash-frock for the feminine world at large. One knows her arguments by heart—"they are so simple—so inexpensive—always so cool and fresh-looking," writes Helen Berkeley-Loyd in the May Delineator.

Now, needless to say, we can't wear rompers in the morning, discard petticoats for bloomers, or take refuge behind a pair of overalls when we want to dig in the garden. If we wear tub dresses and nothing but tub dresses all summer, we must look for other devices to ward off the threatened inundation of our laundries.

After all, the situation isn't half as bad as it might be. Suppose the fiat had gone forth in those unregenerate days when women wore ten white petticoats and pantalets. As it is, we get off rather easily. Raw silks and dark-colored linens that can be sent to the laundry should occasion demand it, but which under ordinary circumstances will need few tubbings, promise to make the summer wardrobe an even more economical venture than usual.

For there are all sorts of plausible arguments in favor of the new tub dresses that make you feel as if you were only doing your duty to your family and a favor to the laundress in wearing them. Waists have little trimming and skirts less, and whatever decoration is used is done on the flat—braid work and embroidery and inlet motifs that offer little difficulty even to an inexpert washwoman. And so many of the wash dresses today can be unbuttoned from top to bottom, at the front or back, and from shoulder seam to wrist, and laid flat on the ironing-board, that it takes little more time to iron a whole dress than an ordinary shirt waist. In fact, women of a practical turn of mind will soon discover that a simple waist of linen, percale or galatea, joined to a skirt of the same material, is one of the most utilitarian dresses that they could have in their wardrobe.

LATEST STYLES

In Writing Paper, Monograms and Cards.

The latest creation from the paper loom is the Ottoman papers. These, together with the fine, delicately tinted Japanese papers, are the dernier cri. And the sheets are nearly square. The Ottoman is simulated rather than actual, as the ridges would naturally interfere with the free movement of the pen, says an exchange.

The stylish, high handwriting so much affected by society women for some time past is quite out of it, and has been superseded by an attempt at a revival of the old-fashioned, angular handwriting of the grande dames of the second empire. It is very becoming, also, on the large, square sheets of delicately tinted Ottoman. And on the fine Japanese patterns it is yet more characteristic. The plain English paper in the solid blues and in cream will always be used by conservative ladies of the old school.

The newest fashion in monogram is rather hard to describe. But it is formed of the looping of the letters into the shape of an immense hinge, and is bracketed on the side of the sheet, bang up against the edge, until it looks as if a part of it had depressed in stamping. These brackets are put on in the Byzantine colors and are rich. Another new form of monogram is the perfectly square medallion, the letters distorted to make the square, which is set on the bias. Or, rather, the letters are set on the bias in the square. Many of these are done in single color, old rose or night blue. They are fetching. The tiny monogram medallions are no longer the thing, and the stamping is done on much larger, bolder lines. Some of the bracket hinge designs are fully two inches in length.

There is a tendency to put the street and number on the visiting card more freely than for some time. Most of the American ladies living in Paris had formerly followed the French custom of not putting their addresses on their cards. But this has been found too inconvenient for people who are likely to move from apartment to hotel and back again ever so often. And the fad cost too many disappointments to friends who were often unable to find where to write or to call or make a visit.

Blue Room Decoration.

There is just a certain wedgewood blue that is exquisite with a putty-colored wall. It is not well to use this combination in a north light, which needs the warmer colonial yellow, but it may be held in reserve for the room having a southern or western exposure, with its softer light.

The putty color is colder and less yellow than the colonial shades—as if a touch of gray had been dashed in—but there is still enough of the creamy tone left to blend with the wedgewood blue of the hangings.

These curtain goods may be found in such inexpensive materials as galatea, cotton poplin and the Japanese crepe—all of which are more recent arrivals on the decorator's counter than denim and burlap.

A Mohair Suit.

There are some women who make it a point of keeping a gown or a suit of mohair or brilliantine in the wardrobe, just as some others think it is impossible to get along without a foulard.

Surely the family of mohairs were never more attractive than they are this season, for the colorings are effective, while the high luster makes it difficult to distinguish brilliantine from silk, especially those in striped designs.

For tailored suits needed for summer this material is excellent.

Serge, that has been heralded as a smart summer fabric, will have a close rival in prunella. Really, both materials are excellent, whether wanted for street or house, as they come in a variety of weights and colorings.

The satin striped prunellas are beautiful and show such deep, rich shadings.

They wear well, too, so they are desirable.

Serge, however, being less glossy in surface, will be the better choice for the stout woman.

BETTER THAN PAYNE BILL.

Senator Clapp's Opinion of the Senate Tariff Measure.

Washington, April 13.—"The tariff bill, reported by the senate committee on finance yesterday, is a better measure than the one reported by the committee on ways and means in the house," said Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota.

"The Payne bill was improved in its passage through the house, and further improvement is shown in the bill reported today. The Payne bill, in its original form, was objectionable in that it conserved the industries of the East without taking care of those in the West. Another objectionable feature was the provision imposing a tax on tea.

"The bill will be further improved in the senate, and when it becomes a law, will be more satisfactory to the West, in my opinion, than it is at present."

Senator Knute Nerson said:

"I will reserve for my speech in the senate such comments as I care to make on the tariff bill."

MOTHER AND SON ARE BOTH DEAD

Birger Engberg's Family Is Visited By Double Misfortune.

Eddie Engberg, 2 years of age, son of Mrs. Birger Engberg, who died last week, died yesterday of scarlet fever, the same disease that carried away the mother.

Of the family there are now left only the father, Birger Engberg of the Olund-Engberg Employment company, and an infant son. Mrs. Engberg became afflicted with the disease while caring for her child, and her death soon followed.

To make matters harder for the father, he has been forced, on account of the quarantine, to remain away from home during the sickness of his wife and child, in order to attend to business matters. He is now afraid his one remaining child may fall sick with scarlet fever.

The funeral of the child who died yesterday was held today from the residence, 833 West First street. Interment was at Park Hill cemetery.

Munsey, vestrymen. George H. Crosby, S. L. Frazer and J. W. Lyder, Jr., were chosen delegates to the diocese convention to be held next month, and C. T. Fitzsimmons, W. E. Lequesne and A. H. Brockelhurst were selected alternate delegates.

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE

Wonderful Symbolic Drama Is Presented at the Lyceum.

In Many Respects the Most Remarkable Play Ever Seen Here.

> "No dead pile of stones and unmeaning timber. It is a living thing. When you enter it, you hear a sound—a sound as of some mighty poem chanted. Listen long enough and you will learn that it is made up of the beating of human hearts, of the nameless music of men's souls—that is, if you have ears. If you have eyes, you will presently see the church itself—a looming mystery of many shapes and shadows, leaping sheer from floor to dome. The work of no ordinary builder! The pillars of it go up like the brawny trunks of heroes; the sweet human flesh of men and women is moulded about its bulwarks, strong, impregnable; the faces of little children laugh out from every corner stone: the terrible spans and and arches of it are the joined hands of comrades; and up in the heights and spaces there are inscribed the numberless musings of all the dreamers of the world. It is yet building—building and built upon. Sometimes the work goes forward in deep darkness; sometimes in blinding light; now beneath the burden of unutterable anguish; now to the tune of a great laughter and heroic shoutings like the cry of thunder. Sometimes, in the silence of the night-time, one may hear the tiny hammerings of the comrades at work in the dome—the comrades that have climbed ahead."—Manson's description of the Church Universal.

The most remarkable play Duluth ever saw is being presented at the Lyceum this week.

"The Servant in the House" is a mental and moral shower bath.

It seems almost sacrilegious to attempt to criticise "The Servant in the House." The eternal wonder of it is that the author, Charles Rann Kennedy, found a manager to produce it. It is so startlingly different from anything yet seen upon the stage, that it speaks well for Henry Miller's faith in the inherent soundness of the public taste in drama, that he attempted it. It is reported that he shrank from presenting it before the usual "first night audience of Broadway, and chose a matinee at the Savoy for the premier. One can readily picture the wonder of the typical first night Broadway audience at such a drama as "The Servant in the House."

"The Servant in the House" is not an allegory, nor a morality play. It is a symbolic drama. In an allegory, the characterization is sacrificed at the expense of the truth which the author seeks to expound. "The Servant in the House" is more subtle. The closest attention to the lines is necessary in order to appreciate the play, but this is no hardship. The listener finds himself straining to catch the words of the actors. The central theme of the play is that Christ offers the solution of all human troubles, religious, social and personal. Manson, the servant in the house, and the good bishop of Benares in disguise, can be readily recognized as the Christ. The jam episode in the first act catches the attention of the audience, and subtly conveys the true meaning of Manson's personality.

Mary first suspects his true identity. "Who are you?" she stammers out, with her eyes shining with wonder. "I am the servant in the house," he replies. ("Except ye become as little children, ye cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven.")

The Bishop of Lancashire has "eyes to see, but sees not; ears to hear, but hears not." He is pictured as blind and deaf, and represents, of course, Mammon. "If I could have my way with you, I would nail you up, sir, as an example," he says to Manson. "I have encountered similar hostility before, my Lord, from gentlemen of your type," Manson replies.

And the Drain Man! The author has explained that he did not intend the cesspool under the church to be an attack upon the church, but that he wished to convey the idea that the church is fettered by the dead ideas of the past, and the fact that it is worshipping the bones of a dead Christ, instead of a living, breathing Christ. "I am nothin, nothing," says the vicar, in an agony of remorse at this selfish life. "I am the Drain Man," is the answer, given proudly. One or two half nervous laughs from the audience greeted this statement, but the play had its grip upon the majority of the audience by this time.

The unities are observed absolutely in the play. The action all takes place in the home of the vicar and within two or three hours. The dialogue is continuous, and there is no necessity for dropping the curtain at all, except to give the audience relaxation.

The cast is a superb one, containing such well known names as Clay Clement, Creston Clarke, and Miss Lizzie Hudson Collier.

There are but seven characters in the play, as follows. The bishop of Lancashire, George W. Wilson; Rev. William Smyth, Wilfred Roger; the vicar's wife, Miss Lizzie Hudson Collier; Mary, their neice, Miss Gwladys Wynne; Robert Smith, the drainman, Clay Clement; Rogers, a page boy, Henry Dornton; Manson, a butler, Creston Clarke. It is the highest tribute that can be paid to the members of the caste to say that the audience pays but little attention to the actors, and scarcely a thought is given to their art during the performance. It is a perfectly balanced cast, every member a finished artist, and they fit into their roles so perfectly that the whole attention of the audience is centered on the drama.

It is unfortunate that everybody in Duluth cannot see this wonderful play. It should be, like the churches, free to the public. Any description of it must fall short of conveying a true impression of what the play really is. "I don't want to see any church service in the theater," will be the comment of many, but those who go to scoff or be bored, are caught by the marvelous simplicity and power of the drama. It is something no Duluthian can afford to miss, even if he has to pay 25 cents and sit in a gallery seat. It will be here all week.

AT THE BIJOU.

"L'Amour de L'Apache" Is Feature of Strong Bill.

One of the strongest vaudeville shows of the current season holds the boards at the Bijou the present week. Every act is good; there isn't one that can't be enjoyed, while two of the acts are far above the average.

The show starts off with the Faust Brothers, who do a pantomime musical act. Both of the men in this turn can play; their comedy is fair and the act is one that gets a good hand. For an opening act, it is above the average.

Gil Brown, who does a little singing, a little talking, and throws his feet quite a bit, follows the Faust Brothers. Gil doesn't stack high on the singing and talking end of his act, but he certainly can throw his feet. He is one of the best dancers seen at the Bijou this year. He does several extremely difficult steps, and does them extremely well.

Horace Mann and Marie Franks present an act of merit. Both of these people can sing and act. They present a travesty on melodrama, and then do some straight work that is as good as any seen in vaudeville. Miss Franks has a good voice and knows how to use it. The act made a hit with the large Monday night audience, and the actors were compelled to respond to an encore.

The advertised feature of the bill is the dance "L'Amour De L'Apache."

Let it be known that the Apaches mentioned in the program are not the kind that roamed the Western plains, making trouble for the early American settlers. They are Apaches of an entirely different breed, the Apaches of Paris, one of the most depraved and vicious characters known to the French race.

They correspond in some ways to the tough east side character of New York; only they are tougher. They contribute to the criminal element of Paris, and are a constant thorn in the side of the police.

The dance portrays jealousy. The man is angry at his sweetheart, and the dance is a physical excess that he goes through, meditating whether he shall beat or kill the woman whom he holds in his arms. We have worse dances, here in this country.

Aside from the dance Cook and Miss Rothert are very good in their act. Cook does some acrobatic work, and his comedy is really funny at times.

Weston, Young and company present a skit called "The New Reporter." There is not very much about the new reporter in the act, but nevertheless it is amusing at times. It is a singing act in which five people are employed, and some of the comedy and the songs are good.

Taken in all, the bill this week is one of the best that the Bijou theater has offered to its patrons this season.

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of poslam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. The Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and Holmberg's in Superior make a specialty of it. Fifty cents' worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

Any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or clear a complexion overnight and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

"RED" CLAYTON CONVICTED.

Jury at Sioux City Says He Caused Death of Powers.

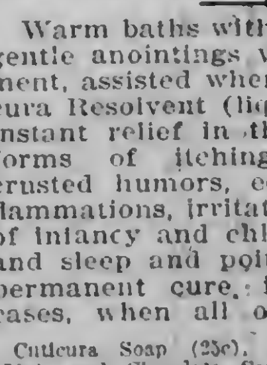
Sioux City, Iowa, April 13.—Harry ("Red") Clayton, who was on trial all last week for the murder of Mel Powers, a well-known river man, was found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. He is in jail pending the efforts of his friends to raise $5,000 bail.

Incendiarism caused one-fourth of the fires in Sioux City the past year. This startling statement is made in the annual report of Fire Chief Kellogg. He declares there were eleven fires of incendiary origin, the total loss being $33,000. The chief expresses the belief that these fires are set for hire by a band of crooks who make the rounds of cities with fire-setting as their business. He warns the city to take some action.

FEARED TOTAL LOSS OF HAIR

Scalp had been Scaly for Some Time—After an Attack of Typhoid Fever his Hair Began to Fall Out by the Handful—Now It is

THICKER THAN EVER THANKS TO CUTICURA



"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly, like dandruff but heavier—although I wash my head once a week always. It never gave me any trouble such as itching or smarting and I never noticed any falling of the hair. But shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use a dandruff cure to no effect whatever. And I used a quinine preparation quite freely which did no good either. Whether it was the effect of the fever or some scalp disease I don't know, but I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. It got so bad that I didn't need to comb it any more—in fact I was afraid to. My brother, who had used the Cuticura Remedies with satisfaction, advised me to try them. After using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas six months ago I had my mind made up to be bald in a short time. I will have a photograph taken later and send you one. William P. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 7 and 21, '08."

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills), afford instant relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning, scaly, crusted humors, eczemas, rashes, inflammations, irritations and chafings of infancy and childhood, permit rest and sleep and point to a speedy and permanent cure, in the majority of cases, when all other remedies fail.

Cuticura Soap (25c), Ointment (50c), Resolvent (50c), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON TO SPEAK AT HELENA, MONT.

Helena, Mont., April 13.—Supt. R. J. Condon of the local schools, who is in charge of the lectures given under the auspices of the Civic club, has received a telegram from Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, stating that he will be able to lecture here some time during the week between May 10 and 17. This is welcome news, as Mr. Condon recently received a letter from the Minnesota executive, stating that, owing to press of executive business, he would be unable to fill his engagement here.

The governor will speak at the Auditorium, one of the largest public buildings in the state, having a seating capacity of about 2,500, and it is anticipated there will be few empty seats in the vast building on the night the governor speaks.

JAIL BREAKER CAPTURED.

Charles Keefer Found Hiding in Shack Near Iowa City.

Iowa City, Iowa, April 13.—Charles Keefer, convicted of a murderous assault on John Quincy Adams, whom he crippled for life, has been recaptured. Keefer broke jail here, last winter, and had been hiding in a shack in the woods north of the city, until Sunday, when Deputy Sheriffs Rowland and Wilson, after a two months' quest, nabbed him.

Judge Reed in the United States court, has ruled in favor of four Iowa City capitalists, who were sued for $30,000 damages. Lewis C. Greenice of Denver, Colo., alleged that they had libeled him in certain documentary reflections on him as a mining investor. The Iowa City victors are Christian Yetter, S. K. Stevenson, M. G. Koser and George Rupene.

TURKISH REVOLUTION STARTS

campaign against the committee of union and progress, in other words, the Young Turks.

Violent demonstration both inside parliament and in the streets adjacent followed the killing of the editor. The grand vizier and the president of the chamber were obliged to harangue the crowds outside and assure them that justice would be done. The chamber accepted an interpellation denouncing the crime as a political murder and calling upon the government to take the necessary steps to apprehend the assassin.

Minister Reported Fleeing.

Vienna, April 13.—Startling rumors are current here to the effect that Constantinople today is in the throes of a grave revolutionary movement.

The information thus far received is meagre, but it is reported that several thousand mutinous troops have surrounded the building of parliament and that the whole capital is in a state of dangerous excitement.

Another report says that the ministry of war has been occupied by the insurgents and that the minister has fled.

EARLY MORNING FIRE DESTROYS THE GRAND THEATER IN SUPERIOR

was carried on the Grand and the insurance companies' representatives have agreed that the loss is complete and that we are entitled to the full amount. The theater and its equipment were worth cosiderably more than that, however. I should say that just prior to the fire, the property was worth $70,000.

"The theater was in first-class condition. The equipment was complete and expensive and considerable money had just been spent in improvements. This week, the interior of the house had been thoroughly cleaned with a machine borrowed from the Lyceum theater, Duluth, and this was about the only thing in the theater which was saved.

"As to rebuilding, that is a question that we will determine later. The business men in Superior are anxious to have a playhouse and I understand that they are willing to invest in one, so I feel safe in saying that Superior will have a theater by next season. If the Grand is not rebuilt, a new theater on some other site will probably be erected."

The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock this morning by Harry Dabrook, who, as he waited for his car at Belknap street, saw smoke pouring from the rear windows of the theater. He turned in an alarm and in a short time the fire department responded.

Started on Stage.

The fire had a good headway when discovered, however, and it was a hard matter for the department to combat it. Apparently, the blaze had its origin at the rear of the house, behind the curtain line, but by the time the fire department's first hose was playing upon the building, flames were belching from the middle of the house as well as from the stage.

The fire was a spectacular one and it attracted many Superiorites from their beds to watch their playhouse go up in smoke. In a comparatively short time, it could be seen that the structure was doomed, although the firemen fought the flames relentlessly, and succeeded in preventing them from spreading to the adjoining buildings.

When the fire was burning fiercely and dense clouds of smoke came from the windows and doors, two firemen entered the building in an effort to save some of the contents. The local manager was particularly anxious to rescue the vacuum cleaning machine borrowed from the Duluth theater, and the two firemen succeeded in dragging it unharmed from the parquet, although it was necessary to leave the hose part of it behind. The cleaning machine was about the only thing saved from the flames.

Nobody has as yet successfully explained the origin of the fire.

Members of the St. Joseph Catholic church, who were to present a German play at the theater tonight, were rehearsing their lines there last evening. When the theater employes closed the house after the rehearsal everything was apparently all right. Electrician Tifft does not think it probable that the fire caught from any electric wiring, as there was only one live circuit in the house, that being the wires to the transformer.

The fire may have started from the discarded cigar or cigaret of some careless smoker who was in the theater last night, and the fire may have smouldered slowly until it burst forth into a fierce furnace at 5 o'clock in the morning.

But the theater employes say everything was all right when they left, and the explanations of the fire's origin that have been offered are mere conjectures. It is quite a mystery. It may have been the work of an incendiary, although one is at a loss to explain a motive for such an act.

Owned By Syndicate.

The theater was owned by a corporation known as the Superior Theater company, of which W. F. Fitch of the South Shore road is president, and Charles A. Marshall vice president. Thomas Simons of Superior is secretary and treasurer and several other Superior business men hold stock in the company.

The Grand was built eighteen years ago, but was in excellent condition at the time of the fire, having been well kept up and equipped. The auditorium had a seating capacity of about 1,500 and the stage was spacious and complete.

Although it is said that they have not in recent years patronized the theater liberally enough to make the enteryrise a profitable one for those interested, Superior people are quite concerned over the loss of their theater. The fact that Superior has been known recently as rather a "poor show town" suggests to the residents that maybe the Grand will not be restored or another theater built, although Mr. Marshall's utterances as given above should give them rays of hope.

Dr. Riesland Has returned from his two months' stay in the Twin Cities and will now resume practice at his old stand, 707 Palladio Building. If you are sick, he is the doctor for you to see.

OFFICERS OF NEWSPAPER COMPANY NOT LIABLE TO PROSECUTION FOR LIBEL

New York, April 13.—The writ of habeas corpus secured in behalf of S. S. Carvalho, Bradford Merrill and Edward H. Clark, officers of the Star company, publishers of the New York American and Journal, in the action against them for criminal libel on complaint of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was upheld by Justice Gerard in the supreme court and the defendants were ordered released.

Rockefeller complained of the publication in the American of Dec. 17, 1908, of an article accusing him of having originated a peonage system to which employes of a breakfast food company in Illinois were alleged to have been subjected.

The article, which was disavowed the next day, when a full retraction of all the objectionable allegations was printed, recited that part of the system for which Mr. Rockefeller was held responsible consisted in the keeping of workmen in a stockade guarded by armed sentries and enclosed by a high fence along which charged electric wires were run.

Justice Gerard characterizes the article as a gross and vicious libel, the writers and publishers of which should be brought to trial, but finds that no evidence exists to show that Messrs. Carvalho, Merrill and Clark had anything to do with its writing or publication. The decision affirms the principle that the officers of a corporation which publishes a newspaper are not liable to criminal prosecution for libel printed in the newspaper simply because of the fact that they are such officers and without any further proof to connect them with the management of the newspaper.

RAILROAD'S RECEIVER GIVES RECEPTION TO 3,000 MOTORMEN AND CONDUCTORS; BIG SUCCESS

New York, April 13.—Receiver Whitridge of the Third Avenue Railroad company gave a reception to the 3,000 motormen and conductors employed by the company.

To assist in making the affair a success he called upon Mrs. Whitridge and his daughters, and they in turn enlisted the aid of a number of their friends, including Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan; Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Douglas Robinson and a number of prominent society women, who acted as the road's hostesses. The affair was a success, Mr. Whitridge said, and may be repeated at intervals.

The reception idea is part of a campaign to promote social interests of the employes, which Mr. Whitridge has been pursuing since he was named as receiver. Some time ago he formed a mutual benefit association, which now has 2,400 members. For the association he provided attractive quarters in the road's office building, with a branch of the New York public library, pool tables and a plentiful supply of newspapers and magazines.

"JOYLAND" IS NO MORE

Amusement Park on the Point Is Being Dismantled.

Buildings Being Torn Down and the Lumber Sold.

"Joyland," formerly the White City, is no more.

After a vain endeavor to make an amusement park in Duluth pay, those interested have decided it is no go, and the buildings are being torn down and the lumber sold for what it will bring.

The bump-the-bumps, picture gallery, gypsy village, ferris wheel and the many other things are coming down as fast as the workmen can make them tumble. The dance hall will be the only thing left, and an effort will be made to have it as popular as it was some years ago.

"Tommy" Getz has disposed of his lease on the park, and the pavilion will be under the management of a new man. The grounds occupied by the former amusement place are owned by the Hartman brothers.

The company was organized three years ago, the buildings erected and the amusements provided. All Duluth went the first night, spent 10 cents in each show, and after that forgot there was any such place as the White City.

At the end of the first year the amusement company found that it was several thousand dollars in the hole.

The company went into the hands of a receiver, and the following year "Tommy" Getz, who has been in the show business all his life, thought he would like to take a whirl at it.

He changed the name from the White City to Joyland. Joyland it proved to be for the first few nights, and then Joyland was forgotten.

Now it is all over, and Duluth no longer has an electric park. Even the fences and entrance are to be torn down. Seats will be placed around the grounds, the band will, as in the old days, play on Sunday, and the dance hall will each night echo the shuffle of the waltz and the two-step, but Joyland is gone, and few tears will be shed.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Chicago Tribune, "modest laxatives, hot foot baths, a free perspiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting it must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is almost sure to be contracted, and in many instances pneumonia follows. Is it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cures of colds and can always be depended upon? For sale by all druggists.

TO HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET SOON

Label League to Celebrate Its First Year of Existence.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Woman's Label league was held last night in the Kalamazoo hall.

The league has now been in existence for more than a year and besides doing much work and extending much help to outside bodies, it is in a flourishing condition.

Arrangements are now being made for the annual banquet, which is to be held soon. Mrs. Catherine Dempsey has the affair in charge. She is communicating with several women well known throughout the country as labor speakers, and at least two of them will be brought to Duluth to speak at the annual banquet.

The state convention will this year be held at Red Wing. Duluth will send three delegates. One delegate will be sent to the international convention, which will be held at Louisville, Ky., this coming summer.

The league now has eighty-two members and every one is an enthusiastic worker.

Rheumatism.

More than nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles, due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism. In such cases no internal treatment is required. The free application of Chamberlain's Liniment is all that is needed, and it is certain to give quick relief. Give it a trial and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain and soreness. The medicines usually given internally for rheumatism are poisonous or very strong medicines. They are worse than useless in cases of chronic and muscular rheumatism. For sale by all druggists.

TO CONTEST WILL.

Estate Valued at $9,006 Cause of Battle in Probate Court.

The will of Charles A. Johnson was filed yesterday in probate court.

The estate is valued at about $9,000. The realty is worth $6,000 and the personal property, $3,000. John S. Johnson was left $200 and Mrs. Flora Reynolds was given the balance.

John S. Johnson will contest the wil. He claims that Mrs. Reynolds influenced his brother in drawing up the will.

STATE BRINGS SUIT.

Bismarck, N. D., April 12.—The attorney general's department has commenced proceedings to recover the state's deposit of $16,000, which was left in Andy Jones' First National bank at Rugby when that institution closed its door. The bank, when it was designated as a state depository, furnished bonds which were supplied by three bonding companies and one personal bond. The bank had been designated for $10,000 worth of deposits, but when it closed it had $16,000 of state money in its possession, and as the bank is closed, the money has never been returned to the state.

WOULD PARDON ENGEN.

Clearwater County Man Sent Up for Murder Seeks Freedom.

Bemidji, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state board of pardons of St. Paul today is expected to take up the case of Gilbert Engen, sentenced from Clearwater county, July 3, 1903, for fifteen years for murder in the second degree, for the killing of Ole Steffenson, at Alida, in 1903. Engen and Stefferson were drinking together with a crowd in a saloon at Alida during the afternoon of June 19, when they became involved in a quarrel, during which Engen stabbed Steffenson with a knife, inflicting wounds from which Steffenson died.

Many believe that Engen was not altogether to blame for the row and its serious results, and although he was afterwards tried and convicted, it is thought by many residents of Clearwater county that his sentence should be reduced in its severity.

SHIPPING SOME STOCK.

Section North of Thief River Falls Sending Out Animals.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—That this section of the state is fast becoming well known for its stock is evidenced by the fact that twenty carloads of cattle were shipped from two small stations on the Great Northern line, just north of this city, last week. This stock was not the best that the country produced, but was rather of the scrub variety, which the farmers are getting rid of in order that they may invest in the dairy type. The establishment of creameries in this and adjoining counties is teaching the farmers that no stock is worth keeping unless it measures up to the dairy standard, and all other is about as bad as worthless. As a consequence of this, the poor stuff will soon be an unknown quantity in this section.

SMALL FIRE LOSS.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting and banquet of the local fire department, just held, it was shown that this fire organization is one of the most efficient in the northwestern part of the state. In the year 1907 the city paid in premiums $23,007, while the fire losses amounted to the trivial sum of $5,374. The annual tournament for Northwestern Minnesota will be held this year at Crookston. This city entertained the firemen last year.

DULUTH PARTIES BUYING CROW WING PROPERTIES.

Brainerd Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable activity in lands in southeastern Crow Wing county.

Parties from Duluth have been quietly picking up lands in the towns of Platt Lake, Roosevelt and Garrison for some time. It is reported that J. L. Smith has disposed of what is known as the Marks holdings near Midland at $22.50 per acre. E. R. Smith, when asked about the matter, denied that the land had been sold, but admitted that there were negotiations pending. Among other sales reported are those of W. N. Holbrook, who received $25 per acre for 200 acres, Gust Anderson, who received a like price and others, all of whom received good prices. Several of the sales have been to W. D. Edson and his associates at Duluth.

There are rumors that the Soo line is back of the deal and that it means a railroad north from Onamia.

"At the wars do as they do at the wars;" and in this city, which is a "want-advertising city," do as they do in this city.

WHAT'S A PRISON FOR?

What is a prison for? Is it to be simply a place of punishment? Or ought we in it to make some attempt to make men better?

Certainly the latter, everybody answers. But notice this; just the moment that any one attempts to make state's prison convicts better all the world rises up and declares that he is turning prison into a parlor, instead of punishing criminals he is giving them a good time.

This is the fate that has overtaken J. C. Sanders, warden of the state prison at Fort Madison, Iowa. Warden Sanders believes in trying to release his prisoners better men and women than when they entered his prison. All of us believe this, of course, but a great many of us are just now objecting to Warden Sanders' methods, his baseball nines, his convict glee club and orchestra, his course of lectures at the prison chapel, his night school, his flower gardens and his abolition of the striped suit in favor of prison gray. "Baseball, the very idea!" we gasp. "Why, that's giving the convict a good time. That's not punishing him." Well, what's a prison for?

Very probably baseball, and glee clubs and flower gardens and night schools help to make life inside of prison walls more endurable. Somehow we recoil from the idea of doing anything to make the life of a convict more bearable. The underlying feeling is that the criminal ought to have a hard lot, his sin ought to be pressing down hard upon him all the time. A convict ought to be forever bending his back to a grievous burden, he ought always to go about with his eyes cast down. We have no objection to his imagining a bright future if he can, but the present ought to be made just as black as possible for him. However we may theorize about reforming the convict, this is practically the way we feel about him. He has sinned against us and if he has been sentenced to ten years in prison for his sin, they ought to be ten long, dreary, burdensome years.

It is this feeling that the convict ought to be punished, together with a crude notion that punishment means the entire withdrawal of love, that causes us to object to baseball and flower gardens for the convict. We overlook the fundamental fact that the convict is not committed to prison to punish him, but to remove him from society to which he is a menace. "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay," saith the Lord. Punishment of his fellows is none of man's business. So far as the murderer himself is concerned, if one day behind prison bars would make him void of future offense against society, that day he ought to be released. The state aims to make its prisons a protection to society. If it so treats those who are confined in prisons that they come forth worse men than they went in, the state has failed. If the state can make its convicts over into honest, upright men, it will succeed in protecting itself and in blessing humanity.

Denial of liberty is the most grievous burden that can be inflicted upon man. Baseball cannot make life behind prison walls pleasant. Flower gardens and glee clubs may make life in a prison more endurable, but a barren hillside with freedom were a better place to live. If we compel the convict to bow his head forever within his prison walls, we inevitably make him to grow worse, and we release him at last more dangerous to society than when he entered, but if we can make him lift up his head, make him aspire to better things, give to his mind and his body something good to work on, we shall make him a better man, and when he returns to society he may be its helper, its benefactor, not its enemy.

If we are not to have wardens like Warden Sanders, what kind are we to have? All other kinds, as we have proved to our bitter cost, have returned us convicts that have hurt us. Warden Sanders of Iowa, and others like him, are trying to give us back men who will join hands with us instead of turning their hands against us.

PROGRESS OUT OF PANIC.

"It means not a little when so practiced and so thoroughgoing a Jeremiah as James J. Hill is compelled to admit that business conditions are becoming better," says the New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser.

Mr. Hill just loves to be different. Two years ago when few of us foresaw a panic, Mr. Hill was filled with the most dismal forebodings, and warned us that unless we could borrow $5,000,000,000 for improvements—railroad improvements—we would go plumb to smash. We went to smash all right, but there is considerable good wreckage left. Now when we are wearied with a year of depression following the panic, complicated by a presidential election and a tariff revision—to say nothing of a tonnage tax—Mr. Hill grows a little cheerful, intimates that things "are growing better" and that there is hope for us yet.

Our periodically recurring panics are not brought on in a day, although it almost seemed so one day in October, 1907, nor do we recover from them in a month. It took us four years to get out of the slough of despond of 1893, four long and bitter years. The best of those years was far worse than what we have endured the past eighteen months. The wonder is that the disturbance to business since the beginning of the panic of 1907 has been so small. We may not expect that times will at once be as good as they were in 1906, but that they are gradually growing better we cannot doubt. This year will be somewhat better than 1908, and 1910 will see a very active resumption of business along all lines.

Bank clearings and railroad earnings both show substantial increases. The country's bank clearings for March of this year were $421,112,000 as against $334,127,000 for last year, an increase of 18.1 per cent, while for the fat year of 1906 they were $442,698,000, only 2.9 per cent larger than this year. For the first two weeks of March a gain of 9.5 per cent over 1907 is shown in railroad earning—so that we are actually better off today in this respect than we were when we thought we were very prosperous in 1907.

We have made more rapid progress out of the panic of 1907 than out of any panic in the history of the country. There are evidences that the period of depression will not be more than one-half as long as in the panic of 1893, and we know that it has not been one-half so disastrous. General business conditions will improve steadily throughout 1909 and with the opening of 1910 another era of prosperity will probably be under good headway.

Now that business is once more verging toward the normal is a good time for every business man and every citizen to take stock of his methods. If it were not for our wasteful methods we should never have a panic. Every man can do something to reduce the disaster of the next panic. By conserving his resources he will just that much lessen the effect of the panic when it comes and will at the same time put himself in such a position that he will feel the slightest possible injury himself.

IT'S A GOOD TRUST NOW.

The reply of the Standard Oil company to the allegation that it is compelling the country to pay it enormous profits is to admit the profits, to claim that it gets them by reason of superior but honest business management, to allege, in fact, that it is a good trust now. This argument, of course, deals only with the present; it's a good trust now, the methods by which it became so great a trust were not mentioned.

The government is now attempting to dissolve the Standard Oil company under the Sherman anti-trust act. The government claims that the Sherman anti-trust law has no meaning at all if it does not apply to just such cases as that of the Standard Oil company, and in support of that contention the government urges that the Standard Oil company controls close to 90 per cent of the business of refining and distributing oil, that it forces competitors out of business by underselling them, only to turn about and recoup its losses by advancing prices when its competitors are extinct. The government claims that the Standard Oil company is a monopoly, and that as a monopoly it has made more than $1,000,000,000 upon a capital of $70,000,000, and that its yearly profits for the past ten years have been nearly two-thirds of its capital, or $60,000,000 profits annually upon a capital of $97,250,000.

The company admits the profits but claims that it has made them legitimately. The company claims that it uses no other methods than those employed by reputable merchants every day, but that it has been able to make enormous profits, because it is so big a concern, doing business upon so vast a scale, thereby eliminating vast expenditures and by skillful methods vastly increasing its profits over the profits of smaller concerns.

This answer—in effect, that the company is now a good trust—completely overlooks the fact alleged by the government that it is a monopoly, that it has come to its present power by grossly unfair methods, by killing practically all competition by means which have made no distinction between fair and foul, that it has hampered and restricted trade in the past and that it is doing so now. The aim of the Sherman anti-trust law is not to kill off trusts, but to prevent the restriction of trade. That is the very essence of the law. If any business concern restricts the freedom of trade, it is in violation of the anti-trust law; it is by the terms of that law a monopoly, and so illegal, and capable of being dissolved by the courts.

There is of course a very natural prejudice on the part of the great mass of the people against the Standard Oil company. Its enormous profits are abnormal. They were secured, the people generally believe, by taking away from thousands of smaller dealers, the profits they should have had to live upon. They were secured moreover by compelling everybody to pay for oil more than it was worth. So the people of the country feel that they have a just and a great grievance against this company; prejudice against the company is sure to follow in such a case. But aside from the immediate case of the Standard Oil company, the country is in a position where it must secure an enforcement of the principle that all trade shall be free and unrestrained. The prosperity of the whole people depends upon establishing freedom of trade; it is upon the Sherman anti-trust law that the country depends for the final establishment of that principle. If the government fails in its case against Standard Oil, the law is made an instrument of no effect. Hence the country awaits the issue of this case knowing that its present success in solving the great problem of its commercial and industrial development is at stake.

SPRING!

These are genuine spring days in Duluth. No need to go further south for the first spring flower; there the snow still lingers a foot deep in the lap of nature, but in Duluth it is genuine spring time. Easter was a balmy, delightful day that stirred the blood with all the memories of eternal youth and started every green thing upward toward the light, and Easter Monday in Duluth saw dandelions blooming on the lawn at Bishop McGolrick's residence on Fourth street. They are blooming there yet and are well worth going to see.

If you fail to go for a ramble in the woods these days, you are missing one of the best things that anyone can have. It is good to see life starting forth once more and the woods today are full of innumerable signs of it. Whether the air be cold or balmy, nature knows that the time is short until the warm days come, and it is now preparing to burst forth in gloriously green array with the dawn of the very first warm day. Tendrils that were gray are turning yellowish, buds are stirring on every bough, under dead leaves green things are almost breaking through. Go into the woods and listen and you can almost hear things growing. Spring is here!

Let winter make his last dying assault any time that he likes; we know that he has little strength left in him and his next effort, if indeed he can summon strength for another, will be his last.

April 23 will be about all for the Minnesota legislature.

What goes up must come down—even Count Zeppelin's airship.

The principal obstacle to revising the tariff downward appears to be not congress but the country.

It is very suspicious to have Mr. Hill and Mr. Harriman growing optimistic at one and the same time.

The season approaches when the young man's uncles, his cousins and his aunts may expect death any day.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

W. H. Lindsay of Butte, Mont., who has been at the St. Louis hotel for a few days, declared yesterday his belief that before the expiration of the present summer the industry of the mine city would be back upon a normal basis. To replace the business of the Montana city upon a normal basis, at the high mark it reached before the depression in general business, and particularly in copper, Mr. Lindsay admitted would require that the times be very much better than they are at present. But this Mr. Lindsay stated he expected to see.

"Ordinarily Butte employs 12,000 men underground," said Mr. Lindsay. "That number of underground laborers represents the full working force of the mining industy of Butte. At the present time there are 7,000 men employed in the mines of Butte. You can readily see that the business of that city is, therefore, not up to the pace set before the general depression throughout the country.

"However, I expect that before the summer is over, the number of the underground laborers employed in Butte will reach the normal mark, or will approach very close to it. The reason that I believe this is because I am inclined to the opinion that general business is going to improve, and that with it there will come about an increase in the activity of the mines."

E. H. Hall of Trinidad, Colo., a mining man of that city, is at the Lenox. Mr. Hall has been up on the range looking over the mines and studying the methods of mining in this state. When asked as to the conditions out in the Colorado district, Mr. Hall replied that there was not very much activity there at the present time.

Mr. Hall stated that mining operations have been very quiet in the Colorado districts all winter; that there has been but a small number of men employed, and that the operations of the mines have been very limited. He also stated that but little development work had been done during the past year.

Mr. Hall says the Western Federation of Miners has not been very active the past year, though the organization is apparently as strong as ever. The mine owners do not look for any labor troubles in the Colorado districts, and believe with the increase in the operations of the mines, hundreds of men will be re-employed in Colorado, Idaho and in the newly developing mining state of Utah.

Howard Phyle at the Spalding hotel, makes the suggestion that all cities be required to maintain a municipal lodging house. He points out as a model in this system, the municipal lodging houses of Chicago, stating that the system in vogue at that city has aided thousands of hopeless men.

Mr. Phyle says the system in Chicago is not merely to care for the physical comfort of the men who apply for lodging, but to also care for the other needs of the applicant. They have religious service at the municipal lodging houses of Chicago, and in every way the attendants in charge of the houses, attempt to make the men with whom they come in contact, better.

There is the New York municipal lodging house, something upon the plan of the Chicago system, without the attempt to reclaim morally the men who apply for admission. Both of these institutions are operated at the expense of the city, and in both Chicago and New York the idea for the houses, sprung from the belief of certain men, that every city should be obliged to care for the wanderers in its midst.

Mr. Phyle says there is some discrimination made in accepting the men who apply for a night's lodging. If a man is known to be merely a professional tramp—a man who never works and who holds out no hope to the authorities—this man will be turned over to the police. But there are in every large city, according to Mr. Phyle, thousands of men who are penniless through no fault of their own. Many of these men who are to secure employment, try as they may. The condition that they face is brought about through no fault of their own; rather it is the result of social conditions.

It is for the men of this class that Mr. Phyle suggests the municipal lodging house in every well governed city. He cites the case of Denver, Colo., as an example. Denver has no municipal lodging house. As a result Mr. Phyle says the hospitals of that city are generally crowded with men who have contracted colds or pneumonia from sleeping in lumber piles, brick kilns, or any place that will afford them the least shelter.

Denver officials say the hospitals are crowded with charitable patients, and until these are cared for, there is no time for thinking of a municipal lodging house.

Mr. Phyle has given the problem much study, and when in Denver about two months ago suggested that if the officials would give more time to the care and sheltering of the homeless of the city, there would be fewer patients in the city hospitals.

He says that both in Chicago and New York the municipal lodging house idea has proved conclusively that in the end it is a saving to the city. Both in Chicago and New York, according to Mr. Phyle, there has been less expense attached to the caring of the poor than there has been before the establishment of the municipal lodging houses. He states that it costs less to care for a man for a night, house, and feed him, then it does to pay doctor bills and perhaps bury the man.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's warm bright sunshine was followed by cloudy weather this morning, and the weather man predicts rain or snow for tonight, with somewhat milder temperature.

A year ago today it was fair and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 5:24, and will set this afternoon at 6:53, making thirteen hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions central over the middle lake regions and Wyoming caused rain or snow in the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys, Southern states and the Northwest during the past twenty-four hours, besides higher temperature in Atlantic states and the Rocky mountain region. The barometer is high over North Atlantic and North Pacific districts and Saskatchewan. Low temperatures prevail in the Northwest, and it is also somewhat colder in the western lake region and Mississippi valley, attending an increase in pressure over those districts. The easterly movement of the Wyoming disturbance will cause rain or snow and brisk easterly winds at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Wednesday."

Most Magnificent Passage in Bible.

Washington Herald: Of all the perplexing propositions that evel fell beneath the eye of the man who delights finally to illuminate obscure questions and adjust fine points of argument, surely the one proposed by a New England contemporary is the most notable—the selecting of the "most magnificent passage in the Bible."

Attempts to solve the problem presented here are to be encouraged, perhaps, as tending to lead to exhaustive Bible study, but that any real solution can be had is not to be expected. What is the sweetest perfume, the fairest flower, the grandest poem, the most inspiring song? These questions would all involve debate as endless and as inconclusive as would effort to isolate the "most magnificent passage in the Bible." Beauty is in the eye of the beholder; magnificence is a relative term and means much or little as one conceives the situation or the thing to which the word is applied. The most majestic and compelling picture from Genesis to Revelation is legion—it all depending on the points of view.

Investigation along the line of beauty and magnificence in Bible passages, we think, operates to bewilder rather than convince, in so far as these two qualities of the book are concerned. It is wonderful to contemplate in some sort of orderly sequence a portion of the splendid things between its covers. Never yet has its equal been written; no mortal man man has ever sounded its ultimate depths. It is filled with sermons and songs, tragedies and dramas; and it is not barren of comedies, for that matter, if one be able to catch the true import of real humor, which is never purposeless or senseless.

How, for all that, and in consideration of all that, is one ever to choose a "passage" that one may confidently label "the most magnificent?" From out so much wisdom, how shall the wisest word be selected? From out so much pathos, how shall the most pathetic sentence be known? Amid such a wealth of the beautiful, how are we to discriminate to indisputable exactness? The tasks we should set for ourselves would be impossible of execution; and while we might travel far, we should never reach the station of our heart's desire this side the grave.

Tom Reed's Keen Comment.

Philadelphia Record: Champ Clark's complaint that the Republicans of the ways and means committee had prepared the tariff bill without consulting their Democratic colleagues, recalls one of the cleverest things ever said in the house of representatives. The Mills bill was prepared by the Democratic members of the committee without consultation with the Republicans. Wnen that bill was reported to the house Thomas B. Reed expressed his regrets that the contents of the measure had been withheld from the wise and prudent and revealed unto the babes.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A girl always longs for the sailor hat style except for sailing.

The strongest argument in favor of reform is the hardest pain.

The sure thing about a woman's complexion is maybe it isn't so sure.

Every man has a chance some time to make money, but he has a chance all the time to lose it.

The reason a woman knows the baby is going to be a great man is his teeth came in just like all babies.

The Weather.

Never mind the weather, when it's raining, raining down,
There's sunshine in some valley if there isn't much in town;
The far-off hills are dreaming in a world of azure sky,
And down the dimpled dingle violet forms are dancing by.
Raining dark and dreary,
And the hearts of all so weary,
But never mind, my dearie,
The clouds will part tomorrow and the heavens cease to frown.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

The real estate men were in high feather last night. They made the St. Louis lobby seem like "boom" times, with excellent reason. There was a boom, sure enough. There was not much of anything talked about but the sale of the Fifth division of West Duluth, which had realized the West Duluth Land company the neat sum of $148,000. All the lots on Grand avenue were sold yesterday, and last night these lots had advanced from $200 to $300 over the price paid to the land company. The heaviest purchasers, who got large blocks of lots, will hold on for about $100 per front foot for choice locations.

The Vermilion Pine, Iron & Land company will do a great deal of exploring on its lands near Tower and Ely during the present season. The land embraces 1.7600 acres. Among the Michigan iron men in the company are C. H. Wail and C. Merryweather of Ishpeming, Mich.; James F. Foley and Capt. Sam Mitchell of Negaunee and Capt. John Duncan of Ishpeming.

It is reported that Dr. W. M. Hutchinson and brother, who have had medical charge at the Minnesota Iron company's mines, will resign in a short time and move elsewhere.

Dr. Vespasian Smith has sold his lot and business property on West Michigan street for $12,000 cash.

The city of St. Paul entertained the members of the legislature at the biennial banquet last night. There were about 600 guests seated in the Merchants' hotel dining room. Hon. Albert Scheffer was toastmaster, and speeches were delivered by Governor Merriam, Mayor Smith, Senator Goodrich, Representative Brush, Eugene Hay, Alderman Sanborn, Judge Kerr, William Pitt Murray and Senator A. J. Whiteman, but there was so much noise and confusion that few heard the speeches.

At a meeting of the Duluth Bar association yesterday Thomas J. Davis was elected president, J. H. Brigham treasurer and Alfred Jaques secretary. Messrs. Billson, Edson and Davis were appointed a committee to look up a library location.

The officers of the Clan Cameron at Superior were installed last night by Deputy Chief Gordon of Duluth as follows: Alex McEachern, chief; R. L. Hunter, tanist; William Michie, chaplain; R. Campbell and G. T. Ogilvie, secretaries; A. W. McRae, treasurer; senior henchman, William Ogilvie; junior henchman, Alex Ferrier.

The Lake Superior Railway company has been formed, with a capital stock of $100,000. The incorporators are Joseph Sellwood, James B. Geggie, James T. Hale, T. J. Davis and J. P. Morrow, all of Duluth. The company proposes to build a terminal road along Minnesota Point connecting with Superior in that direction.

Miss A. L. Bloomer has been appointed deputy clerk of the district court.

E. V. Swetting, an attorney of Estherville, Iowa, is at the St. Louis and is talking of locating in Duluth.

THE TONNAGE TAX.

La Porte News: A bill has been introduced in the Minnesota legislature, that if it becomes a law, would limit the the number of state senators to fifteen, the house of representatives to the number of thirty; the body to sit in continuous session, and they to receive a yearly compensation of $3,000 and $2,500 respectively. There is one feature of this bill that should appeal to the advocates of the tonnage tax bill, for it would give them an opportunity to put a special tax on any Northern Minnesota product, at any old time, without waiting for two long years (?).

Verndale Sun: The tonnage tax bill, which is now up to the senate, will hold the boards for a few days, but it hardly seems possible that the higher branch will vote to give the iron country a black eye.

Iron Trade Journal: No doubt in time the farmers in the southern part of the state will get it through their heads that their efforts to foist a pernicious tax on this section is a blow at the goose that lays the golden egg. At the present time Northern Minnesota is a big buyer of Southern Minnesota's products. If the south wants this condition to continue, let them not kill our ability to buy, neither ask to have the products of this section put under a special tax, while their own go free.

Paynesville Press: If an increased revenue from other sources decreased the amount of taxes of the people this paper is interested in, then we should certainly favor the tonnage tax bill, but in view of the fact that past experience has demonstrated that increased revenue breeds additional extravagance in the administration of the state's affairs, we are inclined to sympathize with the people of Duluth and the range towns against the proposed law.

Big Fork Compass: The tonnage tax agitators should remember that there once was a stamp tax that created our nation. Mr. Bjorge, Be-George, may play the George Three until a Northern Minnesota state is born, pledged to keep its mine and timber revenues at home.

Two Harbors Iron News: The state senate will vote on the tonnage tax proposition Monday, and here's hoping that the members will have sense enough to kill it. It is always an unsafe policy to hamper an industry in order to raise revenue.

North Branch Review: Duluth and iron range people are hoping Governor Johnson will get the veto habit and continue it until the tonnage tax measure is disposed of by him, if the senate fails to stop its course.

An All Fool's Jest.

Chicago Post: In Pittsburg they seem to have celebrated April Fools' day with a frankness that is a bit disturbing.

In big headlines an afternoon paper announced: "Japanese Invade America on April 1; destroy fleet, capture cities, slay inhabitants and make April 1 an awful day in history." The terrible news was accepted with hesitancy, but a second bulletin said: "Roosevelt is hurrying back; seizes the Hamburg, deposes captain and turns prow homeward." This was enough. Everybody figured out that it was exactly what Roosevelt would do in such a crisis, and the story spread like wildfire. Not until the reiteration of the words "April 1" was noted was the hoax generally realized.

There may have been humor in the episode, yet we should think that Pittsburg would resent it. For an April Fools' joke of this kind is extremely like the ancient, but unpopular jest of crying "fire" in a crowded theater.

The Two Dromios at Norfolk.

Detroit Free Press: Is the "Mark Twain corporation" to be witless as well as soulless?

Does the press agent of the syndicate expect the American people to laugh over the exploit in Virginia when Mr. Clemens personated his friend, H. H. Rogers, and made a speech for him? This comedy of the two Dromios has possibilities. Half a column was sent over the wires about the episode. There isn't a laugh in a barrel of it.

Think of the sport Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn would have had with the happening! How Pudd'nhead Wilson's turn for analysis and epigram would have utilized it! Even the innocent, old, muddleheaded Sellers would have extracted fun out of such a situation.

If this is a sample of the output to be expected from "Mark Twain, limited," the sooner that company goes into the hands of a receiver and distributes its assets among the original holders, the better the American public will be pleased. Two generations have laughed over the bubbling humor of this man. Must the third wonder what kind of a sense of fun their forefathers possessed?

The Rogers personation and the Calaverass jumping frog! Alas for time's changes!

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Forgers frequently give banks a bad name.

Many an artist's model wouldn't make a model wife.

Anyway, if a man is in debt it proves that he once had credit.

Women distrust men too much in general and not enough in particular.

A noise like ready money will wake a man up when an alarm clock fails.

People who find life an empty dream frequently make it a howling nightmare for others.

The hotel clerk knows nearly all that is worth knowing, but he doesn't know why a woman persists in asking what the time the 2 o'clock train leaves.

If Not One Thing It Is Another.

London Health: The ideal man does not exist; perhaps one who has a fine liver has a bunion, and in the most of us there is a screw loose somewhere.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Life: "Pat, did you bring back my umbrella?"

"No, sorr. Whin I coome imptyhanded, I'll bring it."

Cleveland Leader: "Why do you tell me all your troubles?"

"Misery loves company."

"But company doesn't love misery. For heaven's sake, cut it out!"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "She talks very learnedly on art. Is she an expert critic?"

"No. She's an expert talker."

Cleveland Leader: "I don't suppose you have a dollar you want to lend me?"

"Your insight does you credit. How did you guess?"

Life: Drill Instructor Casey—Now, min, you will take one stip to the rare, thin one to the front, thin one to the rare again, an' yez'll be as yez were before yez were as yez are now!

Washington Star: "What do you think ought to be done with the tariff?"

"I'm not expressing my opinion," answered Senator Sorghum.

"My expressions on the subject will be confined to congratulations for my constituents whom revision may benefit and condolence for those who get left."

Punch: "So this is your famous Rembrandt, eh? Very fine; but I see it is signed 'Rachel.'"

"Dot is on account of mein greditors. Everyding was in mein wife's name."

Judge: White—Why are you so anxious to lend that friend a dollar whenever he asks it? He only spends the money in drinks and cigars.

Black—Oh, he always pays it back!

White—But there must be some other reason for your ready generosity.

Black—Well, there is. He always spends half the money on me.

Chicago Daily News: Magistrate—You are charged with stealing a valuable rug. What have you to say for yourself?

Hobo—I ain't guilty, jedge.

Magistrate—But the rug was found in your possession.

Hobo—Dat's all right. I asked de woman for a handout, jedge, an' she handed me de rug an' told me t' "beat it."

Draw on St. Louis and Itasca.

Princeton Union: Tuesday's St. Paul Dispatch had a clever cartoon, representing a granger-looking legislator, with a derby hat cocked jauntily on the side of his head, extending his hand to a buxom damsel, wearing a skirt labeled "Total Appropriations Bills, $18,000,000," to assist her into a boat, the side and stern of which bore this inscription, "Available Revenues for 1909 and 1910, $12,000,000." The query is, where is the $6,000,000 coming from? That is dead easy. The legislature should authorize and direct the state auditor to draw on the treasurers of St. Louis and Itasca counties for any amount necessary to make up the deficit, whether it is six or ten million dollars, and collection of the auditor's drafts should be enforced at the point of the bayonet if necessary. Those hewers of wood and delvers in the mines of St. Louis and Itasca counties should feel flattered at being afforded an opportunity of supporting the state government. Aitkin and Crow Wing counties will be drawn upon later when it is no longer possible for St. Louis and Itasca to honor the drafts.

Foolish Forgetfulness.

He always slept out on the porch, so that he might breathe germless air;
He kept from eating starchy stuff and lived upon the plainest fare;
He wore hygienic underclothes; to please his wife he scorned cigars,
And never would consent to ride in poorly ventilated cars.

He never guzzled any kind of stuff containing alcohol;
He had no taste for cigarettes and never used the things at all;
He never jumped on moving trains
nor monkeyed with a rusty gun,
He never ran such risks as nine men out of ten men daily run.

He walked according to a rule that experts had agreed upon,
And in accordance with a rule he'd read somewhere his breath was drawn;
But he is lying 'neath the sod; it seems that he somehow forgot
That falling in a well at night will kill a man as like as not.

petroleum or any person or corporation engaged in selling or in any manner disposing of stocks or shares of the same before offering for sale or selling or permitting to be sold or in any manner dealing in or hypothecating such capital stock or any stock or shares therein in this state" must incorporate the company file with the secretary of state a certified copy of its articles of incorporation or by-laws and also abstracts of title continued to the date of filing and containing tax and judgment certificates, covering all real estate, mining or other claims owned by it There must also be a sworn statement covering certain points, including a complete list of officers and directors, with their salaries, number of shares of stock held by each, and the amount received by the company for such shares; complete list of names and addresses of the stockholders of the company, the number of shares held by each the par value of each share the amount received by the company for such shares, and the amount due thereon, complete list of promoters with the number of shares of promoters' stock held by each, with the amount received by the company for such shares and the amount due thereon, an itemized statement of all the assets of the company, showing the value of such property in itemized form; itemized statement of all liabilities with rate of interest on loans; cash receipts and expenditures for a period of not over one year next preceding the date for which the statement is rendered.

Every person, company or corporation in any manner disposing of shares of stock, must file such statements twice a year, or be deemed guilty of a gross misdemeanor, and in addition thereto liable to the person purchasing stock for double the amount of the purchase price.

All of which might have been very good so far as wildcat mining companies are concerned, but the debate showed that it would have other results.

Representative Grant of Duluth, in moving the indefinite postponement of the bill, led the debate against it. He admitted that the object of the bill was good, and that in seeking to protect suckers its author was trying to do the public a good turn. But the trouble is that it catches legitimate stocks and owners of legitimate stocks. It would mean that a Minnesota owner of stocks in any good mining corporation could not sell unless he could induce the corporation to file the statement required, and as all such companies have sold all their stocks, they could not be expected to make such statements. He showed that Duluth, by hard work, had made itself a mining center, and that many legitimate companies had been led to make their headquarters there, the result being much business and the deposit of considerable money with the local banks. The enactment of such a law could hardly fail to drive such companies out of the state.

Representative W. D. Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis, pointed out that under the proposed bill it would not be possible to sell a share of Standard Oil stock in this state unless the oil trust was willing to file the required statement, with an abstract of all its properties, and this he knew it wouldn't do.

Representative Congdon of Duluth said that the bill meant that no man who owns stock in any mining or oil company can sell it in Minnesota. He agreed with Mr. Washburn that it would not be possible to sell a share of Standard Oil stock in this state unless the company would file the required statement, and this everybody knew it would not do. The bill strikes at brokers who make a living dealing in stocks, whether these stocks are good, bad or indifferent. It would not be proper to stop business because somebody had been skinned in it. "I have a pair of horses in my stable on which I was most beautifully skinned," said Mr. Congdon, "but I wouldn't approve of a law stopping horse trading."

Representative Stuart of Windom pointed out that under the law proposed, an administrator of an estate, required to convert the property into cash forthwith, would not be able to sell the stocks of legitimate corporations.

Mr. Grant's motion to indefinitely postpone was carried, 49 to 31, and the bill was killed.

A member of the third house has issued the following romance dealing with a house member and a house stenographer from Northern Minnesota, in which there is quite as much truth as there is poetry.

"The legislative columns of the house journal and the newspapers have been all together taken up with discussions of the various measures that have come before each body of the legislature, but it does not follow from that fact that things are not happening which are being unobserved by the members and employes of the house. One of the most interesting little romances which has been pulled off in the state house, is about to reach its climax and happy ending. The parties thereto are both well liked by the members and employes of the house.

"The hero is a bachelor of very prominent social, political and professional standing in his particular community. He has gained more or less notoriety or near fame during the two sessions that he has served his constituents as a member of the Minnesota legislature. His picture has appeared in the leading newspapers of the state. He is a champion of the people and fights the battles for the down trodden, continually. He has the reputation of being one of the best looking, well dressed and social leaders of the house. While performing his legislative duties, Dan Cupid entered upon the political horizon and in all his wisdom arranged an accidental circumstance which brought this brave hero in contact with the fair damsel, whose home happens to be not in St. Paul. Her name appears in the Legislative Manual as one of the house stenographers. She is an ideal girl, a perfect lady, nice looking and accomplished.

"Any one who has occasion to visit the house or loaf about the corridors has doubtless seen this pair meet at the cigar store in the postoffice and meander off to one of the numerous nooks or crooks of the marble palace, with a box of candy. The members of the house and the employes have whispered among themselves about the possible results of this pretty little romance. The principals may be seen dining at one of the up-to-date cafes or attending the theater most any evening. It is also rumored that they have attended the Gypsy Smith meetings, and the game is being watched with considerable pleasure and anxiety by the friends of the principals. To those on the inside it seems a foregone conclusion that shortly after the close of the legislature the couple will undoubtedly take an extended trip to Old Mexico on their honeymoon."

ONTARIO TAKES ACTION.

Sets Apart Million Acres at Rainy River for Game Preserve.

Toronto, Ont., April 13.—An order in council has been passed by the Ontario government, setting apart 1,000,000 acres of land extending westerly from the east boundary of the Rainy River district, including Hunters' island, and contiguous to the international boundary, as a forest reserve. The land is adjacent to a track which has been set apart by the state of Minnesota for a similar purpose, and the minister of public works has agreed to make it a game preserve, and co-operate with officials of the province and those of the state of Minnesota. To W. A. Preston of Rainy River is due credit for placing the matter before the government and arranging for a workable plan with the United States officials.

HAD NOT ENJOYED A MEAL IN YEARS

Arkansas Farmer Follows Advice of Cooper, and Gains Fifteen Pounds in Few Weeks.

A. D. Henry, a prominent farmer living on Rural Route No. 5, Jonesboro, Ark., in a statement given for publication, tells a story that makes interesting reading for persons who suffer from stomach trouble. Mr. Henry says:

"For six years I was a chronic sufferer from stomach trouble. In all that time I did not eat a meal to enjoy it. No matter what I ate it caused pain and distress. Food laid in a hard lump upon my stomach. I lost in flesh and strength, and was unable to find relief. I suffered night and day—was robbed of my sleep and rest, and arose in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. I was completely run down, and derived no benefit from any medicine I took.

"One day while in town my druggist recommended Cooper's New Discovery. I had noticed several articles in the newspapers regarding this man Cooper's work in the larger cities, and decided to give his medicine a trial. Its effect surprised me. Before I had taken all of the first bottle I felt wonderfully improved. The pain and distress had left me, my appetite was good, my bowels were moving regularly and naturally, and I began to sleep soundly at night.

"I continued the treatment, taking several more bottles, and in six weeks' time I felt like a new man, fully restored to health and strength. I gained fifteen pounds while taking the Cooper medicine. I cannot say enough in praise of Cooper's New Discovery—it brought new life to me."

The theory of L. T. Cooper is based upon common-sense reasoning. When asked recently why his medicine is so successful, he replied: "My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion. I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that are so common now-a-days have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape, and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this."

Cooper's New Discovery is a boon to stomach sufferers. It is sold by all druggists everywhere. A sample bottle mailed free upon request by addressing The Cooper Medicine company, Dayton, Ohio.

CASES OF INTEREST

VALIDITY OF COMMON-LAW ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.—The federal bankruptcy act suspended the Illinois statute in reference to voluntary assignments for the benefit of creditors. In Pogue vs. Rowe 86 Northeastern Reporter 207, it appeared that Clausen had made a common-law assignment of his stock of merchandise to Pogue. Another of Clausen's creditors, having secured a judgment against him, had a constable levy on the merchandise in Pogue's possession. Pogue retook the goods under a writ of replevin. The supreme court of Illinois held that a common-law assignment for the benefit of creditors, is valid as far as the statutes of the state are concerned, and that Pogue was entitled to the goods.

LIABILITY OF RABID DOG'S OWNER.—A dog afflicted with rabies bit a cow, causing her demise. The cow's owner sued the dog's owner for the value of the bitten animal. In Van Etten vs. Noyes, 112 New York Supplement, 888, the supreme court of New York held that as no evidence was advanced to show the owner's knowledge of the dog's vicious disposition no recovery could be had. While it is true that the owner of domestic animals, such as cattle, is generally liable for the entry of his animals upon the land of another, the owner of a dog is not liable in trespass every time it goes upon another's premises. Injury from the bite of a rabid dog must be classed with those forms of inevitable accidents which the law always leaves where they chance to fall, because, as no one was in default, there is no basis for assessment of damages against any one.

SECOND TRIAL IN EMINENT DOMAIN AS SUBVERSIVE OF JUSTICE.—A municipality instituted condemnation proceedings against a railroad corporation to enable it to extend an avenue across the right of way. The judgment for the railway was so large that the proceeding was abandoned by the municipality. Shortly therafter it sought to extend another avenue just six inches south of the first one across the same track and to have damages adjudicated by the court. In Northern Pacific Railway company, et al, vs. City of Georgetown, 97 Pacific Reporter, 659, the supreme court of Washington held that to permit the second trial would not only be subversive of justice, but would be making a farce of judicial proceedings, by allowing a litigant to play hide and seek with the judgment of a court by accepting such judgment if it suited him, by rejecting it if it did not, and commencing another action involving the same issues, and so on ad infinitum, until he was satisfied with the result.

RIGHT OF ACCUSED TO BE PRESENT AT RENDITION OF VERDICT.—During his trial for a capital offense accused was on bail. When the jury brought in its verdict of manslaughter he was out in the country for the night. In Sherrod vs. State, 47 Southern Reporter, 554, the supreme court of Mississippi held that wherever the charge is capital the defendant cannot waive his right to be present, and whether he be in jail, subject to the power of the court to produce him, or on bond, it is fatal error to receive the verdict in his absence. This, although not a constitutional right, is one secured by statute and the common law. The conviction of manslaughter having been reversed, accused was discharged, as any further prosecution would have resulted in placing him twice in jeopardy for the same offense.

ENJOINING RAILROAD RATES.—In Virginia a state corporation commission was established with the power to prescribe rates upon a hearing. An appeal to the supreme court of appeals is given to any party aggrieved. Without seeking the prescribed review, the railroads sought to enjoin the enforcement of passenger rates in the United States circuit court. In Prentis vs. Atlantic Coast Line Company, 29 Supreme Court Reporter, 67, the United States supreme court regards the action as premature. The state of Virginia, it points out, has endeavored to impose the highest safeguards possible upon the exercise of the great power given to the commission not only by the character of its members, but by making its decisions dependent upon the assent of the same historic body that is intrusted with the preservation of the most valuable constitutional rights, if the railroads see fit to appeal. It seems only a great recognition of the solicitude with which their rights have been guarded, that they should make sure that the state, in its final legislative action would not respect what they think their rights to be, before resorting to the courts of the United States.

WAIVER OF EXEMPTIONS BY BANKRUPT.—The Georgia constitution forbids the waiver by a debtor of the right of exemption to wearing apparel and $300 worth of household and kitchen furniture and provisions. In Citizens' Bank vs. Hargraves, 164 Federal Reporter, 613, petitioner had offered four mules as security for a loan from the bank which at maturity was not repaid. By consent of all parties the mules were sold free of all liens for $468. Thereafter petitioner claimed an exemption of $300 from the proceeds of the sale. From the quandary as to whether those mules were wearing apparel, household or kitchen furniture, the United States circuit court of appeals delivers us by deciding that the exemption is confined to specific articles, and that petitioner, having waived his right to property without the exception, cannot reclaim it.

BURNING OF DWELLING HOUSE OF WIFE BY HUSBAND.—The common-law offense of arson, which is much like that of Wisconsin, consists of feloniously burning the dwelling house of another. The domicile of accused having suffered a great dearth of domestic tranquillity, his wife began a divorce action, secured a deed from him to the house, and dwelt alone therein. Thereafter he applied a brand to the structure. In Kopcyznski vs. State, 118 Northwestern Reporter, 863, it is held that a husband, living with his wife in a dwelling house which she owns and they both occupy, is not capable of committing the crime of arson by burning it. The supreme court of Wisconsin adds, however, that a married man can commit the crime by burning the home of his wife with whom he is not living and from which he had been excluded, or excluded himself, and the question of in whom the title to the property rests is immaterial.

NECESSITY OF SAVING HUMAN LIFE EXCUSES TRESPASS.—While plaintiff, with his wife and small children, was on Lake Champlain in a loaded sloop, a violent storm arose. Desiring to escape the hazard of the open water, plaintiff moored his boat to defendant's dock. Thereupon defendant's servant cast the boat off. It was caught in the tempest and driven ashore. The occupants were thrown into the water or onto the shore and injured. The cargo was lost. The supreme court of Vermont in Ploof vs. Putnam, 71 Atlantic Reporter, 188, decided that even had the act of mooring the boat been a trespass, it was the duty of defendant to refrain from casting it off until the fury of the gale had abated, as the preservation of human life was of paramount importance.

ACTIONS UNDER FOREIGN STATUTES.—The New Jersey statute provides that when a bond and mortgage are given for the same debt, an action may be brought on the bond the creditor shall open the foreclosure for any deficiency, and judgment for the creditor shall open the foreclosude entitling the mortgagor to sue within six months to redeem. Parties to a bond and mortgage on real property in New Jersey were residents of that state. The assignee of the bond brought an action in New York to recover an amount remaining due thereon. The court characterized this as an action to enforce a common-law obligation, transitory, and maintainable outside the state where the contract was made. The provisions of the New Jersey statute, however, were a part of the contract, and regulated the manner of performance. It was claimed that to allow a recovery on the bond would work injustice because the defendant would be compelled to pay the deficiency arising on the mortgage sale, and would be deprived of the right to redeem the mortgaged property. The New York court of appeals, in Hutchinson vs. Ward, 85 Northeastern Reporter, 390, concluded that such a recovery would open the foreclosure sale permitting the judgment debtor to redeem the property, and held that such a suit was maintainable in New York.

IS HARNESSED HORSE RUNNING AT LARGE?—While two horses, unhitched and unattended, but attached to a wagon, were standing near the curb consuming their mid-day meal, one of them resented the proximity of plaintiff and bit him. On the ground that the horses were running at large, the master, in the lower court, was held liable for their misdeeds. In Corcoran vs. Kelly, 113 New York Supplement, 686, the supreme court of New York remarked that there was a wide difference between a horse permitted to roam at large and a work horse hitched to a wagon on the street eating his oats. Negligence cannot be predicated on the mere leaving of a horse unattended in the street while it lunches at noon. Moreover, the viciousness of the animal, and not the absence of surveillance, was the proximate cause of the accident. Previous propensity of the horse to bite must have been proved by the plaintiff to permit a recovery by him.

EXHUMATION OF DEAD BODY TO ESTABLISH CONTROVERTED FACT.—In Gray vs. State, 114 Southwestern Reporter, 635, it appeared that Gray and another man had engaged in an altercation which resulted in the death of the latter. The state contended that Gray shot from behind, while he insisted he had shot in self-defense while deceased was advancing upon him with a drawn knife. There was a ragged bullet hole in the breast of deceased, which accused declared marked the entrance of the bullet, but which the state asserted indicated its exit. To settle this question, accused endeavored to have the body exhumed and examined. If the bullet was in the body the defense would be greatly strengthened, and if it had passed through the evidence would be advantageous to the state. The court of criminal appeals of Texas decided that every consideration of respect for the dead would suggest that the pathetic dust of the deceased should remain undisturbed, unless justice required a disinterment, but in this case the examination was considered necessary for the protection of appellant.

NOTICE OF DEFECT IN STREET.—The charter of a municipality provided that it would not be liable for injuries received through defects in its streets, unless a notice of such defect were given ten days before the injury. It would seem that the unfortunate, to recover, would have to anticipate his injury in order to notify the city in time. The supreme court of Minnesota, however, in Schigley vs City of Waseca, 118 Northwestern Reporter, 259, declared that provision entirely proper. It concluded that it is clear that the legislature may grant or deny to individuals a right of action against municipal corporations for injuries resulting from the negligent manner in which streets and highways are maintained. Having this power, it may grant the right of action upon any conditions which it chooses to prescribe.

MUNICIPAL REGULATION OF ELECTIONS.—The regulation of elections within the charter of Haverhill was assailed in Graham vs Roberts, 85 Northeastern Reporter, 1009. It provides for a preliminary election for nominations for office, prohibits the use on the official ballot of the name of a candidate named by nomination papers or by caucus, forbids the use of a statement of the candidate's party, and requires that twenty-five voters shall request that a candidate's name be put on the ballot before it shall be placed there. While the supreme court of Massachusetts declared this radical departure from the general methods of municipal government, and doubted that the people who adopted it would be satisfied with it, yet it held that it was a valid regulation of the election of municipal officers.

NEWBY IS VERY MUCH ALARMED

Over Danger to the Gold in the Bank of England.

London, April 13.—Mr. Newby, the gentleman who attended the general court of the proprietors of the Bank of England on Thursday, and asked as to the securities of the $40,000,000 of gold in coin and ingots in the bank vaults from attack by airships, is a Billingsgate ice merchant in an important way of business and a familiar figure at company meetings in the city. He was at work in his office near Eastcheap yesterday, when a press representative called to obtain some further light on his concern, as to the vulnerability to attack by airships of the national gold reserve in the vaults of the bank.

"It is an important, a very important matter," said Mr. Newby. "You will have observed that I put a question to the governor of the bank, which he was obliged to admit he was unable to answer. He said it was a hypothetical question, whatever that may mean. It was not, Mr. Newby said, his business to suggest how the danger from airships should be met. You know the Bank of England people. They are so wrapped up in themselves that they would not accept any suggestion from anybody. But if I were asked to suggest a means of defense, I should say, sand. Bags of sand piled up over the vaults would be invulnerable to any bomb that could be discharged against them. Sand, or perhaps, wool. Wool, also, is very good, I am told. It is not my business to know which is best, but I should be inclined to favor sand.

"And where would you have the sand bags placed—on the roof of the bank?"

"Certainly not. On the ground above the vaults. You cannot take too many precautions. And there is another source of danger that is unsuspected. I do not know whether you are a woman suffragist. No? Well, neither am I. But there are great numbers of women in the bank. It is full of women. Very few people know that. Every married man knows that there never was a woman born who could keep a secret from her husband or her lover. But there are in the bank women." And Mr. Newby shook his head very gravely indeed.

ORIENTAL COMMERCE

And the Share Which the United States Has In It.

Amounts in Value to More Than $4,000,000,000 Per Annum.

Washington, April 13.—Oriental commerce amounts in value to more than $4,000,000,000 per annum.

This statement is the result of calculations recently made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. It classes as "Oriental commerce" the imports and exports of all countries having a population wholly or chiefly Oriental in habits of life, whether through nativity, descent, or other influences which determine the customs of the people. The area occupied by people of Oriental habit of life as to dress, food, household requirements, methods of transportation, etc., stretches, therefore, from Japan and Asiatic Russia at the northeast to Morocco in North Africa at the southwest, and includes Asia, Turkey in Europe and all that part of North Africa occupied chiefly by people of Oriental habits, the total number of people within this area being 933,000,000, or considerably more than one-half the population of the world.

The imports of this "commercial Orient," according to the latest figures available to the bureau of statistics, amount to $2,150,000,000, and the exports $2,033,000,000. Of these imports of $2,150,000,00, 5 per cent are taken from the United States; of the exports of $2,033,000,000, 10 per cent are sent to the United States.

India is the largest importer and exporter among the thirty countries, colonies and protectorates included within this section which the bureau of statistics designates the commercial Orient; its imports in the latest year for which figures are available, amounting to $143,000,000, of which 2.4 per cent were taken from the United States; its exports, $563,000,000, of which 7.8 per cent were sent to the United States. China occupies the next rank as a commercial nation in the area under consideration, its imports amounting to $342,000,000, of which 8.6 per cent were from the United States; its exports, $211,000,000, of which 10.1 per cent were sent to the United States. Japan's importations, in the latest available year, were $217,000,000, of which 17.8 per cent were from the United States, and her exports, $188,000,000, of which 32.3 per cent were sent to the United States. Straits Settlements, of which Singapore is the port and commercial entrepot, shows imports of $199,000,000, of which 1 per cent were from the United States, and exports of $173,000,000, of which 9.3 per cent were sent to the United States.

The British colony of Hongkong, located on an island just off the coast of China and a distributing point for Oriental commerce, makes no statistical records of merchandise entering and leaving its port, but a calculation of the merchandise sent from the various countries of the world thereto and received by the various countries of the world therefrom indicates that its receipts of merchandise in the latest available year were about $180,000,000, of which 4.9 per cent were from the United States; and its shipments, $163,000,000 of which 1.3 per cent were to the United States. Turkey in Asia and Europe shows imports of $133,000,000, of which 0.7 per cent were from the United States; and exports of $83,000,000, of which 1.3 per cent were to the United States. Egypt shows imports of $129,000,000, of which 2.2 per cent were from the United States; and exports of $138,000,000, of which 7.5 per cent were to the United States. The Dutch East Indies shows imports of $88,000,000, of which 1.6 per cent were from the United States; and exports of $131,000,000, of which 5.1 per cent were to the United States. The Philippine Islands show imports of $31,000,000, of which 16.4 per cent were from the United States; and exports of $33,000,000, of which 31.5 per cent were to the United States.

About one-third of the imports and exports by those countries having an Oriental population is inter-Oriental—imports from or Exports to other Oriental countries. India supplies raw cotton to Japan, and cotton yarns and opium to China. Rice is sent from Burma, Siam, and French Indo-China to Japan, the Philippine Islands and certain parts of China. Japan supplies cotton goods and certain other manufactures to China. The Dutch East Indies supply sugar to China, Japan, and other sections of the Orient.

About two-thirds of the imports and exports of the countries in question is trade with non-Oriental countries, chiefly Europe and America. Of the total imports, amounting to $2,150,000,000, the bureau of statistics calculates that about $1,500,000,000 is from Occidental countries, chiefly Europe and the United States. Of this grand total of $1,500,000,000 worth of imports from the Occident, cotton goods form, by far, the largest single item.

The total value of cotton goods imported into all the countries forming the area designated by the bureau of statistics as the "commercial Orient" was, in the latest available year, over $400,000,000, of which approximately 1 per cent was manufactured in the United States, and practically all of the remainder in Europe.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS BOOMED

Senator Carter Addresses the Utica Chamber of Commerce.

Utica, N. Y., April 13.—"Our Country," was the subject of a stirring address by Vice President James S. Sherman, at the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce in this city. "Ambition," he added, "is inspired by opportunity. Ambition and opportunity have inspired and developed genius. Genius has produced invention. Invention has enlarged opportunity and increased by bounds American production, American wealth and American power."

The advantages of postal savings banks were told by Senator Carter in a most attractive manner. A sound business relation, he said, never can be maintained with reckless or improvident people. He who spends all, he added, and saves nothing, betrays himself and those dependent upon him from the beginning, and in the end he will cheat somebody and blame everybody.

Representative Cushman of Washington spoke on "A Layman's Picture of the Panama Canal," describing the enterprise as one that touches the nation's prosperity and makes for its prestige. He sought to dispel certain ideas which have been advanced as to the scope and plan of the canal.

RECKLESS MOTORDOM

New York Forms Vigilance Committee for Motor Maniacs.

Will Catch and Prosecute All Violating Speed Laws.

New York, April 13.—For the first time in history the people of this city are today beginning a real struggle to tear off the yoke with which the motor maniacs have always harnessed and driven them. Roused at last by the death toll that a score of child victims have paid to the Moloch of reckless motordom within the last few months, a vigilance committee is just taking up with an iron hand the traffic outrages of the incessant joyriders. In as stern a spirit as ever actuated a sheriff's posse after outlaws, this body of leading New Yorkers is preparing to catch, prosecute and send to prison any and every man who disregards with his automobile the law of life in the thoroughfares of this town. Many a millionaire is today deep in the black books of these crusaders, and one fresh offense from their high-power cars is regarded as sufficient warrant for criminal prosecution. For years the autos of the speed maniacs here have strewn the streets with their murdered and maimed, while the police seemed paralyzed. With the better element of automobilists and all the people arrayed today behind this movement, public safety and sanity appears in a fair way to be restored.

Memorial To Martyr.

Before the flowers fade over the grave of brave Joe Petrosino, some perpetual memorial to this martyr in the city's service will be reared by the hundreds of thousands of people from every class who are today agitating such a movement. From the whitest whiskered magnate of Wall street down to the most grimy bootblack, every inhabitant of this cosmopolitan island is eager to pay tribute to the lion-hearted detective, whose funeral has touched deeply every heart. No one is ready to let the lesson of Petrosino's faithfulness unto death go unrecalled to future generations, and any plan to commemorate it by some substantial monument will enlist all New York in its support. It will be many a long year before New Yorkers forget the man whose remains the whole town has turned out to honor.

Women Workers.

Not since the revelations of the "red light" crusade have the women of Gotham been so aroused as they are today over the Payne proposal to tax by higher tariff every family in the land for the cotton stockings that every one must keep buying. Mass meetings, to which thousands of working girls flock, are being conducted by leading club women on almost every evening in all parts of the island. While the fathers of the families of this metropolis are joining labor and trade organizations in protest against raising a duty to create a trust in this every day necessity, the housewives are humming their indignation at a thousand and one gatherings of their sex. On the proposition to give to a favored few the power to charge trust prices to the poorer women and children of the land New Yorkers are speaking with no uncertain voice.

Spanning Space.

Scores of the human spiders who have manned the steel skeleton of the rising Manhattan bridge, are today celebrating the final strokes which have just brought the tips of the spans from either shore to touch together, hundreds of feet above midstream of the East river. Less than a year ago the first wire strand was cast from top to top of the huge towers that face each other only a few blocks above the line of the veteran Brooklyn bridge. Day by day the supporting cables were woven and, beam by beam, their pendant spans of steel advanced from both sides out over the water. Today, the immense metal projections have met, true to the sixteenth of an inch, and been rivetted into one complete arch from shore to shore. Within the year it is hoped to lay open this latest bridge giant and make one more stretch of dry land over the face of the river.

Famished Fans.

With their brown and hearty band of ball players just returned from the South, New Yorkers are today on edge for the opening battle of the long league campaign for the championship. While there has been some food for the fans in the reports of the training trip which is now ended, an army of baseball rooters are hungry for the sight and sound of the national sport which has been denied them through a cruel, cold winter. The first crack from the Giants' bat will start an eager uproar all over the town that will not down until this year's championship is won or lost for Gotham.

HEIR TO BIG ESTATE.

London, April 13.—The wife of a coachman in Polmont, Falkirk, has been the lucky recipient of news proving her claim to a big share in an estate of an uncle, who left that town forty years ago for the United States. Since his departure, the woman had lost trace of him, and it was by the merest accident that she received the news that he had died intestate and had left an estate to the value of a quarter of a million sterling. Her relative remarried before he turned westward to seek his fortune. He went into farming and in time acquired tracts of land which increased rapidly in value. The Falkirk woman has one child to thank for her becoming aware of her good fortune. The child was reading a newspaper, and noticed an advertisement asking for heirs for a quarter of a million. She asked her mother how much a quarter of a million was, and the mother, on taking up the newspaper, saw, to her amazement, that the matter actually referred to her long lost uncle. This romance, unlike many American stories of wealth passing to humble people, has truth to commend it.

FITGER BREWING CO., Duluth, Minn.

THE MINNESOTA SUPREME COURT SAYS:—

"It is a matter of common knowledge that blind pigs are relatively more numerous and far more pernicious in prohibition districts than they are in licensed districts."

ACTION IS POSTPONED

The Council Disappoints Crowd Interested in Meier Saloon License.

Twentieth Avenue East Ordered Paved With Tar Macadam.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Postponed action on Meier saloon license one week.

Decided on tar macadam as paving material for Twentieth avenue east.

Gave first reading to ordinance amendment making it a misdemeanor for minors to enter saloons and for bartenders to allow them to enter.

Received protest against opening saloon in the Clifton hotel on West First street, near Fourth avenue.

Raised hawking fee in reconsideration of peddlers' ordinance.

Referred to committee request of city engineer for additional funds for his office and for a subdivision of work in that department.

Ordered starting of condemnation proceedings for the extension of Railroad street to Garfield avenue.

Gave first reading ordinance prohibiting the piling of lumber near buildings.

Received request of Commissioner Patton for new small pox ambulance.

The expectation that action would be taken on the William Meier saloon license application last night, crowded the council room to the doors. Keen disappointment was expressed in many faces when the aldermen voted to postpone action on this matter for one week. One hundred or more people from Oneota, the district most directly interested, were on hand to voice a protest against granting the license. Many of them were women.

Three petitions, one favoring the granting of the license, and two opposing it, were read the aldermen. The two opposing contained 444 signatures, 240 of which were those of women, and the one favoring the application was signed by 406 persons. The petitions were referred to the police and license committee for investigation. With the reading of the Meier application, a motion was made that action in regard to it be postponed for one week, and the motion carried, 11 to 5.

A protest was also received against the granting of a saloon license to George Holmes, in the Clifton hotel on West First street, near Fourth avenue. The protest was signed by eighteen business men. The license application will not come up to be acted upon for another week.

There was some discussion in regard to the kind of paving material to use in improving Twentieth avenue east. This question has been before the council for the past two or three meetings. Last night it was decided in favor of tar macadam, only two aldermen, McKnight and Olson, voting against it.

Alderman McKnight has been claiming all along that tar macdam was too slippery a material for the hillside avenues, saying it was unsuited to heavy traffic on that account. He was backed up in this contention by a communication from City Engineer McGilvray, who strongly recommended sandstone blocks, saying that the extra expense entailed was well worth while, for the sandstone would not only make a better and more suitable pavement, but it would last twice as long as the other material.

Alderman Moore took exceptions to Mr. McGilvray's statements to the effect that the other avenues in that vicinity were unsuited to heavy traffic because paved with tar macadam. He said only four out of ten avenues nearest Twentieth were paved with tar macadam, and that the other were well suited to heavy traffic. He said only very light traffic would pass over Twentieth avenue, anyway, and that it was being paved for the sake of appearance as much as anything else. He pointed to the fact that the storm sewer to be laid this year along the avenue called for a heavy assessment against abutting property, and expressed the opinion that the paving assessments should be made as light as possible in consequence.

P. McDonnell is the lowest bidder for the work, and will be awarded the contract. His figures are in the neighborhood of $20,000.

Health Commissioner Patton asked the council for a new smallpox ambulance. He said if one wasn't secured, the city would have a damage suit on its hands. In his communication he said the present rig was constantly breaking down, and that on a trip to the pesthouse the driver had to keep stopping and making repairs. He cited one instance which came up last Saturday. While the team attached to the wagon was merrily trotting along the road, the front wheels suddenly became separated from the remainder of the conveyance, and the front end of the covered rig dropped to the ground with such a jolt that the smallpox-afflicted man inside was thrown out upon his head, greatly to his surprise and disgust. He swore until his jaws ached with the unwonted exercise. The communication was referred to the proper committee. The present ambulance was remodeled from a delivery cart about twelve years ago.

Alderman Shartel's ordinance making it a misdemeanor for minors to enter a saloon, and for the man or men in charge to allow them to enter, introduced at the suggestion of Mayor Haven, was given its first reading. A week ago the council adopted an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for a minor between the ages of 18 and 21 to try and buy a drink of intoxicants. When he signed the measure Mayor Haven did so with the understanding that an amendment would be introduced making it a misdemeanor for a minor to enter a saloon at all, except on business for his employer.

City Engineer McGilvray explained that because of expenditures made necessary this year through acts of a former administration, and through no fault of his own or the present administration, the fund for his department had been sorely taxed, and was now insufficient to last through the remainder of the year. He said he had $14,914 on hand for the ensuing nine months, and would need $1,779 more than that amount. He asks for this amount out of $2,700 unexpectedly left at the disposal of the city through the state apportionment of the mortgage tax fund. He also asks a sub-division of the work in his department, the work to be divided up under different heads, with a specific number of men to care for each department. His request was referred to the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks.

Upon recommendation of the committee on city buildings, the aldermen voted in favor of a rearrangement of the offices in the city hall, to occupy space made vacant by the removal of the municipal court to the new building adjoining the police station. The health commissioner and the city assessor will be placed on the Michigan street floor, formerly occupied by the municipal court rooms. The health commissioner's office will be moved to the first floor, and the building inspector will be moved from the Superior street floor to the floor above, into the office now occupied by the health commissioner's force of employes. The board of public works will use the present assessor's office for meeting purposes, and the old board room will be used by the council for committee room purposes.

Condemnation proceedings for the extension of Railroad street from Fifteenth avenue west to Garfield were ordered started.

The peddlers' ordinance was reconsidered and the fee for certain classes of street hawking was raised from $1 to $5 a day.

A protest of Third street residents occasioned by the poor lighting of Third street between Second avenue east and Lake avenue was referred to the committee on light and water. B. G. Segog's name headed the list of protestors.

The board of public works, in a communication, gently swatted the water and light department. At the last meeting of the council the board was directed, at the suggestion of Manager Case of the water and light department, to investigate the service pipes along Fourth street, and ascertain if they were in good condition before the new pavement is laid. The board came back last night by stating that the service pipes were none of the board's business, and that, as the water department had been told of the contemplated paving some time ago, it should have taken care of the work before. The board claims the water and light commissioners are three years late and that it is a serious oversight on their part to wait until paving operations are about to actually begin before bringing up the matter of the condition of the service pipes. The public works board says it has no funds for the testing work, and that the only way it sees to go about it is to dig down the pipes, a hard and expensive job.

FRENCHMEN TO BUILD RAILWAY

Capital Has Been Invested in a Big Oklahoma Project.

Paris, April 13.—For the first time in the history of internal finance an American railway is to be built by French investors and with French money. Moreover, out of a board of directors consisting of thirteen members, eight will be French and only five Americans. This huge project has just been put through by Senator S. M. Porter of Caney, Kan.

The road is the Cherryvale, Oklahoma & Texas railway. It is incorporated under the laws of Oklahoma and the capital of $20,000,000 has been subscribed in Paris. Active work on the road will begin within two months.

One fact that opened the eyes of French investors was that in the last twenty years all the railways in the United States have paid at least 3½ per cent on their stocks and bonds. French money is always seeking an outlet, but has grown suspicious of Russian and Turkish loans and similar investment. The Cherryvale, Oklahoma & Texas deal is likely to prove but the beginning of large investments of French money in the United States.

Another notable project already under way is for an entire new Western railway system, with all its branches, covering nearly 3,000 miles of track. Half a million dollars have already been spent in surveying and preliminary engineering work and securing rights of way. The company can begin to build next week if necessary. This road, like Senator Porter's, is to be backed wholly by French money and will have a majority of French directors on the board.

Object to Strong Medicines.

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prescribed by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism, and more than one out of every ten cases of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. For sale by all druggists.

COMPANY PERISHED

Twenty French Soldiers and Commander Died From Thirst.

Found By Relief Party at Mouth of Dried Up Well.

Paris, April 13.—The frightful report of the death from thirst of a company of French soldiers under the command of an officer in Mauretania is confirmed by official news that has just reached the colonial office. The Mauretania region, where this disaster has happened, has been described by the officers and soldiers who have served there as an eerie hell of rock and sand. Its abandonment has often been advocated. The region is worthless for trading purposes; its occupation is no good politically, and not a year passes without its tale of massacres of military detachments by the savage Moors. The wells are few and far between, and when fighting is going on the Moors fill them up on the line of the French advance. The company now destroyed numbered twenty men, besides Lieut. Salere and his subordinate, M. Berard, Adjt. Berard, seeing that his companions were doomed, and feeling himself capable of the effort, made for the French fort which he reached in three days. The relief party found that all the men with their commander had died at the mouth of a dried-up well. The governor general of French Western Africa advises the abandonment of that part of the so-called possession and retirement to the settled cultivated districts of Mauretania, and M. Girod, who is an authority on Western Africa, is going to submit to the chamber a motion for withdrawal from a country where, for the last century, so many lives have been lost, uselessly.

There has just died by his own hand at Corbeil a carpenter who left an extraordinary letter for the police commissary. He had been out of work for some time and was disgusted with the world and people in it. "Do not inquire into the motives of my suicide," he wrote, "I went to my death willingly. The ferocity, egotism and the cowardice platitudes have no limits and their servility is simply awful. Fiercer than tigers, who at any rate, leave something to their kind when they have had their fill, the representatives of humanity prevent those who die of hunger from making use of the fragments they pitch into the dustbin. In every party the strong oppresses the weak and men without conscience exploit imbeciles and despise them at the same time. Man is an animal, but very much below other animals. Clericals, nationalists, progressists, radicals and, I regret to say it, Socialists, are all alike. These men, and the fact that I am out of work have led me to take my life. I desire (and it is my right to demand it) a civil burial at the expense of charity. I forbid wreaths and bouquets. A post mortem examination of my body can be made if necessary, and I give permission for this letter to be published in the newspapers."

The Journal publishes a dispatch from its Verdum correspondent to the effect that seven members of an association of spies have been arrested. It is declared that the number of arrests may yet reach twenty. Suspecting the spies, the police followed a clue in November. It is alleged that a man of German nationality residing in a suburb of Verdum received military documents which he sent abroad. He would have been arrested but for a false movement on the part of a policeman. His guilt was regarded as certain, and though he was not actually caught in the act, it was decided to take drastic measures against him, and his expulsion from French territory was ordered.

The Hippodrome was the theater of a lively scene. Some boxing exhibitions had to be given by some Englishmen, negroes, and two women. The first match passed off satisfactorily, but when five blacks and five women began to fight there were loud protests. The public invaded the ring, stopped the fight, and demanded their money back. Becoming more and more infuriated, members of the audience smashed everything they could lay their hands on. Lamps, windows and flower pots were wrecked, and a brigade of police had to be called in to stop further destruction.

A crime of the ghastly variety has been committed at Loire, a small commune in the canton de Condrieu. Smoke was seen issuing from the house of an octogenarian fisherman named Perrin. Breaking open the door, the neighbors found the old man lying at the foot of the bed. He was dead. His skull was fractured, and a portion of the brains lay on the floor. The murder had been committed with a hatchet. Suspicion fell on a woman tramp whom the old man had befriended a few days ago. The couple had quarrelled that morning, the woman leaving the fisherman's house. A search was made for her and she was ultimately found in a field disguised in men's clothes. She readily admitted that she had killed her benefactor with a hatchet, adding that she had acted in self defense. The woman had declined to disclose her identity.

An aged couple named Lefevre living at Ghent, have died from starvation, although they possessed $15,000 in cash. They lived in a squalid apartment, and were known to be misers. As the neighbors had not seen either husband or wife for several days, the police broke into their rooms. They found the couple lying on an old mattress. Both were terribly emaciated, and had been dead for several days. There was not a scrap of food in the place, and but very little clothing. Under the mattress the police found $15,000 in Belgian bank notes and gold.

Washington Crew Captures Opening Game From New York.

Philadelphia Easily Defeats Boston Before Large Crowd.

Washington, April 13.—The American league season was opened yesterday in a game between the Washington and New York clubs, before what was said to be the largest crowd that has ever turned out in this city, there being about 15,000 paid admissions. The stands were packed to their limit, while the overflow crowd completely encircled the outfield a dozen deep. It was the original intention to call the game at 3:45, but the sale of seats had to be stopped at 3:15 and the contest was started at 3:20. Many prominent people of official and diplomatic circles were present.

The game was won easily by Washington, the final score being 4 to 1 in its favor. The locals batted hard at critical points and were helped along by costly errors of the New Yorkers. Pitcher Charlie Smith was a great puzzle to the visitors, who are credited with only four hits, the triple of Knight being of the lucky variety, as Milan fell and lost the drive in the sun, the ball bounding over his head. Smith had plenty of speed and good control, striking out ten of the opposing batsmen. Back of Smith the Washingtons fielded almost perfectly, a dropped line fly by Delehanty being the only misplay.

Newton began twirling for New York, but was wild and ineffective, and after working four innings gave way to Brockett, who held the local team to two hits and no runs in the final four rounds. The fielding feature of the game was a remarkable one-hand catch by Left Fielder Engle of a long fly from Street's bat in the third inning. There were three men on bases and only one out at the time. Engle ran to the edge of the crowd in left field and as the ball was sailing over his head, jumped and grabbed it in his ungloved hand. As Engle disappeared in a mixture of arms and legs, he held to the ball, Delehanty scoring from third on the out. Conroy, who was on second, left the bag before the ball was caught and was declared out when the ball was returned to second.

Washington scored three runs in the first inning after the visitors had been retired runless. Clymer walked, but Milan forced him at second on a roller to Newton. Unglaub doubled into the crowd in left field, but ground rules held Milan at third. Delehanty then sent a roller to Newton, who threw home to head off Milan, but Kleinow dropped the ball and the runner scored. Conroy rolled one towards first, which Newton fumbled, and the bases were filled. Freeman followed with a long single into left, scoring Unglaub and Delehanty.

In the third inning Washington scored its fourth and final run, the result of singles by Delehanty and Conroy and Street's long fly.

New York's lonesome tally developed in the fourth inning. Elberfield led off with a clean double into center and Engle got a base on balls. Ward moved both men up with a sacrifice and on Ball's out, short to first, Elberfield crossing the plate.

The score: R. H. E.

BIG CROWD SEE ATHLETICS WIN

Philadelphia Celebrates Opening of the New Baseball Park.

Philadelphia, April 13.—The American league season was opened here yesterday, with the largest crowd that ever witnessed a baseball game in this city—30,166 paying for admission, while nearly 1,000 more were guests of the clubs. Philadelphia won, 8 to 1. The occasion marked the opening of Shibe park, the new $500,000 home of the Philadelphia American league club.

Philadelphia outplayed Boston both in pitching and at the bat. Plank was in grand condition and held Boston to six hits. Boston's pitchers were batted hard. McInness, shortstop did fine work. He is a high school boy from Gloucester, Mass., and is only 18 years old. Score: R. H. E.
Philadelphia ...10201013x—8 13 2
Boston ....000001000—1 6 2

Batteries: Plank and Powers; Arellanes, Ryan and Carrigan. Umpires—Hurst and Connolly.

So great was the rush for the park that the gates were closed at 2 o'clock, one hour before play started, and thousands of persons were turned away.

After the parade across the field, which was led by President Johnson of the American league, President B. F. Shibe of the Philadelphia club, President John I. Taylor of the Boston club, and W. O. Huntley of Chicago, and the flag-raising, Mayor Reyburn tossing out the ball, and Umpire Hurst announced that the game was on.

Arellanes was taken out in the seventh inning, after eleven hits had been made off him. Ryan, who took his place, was wild and he was also touched up for two hits. Murphy led the hitting with two doubles and two singles in five attempts, while Nicholas made two singles and a double. Lord, with a single and a double, and Wagner with two singles, led Boston with the stick.

Manager Mack of Philadelphia used three of his young players in the game. Eddie Collins, who played second base, drove out two singles and received two passes. Strunk was used in center field.

DULUTH HORSEMEN BUY FAST FILLY.

Elliott & Runquist, the well-known local horsemen, have purchased from a Chicago dealer, a 3-year-old filly, named Siren Elisha, one of the most promising green pacers in the West. The purchase price was $2,500. The filly has been shipped to Trainer John Hussey at Wheaton, Ill., where she will be prepared for a trip through the Grand circuit.

Officers Witness Fight.

New York, April 13.—The police department was well represented last night at the bouts scheduled at the Marathon Athletic club of Brooklyn. There was no attempt to interfere with the program, however, and all the fights were pulled off without incident. In the principal bout, Mickey McDonough of Brooklyn had the best of Jack McVey of Jersey City, for nine rounds, when McVey turned the tables. Another bout, scheduled to go ten rounds, was between Tommy Cary of Philadelphia and Billy Landers of Jersey City. Landers quit after the third round.

SULLIVAN CHOSEN TO LEAD CHICAGO

Great Backstop Will Take Place of Fielder Jones.

Chicago, April 13.—William J. Sullivan will command the Chicago White Sox baseball team of the American league, succeeding Fielder Jones. Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, made the official announcement of Sullivan's appointment today. His star catcher will be the manager and captain of the club. The salary which goes with the position was not made public.

Sullivan was officially notified of his appointment by President Comiskey in Cincinnati Sunday night and he accepted the appointment. In fact, the official notification was no surprise to the catcher because he has been acting manager of the Sox regular squad on the spring training trip and knew that he would succeed Fielder Jones, if the latter would not return to the team. Jones wrote to President Comiskey a few days ago his final refusal to play ball this year.

"I thought that there might be a chance for Jones to return to the team," said Comiskey today, "but when day before yesterday I received his final word I went to Cincinnati and notified Sullivan that he would be my manager this year."

"What do you think of Sullivan's personal qualifications for the position?" he was asked.

"Well," replied the "old Roman" of baseball, "in the first place his strong right arm is a great qualification and next to that is his good brain. Sullivan has baseball brains. I would like to have had Jones come back, but that was impossible. Sullivan will be a great manager and he has a great team to manage."

President Comiskey announced further that Cravath of Sox recruits, would succeed Fielder Jones in center field.

"Cravath is a great hitter and a good fielder," said Comiskey. "He lined one against the right field fence at Cincinnati yesterday that did my heart good. Sullivan, of course, will miss Jones in center, but Cravath is a great ball player. 'Jakey' Atz will be the regular second baseman for the start of the season at least. Parent will play at short, Isbell will play first and Tannehill at third."

"Billy" Sullivan has been the star catcher for the White Sox since 1901. He was purchased by Comiskey from the Boston National league club. Boston got him from Columbus, Ohio. He began his baseball career at Dubuque, Iowa. Sullivan has been regarded generally by baseball experts as one of the greatest backstops in the business. Last year he led the American league catchers with a fielding average of .985. In his batting, however, he fell short of his previous records. His average for the season was only .191. He has, however, always been relied upon as a pinch hitter.

THREE TOWNS BID FOR BOUT

Schreck-Whitehead Fight Is Booked for This Week.

It Will Go to Some Michigan or Wisconsin City.

The promoters of the Schreck-Whitehead fight, which was booked to take place at Hibbing, but which was stopped by the governor, say that three clubs have already put in bids of a substantial character. Two Michigan cities and one Wisconsin town are anxious to secure the go, and it is probable that the battle will be pulled off within the week.

The promoters will make it a point to put the show on as near the Head of the Lakes as possible. However, if one of the Michigan cities should be chosen, arrangements will be made for the running of a special train over the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic for the benefit of the Gopher fans.

The contest gives every promise of being one of the greatest boxing bouts ever pulled off in the Northwest. Schreck, who has been one of the topnotchers of the country for years, has been training at Hibbing for three weeks and is said to be in the finest possible condition. He is down to 187 pounds and has all the speed and hard-hitting ability which made him such a favorite years ago. Schreck is perhaps one of the greatest generals that ever stepped into a ring, and this is the only feature of the affair that the Whitehead backers have to fear. Whitehead is just as strong as the Cincinnati Dutchman, has a longer reach, and just as stiff a wallop. His style of infighting is superior to Schreck's and his long range work is great. Whitehead just finished three weeks' training and is as fit as a fiddle.

Altogether, there has been placed on the fight about $1,500. Of that amount $2,400 is wagered by the principals and the remainder by friends of each contestant.

HARVARD WILL NOT DROP FOOTBALL.

Cambridge, Mass., April 13.—An assurance that football is to continue at Harvard was given last night in a statement issued by W. L Garcelon, graduate manager of athletics, in which it was announced that the Harvard athletic committee had voted to accept the proposition of the class of 1879 to co-operate in the work of completing the stadium.

The athletic committee is to share the expense with the class of 1879, whose original subscription of $100,000 made the stadium, which was opened in 1900, possible. In his statement Manager Garcelon said:

"While there is no definite statement that the Harvard corporation will allow the game to continue, there is every reason to believe that the athletic committee would never consent to assume a debt unless it was reasonably sure that its chief income would continue."

AFTER A BOUT WITH JOHNSON

Langford, Ketchel and Kaufmann Anxious to Fight Champion.

New York, April 13.—After meeting the three heavyweights—and near-heavies—who are anxious to fight him, Jack Johnson, colored heavyweight champion, tonight announced that he would not decide until Thursday whose challenge he would accept. The reason given for this postponement was that Al Kaufmann, one of the anxious challenges, will box Tony Ross, a much heralded fighter, before a local club tomorrow night.

William Britt, representing Stanley Ketchel; Joe Woodman, for Sam Langford; and Billy Delaney, representing Kaufmann, each demanded the right to fight Johnson. Johnson suggested that the three challengers should fight each other to determine which should meet him for the championship. Britt objected to this and suggested that Johnson should accept the challenge of the man for whom the largest purse was put up. Johnson, however, demurred, and matters were left standing, pending the issue of the Kaufmann-Ross battle.

At the close of the conference, Hugh D. McIntosh, Australian fight promoter, offered a return match for Johnson and Burns. The champion's reply was that he would accept on the terms demanded by Burns at their Melbourne fight—$30,000, win, lose or draw. This was declined by McIntosh, who said he would attend the conference Thursday and would then offer to match Burns against either Kaufmann, Ketchell or Langford.

WORLD'S RECORDS ARE SHATTERED

Los Angeles Motor Cyclists Set New Low Marks.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—Three world's records on a motor cycle were broken, two by Jake Dozier and one by Fred Huyck. Dosier broke the records for the five and fifteen-mile events in 3:56 3-8 and 12:58 2-5, respectively. The previous record for five miles was 4:09 2-5 and was held by Dosier, and the former record for the fifteen miles was 13:58 1-5, held by Huyck.

The record for ten miles was lowered by forty-five seconds by Huyck, who rode the distance in 8:12. The former record was 8:57, made recently at Daytona Beach, Fla.

ASSOCIATION UMPIRES RECEIVE ASSIGNMENTS.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—Umpires of the American Association of Baseball Clubs were today assigned by President J. D. O'Brien for the opening games tomorrow, as follows: At Milwaukee, Gerald Hays; Kansas City, W. J. Sullivan and E. J. Conahan; Indianapolis, C. B. Owens and E. A. Eckman; Louisville, Charles F. King.

In order to protect the public from the use of profane language, President O'Brien has instructed his umpires to order players from the game who are guilty of making "off color" remarks which may be heard by the spectators. Players reported by umpires for this kind of rowdyism will be severely dealt with.

KAUFMAN WILL BOX ROSS THIS EVENING.

New York, April 13.—Al Kaufman of California and Tony Ross, the Italian fighter from Pittsburg, will go ten rounds tonight before the Fairmont Athletic club. Despite the recent activities of the police against boxing clubs, the Fairmont management asserts positively that the fight will be held without interruption. The meeting between Kaufman and Ross will be watched with interest, in the hope that it will prove Kaufman's mettle, and indicate whether or not he is of the calibre to meet Jack Johnson.

Carroll Beats Rodman.

Boston, April 13.—M. J. Carroll of New York, national amateur champion, defeated K. Rodman of Nashua, N. H., in the 115-pound class of the trial boxing bouts for the national amateur championships, held here last night. The semi-finals and finals will be held tomorrow night.

Phil Schlossberg of the United States steamer New Jersey defeated Andrew Morris of Boston in the heavyweight class.

RELEASED TOO EARLY

Through Error Convict Leaves Penitentiary Before His Time.

Warden Wolfer Says His Clerk Made Bull in Figures.

Stillwater Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The application of Louis Nelson for a pardon, at the meeting of the board set for Monday at the capital in St. Paul was filed too late to get on the calendar for hearing. The petition sets up a peculiar state of facts.

The man was released from the state prison about a year ago, or on April 16 of last year, on the presumption that he had finished his term, and he was given papers by Governor Johnson restoring him to full citizenship. It was soon after discovered that by mistake he had been discharged from the state prison a year too soon. He was arrested again at Albert Lea, where he was supporting his mother, and has since been in prison. His offense was grand larceny, for which he was sent to the reformatory at St. Cloud. On July 10, 1905 he was paroled. On July 20, 1907, he was sent back to the reformatory for parole violation, to serve out his maximum term of five years. Later, he was transferred to the state prison, and from there discharged by mistake.

Harry E. Ricker, who is serving a term of three years and a half in the state prison for embezzlement, was recently granted a parole, and it is the intention to release him when he is provided with suitable employment. He is an applicant for full pardon at the meeting of the board of pardons today. His offense was the alleged theft of $2,500 while treasurer of the Metropolitan theater in St. Paul. He claimed the money was stolen from him.

Warden Wolfer Explains.

Warden Wolfer, in speaking about the release of Louis Nelson, said:

"It is true he was released prematurely. The error in figuring time was made by a young man in my office, who overlooked the length of time the prisoner was a fugitive from justice after breaking his parole. As soon as the error was discovered the matter was taken up with the state board of control and they in turn took it up with the office of the attorney general, and as a result of that conference the warden was instructed that it was the opinion of the attorney general that the proper course to pursue would be to re-arrest the prisoner and return him to prison.

"Hence, the alleged statement to the effect that the information was given out from the office of the attorney-general to the effect 'that he course taken was wrong and that an outrage had been committed upon a man who was in every sense a citizen of the United States,' is not only misleading, but is very unfair, if such statement was made."

Berglund of Ruby, Wash., and the late Mrs. H. B. Tveten.

CREDIT GIVEN

To Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a Thorough Cure in a Stubborn Case of Sciatica.

A really remarkable cure of sciatica by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is that of Mr. William H. Shine, of No. 2111 22nd avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Shine is employed by the Flour City Ornamental Iron Works and is a member and Chief Forester of Camp 4784, Modern Woodmen of America. During the Sioux campaign in which Sitting Bull was killed, Mr. Shine was a member of Troop K, Sixth U. S. Cavalry. Mr. Shine has lived in Minneapolis for twenty-five years. In telling recently of his cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he says:

"About five years ago I was engaged in work which required heavy lifting and I think this may possibly have been the cause of the sciatica in my case. For three months I was confined to bed and was sick altogether for about two years and a half. I was on crutches for about seven months. There were sharp, cutting pains from my back down to my heel. It was very painful for me to get up after I had been sitting down for a while. The cords of my foot and heel seemed to draw together. The muscles of my legs had to be rubbed before I could sleep. My feet were swollen so that I had to wear shoes much too large for me and I could hardly hobble along.

"I was treated by two doctors and each pronounced my case sciatica. Neither doctor helped me much. The last doctor gave me electric treatments three times a week for at least three months. After finding that this did not help me to any extent, I took vapor baths for about the same length of time. I followed this with sulphur baths for five weeks but nothing seemed to help me. I then began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as a friend said they had helped him. When I began taking the pills I was unable to work and was walking with a cane. After a fair treatment I began to feel results from the pills. I continued using the pills until they effected a complete cure. I wish by this statement to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills credit for my cure."

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve and this remedy has cured stubborn cases of neuralgia in many forms.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

FARGO COLORED MAN MURDERED

Shot Down By Another Black Who Had Just Left Jail.

Fargo, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Simpson, who was released from the county jail yesterday afternoon, within five hours was again in custody, charged with the crime of murder in the first degree. He had shot and killed Charles Clarge, also colored.

Simpson was a member of a gang of safe-breakers. Turning state's evidence, he got off with mild punishment, but the other members of the gang and their friends denounced him as a traitor.

Soon after leaving jail, yesterday afternoon, Simpson drank freely, and became involved in a wordy argument with Clarke, during which he was taunted with being a traitor. This angered him and, drawing a pistol, he began shooting. Clarke fell mortally wounded, dying almost instantly. Simpson was promptly arrested, and admitter the killing.

Clarke came here recently from Iowa and is said to have been a peaceable citizen.

NEW GRAND ISLAND HOTEL.

Cleveland-Cliffs Co. Will Have Structure Ready This Summer.

Negaunee, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company is to erect a hotel building at Grand Island and the management expects to have some of the sleeping rooms, at least, ready for occupancy not later than July 1, when tourists will begin arriving.

Plans for the building were recently completed by Charleton & Kuenzli, and the excavating for the basement has already been started. The structure will be three stories, with basement, will be located about fifty feet north of the present hotel, and will be connected with the latter by an enclosed passage. The name Hotel Williams will be retained.

George A. Leiphart, a well known contractor of Munising, will have supervision of the carpenter work, and Henry Schwartzer of Negaunee is to have charge of the masonry and brick work.

FIREPROOF SAWMILL.

Building to Be Built at Gladstone of Concrete and Steel.

Gladstone, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Prescott company of Menominee has been awarded the contract for the construction of a modern mill and machinery for the Northwestern Cooperage & Lumber company here. The former plant was destroyed by fire some months ago. The mill will be built of concrete and steel, not a strip of timber to be used in the construction. It will be equipped with a modern, double band saw and resaw having a capacity of from 100,000 to 125,000 feet of lumber.

BROUGHT STOLEN PROPERTY

Into Minnesota is Charge Against Larimore, N. D., Man.

East Grand Forks, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Kruger of Larimore has been arrested here on a charge of taking stolen property into Minnesota. Kruger stole a typewriter in Grand Forks and tried to sell it in one of the local saloons. He is also accused of making away with a couple of overcoats.

Kruger is a printer, and recently got into a fistic encounter with Ed Richter at Larimore. There is an action now pending in court in which Kruger is the plaintiff against Richter, asking damages which he claimed he sustained as a result of the Larimore trouble.

LAYING NEW RAILS.

Northern Pacific Placing Its Track in Better Shape.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—New rails have arrived for the Northern Pacific railway and a crew of men have already been putting them in place. The new rails will be laid between Winnipeg Junction and Johnstown in this county, now and later in the summer new rails will also be put in place between Fertile and Grand Forks. The rails between Johnstown and Grand Forks are said to be in first-class shape, but an entire change has been found necessary between the other points.

TRASHY LITERATURE IS BLAMED FOR SUICIDE.

Deadwood, S. D., April 13.—Her mind unhinged by continued reading of dime novels and sensational literature, Edith Crossman, an 18-year-old girl of Terraville, shot and killed herself at the home of her parents. She had followed every detail in the Thaw and other noted murder trials.

DELEGATES TO DULUTH.

Grand Forks Commercial Travelers Select Members to Come Here.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the last meeting of the Grand Forks council of the United Commercial Travelers, these delegates and alternates to the annual convention to be held in Duluth in June were elected:

Delegates—Herb Nunn, W. W. Fegan and J. Grothe.

Alternates—L. Roth, F. Hanson and H. E. Payne.

Several other matters came before the council, among them the contest of Bud Abrahamson against Joseph J. Daly. W. W. Fegan appeared for Mr. Daly, who was unable to be present, while Bud Abrahamson, who brings the contest, stated that his attorney was at present busily engaged in the Standard Oil case and for that reason would be unable to take up his case at present.

There was some talk of "hedging," with the result that Secretary Sorlie is said to have made threats of having some one arrested for malicious slander.

HUDSON SAWMILL STARTS.

First Plant on St. Croix River to Commence Operations.

Hudson, Wis., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Central Lumber company sawmill here, owned by Svedsen & Slaughter, began operations yesterday for the season. Day and night shifts will be worked.

This is the first mill on the St. Croix to start up this year.

WOMAN HAS HORSES.

Stories of Ownership of Stolen Animals Exaggerated.

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Jean M. Mueller declares that the seven race horses stolen from Carling's stable in the Midway district last January, and concerning which there have been many stories circulated, are in her possession at present; that they have been right along, and that all liens and judgments against them have been paid.

"The lien and judgment of $982 have been paid and satisfied of record," she says. "Articles appearing from time to time as to the horses still being in litigation are without foundation."

Miss Mueller claims to have been the owner of the animals at the time they were stolen, although there was at that time litigation concerning them.

IS GIVEN BIG SUM.

Omaha Fireman Who Lost Both Legs Gets $14,000.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Victor Olsen of 214 Cochrane street, this city, who lost both his legs by falling under the switch engine at Altoona last fall, has accepted a large settlement from the Omaha Railroad company. It consisted of $14,000 in cash, and it is understood that the company made other provisions for his care and future welfare. Mr. Olson is now at Hot Springs.

Mr. Olson, who is a young man of about 22, was a fireman on the switch engine at Altoona at the time he suffered his misfortune. The engine was on the way to the roundhouse and Olson had jumped off to throw a switch. After throwing the switch Olson grabbed the grab-bar on the engine and attempted to jump on the running board, but the grab-bar, which was placed on the engine for the purpose of taking hold when jumping the locomotive, broke and, as a result, Olson was thrown onto the track in front of the engine which passed over both his legs and so badly crushed them that amputation was found necessary.

WASHINGTON COUNTY DRAIN IS AUTHORIZED.

Stillwater, Minn., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Stolberg of the district court has filed an order in the judicial ditch No. 2 matter. It provides for a main ditch and lateral drains for 138 tracts of land in the towns of Forest Lake and Oneka.

A considerable number of property owners made objection to the report of the survey made by Joseph M. Oldham and of the report of the commission that viewed the property and assessed the damages and benefits.

After a lengthy hearing of evidence of farm owners and experts, Judge Stolberg made some changes in the items of assessments for benefits and damages.

BAD EARS, DEAF EARS, NOISY EARS

CURED BY THE PHILADELPHIA EAR MASSEUR.

FREE DEMONSTRATION.

Mr. J. L. Nohner, representing the Philadelphia Ear Masseur apparatus for the treatment and cure of deafness, head noises and ear diseases as heretofore announced, will be at the St. Louis hotel, April 15, 16 and 17, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and will demonstrate absolutely free and without cost to all people who are suffering with any form of ear disease that they can be cured.

No matter how long you have been deaf, or who you have treated with nor what medicine you have taken, this is the appliance that will cure you. It is not an instrument that you are required to wear, all you have to do is to use the instrument night and morning about five minutes each time, and a cure will result.

The manufacturers of this instrument have heretofore sold them only to physicians, but in as much as there are so many people who can not reach a specialist without great expense and loss of time, the company has within the last few months sold them by request to patients direct. This is the quickest and best possible cure of all selected diseases of the ear.

During the time that Mr. Nohner is in Duluth, his demonstration will be absolutely free. He does not represent himself as a physician to treat these diseases in any other way than by the use of this instrument, which is sufficient within itself to do the work. They can secure these masseurs and treat themselves at home. This demonstration being free, you are under no obligation to Mr. Nohner whatever, nor will he be to you. Call on him and receive a trial treatment, which will convince you that it is an appliance that can be absolutely relied upon.

Clergymen, lawyers, physicians, telegraph operators, trainmen, workers in boiler shops and foundries and four hundred other classes of people speak their highest praise of this instrument. The representative of the Philadelphia Ear Masseur could not possibly afford to take chances on such an expensive scale, if the treatment could not be relied upon, and if it did not at once demonstrate its value of usefulness to you. Bear in mind that Mr Nohner will be at the hotel three days only, and that during that time he will be pleased to convince each and every caller afflicted with deafness, that this truly scientific instrument possesses all the virtues that are claimed for it.

ALL READY FOR BANQUET

Program For Commercial Club Spread Is Now Complete.

Several Prominent Speakers Will Appear On Toast List.

Preparations for the seventh annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club, which is to be held Thursday evening at Wade's hall, are rapidly nearing completion. The committee in charge of the affair has finished a program of unusual merit, including speeches from a number of prominent men locally and throughout the state.

The banqueters will assemble at 7:30 sharp, but a reception committee of the Commercial club will be ready at 7 o'clock to welcome visitors at a brief reception which will be tendered before the festivities of the evening begin. The spread will be under the supervision of the ladies of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church.

The after-dinner program will be opened by an address of welcome by President William B. Getchell, followed by an invocation by Rev. Samuel A. Jamieson. The toastmaster for the occasion will be Hon. George J. Mallory. Both Mayor R. D. Haven of this city and Mayor F. R. Crumpton of Superior will be present, and will each toast their respective cities. "Parks and Playgrounds" is the subject that Bishop James McGolrick has chosen to speak upon. W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, will address the banqueters on "Minnesota's Natural Resources."

Judge Martin Hughes, the new judge of the Eleventh district, will be here from Virginia to attend the West Duluth banquet. He will speak on "Minnesota's Iron Ranges." Somewhat along the same line will be an address which State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson of St. Paul will deliver to the West Duluthians. Mr. Iverson has for his subject "The Natural Resources of Minnesota." Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney will talk on "Criminal Law and Public Opinion."

In a musical way, the evening will be well spent also. A special engagement of Reille's orchestra of several pieces is announced, and several soloists will also be heard. Those who will render solos are Ray W. Abbott, Miss Gladys Stoller, Charles O. Applehagen and C. H. Giddings.

STRAY COWS WILL BE TAKEN UP

Poundmaster of West Duluth District Issues His Edict.

West Duluthians are warned to keep their cows out of other people's meadows. The poundmaster at West Duluth, Capt. J. W. Mann, will assume his duties on Thursday, April 15, and a strict supervision will be kept over all wandering stock and poultry.

Up to this time complaints against straying animals have been but few, but the growth of green grass in the past has seemed somewhat of an inducement to careless owners to let their stock wander over on some neighbor's lawn.

Action may be taken this year in the case of the much too common stray dog. A number of West Duluth residents have registered a kick against having so many troublesome dogs running around loose, and believe that, in certain instances, the canines also should be taken in hand by the poundmaster.

Will Use 250 Men.

A two-shift crew of about 250 men will be employed by the Red Cliff Lumber company at West Duluth as soon as the ice is all out of the bay. It is estimated that about 10,000,000 feet of lumber will be sawed at the mill this season, at the rate of 250,000 feet a day.

THE ZIEN WILL IS PROBATED

Duluth Business Man Gave Liberal Sums to Charity.

The will of J. D. Zien was filed in probate court this morning. He leaves most of his property to his wife and relatives.

Harry M. Levy has been appointed special administrator so that the business in which Mr. Zien was engaged can be carried on without interruption.

Charity was not forgotten by Mr. Zien, for he left to the Cleveland Jewish Orphans' asylum, $1,000; to the Denver Jewish Home for Consumptives, $1,000, and to the Temple Emanuel of this city, another $1,000.

He leaves all his relatives well provided for, both near and distant. He asks that a monument be built on his mother's grave in Russia, and his father's grave in Prussia. The total value of the estate is not yet known.

TWO SPEAKERS CHOSEN.

Will Accompany A. D. Wilson on Tour of "Potato Special."

Forest Henry of Dover, Minn., and C. E. Brown of Elk River, are the men whom A. D. Wilson, superintendent of the State Farmers' institute, has selected to accompany "The Potato Special" through St. Louis county. Mr. Henry is one of the best known authorities upon potatoes in the Northwest, and Mr. Hostetter is particularly pleased that he should be chosen to talk to the farmers of the county.

Letters have been written to all of the farmers' clubs in St. Louis county, in the vicinity of the route that will be taken by the special, urging them to have all the farmers of the county at the stations to meet the train. In this way the speakers are sure of being greeted by a large audience of farmers.

The farmers' institute has sent over 500 bulletins upon the growing of potatoes to the Commercial club, and these will be distributed to the farmers along the route of the special.

BIG SUM AS DAMAGES

Steve Dobranich Wants $25,000 From Zenith Furnace Company.

Plaintiff Declares His Wrist Was Permanently Injured in Accident.

For a broken wrist and being rendered unconscious, Steev Dobranich who was at the time of the injury employed as a laborer at the Zenith Furnace company, asks damages in the sum of $25,000 from the above mentioned concern. He filed the papers in the personal injury suit this morning with the clerk of the district court.

Dobranich says that in the winter of 1908 he was employed about the gas plant. It was his duty to wheel shavings, refuse and iron to a vat. To reach this vat he was compelled, he says, to cross a ravine, some fourteen feet deep, on a walk constructed of planks by the company.

The wheelbarrows, he claims, were old and weak. On the day of the accident he was engaged in his usual work of wheeling to the vat the refuse from another part of the grounds.

The wheelbarrow of a fellow workman, who was just ahead of him on the plank walk, broke down, and Dobranich was so close behind that he could not stop.

There was not room on the walk, he says, to pass the broken wheelbarrow, and he fell to the ground, some fourteen feet below. He was rendered unconscious and his wrist broken. He says the arm is permanently injured, and asks that damages in the above stated amount be granted him.

RAILROAD NEWS

ARE HEADED FOR WEST

Heavy Travel Will Be to Pacific Coast This Year.

Traffic Men Invade Duluth—Say Business Is Dull.

Duluth is invaded by the traffic men today. The unanimous statement of the visiting railroad men is that there is a stagnation in railroad circles just at the present time. All of the passenger men state, however, that during the coming summer the West will have the bulge on the effete East in the matter of business. They say that the agents working for eastbound passenger business will have a hard field to work. The travel this summer is going the other way.

E. R. Porch, traveling passenger agent of the Erie system, says that but one big convention was booked for the East this year, and that convention has been changed to the West, simply because it was found that the great traveling public would be in the West this summer.

R. C. Haas, passenger man for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, has received a circular from his road telling of the conventions to be held in the West this summer. There will be something doing in the convention line from early June until late in the fall. Not taking into account the Seattle exposition, there will be sufficient attractions in the West to attract a large traveling public out to the Western states.

A. D. Harding, traveling freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio; Harry Wyand, traveling passenger agent for the Chicago Great Western railroad, and J. G. Thompson, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, are here looking up business. All of these railroad men say that business in the railroad world is very quiet right at the present time.

WORK BEGUN ON APPROACH

Work upon the approach to the interstate bridge, from the Superior side, is being carried on at the present time by the engineers of the Soo railroad. The piling for the approaches is being put in, and the engineers in charge of the work state that it is progressing very rapidly.

No preliminary survey for the docks at Superior has been made yet, but according to the engineers' in charge of the Superior work, this survey will be made very soon, and the actual construction upon the docks will be started early this spring.

It is expected that the approach to the interstate bridge will be completed early in the summer and the tracks that will connect Duluth and Superior. It is expected that the Soo will complete its tracks to Duluth before fall.

IS TRANSFERRED TO SOO LINE

Wisconsin Central Becomes Part of the Canadian Pacific.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—The control of the Wisconsin Central was today fully transferred to the Soo line and was thus made a part of the Canadian Pacific system.

The transfer was made at a special meeting here of the Wisconsin Central stockholders, when the lease of that company's lines and property to the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, and the agreements between the two companies heretofore authorized by their respective boards were ratified.

The board of directors also held a meeting and the resignations of H. C. Starr, William Wadden, E. N. Foss and Jesse Mayer were accepted, and J. S. Pillsbury of Minneapolis, C. E. Wales of Superior, H. M. Ballou of Neenah, Wis., and C. L. Jaffray of Minneapolis were elected in their places.

Among those who attended the meeting were: Edward Pennington, president; Newman Erb, retiring president; W. L. Martin, second vice president and traffic manager; A. H. Bright, vice president and general counsel of the Soo line; J. N. Dittenhofer, counsel; R. C. Story, counsel; N. C. Starr, retiring vice president and counsel, and George Webster, secretary.

No Preparations Yet.

No preparations for the ore season have been made to date by the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, aside from the fact that some of the new patent steel cars have been received at the shops at Two Harbors.

President F. E. House of the road, who is in the East at the present time, is expected home Saturday. Until at that time at least, say officials of the Iron Range, no active work will be undertaken in preparation for the ore season.

DISPLAY STORM SIGNALS AT MARQUETTE STATION.

Marquette, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—From now on storm signals will be displayed at the Marquette weather station, and all along the Great Lakes. The government has adopted a new feature regarding the lights which will undoubtedly be of benefit to the mariners. Instead of having the red light beneath the white, the position of the lights has been changed and the red light will now be on top. The red light is considered the harder to see and for this reason will be given the best position. During a high wind the combination lights will be lit, except in the case of easterly winds, when red lights will be burned.

ROCHESTER FIRE'S PREY

Two Conflagrations Raging and Utterly Beyond Control.

Troops Ordered Out—Help Summoned From Other Cities.

Rochester, N. Y., April 13.—Fires are raging this afternoon in two sections of Rochester, apparently uncontrolable, and unless the gale, which is now blowing at thirty or more miles an hour, subsides, the damage will be incalculable. Every piece of fire apparatus is on the scene, and appeals have been sent to Syracuse and Buffalo for assistance. Both cities have replied that they are sending aid on fast trains. At 2 p. m. it was estimated that the loss then was $1,000,900.

The fire broke out in the Selling building, a four-story structure at Gibbs and Main street and that building is in ruins. The flames leaped to St. Peter's church on Grove street, and then to the big Jewish synagogue, the Berith Kodesh temple. St. Peter's was saved, but the temple is gutted.

Apartment houses on Grove street, valued at $100,000, were swept away, and then the flames attacked a score or more of residences of that and adjoining streets and is now spreading to others. Fully 150 families have moved out from the paths of the flames. Numerous houses are burning, without a single stream of water to check the progress of the fire.

About the same time fire broke out in the First Reformed church on Nassau street, a mile away. Only one fire company could be spared for this fire, and the church soon fell prey to the flames, which spread to residences and are now sweeping the street, the the residents moving out as fast as the flames approach.

The militia has been ordered out by Mayor Edgerton to police the burning district.

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

W. I. Prince Says Sentiment in West Is More Optimistic.

W. I. Prince, cashier of the City National bank, returned today from a trip to Chicago and Cleveland. During his trip Mr. Prince had occasion to investigate business conditions throughout the West, and he says that there is a gradual improvement.

"The improvement of business conditions throughout the West is going on steadily," said Mr. Prince. "There is an impression among the business men of the West that the improvement in business will be gradual, and that it will continue until the business of the country gets back upon a normal plane. There is a better feeling at the present time than there was some months ago."

Mr. Prince declares that at bottom business conditions are good. He says there is money in the banks, and that generally speaking there is no apprehension that the business structure is not sound.

TRIAL OF ARCHITECT HUSTON IS DELAYED.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 13.—The trial of Joseph M. Huston, architect of the state capitol, on charge of conspiracy to defraud the state, was today postponed, because of a plea that the defense would be prejudiced by a severance recently granted to John H. Sanderson, the contractor, William P Snyder, ex-auditor general, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of grounds. No date was fixed for the trial.

RESOLUTION ASKS FOR FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

Madison, Wis., April 13.—In the upper branch of the Wisconsin legislature today, Senator Gaylord presented a substitute to the joint resolution memorializing congress not to enact a federal inheritance tax. The substitute reverses the tenor of the original resolution and asks the enactment of an income tax. It assails the tariff system as placing the burden of taxation on the poor.

WHEAT HITS A NEW HIGH PRICE LEVEL IN DULUTH

Active Options Are a Point Over the Previous Day.

Flax Is Weaker at End of the Session Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 13.—This was another day of sensations in wheat and during the session May and July and durum wheat hit new high spots for the crop.

The greatest strength came during the early part of the day. Opening prices were a point or more over yesterday's close, and the tone was very strong. Realizing sales caused declines later, however. Prices receded from the high point, but before the end of the session, they had rallied again, so that the close showed gains of a point over the previous day.

May wheat sold as high as $1.24⅜ and July wheat at $1.24½, while durum wheat was traded in at $1.15.

Liverpool closed 2½d to 3⅛d higher. Berlin 2⅝c higher than Thursday, Antwerp 1⅜c higher, and Budapest 1½c higher.

The May option closed 1½c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, 1¼c higher in Chicago and 1½c higher in Winnipeg. Comparisons on the closes in other markets are impossible. The July option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅛@¼c higher in Chicago, ⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 1¼c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅜c lower in Chicago, and oats ⅛@½c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—There was a most exciting opening in wheat, with the undertone very strong and values 2⅞@3⅛d higher than Saturday. During the morning the market further advanced, prices gaining ⅝@1d. The strength in American markets during the holidays caused shorts to cover in an excited manner, and offerings were practically nothing. World's shipments for the week were light; heavy decrease on passage and the European visible is expected to show another heavy decrease this week. Cargoes were strong and lightly offered spot markets extremely strong, and all country markets decidedly higher. There was an urgent demand from all quarters, and much apprehension is felt regarding the outlook for the American winter wheat crop. At midday the market was strong and 3¼@3¾d higher than Saturday. During the session there was some realizing, with slight declines.

"Corn—The market was extremely dull, with the undertone steady, in sympathy with the advance in wheat."

Car receipts at Duluth were 55 against 42 last year, and at Minneapolis 64, against 260, last year, making a total for the Northwest of 119 against 302 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 274,000 bu, last year, 229,000 bu. Shipments 277,000 bu, last year, 233,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 87,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 299,000 bu, last year 255,000 bu. Shipments, 368,000 bu, last year, 405,000. Clearances of corn were, 11,000 bu.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened 1c higher at $1.24 bid, advanced to $1.24⅜, declined to $1.23¼, rallied to $1.24 and closed there, a gain of 1c over yesterday. July wheat opened 1⅜c higher at $1.24¾ asked, declined to $1.24⅜, rallied to $1.24½, went off to $1.24 and closed at $1.24⅝, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1¼c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active and closed lower. May flax opened unchanged at $1.66½, advanced to $1.67¼ and declined by the close to $1.65¾, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. July flax opened ½c higher at $1.66, advanced to $1.66⅞ and closed at $1.65¼, a loss of ¼c. October flax closed ¼c lower at $1.37¼.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Breaking of Records in Wheat Pit Is Again a Feature.

Chicago, April 13.—Breaking of high record marks which has been a daily performance in the wheat pit for nearly two weeks, was again a feature of early trading today, all deliveries advancing considerably beyond the season's high point recorded on the previous session. The July option, a minute or two after the opening, sold at $1.17⅜, while September, on initial transactions, sold at $1.08¾ to $1.09⅜. A flurry in the May delivery, trade in which is now very limited, carried the price of that option to $1.28, a gain of 1⅝c compared with the previous high point. The advance in May was said to have been largely due to closing out of trades for a New York house, which has a branch office here and which was said to be in financial difficulties. The market opened excited and strong with prices ranging from ¼@⅜c to ¾c above yesterday's close, July being at $1.16½ to $1.16⅞. After July had advanced to $1.17⅜, prices slumped a trifle from the high points, owing to enormous realizing sales. The bulge at the start was helped to some extent by extreme advances at all of the principal European grain markets.

Later the July option rallied to $1.17½ and September to $1.09½. The market then broke sharply on general selling following heavy sales by a leading commission house. The decline brought out a quantity of stop loss orders and the price of the July and September deliveries broke more than 2c per bu., the former declining to $1.15¾ and the latter to $1.06⅞. Late in the day much of the loss was regained. The close was firm with July up ⅛@¼c at $1.16⅜@1.16½. September was off ¾@⅞c at $1.07⅝. May closed at $1.27½.

The advance in wheat caused moderate firmness in the corn market, but the volume of trade was small. The market was also bullishly affected by wet weather in the corn belt. Prices at the start were ⅛c to ⅛@¼c higher with May at 66¾ to 66⅞c. Early in the day the price touched 66⅝c.

The market slumped with wheat, May declining to 65¾c. Some recovery was made with wheat, but the close was easy, May being off ⅜c at 66¼c.

Oats were firm at the start, owing to the bulge in wheat, but weakened a trifle on profit taking. May opened ¼@⅜c higher at 54⅝@54¾c and sold off to 51⅝c.

Provisions were firm because of a 5c advance in live hogs. Trade was quiet early in the day, prices at the start being unchanged to 10c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

The Strength Is Lost When Selling Orders Come in Heavily.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—On account of the big advance in Liverpool, the local market opened at a new high figure, May at $1.24⅝@1.24⅞, and July at predicted price of $1.25. Minneapolis stocks decreased 400,000 bu for four days and Northwestern receipts were light. The market lost strength when selling orders came in heavy, and closed ½c lower than the opening and 1c above yesterday's close. Minneapolis today received 64 cars against 109; Duluth 55 against 42; Winnipeg 160 against 115. May wheat opened at $1.24⅜@1.24⅝; high, $1.24⅞; low, $1.23¼; close, $1.24¼. July opened $1.24½@1.25; high, $1.25⅛; low, $1.23⅞; close, $1.24½@⅝. Cash wheat was in still stronger demand. Offerings were light and everything was disposed of early in the session. No. 1 northern sold for 2½@2¾c over, and No. 2 northern sold for ½@¾c over the May option. Millers were eager buyers, and few other interests bought anything. No. 1 northern spot, $1.26¼@½; to arrive, $1.26½; No. 2 northern, $1.24¼@1.24½; to arrive, $1.24¼. No. 3 wheat, $1.21¼@1.22½. No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾@63¼c; No. 3 white oats, 50½@51½c. No. 2 rye, 77¾@80¾c.

Flax—Receipts 8 cars today against 23; shipments, 3. Demand was strong at Duluth May prices. Offerings were light. Closing price $1.65½.

Barley — Receipts, 8 cars today against 10; shipments, 3. Light receipts stimulated the market and prices on all grades were advanced ½c. This market is way out of line with outside markets, thus making the demand purely local. Close 59@61½c.

Millstuffs shipments, 1,479 tons. On account of the strong wheat market, prices advanced. Demand was strong and far in excess of the supply. Shipments were light. Bran in bulk, $22.50@23.00.

Flour was in only fair demand at the best, reported both country and local millers. On account of the advanced wheat quotations, prices were higher. Eastern orders were light and foreign inquiry was almost lacking. Shipments, 39,662 barrels. First patents, $6.00@6.20; second patents, $5.90@6.10; first clears, $4.95@5.10; second clears, $3.45@3.65.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Large shipments of horses are arriving on the market and dealers now have a full supply of horses on hand. Local teaming interests are active buyers. Good business horses are meeting with increased demand. Urgent inquiries for big, young horses are being received and before the week ends several big sales will be consummated. Large consignments of logging horses continue to arrive from the woods which find easy clearance to buyers from the Dakotas and Canada. Fifty head of extra large, rugged, fat mules were among the receipts. Following somewhat higher and firmer values rule.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Active Issues Weakened Under the Weight of Offerings.

Further Declines Occurred Near Close, Which Was Easy.

New York, April 13.—Opening dealings in stocks caused only small changes in prices in spite of a large volume of transactions. The tone was irregular within a narrow range, gains and losses of ⅛@¼ being divided very equally. A rise of 1¼ in Havana Electric was the only change of any note.

Active stocks weakened in the face of sustained demand for a wide variety of obscure stocks. None of the minor issues that were conspicuous in yesterday's advance were prominent in today's dealings, inquiry running principally to stocks which had not been moved. United Railway & Investment preferred gained 2½; Havana Electric, 2¼; American Linseed preferred, 2; the common, 1¾; United States Rubber second preferred, 1¾, and Atlantic Coast Line and International Harvester, 1. American Sugar and Bethlehem Steel preferred lost 1.

Prices turned downward decidedly overburdened by the weight of offerings. American Ice broke 3⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio 1½, Union Pacific, Corn Products and Iowa Central 1¼, and Great Northern preferred, Southern Pacific, Wabash preferred, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda, Colorado Fuel, General Electric, Hocking Coal and Iron, Peoples Gas International Pump and International Paper preferred. Pullman rose 1½ and Western Maryland 1¼. The market steadied before noon. Bonds were irregular.

Except for a spurt in Denver & Rio Grande to 53⅜, the market was without essential change, but the undertone was firmer, Reading rallying to above yesterday's closing.

The market closed easy. There were further declines, putting American Sugar 2 below yesterday's price, Union Pacific 1⅝, Illinois Central 1¾ and New York Central, Rock Island preferred, Chicago & Alton, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred and United States Steel 1. Western Maryland rose 2¼.

Butte-Alex Scott is taking on steam for a further advance. $27.00 for the $2.00 paid is cheap enough. The mines are easily worth $5,000,000.

Here is a message received from Pittsburg last night.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12, 1909.

Come here at once. Bring books of blank certificates for the $2.00 paid and full paid shares, signed by Secretary Thomas Furniss. We will establish transfer office here and put stock on the Pittsburg exchange.
J. G. BENNET, Pres.

I also have another message from Pittsburg which means a world of good for all holders of Butte-Alex Scott stock. One of our directors owns one of the biggest brokerage firms in the country, and they have thousands of customers, and you all know what this means for our stock. He has also wired me to come to Pittsburg at once, and I leave tomorrow night. We generally do some good for our people when we leave town.

LATEST NEWS—There is no question in the world but that as compared with any other of the newer Butte companies, Butte-Alex Scott has a property that will compare with any of them, a management that is unexcelled, a financial basis without an equal among our curb stocks for over three years, a big broad market for the shares including Pittsburg, Boston and all intermediate centers, making it possible to get quick action on either buying or selling orders at going prices. I seriously advise the buying of this stock, because I know it is right in every way and will make good, and every shareholder, great or small, will be greatly benefited in the way of dividends when the mine is under full operation. The shaft is down over 1,200 feet and the big new machinery plant is en route and will be promptly installed and in operation. The market price of its shares has advanced rapidly, but at all times is well maintained and, in my opinion, with the stock listed on the Pittsburg exchange and large Pittsburg interests interested in the stock, you will see an exceptionally high level reached in short order. The big markets are quiet, but holding strong, indicating clearly that the upward movement is by no means over, but, rather, that sharp additional advances are almost certain. Butte-Alex Scott is the leader of the local market, and none of the others can compare with it at present prices.

With our own private wire connections with New York, Boston and the copper countries of Michigan, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and Mexico, we are the best equipped to give you quick executions on all the leading local stocks of any brokerage house in the city.

THE MONTANA-CLINTON COPPER CO.

A new organization of the Copper Country have acquired the Triangle Mining Co.'s property at Clinton, Montana. This property is well along in the development stages. Large bodies of copper ore are shown up. The management is one of the strongest in the Copper Country. The market for this stock will be broad and advices received today from the Copper Country indicate a large over-subscription. The books will be open for subscription at the offices of all local brokers Thursday. Samples of the ore can be seen at the office of McFadden & O'Leary, 212 West Superior Street.

Read Mining Engineer's report below:

Report of HENRY E. KUPHAL, Mining Engineer: On the property of the Triangle Mining & Development company, reorganized and now known as the Montana-Clinton Copper company of Clinton, Mont.

Missoula, Mont., March 29, 1909.

Complying with your request, I again visited the Triangle group of claims on March 23rd, 1909, going over the ground carefully, and also made an examination of the upper workings of the Hidden Treasure Lode, upon which the Triangle company has a perpetual lease. On March 27th I, accompanied by Mr. Gephart and Mr. Hughes, located a water-right of 8,000 inches, made a preliminary survey of Rock creek, relative to the establishment of a power plant.

LOCATION—The Triangle company's property is located in the Wallace (unorganized) mining district, in Woodville Gulch, Missoula county, Mont., about two and one-half miles northeasterly from the town of Clinton, on the main line of the Northern Pacific and the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railways.

GEOLOGY—The formation of this district consists of a granite batholite, which is a large mass of volcanic material, injected between the older sedimentary strata, there cooling and solidifying and naturally changing or metamorphosing the structure of the adjacent sedimentary formation into quartzites, schists and gneises. But as these large masses take a great many years to cool, due to their immense size, they furnish an abundance of heat to the percolating waters, thereby enabling them to take up and carry the minerals which they later deposit at a place where they lose their heat and pressure, such as would be furnished by a fault, or fissure in the mother rock.

All the veins on these claims lie near the contact of this granite and the metamorphic series. The Triangle, Grass Widow, Morning, Big Dipper, Blue Monday and First Day are in the granite, while the Hidden Treasure, Tip-Top, Red Rock Timber Line, Cold Spring and San-Toy veins are in the quartzite.

They are all true fissure veins, having been formed by a rupture of the mother rock and subsequently mineralized by infiltration of the richer sulphides of copper and iron.

The minerals containing the values are chalcopyrite (copper pyrites), bornite (peacock copper) and chalcocite (copper glance) with occasional malachite and azurite, the carbonites of copper, near the surface.

The accompanying gangues are hematite, siderite, quartz and decomposed, or rather, shattered granite. In the Hidden Treasure lode the gangue consists almost entirely of quartz.

The hematite (black specular iron) in the Triangle vein, which I mentioned in a previous report, is steadily diminishing, as added depth is being attained, and at present is almost entirely absent.

CLAIMS—In this group are eleven (11) claims: The Triangle, Grass Widow, Morning, Big Dipper, Blue Monday, Red Rock, Cold Spring, San-Toy, Tip-Top, Timber Line and First Day, Lode Mining Claims.

In addition to the above claims is a townsite, described as follows, viz.: All odd numbered blocks, except Block No. 33 and lots numbered 1, 2 and 7 in Block numbered 3 and Lot numbered 7 in Block numbered 1, Townsite of East Clinton; also an undivided one-half interest in and to all that part of S. E. ¼ of Section 27, Township 17, North of Range 12 West, not included in townsite of East Clinton, except the rights of way of the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railways.

TRIANGLE CLAIM—There are three (3) veins on the Triangle claim, opened up by surface cuts and drifts. The main vein having a drift running in about 540 feet, which would represent a depth of about 450 feet below the apex of the vein directly above. This vein in the present face of the tunnel is about 14 feet wide and continues to widen out as the drift progresses. Samples taken from the face resulted as follows: 2 per cent copper, .5 ounces silver and .02 in gold value—$5.80. An 8-inch seam on the foot wall assayed 15.4 per cent copper, .24 ounces gold and 3.20 ounces silver. A 4-foot seam of ore on the hanging wall assayed 4.65 per cent copper, 1.20 ounces silver and .04 ounces gold. The ore in this vein comes in seams, with poor ore and waste between. It could easily be mined by stripping the waste from the ore, and then shooting down the clean ore for the mill.

GRASS WIDOW CLAIM—The Grass Widow claim is opened up by two small drifts, one 50 and the other 75 feet in length. A vein is exposed here, five to eight feet in width, thoroughly impregnated with chalcopyrite, azurite and malachite. Assays therefrom resulted as high as 26-32 per cent copper, 3-40 ounces silver and 40c gold. This vein could be worked profitably from the surface, but the topography of the immediate vicinity is too inaccessible to permit this without the assistance of a separate tramway, and a far better way presents itself. The Grass Widow vein is parallel to, and about 400 feet from the Triangle vein. By cross-cutting from the Triangle tunnel to a point below the chute exposed above on the Grass Widow claim, abundant stoping ground will be obtained, as a depth of 500 feet will be reached immediately below the chute, and by continuing the drift along the vein, as much as 900 feet in depth can be reached.

HIDDEN TREASURE—The vein in the Hidden Treasure claim has an average width of about 21 feet, opened up for about 350 feet. A stope has been opened for about 100 feet, where the shipping ore is exposed, extending from 100 to 200 feet in height, and about 30 inches in width. Assays of this resulted in 8.51 per cent copper, 46.8 ounces silver and .34 ounces gold.

Samples across the entire 21 feet of concentrating ore, exclusive of the shipping ore, assayed 1.91 per cent copper, 2.8 ounces silver and 0.6 ounces gold, value $7.15 per ton.

This ore could be all broken together, increasing the value of concentrating ore, and milled together, eliminating the cost of narrow stopes and sorting the ore. The stopes could be continued to the surface, for a distance of about 300 feet, on an average of the 350 feet exposed in the tunnel. This would mean about 140,000 tons of ore above the present tunnel, which would represent a value of about $980,000, figuring all the ore at $7 per ton.

OTHER CLAIMS—The remaining claims of the Triangle group all show well-defined veins, but as they are still in the prospective stage, being merely opened up by shallow cuts, much cannot be said about them. But, by comparing the surface indications with like conditions in this district, they can all be relied upon as prospects worthy of further development.

TIMBER—All of these claims are covered with an abundant growth of Tamarack, Pine and Fir timber, which could be easily cut and hauled down to the Triangle claims, where it could be cut up into lumber and mining timber. A site has been located near the Triangle tunnel, where a mill can be erected convenient for receiving the logs from the slopes above and also on the wagon road to the town below.

POWER—Measurements of the water on Rock Creek showed a flow of about 15,530 miners' inches, or 378 cubic feet per second. The fall of the creek at this place is about 100 feet per mile. At this time of the year the water is almost at its lowest point, so that 8,000 miners' inches, which has been taken up, could be had at any time of the year. By carrying a flume with 5,000 inches of water for about a mile, sufficient fall would be obtained to furnish over 1,000 H. P., and also ample head room for the tail race. A pole line of 3½ miles will transmit the power to the mill-site at Clinton, and thence a smaller line could be carried to these mines, to run compressors, sawmill, etc.

MILL-SITE—The company is in possession of a good gravity Mill-Site at Clinton, close to both railroads, where the water could be flumed from the Hellgate river, and ample room could be obtained to dump the tailings. A spur could be built by either railroad from here to within about 3,000 feet of the mouth of the Triangle tunnel.

I understand that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, has promised to build this spur as soon as sufficient ore could be produced to warrant it. From this point a tramway could be built to carry the ore by gravity from the ore bin to the railroad below, eliminating all delays in hauling, on account of bad roads, washouts, etc.

COMPRESSOR—The ground has been broken, near the mouth of the Triangle for the Compressor, which could be put into operation as soon as the power plant is established.

REMARKS—The first efforts of the Company should be directed towards opening up the Grass Widow from the Triangle tunnel. This can only be profitably accomplished by means of a Compressor and air-drills, as the ground is very hard and hand-work too slow and expensive. So the erection of the power plant on Rock Creek should be gone ahead with as soon as possible, and as there can be no interference from high water this can be commenced at any convenient time.

As there is sufficient ore in the present Triangle tunnel and more being continuously opened up as the drift progresses, including the ore already on the dump, with the large body of ore exposed and blocked out in the Hidden Treasure lease, the property at the present time is in prime condition to warrant the erection of a 100-ton Concentrator. So this work should also be pushed so as to have the plant ready for operation as soon as the power plant is completed.

There is ample timber conveniently located to warrant the erection of a mill capable of cutting 25,000 feet of lumber per day, which could be readily sold for from $15.00 to $25.00 per thousand feet. This alone would be an item quite worthy of consideration.

I would advise the erection of a compressor immediately. This could be run at present by a steam boiler, which could also be used to operate a preliminary saw mill, where the lumber for the flumes, power plant, etc., could be cut, thereby saving a great deal on lumber, haulage, etc.

THIS PROPERTY, IN MY ESTIMATION, IS AT THE PRESENT TIME, BEYOND THE PROSPECTIVE STAGE. The Triangle tunnel has proved that the veins are true fissures, and continue to improve rather than diminish in depth, not only in values, but also in width, so that any new work, such as the cross-cut to the Grass Widow and the advancement of the Triangle tunnel, can have no other result than that of improving the present conditions.

Laborer Sues Oliver Mining Company For $20,000 Damages.

Says Sides of the Trench Caved In On Him.

Steve Stanich, an Austrian, 22 years old, this morning filed papers in a personal injury action against the Oliver Iron Mining company for $20,000.

He alleges that in the fall of 1908 he was working at the dump of the Hill mine at Marble, Minn. On or about Dec. 10 he was taken from his work at the dump and set to work digging a trench, which was to be about 500 feet long and about nine feet in depth.

He says in his complaint that the company failed to provide braces for the walls of the trench or in any way guard against possible accident.

When the ditch had reached a depth of about nine feet the sides suddenly caved in, burying him, so that he had to be dug out.

Stanich alleges that he was badly hurt about the head and shoulders, and also that he lost the sight of one eye as a result of the accident. He says also that he has suffered great pain and that he has, since the accident, been unable to work.

He claims that before the accident he was an able-bodied man, capable of earning $2 a day.

In their latest market letter, Hayden, Stone & Co., have this to say of North Butte:

"The recent heavy selling of North Butte gave rise to the suspicion that the developments at new depths had not come up to expectations. We have investigated this matter, and as a result are of the opinion that another reason must be assigned for this liquidation, and that it is probably to be found in the fact that the sellers were placing themselves in position to subscribe to the new shares of the International Smelting & Refining company.

"We are assured on the highest authority that the developments on the two lower levels of the North Butte continue uniformly satisfactory, with indications that the values on the 2,000-foot will prove higher than those on the level above.' The mine is more extensively opened than ever heretofore, the available reserves being estimated to be sufficient from which to maintain the current rate of production for five years.

"North Butte is producing at the rate of about 45,000,000 pounds per annum, and at a cost per pound not to exceed 8½ cents. It will be seen therefore that it will do a little more than earn its dividend even if copper were not to sell higher than 12½ cents. It is no violation of confidence to state that the management is of the opinion that its present dividend rate of $4 per share per annum could easily be maintained on the latter selling price for the metal, so that viewed from this standpoint the stock looks attractive. The company is now strongly fortified in the way of cash assets; it has no large expenditures to face for either development or construction and therefore should be among the first to increase its dividends. Each advance of 1 cent per pound in the price of the metal means an increase in net earnings of a trifle over $1 per share."

MURDER CASE IS CALLED

The murder case of Frank Colom was called in the district court this afternoon before Judge Cant.

Colom is charged with killing Lazzo Evanich at New Independence last November. The afternoon was spent in selecting a jury.

SULTAN LOSES HIS CABINET

Former Grand Vizier May Form the Next One.

Constantinople, April 13.—The cabinet has resigned and the resignations have been accepted. It is reported that Kalmil Pasha the former grand visier, has been charged with the formation of a new cabinet.

ESCANABA EDITOR HAS SECURED AN INJUNCTION.

Escanaba, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alleging that the defendants have conducted a systematic crusade against him, as a result of which his business has suffered, F. L. Baldwin, editor of the Weekly Journal, has been granted an injunction by Circuit Judge J. W. Stone, restraining the Escanaba Liquor Dealers' association and six individuals from boycotting his newspaper, or in any way interfering with or threatening the patrons of the Journal by a secondary boycott. Damages in the sum of $10,000 are asked, and this suit is docketed for trial the latter part of the present month. Mr. Baldwin's paper has been conducting a campaign for reform, and the alleged boycott is said to have arisen from this fact.

AGED RECLUSE DRINKS FATAL CARBOLIC ACID.

Germfash, Mich., April 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leaving directions as to the disposition of his body and advising friends that he would communicate to them "by wireless from beyond," William Sommerville, an aged man, who lived alone at Rexton, on the Soo line, in Mackinac county, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. He was a native of Scotland, a widower and the proprietor of a small store.

DULUTH BANK CLEARINGS

First Report of the Duluth Clearing House Association.

Weekly Statements Will Be Issued in the Future.

Clearing house figures for the Duluth banks were made public today by Manager Moore of the Duluth Clearing House association. The figures for last week, $2,108,689, are the least of any of the weekly clearing house figures since the inauguration of the clearing house in this city, last February.

The reason for the decrease in the bank clearing figures for the past week, is that Friday was a bank holiday, and because bank clearing figures all over the country are showing a decrease just at the present time.

The figures given out today by Manager Moore are the first figures of the Duluth banks to be made public. A weekly tabulation of the figures has been kept since the organization of the clearing house, but the members of the clearing house committee deemed it the best policy to get the association in thorough working order before the figures were made public. Hereafter the figures will be published each week.

The business of the city of Duluth is not what it will be later in the season. Any comparison of the bank clearings of Duluth with other cities at this time, will probably result more unfavorably than such a comparison would when business on the ranges opens up.

The present clearing house is the second that has been organized in Duluth. Some years ago a clearing house was organized by the banks of Duluth. To make the bank clearings of Duluth seem larger, they were padded judiciously. That was in the boom days of Duluth.

It is not the policy of the present officers of the clearing house association to give Duluth any more than it has coming, and the figures will be an accurate register of the amount of business done through the banks of the city.

The present clearing house association was organized with the primary object of facilitating the business of the banks, which has grown greatly since the demise of the former association.

ANXIOUS FOR RECIPROCITY

Winnipeg People Want Trade With United States, Says Schupp.

William Schupp, insurance commissioner for the Canadian Northern railroad, and connected with the Davidson-McRae interests of Winnipeg and British Columbia, is at the Spalding hotel today.

Mr. Schupp says there is a belief among the lumbermen of the Dominion that the lowering of any of the schedules on lumber will be a great help to the lumbermen of Canada, but even with the present tariff upon lumber, Mr. Schupp says some of the British Columbia lumber has been sold in California.

The Davidson-McRae interests are at the present time operating three lumber mills in British Columbia. The mill near Vancouver is cutting 250,000 feet a day, and is capable of operating 700,000 feet. Mr. Schupp says there will be heavy timber operations in the British Columbia country this year.

Mr. Schupp says the people of Canada are anxious to see the tariff question of this country settled. They believe that with the tariff of the United States settled, and the question of the Dominion government out of the way, the way is clear for a freer trade between the two countries. The people at Winnipeg realize, according to Mr. Schupp, that a free interchange of trade between the Dominion and the United States would benefit Winnipeg, and they are anxiously looking forward to an increase in the trade relations of the two countries.

TRIES TO BURN REFUSING GIRL

Man Applies Match When She Declines to Marry.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 13.—Joseph White, 28 years old, was arrested today after an alleged attempt to burn 15-year-old Magdelena Fortuna to death because she refused to marry him.

It is alleged White carried a can of gasoline to the girl's room and, as soon as she made known her refusal, saturated her clothing and the contents of the room, threw vitrol over her and then set fire to the place.

Her screams brought help and the flames were extinguished. The girl, however, is seriously burned.

In the British army there is a demand that the excessive smoking of cheap and bad cigarettes be discouraged or prevented. In several battalions efforts are being made in this direction so as to lessen the practice among the young soldiers. In one battalion company officers are enjoined to have an order against the cigarette read out at every parade. Pipe smoking is not yet under the ban.

THE EVENING STORY

HIS FLIRTATION

By Laur V. Grand.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

The room was a very pretty boudoir in it were two women, both handsome in their different way, the tallest was light haired with blue eyes and a fair skin. She was having a white silk party dress fitted on by a girl who was as dark as she was light. Looking at herself in the long pier glass that hung on the wall, she said:

"I think the style suits me. I am so sorry that you are going back to New Orleans. I never had a dressmaker that suited me so well before. When do you start?"

"I want to leave on the evening train tomorrow. I am so glad that you are pleased with my work," Marcella Train answered.

"Pleased. I should say I was. If you should ever make up your mind to come and live in the North, I hope you will make my dresses for me." Mrs. Ramsdale smiled as she spoke.

"I hope that time will never come, but I thank you for your offer, one never knows what might happen," Marcella replied.

"When do you expect to be married? I will slip this dress off and while you are changing it, I want you to tell me all about it. I dearly love to hear about a romance."

"I do not like to bother you, but you have been so kind to me since I brought you that letter of introduction from your cousin that I would do anything that I could to please you. I was not raised in the South as you can tell by my talk. Philip Cobb, the man I am going to marry, inherited his uncle's barber shop and moved to New Orleans to take possession. That was a year ago. I have sewed for your cousin for some time, and she always liked me. She knew that Philip had gone away. Just a month before I came here your cousin determined to go to New Orleans, her maid was not well, so she offered to take me in her place, and then I could see Philip. I was delighted at the opportunity and decided to surprise him.

'Our cousin gave me the first afternoon off and I started out to find him. I had the street and number, and after inquiring of several people. I found the shop. It was not quite as large as I had expected to find it, but I cared for Philip, not what he had, and I walked up to the door and went in. I heard the sound of laughter from the back room, so walked toward the door." Here she paused.

"Well what did you see?" Mrs. Ramsdale questioned.

"Philip and two girls sitting there as cosy as you please and having a good time; he had the hand of one of them in his. I was so surprised that I could not help crying out.

"Philip looked up and then he was so surprised. He introduced me to those girls as his intended wife and it seemed they knew all about me. I was raging and got away as soon as I could."

"Then what; did you see him again?" Mrs. Ramsdale asked.

"Oh, yes; I saw him that night and every night while we stayed. And what do you think was the excuse he made?" Marcella said, indignantly. "Flirting, if you please. Well I flirted him. I would have nothing more to do with him. But I have changed my mind. He has written to me nearly every day and promised never to do such a thing again. I have been so lonesome that I just felt I could not live without him, so I am going down there and get married. Do you think I am making a mistake?" she asked.

"No, child; I do not. If you love him and he loves you, I think you are better off married. I have the same thing to contend with. My husband is one of the best of men and I feel that he loves me dearly, but he will flirt. He is going south tomorrow night and I suppose he will not be on the car a half hour till he has found someone to flirt with. I would give anything in the world to break him of it." Mrs. Ramsdale sighed as she spoke.

There was silence in the room for a moment and then Mrs. Ramsdale laughed out loud. "I have it, I have it. With your help I think I will cure him. At least I can try."

Going to the door she looked up and down the hall, closed the door tightly, shut the one leading into her bedroom and then pulling her chair close to Marcella's she commenced to talk rapidly in a low tone.

PART II.

It was very near train time when Mrs. Ramsdale entered the depot. She looked around hurriedly and saw the face she was looking for. A nod was exchanged and then she turned to watch the door for her husband's entrance. He looked surprised, but said heartily:

"I declare, I am surprised to see you."

"I was down in this neighborhood and thought it would be pleasant to come to the train.

Mr. Ramsdale had his ticket and they walked down towards the sleeping car, his wife talking as fast as possible. When they reached the car he was to take, the porter took his grip. She stepped back a little and exclaimed: "There is a girl I know she is going to New Orleans; she must be in the same car with you."

Mr. Ramsdale looked up and half smiled at the pretty dark face looking at his wife. Both women nodded and "All aboard." the conductor called: Mr. Ramsdale hurriedl kissed his wife and swung on the step. His wife waived her hand and as she turned away laughed out loud.

Mr. Ramsdale entered the sleeping car, behind the porter and his first glance was towards the girl his wife had recognized.

She was dressed entirely in black, which suited her dark beauty, a big picture hat on her head and long black gloves seemed to complete her costume.

Very pleased that he could use his wife's recognition as a basis to become acquainted with this beautiful girl he said:

"I am Mr. Ramsdale, and as you are a friend of my wife, I hope you will consider that an introduction and let us be friends for the journey."

"Thank you, Mr. Ramsdale, I will be pleased to be friends. I knew you at once, as your wife had shown me your picture. It is very pleasant to have an acquaintance on the train when one has a long journey ahead. I am going to New Orleans; how far are you going?"

"To the same place. It will be delightful to have company."

The train pulled out and the two went to dinner together. When they were at the table he was rather surprised that she did not remove her gloves, but he was so deep in his flirtation that he made no remark.

The next day was spent by the two together in pleasant converse. She received several telegrams at Memphis the next day. One of them was from his wife, and she showed it to him. It was as follows:

"To Miss Marcella Train, Memphis, Tenn.: My husband is on the train. Will you please tell him that I have sent him a telegram to New Orleans. Have you met him? Please answer. Frances Ramsdale."

Marcella showed him the telegram and then said: "I answered at once and told her that you had introduced yourself as soon as you came on the train."

"I am sorry," he said, "that you told her we were acquainted. My wife is always complaining about my flirting, and I suppose she will call my becoming acquainted with you flirting."

The flirtation went on until the train pulled into the depot at New Orleans.

They walked side by side till they had neared the gate, then she pointed to a well-dressed negro standing beside the gate and said:

"This is my intended husband."

"What! Not that negro!" he exclaimed in horror.

She laughed and said: "Why not? I am a negro, too; at any rate I had a negro mother."

Stopping stil where he stood, he looked at her in dismay and horror. She laughed again and said: "Goodby. I hope you enjoyed our little flirtation."

He was too stupefied to answer, and she walked away still laughing. As she reached the gate she turned around and called to him: "Be sure and get your wife's telegram."

He hurried to the telegraph office and inquired for his message. When it was handed him, a grim smile spread over his face, and he knew his wife had put up a job on him. For these words met his gaze:

"I hope you had a good time. Frances."

ORE TONNAGE TAX BILL MADE A SPECIAL ORDER FOR FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Action Taken With Consent of Opponents of the Bill.

Bitter and Unprecedented Fight Made By Bill's Supporters.

Resolution Offered That Is in Nature of a Compromise.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tonnage tax bill was this morning made a special order for Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the senate, with the consent of the opponents of the bill. This was only after a bitter fight by the advocates of the bill, going to lengths not precedented in several sessions. The tax committee made a report on the bill, the majority putting it out without recommendation, and Senators Putnam, Thorpe, Anderson and Seward offered a minority report, recommending that the bill be made a special order for Friday afternoon.

Senator Clague made the point of order that the special order could be adopted by the adoption of the minority report, even though it had been held that advancing the bill required a suspension of the rules, which could be done only by forty-two votes.

President Eberhart overruled the point of order and Senator Clague then moved that the bill be made a special order for Friday. His motion was lost, getting 40 votes, when 42 were necessary, with 22 votes against it. The vote was as follows:

PROTEST IS PRESENTED

Against Tonnage Tax Bill By Cuyuna Range Representatives.

Robert C. Dunn and Coleraine Men Also Oppose the Measure.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The final hearing on the tonnage tax bill took place last evening in the senate chamber before the committee on taxes and tax laws, with about seventy-five representatives of the iron country, mostly from the Cuyuna range, in attendance to voice their protests against the imposition upon one section of the state for the benefit of other sections, a tax for state purposes which at 5 cents a ton amounts to 5 per cent or 50 mills on iron if it is worth $1 at the top of the mine, and 20 per cent or 200 mills upon the averaged assessed valuation of the iron, while other property pays a little more than 3 mills, or three-tenths of 1 per cent, to the support of the state.

START BY PIECEMEAL

Toward Reapportionment of the House Members Is Made.

Bills Passed Requiring Safety Guards Upon Passenger Elevators.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There may be reapportionment yet at this session of the legislature, at least so far as the house membership is concerned.

A start toward piecemeal reapportionment was made by the house yesterday afternoon, when five bills affecting as many districts were passed by the house. In each case additional representation is provided for.

These bills having passed, will lie on the table, however, until the fate of the L. H. Johnson general reapportionment bill is decided. That measure, which leaves the senate practically as it is now, but improves matters somewhat so far as representation in the lower house is concerned, is now at the head of general orders, having been moved there yesterday by Chairman

Elyria, Ohio, April 14.—Fire early today wiped out the Elyria block, a five-story business building, the American theater, a livery stable, damaged the Hotel Andwur and several adjoining buildings. The total damage is estimated at $100,000. No one was injured.

Cleveland was called upon for fire-fighting apparatus and it was several hours before the fire was under control.

The fire started in the Elks' lodge rooms on the fifth floor of the Elyria block and burned out the Elyria Savings & Trust company, O'Donnell Bros., wall paper; W. H. Barnes, shoes; the Eldred company, books and stationery; the Elyria Business college, the Elks' lodge, W. T. Wilder, livery, the American theater and several smaller places, including offices and frame dwellings.

The damage to the Hotel Andwur was slight, although the guests were routed.

Nashville, Tenn., April 14.—The Presbyterian church at Fredonia, Caldwell county, Ky., was burned last night, and Night Riders are suspected. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail.

Washington, Ind., April 14.—Night riders are terrorizing landowners and tenants in the vicinity of Harriman Ferry.

William Schrotucke, owner of 700 acres says twenty men on horseback visited all his tenants and informed them that if they paid greater rent than one-third of the crop raised, their crops would be mowed down before they became ripe. Some of the tenants were threatened with violence.

Farming machinery belonging to three tenants on Albert Himesly's farm was destroyed.

Thomas Taylor, a wealthy landowner, received by mail a package containing powder and matches, with a note of warning of what he might expect if he insisted on one-half crop rental.

A few days ago a stranger entered a store at Ivy and asked the merchant for reduced price on all the carriage whips in stock. This is taken that the riders intend to administer floggings to tenants who will not heed their warning.

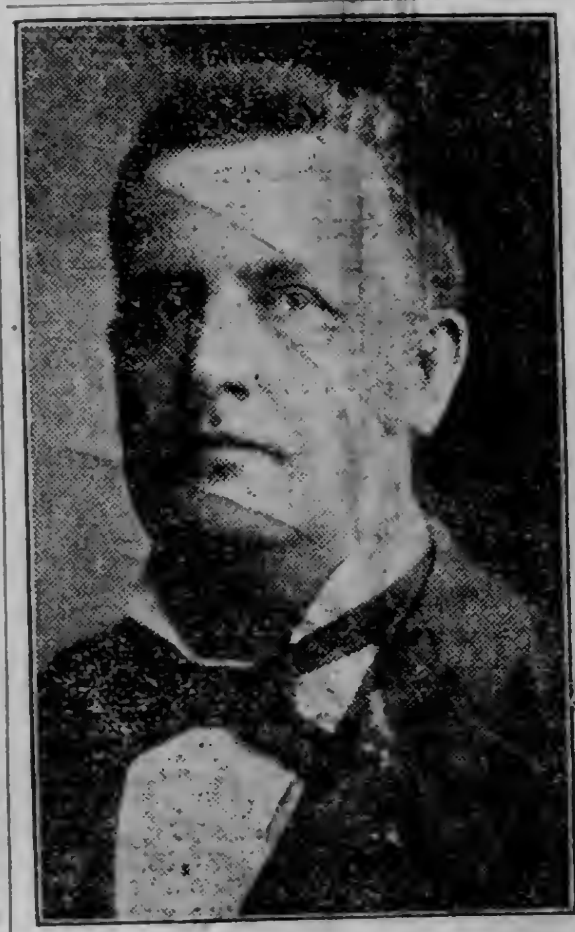
Driving to the home of his former wife, he asked her to be his bride again, and in tears she accepted.

L. A. ROSING IS NO MORE

Chairman of State Board of Control Dies at St. Paul.

Ill for Many Months and His Demise Not Unexpected.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald)—Leonard A. Rosing, chairman of the state board of control and one of the most prominent Democrats in Minnesota, passed away at St. Joseph's hospital this morning, after an illness of many months. Mr. Rosing's death was not unexpected. He improved sufficiently a few weeks ago to be removed to his home here, but unfavorable symptoms developed again and he was taken back to the hospital, where an operation was performed for a blood clot on the brain. He never rallied from the operation.



L. A. ROSING.

Mr. Rosing was born at Malmo, Sweden Aug. 29, 1861, his parents being August George and Charlotte Flintburg Rosing. The family came to Minnesota in 1869, and Leonard lived on the farm until 1882, receiving his education in the common schools. He was a clerk in a general store from 1882 to 1888 and in the latter year started in the

The Turkish Government Faces Most Serious Attempt at Democracy.

Mutinous Troops Are Temporarily Curbed at Constantinople.

Sultan's Horsemen Prevent Further Desertions From the Army.

PROTECTION OF MOHAMMEDANISM IS DEMANDED.

Constantinople, April 14.—The mutineers have made the following demands on the government:

Protection of the Mohammedan faith; dissolution of the committee of union and progress; dismissal of the grand vizier, the minister of war, the minister of marine and the president of the chamber and immunity from punishment for the mutineers.

They reproach their officers with preventing them from offering up the prescribed prayers and with attempting to abolish altogether prayers for the sultan.

Constantinople, April 14.—No definite announcement of the formation of the new cabinet yet has been made and as a result there is some reawakening of the public anxiety. The attitude of small detachments of Turkish marines, who are circulating through the European quarter, is causing growing apprehension. The men appear to be in an ugly mood and they fire their rifles every few yards. Sev-

WILL CURB WEE WARS

Uncle Sam Decides to Cease Selling Discarded Arms.

Has Evidence That Castro Planned to Regain Power.

Washington, April 14.—No more will cheap revolutions in neighboring countries be encouraged by the easy manner in which it has been possible to purchase the old arms of the United States.

Orders have been issued at the war department stopping the practice of selling arms of the United States army and navy.

Cumulative evidence which has reached Washington convinces the officials that had he been permitted to remain in the vicinity of Venezuela, Former President Castro would have made an effort to recoup his lost prestige in that country.

The former president's utterances, printed in the Cologne Gazette, indicating a sentiment in some sections of eVnezuela favorbale to him and to his ambitions, and other advices strongly support the view that Castro felt hopeful of again restoring himself in public favor in Venezuela if chance were given him.

Shippy's Protest Heeded.

Chicago, April 14.—Chief of Police Shippy said today he has discovered that many hundreds of the old United States army rifles have been sold in many Chicago stores indiscriminately, and he has protested to the war department.

"I learned the government had sold a large consignment of the rifles to one man, and that he had sold them in turn to stores throughout the country," said Chief Shippy. "The stores were retailing them for almost nothing and it seemed to me dangerous. With such weapons obtainable so easily the community might be imperiled in times of strikes or riots. The war department has informed me that it will sell no more of the weapons and will melt up what remain of them."

PROCESS SERVERS FIND EVELYN THAW PLAYING WITH A SNAKE

New York, April 14.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has dropped almost completely from public view since the continued confinement of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, at Matteawan, is living quietly at 31 West Thirty-third street, New York.

It was there that she was served last night with papers in supplementary proceedings in the suit of a milliner who got judgment against her last September for $233. Soon after the judgment was obtained, process-servers began a search for Mrs. Thaw, but it was not until last night that they were successful.

The former chorus girl was found in her apartments playing with a snake, which she calmly caressed as she allowed it to coil around her arm. She accepted the service with the comment that she would be on hand for the examination, which was set for April 19. She declared, however, that she did not owe the money, and that the suit was a farce.

LONG TRIP IN LAUNCH

West Duluth Man Braves Spring Storms on Lake.

Spent Winter on Isle Royale With His Family.

Braving the cold lake wind for forty hours in a frail 30-foot launch, George Shannon of West Duluth arrived at his home early this morning from Isle Royale, having made the entire trip in the small boat. He was not alone. Two fishermen accompanied him.

The distance traversed by Mr. Shannon in his launch was in the neighborhood of 200 miles, which is considered to be a feat rarely heard of, even among the "old timers" on the lakes, when it is considered that navigation is hardly open as yet, even for the large vessels.

Huge blocks of ice were often encountered by the party and according to the story of Mr. Shannon, the lake was so rough at times that the men thought it was "all up" with them. But the little craft pushed her nose steadily along, until she safely landed here before daybreak today.

An idea of the difficulties that the boatsmen had to contend with in making their passage to the Head of the Lakes might be gleaned from the fact that ten hours were consumed in making the first fifty miles. The party of three started out Monday morning and were on the lake in the launch until early this morning.

Mr. Shannon and his family have been on Isle Royale all winter. He has a position there as manager of the Washington club. He will be in West Duluth for a week or ten days before he returns to his family on the island. He will probably make the return trip also in the launch.

PROF. LE ROY HERE.

Man Injured in "High Dive" Will Never Fully Recover.

Prof. James LeRoy, who broke his spine in two places while doing the "high dive" at the West Duluth carnival last summer under the auspices of the Woodmen, returned yesterday afternoon on a short business visit to West Duluth.

"I am feeling very well at present," he said, "but I will never be able to do any more hard work." Mr. LeRoy after the accident located at Hot Springs, Mo., where he took treatment for his trouble. He also made a trip along the Western Coast states.

Prof. LeRoy is traveling on the road in the interest of an Eastern firm and "makes" Duluth once in a while. He came to West Duluth for the carnival last summer under the direction of a St. Paul carnival company.

Will Move to West.

Steven Krackenberg returned today from Seattle, where he has spent the winter. He will remain at West Duluth only for a month before returning to the coast. When he leaves for Washington, he will take his family with him and make the West his future home.

Neighbors Entertained.

About forty-five Royal Neighbors of America, the women's auxiliary lodge of the Modern Woodmen, met yesterday afternoon at the home of Arthur T. Brigham, 311 South Sixty-seventh avenue west, and were pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Brigham, who proved to be a delightful hostess. An attractive musical program had been arranged, and it was one of the features of the afternoon. There were games, a guessing contest, refreshments, etc. The afternoon was a highly enjoyable one for everybody concerned.

The "Haymakers."

West Duluth now has a lodge of Haymakers, a branch society of the Improved Order of Red Men. The organization was perfected last evening, J. C. Ramshottom, officiating as organizer. Twenty-three "tramps" were taken into the mysteries of the order, as charter members.

The new lodge will be known as Mesaba lodge, No. 25½ and the society will be headed with the following officers, elected last night: W. S. Callum, chief haymaker; Christ Tracey, assistant haymaker; S. B. Mickisch, overseer; J. E. Foubister, keeper of the straws; and S. E. Kersten, keeper of the bundles.

Swiped Overalls.

The West Duluth police force are on the lookout for a certain gentleman who appropriated to his own use one pair of navy blue overalls last night, from the store of David Harris, 206 Central avenue.

Mr. Harris conducts a small clothing store at West Duluth and the garment in question was displayed in front of the store at 69 cents per. Mr. Harris did not notice the loss until shortly before supper time. He notified the police who are watching for the culprit.

West Duluth Briefs.

Fred Meyer of Chisholm was a West Duluth visitor this morning. He will return to Chisholm this evening.

J. A. Scott returned this morning from St. Paul, where he has been on a short business trip.

The ladies of the West Duluth Baptist church were entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. J. Ross, 5822 Grand avenue.

William Blaney left this morning for a short business trip to Coleraine.

W. R. Hawthorne leaves this afternoon for his farm at North Dakota, where he will remain until the fall crops are harvested. Mr. Hawthorne makes an annual trip to the Dakotas in the interest of his agricultural holdings there.

J. J. McDonald has returned to Ashland after a short business stay in West Duluth. Mr. McDonald is the proprietor of the Commercial hotel at Ashland.

There will be a meeting tonight of Euclid lodge No. 198, A. F. of M., at the lodge headquarters in the Masonic Temple at West Duluth.

A number of woodsmen, who claim West Duluth as their home, returned from the tall and uncut last evening. If work is plentiful at West Duluth this summer most of them will remain through the summer.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Asbury M. E. church met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. B. Abbott, 5609 Grand avenue.

Old Hickory Camp, M. W. A., will be entertained at cards this evening at Great Eastern hall. All woodmen are invited to attend.

The Daughters of Norway lodge has completed all arrangements for its bazaar tonight at Gilley's hall, at West Duluth. Besides the sale of fancy articles, a program comprising several musical numbers, has been arranged. The ladies will serve refreshments to those attending.

Tickets to or from Europe for sale by A. J. Lindgren. Lowest prices.

RAILROAD NEWS

DULUTH MEN TO MOVE UP

A. J. Perrin and George Sherwood Slated for Better Positions.

Will Represent Combined Canadian Pacific Lines in Duluth.

From a reliable source comes the information that A. J. Perrin, at the present time general agent of the passenger department of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, and George Sherwood, general agent of the Wisconsin Central railroad, will be promoted as a result of the merging of the Head of the Lakes interests of the Soo, the Wisconsin Central and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic lines. All three of these roads are under the control of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and there is every evidence given that there will be a consolidation of interests at the Head of the Lakes.

It is stated upon the strength of a story that comes from the general office of the Soo at Minneapolis, that A. J. Perrin will be the passenger representative of the lines at the Head of the Lakes, and that George Sherwood will become the freight representative here.

It is known among railroad men that Mr. Perrin stands high with the officials of the Canadian Pacific, and that Mr. Sherwood is considered one of the best general agents in the employ of the merged Soo and Wisconsin Central interests.

For some time there has been a persistent rumor to the effect that the three lines would merge their interests at the Head of the Lakes. There has been considerable speculation as to what disposition would be made of the affairs of the three lines here. Now it is announced that J. C. Pond, formerly general passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central, but recently made assistant general passenger agent of the combined Soo and Wisconsin Central lines, will not be transferred to the main office of the Soo at Minneapolis, but will remain at the Chicago office.

Duluth will be one of the big terminals of the combined lines. It is said that while General Passenger Agent Calloway of the combined lines, will have direct supervision of the Head of the Lakes district, as he has of all of the passenger territory of the Soo and Wisconsin Central, there will be a passenger representative of the three lines here, and that Mr. Perrin is slated for the position.

The officials of the Wisconsin Central have the utmost confidence in the ability of the strong competing points of the former Wisconsin line. He has made good here, and the story goes that he will be given charge of the freight business of the Canadian Pacific's lines.

It is stated that no changes in the present force of the three railroads will result from the closer merging of the interests of the lines.

ROAD PROPOSES FULL PUBLICITY

Southern Pacific Adopts New Policy Bearing on Accidents.

New Orleans, La., April 14.—A new era in the attitude of railroads in conducting investigations of accidents was inaugurated here when the Southern Pacific put into effect the policy of giving full publicity to such investigations.

Under the new rule, a board of inquiry, which will investigate all accidents, is to be composed of three employes or officials of the road, and some one not connected with the road. Newspaper men will not only be permitted to attend the investigation, but will be notified of the sittings of the board.

WANTS VERDICT SET ASIDE

Virginia Physician Appeals to Judge in Malpractice Suit.

Dr. Charles D. Lenont of Virginia has filed papers with the clerk of the district court asking that the verdict in the case of Christ Christopherson against himself be set aside.

Christopherson sued the Virginia doctor for malpractice and asked that he be awarded $932.52 as damages. The jury awarded him $231.80 and the doctor now asks that the verdict be set aside.

Dr. Lenont was employed by C. R. Ash to care for all the men in his employ. Christopherson had his right arm fractured while at work in the woods and Dr. Lenont attempted to repair the injured member.

Christopherson claims that the arm did not set and that he was forced to come to Duluth, where he called on a local doctor.

GOES AFTER HILL LINES

Canadian Pacific Will Invade North Dakota at Once.

Direct Line to Run From Brandon to Minneapolis.

Winnipeg, Man., April 14.—The Canadian Pacific has decided to at once invade North Dakota and go after the Hill lines. It is announced that the road will extend its branch which now ends at Mowbray, in Southern Manitoba, this spring into Dakota to connect with the Soo line.

The Soo line will also be extended to Brandon, Man., giving a direct line from Brandon to Minneapolis, running parallel and between the two Hill lines which now run into Manitoba, one ending at Brandon and the other at Portage La Prairie. This is in retaliation for Hill's announced intention of building an air line into Winnipeg from the boundary and of building extensive terminals here.

RAILROADS WANT ORDER REVIEWED

Hearing as to the Inter-State Commerce Commission's Power.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—Counsel of the Union Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and roads interested by connection, began arguments Tuesday before Judge Frederick N. Dickson, in the United States court, sitting as special master in chancery, to secure a review of the interstate commerce commission's decision upsetting a schedule of rates on lumber from the coast. The case was heard in Washington last December, argued in March, and decision was rendered in June. The rate had been 40 cents a hundred and the railroads wanted to make it 50 cents, but the commission met them half way and called it 45 cents.

The present action is to test the power of the interstate commerce commission to make such a decision, as stated by the railroad attorneys, without evidence that the railroads' reason for advancing the rate is unjust or excessive; and this evidence, the railroads assert, has not been produced. Testimony will be offered here to justify the advance.

If the court decides for the railroads, the case will go back to the interstate commerce commission to be re-opened or the railroads will go ahead with the rates. Incidentally, if the rates the railroads want go through it will mean an advance of about $2 a thousand feet in the cost of lumber delivered to the handler, but whether that will mean a corresponding increase to the consumer is a question.

St. Louisans Think She May be Their Housemaid.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14.—In the hope of discovering their missing housemaid, who disappeared Sept. 30, 1907, the same morning that $6,100 worth of jewelry was stolen from a small cabinet in their home, Mr. and Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer have gone to Sharon, Pa., to look at Mrs. Helen Boyle, the Whitla kidnaper suspect, under arrest there.

The girl who disappeared was a new employe, Mrs. Dyer knowing her only as Clara. She was about 25, and had "blue gray eyes, with a cast in one of them."

Mrs. Dyer has seen photographs of Helen Boyle and has read newspaper descriptions of the woman. The pictures resemble Clara.

The boat will be used by the quartermaster's department of the United States army.

FIRST TAFT SIGNATURE

Official Document With His Name Received in Duluth.

The first official document to come to the local land office with President Taft's signature attached to it, arrived yesterday in the Washington mail. The document concerned was one in which the president ordered thrown open for settlement a piece of land near Pine City. Today the land in question was homesteaded by Charles H. Smith of this city.

The land in question is located along the shore of a pretty little lake and the banks of a river, making the acreage ideal for a summer resort site for which Pine county is noted.

WANTS COIN FOR GRAVEL

Edward Donnelly Opposes Condemnation of Land as Farm Soil.

Would Have Railroad Pay Him for the "Mineral Wealth."

If a railroad wants to secure a tract of land through condemnation proceedings, to use the gravel it contains, is the owner of the land entitled to valuation strictly upon the price of the land for agricultural purposes, or upon the amount of gravel, at so much per cubic yard, that it approximately contains?

That is a point which will probably be determined by three appraisers appointed by the district court in the hearing Saturday of the condemnation proceedings brought by the Great Northern railroad against Edward Donnelly and a number of Indians.

The land of which the railroad company seeks possession is located about a mile from the Great Northern tracks, near Brookston. Donnelly's tract comprises about nine and one-half acres and that controlled by the Indians, much more.

In the papers filed by the railroad company, it is stated that the road wants the land because of its gravel beds; the gravel to be used in ballasting tracks. It is said that the ground involved contains a superior quality of gravel and Donnelly, through W. E. Culkin, his attorney, is opposing a valuation of the land at the price it might bring as agricultural soil. That would be possibly $7.50 an acre. Donnelly would have the appraisers place a valuation upon the approximate amount of gravel his property contains. Obviously, if Donnelly got so much per cubic yard for his gravel, he would get more money than at the rate of $7.50 per acre.

The appraisers who will hear the arguments Saturday are Deputy Clerk of Court Holloway, P. McDonnell and J. A. Martin. The hearing last Saturday was adjourned until Saturday of this week. Indian Agent Morgan of Walker appeared for the Indians, Mr. Culkin for Donnelly, and J. A. Murphy of Superior, for the Great Northern.

ARRESTED IN GRAND FORKS

Duluth Men Caught in Dakota on Forgery Charge.

One Is Released---Other Claimed to Have Operated Here.

A man giving his name as J. McWalker, wanted by the local police, and A. Zimmerman, up to last Saturday a barber in the Wolvin building, were arrested in Grand Forks yesterday upon a charge of forgery, and this morning, in an East Grand Forks court, McWalker waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury. He exonerated Zimmerman, although it developed that the latter had indorsed the other's checks.

McWlaker is wanted in Duluth on the same charge, although it was not known that he had forged checks here until the Grand Forks police telephoned the news of the arrest to Chief Troyer. The latter put his men on case and they soon found that the man had passed a forged check for $19.50 on Robert Orrey, bartender at the Clarendon, last Saturday, and that another forged check had been passed on "Finn Billy," a Superior bartender, the same day.

The Duluth and Superior forgeries were signed with the name B. J. Spengler, as were the Grand Forks forgeries, and in the Dakota town the men claimed Spengler was a clothing dealer located in the Wolvin building. McWalker went under the name of R. J. Murray in Grand Forks.

Zimmerman was working in the Wolvin building barber shop at the time his friend was cashing the forged check at the Clarendon. It is believed both men left town together Saturday evening. Zimmerman was respected by his fellow barbers, and it was not suspected that there was anything out of the way about him. The man was released in Grand Forks, after McWalker had told the police and court he was entirely innocent.

ANNUAL ELECTION IS BEING HELD

The Commercial Club Will Select Five Directors for Ensuing Year.

The election to fill five places made vacant upon the board of directors of the Duluth Commercial club, is being held today in the clubroms. The five candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be chosen to act. They, with the holdover members of the board, will make ten directors, who will officiate during the ensuing year.

E. L. Miller, D. C. Niles and W. B. Miser are the judges of election. The balloting began this morning at 10 o'clock and will continue until 3 o'clock this afternoon. The result of the election will be known this evening.

D. O. Anderson, J. A. Ferguson, L. C. Harris, W. H. Hoyt, S. H. Jones, W. S. Telford, and A. C. Folk are the candidates that are being voted upon today. Aside from the fact that E. L. Millar offered to wager $125 upon the chances of J. A. Ferguson, there was little excitement around the club during the balloting.

LAKESIDE CLUB WILL PROTEST

Meeting Called to Take Up the Fire Hall Question.

The Lakeside club will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock Friday evening to take up the matter of the proposed closing of the fire hall in that section of the city, because of the lack of funds.

At the council meeting last week a communication from the board of fire commissioners was read to the effect that a shortage of funds would make it necessary to close the hall for the remainder of the year, and the aldermen were asked to grant permission to make the move.

The question was referred to the proper committee for investigation, and probably the committee will be ready with a report at the next meeting of the council, next Monday evening. Lakeside people are very much wrought up over the affair, and claim it would be doing them a great injustice to leave them without fire protection.

It is expected the meeting Friday will vote to send a delegation to the council meeting to voice a protest, and also that resolutions calling upon the city to maintain the hall will be adopted. It is hoped some means will be found for providing the necessary funds to keep the fire-fighting apparatus in the eastern end of the city.

TWELVE MEN CHOSEN TO TRY FRANK COLOM

Prisoner Is Accused of Murdering His Fellow Workman.

Entire Morning Spent in Selecting a Jury.

THE JURY.

B. R. Lower, chiropodist.
Charles Lundquist, laborer.
Robert Stewart, engineer.
John Murphy, farmer.
Charles Winter, tugman.
Fred Nelson, farmer.
Andrew Mattson, conductor.
George Trevienus, dock foreman.
John K. Richter, clerk.
George M. L. Baum, foreman.
W. R. Wasson, lumber worker.
Robert DurocIar, stove repairer.

Much difficulty was experienced this morning in selecting a jury to hear the case of Frank Colom, on trial before Judge Cant in the district court, charged with murder in the first degree.

More than thirty men were examined and all but the above twelve were excused on one pretext or another. Many of the men were found to have scruples against capital punishment. Others were prejudiced against convicting a man on circumstantial evidence no matter how strong that evidence should be. Others had discussed the case and had formed opinions and when the jurymen were finally decided upon it was after the noon hour.

Will be Long Trial.

The trial according to the attorneys will take at least until Wednesday of next week and possibly longer. Warren E. Green, who is conducting the prosecution for the state said that it would take the state the rest of the week to get in its evidence.

Colom will be tried on circumstantial evidence. There is no witness to testify that he saw Colom do the act, which, according to all accounts, was one of the most cold-blooded in the history of the county.

Colom and Evanovich were employed in a lumber camp. On returning to the camp one evening the men loitered behind the rest of the crew.

The same evening Evanovich was discovered by one of the men near a spring with two fearful gashes in his head and a bloody ax by his side.

About midnight, the same evening, Colom, it is said, tried to get away from the camp, but was stopped by the men. Colom was later arrested and brought to Duluth, where he had a hearing in municipal court.

Colom is a very small man. He appeared nervous when brought from the jail to the courtroom and he dropped his head and seemed to shrink from the gaze of the curious ones.

He speaks English with difficulty. His hair is tinged with gray and he wore a suit of overalls, a heavy pair of woodsmen's boots, and a gray flannel shirt.

He is being defended by William Marx and the prosecution for the state is being conducted by Warren E. Green, assistant county attorney.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"The Servant in the House."

"The Servant in the House."

"The apostolic fury of a Paul or Carlyle, the zeal of a Savonarola, and the genial paradoxical humor of a Bernard Shaw seem to have all entered into the temperamental outfit of the author of 'The Servant in the House,'" says the Canadian Magazine. "The artistic equipment is a perfect mastery of dramatic construction with a special predilection for Greek forms, a keen literary sense, and an intimate knowledge of modern stagecraft. It is this dramaturgic skill, the specific understanding of the uses of the drama as a vehicle of expression, that has enabled the author to deliver his message (for such it is, notwithstanding its setting of comedy) with such startling effect. Although written on modern, realistic lines, a form of unusual severity has been adopted, imposing on the 'apostolic furist' a degree of intellectual self-restraint that abundantly proves the indwelling artist and scholar. It also demonstrates, as Ibsen has already done, the perfect adaptibility of the 'classic' form to the treatment of modern problems. The author employs only seven characters in his play and the unities have been strictly observed, the action being continuous and taking place, without change of scenery, in an ordinary living room of a country vicarage. The tremendous cosmic signigficance, the terrific spiritual excitement, crowded into that one room is a constructive feat probably not surpassed by modern dramatists, not excepting Ibsen. The dynamic value is incalculable."

"The Servant in the House" is at the Lyceum all this week.

SICK DOCTOR.

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case when worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way is valuable.

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food; it tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nut is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment."

Absolutely the most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

DEATH OF AN OLD PIONEER

Mrs. Emily McComber Had Lived in Duluth Since 1871.

Mrs. Emily Amelia McComber, a pioneer resident of Duluth, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 1531 East Fifth street. She had lived in Duluth since 1871. Her grandfather sailed with John Paul Jones, and her father was a veteran of the War of 1812. One brother fought in the Civil war with her husband and another brother was a veteran of the Mexican war.

The deceased was born in 1836, in Herkimer county, N. Y., and married Amasa McComber while quite young. She is survived by her husband and six grown children. Four sons, Warren E., William, Charles H. and Franklin A., and the two daughters, Mary E. and Edith. All reside in Duluth. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

PARDON FOR WHITESIDE.

One Time Robber Who Confessed to Be Given Liberty in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., April 14.—To save him from going insane over religion, Knolan R. Whiteside, who has served one year out of three years' sentence in Waupun for burglary, probably will be pardoned by Governor Davidson within a few days.

Whiteside a year ago was converted in a Minneapolis mission and confessed that five years ago he with another man looted the home of L. M. Hanks, a Madison banker, of $500 worth of jewelry and plate. He was taken to Madison within twenty-four hours after his confession and was sentenced to three years in Waupun.

District Attorney Mason and Mr. Hanks favor granting Whiteside his freedom and Mr. Hanks is willing to donate a few acres of land in Northern Wisconsin that the one-time burglar may start life anew.

EXCHANGE FOR CURBS

Duluth Copper Stock Pit Seems an Assured Thing Now.

Majority of the Brokers Are Giving Their Support.

A mining exchange for Duluth where the curb copper stocks may be listed and traded in, now seems assured, through the revival of the old Duluth Mining exchange.

This organization, which has been dormant for many years, is to be resuscitated and the busy copper brokers along Superior street are going into it. Once they do, the issues traded in in this city—which, by the way, is the greatest copper curb in the world—will be bought and sold in a regular trading room, just as they are in the Boston stock exchange.

This move will give the local curb a greater dignity. Most of the brokers are in favor of the move and they have sent in their applications for membership and their checks of good faith, to the officers of the Mining exchange.

The members of the exchange will probably have a meeting tomorrow to act upon the applications they have received from the copper brokers, and when they have done so and admitted the applicants, quarters can be secured and the career of the exchange started again. When the exchange was first formed, iron mining and development stocks were mostly traded in, but now most of the trading will be in copper stocks.

At tomorrow's meeting the plans for the exchange will probably be made known. Arrangements will likely be made for rooms for the exchange, including a trading room in which the members will do the business they are now doing over the telephones, in their offices, or on the sidewalk. The quarters will probably be on Superior street some place near Third or Fourth avenues west, as in that district lie all of the brokerage offices.

In supporting this exchange project, the brokers and others interested, feel that they are accomplishing something worth while, and as the number of curb issues here is constantly increasing, the operation of an exchange would facilitate legitimate business and would prevent many wild-cat schemes from receiving support.

START BY PIECEMEAL

Frank T. White of the house reapportionment committee.

The first bill passed was by Representative White, who made his campaign for re-election on a promise to try to get just what this bill provides. There are four counties in his district Anoka, Isanti, Mille Lacs and Sherburne, and but three representatives. Two of them come from Sherburne county and one from Isanti, leaving Anoka and Mille Lacs unrepresented in the house. Mr. White's bill increases the representation to four, giving each county a member of its own. This is the plan upon which the Johnson general bill is based.

A bill by Representatives Goodspeed and McNeil, the country members from Hennepin county, takes all of the country territory in Hennepin county and makes it into a new district, with one senator and one representative. This, too, was passed by the house. So was Bicknell's bill increasing the representation of the district which includes Grant, Stevens and Traverse counties from two to three house members, and the Melby bill doing the same thing for the district which includes Lincoln, Lyon and Yellow Medicine counties.

If the general bill passes the house, these bills will be allowed to drop. If it does not, they will be pushed, and the districts affected, at least, will get relief.

If the house does not get into too big row over the Johnson bill, there is a fair chance yet to get that measure through, and that would help the situation out materially so far as the house is concerned. The senate is not affected, so it is hardly reasonable to expect that it will defeat the bill, unless it chances that it gets over there too late for consideration.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the Allen vagrancy bill by a vote of 62 to 23, after it had been amended to cut out most of the features to which objection was made when the bill came up before. The original bill gave the police a very wide latitude, so wide that almost anybody could have been arrested under it as a vagrant. In the bill as it passed this power is very much restricted.

Both houses yesterday afternoon passed bills requiring the use of safety guards upon passenger elevators. These devices are intended to make it impossible to move an elevator up with a door open, the theory being that most elevator accidents are caused by doors left open carelessly. The house passed a bill by Representative Nimocks, the vote being 67 to 20. Representative Buck of Duluth opposed the measure strongly, on the ground that it is not needed and that if the device called for is good it will be put in use fast enough without any law.

The senate passed a similar bill by Senator Hinton, after an extended debate, during which, to a large extent, the country senators lined up for the bill with the city members against it. The vote in the senate was 33 to 23.

The proposal to have a legislative reference department to help lawmakers in drawing bills, which comes up regularly every session, was finally laid out by the house yesterday afternoon when it killed the bill by Representatives Washburn, Mattson and Burnquist, providing for such a department in the state law library. Representative Swendsen moved that the bill be indefinitely postponed, and his motion was adopted, 39 to 28.

The house passed the senate bill pensioning citizen soldiers who fought Indians during the Minnesota massacre of 1862, by a vote of 68 to 24. There was much debate on the bill, during which the sufferings and deserts of the pioneers were balanced against the sufferings and deserts of the present-day taxpayers, the former winning out.

The senate bill proposing an amendment to the constitutional provision, regarding good roads, was passed by the house yesterday afternoon. It allows the state to pay one-half the amount spent on any one road, while the amendment adopted two year's ago, allows only one-third.

The house killed Representative Rosenwald's bill reorganizing the Minnesota Agricultural society, which conducts the state fair, indefinitely postponing it, on motion of W. A. Nolan, by the close vote of 52 to 50. The bill required that one of the nine members of the board of managers must come from each congressional district, and it cut out of the society membership the life and honorary members and those representing various societies dealing with agricultural and allied subjects. Mr. Rosenwald said, in advocating his bill, that the fair, which ought to be a state institution, is in the hands of a "close corporation," and that his bill would give it more democracy and more balance.

Representative Stuart yesterday afternoon attempted to bring about a reconsideration of the defeat of the Carlson bill, regulating sales of mining and oil stocks, which was killed Monday by the efforts of the Duluth members. Representative Grant and others objected to reconsidering the bill and taking up more time on it, and on motion of Representative Holmberg the motion was laid on the table.

The senate yesterday afternoon failed to pass the Seward bill, which provides that the supreme court room shall be kept open to the public. It got 30 votes, two votes less than enough to pass it, with 25 recorded against it.

The house had a special session last night on measures affecting cities of the first-class, and passed a number of bills, none of which affects Duluth directly.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

SPREE ENDS WITH DEATH

John Poska Dies Very Suddenly in Duluth Saloon.

John Poska 40 years old, a Finnish laborer, died suddenly in Mattson's saloon, at 340 Lake avenue, last night. He had been drinking, and appeared to feel in fine health and spirits, when suddenly he uttered a cry and sank to the floor, dead.

Acute alcoholism is thought to have been the cause of his death. No one in the place seemed to know anything about the deceased, and it was with difficulty that even his name was ascertained. The remains were taken to Flood & Horgan's undertaking rooms, where they will be held for a few days, to see if relatives can be located.

JOSEPH W. FOLK COMING HERE

Former Governor of Missouri Will Give Lecture in Duluth.

Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri and one of the most prominent figures in the "show me" state, will be in Duluth, April 21.

Former Governor Folk will come here under the auspices of the Star lecture course. His lecture, to be given in the First Methodist church on the evening of April 21, is entitled "The Soldiers of Peace."

Governor Folk first began to attract attention outside his own state when he served as attorney general of Missouri and in that capacity made it exceedingly warm for grafters and persons who thought laws were dead letters. The energy with which he carried on the work of that office impressed his fellow citizens in Missouri, as well as the rest of the country, and they later elected him governor.

FATHER AND SON BOTH DRUNK

Two Other Sons Furnish Bail for Their Parent.

An unpleasant little drama was enacted at police headquarters last night. Carl Stabs and Ernest Stabs, father and son, were arrested for drunkenness. Later on, while the father was berating his wife over the telephone because she was unable to furnish bail so that he would not have to spend the night in jail, two other sons, sober and neatly dressed, entered the station and put up bail of $15 each for the two prisoners.

Stabbs, Sr., is a man about 45 years of age, and of rather rough appearance. Ernest is about 20, and is a fine looking young fellow. Last night he was dressed as a lumberjack. The other two young men are said to be employed in the city. Last evening they were well dressed and bore the look of respectability. Ernest was in such a condition that he was satisfied to remain in jail, but his brothers went into the cell and finally induced him to seek the freshness of the outer air.

NEWS WITHHELD.

Doctors Did Not Dare Tell Girl of Father's Death.

Miss Marie Marcelle of Mitchell, Minn., who has been ill with typhoid fever at St. Mary's hospital since last January, did not learn until yesterday that her father died of the same disease ten days ago. Her love for her father was so very great, and she talked about him so constantly, that Dr. W. H. Magie, the attending physician, thought it best not to tell her of her misfortune until she was in better health.

When told yesterday, her grief knew no bounds. Miss Marcelle, her mother, and her father, were among the victims of the typhoid fever epidemic which swept the small town of Mitchell, near Hibbing, early in the year. Her mother recovered and left the hospital, but her father continued very ill. For weeks the girl's mind has been wholly occupied with her father's sickness. She received news of his condition daily through Dr. Magie, and when reports of his sinking began to come in she was so affected that the doctor was forced to hold back the truth until she was in better condition to receive it.

Bemidji Stenographer to Take Evidence in the Sheriff's Contest.

Bemidji, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Haldemann, a local stenographer, has been appointed by the supreme court to go to International Falls and act as referee in the contest case brought by Henry W. Forler of Littlefork against Hugh McIntosh of International Falls, as sheriff of Koochiching county.

Hugh McIntosh was appointed by the board of county commissioners of Koochiching county to serve out the unexpired term of Sheriff P. A. Walsh, who died last November just after being re-elected for another term. After the beginning of the new year the county board appointed Henry W. Forrier as sheriff for the term to which Mr. Walsh had been re-elected.

The case is of considerable interest to the people in this section of the country and the outcome is being eagerly watched. Mr. McIntosh is represented by George E. Spears of Grand Rapids and Mr. Forrier by Judge M. A. Spooner of Bemidji.

The exact date for the hearing at International Falls has not been set, but it is expected that Miss Haldemann will take the testimony the latter part of this week. The transcripts of the testimony will be returned to the supreme court and it is expected that that court will set the date of hearing about June 1, when the case will be submitted by briefs and arguments.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Please look at my cheek," invited Mme. Yale at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon, and she held it out sideways invitingly. "And my arms and hands," she said. "They are as pink, and soft, and firm, and dimple as entrancingly as they did when I was a young girl."

Some of her auditors blushed. Such a frankness! It seemed almost immodest. Of course, in the seclusion of solitude to silently think what one pleases is a different matter, but right out before several hundred critical women—oh, dear!

"I'm not boasting," explained Mme. Yale, who is the beauty specialist known to the women of America. "I'm just stating facts," and she held one arm pink and round as far away as she could, and lapsed into silence while she turned her head on one side and was lost in admiration. Then she examined the other. Meantime her audience of several hundred did the same. The audience also admired the jewels which flashingly adorned four fingers and one thumb of her hand.

Mme. Yale walked across the stage. Her gown, which was of softest satin and of most delicate daybreak pink, trailed after her. One surmised that the gown of daybreak pink comprised most of the wardrobe that Mme. Yale was wearing at the time. It did not detract in the least from the interest of her walking across the stage. The eyes of her several hundred auditors moved as one bit of machinery after Mme. Yale. She deposited her handkerchief on a convenient settee. Then she walked back again. The eyes of the audience moved again, for all the world like the black Sambos, that are all immobile except the eyes.

"I've been before the public for thirty years," said Mme. Yale.

Her audience did a little lightning reckoning, and then gasped. Why, she must be 50—oh, goodness, no! Meantime Mme. Yale was talking.

"I expect," she said, "to be a perfect woman when I'm [illegible]."

Then she launched into a talk on the hows and wherefores. And how the audience did listen. It involved thought and care, said Madame Yale, and many applications of Madame Yale's almond cream, Madame Yale's skin food, Madame Yale's massage cream, Madame Yale's skin tonic, Madame Yale's shampoo and Madame Yale's hair tonic. The methods were told in detail.

MME. YALE,
Who Admits to Thirty Years Before the Public.

Earlier in the lecture Madame Yale appeared in a symphony of delicate blue satin that was not voluminous so far as the skirt was concerned. There was, however, a long train. It was fashioned very decollete and was ornamented with much gold net. The hat was of the picture variety also blue, and trimmed with long blue plumes. Her golden hair fitted in with this costume delightfully. Then she wore a costume of the national colors with a sash of crimson and stockings and slippers of the same bright shade. There was quite a bit of the stockings to be seen. In this costume Madame Yale did some very fetching calisthenics. She clutched bunches of the atmosphere at the right and carried them over to the left and tossed them carefully away. Her golden hair also became this costume.

In the next act she showed her audience how to walk. Her costume was pink. That is a large description of it, because the pinkness was about all there was of it. Madame Yale was absolutely unhampered in her endeavors to walk. Also her audience was able to see just how it was accomplished. If you see some Duluth women walking down the street presumably on a chalk mark, one foot exactly in front of the other and springing lightly and gladly along, you'll know what the trouble is. It was at this juncture in the lecture, that the one man who had somehow gained admittance and sat on the back row of the parquet stood right up. Receiving some cold glances he sat right down again.

This was followed by the little heart to heart talk and a direction to go to Panton & White's, where her brand of beauty is to be bought, and the audience trooped out to begin operations at once.

Assisting about the rooms were Miss Edna McLeod, Miss May McLeod, Miss Edna Johnson, Miss Hazel Oppel, Miss Florence Oppel, Miss J. McFarlane, Miss Julia Mahady and Miss Mabel Anderson.

ON "IRELAND."

Bishop McGolrick Speaks Before Literature Class.

The members of the Ladies' Literature class and their guests listened yesterday to a most interesting address on "Ireland" by Bishop McGolrick, at the home of Miss Grace Duncan at 2115 East Second street. Many phases of the history of development of the life of the people of this fascinating land were told of by the bishop, whose birthplace is in Ireland and who has read widely and with tender interest of the struggles of the land, and has watched its progress and comparative peace during the last few years.

The early history of the island was spoken of. "The reign of Henry II in the twelfth century, when the persecution visited the people of Ireland, stands out as the blackest page of its history, and it is only within recent years that Ireland has settled into a time of comparative peace," said the speaker. "It is impossible for the Saxon to understand the Celtic character, and wonderful as has been England's progress and the spread of her empire, an understanding of the Celtic nature is something she cannot attain to. The memories of the cruelties of Cromwell persist in the island today, and the worst anathema that can be pronounced upon an enemy in Ireland is 'The Curse of Cromwell be upon you.'"

The beauties of the language of the people, and the efforts made by the English to discontinue it and give them English in its stead, were spoken of, and also the art and music of the land. "'Killarney' and 'The Last Rose of Summer' are beautiful," said the bishop, "but I do wish they would give them a rest and turn instead to some of the wonderfully beautiful and plaintive folk-music of Ireland, or any of their dance tunes, which are gay enough. But it's time that the 'last rose' was left blooming alone for several years to come."

The lecture was closed with a reference to the gaiety, open-hearted hospitality and wit of the people. "Most of the Irish bulls are perpetrated by Englishmen," said the bishop. "Ireland's wit is keen and bright and happy. It never carries a sting to hurt the heart."

This meeting will be the last study meeting of the year. At the next meeting of the class the annual election of officers will take place.

Campaign Continued.

The campaign for memberships for the Young Woman's Christian association was to have closed tomorrow, but it has been decided to continue the campaign until the first of the month. In the effort to secure new members before entering the new building, it was decided to task every present member to bring in three new memberships or renewals. Many have promised, but many also have been laggard about getting the names to the secretary, and so it has been thought wise to continue the work until the first of the month.

There is no increase in the membership fee after entering the new building, but the directors were very anxious to have the membership mark at 2,000 at that time. To insure this it would be necessary for every present member to bring in three new members. So many other matters have demanded attention that there has been little opportunity to stimulate the members in this work. It is hoped that every one will make an effort before the close of the month.

Mrs. F. H. Rogers has secured seventy new memberships and renewals, and at noon today Miss Alice Drew had sixty-nine to her credit.

Dr. Mary McCoy and Mayor Haven will be the speakers at the meeting of the Park Point Improvement club this evening, which will be held at the Mission hall on Park Point. FALSE BOHEMIA.

A Land of Make-shift and Laxity.

If girls could only be made to realize beforehand that Bohemia is the verlest makeshift, making the best of a wretched bargain, and inexcusable except on the grounds of hard, confining work and real accomplishment, which leave no time for the niceties of life demanded by civilized society! writes Anne Evans in the May Delineator. If one painter girl eats, sleeps and lives in a tiny room that is a mess of old brushes, canvases, paint-tubes, soiled clothes, dirty dishes and paint rags because she is working so hard to catch and hold a fleeting picture that she dare not stop over housework, she may be excused. If her hair and dress are untidy because her thoughts are given to creative travail and if she brings forth anything worth while, we may overlook. But when a whole colony of girls adopt this manner of living and dress, and make a cult of it we know they can't all be geniuses, and we believe that most of them ought to be rebuked and made to behave before worse comes of it.

How much better if they had never been allowed to come to New York. Such methods of living are not necessary to real productiveness, nor conducive to serious work. It is only too easy to slip into a laxity of thought and manners which breaks down moral as well as habit fibers society has been striving for centuries to build up. It takes exceptional character to withstand an atmosphere in which proper behavior is considered both provincial and untemperamental. An ordinarily good character does not suffice.

Bohemia is the one place where girls can play hookey from law and order without paying the usual price of ostracism. Bohemians declare that education lies in seeing all phases of life, without considering whether a girl has the wisdom and experience to draw proper conclusions from what she sees. Fortunately for American girls, their home training is usually too solid to permit real harm—moral downfall, I mean—to result from this education. But they are utterly spoiled for appreciating the simple things and people which go to make the world really true and beautiful. Many of the phases they think they have a right to study are none of their business, and never will be.

By the acid test of the enormous competition of New York the talents of the great majority of the Bohemians are found to be spurious metal—"fools' gold," quite inadequate to justify trying to keep up with the procession. Bright hopes make bitter failures. After their careless few years of Bohemian life, most girls go back home in humiliating defeat. It is the best thing for them to do, but, oh, how much useless pain how many worse than wasted years could have been spared by a little common sense exercised beforehand! Back home! The thought, instead of bringing up the picture of themselves as prophets carrying back the streams of art love, means to these girls the most intolerable, the most embarrassing side of their defeat. Facing the question, accounting for each unfulfilled promise, is bad enough, but, to be forced back into a life which they have carefully learned to consider hopelessly provincial makes them little better than discontented captives. The girl you planned so to make happy is a stranger in her own home—"not understood." As she finds no kindred souls there, she mopes, and hates home, pining for the congenial comrades, the freedom, the idleness and the disorder of her dear Bohemia.

THE HURRY HABIT

To It Is Due the Nation's Poor Manners.

"My attention was recently called to an article," observed the retired professor, "in the Providence Journal, in which the writer rebuked us, individually and as a nation, for our lack of manners due to the hurry habit. He classed this habit among the bad, senseless, inexcusable habits; and I fully agree with him. Watch a crowd anywhere, pitching off of trains and boats or surging onto them, fighting for first places going upstairs or down; squirming and elbowing to get through a gateway or an open door, and if you were to inquire not one man Jack or woman Marie could tell you why he or she was on the dead jump.

"The average male being will consult his watch, bound across the lawn, run like mad for a car, hire a cab to break the speed law driving to a ferry, dash into his office as if he had done 100 yards in ten seconds, remove his hat and overcoat, open his desk, pull out a slide, cock his feet on it, light a cigar and wonder what he's going to do next.

"The average female being will bore through a fringe of shoppers nine deep to forge to a bargain counter, and after she's arrived she'll calmly put down her purse and parasol, finger the goods for fifteen minutes, ask questions concerning the prices—past, present and future—and move off lesisurely without buying so much as a spool of thread.

"But the most exasperating citizen I encounter is the chap who's always excusing himself for his neglect of you, on the ground that he's too busy to pause a second. His days and nights are so full, the demands upon his time are so many and so urgent, that you must forgive him if he appears rude. You're willing to forgive him for anything if he'll only forget to apologize. There are thousands of such citizens, buzzing like tops; trotting around a circle as big as a silver dollar and getting from $15 to $20 a week out of life—if they have luck—while their deliberate neighbor next door'll sit down and think a few minutes and earn $100,000 a year.

"Deliver me from the man who tries to create the impression that the Lord's on a vacation and that he's running things for Him."

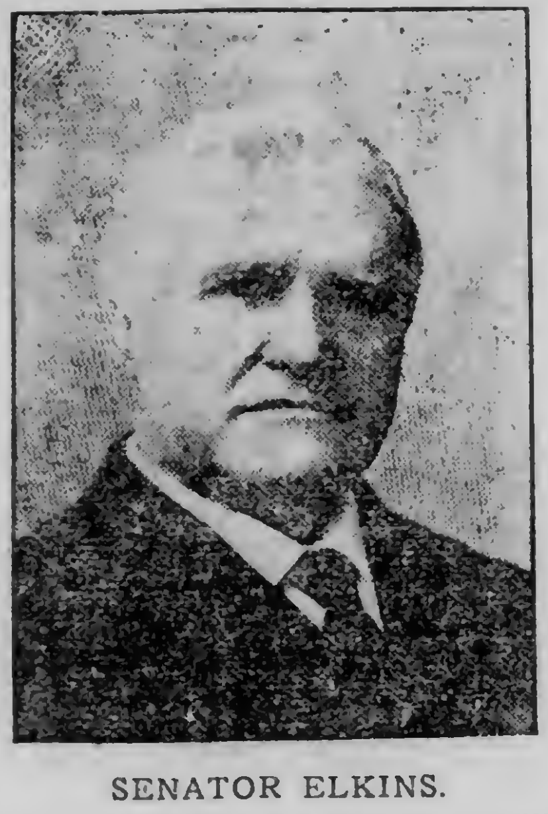
HOUSE MEMBERS DOUBT THAT ALDRICH'S TARIFF BILL CHANGES INCREASE LEVY ON LUXURIES, CUTTING NECESSITIES

Senator Elkins Still Finds Fault With the Measure, Complaining That It Is Not in Accord With What President Taft Desires.



SENATOR ELKINS.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Aldrich will make a brief statement to the senate tomorrow in which he will explain the absence of revenue producing features in amendments to the house tariff bill.

Senator Elkins still criticises the bill. He says it is not in accord with President Taft's outline of a bill.

The message from the house asking that the Payne bill be returned for a correction of the petroleum schedule will be received tomorrow. In view of the fact that the bill had been given to the finance committee, amended and reported back to the senate, it is not likely that the bill will be permitted to go back to the house. Senate leaders take the position that there is no necessity for the return of the bill to the house as the finance committee intends to offer amendments on the floor to the petroleum schedule, which will entirely efface the error which crept into the bill at the time it was passed by the house.

That portion of the bill to which the words "and its products" are to be added by the clerk of the house, have been stricken out by the senate committee and it would be necessary for the senate to amend the correction desired by the house. It is therefore thought to be an unnecessary waste of time to return it.

In the house the statement that the Aldrich amendments to the Payne bill tend to increase duties on luxuries and reduce them on necessities, is taken with a grain of salt. It is pointed out by Republican members of the ways and means committee that the necessities which are reduced are cocoa and spices, which the ways and means committee made dutiable for revenue purposes. On the other hand, wheat, corn, barley, rye and other agricultural products, many of which are used on the breakfast table, have been greatly increased. While the increased duties on gloves and hosiery have been taken off by the senate finance committee, the general opinion prevailing in the house is that the amendment to restore the Dingley rates is intended partly, at least, for use in conference.

Several other changes made by the senate committee are interpreted in the house to be for the purpose of obtaining satisfactory compromise when the bill is in conference. The striking out of the retaliatory provision on Turkish tobacco and the restoration of the Dingley schedule on wool are suggested as offering possibilities in this respect. The duty on tops, which was considerably reduced by the ways and means committee and restored by the senate committee is deprecated by some members as prohibitive. Representative Vreeland of New York and others who have endeavored to obtain protection for petroleum are actively engaged in impressing the members of the senate with their views.

The new provision placed in the bill by the senate committee which imposed a duty of 35 per cent ad valorem on foreign built yachts and pleasure boats purchased by American citizens, is held to be unconstitutional by members of the house ways and means committee. "We devoted an entire day to the discussion of such a duty," said one of the prominent Republican members of that committee today, "and we decided that it was not for us to propose such action. The supreme court of the United States has decided that a yacht cannot be imported and therefore we decided not to include such a provision in the bill."

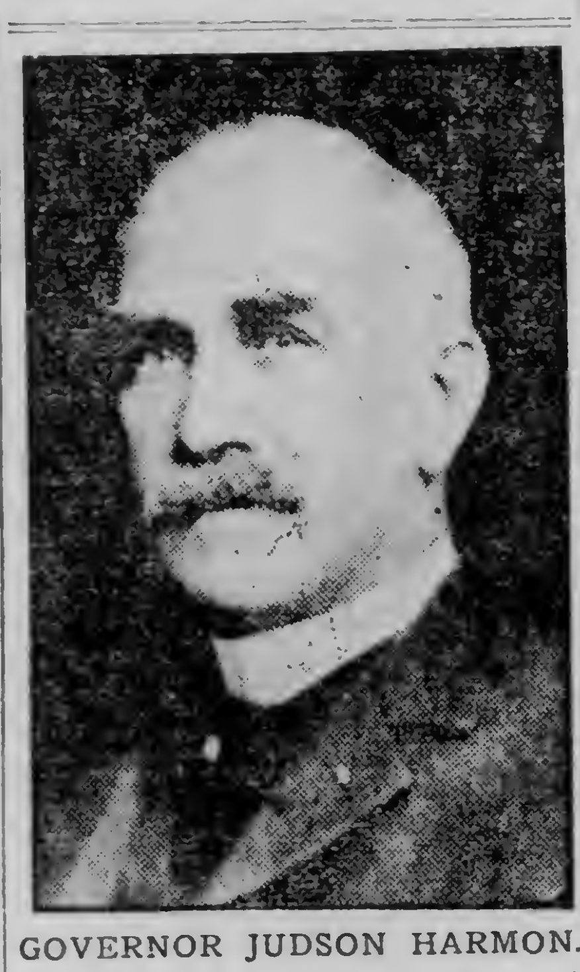
TARIFF BILL SHOWN UP AS BIG FAKE BY GOVERNOR HARMON

Ohio Executive Makes Address at National Democratic Club Banquet in New York.

Says Taft Offered Spoils in Exchange for Votes From the Democratic Party.



GOVERNOR JUDSON HARMON.

New York, April 14.—A protest against what he declared were growing encroachments of special privilege at Washington, and particularly as embodified in tariff legislation, was the key note of the address of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio at the National Democratic club banquet last night. Asserting that reductions in the pending tariff would be only mockery of the demand for relief, Mr. Harmon declared that real relief never would be secured, except under a legislative and executive following Jeffersonian rules and treating taxation as a means of public revenue and not of private gain.

Many Democratic notables from other states attended the banquet including Thomas R. Marshall, governor of Indiana and George E. Chamberlain, United States senator of Oregon, Mayor McClellan, Governor Johnson of Minnesota, William Jennings Bryan, Governor Swanson of Virginia, Governor Burke of North Dakota, President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, Champ Clark, Senator Culbertson of Texas, Representative Rainey of Illinois and August Belmont sent regrets.

"Special privilege can take no form, however specious, and assume no garb, not even the flag of the union," said Governor Harmon in his address, "which can hide it or win favor from the political descendants of Thomas Jefferson. Nor can tolerance of it by them be won by a real or promised advantage, public or private. It would cost too dear in the end, as witness the tariff taxes and their brood of trusts and monopolies which have aggravated the natural inequalities in the distribution of wealth and spread harm and discontent among the people."

"The steady tendency since the Civil war has been to exalt the Federal government at the expense of the state," said the speaker, "one result being the neglect of economy and the embarkation of the government into extravagant enterprises." He instanced the action of the last congress in appropriating $2,000,000,000 and the raising of salaries in the face of a growing shortage of revenues, and continued:

"Now, instead of seeking methods of retrenchment to meet a present confessed deficit of more than $100,000,000, the president and congress are devising additional taxes to be exacted from the diminished means of the people and proposing to issue bonds besides. State officials who would propose such a course would not dare to go home to their constituents and would be forever disgraced if they should take it.

Grip Only Loosened.

"After twelve years of false pretenses at last confessed to, which have bred and fattened countless monopolies and trusts, it is proposed, not to shake off their grip, but just to loosen it a trifle here and there so the people may not be utterly devoured.

"But sincere though this tardy and tender purpose doubtless was on the part of some, the signs of practical denial or pretended fulfillment of even this slender relief multiply daily. Old devices are being employed and new ones invented to maintain the favor taxes undiminished, with or without a false show of reduction; lower rates to be applied wit hhigher modes of valuation, cunning phrases, whose effect is now known only to their authors or to a few experts; duress ostensibly to retaliate on other countries, but really meant to secure monopolies of our home market, as in the case of the innocent looking clause in the present law, which has made the Standard Oil trust impregnable to competition.

"The wage earners, for whom there is the usual show of deep interest, are not present or represented in the pulling and hauling which is going on so as to secure the advantages professed to be for them. The increase caused by the tariff in prices charged the people of this country will mostly go, as it has gone, to make unnatural profits for the employer whose solicitude for his workmen does not even take the form of fair division of the spoils. And the burdens are being laid, as always, chiefly on the wage earners themselves and other citizens of small means. Nobody who can reason effect from cause, or the future from the past, expects any real relief to the people who consume, and, therefore, have to pay, no matter what the present congress may do or pretend to do. Some luckless interests whose pull has grown weaker or been overcome by a counter-pull, like the wood pulp paper trust, may with great ceremony be annointed with the oil of sacrifice for the salvation of the other, but the reductions, when real, will be a mockery of the cry for relief and leeches, diamonds, false hair and other necessities of life will not be overcrowded with newcomers on the free list; while the open increases in the charges bid fair to equal if not to exceed the reductions.

"The only real gain will be in the forced and belated confession that the people ought to have relief. But real relief never will be secured save by a president and congress who enforce Jeffersonian rule and deal with taxation as primarily a means of public revenue and not of private gain.

Selfish Scramble.

"It is hardly fair for Republicans, at least to charge with inconsistency Democratic congressmen who take a hand in this selfish scramble. In the last campaign the Republican candidate for president openly offered a share of the tariff spoils for Democratic votes. When special favors are the order of the day, it is natural for a representative to think he ought to secure a share for interests at home. To do otherwise, requires high courage, and we are proud of the many who show in the face of the demoralization in which legislation for private instead of public interests always produces. But seeking a share of special favors when they are going is quite consistent with the belief that there ought to be no favors to anybody, and with a willingness to vote accordingly if opportunity should be given. But no such vote is now possible. No proposal to abolish all special favors and legislate for the general good alone could be brought before this or any Republican congress and would serve no purpose if it could except to give occasion to express the Democratic view which everybody knows already."

Judge Harmon attacked the policy of spending hundreds of millions of dollars for a canal at Panama on the part of what he said was a country practically without ships, taxed against the possibility of buying any, and with the only proposed means of encouraging shipping the payment of direct subsidies to a favored few out of money raised by taxes on all the people. The speaker added:

"And why tax the people to build a costly canal and secure ships for foreign commerce, while a tariff system is maintained whose purpose and effect are to discourage or kill foreign commerce, except such as consists in selling our products abroad at less prices than are imposed on our own people? What state government ever committed such folly?

"Surely, instead of the Union dominating the states which compose it, it would be better far if the states would require from the central government, which their people established and maintained, strict observance of the same principles and practices of economy, fairness and equality of rights and benefits which have always prevailed in them. This can never be under the rule of the Republican party. Its leaders are under too great obligations by check book and at the ballot box. But Republican voters share equally with others the impositions by which these obligations are repaid. They cannot longer be deceived, and they know that relief can come only through the agency of the party founded by Jefferson, which owes its more than a century of life to fidelity to its teachings."

Denounces Convention System.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, who was down on the program to respond to the toast, "The Democracy of the Pacific Coast," made an impassioned address in defense of the district primary principle of nominations.

"The convention system again and again has been proven to be a corrupt and unrepresentative system of government," he said. "The people of the Pacific coast have awakened to a realization of this, and from now on the people of that section intend to have a voice in the management of their affairs, both local and federal."

Governor Marshall of Indiana assailed the good faith of the Republican lawmakers in Washington in their, to him, transparent efforts to cloud the issue of protectionism.

THIRTEEN JURORS FOR CALHOUN

Court Takes Precaution Lest There Be a Mistrial.

San Francisco, Cal., April 14.—Thirteen jurors will hear the evidence in the case of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railways, charged with offering a bribe to a former supervisor.

Provision for the odd juror was made by Superior Judge Lawlor upon application of the prosecution, and after the defense had opposed. In rendering his decision, the judge expressed a determination not to endanger the work of thirteen weeks by neglecting any precaution that might insure an uninterrupted trial.

To qualify the twelve men now seated in the box, it was necessary to summon 2,610 citizens, 887 of the number being actually interrogated by the attorneys. The trial has been in progress ninety-nine days, and sessions of the court have been held sixty-two days.

Y. M. C. A. FIRES ORCHESTRA.

Manitowoc, Wis., April 14.—Because Taite's Juvenile orchestra is advertising a concert and dance at the Turner opera house for next Friday evening, its members are all to be expelled from the Y. M. C. A., according to an edict that has gone forth from President C. H. Sedgwick of the Y. M. C. A. The boys, however, have unanimously voted to go on with the concert and dance and as a result the Y M. C. A. will be twenty members shy.

BLOOD-CLEANSING SPRING TONIC

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an Ideal Spring Medicine That Never Fails to Put the Blood in Right Condition and to Make Life Worth Living.

Now when the gentle spring days are here and the seasonable Spring showers are revivifying all nature, and all plant life is starting to bud forth in glory, many a man and woman does not feel the joyousness which they should at this season. Rather they feel languid, tired, have very little or no appetite, ambition is gone, lack energy, enjoy neither work nor rest. Life in their case at least is largely a burden, a thing to be endured, not to be enjoyed. All this simply means that the system needs toning up, and each and every function of the body needs stimulating and strengthening. This once accomplished, life again becomes a joy and pleasure.

If your system is in need of a blood-cleansing tonic that will start and then keep the whole machinery of the human frame running smoothly and naturally, it is your evident duty to seek out and find some tried, approved and safe remedy that will do the work of cleansing the blood and building up the tissue without at the same time leaving any injurious effects.

Many physicians prescribe and indorse Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as an ideal Spring medicine, one that does its work effectively in purifying the blood, in stimulating the heart, in aiding digestion and in adding fresh vigor and life to the entire body. Large numbers of those who have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey are most loud in its praise.

It is the only absolute preventative and cure of pneumonia, consumption, grip, bronchitis, asthma, stomach and nervous diseases, malaria and low fevers.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 per bottle.

If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with an illustrtaed medical booklet, containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the world's greatest medicine.

ARGUMENTS OF INSULTS AND INDIFFERENCE.

In order that any proposal, involving the moral and physical welfare of a great state, on the one hand, and threatening on the other a violent change in the conditions of life in one great section of that state,—in order that any such proposal should be entitled to serious consideration at the hands of the people of the state, it should be supported by sound and weighty reasons. Those who speak and vote for such a proposal should be able to advance clear and conclusive reasons of unquestionable authority for their action.

Such a proposal is the proposal to levy a tonnage tax in Minnesota upon iron ore. But although this proposal has received the approval of one branch of the legislature, is favored quite generally by the public press in those sections of the state not directly affected, and is about to come to a vote in the higher branch of the legislature, with the chances of a close vote admitted, yet it has come thus far practically without argument in its behalf and in the face of a dozen unanswered arguments against it of the greatest weight. Practically the only argument for the tonnage tax in the legislature has been made by Representative Bjorge. His argument has been torn to shreds by the replies made to it, while he himself, by his numerous admissions of the inequalities and unfairness of his bill, condemns it as at the best a most doubtful measure.

Instead of argument the state press has brought to the support of the proposal for a tonnage tax insult, indifference and ignorance,—these when it has not been busy with pure prejudice. The Herald does not exaggerate. It has scanned the columns of the country press of Minnesota for weeks in the effort to find an argument in favor of the tonnage tax. With two exceptions it has found in the more than 700 papers of Minnesota no attempt at argument. The two exceptions are the Northfield News and the Cannon Falls Beacon. The former has confined itself very largely to an attempt to prove the bill constitutional, while its arguments were marred by appeals to passion and prejudice by the constant interjection of slurs upon "the steel trust." Its statements of fact have been repeatedly shown to be erroneous, and it has never advanced any argument other than those advanced by Representative Bjorge, arguments which have repeatedly been proven to be utterly without foundation. The Cannon Falls Beacon has from time to time made some little attempt to justify the tonnage tax by actual argument. Two arguments advanced in its issue of last week are fairly illustrative. In this issue the Beacon contends: 1. That an ore deposit differs for the purpose of taxation from other property in the most radical manner in that "it is a physical impossibility to value accurately an ore deposit." In this the Beacon speaks from pure ignorance. There is not an iron mine being worked in Minnesota today the character and extent of which is not accurately known. The kind of ore and the number of tons in every mine is known most precisely, and it is the testimony of the state tax commission that it has been afforded every means of access to this information by the mine owners. 2. The Beacon says that the tonnage tax would give stability to business in the iron country because the amount of tax is exactly known. This is not only ignorance, but childishness. The ad valorem tax tends to make business in the iron country more stable in that it is constant and the mine owners will be taxed every year whether they take out the ore or not, whereas under the tonnage system they will have additional reason to lighten expenses in a poor year by the suspension of mining in order for the time being to escape taxation. The Beacon, and others like it, cannot seem to understand that if mining stops, or is partially suspended in the iron country, all other business is stopped in equal measure.

These citations show that where argument is honestly attempted in favor of the tonnage tax it is based in every case upon ignorance. But what of The Herald's charge of insult, indifference and prejudice? These charges are sustained over and over again in the country press of Minnesota each week. To quote the Freeborn County Standard of last week: "The steel trust gave the senators a junket with all the hilarious accessories to the iron mines Saturday, and we shall soon know, when the vote is taken on the tonnage tax bill, what effect the spree had upon the senators." This is the Standard's argument of last week in favor of a measure of the highest importance to the state. It is a gross insult to the people of Northeastern Minnesota, who out of their own pockets paid for the expenses of the trip. Not only did the people of Northeastern Minnesota pay these expenses in order to acquaint the state senate with their actual conditions, to the end that they might save their property from the destruction which threatens it, but 300 of them paid their expenses to St. Paul to present their protests in person to the senate, a protest unexampled in the history of Minnesota or any other state. Such ribald and wanton insults to a whole people are the tonnage tax "arguments" appearing in perhaps a dozen newspapers of the state last week.

As to The Herald's charges of indifference and prejudice, every word that has been uttered by any other paper of the state during the last week in support of the tonnage tax is proof of the charge. Excepting the two papers named above, and excepting the insult to the people of Northeastern Minnesota here mentioned, every advocacy of the tonnage tax has been either a careless statement that the "people of Northeastern Minnesota are needlessly alarmed," or a self-complacent announcement that "the steel trust ought to pay its fair share of the state's taxes." Such statements, unsupported by facts or arguments, are absolutely puerile as showing the justice or the wisdom of the tonnage tax. Of course the steel trust should bear its share of the burdens of taxation, but what man would be so silly as to attempt to justify a bushel tax on wheat by saying that the farmer should pay his share of the taxes?

If the tonnage tax principle is just, if it is wise and right to find a special system of taxation to apply to Northeastern Minnesota as against the rest of the state, surely there are weighty reasons that will clearly demonstrate that wisdom and that justice. Yet instead of facts and logic and reason to support the tonnage tax proposal we have only ignorance, prejudice, indifference and insult.

Surely the great state of Minnesota ought to have better reasons than these for putting the prosperity of more than 200,000 of its people in peril.

BREAKING THE LAW TO ENFORCE IT.

A nice question of civic morals is raised by a New York state judge in refusing to sentence a man pleading guilty to an offense to more than the minimum punishment on the ground that the defendant was deliberately persuaded to break the law by officers sworn to enforce the law. "I do not approve," the judge said, "of officers of the law going out and trying to get people to violate the law."

Of course officers of the law do not deliberately attempt to procure violation of the law solely for the purpose of having some one to punish. Their object is laudable, in that they are attempting to secure proof against one whom they are confident is a constant violator of the law, but concerning whose violations they are unable to secure actual proof. In the New York case here mentioned two constables visited a saloon keeper on Sunday and induced him to sell them liquor in violation of the law. Their object was good in that they believed the saloon keeper to be a constant violator of the law, but the wisdom of their methods may well be questioned. To descend to criminal acts in order to punish a criminal is a method of doubtful efficacy in the prevention of crime or the promotion of good morals. An officer of the law, who himself breaks the law, and that deliberately, to secure evidence against a suspect, is in the particular instance, twice the criminal that is the suspected offender, for the officer not only breaks the law himself but induces another to break it also. All is fair in war is a statement that must be taken with limitations, and in the warfare on crime it should be applied with care.

It will be far better for the state when all such attempts are abandoned in the enforcement of justice. Justice obtained by injustice is a very doubtful sort of justice. If the difficulties in the way of securing a conviction of known violators of the law are too great, they should be overcome, not by deliberate violation of the law by those sworn to enforce the law, but by such a making of the law as will make the offense plain and certain. It is certainly possible to make the law so plain and definite that its violation may be easily proved.

LET THEM LOOK ON THE FLAG.

The same spirit that has prompted the flying of the Stars and Stripes on every schoolhouse in the land has moved Clerk of the District Court E. C. Gearey of Fargo, to hang a fine silk flag of the United States of large dimensions in his office. Directly beneath the flag, as if protected by it, is a large map of the United States and its possessions. Before this map and beneath this flag every man must stand when he takes the oath of citizenship in Cass county, North Dakota.

It is Mr. Gearey's theory that the naturalization of a foreigner, the process by which he becomes a citizen of the United States, protected by it, endowed with all its blessing and assuming all its responsibilities, should be made as impressive as possible. To the beautiful flag of his adopted country the attention of the new made citizen is then called at the moment of his adoption. The flag is the symbol of all that the country means to its people; in that sign they have secured to themselves the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and it is eminently fitting that when new citizens are made their attention should be called to that symbol, to the end that whenever in the future they may see it, it may awaken in them anew the inspirations of freedom.

There is call for pure patriotism today, just as surely as there was in the days when the continental fathers bled to win freedom for themselves and their posterity, just as surely as there was when the nation travailed that all men might be free without distinction of race, color or previous condition of servitude. The patriotism of today does not call to arms, but it does sound the trumpet call to high purpose nevertheless. There are battles to be fought and battles to be won in these days of peace no less than in those days of war, and a patriotic citizenship must recruit the rank and file of the army.

Peace has its problems, no less than those of war. A high minded, thoughtful citizenship, true to that same conception of liberty which animated our forefathers, is needed today on the part of every citizen. The flag is the symbol of it, and it cannot be too much before our eyes.

The public welfare does not seem a matter of such very great importance when it runs counter to one's individual welfare. Each one thinks that it will not do any great harm to make an exception in his individual case. It wouldn't, only that each other one is thinking the same thing.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Victor L. Power, at the St. Louis yesterday, stated that the people of the range believed that if the Bjorge tax measure were defeated in the state senate the range country would enjoy one of the best seasons in its history.

All over the range, according to Mr. Power, they are preparing to meet the consequences of the tonnage tax measure. In other words, the business men of the range have considered what the passage of the measure will mean to the interests of the range, and in the event of the passage of the bill, business men will be prepared to meet the worst.

Mr. Power stated that many of the range people are of the opinion that the bill will be defeated by the senate. However, should the bill pass, Mr. Power says the people of the range will be prepared for the results.

Nate Lewis of Chicago, who was at the St. Louis yesterday, and who is one of the best known athletic promoters of athletics in the country, stated that the wrestling match this evening in Chicago between Gotch and the latest "Terrible Turk" promises fair to outdo the match with Hackenschmidt in popular interest.

Mr. Lewis states that though at first the chances of the Turk were laughed at, there is an opinion that the subject of the sultan has an almost equal chance with the champion of the world. This belief has sprung, according to Mr. Lewis, from the fact that the Turk is believed to be a stronger man than Gotch, and, if more deliberate at times, possesses nearly the speed of the Iowa farmer.

Down in Chicago Mr. Lewis says there are many wise ones—if anyone can be called wise who wagers on a wrestling match—who are staking on the opinion that the Turk rolls the man from home.

It ought to be a great match, thinks Mr. Lewis, who hurried home to be able to witness it. Mr. Lewis hints that a great many of the talent are of the opinion that the crown will be lifted from the forehead of the Iowa man. It is simply a case of wait and see.

C. P. Montgomery of Marquette, who was at the Spalding yesetrday, says the people of Michigan have pulled for the free admission of lumber, and that the action of the house in permitting some duty to remain upon lumber has met with the approval of the citizens of that state. It might be added that the citizens of Minnesota are largely in accord with the opinion of the timber schedule held by the people of Michigan.

P. A. Smith of Fort Frances is one of the lumbermen who believes free admission of lumber will help, not hinder the development of Minnesota. At the St. Louis, Mr. Smith stated, the other day, that there would be no injury worked to the lumber business of this country through the admission of Canadian lumber, without duty. He stated that it would be a case, sooner or later, of this country having to import lumber, and that the problem might as well be faced at the present time as later.

Mr. Smith pointed out that there was not sufficient lumber in this country to serve the interests of the United States for a great while, and that it would not be a very long time before there would have to be an importation of timber. Mr. Smith suggested that while the members of the senate were at the job of looking over the tariff schedule, they arrange it so that more lumber could come from the other side of the boundary, and meet the prices charged for timber in this country.

C. E. Clarke of Virginia, at the Lenox yesterday, stated that a final decision as to whether Virginia would have a baseball team during the coming season, had not been made. Mr. Clarke stated that it looked at the present time as if there would be no baseball in Virginia, but there would be an effort made by the business men of the city to put a team in the field.

Mr. Clarke said that if Virginia didn't put a team in the field, there would be a loud and generous laugh from the direction of Hibbing. For that reason, if no other, the gentleman from Virginia stated that the business men of Virginia would make strenuous efforts to put a team in the running.

THE WEATHER.

CLOUDY

There was nothing doing in the rain department of the weather factory last night, and old Dame Nature flaunted a beautiful spring night in the face of the disgusted hilltop prophet. Foiled again. Mr. Richardson looks for partly cloudy weather tonight. A year ago today the weather was almost sultry.

The sun rose this morning at 5:22 and will set this afternoon at 6:55, making thirteen hours and thirty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours light rain or snow fell in most districts to the eastward of the Mississippi valley, and over Northwestern Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, Colorado, Montana, Manitoba and Alberta, due to barometric disturbances off the South Atlantic coast and over New Mexico and British Columbia. Temperatures have risen somewhat in the Southwest and Northwest, but freezing weather continues from Nebraska and Iowa northward. A rise in pressure in Eastern states and the Rocky mountains is attended by colder weather. The barometer is high over the lake region and off the North Pacific coast. Generally fair weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes tonight and Thursday."

Knocking.

Never a writer of childhood pomes,
  Never a writer of tales of gore,
Never a writer of tomes and tomes,
  Of the learnedest kind of lore.
Never a writer of roundelay,
  Never a writer of songs and hope
Finds a reader at all today,
  The world is reading the baseball dope.

Like this:

When the new one from the bush league faced the pitcher, pawed the dirt, when he spit upon his left hook, wiped the dirt off on his shirt, when he braced his legs and bellowed as he swung the mighty bat—and so on, so on, and so on, yards and yards of stuff like that.

Never a writer of romance rhymes,
  Never a singer of songs that squeeze
The feelings deep till a tear up-climbs,
  Never a song to a summer breeze,
Never a song of a butterfly,
  Never a song of a sunkissed slope
Lures the public to bat an eye,
  The world is reading the baseball
    dope.

And this:

There's a tip out that the White Sox have signed Kelly on to whirl, he's a southpaw out of Oshkosh and he's got a Kansas girl. Our reporter interviewed him and he said, "I always vote"—and so on, so on and so on! Wouldn't such rot get your goat!

Jeffries talks of training stunts,
  Johnson hurls him a defy,
The world read of Roosevelt once,
  Now it passes it all by;
Now it looks to no far shore
  Where Ted will with lions cope
O'er and o'er and more and more
  The world is reading the baseball
    dope.

And this:

It is said that Leftwing Johnson has a brine soak for his paw, and wears ragged undergarments just for luck, and eats beef raw. Interviewed, he said that one time ere he saw the willow stick—and so on, so on, and so on! Doesn't that stuff make you sick?

How the fickle people rise
  And forget their erstwhile cares,
Want to read about the eyes—
  And what make of shirt he wears
Who will hurl the horse-hide sphere
  For their clubs, and full of hope
Look to win the pennant—near.
  That's why I have writ this dope.

Finis.

That's why I have penned this dope—or at least that's what I mean. "Penned" is short for having punched one's dope out on the machine; I have writ this baseball guff 'cause I want my writings read; but don't all this diamond dust make you weary—on the dead?

—JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS, in the Houston Post.

The Outdoor Season.

Columbia State: The outdoor season is here. To thousands—hundreds of thousands—this means baseball. To other thousands it means golf. To multitudes of others it means autoing, motor boating, fishing, hunting, tennis, camping, gardening, rambling in the woods and fields. To all these it means pure air and sunlight. To the majority of the devotees of the out-of-doors it means redder blood, stronger muscles, clearer brains, stronger hearts and generally better health and a lengthening of the lease of life.

Good Angels.

Philadelphia Press: Society women in Washington are arranging to take a day off and clean the dirty streets and front yards of the national capital. These good ladies, by proving themselves angels of cleanliness, will become entitled to "white wings."

Weary Waiting.

It may be fun to read about
  Ball games in Tenn. or Texas,
But to my mind those fouls and flies
  Just simply rise to vex us.

What we are wanting most of all
  Is spring to show her dazzle
So we can see 'em here and yell
  Our fan lungs to a frazzle.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Sauk Center Herald: When Governor Johnson recommended that a commission be appointed to investigate and report, at the next session, on a desirable employers' liability bill, the legislature spurned the recommendation and proposed to pass a bill this session. Now they are talking about eating their words and adopting the commission plan. Some people's hindsight is better than their foresight.

Detroit Record: Fraternal societies and every society that levies assessments must, according to the recent ruling of the postoffice at Washington, levy these assessments on other than postal cards. For years postals have been used by various societies to notify their members of dues and their payment. The department has ruled that this is nothing more nor less than a dun, and a violation of that postal law which will not permit any line of business to mail a statement of account to a patron in an unsealed letter. The same rule is held to apply to the fraternal assessment.

Thief River News: "A bill to make A. D. Stephens of Crookston governor" is the way one of our exchanges terms the bill to reduce the governor's salary. This bill would not necessarily make the Crookston man governor, but it would remove all restrictions. Mr. Stephens is a good man, but it is going to take more than an act of the legislature to place him in any office higher than that of "the senator from Polk county."

Perham Enterprise: Citizen Roosevelt has seen Naples. We hope the old saying, "see Naples and then die," will not apply to Teddy.

Two Harbors Iron Port: Representative Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis, is to be commended for the fearless stand he took in behalf of Gen. C. C. Floodwood Broadaxe: The Payne tariff bill may suit congress, but it will not come within a thousand miles of suiting the people.

St. Cloud Times: The "Appeal to Passion" reaches us this week with a "red hand" embellishing its pages. That is appropriate.

Brainerd Dispatch: The Staples World is authority for the statement that a crew drilling for iron in Cass county a few miles from that city has struck a gas well. This is a country of great possibilities.

Pine River Sentinel: Between tornadoes and prohibition the state of Tennessee is having the time of its life. There's a few of us left who are glad we live in good old Minnesota.

The Price of Peace.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Since 1897 the expenses of the German army and navy have risen from $152,000,000 to $328,000,000; real estate, incomes and every article of general consumption are surcharged with taxes; the cost of living has gone up enormously, and it is precisely on the absolutely indispensable things that the rise is felt most severely. The Peace society of the empire at its recent meeting held at Stuttgart declared that war in Europe had become almost an impossibility, and recent developments in the Balkan crisis encourage that belief.

In its official protest it sets forth that more than 34,000,000 Germans are dependent on commerce and trade; that the raw materials they need come for the most part from abroad, and that war would spell starvation, if not revolution and the downfall of the present regime. Great Britain has millions of unemployed, who cannot hope for work until the laying of the spectre of war starts up the machinery of prosperity. Russia and Italy and France need rest, and, say these Stuttgarters, all the world is tired of armaments and is clamorous for their reduction.

And, in the next paragraph, we read that Austria is going to have some dreadnoughts, too. This is Germany's answer to the voluntary aid of New Zealand, Australia and Canada. Her ally has been asked to make good. Which is right—Stuttgart or Berlin?

Washington Star: "So you advise me to give up my ambition to be a great editor," said the energetic young man, "and become an active politician?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "An active politician stands more show of telling just what he thinks about anybody without being nailed with a libel suit."

Philadelphia Inquirer: She—Anything that is worth winning is worth working for.

He—Yes, but the question is will your father thaw out or will I have to keep on working for you after I've won you?

Chicago Record-Herald: "Was your father college bred?"

"Yes, but we never mention it. The college he went to had a rotten football team."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "You don't like the way he laughs?"

"No; it is too loud and forced—to say nothing of being hollow. He laughs like a hit congressman listening to the reading of a presidential message."

Cleveland Leader: Mr. Jawback—What? You want a new hat? Why, you have one for every day in the week already.

Mrs. Jawback—I know, but I haven't one for Sunday.

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS BEGIN THEIR 1909 SCHEDULE

Chicago Cubs Will Try Hard for Another Flag.

White Sox Will Battle With Champion Detroit Crew.

Chicago, April 14.—The major league baseball season will be formally opened this afternoon when games will be played in eight cities of the two big circuits. The four Eastern teams in the American league played their opening games Monday, but the other twelve teams will get into action this afternoon.

The following National league opening games are scheduled for today:

St. Louis at Chicago.
Pittsburg at Cincinnati
Brooklyn at New York.
Philadelphia at Boston.
American league:
Chicago at Detroit.
Cleveland at St. Louis.

In the National league the world's champion Chicago team announces it is out to win its fourth consecutive championship of the league and later the third world's title in a row. No team in either the National or American leagues has ever won four consecutive pennants but Manager Chance of the locals says his team will do it. By winning another world's championship the Chicago teams will establish another record. The Chicagos will be called upon to enter the campaign without the services of their brightest stars—Second Baseman Johnny Evers and Catcher Johnny Kling. These two have decided to quit the game for the whole or part of the season.

The other local club—the Americans—will open its season against Detroit, the American league champions, at Detroit. The Chicago club will have a new manager—Catcher Billy Sullivan, and will also be without the services of two of their gest men last season—ex-Manager Fielder Jones and Pitcher Ed Walsh. Manager Sullivan and President Charles A. Comiskey are both confident of the final success of the team, regardless of the thinning of the ranks of the stars.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 14.—Aside from the fact that chilly weather prevails, the local club of the National league is promised the most auspicious opening at the local grounds this afternoon that it has had in its history. The advance sale of seats for the opening game exceeds by several thousands any previous events and enthusiasm among the lovers of the game has been at high pitch for days.

The Pittsburg team, which will contest the season's first game, arrived last evening, and its members seem to be in first-class condition. Acting Manager Galvin will toss the first ball today. The line-up:

Cincinnati: Huggins, 2b; Oakes, cf; Paskert, lf; Lobert, 3b; Mitchell, rf; Mowrey, ss, Hoblitzed, 1b; McLean, c; Fromme, p; Ewing, p.

Pittsburg: Leach, 3b; Miller, cf; Clarke, lf, Wagner, ss; Abbatchio, 2b; Wilson, rf; Abestein 1b, Gibson, c; Willis, p; Camnitz, p. Umpires, O'Day and Emslie.

Detroit, Mich., April 14.—The opening of the American league season of 1909 today in the West, found the Detroit club lined up against Chicago, the same opponents that the local team fought in the closing contest of 1908, when the league pennant was captured by Detroit for the second successive year.

Heavy rain yesterday morning softened the field at Bennet park, preventing both the Detroit and Chicago players from having their expected practice yesterday, and spread gloom among the thousands of local baseball fans, who have been eagerly looking forward to the opening game. But when the weather cleared in the evening the prospects brightened and at 8 o'clock p. m., there were just 100 reserved seats unsold. Following is the probable lineup:

Chicago: Hahn, rf; Parent, ss; Dougherty, lf; Isbell, 1b; Cravath cf; Atz, 2b; Tannehill, 3b; Sullivan, c; Smith, p.

Detroit: McIntyre, lf; Bush ss; Crawford, cf, Cobb, rf; Rossman, 1b; Moriarty, 3b; Schaefer, 2b; Schmidt or Stanage, c; Mullin or Summers, p.

Louisville, Ky., April 14.—Four cities witnessed the opening of the American association's eighth season today. Columbus was the opponent at Louisville, Toledo at Indianapolis, Minneapolis at Kansas City and St. Paul at Milwaukee.

There was more interest shown in the initial games than has been evidenced in several seasons here. The clubs appeared evenly matched, with the managers optimistic about their chances for the pennant.

Milwaukee and St. Paul entered the field with practically untried teams, and it is a mystery what the clubs will do. Both Managers McCloskey and Kelly were forced to start the season with much new material, and it will take some time for them to show their true playing strength. Indianapolis gives indications of repeating last year's performance in getting an early start toward capturing the pennant. Columbus on paper does not show to much better advantage than last season, while Louisville and Toledo show material strength. Kansas City and Minneapolis are still unknown quantities because several of their older players lack condition.

The club owners are all confident of one of the most successful seasons that the organization has ever had, and though some of the teams lack practice owing to unfavorable weather, nearly all the players claim to be in fairly good condition.

The weather in Louisville early today was clear and cold, the temperature registering about 45.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14.—The American association season in Indianapolis will open at Washington park this afternoon with a game between the home team, the champions of last year and Toledo. President J. D. O'Brien will be here, though there also will be a game in his home town, Milwaukee, with the St. Paul club. Columbus wil play at Louisville and Minneapolis at Kansas City. The new Indianapolis park, it is maintained, is the finest in the American association and one of the three best in the country. Mayor Bookwalter will ride with President O'Brien behind the band in the parade through the business streets of the city preceding the game, and the mayor will pitch the first ball of the season.

Ralph Glaze, who put the fans in the air last Saturday when he held the world's Chicago Nationals without a hit or a run for nine innings in an exhibition game, will open for Indianapolis and "Hi" West, the Toledo favorite, will first stand in the box for the visitors.

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—With overcast skies that gave every promise of rain or snow before the completion of the game, the baseball season of 1909 was inaugurated here today by the Minneapolis and Kansis City clubs of the American association at Association park. A parade preceded the game. Mayor Thomas T. Crittenden, Jr., pitched the first ball.

PRESIDENT HARRY PULLIAM
Of the National League.

Line up: Kansas City—Carlisle, lf; Shannon, cf; Neighbors, rf; Brashear, 1b; Hetling, 3b; Love, 2b; Cross, ss; Ritter c; Swan, p; Brady, 4.

Minneapolis—Oyler ss; Downs, 2b; O'Neill, lf; Edmundson, cf; Pickering, rf; Collins, 3b; Wheeler, 1b; Block, c; Young, p; Oberlin, p.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—An auspicious start of the American association baseball season is promised for this city this afternoon, when the St. Paul and Milwaukee teams clash in the opening contest.

The St. Paul aggregation, headed by Manager Mike Kelly, arrived at an early hour today, and both he and Manager McCloskey of the Milwaukee club look for an exciting contest.

The weather is bright though a little cool. Preparations have been made for the taking care of a big gathering.

Philadelphia, April 14.—Yesterday's game was played in a drizzle and was won by Boston 4 to 2. Boston mixed hits with Philadelphia's errors. "GYM" MEN AT BANQUET

Physical Department of Y. M. C. A. Has Its Annual Spread.

Two Hundred Members Dine and Hear Some Interesting Talks.

The annual banquet of the physical department of the Young Men's Christian association was held at the building last evening, when two hundred members enjoyed an excellent menu and heard some interesting talks about Duluth and her possibilities.

The need of more playgrounds and the desirability of securing for this city, an institution of higher education, possibly the state school of mines, were among the subjects which received the most consideration.

Mayor Haven urged upon the diners the need of playgrounds.

"The Eastern cities have long realized that playgrounds are as much a part of the municipal government as the schools, and make regular appropriations for their maintenance," said his honor. "That is what should be done in Duluth."

Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, rector of Trinity Episcopal pro-cathedral, pointed out the need of an institution for higher education, and suggested that the school of mines of the state university should be located in this city.

"We are not getting any great returns from our expenditures in taxes for state schools, except the normal school," said Mr. Wurtele. "What we contribute in taxes here in St. Louis county, is spent in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"I believe we should be allowed to get back part of that revenue. Michigan established her state school of mines at Houghton and it has been a great success. Why could not Minnesota place her school of mines in a locality similar, as to its resources and opportunities, to that of Michigan's mining school location?"

Mr. Wurtele said that a great percentage of the young men who graduate from the local high school, are anxious to take mining engineering courses at some school, but that the opportunity to do so is not afforded them. He thought the location of the state school of mines here would give them that chance.

Mr. Wurtele took occasion, also to compliment the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. on its work during the past year. The mayor also spoke in glowing terms of the good accomplished by the gymnasium, under the direction of A. J. Frey and his assistants.

Dr. D. H. Day created some hearty laughs when he read some spurious testimonials from some of the business men who have been exercising at the association "gym" all winter. When some of the staid, sometimes corpulent and sometimes slim, business men have cavorted with the parallel bars, toyed with the Indian clubs, or dived into the swimming tank, it has sometimes afforded amusement to the others. Some of Dr. Day's alleged testimonials, conjuring up some of those gymnasium scenes, created just such laughs.

Julius H. Barnes, who is chairman of the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. and who is deeply interested in local athletics, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Watson S. Moore spoke of the good that the gymnasium contributes to the general welfare of the city and City Clerk Cheadle "roasted" the men who did not visit the gymnasium often and participate in the evolutions.

W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, gave an excellent exhibition of club swinging.

W. E. Richardson presided very happily as toastmaster. Mr. Richardson laughingly referred to the fat men's delegation of the gymnasium classes, known as the "Holy Rollers" and proudly announced his connection with that group.

A number of pleasing musical numbers made up the rest of the program.

CLOQUET WILL HAVE A BASEBALL TEAM.

Cloquet, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The outlook for a baseball team in this city is very good and unless plans fall through, a first-class team will be put in the field.

Last year good baseball was played here, but the deficit at the end of the year was discouraging. This season it is planned to provide for a sinking fund, which shall go towards this deficit. This will be accomplished by withholding a small percent of the gate receipts of each game, the balance to go to the team expenses. In all probability E. S. Schiebe will manage the team.

CHICAGO MAY HAVE A MARATHON RACE.

Chicago, April 14.—A $10,000 Marathon is being planned for this city around May 20. The race will be held at night at the local American league baseball park. Efforts are being made to get St. Yves, Dorando, Longboat, Schrubb and other well-known runners to compete.

PUGS SHOW POOR CLASS

Kaufmann Gets Decision on Points in Slow Battle.

Jack Johnson Laughs at Efforts of the Two Boxers.

New York, April 14.—Al Kaufmann of San Francisco, who has aspirations to the heavyweight fistic honors as champion, last night met and defeated Tony Ross of Newcastle, Pa., on points in a ten-round bout, before the Fairmount Athletic club. Jack Johnson, the world's champion heavyweight pugilist, was at the ringside and simply laughed at the efforts of the men, apparently feeling satisfied that no danger threatened his title from this most earnest seeker for a bout for the championship. Kaufmann, according to experts at the ringside, did not show that he is in the class of the big negro.

Jim Coffroth of Colma, Cal., was a spectator. He had nothing to say about the outcome of the battle, but he did say that while he had no signatures to the contract, he was sure he would secure a match between Johnson and Ketchel, to take place some time after the first of next October.

No time was lost in getting the men together, and Kaufmann showed quickly by left jabs and a handy right that he had his man's measure taken. Kaufmann was cool and deliberate, almost measuring his blows, but the only telling blow Ross sent back was a right swing on the side of the head. The first was easily Kaufmann's round.

In the second round Ross rushed, but was stopped by three lefts which drew blood from the nose. Tony bore in with a hard left to the body and took a left smash on the face in return. Ross butted towards the end of the round, but Kaufmann was master of the round by a small margin.

The third round found Ross willing and forcing the issue. Se sent two rights to the head, getting bad blows in return and a hard left facer which made the blood spout again from the nose. Kaufmann was by far the better general in this round.

Left and right to the face were the blows Kaufmann opened the fourth round with. Ross plugged for the wind, but he took many a blow in his face, one of which split his lip. There was no question of the Italian's gameness, but he was outpointed.

At close quarters in the fifth round Kaufmann had the batter of any exchanges, but Ross, rushing with left and right to the head, forced the Californian twice to the ropes. In a clinch Kaufmann pummeled hard on the body, but Ross was there with a counter and the round was about even.

Kaufmann missed several blows in the sixth round, but in every clinch he was the better punisher. Two hard lefts to the body by Ross steadied the big fellow and honors were even at the bell.

In the seventh round Kaufmann led the left twice to the face, opening a gash over Ross' right eye. Tony plugged for the body, landing effectively, but the big fellow beat him off at long range work. Kaufmann's round by a small margin.

Kaufmann sent left right and left in quick succession to Ross' face in the eighth round, but he allowed the Italian too much time to recover. Tony sent a hard left to Kaufmann's jaw, but suffered a moment later, as Kaufmann was on top of him all the time, forcing him to the ropes and doing all the leading.

In the opening of the ninth round Kaufmann depended on left jabs to the face and then sent Ross to the floor for eight seconds with a left hook to the jaw. Ross came up weakly and was soon staggering around the ring from a succession of right and left smashes in the stomach. Kaufmann missed a right swing for the head a second before the bell rang.

Ross hugged at the beginning of the tenth, taking many a punch before he got in a left smash on the face. Kaufmann, seemingly, was unable to measure his blows and was wild in his attempted blows for a knockout, but was the stronger by far at the finish, winning easily on points.

BEELL MAY WRESTLE HERE

Plans Made to Match Him With Americus in Duluth.

Nate Lewis, a well-known Chicago sporting man, at one time manager of Kid Herman, and who now has Mike Schreck, is negotiating for a match between Fred Beell of Marshfield, Wis., and Americus of Baltimore. His intention in bringing these two great mat artists together is for the purpose of deciding the light heavyweight wrestling chambionship of the world. He has several places where he can stage the bout, but is figuring strongly on Duluth. When in the city yesterday he stated he would look over affairs as soon as he reached Chicago and would decide on something definite within the next few days.

"The bringing together of Americus and Beell at the Head of the Lakes would be a sporting card of unusual interest to every one, and I think would attract the fans from all the nearby cities," said Mr. Lewis. "If we decide to stage the match here it is probable that we will have the bout pulled off in a large tent."

AMATEURS TO MEET AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., April 14.—The entries for the first Southern amateur boxing and wrestling championships closed last night with forty entries. The number is much greater than expected and the tourney will last two days. The preliminaries will be held Friday night at the Royal Athletic club, and the finals on Saturday night of this week. There are seven classes each in boxing and wrestling. Practically all the entries are from Louisiana.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

THE NEW "TERRIBLE TURK" IN WRESTLING ATTITUDE

YUSIFF MAHMOUT,
Bulgarian Wrestler, Who Will Meet Gotch Tonight at Chicago.

BOTH MEN ARE READY

Husky Bulgarian Meets Champion Gotch on Wrestling Mat.

Struggle Should Be One of Greatest in History of the Sport.

Chicago, April 14.—Tonight's wrestling match between Frank Gotch of Humboldt, Iowa, and Yusiff Mahmout of Bulgaria promises to be one of the greatest mat struggles ever seen in this country. The bout is expected to be full of dash, snap and vim from the time the two giants shake hands until a winner is declared. Mahmout has shown his willingness to mix it with anyone, and Gotch, it is expected, will have far more trouble with him than he had in defeating George Hackenschmidt here a year ago.

The husky Bulgarian has shown remarkable ability and skill in all of his matches in this country, and he has not lost a single fall. He has failed to throw certain men in limited handicap bouts, but he has never been pinned on the mat for a fall.

In Gotch, the Bulgarian will meet a past-master in the strategy of the game. Every trick and artifice of wrestling is an open one to Frank Gotch, and it is to this that he owes the major portion of his success.

The two rivals are practically evenly matched in weight, but Gotch has a decided advantage in height, and that counts for much in a wrestling match. Gotch is expected to weigh close to 197 pounds and Mahmout will scale about 200 flat. Gotch is close to 6 feet tall and Mahmout is about 5 feet 8 inches in height.

Ed W. Smith, who was the referee for the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match last April, will be the referee tonight. Smith's selection was requested by Gotch and readily agreed to by Mahmout.

There has been a large advance sale of seats and a large part of the spectators will come from out of town. A big crowd of Gotch supporters is coming from Iowa.

SCENE OF BATTLE STILL IN DOUBT

Sheriff's Force Too Vigilant for Whitehead and Schreck.

Efforts to pull off the Mike Schreck-Walter Whitehead fight at Hibbing last evening proved futile, and it is a question as to just where the men will go now to battle for supremacy. It is not thought that another attempt will be made to stage the contest before a range club, as the sheriff's force is determined that Governor Johnson's orders shall be enforced.

It is probable that some agreement will be reached today between the promoters of the bout to take the fight to another state or, perhaps another county. In all probability a Wisconsin or Michigan city will be settled on, as several nearby cities have made good bids for the match.

Betting on the contest has switched from even money to odds in favor of Whitehead. It is not expected that the bout will go the limit, fifteen rounds, as both men are hard hitters and aggressive fighters.

Nate Lewis of Chicago, one of Schreck's managers, passed through Duluth yesterday on his way home from Hibbing. He said that prospects for pulling the fight off on the range were not bright, and that he believed the contest would have to be taken out of the state. He said that Schreck was in the finest possible condition and ready to make one of the greatest battles of his life.

Speaking of Billy Heller, the stockyards champion, whom he brought to Hibbing last winter to whip Whitehead Lewis said: "I have seen Heller but once since the bout. He was not nearly as good a man as I took him to be, but then he was up against a tough proposition in Whitehead. I tell you the people up this way do not appreciate what a scrapper that negro is. I think that with a little more training Whitehead will make one of the greatest fighters in the world. He has everything to start with. He has the height, range, hands, and the most wonderful reach I have ever seen. He certainly looks like a comer to me."

COMPETE FOR HERALD CUP

Fifteen Grade Schools Will Enter Big Field Meet.

First Meeting of Association Will Be Held Thursday.

Bigger, greater and better than ever will be the annual track and field meet of the Interscholastic Athletic association, which will be held at the driving park in the West end some time during May. Each of the fifteen schools will furnish twenty boys, who will compete for the handsome prizes that will be hung up.

The cause for the increase in the number of competitors this year, is the fact that the athletes will be divided into classes, in accordance with their weight. The big boys will be the heavyweights and will have to compete alone. Then there will be the middleweights, lightweights and midgets. This new scheme, it is thought, will work to better advantage than any ever tried before, as it will give all of the boys a more equal chance for the prizes and honors.

The first meeting of the association in 1909 will be held tomorrow afternoon at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., when two delegates from each of the fifteen schools will convene to elect officers, classify the weights of the contestants, and decide on the number and kinds of events.

The prizes this year will consist of four medals, which will be awarded to the winners in the respective divisions; The Herald cup, which will go to the school winning the greatest number of points, and a silk banner, given by the Y. M. C. A. to the school having the highest average.

Tigers, 12; East End Juniors, 11.

In an eleven-inning contest that was featured with all kinds of hard-hitting and clever base running, the Tigers defeated the East End Juniors yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 11. The batteries for the Tigers were A. Salvootz and William Salvootz, and for the East End Juniors, N. Shore and Goldfine.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PLANS FOR BIG MEET

Firemen's Tournament at Cass Lake to Be Notable Affair.

Expected State Gathering of G. A. R. Will Be at Same Time.

Cass Lake, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association, which will be held here during the latter part of June, are steadily under way and from all appearances will be one of the most successful yet held. Several new races will be run and other features not yet introduced on such occasions, will take place at that time.

There are indications that the state encampment of the G. A. R. will be held here during the tournament dates and if this materializes things will be humming in great shape. Local members of the G. A. R. have been in communication with the state officers and they have signified their desire to make Cass Lake the point for holding their next encampment and local enthusiasts have taken the matter up and there is little doubt but that the encampment will be held here at the same time the tournament takes place.

Several new towns will be represented this year and it is believed it will be the largest representation in the history of the association. The teams that have thus far signified their desire to attend are: Grand Rapids, Park Rapids, Walker, Akeley, Deer River and Coleraine. There is a probability that Bemidji, Blackduck and International Falls will be represented.

CLOQUET MILLS SOON TO START

Big Lumber Plants in Nearby City Are Being Fixed Up.

Cloquet, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only the ice in the river is holding back the starting of the sawmills in this city, and a few days of thawing will weaken the ice enough to permit the closing of the big dam, which was opened during the winter for repairs to the sub-structure.

Since the breaking up of the camps in the woods large numbers of men have been in the city awaiting for the commencement of operations. Repair work on the various mills and shops have kept many men in work throughout the winter. Every indication is that the coming season will be one of the busiest seen for years and night crews will be put on at three of the mills as soon as the weather conditions will permit. The planing mills have been running steadily during the winter and beginning with this week are running ten hours. A marked improvement in business is anticipated and the general outlook is good.

Next month will end the first year of the existence of the Y. M. C. A. in this city and the anniversary will be celebrated on an elaborate scale. Plans are about complete and include music, gymnastic exhibitions, speeches, etc. The date of the anniversary has been set for the the 25th of May.

AUTO STALLS ON TRACK.

Train Comes Along and New Machine Is Wrecked.

Anoka, Minn., April 14.—The new automobile of Dr. J. H. Frank was ruined when it stalled on the railway tracks near the state asylum grounds and was struck by a fast running freight train and torn into hundreds of pieces and scattered to the four winds.

The doctor is the physician of the asylum and was on his way to the institution when something went wrong with the machine. He thought he could drive it to the asylum at least, but it stopped when directly across the tracks and refused to budge. In his frantic, but fruitless effort to push it from the track the doctor was struck by a piece of the debris and sustained a fracture of the arm.

LONG ROW OF PILING.

Strung Along Red Lake River to Protect Boats From Logs.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A force of men and teams have completed the driving of piling in Red Lake river for a distance of five miles up the river from here. Booms strung along the piling prevent the logs in the river from interfering with navigation. The local sawmill, which consumes about 45,000,000 feet of lumber in the sawing season, and the Crookston mill both receive their total supply of logs from the great Red lakes, which Red Lake river drains. As the passenger and freight business on the river increases with the settlement of the lake country and the intervening farming territory along the banks it has been found necessary to provide against interruption of this traffic by the stringing of the booms.

Congress has appropriated $50,000, which will be expended this summer in removing obstructions in the river between this city and the lake, a distance of some 100 miles by water, and next year it is expected that a dam will be established at the outlet of the lake in order to control the outflow and prevent the annual floods that destroy so much property along the Red river near the Canadian boundary.

RESIGNS GOOD POSITION.

Milwaukee Court Reporter Flees When Wife Returns to Him.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—Charles A. Potter, aged 57 years, court reporter in Judge Paul D. Carpenter's branch of probate court, voluntarily resigned his position worth $5,000 a year, and left the city Saturday afternoon.

According to statements to his landlady, Mrs. W. J. Tedrick, 449 Jackson street, Mr. Potter fled the city to escape domestic troubles. His wife, he said, had deserted him several years ago, found that he was in Milwaukee and came here. Then troubles began again.

He told Judge Carpenter that he was going to resign, as he was "ready to throw up everything in order to find peace." Judge Carpenter remonstrated with him, but he was firm and handed in his written resignation before he left.

IS EXPERT FENCER.

Bayfield Youth Proves Very Handy With the Foils.

Bayfield, Wis., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Hannum of Bayfield has won signal honors as the champion expert with the rapier in the Northwest.

The young man is a student at Rush Medical college, Chicago, and in his gymnasium work he took up the foils. He rapidly acquired proficiency and bowled over all his opponents in the college, and recently in a selective contest he won the championship of Chicago. He was then chosen to represent Chicago in a state contest, and again defeated all competitors, becoming the champion of Illinois. He will next enter a competitive contest in New York, with great chances of winning there. Young Hannum is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Hannum of Bayfield, and is about 19 or 20 years of age.

SPECULATED IN COPPERS.

Embezzling Treasurer of Society Explains His Action.

Marinette, Wis., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—On a charge of misappropriating $500 of the funds of St. Jean Baptist society, Fred Hubert waived examination yesterday. Hubert was brought to this city from Montreal. He was formerly poor commissioner of Marinette and treasurer of the organization by which he is charged with the crime. Hubert says that during the last two years he has been speculating in copper stocks in an endeavor to win back money of his own which he had lost. He came back voluntarily from Canada.

ROB PROFESSOR'S OFFICE.

Thieves May Have Been After His Process for Making Paper Pulp.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thieves broke into the office of Dean Frankforter of the college of chemistry, at the University of Minnesota Sunday night. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking one of the windows in the large lecture room. They broke the window in the office door so as to unlock the catch. Nothing in the office was disturbed but a new typewriter that had just been bought. This was taken.

When the thieves entered the hall from the lecture room, the door closed and the spring lock shut them in, making it necessary to break another window to get out. Footprints outside of the lecture room window would indicate that more than one person was implicated in the matter.

There was a rumor that the robbery was for the purpose of obtaining the patent papers on the dean's new process for making paper pulp. Dr. Frankforter, however, did not join in the belief and said the papers were kept elsewhere.

The robbery comes as a climax to a series of petty thefts that have been annoying students and faculty during the year.

MINNESOTA CLIMATE BEST.

Crookston Man, Disgusted With Kansas Weather, Will Return.

Crookston, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. G. Frazer has received a telegram from Clifford Frazer, which stated he would be home in a few days. Mr. Frazer has been teaching German in the university at Kansas City, Kan., but on account of climatic conditions he has been forced to resign.

He will return and locate permanently in this city. It is said that since going to Kansas he has not enjoyed good health, and while he enjoyed his work, it was impossible for him to keep at it in justice to his health.

CALUMET & HECLA SHAFT HOUSE FIRE SOON OUT.

Calumet, Mich., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—An alarm of fire Saturday evening was promptly responded to by the Red Jacket and Calumet fire departments, which soon had the blaze under control. The fire was in the Red Jacket shafthouse of the Calumet & Hecla, up near the sheave wheel on the north side of the building, and is supposed to have originated from the friction of the cable. The prompt response of the fire fighters probably averted what might have been a disastrous blaze.

Marquette, Mich., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A male fawn, about a year old, has been received at the Marquette prison, having been consigned from Champion by Deputy Game Warden Harrington. The fawn was driven into Champion by dogs, where it was easily caught. The new specimen will be added to the prison herd.

YOU CAN CURE DYSPEPSIA.

But to Do So You Must Duplicate Nature's Process of Digestion in Some Way.

Indigestion and Dyspepsia are often simple little matters at first, but if neglected, will soon cause much pain and distress. Pretty nearly every disease that afflicts humanity is largely due to Indigestion: at least, Indigestion is the beginning of the trouble. The only way to restore health is to remove indigestion with Kodol. Every tablespoonful digests 2¼ pounds of food. Every one knows that people must eat to live, and if they would eat plain food in moderation, there would be little need for doctors and drug stores; but all of us occasionally, and many of us constantly, eat not only too much, but swallow rich food that the stomach cannot digest.

The food ferments, gas fills the stomach, and undigested lumps of food harden and the lining of the stomach becomes inflamed. That's where chronic and nervous dyspepsia comes in. Now, what is to be done? Simply this—give the stomach rest; help it to do its work. The only sure way is Kodol. This is true because Kodol is the only preparation that supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy, vigorous stomach. Just as soon as Kodol goes down to the undigested food, it starts proper digestion at once—and away go the distress and pain. Our Guarantee: Get a dollar bottle of Kodol. If you are not benefited—the druggist will at once return your money. Don't hesitate; any druggist will sell you Kodol on these terms. The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Kodol is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE MEET AT IRONWOOD.

Ironwood, Mich., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state convention of the Sons of St. George, the Michigan organization of Englishmen, and their male descendants, will be held here in July. It will be the occasion of a reunion in which members from many localities will participate. There are a few lodges of the order in other districts, but for the most part the subordinate branches are in the iron and copper mining regions of the state. Consequently the membership is very largely confined to the upper peninsula. Special trains will be run for the meeting.

The bulk of the estate, estimated at over $1,000,000, is left to the wife, Cordelia Truax, with a stipulation that it be equally divided after her death among nine relatives, Mrs. David Wiley of Black Creek, N. Y.; Mrs. Philip Cramer of Baraboo, Wis.; Judson Truax, Mrs. Isabel Champion, Mrs. Charles Stokes and Mary Avery of Eau Claire; Mrs. J. M. DIVORCE COLONISTS BUSY.

Got in Their Work Before New Law Became Effective.

Pierre, S. D., April 14.—The report of the vital statistical department for 1908 indicates that the "divorce colonists" lost no time in pushing their cases when it became apparent that the old divorce made-easy law was about to be knocked out. The total number of divorces for the year was 665, an increase of 113 over the previous year. Of this number but 239 were granted to bona fide residents of the state, the rest being granted to the "colonists."

Minnehaha county, of course, led, with 154 of the total number. Lincoln county was next with 64. Nearly all of these were granted to members of the "colonies," which are now no more. The record for future years may go as high, but if it does it will be because residents of the state get the habit.

HILL-HARRIMAN FEUD DREAM, SAYS AUTHORITY.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, returned Tuesday from a visit to the Pacific coast, and almost the first thing he had to say after he reached his office was that the last remaining difference of opinion between the Harriman and Hill interests on the coast has been settled by an agreement between himself and E. H. Harriman by which the Hill road will secure a part ownership in the terminal at Portland, and go in there as a bed-fellow with the Harriman interests.

Incidentally, he declared that the Harriman-Hill feud, so-called, famed in song and story in every railroad department of every newspaper in the country, is remarkable only for its non-existence.

S.S.S.
CURES SKIN DISEASES

In this article we want to explain to you the cause of skin diseases, and also offer suggestions, founded on reason and experience, which will enable you to cure yourself if you are afflicted with any of the various forms of this trouble.

The skin receives its necessary nourishment from the blood. Every pore is kept open and every gland kept healthy by continually feeding on the nutritious properties which are distributed throughout the system by a pure, rich blood supply. As long as this normal condition exists the cuticle will be soft, smooth, and free from eruptions; when however the circulation is contaminated with humors and impurities its supply of nutritive properties is diminished, and it becomes a sharp, acrid fluid which diseases instead of preserves the natural health and texture of the skin.

Lying just beneath the outer covering or tissue-skin is a sensitive membranous flesh which surrounds and protects the tiny veins, pores and glands. It is here the impurities of the blood are deposited, and the acrid matter causes irritation and inflammation which splits or breaks the thin, tissue-like cuticle, and the result is outwardly manifested in Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some other disfiguring or annoying eruptive disease.

It can readily be seen that since Skin Diseases are the result of bad blood, there can be but one way to cure them—purify the blood. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., are not able to do so, because they do not reach the blood. Such treatment is of no value except for its ability to temporarily relieve itching and assist in keeping the skin clean.

S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing all humors from the blood. S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and inflamed by sour impurities, is nourished, soothed and softened by this cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and therein lies its ability to cure skin diseases. The trouble cannot remain when the cause has been removed, and S. S. S. will certainly remove the cause. It cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, blackheads, etc., and all eruptions of the skin. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free.

For six years I was severely troubled with a bad skin disease, located principally on the shins. The trouble would appear in the form of small yellow blisters, characterized by very severe itching, etc. I tried sarsaparillas, so-called blood purifiers, salves, ointments, lotions and treatment under a physician, but nothing did me any good. Becoming discouraged I left off all this treatment, and just about this time I saw S. S. S. advertised. One day I decided to give this medicine a trial, and after using it for a short while I began to improve. Of course I continued S. S. S. and it cured me completely. Quite a while has elapsed since I was cured and there has never been the slightest indication of the return of the trouble.

I had a bad case of Eczema, it being especially severe on my right hand. I was hardly able to use my hand in my work. I tried a great many things in an effort to get relief, but was unable to do so until I read of S. S. S. and determined to give it a trial. I used several bottles of this remedy and it cured the trouble entirely. S. S. S. put my blood in fine condition and left my skin soft and smooth. Though this was some time ago there has been no return of the trouble.
CHAS. J. WOLF, JR.
904 S. Second St., St. Louis, Mo.

For four years I suffered severely with Weeping Eczema, located chiefly on the hands, both inside and out, and extended as far up as the wrists. I was under treatment most all the time, but could get no relief. One or two of my physicians said it was as bad a case of Eczema as they ever saw. I lost my finger nails once or twice as a result of the disease, and the itching, burning and pain I experienced I cannot express to you in words. I kept my hands bandaged all the while, but with only little relief. As I said, becoming discouraged, I gave up all treatment I was taking, and seeing S. S. S. advertised began it as a last resort. A few bottles convinced me that it was doing me good and I continued it, and in a short while I was entirely cured.

WOMAN DEFEATS FIFTEEN ATTEMPTS TO START SALOON IN TOWN WHERE SHE LIVES

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—Mrs. C. H. McCracken has defeated fifteen attempts in the last five years to place a saloon in the village of Dodson, twenty miles south of Kansas City. Her latest victory was achieved when the county court, acting in view of evidence obtained by her, again refused to issue a license, when the latest applicant recently filed a petition with the court.

Mrs. McCracken mounted her horse and rode through the township procuring signers to a remonstrance. She gathered information that many names on the application were forgeries.

MOTTO ON THE NEW COURTHOUSE

Ex-President Eliot of Harvard Furnished the Inscription.

Ex-President Eliot of Harvard university was invited by D. H. Burnham and company, the architects who designed the new St. Louis county courthouse, to supply a motto to be inscribed on the building.

The motto follows:

"The people's laws define usages, ordain rights and duties, secure public safety, defend liberty, teach reverence and obedience, and establish justice."

There are 121 letters in the inscription, and each letter will be chiseled exactly in accordance with plans furnished for them by the company.

Work on the new building is going ahead at a satisfactory rate. The plastering on the fifth floor is now completed

CARPENTER MAY LOSE EYE.

Struck in Organ by Piece of Steel in East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Neurauter, employed as a carpenter of the Northern Pacific railway in this city, may lose his right eye as a result of an accident which happened last Saturday while he was walking through the roundhouse in this city.

Mr. Neurauter was passing by a machinist, who was at work on a piece of steel. A splinter from the steel struck Mr. Neurauter in the eye, where it lodged, causing him considerable pain.

Saturday evening the pain was so severe that Mr. Neurauter decided to go to St. Paul and consult a specialist and reports received from St. Paul are to the effect that he will in all probability have to lose his eye, the specialist stating that it may be necessary to remove it.

CONVENTION IN DULUTH

Sunday School Workers of the County Will Gather Here.

Sessions Will Last Two Days in Y. M. C. A. Building.

The Y. M. C. A. building has been selected as a place for holding the St. Louis county Sunday school convention, which will be held in Duluth April 23 and 24. All the meetings will be held there with the exception of the Friday evening session, which will be at the Pilgrim Congregational church.

The program for the convention is now practically completed. Besides the features already told about in The Herald, several new numbers have been arranged for. Prof. Carl Ulrich, superintendent of the Glen Avon Presbyterian Sunday school, will give a talk on "The Graded Sunday School," as one of the new features.

Saturday afternoon the conference plan will be followed in meetings for pastors, Sunday school superintendents and teachers of classes, members of which are under 13 years of age, or the elementary grades. There will be a conference for teachers of intermediate and senior classes, with pupils whose ages run from 18 to 20 years.

The pastors' conference will also be held Saturday afternoon. Rev. Carl G. Olson of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will speak from the minister's standpoint, and Mr. W. E. A. Le Quesne, superintendent of the Pro-cathedral Sunday school, will speak from the superintendent's standpoint. Dr. Dick of Minneapolis, famed for his eloquence and knowledge on church affairs, will conduct a round table, at which superintendents' and pastors' duties will be discussed

At the elementary grade conference, Miss Edith Scovell of the First M. E. church Sunday school will speak on the beginners' department, covering pupils between the ages of 3 and 5 years. Mrs. John MacLeod of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church will speak on "The Primary Department," covering ages from 6 to 8 years. Miss Floy Kensinger will talk on "The Junior Department," ages 9 to 12, and will conduct a round table on elementary grades. The intermediate and senior sections will be presided over by Secretary A. M. Locker, general secretary of the Minnesota Sunday School association.

These afternoon meetings will be held simultaneously.

The Friday evening meeting at the Pilgrim Congregational church is regarded as the most important of the week. Dr. Dick will speak on "The Complete Sunday School—What It Is." General Secretary Locker will attend to the roll call, and Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele and Rev. Campbell Coyle will conduct scripture readings and prayer.

A Saturday afternoon inspirational service will be conducted by Dr. Kirtley of the First Baptist church. It will be a prayer and praise service.

The fifty-first annual meeting of the Minnesota Sunday School association will be held at Crookston May 4, 5 and 6, and a number of Duluthians will take part in the program. There is talk of sending a delegation of fifty to the convention from St. Louis county. This will be taken up at the Duluth convention.

PROTEST IS PRESENTED

men fresh from the fear-stricken iron country, men who know how the paralyzing hand of depression has been laid upon the business of Northeastern Minnesota by the threat of unjust legislation.

Brainerd Is Heard.

A. D. Polk of Brainerd, the first speaker, said that a number of men from the Cuyuna range were present, for the second time, to be heard against the bill. Any man who votes on the bill should know the conditions, because it involves questions of practicability. The western iron ranges in Minnesota, as shown by the dip needle, extend over a number of counties, and run for 150 to 200 miles in Crow Wing county. These deposits are not owned by big corporations, but by the people living there. Leases are being made at 15 and 20 cents per ton, which is all that can be got for them. The ore is not all low grade, and the bulk of it will come under the classes taxed 4 and 5 cents by the Bjorge bill. Four cents is 20 per cent and 5 cents is 25 per cent of the royalty value of these deposits.

The tonnage tax is double taxation. The bill says that it is in lieu of other state taxes, but until they produce, even though it is for fifty years, the state taxes the deposits on the ad valorem basis, and then again on the tonnage basis when production begins. This is double taxation. It is an anomaly in taxation to pick out a class of property and tax its output, when every other class of property, no matter how it changes during the year, is taxed only as it stands on May 1. The theory that it should be taxed because it is a heritage of the people is Socialism. The soil, water powers, etc., are heritages too, but it isn't proposed that they shall be taxed. It isn't even honest Socialism, but feudalism, dating back to the time when the king was supposed to own everything.

We come here because we want what is right. We are a minority, and we don't occupy so many seats in this chamber as others, but we are not afraid to come here and tell the majority that it is wrong. Don't impose this unjust tax upon us because we are a minority. We are willing to pay our share, even more, and we are paying more than our fair share now. We need every dollar of taxes we can get out of whatever riches exists in our territory, for the support of our schools and the building of roads. We have the beginnings of a mining section there. It is the only wealth we have left. Don't float it down to St. Paul. Don't take away our source of taxation. The taxes raised on the iron should go to the localities in which the iron lies, not to the state. There is no question of the steel trust in Morrison, Crow Wing, Aitkin and Hubbard counties, but a question of poor people who need help, instead of discouragement and sectional oppression.

P. E. Dowling Speaks.

P. E. Dowling of Eveleth said that people who think it is all sunshine in the iron country are mistaken. There have been many years of depression there, even when prosperity smiled over the farms. That is why 300 men came down last week, asking you not to impose a tax that might bring on another period of depression. That is why every man in the iron country is virtually interested. Somebody besides the mine owners will pay this tax if it is imposed, and it is easy to make the worker do it by lowering his wages. Is is fair to segregate the labor of one section and make it pay tribute to the rest of the state? I believe that you will say that it is unjust and unfair.

The mines have been raised in assessed valuation from $12,000,000 to $192,000,000. Who did it? Not the local officers, but the state officials, the tax commission. Haven't you confidence that your state officers can raise the valuation again if it needs it? Take away the state's interest in local assessments, and it will be easy and natural for the iron interests to recoup themselves by having the local valuations reduced. The localities will suffer, then, though you say this tonnage tax will not affect them. Why divide the state and put an ad valorem tax on part of it and a specified tax on the rest? If the valuations are not high enough to yield a proper state tax, why can't your tax commission raise them to $300,000,000, or $500,000,000, or whatever is right? You won't find a business man from the iron country protesting against such a tax.

Little Falls Protests.

M. M. Williams of Little Falls, representing the Commercial club of that city, said that he came to voice the sentiment of the people of that section in a protest against the tonnage tax. He believed that if last fall the voters had been asked, offhand, if they favored a tonnage tax, they would have said, "Why, of course; let's get all we can out of the iron mines." He didn't believe that now, after the question had been studied, 5 per cent of the people would be for it if they had heard the arguments for and against it.

"I apprehend," he said, "that many senators conceive it to be their duty to vote for the tonnage tax, because the people favor it. If you take into consideration the change of sentiment that occurs whenever the question of given an airing, you will feel that it is your duty to vote against this wrong and unjust thing. A specific tax upon a single industry will hamper those who are trying to get capital into the state to develop its manufactures. I have found the impression among capitalists that the Western states are more inclined to single out large industries for special taxation than Eastern states, and therefore capital is fearful about entering upon such territory."

Coleraine Objects.

Prof. J. A. Van Dyke of Coleraine said that the iron country realizes that all it has is at stake. We asked the senate to visit us, and inform itself at first hand of conditions. The senate refused to pay for such a trip out of the state treasury, and when we offered to pay it ourselves out of a collection we had made, only a dozen senators grasped the opportunity to inform themselves. So we had to come down here ourselves, and last week 300 of us came at their own expense to see you. This means that we are tremendously in earnest, or we wouldn't do such things. Suppose that many men had come from some section in Southern Minnesota? Wouldn't it make you hesitate to enact the legislation they protested against? Our business and our homes are at stake, and we ask you not to kill the goose that lays the golden egg of our prosperity. Every man, woman and child is vitally concerned, and even the school children ask daily of the progress of the fight. We protest because of the unusual form of this tax, and we cannot see why anybody in Minnesota should favor it. We can see why Michigan, Wisconsin or Alabama might favo it, in the belief that it would draw attention away from our iron mines to theirs. Wisconsin might favor it because it would drive Duluth's steel plant out of Minnesota and into that state. Itasca county pays into the state treasury $67,000 a year and gets back $15,000, while other counties get back more than they pay in, some of them twice as much. We don't object to that, but we do object to imposing an additional burden. We plead for a square deal.

Prof. Van Dyke pictured the struggles involved in making homes in a wilderness, and showed that the tonnage tax threat has already paralyzed business all through the iron country. He showed that the imposition of the tax would cripple industry and curtail the efficiency of the schools and churches.

Dennis J. Hayes of Two Harbors, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, presented a bulky set of petitions against the Bjorge bill, and made a brief but earnest appeal for the defeat of the bill in the interests of labor in Northeastern Minnesota.

"Bob" Dunn's Views.

Former State Auditor R. C. Dunn of Princeton made a strong argument against the Bjorge bill. He said that as yet no iron ore has been found in his home county, "but," he said, "we live in hopes." He told of how when he first became auditor he found a tonnage tax in existence, but doubting its legality, under the Constitution as it then read, referred the act to the attorney general. That official sustained Mr. Dunn's opinion and he accordingly instructed the auditor of St Louis county to thereafter assess and tax the mines on the ad valorem basis. He also told of how he had striven to increase the assessment of the mines year after year; and how the climax has been reached by raising these properties to a valuation of $190,000,000. "In all right and justice," he continued, "all the tax the state of Minnesota is entitled to on every dollar of property, is the average rate that prevails throughout the state; no more, no less. There is no reason why St. Louis county should pay more tax on a dollar's worth of property than Goodhue county pays. Nor should the local rate enter into the question of state tax. It is none of the state's business what the local rate is in any county."

Mr. Dunn then dealt with the fallacy of taxing ore or any other class of property at a higher rate because in a limited time much property will be exhausted. He told his hearers that if this theory were to be applied to iron ore, it should also hold true relatively to standing timber, or the granite quarries. "Why," he said, "should Northeastern Minnesota be burdened with an excessive tonnage tax for the benefit of the rich agricultural districts of the state, districts where farming land is worth as high as $100 an acre? There is not a county in Northeastern Minnesota where there is an iron mine but its local government needs every dollar of tax it can raise locally.

The Disastrous Result.

"The people of the iron range are troubled, and well may they be. If you pass this bill, what will be the result? The Steel corporation will without doubt take the Bjorge law through the supreme court. It will take at least two years for a final decision. What will happen in the meantime? They won't mine a ton of ore more than they absolutely have to. Thousands of men will be put out of work. It means stagnation for the range country. A two-year shutdown of the mines means that ruin will stare the range towns in the face, leaving the question of taxation all to one side. And you have no right to ruin hundreds of business men in these towns."

"You think," he said, "that if you impose a tonnage tax you will make the rich Steel corporation pay it. But don't be fooled. You'll find the Steel corporation, like all other big corporations, will find a way to unload the tax on the dear people."

He told his hearers that to refuse to pass the Bjorge bill meant an assurance of the proposed steel plant for Duluth; that in five years it would make Duluth a city of 100,000 people, and that if this is true, every farmer in the northern part of the state would find himself receiving more for his products in the Duluth market.

Other speakers were Mayor R. R. Wise of Brainerd and W. J. Stock of Coleraine.

Petitioner for Submitting Question Must Stand By Action.

Marquette, Mich., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court, having ruled that once an elector signs a petition asking for the submission of the local option question to the vote of the people, he cannot repudiate his action, the board of supervisors of Dickinson county has reversed its course taken some weeks ago, and has decided that the matter of abolishing the liquor traffic shall be determined at the polls.

The petition presented by the prohibition forces contained the signatures of more than the required one-third of the electorate, but at the same time there was handed in a counter-petition, in which the withdrawals were sufficient to bring the original signatures below the number specified by law. The names were stricken off as petitioned, which made the original petition deficient. The saloon issue will now be decided at the spring election, to be held a year from now. In the meantime a vigorous campaign will be waged by both the prohibition and liquor interests, with the odds in favor of the latter. The local option proposition, also, will be submitted in Marquette and Chippewa counties in April next, and perhaps in still more of the Upper Michigan counties.

STORK VISITS JAIL.

Son Born to Couple Arrested for "Jumping" Board Bill.

Crookston, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stork visited the county jail here a few days ago when a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Orr, who were arrested in Moorhead and brought here on a charge of "jumping" a local board bill, the man for a month and the woman for ten days.

Mrs. Orr's time was out last Thursday, but being without friends and having no money, she was allowed to remain at the jail. The mother and the child are now at St. Vincent's hospital.

Woman's True Friend

Experimenting with new and untried medicines is foolish, and often dangerous. It would take a medicine more than forty years, to prove itself so universally good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During all that time it has been woman's favorite medicine—a restorative tonic, uplifting and invigorating the nervous and discouraged and giving them the final touch of perfect health.

Women use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in preference to all other advocated medicines for it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs—is not anything like advertised, secret, or patent medicines—does not claim to be able to do impossible things.

THE ONE REMEDY for women devised by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in woman's ailments, and adapted to her delicate organism.

THE ONE REMEDY good enough that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper.

You can't afford to allow yourself to be overpersuaded into accepting any secret nostrum as a substitute for this honest square-deal non-secret medicine. Don't do it. No honest druggist will attempt to cheat you in this way. He who does should be rebuked and avoided. Doctors prescribe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for their worst cases because they know what it contains and know its ingredients to be of the very best.

It's well now and then to gently cleanse out bowel germs that breed weakness, cause foul breath, loss of appetite, dizziness and headache. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep bowels sweet and clean. Recommended by druggists because of their purity, goodness, and active gentleness.

BANKERS ARE IN SESSION

Vaults of Minnesota Banks Are Filled With Gold.

Financiers Discuss Question of Making Profitable Investments.

Members of the executive committee of the Eighth District Banking association are in session today at the Spalding hotel. Representatives from the range and from Duluth are at the meeting, for the purpose of completing the details of the annual meeting of the Eighth district bankers, to be held at Cloquet May 27.

J. B. Gelarneault of Aitkin, president of the association; W. G. Hegardt of the American Exchange National Bank of Duluth; J. H. McGelvrae of Milaca, secretary and treasurer of the association; W. J. Johnson of the First National bank, and C. L. Dixon of Cloquet were present at today's meeting of the committee.

Aside from arranging the details of the annual meeting at Cloquet, various banking laws were discussed by the members of the executive committee, and it is probable that some recommendation will be made by the bankers of the Eighth district at the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Bankers' association.

"One of the problems of the banks of this state, at the present time, is to find what to do with their heavy deposits," said Secretary-Treasurer McGilvrae. "The banks of Minnesota, at the present time, are in a very prosperous condition. The people are placing their money in the banks, and the deposits of the state are very heavy. In this regard the condition is very different from that of eighteen months ago. Now the banks are finding difficulty in placing the money on deposit in some good investment. You see the state banks have a lot of cash on hand."

Aside from the regular business that will be conducted at the annual meeting of the Eighth district bankers, a social program is being planned.

New Mining Company.

Articles of incorporation were filed this afternoon for the Mille Lacs Mining company. The new corporation has a capitalization of $150,000, and its incorporators are William D. Edson, J. T. Hale and J. A. Ferguson.

The headquarters of the firm will be in Duluth. It has been organized to smelter and reduce ore and to buy and sell land.

Juror Disqualified.

Late this afternoon Dr. D. R. Lower, one of the jurors in the Colom murder case, now pending in district court, was challenged by Prosecuting Attorney W. E. Green. The prosecution claimed that Dr. Lower was a relative of Attorney Marx for the defense. He failed to show this, however, but brought out the fact that Dr. Lower and Mr. Marx have been close friends for several years. He was disqualified, and A. A. Ulsrud was selected in his place.

WILL NAME FOUR DAYS

Mayor Will Follow Denver's Plan in Spring Cleanup.

Old Plan of Having But One Day Unsatisfactory.

Something new in the line of a municipal spring cleaning day will be inaugurated in Duluth by Mayor Haven this spring. Instead of having only one day set aside for this purpose, as was the case last year, the mayor will follow out Denver's plan, and name three or four days.

In the Colorado city a full week is set aside by the chief executive for cleaning purposes. That long a time will not be necessary in Duluth, but probably four days will be named. The dates have not yet been selected, and no announcement will be made until weather conditions are favorable after the frost leaves the ground. With Duluth's late springs, it is now too early to think of a general cleanup.

Mayor Haven said this morning that if four days are decided upon, they will run from Wednesday to Saturday, inclusive. This will bring the last day on a Saturday, when the school children of the city will have plenty of time to pitch in and help. One advantage about having the municipal cleaning period extend over four days is that it assures good weather part of the time. Where there is only one day set aside for the purpose, it may rain from morning until night, and in that case nothing, of course, can be accomplished.

Spring work under supervision of the city, in the way of park, street, and general improvements, is now under way. Men are busy straightening up the parks, and getting them ready for the spring rains, and other crews are putting the boulevard in condition. The board of public works is planning for the spring and summer work and have a few men in the field already. Sprinkling contracts have been let, and sprinklers will be in operation all over the city about the middle of the month. A large amount of street improvement and sewer work is now being planned.

NORTH BUTTE HAS A SLUMP

Heavy Selling of Stock Is Feature of Share Market.

A heavy decline in North Butte was the feature of the copper stock market today. The stock went off nearly four points, and although there was a rally from the weak place, the closing price was about three points off from yesterday.

Hayden, Stone & Co. were heavy sellers of North Butte in Boston, and stop loss orders caused some of the weakness. There was not any particular news about the property during the session, although it was rumored that the showings made on the lower levels were disappointing.

North Butte opened at $70, declined to $66.25, rallied to $68 and closed at $67 bid and $67.50 asked.

Amalgamated opened at $76.87½, declined to $76.50 and rallied to $77.37½, closing at $77.75 bid and $78 asked. Anaconda opened at $45.12½, advanced to $45.25 and closed at $45.12½ bid.

Calumet & Arizona opened at $100.25, declined to $100, rallied to $100.25 and closed at $101 bid and $102 asked. Giroux opened at $8 and closed at $7.87½ bid and $2 asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $13.50 and closed at $13.50 bid and $13.87½ asked. Paine, Webber Co. received a wire during the day saying a strike of native copper and oxide ore had been made on the 1,200-foot level at the Junction property of the Superior & Pittsburg company.

SCHREIBER HAS RHEUMATISM

Prisoner Awaiting Sentence for Murder Is Almost a Cripple.

William Schreiber, who is awaiting sentence in the county jail, for the murder of Frank Massapust, is badly crippled with rheumatism.

He says he has suffered greatly during the past ten days, but that the bright weather of today seems to make him feel much better.

In spite of the rheumatism and the fact that he is awaiting sentence, he is in good spirits and spends most of his time reading and visiting with friends.

The canvass for funds, which is under the direction of Rev. Moody of the Bethel is progressing at a satisfactory rate, it is said, and his attorneys will appeal to the supreme court within a few days for a new trial.

DENIES HE RULES MART

Wheat King Patten Says Limit Is 10,000,000 Bushels.

Bought When Market Looked Cheap and Will Sell.

Chicago, April 14.—An appeal by Pittsburg bakers to Secretary of State Knox to take steps to end manipulation of wheat and other markets caused comment today by James A. Patten of Chicago, popularly alleged to control the present market for the high priced cereal.

"In the first place," said Mr. Patten, "I don't control the market. My line at no time has run over 10,000,000 bushels. I have preached the gospel of higher wheat because I saw what was coming. I saw it first, I believe, but when it comes to 'controlling the market,' there are two or three hundred other men who have bought who have something to say about that."

Mr. Patten at this point paused to open a telegram which had been handed to him. He read it, smiled grimly and then remarked:

"Now, what do you think of that? Here it is reported on the board that I am disgusted with the whole wheat business because of criticisms and am going to get out."

The wheat king tossed the offending note on his desk, tugged savagely at his thick closely clipped gray mustache and resumed:

"I'm a grain trader and I don't intend to quit. I bought when the market looked cheap, as did others who accepted my view, and I'm going to sell it at a profit if I can. I have already sold a great deal. I have more to sell and when anybody offers me a proper price I will sell more. I sold this morning, cash stuff at $1.42. There is no corner, no manipulation. Others who bought early sell as demands develops.

"For three or four years this has been coming and I saw it. At the end of each crop, bins were empty everywhere. With increasing population here and abroad it was obvious that sooner or later the crop of one year would be exhausted before a new crop was at hand. Last fall, if not earlier, I saw it coming. I bought wheat and my friends did likewise. The great unthinking public here and in Europe would not, or could not see what was coming. Liverpool would not buy months ago, thought the prices of that day too high. Now Europe wants 55,000,000 bushels. The harvest was early last year. It has been trying to cover thirteen months instead of the usual twelve and it can't do it. We need wheat for mills right here in Chicago now."

"Maybe some of the shorts will deliver it to you on your May contracts," was suggested.

"I wish they would, for there is not any to speak of here. We could use half a million for the local milling trade today.

"Here's another point. If we had not bought wheat—I mean myself and others—the price would be higher here than it is. Europe would have taken it, for the foreigners finally recognized the weakness of their position, and where would the domestic supply have come from? We would have been compelled to buy from the very Europeans we sold to. I regard it as fortunate that it was Americans who first diagnosed crop conditions and took advantage of it.

"This was no philanthropy. My business is buying and selling grain. I trade to make profits, but this talk of manipulation is all rot."

There was no ticker at Mr. Patten's desk, and his desire to learn what the market was doing terminated the interview. The tape showed that May had quietly established a new high price—$1.28½—and that July was selling at $1.17¼.

PRISONER SENT TO HOSPITAL

Is Delirious From Severe Attack of Typhoid Pneumonia.

Fred Bodkin, 31 years old, who was lodged in the county jail some time ago on a charge of drunkenness was this morning taken to St. Mary's hospital suffering from typhoid pneumonia.

For some days he has been keeping the jailors busy catching people who are supposed to be chasing him and every once in a while he imagines someone is being murdered before his eyes. He will cover his face with his hands in order to shut out the horrible sight, and yell for the police with all his strength.

These spells come spasmodically and at times he is as rational as any of the other prisoners.

This morning he was very ill after a long siege with black hand parties and it was thought best to send him to the hospital, where he would receive better care.

FELL FROM THE VIADUCT

Laborer Dies of His Injuries at St. Luke's Hospital.

Eugene Costello, a laborer 45 years of age, concerning whom the police have little knowledge, died this afternoon at St. Luke's hospital of a fractured skull, received in a fall off the Lake avenue viaduct, Sunday afternoon.

Costello was sitting on the viaduct when he lost his balance and fell over backwards. He fell upon his head and was picked up unconscious and taken to the hospital. It is not known whether the man lived in Duluth.

ON THE IRON RANGES

NOT GUILTY, SAYS JURY

Hibbing Man Is Acquitted In Just Four Minutes.

Freed on First Ballot of Embezzlement Charge.

It took the jury in the case of the state against Harry Cavallin, charged with embezzlement, just four minutes to select a foreman and return a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon in district court.

Cavallin was accused of embezzling $[illegible] from the Fitger Brewing company by whom he was employed, as manager of the Hibbing office.

The brewing company claimed that he had gambled the money away and his defense was that he had spent the money to further the interests of the company and get business.

There was much evidence as to Cavallin's good name and his story appealed straight to the jury.

The case was occupied several days in trial. Cavallin was indicted by the [illegible] grand jury on the charge of [illegible]. He was forced to spend several days in the county jail.

VETERAN HIBBING KEYMAN ON VISIT

D. F. Wadsworth Has Been Renewing Former Acquaintances.

Negaunee, Mich., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. F. Wadsworth, a former well-known resident of Ishpeming, now located at Hibbing, on the Mesaba range, was a Negaunee visitor yesterday.

There is perhaps no man in Marquette county who has a better recollection of the early days in Negaunee than Mr. Wadsworth. He remembers names, dates and incidents. He was the first telegraph operator employed here. He had been working for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company as a telegrapher at Dixon, Ill., and soon after the Northwestern line was completed from Escanaba to this city, he was sent here. A station had been established a few weeks before his arrival, but H. E. Hand, the agent was not an operator and he had much difficulty on that account. Mr. Wadsworth arrived Nov. 7, [illegible]. His pay was $110 a month, which was the going wages for first-class operators at that time. The Northwestern's first depot, which consisted of a few boards loosely thrown together, was located on the site of the present union depot. Mr. Wadsworth remained here for five years. Some time before his departure the company's present depot was erected.

"I shall never forget when the first boat, having a capacity to carry 1,000 tons of ore arrived at Marquette," said Mr. Wadsworth. "It was a big event and everybody in the county talked about it. Up to that time the largest boat on the lakes had a capacity of [illegible] tons."

Mr. Wadsworth, in spite of the fact that he is now 66 years of age, looks as young as he did fifteen years ago. He is enjoying excellent health and is engaged in the insurance business on the range. He went from here to the Copper country, and will return to his home Wednesday.

The structure will have thirty rooms, lobby, barber shop, bar room, sample room, with two bowling alleys in the basement.

Mr. Ollila expects to have the building in readiness by June 1. This will be a first-class and up-to-date hotel, which is badly needed here.

COLERAINE HAS FINE SERVICES

Easter Observance at M. E. Church of High Order.

Coleraine, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Easter Sunday morning the M. E. church Sunday school had a record-breaking attendance. The children received Easter eggs and cards. Four birthdays were celebrated by the pennies for each year being placed in the birthday box. These children received congratulatory birthday cards from the Sunday school.

At the morning service the pastor preached on "The Resurrection Morning," and conducted a very impressive baptismal ceremony at which time four were baptized. Among the Easter decorations was a large purple cross decked with pure white Easter lilies, interspersed with green. The choir efficiently rendered an anthem entitled "Lilies of Eastertide," by Ferris, and two of the Sunday school girls sang a duet entitled "Christ Arose," by Lowry.

At Taconite in the afternoon a very interesting Easter program was rendered by the Sunday school pupils in the church room of the school building and an Easter sermon was preached by the pastor.

In the evening at 7:30, notwithstanding the heavy snowstorm that was raging at the hour for gathering, the boys and girls did not allow this to keep them from making their Easter concert a success. The service opened with appropriate Easter songs. After the opening prayer by the pastor, the choir sang an Easter anthem entitled "Praise Him" by Kirkpatrick. After the prayer by the pastor the choir sang an Easter anthem entitled "Christ, Our Passover." Both anthems by the choir were rendered in a masterly manner and much enjoyed by the audience.

An interesting feature of the program was the graduation exercises by six children who were promoted from the primary department to the intermediate at which time they each received a diploma from the superintendent. The scarf drill by nine girls, the tableaux entitled "Jesus Is Risen," by eleven boys and the flower drill by sixteen little girls were well rendered and greatly appreciated. The program part of the exercises came to a close by an exercise entitled "Easter and Her Messengers" by fourteen girls, who brought out the distinguishing characteristics of the Eastertide with their recitations and as they assembled about the Easter lily cross and sang "The Chimes of Eastertide," the tableaux formed was a beautiful one and in keeping with the thought of the day.

The superintendent then gave the audience a rare treat by exhibiting twenty-five colored slides from the passion week of our Lord and fourteen slides illustrating "Rock of Ages." These stereopticon views were much enjoyed by all. These views were followed by the benediction of the pastor and a most helpful Easter service was brought to a close.

Friday afternoons at 4 o'clock for the next several weeks the pastor, Rev. F. W. Hill will conduct an interdenominational catechism class for the study of the elementary principles of Christian doctrine. The parents of the children of the two towns between the ages of 10 and 16 are urged to send them to this class. There will be no charge made and the work will cover the important religious subjects so frequently neglected in the education of Protestant boys and girls.

Sunday services as follows: 10 o'clock, Sunday school. 11 o'clock, preaching by the pastor, subject "Palm Tree Christians." Epworth League at 6:45, subject, "The Appeal of Our Necessities," leader Miss Nordstrum.

Sunday evening at 7:30, the pastor will speak on "Diamonds in the Rough." There will be good music at all services.

At Taconite Sunday school will convene at 2:15; preaching at 3 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society will be entertained Wednesday afternoon, April 21, by Mrs. Ed Falk.

OTHER JUDGES TO ALSO HOLD COURT

Judge Hughes Not Only One Who Will Preside on Ranges.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The impression that Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing will be stationed at Virginia and will hold all terms of court here and at Hibbing is erroneous.

Judge Hughes will have the same duties as the other judges of the district, and it is probable that all four will take regular turns in coming to the range for the terms of court, which will be held in January, April, July and October of each year. If the term of court now on at Carlton is completed by April 27, Judge Hughes will open the first term here, but if the Carlton term is not completed, one of the other judges will come to Virginia.

U. G. Holloway, deputy clerk of court, and W. H. Oppel, deputy sheriff, who will have charge of those two departments on the range for their chiefs, will come to Virginia within the course of the next two weeks to take up their residence. They will have offices in the city hall, and all matters pertaining to the range court will be attended to here.

The jurors' summonses for the range term must be in the hands of the sheriff this week, and the lightning will soon strike those who are to have the honor of serving on the first jury of the new court.

HIBBING COMMENCEMENT.

Twenty-Four Students to Receive Diplomas April 16.

Hibbing, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—On April 16, the second annual commencement exercises of the school will be held. Prof. Todd E. Paulus will present diplomas to twenty-four students, as follows: John, Rivall, Lila Hermes, Nick Canelake, John Anderson, J. Hooker, Harry Bay, Francis Braden, Flossie McNeil, Cecilia Carlson, Carl Peterson, Ada Mitchell, Letta Johnson, Harrison Kidd, Ellen Eckstrom, Charles Collyard, George Cobb, Emma Kleffman, Walter La Vietou, Lillia Kiefer, Alex Munter, John Cooper, Julia Gulias, and H. H. Graff.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club committee, S. W. Gilpin, L. M. Osborn and F. C. Whiting, in charge of the arrangements for the entertainment of the country club, which meets here Tuesday, April 20, is at work on the program for the meeting. The subjects will cover a wide range as does the club for it stands for everything that will further the growth and commercial, industrial and agricultural development of St. Louis county.

Some of the subjects considered for the discussions are agriculture, mining, lumbering, roads, dairying, detention hospital for the range, farmers' produce exchange and good citizenship.

FIGHT FANS DISAPPOINTED.

Five Hundred Gathered From Other Points at Hibbing in Vain.

Hibbing, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were a lot of disappointed people of sporting proclivities here yesterday afternoon, when word came from Duluth that Sheriff Bates had been directed by the governor not to permit the Schreck-Whitehead fight and the sheriff telephoned his deputies here to that effect.

There were at least 500 people here from other towns in this vicinity who came in anticipation of seeing the mill only to be disappointed.

Rare Treat Promised Citizens of Village Next Friday.

Chisholm, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A rare musical treat is promised the citizens of Chisholm next Friday evening at the high school auditorium, when a musical program will be rendered by home talent.

Besides the two well-known artists, the High School Glee club will entertain the audience. Other local musicians are also scheduled to rendered some choice selections, and as they have all been rehearsing for some time, the entertainment will without doubt be a classic one. Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The movement for the organization of a band, which was launched at a recent meeting of the Commercial club, has taken definite form and Otto A. Poirier and D. W. Freeman, the committee appointed by the club to consider the subject, will make a very satisfactory report at the next meeting.

The meeting at the city hall Sunday afternoon brought out twenty-two enthusiastically interested in the project and culminated in a decision to tell the Commercial club the musicians are willing to organize and work for the development of a good musical organization if they are able to secure the proper financial and moral support.

MILLER GETS STIFF DOSE.

Fined $20 and Costs By Judge Prince on Two Charges.

Eveleth, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Miller was up in the municipal court yesterday on two charges, carrying concealed weapons and indecent exposure. For each offense he was fined $20 and costs.

Frank Zakropich, who was arrested for being drunk and disorderly, was fined $10 and costs, as was also John Most, on the same charge.

Frank Miller was up for being drunk and was fined $7.50, while William Dougherty, on the same charge, was fined $5. Louis Pakovich was arraigned for stabbing a friend, but as nothing could be proved, so far as the stabbing was concerned, he was fined $25 and costs for assault and battery. John Logar and Joseph Stebba were fined $5 each for being drunk and disorderly.

John Rozinka was up for striking his mother-in-law and had to pay a fine of $30. The mother-in-law had come to visit Rozinka and wife, but began to mix up too much in the family affairs, whereupon Rozinka tried to throw her out of the house, and was arrested.

MAY SEEK DAMAGES.

Virginia, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reported that an action for damages will be brought against the Oliver Iron Mining company by the heirs of the late Ole Roen, who was killed April 4 at the Virgina mine. Roen was engaged in oiling cars, when a train backed into the car he was working on. The wheels ran over his chest, killing him instantly. He leaves a wife and five small children.

REVOLUTIONISTS DEMAND THAT MOHAMMED FAITH BE GIVEN PROTECTION

eral casualties from stray shots already have been recorded.

Constantinople, April 14.—Order has been temporarily restored in this city, but Turkey is at the beginning of her first serious attempt at popular government. All attempts on the part of the revolutionists to win over the troops remaining in the war ministry have been prevented by cavalry. A serious conflict ensued in which six persons were killed. Shots were exchanged several times and the casualties include two officers of the loyal troops and a deputy who bore a close resemblance to one of the active officials of the Young Turk party.

The night was one of alarm. The troops celebrated the overthrow of the Young Turks by firing continuous rifle volleys. This alarmed the entire city. The people were ignorant of the cause of the firing and thought a fight was going on.

The sultan has granted practically all the demands of the riotous troops, namely, the adoption of the Sherio laws as the basis for new laws; the dismissal of the grand vizier, the ministers of war and marine, and Ahmed Riza, president of the chamber, the latter to be replaced by Ismail Kemal, provisional leader of the Liberal union; the removal from Constantinople of Hussein Jahid, chief editor of Tanin, and of Rahmi and Javid, deputies from Saloniki; the appointment of Zohrab, an influential member of the Liberal union, to be vice president of the chamber of deputies, and finally the removal of the officers of the Saloniki battalions of Chasseurs.

The casualties resulting from the rioting of yesterday include Nezim Pasha, minister of justice in the late cabinet, who was mistaken for Riza Pasha, minister of marine, and killed; Riza Pash, minister of marine, who was wounded, and Sadik Pasha, who was killed. There were also several casualties among the troops.

Uprising No Surprise.

The events of yesterday surprised nobody in Constantinople. An upheaval was expected as a result of the recent developments and the increasing dictorial methods of the committee of union and progress. The incentive to the movement appears to have emanated from the recently formed Mohammedan league. The efforts of this organization were aided by a general order from the commander of the First army corps insisting that the troops must fire, when so ordered by their oficers, even upon theological teachers and students when these individuals participated in demonstrations. The issuance of this order inflamed the popular opinion and the soldiers under the direction of the non-commissioned oficers, revolted. They seized and bound their commissioned officers and marched to the mosque of St. Sophia, where they voiced the demands that since have been acceded to.

Notwithstanding the absence of the commissioned officers the troops observed splendid discipline. The deputies arriving at the house of parliament were saluted by them, a fact that showed the movement was not hostile to the constitution. There was a certain amount of desultory firing during the day, but it mostly went into the air.

Calls For Green Turbin.

When it was learned that their demands had been granted the mutineers, headed by a band, marched to Yildiz Kiosk for the purpose of acclaiming the sultan. They requested his majesty to repair to Stamboul and wear the green turbin in order to testify his respect for religion. On their way to Yildez Kiosk the troops were cheered by the people with cries of "long live the Mohammedan religion."

Although the mutineers surrounded the chamber, they allowed the deputies to enter. Those who availed themselves of this permission issued an appeal to the other deputies to come to the house and consider the mutineers' demands.

A constitution was granted the country July 24, 1908, by the sultan, and elections for a parliament were held in due course. The new legislature was inaugurated Dec. 12, since when the empire has been under constitutional administration.

The hand of the sultan was forced, and he was obliged to give the country a constitution by the Young Turks, who had been particularly active under the leadership of the committee of union and progress since 1905. The co-operation of the army was obtained by means of a successful secret propaganda, and had not the sultan given way when he did, two army corps would have marched on Constantinople.

The granting of the constitution was followed by the dismissal or flight of various members of hated palace cliques and the installation of officials dictated by the successful insurgents, who still maintained their organization and continued to operate through the committee of union and progress. Since the first days of its success the course of the committee has been dictatorial and absolute, and has aroused a counter political sentiment which has brought out and crystallized the opposition of the Liberals.

Committee Rule Upset.

The old Turkish conservative religious element appears to have obtained the upper hand for the present. The rule of the Young Turks committee of union and progress has been upset and many members of this committee have disappeared from the scene of strife. Ahmed Riza, the dethroned president of the chamber, and several other men prominent in the party are reported to have fled the country.

In accordance with the demands of the mutineers Ismail Kemal has been elected president of the chamber, but only about sixty deputies were present at the ceremony. Yavr Pasha has been appointed commander of the First army corps in succession to Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha, dismissed.

Desultory rifle shots were heard in various parts of the city this afternoon, but they mean nothing. To fire off pistols and rifles is the Turkish manner of rejoicing. The populace is now accustomed to this kind of shooting and the feeling of panic is rapidly disappearing. The soldiers nowhere have molested civilians; on the contrary, they assured the people that there was nothing to fear.

LONG RACE WITH DEATH IN NORTH SHORE WOODS

exploration work, in which the blasting of rocks was necessary.

Out of the reach of all medical aid the man lay for some time with only such care as his comrades in the camp could give him.

As soon as the accident occurred one of the men started for Lutsen, where Dr. Francis McHugh of this city, is holding down a claim. The snow was four feet deep most of the way, and the distance was thirty long, logging road miles. He traveled all night and staggered into the doctor's home early in the morning.

As soon as the nearly exhausted man could make known his errand, Dr. McHugh started for the scene of the accident. The way was long, the snow was deep and the trail was not as distinct as it might have been, but he made the trip in a remarkably short time, considering the conditions. McKeil was still alive, but at death's door. His skull was fractured, parts of his body had been blown away, and he soon expired.

Then the journey back to Lutsen began. Part of the way the body was carried, part of the way it was dragged, and part of the way a toboggan was used as a means of conveyance.

The path was narrow, and where it was wide enough the toboggan was used. The party had to go miles out of its way in order to take the body with them, and finally took to the lake.

At this time of the year it is dangerous to trust the ice on Lake Superior, but the members of the little band were equal to the occasion. They walked the ice for four miles, one of the party acting as guide and trying out the ice ahead. It was so far gone that the party walked the four miles in single file, fearing to put too much strain on the ice.

They arrived at Lutsen in time to catch the boat for Duluth. They knew they had just a certain amount of time and they had little to spare when they finally arrived at the little village.

The accident happened at the Perkins Mining company's plant, and the men were digging for ore.

Dr. and Mrs. McHugh are well known in Duluth, for they have lived here for a number of years. They have been living on their claim all winter and are now at the home of Mrs. McHugh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallen, on Tenth avenue east.

The body was turned over to the local Foresters. McKeil was a member of the lodge, and they have charge of the funeral arrangements.

general merchandise business for himself under the firm name of Van Camper & Rosing, at Cannon Falls. In 1892 the firm was changed to Rosing & Kraft, continuing until January, 1906. Mr. Rosing, however, maintained his residence at Cannon Falls, although public duties brought him to St. Paul much of the time in recent years. In 1886 he was married to Miss May B. Season, who survives him.

His Political Career.

Mr. Rosing was a Republican until 1890, but left the party on account of the McKinley tariff bill, having become convinced that the best interests of the country demanded a radical reduction in the tariff duties. In 1894 he was the Democratic candidate for state senator in the Cannon Falls district, but was defeated. He was chairman of the Democratic state central committee from 1896 to 1900, and managed the state campaigns of the fusion forces in those years. He occupied the position of private secretary to Governor Lind in 1899 and 1900. Two years later he became the Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota, but failed to defeat Governor Van Sant, who was the Republican nominee for a second time. Mr. Rosing was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions in 1900 and 1904, and in the latter year served as chairman of the executive committee of the state committee. From 1903 to 1905 he was president of the Minnesota Municipal and Commercial league, which he was largely instrumental in organizing. In April, 1905, he was appointed a member of the state board of control, and later became the chairman of the board, holding this position until his death.

WHEAT AGAIN GOES UP; HIGHEST PRICES YET

Market Goes Steadily Up After Slight Weakness at Opening.

Flax Is Quiet and the Close Is Unchanged Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 14.—The slogan was buy, buy, buy in the wheat market again today, and the options hit new high spots, closing at about the loftiest pinnacles of the day.

The opening was about unchanged from yesterday and there was some selling during the first hour but after that the market was sensationally bullish every minute of the time.

Every market closed more than a point over yesterday.

Liverpool closed ⅛d to ⅜d lower, Antwerp ⅜c higher, Berlin ¾c lower and Budapest ⅜c higher.

The May option closed 1½c higher in Duluth, 1⅛c higher in Chicago, 1⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 2¼c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and ¾c higher at Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅜c higher in Duluth, 1⅝c higher in Chicago, 2¼@2⅜c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅜@1⅝c higher in St. Louis, 1⅜@1½c higher in Kansas City and 1c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed 2c higher and oats 1c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The market here was steady at the start and unchanged. Later shorts started covering on the prospects of continued light shipments this week and few sellers, and values showed an advance of ⅛d to ⅜d. Spot markets were firm, country markets strong and the continued strength in continental markets, especially Budapest, helped the bull side. Toward mid-day there was a reaction as the market became dull, and with the larger and cheaper La Plata offerings and the favorable reports regarding the European crop outlook, some selling to realize resulted. At this time the market was steady with values ⅛d to ⅜d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later July declined ⅛d under pressure of La Plata parcels and quiet demand. The undertone at mid-day was easy."

Car receipts at Duluth were 12 against 7 last year, and at Minneapolis 59 against 83 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 72 against 90 last year. Chicago received 5, against 11 last year. Winnipeg received 77, against 102 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 191,000 bu, last year 236,000 bu. Shipments, 361,000 bu, last year 167,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 68,000 bu.

Wheat was quite active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.24, declined to $1.23⅞, reacted to $1.24½, declined to $1.24⅛, rallied to $1.25½ and closed there, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.24¼, advanced to $1.26⅛ and closed there, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1¼c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was dull. May flax opened unchanged at $1.65¾, advanced to $1.66¾, declined to $1.65¾ and closed there. July flax opened unchanged, advanced to $1.65⅞@1.67 and closed unchanged at $1.65¼. Other flax options were inactive.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Advancing Tendency of Wheat Prices Receives a Check.

Chicago, April 14.—The advancing tendency of wheat prices was checked today temporarily at least, and the market opened weak, with prices unchanged to ¾@⅞c lower, compared with the previous close. The heavy tone at the start was due chiefly to a decline of ⅜d to 1⅛d at Liverpool, and to generally favorable reports regarding the European wheat crop. Commission houses were free sellers of the July delivery at the start, and that option opened at $1.15⅝ to $1.16. May opened at $1.27@½. Leading bulls bought freely on the decline which resulted in a gain of all of the opening loss, July advancing to $1.17 and May to $1.28. Trade, however, lacked the snap manifested during the last few sessions.

The market, which was very nervous the great part of the day, developed decided strength in the final hour, and the May and July deliveries advanced to new high marks for the season. The top for May was reached at $1.29. July sold at $1.18¼. The close was excited and strong with May up 1⅛c at $1.28⅝, July was 1⅝c higher at $1.17¾@1.17⅞.

Buying based on light receipts of corn caused a sharp rally in the price of that grain, following moderate weakness at the start, due to the slump in wheat. Shorts and local bulls were eager bidders for the May delivery, and that option advanced nearly 1c early in the day. Prices at the opening were unchanged to ⅛c lower, May being at 66⅛c to 66¾c. On the bulge May sold up to 67c.

Sentiment in the pit was extremely bullish all day and prices continued to advance. For May the top was reached at 68¼c. The market closed at the top with May up 2c at 68¼c.

Oats were weak at the opening, but became firm owing to the strength of wheat and corn. Country houses were moderate buyers of July and September. May opened a shade to ⅛c lower, at 53¾ to 53⅞c, and advanced to 54⅞c.

The break in grain prices and a 10c decline in live hogs prompted considerable selling of provisions at the opening which caused moderate weakness. Later, however, the market rallied a trifle owing to the firmer tone of grain. Prices at the start were 5 to 7½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Slight Bearish Sentiment at the Opening Disappears Early.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 14.—With lower cables the local market opened at yesterday's close and soon advanced to a new high point. There was a little bearish sentiment at the opening, but it disappeared early. May wheat reached $1.25⅝, the record high price for years. Local stocks decreased 600,000 bu for five days. Upon the inquiry by the bulls the market advanced to $1.26⅛@1.26¼ during the morning and closed at $1.26⅛. Minneapolis today received 59 cars against 83, Duluth 12 against 7; Winnipeg 77 against 102. May wheat opened $1.24⅛@1.24¼, high, $1.26⅛@1.26¼, low, $1.24⅛; close, $1.26⅛. July wheat opened $1.24⅞; high, $1.27⅞, low, $1.24⅞, close, $1.26⅞. Cash wheat was in strong demand. Offerings were light and everything was disposed of early in the session. Millers were the best buyers, and elevator interests bought a few offerings of the lower grade stuff. No. 1 northern sold for 2½@2¾c over the May option and No. 2 northern for ½@¾c over. No. 1 northern spot and to arrive, $1.28⅛; No. 2 northern spot and to arrive, $1.26⅛. No. 3 wheat, $1.23⅜@1.24⅜. No. 3 yellow corn, 63½@63¾c. No. 3 white oats, 51¼@51¾c. No. 2 rye, 79¾@81¾c.

Flax—Receipts, 2 cars today, against 13; shipments 3. Demand was strong at Duluth May prices, but the lack of offerings made an inactive market. Close, $1.65½.

Barley—Receipts, 5 cars today, against 8; shipments, 23. Light receipts stimulated the market and prices advanced ½@1c. Malting barley had the strongest inquiry. Close 60@61½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 15,750 bushels. Demand was strong and in excess of the supply. The advance yesterday in prices held firm today. Shipments showed a slight increase. Bran in bulk, $22.50@23.00.

Flour was in fair demand by country and local millers. Prices that advanced yesterday on strong wheat prices, held firm today. Shipments showed a light increase. Shipments, 44,557 barrels. First patents, $6.00@6.20; second patents, $5.90@6.10; first clears, $4.95@5.15, second clears, $3.45@3.65.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Nearly All Early Losses Recovered and Close Was Steady.

Lackawanna Shares Had Sensational Rise of Sixty Points.

New York, April 14.—Prices of American securities were depressed in London before trading began here today, but the New York opening was affected only irregularly in sympathy. Atchison, United States Steel preferred and North American declined large fractions. Western Union advanced ¾. The majority of changes were small and mixed.

The market showed an advancing tendency for a while, but profit-taking sales caused a slight reaction and trading became dull, until the professionals began to bid up the Gould group and specialties. Union Pacific and Reading joined the rise. Later the movement continued rather irregular. United States Express advanced 4 points; Western Union, 2; Western Maryland and Distillers' Securities, 1⅝, and Reading, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, American Sugar, International Paper preferred, American Cotton Oil and Havana Electric, 1, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, 1½, and North American, 1.

A number of specialties advanced, but the general list was subjected to realizing sales which forced prices back to last night's level or below. National Biscuit rose 3 points; American Cotton Oil, 2; International Harvester, 1¾, and Rock Island preferred, Iowa Central, Virginia-Carolina Chemical, American Agricultural Chemical preferred, American Linseed preferred and Allis-Chalmers stocks, 1. Denver & Rio Grande, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Corn Products declined 1. The decline was arrested at noon. Bonds were steady.

Pretty much of all the early losses were recovered and several stocks were sold above yesterday's closing again. A slight reaction failed to bring out much stock and prices rose once more. Lackawanna made a sensational jump of 35 points between sales, making its rise for the day of 40 points. Hocking Coal was heavily bought at a rise of 5 points. Central Railroad of New Jersey also gained 2 points and Texas & Pacific Land Trust 1½.

The market closed steady and active. The general list was inclined to droop. Atchison losing 1. The aggressive rise in the coalers ultimately started prices upward. Lackawanna's rise extended to 60 points, Central Railroad of New Jersey and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis 5, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha preferred 3½, Reading 3⅜, United Railways and Investment 3, Delaware & Hudson 2½, American Linseed preferred 3, Iowa Central 2, Ontario & Western 1¼ and American Linseed 1. Some stocks ran off again in the final dealings.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

LATEST NEWS—Butte-Alex Scott is the great big feature today and the general public is firmly convinced of its true worth and is trading almost everything else on the list for Butte-Alex Scott. There is no question as to its value, its property, its management, or its sound financial backing. Its low capitalization is the strongest kind of an argument why it should sell at much higher prices compared with any other of the newer Butte companies that are operating on Butte hill (the richest copper hill in the world), but that have many more shares issued than has the Butte-Alex Scott and in one case at least they are now still increasing their capitalization. With all seriousness I advise the purchase of Butte-Alex Scott. It has everything in its favor and nothing adverse. The Butte-Alex Scott is one mine out of a thousand. As Capt. Dawson says he has been looking thirty years for a mine and the Butte-Alex Scott was his choice. Every man that has been to Butte comes back and states positively that the Butte-Alex Scott will compare favorably with any of the newer companies. If the other conditions are equal or nearly so then by all means its low capitalization.

New York Money.

New York, April 14.—Money on call easy 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1¾ per cent; closing bid, 2 per cent; offered at 2¼ per cent. Time loans very dull and soft; 60 days, 2@2½ per cent; 90 days, 2½ per cent; six months, 2¾ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½ to 4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.30@4.86.40 for 60 day bills and at $4.87.75 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.85⅝@4.86. Bar silver 51⅛c. Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds strong; railroad bonds irregular.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, Minn., April 14.—Cattle—Receipts, 800; market steady; stockers and feeders, dull and 10@15c lower; quotations unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 3,200; market 10@15c lower; range, $6.90@7.15; bulk of sales, $6.95@7.05. Sheep—Receipts, 300; market steady and unchanged; lambs, unchanged.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Potatoes are the feature of the market today. Old potatoes are very strong at $1.25 a bushel, and there are indications that the market will go still higher. These are old potatoes. Some new potatoes are coming in, but receipts are light.

Poultry is higher and meat prices remain firm.

The following quotations were furnished by the secretary of the produce exchange.

ROBERT MURRAY IS ARRESTED

Duluth Man Accused of Forgery at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—After practically confessing his guilt, Robert J. Murray of Duluth, was bound over to the district court of Grand Forks county this morning on a charge of forgery, his bond being fixed at $1,000.

Guy Zimmerman, arrested in connection with the crime, was released upon the story of Murray, whose plea exonerated him.

Murray passed a check for $25 on Chris Engen's saloon in East Grand Forks and one for a like amount at the Palace hotel in Grand Forks. The checks were drawn on the First National bank of Duluth in favor of F. M. Walker and signed by the same party. Murray was arrested in Dick Humbles' saloon at East Grand Forks last night, where it is charged, he was making an effort to pass a $100 check.

MADE A SUECIAL ORDER FOR FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Campbell, Canestrop, Canfield, Carpenter, Cashman, Clague, Cooke, Dale, Donaldson, Dutolt, Elwell, Farrington, Fosseen, Glotzbach, Gunderson, A. L. Hanson, H. E. Hanson, Hinton, C. A. Johnson, McColl, McGowan, Moonan, Naeseth, Nelson, Pauly, Peterson, Poehler, Putnam, Sageng, Seward, Sundberg, Thorpe, Weis, White, Witherstine and Wright.

Nays—Ahmain, Alderman, Calhoun, Coller, Dunn, Durment French, Gunn, Hackney, Hall, Hardy, Laybourn, Hugh, Robinson, Schaller, Salth, Stephens, Sullivan, Swanson Vail, Wilson, Works.

The motion being lost, Senator Clague appealed from the decision of the chair on his point of order. This was a cunning move, because the chair can be overruled by a majority.

Senator Laybourn, however, refused to permit the fight to go that length. He said that this was the most remarkable proceeding he had ever witnessed and that he was surprised that such a move should be made against a presiding officer who had been uniformly fair to all sides during two sessions. Therefore, he consented, in behalf of the opposition to the bill, that the special order be made for Friday afternoon and at that time a vote will be taken on the passage of the bill.

Senator Works and Witherstine this morning offered a resolution which is in the nature of a compromise. Senator Clague put consideration of it over a day by giving notice of debate. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, The bill providing for a tonnage tax on iron ore is now before the legislature; and

"Whereas, This proposed law opens up an entirely new phase of taxation which at best is largely experimental; and

"Whereas, There has been recently appointed, by an act of the legislature a tax commission, who are expert officers of the state in matters relating to taxation. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, The house of representatives concurring, that the matter of tonnage tax on iron ore be referred to such tax commission and that they be hereby directed to make an exhaustive study of this subject and report the results of their investigation to the legislature at their next session, and their recommendation as to the course to be pursued."

It further resolved that, if the governor deems it wise, a special session of the legislature may be called in January, 1910, for the consideration of this matter.

The house this morning passed the bill dividing the $300,000 a year appropriated for roads and bridges. The bill was passed under suspension of the rules. It gives each county 50 per cent more than it got in the last two years, and St. Louis county will get $6,450 a year. As it will pay in about $100,000 toward this appropriation, this is quite a magnificent return.

The house passed the Selh bill proposing a constitutional amendment limiting the legislative sessions to sixty days instead of ninety.

The Senator Gunn case allowing townships to levy taxes for libraries was killed in the house by the adoption of a committee report.

Workmen March to Show Protest Against Troops' Action.

Meru, April 14.—A general strike of seventy-four hours' duration was inaugurated today as a protest against the repressive measures taken by the troops luring the recent strike of the dissatisfied button makers.

The workmen are marching through the city in column formation, with women and children in the lead.

WM. KERREDGE IS DEAD.

Well-Known Hancock Merchant and Theater Builder Is Called.

Hancock, Mich., April 14.—Joseph Kerredge, father of William Kerredge, owner of the Kerredge theater, and a prominent hardware dealer, is dead.

Mr. Kerredge was born in England, at Suffolk, seventy-nine years ago. He emigrated to Canada fifty two years ago and for some three years managed a farm for its English owner. Then he came to the Copper country and entered the employ of the Pewabic Mining company. Mr. Kerredge later devoted his time to teaming and contracting, then to the lumber business and some years ago was engaged in a general merchandise business at L'Anse. He and his son founded the business now conducted by William Kerredge at Hancock, and ten years ago he retired. His son and a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Seet of Pittsburg, are his surviving children. Mrs. Kerredge died two years ago.

Ever since the Kerredge theater was opened he occupied a box at all of the better class of productions and delighted in them as much as did the boys in the gallery. His last years were those of a man who had been right with the world and to whom the world justly gave its best.

The idea is not only to beautify the bleak North Dakota prairies, but to start an improvement that will in a few years enable them to do away with their snow fences and cut down the expense of keeping the track clear.

MARINE

PROSPECTS NOT BRIGHT

Independent Vessel Lines Will Have Rough Sledding.

Coal Reserves Are Heavy All Over the Northwest.

While weather conditions are favorable for an early opening of navigation at the Head of the Lakes, there is little prospect that there will be much doing in the shipping line until early in May.

The Pittsburg Steamship company expects to start some of its boats toward Duluth around April 20, but since ice conditions at the Soo appear unfavorable for navigation there, until a week or so after that date, it is probable that no boats will reach here until close to the end of the month.

There are no present indications of an active season, but the Steel corporation, apparently, desires to have its ore reserves ample and thus be prepared to cope with any conditions that may arise later in the year. Undoubtedly business conditions will greatly improve as soon as the tariff question is settled. The sales of ore by independent interests, however, have been practically nil.

As a matter of face things do not look very promising for the independent owners this season, and especially in the opening weeks. It is understood that all of the ore that will be carried from the Lake Superior region this season can be easily handled by the corporation vessels, which will force the independent lines to depend almost solely on the coal and wheat traffic.

This is most discouraging. In the opening weeks there will be quite a little grain sent to the lower lake ports, but the traffic will not be large nor last any length of time. As to the coal situation, things are even worse. The winter was mild all over the Northwest, and there was less fuel used than in former years. As a result most of the docks in this section of the country are well stocked. Here in Duluth there is figured to be 2,000,000 tons of coal on the various docks, which is just 1,000,000 more reserve than last spring.

This condition means that very little coal will be moved until late in the season which will, indeed be rough on the independent lines.

STRIKE SITUATION IS UNCHANGED.

Vessel owners say that the strike of the marine engineers is not worrying them in the least. They claim that they have all the men they need to begin the season with, and that all of their boats will be well taken care of.

"If it were a year when business was brisk, things might be different, for then we would need all of the engineers available, but as things are now, we have more than enough," said a vessel owner this morning.

At the marine engineers' headquarters, in the Manhattan building, they had nothing new to report today.

NORTHERN QUEEN WILL LOAD FREIGHT.

The steamer Northern Queen, which has been lying at the shipyards at Superior all winter, was towed to the coal dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west this morning, where she began taking on fuel. Tomorrow the vessel will be towed to Allouez, where she will receive a cargo of package freight at the Itasca freight sheds.

MOORE RETURNS FROM NORTH SHORE.

The steamer Moore of the Booth line returned last night about 10 o'clock from her first trip of the season to the north shore. Capt. Hector said that the voyage was very successful in every way, but that he had to run under check most of the way going and coming for the reason that there is considerable floating ice in the lake. A large number of north shore passengers came to Duluth on this trip. The Moore was due to go out at 10 o'clock this morning, but was still at the dock at 1:30 this afternoon.

SUITS AGAINST STATE OFFICERS

North Dakota Superintendent and Insurance Commissioner Defendants.

Fargo, N. D., April 14—(Special to The Herald.)—"Suits will be started against Superintendent of Public Instruction Stockwell and against Commissioner of Insurance Cooper," declared Attorney General Miller, in an interview in Fargo.

"The actions," he continued, "will be without any personal or political features, as one is a member of one faction of the Republican party and one of another. The committees from both legislative branches and the examiner's department all examined Mr. Stockwell's office and reached somewhat the same findings. The house committee investigated Mr. Cooper's office and the public examiner will also. If the reports of the examiner warrants the institution of a suit, this will be done."

The action against Mr. Stockwell will be to demand an accounting of the fees received by him and to test the constitutionality of the law under which the superintendent claims them. The report of the committees to investigate Stockwell's office showed that he employed his wife, sister and sister-in-law at the state's expense. The latter is a resident of Minneapolis. I also showed that he purchased medals for oratorical and declamatory contests in the different institutions with state money and designated them as "Stockwell' medals. Other charges of a similar nature are made, in addition to holding some thousands of dollars of unused fees.

The action against Cooper will be to recover about $1,000 said to have been paid by him to banks in exchange on drafts. The officials claim he should not have permitted the banks to have charged exchange when they had state money on deposit. No charge is made that he profited in any way. The action will be more against the banks, over his head.

CUYUNA RAILWAY MAKES CONTRACTS

New Duluth Railroad Obligates Itself to Handle Cuyuna Ore.

Brainerd, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—About thirty iron ore carrying contracts between the Cuyuna Range Railway company and fee owners and lease holders on the Cuyuna range have been filed for record here. The rate is 65 and 67 cents per ton. The road obligates itself to be ready for business in June, 1910.

The principal iron men represented in the contracts are Cuyler Adams and W. D. Edson, while the contracts are signed on behalf of the railroad by H. C. Fryberger, vice president.

THREE PAPERS COMBINE.

Bemidji Publications Join Interests Under Name of Pioneer.

Bemidji, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Daily and Weekly Pioneer, the recently established Bemidji Record and the Beltrami County News, have been merged and will be continued as the Bemidji Daily and Weekly Pioneer.

The merger has just been completed. G. E. Carson, the principal stockholder of the Record, becomes actively identified with the management of the Pioneer Publishing company, in conjunction with C. J. Pryor, who has acted as business manager of the Pioneer during the past three years. A. G. Rutledge, who has been managing editor of the Pioneer, is retained and will have supervision of the news columns of the Pioneer and be otherwise identified with the publication. Several prominent business men of Bemidji have purchased stock in the company, as well as A. Kaiser of Bagley, who holds a block of Pioneer stock. The Pioneer management asserts that the merger of three papers has been made in the interest of harmony of business interests, as well as limiting the newspaper field to a point where there is a fair living for those who have funds invested in the different printing plants. Mr. Carson, is one of the oldest residents of Beltrami county having settled in Bemidji at the time Chief Bemidji ruled the Indians hereabouts and being about the first white man to take up his residence here. He has been prominently identified with the business interests of Bemidji at all times, and is the owner of considerable Bemidji property. Under the new arrangements the Pioneer will be one of the most influential newspapers published in Northern Minnesota.

N. D. HOLSTEIN BREEDERS HAVE BEEN ORGANIZED.

Fargo, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second Holstein Breeding circuit to be established in the United States was organized this week in Morton county by Prof. W. B. Richards of the department of animal husbandry at the North Dakota Agricultural college. Twenty or more breeders around New Salem, the center of the dairying and creamery business of that part of the state, agreed to take six head, five of which are to be employed to make monthly inspections and all purchases and sales must be made through the association.

EX-MAYOR BECKER OFF ON A LONG JOURNEY.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—Former Mayor Sherburn M. Becker left Tuesday morning for a lengthy trip in the Southwest, along the Pacific coast and into British Columbia. He expects to travel about 7,000 miles before returning to Milwaukee.

"It will be largely a pleasure trip," he said, "although I expect to study conditions in many cities quite closely. I shall pay particular attention to the effect of prohibition legislation in certain communities. I expect to visit Des Moines and Galveston, where the commission form of city government is in operation.

PREFERS TO BE HANGED.

North Dakotan Not Fond of Serving Life Sentence.

Minot, N. D., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That he would rather be hanged than go to the penitentiary for life is the statement of D. M. Noah, sentenced to death for the murder of Gus Johnson at Kenmare, according to advices from Bismarck.

Noah says that he is not insane, and that he considers hanging a suitable punishment for the crime of which he was convicted. His application for pardon, he says, has been withdrawn.

The appeal to the supreme court stands, however, and this means that Noah will wait quite a while for the infliction of the death penalty. His case will not be heard until October or November.

PEACE DICKERING UNSATISFACTORY

Deadlock on, in Negotiations Over Turko-Bulgarian Dispute.

St. Petersburg, April 14.—Negotiations looking to settlement of the Turko-Bulgarian dispute arising from the Bulgarian declaration of independence are taking an unsatisfactory course. Both here and in Constantinople they have come to practically a deadlock.

M. Poprikoff, Bulgarian minister of foreign affairs, who has been here since March 3, is preparing to return to Sofia, unless the negotiations take a turn for the better.

The mobilization of the Bulgarian army is regarded as a possibility, unless Turkey speedily comes to terms.

RUSSIA MAY FREE STOESSEL

Liberates Two Men Who Commanded in Japan War.

St. Petersburg, April 14.—Rear Admiral Gregorieff and Lieut. Smirnoff, subordinate officers under Vice Admiral Nebogatoff in the Russo-Japanese war, have been pardoned and released from confinement in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

These officers were sentenced to death for having surrendered their commands, but in view of extenuating circumstances, their sentences were commuted to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress.

They began serving their sentences in 1907.

It is reported that Gen. Stoessel and Vice Admiral Nebogatoff also will be pardoned shortly.

WATER POWER TO SUPPLANT STEAM

Michigan House Committee Makes Report on Possibilities.

Lansing, Mich., April 14.—The report of the special house of representative committee appointed to investigate water power in Michigan has been completed and is ready for submission to the house.

The report states on the authority of Prof. Layton of the national geological survey that 221,000 horse power have already been developed in Michigan, and there remains the possibility of the development of an additional 500,000 horse power.

At the present rate of development, says the report, it will be possible in ten years to convert 75 per cent of the steam power in the state to water power.

This, it is estimated, would save 1,200,000 tons of coal annually. The report suggests that under the new methods of development it will be possible to obtain valuable power in many cases by harnessing together several small streams, that under the old methods would not have yielded sufficient power to be of practical use.

The report finds that in many cases power companies have not been adequately assessed for taxation, and commends the new Copley law, which gives the state tax commission power to review assessments on complaint of any taxpayer.

FORGER IS PUNISHED.

Gets Thirty Days for Stinging an Easy Bartender.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Morrison, convicted in the municipal court of forgery, has been sentenced by Judge Bishop to serve thirty days in the county jail. Morrison presented a check drawn on the Merchants' National Bank of Detroit at a local saloon and it was cashed by the bartender. Morrison was recently released from the Polk county jail for a similar offense, and Sheriff Bulman was on hand to secure his arrest for the offense for which he is now serving time.

GAME WARDEN STONE MISSING

Wife Says She Does Not Know Where He Is.

Madison, Wis., April 14.—The members of the Stephenson investigating committee of the senate spent the forenoon waiting for witnesses, but none appeared.

State Game Warden Stone's whereabouts are unknown, even to his wife, who has promised to do her best to find him. There is a persistent report that he is in the northern part of the state, but if so, he left no word that he is on official business.

A dozen or so subpoenaes are supposed to have been served last night.

CASES OF INTEREST

CAN A COW GIVE 'ADULTERATED MILK?—One Bosch was prosecuted for vending adulterated milk. The agricultural law expresses the necessary quantity of milk solids to relieve milk of the stigma of adulteration. In People vs Bosch, 114 New York Supplement, 65, the New York supreme court decided that if the milk came within the provisions of the statute it was adulterated, and that the mere fact that it was sold in precisely the same form as it was drawn from the cow was no defense.

EXEMPTION OF UNIVERSITY PROPERTY.—In 1855 an amendment of the charter of the Northwestern university exempted from taxation "all property of whatever kind and description belonging to or owned" by it. Since then the corporation has acquired one-eighteenth of the village in which it is situated. It was insisted that its exemption would cast an unfair burden on other property holders, and that by a further expansion it could render impracticable the holding of property in the village by any one else; that by the acquisition of 2,000 acres, the amount of land allowed in its charter, within the business section of Chicago, its exemption would result in a condition of enormous injustice and absurdity; the exemption must have applied to property held prior to the passage of the amendment. The supreme court of Illinois in Northwestern University vs Hanberg, 86, Northeastern Reporter, 734, held that the exemption was granted, not to the property, but to the university, and its purpose was to forever exempt it from taxation on all its property whenever acquired, remarking that the changed conditions cannot affect the meaning of the amendment passed in 1855.

DESTRUCTION OF SPAWNING GROUND OF FISH NOT PROHIBITED.—The forest, fish and game law of New York provides that no sawdust, shavings, or other deleterious or poisonous substance shall be thrown or allowed to run in any waters, either private or public, in quantities destructive of fish inhabiting the same. Defendant in People vs Lapell, 113 New York Supplement, 675, maintained a shingle mill that threw large quantities of sawdust into the stream upon which it was situated. The fact was elicited that the sawdust would destroy the stream as a spawning ground, and drive out or kill the fish. There was no proof that any fish had thus been destroyed. The lower court determined as a matter of law that the prohibited substance in quantities destructive of fish had been thrown into the stream instead of submitting the question to the jury. The supreme court of New York, reversing the judgment, held that the prohibition of the statute against throwing sawdust and shavings into the water is not against throwing them in quantities to destroy a stream as a spawning ground.

RETARDING OF FIRE DEPARTMENT BY TRAIN OF CARS.—The fire department while hurrying to extinguish a conflagration, was delayed for about thirty minutes by a train of cars which had been left standing across a street. During this time the house of respondent took fire from one near it. In Houren vs. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, 86 Northeastern Reporter, 611, the railroad was sued for the destruction of respondent's house which it was alleged was caused by the inability of fire engines to reach it in time. It was contended that the fire, and not the obstruction of the street, was the proximate cause of the destruction of the building, and that there was no proof that the firemen would have been able to prevent its demolition had the delay not occurred. The Illinois supreme court held that the obstruction was a concurrent cause of the burning, and that, although absolute proof of the result of the efforts of the fire department could not be afforded, it was reasonable to expect that it would have been able to prevent the spread of flames especially as all the paraphernalia for fire protection was available.

FORCIBLE ENTRY OF ATHLETIC CLUB BY POLICE.—The eagerness of several policemen to nip mischief in the bud led them to force their way at unexpected intervals, without warrants, into the premises of an athletic club. They insisted that the conduct of illegal sparring exhibitions justified their unannounced calls. On one occasion, when no such exhibition was occurring, their entrance, and their obnoxious and persistent presence, interrupted a business meeting. The New York supreme court in Fairmont Athletic club vs. Bingham, 113 New York Court Supplement, 905, remarked that police have no right to enter private houses or clubs, and their act was one in defiance of law. As it would be quite impossible to estimate in an action at law the damages to a social club like the plaintiff by reason of its being forced to disband because of police oppression, defendants will be enjoined from further entrances without a warrant, except when a misdemeanor is being committed.

LEGISLATIVE REGULATION OF GAS RATES.—In Wilcox vs. Consolidated Gas company, 29 Supreme Court Reporter, 192, just decided, it was sought to enjoin, in a federal court, enforcement of state statutes regulating gas rates. The corporation asserted that the rates would not allow a fair return for the property invested, and would be confiscatory. While deciding many points of momentous interest, the United States supreme court held that the valuation of the franchises of the constituent companies when they consolidated in 1884 must be used as a basis to determine the value of the property invested; that gas rates which will yield a return of 6 per cent upon the fair value of the property actually used are not confiscatory; that no allowance should be made for good will; that the valuation of the property must be determined at the time inquiry is made regarding reasonableness of rates, giving the company the benefit of any increase in value; that requirements of a pressure on the pipes high enough to threaten explosion are confiscatory; and that the dismissal of a bill to enjoin legislative regulation of gas rates as confiscatory in advance of any actual experience of the practical result of such rates should be without prejudice, where such practical experience might prevent the complainant from obtaining a fair return upon the property.

DENIAL OF EQUAL EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES TO NEGRO CHILDREN.—A Kansas statute provides that children of the Causasian and Ethiopian races while below the grammar grades may be required to attend separate schools. The children of plaintiff had been attending a school with white children but were directed to attend another. This latter was situated near railroad shops, the noises of which were not conducive to the acquisition of learning. The way to the school was crossed by sixteen railroad tracks, upon which cars were being constantly switched. These facts were alleged to make the attendance at school hazardous enough to arouse parental anxiety the result of which was keeping the children away. Another statute provides a fine and imprisonment for the refusal to send one's children to school. In Williams vs. Board of Education, 99 Pacific Reporter, 216, the Kansas supreme court upheld the contention of plaintiff that these circumstances amounted to a denial of equal educational facilities. It concluded that, while it was not necessary to permit the attendance of negro children at any certain school, one must be provided where they can enjoy equal educational advantages.

ARREST ON EXECUTIVE WARRANT.—While a county of Colorado was in a state of insurrection the president of the Western Federation of Miners was arrested on an executive warrant as a precautionary measure, and confined two and a half months. Alleging that his imprisonment was without probable cause, and that no complaint had been filed against him, and that he was prevented access to the courts, plaintiff sought to hold the governor and various officers of the militia personally liable for his imprisonment. He maintained that the action of the governor was the action of the state, and therefore within the Fourteenth amendment; but, if that action were unconstitutional, the governor was not protected from personal liability for his interference with plaintiff's rights. In Moyer vs. Peabody, 29 Supreme Court Reporter, 235, the United States supreme court held that public danger warrants the substitution of executive for judicial process, and that so long as such arrests are made in good faith, and in the honest belief that they are necessary to impede insurrection, the governor is the final judge, and cannot be subjected to an action on the ground that he had not reasonable ground for his belief.

RIGHT OF SUBROGATION.—A contractor engaged in constructing a lock for the United States had agreed that all sums for labor or materials should be promptly paid. Finding himself unable to complete the undertaking, he assigned the contract and a sum for work performed which had been reserved by the government. There was a loss on the operation which the surety on the bond had to pay. Both the assignee and the surety sought to recover the fund held in reserve, which had been paid into court. In Hardway vs. National Surety company, 29 Supreme Court Reporter, 202, the United States supreme court held that the sum should be credited upon the total amount paid by the surety for the satisfaction of labor claims. The right of the surety to be subrogated had attached prior to the assignment, and was superior to any right of an assignee.

NOT REVERSIBLE ERROR FOR COURT TO SMILE.—During the course of the trial the defendant requested the court to have one Ananias Godwin sworn and put under the rule, whereupon the court smiled. Defendant noted an exception to the smile and expression. Ananias was not tendered as a witness, nor does it appear what testimony it was intended to elicit. In Bellamy vs. state, 47 Southern Reporter, 868, the supreme court of Florida remarked that it was impossible to place itself in a position to intelligently consider the harmful effect, if any, of this slight lapse from severe judicial decorum had Ananias been before the jury as a witness. It is reasonably certain, however, that had he been presented to the jury, the Biblical forbear of the name would speedily have been brought to the attention of any juror so ignorant as to be unaware of it, and that the smile was natural, even if not justified or excusable.

FILLING BY OFFICER OF VACANCY CAUSED BY HIS OWN REMOVAL.—The charter of a borough provided that its president be elected by its electors. Owing to charges against Ahern, the incumbent of that office, he was removed by the governor. Thereafter the board of aldermen appointed him to fill the vacancy caused by his own removal. In People vs. Ahern, 113 New York Supplement, 876, the right of Ahern to hold his office was contested. As there was no doubt about the vacancy and the legal method of filling it, the eligibility of the incumbent was the main question. The New York supreme court, holding that Ahern was eligible, remarked that if, in our form of government, it was intended that removal from a public trust should also carry with it the penalty of depriving the person so removed from again holding or being chosen to the same, a clear expression of such an intention would have been stated.

WHITE COFFEE.

New York Sun: Being a waiter in a Yiddish restaurant where there weren't many folks who couldn't understand his native tongue the man got along all right until he struck a party or two who were just investigating. By pointing to things and taking chances the pair made a meal of it until they came to the coffee.

They didn't want small cups. When they pointed out coffee on the bill of fare they indicated with their hands large cups. But here the waiter was equipped with English and meant to show it.

"Oh, yes, white coffee," he remarked. Which was the descriptive phrase for coffee with cream.

LONG DELAYED PROPOSAL.

London Telegraph: One of the longest delayed proposals on record is related in a French story of a shy young subaltern who was ordered away to the wars. Not daring to speak, he sent a nosegay of yellow roses to the girl he loved, with a little note inside begging her, if she returned his love, to wear one of the flowers in her breast that night at the ball. She appeared without it, and he went away broken hearted.

Years afterward, when he was a lame old general, he again met his old love, now a white haired lady. One day his old sweetheart gently asked him why he had never married. "Madam," he answered somewhat sternly, "you ought to know best. If you had not refused to answer that note in the boquet of yellow roses I might have been a happier man." "The note in the boquet?" she repeated, growing pale.

She opened an old cabinet and took out from a drawer a shriveled boquet of what had been yellow roses, among whose leafstalks lurked a scrap of paper, yellow with age. "See! I never had your note," she said, holding the bouquet up. "If I had I would not have answered it as you fancied." "Then answer it now," said the gallant old soldier. And the long delayed proposal was accepted at last.

SCIENCE HAD TO HUSTLE.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I have been taking some moving pictures of life on your farm."

"Did you ketch the hired man in motion?"

"I think so."

"Ah, science kin do anything these days."
